Weekend Rain Beneficial To Farmers

Wheat Slowed Down But Is Not Injured

Wheat harvesting came to a sudden halt in the area Saturday evening when heavy showers moved in from the southwest. Flash flood warnings went out and small to medium hail pelted vehicles and heads for approximately five minutes around 8 p.m.

Rain continued intermittently until around 9:30 p.m., depositing approximately .9 in Muleshoe and varying amounts in the area.

According to most persons, the light hail didn't last long enough to create problems for crops and other vegetation, however, predicted that a few more minutes of the marble-size hail would have started stripping young plants.

Sunday hailed bright and clear until midnight, when another cloud moved through from the northwest, heralded by brilliant lightning and booming thunder.

No hail accompanied the cloud as it moved through the area, and left Muleshoe streets running like rivers for a while until the runoff could be contained in playa lakes surrounding the city.

A total of 1.3 inches was received in the early Monday morning rain which deposited similar amounts in the area.

Maple Grocery reported one inch of rain from the Saturday and Sunday rains and Mrs. Joe Wheeler at Stegall said they received on to two inches with two inches and no hail being recorded at Goodland.

Mrs. Loyd Stephens said their combined total in the West Camp Community near the state line was 1.3 for both nights with no hail.

Mrs. Glenn D. Harris at the West Camp Grocery said they recorded 3.4 inches at the store and Tommy Little received 3.3 inches. Also Bob Byrd reported approximately 3.3 inches and Willis James was reporting a similar amount, with some hail.

The hail was not heavy enough to damage wheat as harvest operations were just getting underway and the rain was not expected to damage the crop if the weather cleared and hot weather returned so harvesters could get into the fields again.

As wheat prices jumped up to a high of $4.25 Monday, Cliff Griffiths at Griffiths Elevator said the boost in price was some $1.40 over the price a year ago and was attributed to unsettled conditions since the government changed in Canada, and weather damaged crops in Russia.

He said that since Canada has a transportation board, the board has been unable to arrange shipping for the grain sold and had dropped out of the export market.

Also, the winter damaged wheat in Russia was expected to severely cut their available supply, so export prices moved upwards.

Cotton Burelson at Farmer's Co-op said "The Russian crop was not good and we can look for more

Laura Ellis With Cast For 'Texas'

Laura Ellis, the currently reigning Miss Tri-County, from Friona, is a member of the dance troupe for this summer's production of "TEXAS" in the Palo Duro amphitheatre.

"TEXAS" play started last Wednesday evening, June 20, to a sell-out crowd. The production is staged every evening during summer months through August 25, except on Sunday.

Laura says being a part of the production is just like a dream come true because she has wanted to be a part of the play since she first saw it 14 years ago when the production first started in Palo Duro Park.

The show depicts how this area of Texas was settled back in the 1880s by the homesteaders and cattle barons. It is a tourist attraction and at the end of the season, more than one million people had viewed the production. The guest register from the play headquarters shows visitors from all over the world.

YAC Golf Course Lights Installed

Officers of the Muleshoe Area Youth Activities Committee, Inc. have issued another reminder that contributions of both time and money are being sought from parents, businesses and other interested individuals for construction of the miniature golf course.

At this time, the lights have been installed and are ready to hook up as soon as the weather permits.

And, since a cyclone fence had been promised to enclose the golf course, and the offer not followed through, a fence will be necessary to be obtained in order to protect the property east of the Bailey County Exhibition Center and Coliseum.

Sponsors of the YAC in Muleshoe, who organized to provide supervised activities for all area youth, expressed their appreciation to the persons and businesses who have supported and continue to support the multi-activities sponsored by the group.

However, they remind, the YAC is a small organization, and parent and citizen input is being sought. All the activities need adult supervision and many parents and individuals have been assisting with the activities, but more help is needed.

You don't have to have money. Persons could help by working at the golf course site, by helping sponsor activities and by providing various equipment and building materials.

Officers of YAC explained that the golf course will be for the use of everyone, and will not be a moneymaking proposition.

Fun-loving sports fans are promised a field day of hilarious entertainment when the Ralph Godfrey Donkeys from Crescent, Okla. come to town on Monday, July 2.

A big program has been arranged in addition to the Main Event at the Roger Miller Little League Park.

In donkey baseball, all except the pitcher and catcher ride donkeys in the game. The pitcher and catcher remain on ground in specially marked boxes and they cannot field a ball, but must wait until a player on a donkey has handled the ball first.

The base running donkey must also step inside or on the base to be safe. The player and not the donkey must be tagged out. Force and tag-outs are the same as in usual baseball.

Minor league coaches will be taking on the major league coaches in this fund raising event and tickets are $2 advance and $2.50 at the game, while children ages 6-14 will pay $1 advance and $1.50 at the gate.

Cotton Today

COTTON'S BEST CUSTOMERS COUNTED: Men's and boys' clothing continues to wear the pants in cotton's family of customers and last year accounted for 688,000 bales in trousers and shorts alone. Towels and wash cloths consumed 618,000 bales for a close second, and sheets and pillowcases used 493,000 bales. These and other facts about cotton's use are outlined in the National Cotton Council's latest edition of "Cotton Counts Its Customers." The report also reveals that half of all U.S. cotton consumption is in clothing of all kinds, more than a third goes into home furnishings, and 15 percent into industrial uses.

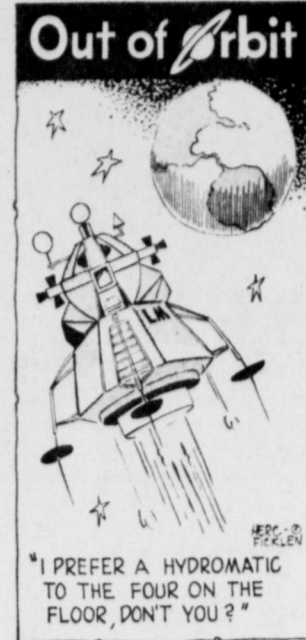

PHILIPPINES GOOD PROSPECT: A report from a Cotton Council International trade team visiting the Far East indicates there's growth opportunity for U.S. cotton exports in the Philippine Islands. The trade team includes Albert Kyle and Donald Johnson of Lubbock. They reported that the island's textile industry is expanding rapidly after extensive modernization. Textile officials there say 125,000 bales of U.S. cotton will be used in the Philippines this season, and estimate they'll use 150,000 bales of our fiber next year. The U.S. trade team also will visit Indonesia, Thailand, Bangladesh, and India.

EXPORTS RIDING HIGH: Shipments of almost 80,000 bales during the week that ended June 3 brought the season's total to 4.97 million bales. A year ago, the export total was 4.3 million bales.

The week's new sales of 24,400 bales pushed total orders and commitments for this marketing year to 6.789 million bales, compared to 6.444 million a year ago. The new marketing year begins Aug. 1 and American shippers and cooperatives have already sold almost 1.7 million bales from the crop that's in the field.

CROP INSURANCE BEING FINALIZED: The Senate Agriculture Committee is putting the finishing touches on S. 1125, a bill to improve and expand the Federal Crop Insurance program. The bill proposes to extend for two more years the current crop disaster plan, but it would exclude counties eligible for federal crop insurance. The proposal also provides for protection of up to 75 percent of established yield, along with a 20 percent subsidy of insurance premiums.

AND COTTON YESTERDAY: The first American-made cottonseed oil was exhibited in Philadelphia in 1768.

Mrs. Eva Ashford, Secretary, read the minutes and they stood approved. She also read an appreciation card from Ruby Garner.

The food committee was applauded for the decorations at the tables. Clara Coffman and Nan Gatlin were honored with the birthday song on the piano by Zed Robison.

Nineteen of the women dressed in pioneer costumes and the judges chose Mrs. Doc Goucher as the best costume with Mrs. Buck Creamer as second place. Floral plaques were awarded to them.

Mrs. Lester Howard was dressed in a cape which Howard's mother wore at her graduation in 1900.

Clara Coffman presided in the absence of Mrs. Mae Wilterding.

The benediction was given by Carl Evans.

RCS Honors Willey As Department Head

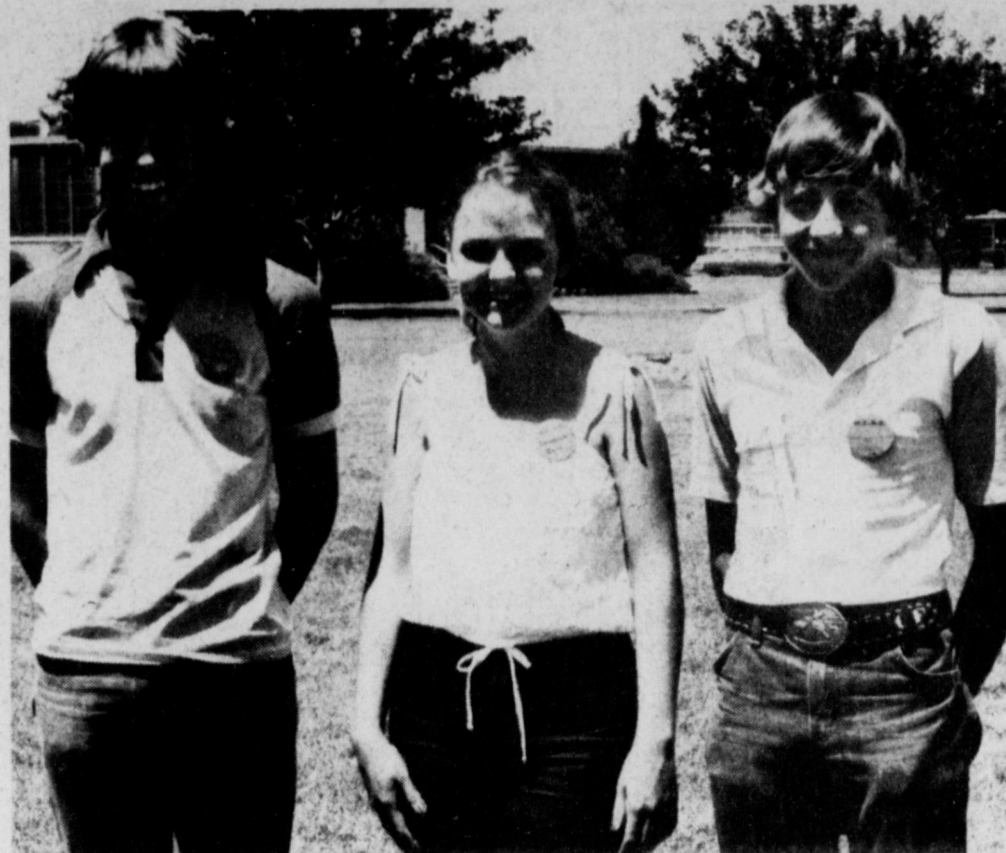

Respiratory Care Services, Inc., Jackson, Miss., held their annual Conference June 14-16 with 100 therapist managers attending. In the Texas region, two hospital department managers were recognized as company leaders. One of them being Art Willey of the West Plains Medical Center of Muleshoe and South Plains Hospital. Barney Rodriguez, area manager, stated that Willey's criteria which he met and exceeded included performance in patient care, departmental development and management with outstanding recognition given for his high standard for quarterly internal audit results, continuing education programs at West Plains Medical and South Plains Hospital, personnel development and achievement of cost containment goals for the benefit of the community. Many Teacher's Children Educationally Disabled

Children of many Texas teachers are labeled "educationally disadvantaged" because of low teacher pay, under terms of the school finance bill signed by Governor Clements, the Texas State Teachers Association president declared Friday. "In effect, the state admits that Texas teachers are 'economically disadvantaged,'" TSTA Pres. Cecile Russell said, "and they're right." "It was purely a veto threat by Governor Clements which intimidated legislators into limiting teacher salary hikes to 5.1 percent," she charged. "A dedication sandwich will go only so far," Mrs. Russell maintained. "Try money." TSTA was the only teacher organization which even proposed a school finance bill, Mrs. Russell stated, and "TSTA was the only group which actively worked until the last possible moment to get a better pay raise." School children from a family of four with income from $6,490 to $12,600 in 1978-79--the base used in the bill--qualified for reduced-price meals. That figure probably will be higher in 1979-80. "We estimate that at least 50 percent of Texas classroom teachers could fall within that category," Mrs. Russell said. "In fact," Mrs. Russell noted, "the $12,975 average salary estimated for all Texas classroom teachers in 1978-79 just barely exceeded the $12,600 qualification for government-subsidized meals." Average salary actually paid all Texas teachers in 1977-78 was only $12,534, including local supplements, according to Texas Education Agency figures. "No matter how you slice that dedication sandwich--with at least a 13 percent rate of inflation this year--Texas teachers will drop still farther behind in the fight to keep the economic wolf from the door," the leader of the 126,000-member organization declared. TSTA "will continue to fight for needs of all public School personnel," Mrs. Russell emphasized, adding, "We refuse to apologize for working to meet the needs of teachers. We ask only for things which are reasonable and right." The school bill does provide for increased equalization aid, more nearly meets needs of disadvantaged children, and provides funds for the gifted and talented, fast-growing districts, and for special education, the TSTA leader noted. Part of that money is available to increase salaries, if the local school boards will let school personnel have it, she added. The third grade teacher from Amarillo called it "a disgrace, in a state ranking third in wealth and 25th in percapita income, to allow professionally educated employees--with the awesome responsibility of children's education--to be at the poverty level." "In that situation, we have a state in which the very wealthy control the destiny of the very poor," Mrs. Russell declared. "You can provide all the aid you want for kids, and if there is not a qualified, caring teacher there, it won't do any good," the teacher leader explained. "We want to be sure that school personnel receive the compensation and consideration they deserve. We believe that most Texas citizens share that concern," she stated. If teacher morale is low--because of low pay, moonlighting at other jobs to make ends meet, and worrying about day-to-day bills--"then Texans won't receive the quality education they want, and that we want, for their children," Mrs. Russell avowed. "Not only are Texas teachers underpaid," she concluded, "but we have no rights as employees, no job protection, no system of input into what affects our own profession and students. We are forced into second-class citizenship, virtually trapped servitude."

The TSTA president also presented figures refuting Governor Clements' assertion during the legislative session that Texas teachers are at, near, or above the national average salary teachers. "Such statements are sheer fantasy, based on statistical juggling," Mrs. Russell declared. "Nasty. A business college displayed a poster offering 'A Short Course in Accounting for Women.'" It has now been withdrawn. Someone wrote across it, in a bold, unmistakable masculine hand, "There is no accounting for women."

ATTEND 4-H TEEN LEADER LAB-- Young leaders from Bailey County 4-H clubs participated in the District 24-H Teen Leader Lab. The three-day summer workshop was held last week at South Plains College in Levelland. Attending from Bailey County were, from left, Kelly Harrison, Belinda Wheeler and Casey Farmer.

Local 4-H'ers Take Part In Training

Three young leaders from Bailey County were among the nearly 200 4-H club members who participated in a three-day district teen leadership lab here Tuesday-Thursday (June 19-21). The annual workshop for selected 4-H members was held on the campus of South Plains College. Linda Mullin, Bailey County Extension agent, said. Adult leaders, Extension specialists and a team of older youths conducted the learning experiences for the 4-H'ers attending the lab. Participants took part in a variety of activities, from group learning and discussion sessions to game tournaments and special morning and evening ceremonies. Training focused on teaching teen leaders to help others learn new recreational activities. Time for fun and relaxation provided the participants with the opportunity to make new friends. The annual leader lab helps 4-H youths develop skills in working with younger club members, broaden their friendships and strengthen their leadership abilities. Four-H is a year-round youth program of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service which is open to all youths.

Fashion Review Planned Tonight

The Bailey County 4-H Fashion Review will be presented tonight, Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall of the First United Methodist Church. Garments to be shown were made by 4-H members. An awards ceremony will follow and top winner in the senior division and two top winners in the junior division will be eligible to attend district competition at Lubbock on July 6. Linda Mullin, County Extension Agent encourages the public to attend.

Lawn Mowers; An Overlooked Danger

Deaths and injuries associated with outdoor power equipment make up a nationwide safety problem. Homeowners and their helpers, out to cut the lawn, saw off tree limbs, or trim the hedge, are the typical victims.

Exactly what kinds of power equipment are we talking about? power mowers, both walk-behind types and ride-on kinds, head the injury list. Other outdoor power machinery include hedge and weed trimmers, chain saws, snow throwers, and garden tractors.

More than 60,000 injuries related to power mowers occur yearly and are treated in hospital emergency rooms, according to the National Electronic Injury Surveillance System (NEISS).

A part of the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC), NEISS is a data-gathering system, tied by telecommunications terminals to statistically selected hospital emergency rooms all over the country. Its methods are modern, its figures very much up-to-date.

Kinds of Lawn Mowers
There are two primary kinds of power mowers on the market today: reel and rotary. The blades on reel mowers turn around vertically to the ground. Rotary mowers have blades that rotate parallel to the ground.

More than 45 million power mowers are in use this year, and Americans now buy about 6 million new mowers annually. About 98 percent of all power mowers made each year are rotary mowers. Their blade tips spin at speeds of up to 200 miles per hour, which means they can nip off fingers or toes with ease and can hurl objects 50 feet or more with great force.

Causes of Mower Accidents
Three factors are involved in power mower accidents: the machine operator, the mower, and the lawn.

Take the lawn. If the area to be mowed is hilly, rough, hard to get at, and has rocks, sticks or other debris, the danger of accidents increases.

Take the mower itself. Machine safety is being improved, and standards have been approved by the Consumer Product Safety Commission to deal with injuries from blade contact. No machine, however, can be 100 percent safe and foolproof.

The operator is another factor in mower injuries. Many accidents would be prevented if the operator followed the proper safety precautions.

Spot the Dangers!
Two major hazards cause most injuries from power mowers. The first and worst is contact with the rotating blades. The other danger is being hit by objects -- rocks, twigs, and other debris -- thrown by the spinning blades.

The following are other common dangers:
...Burns from exposed hot surfaces.
...Electric shock.
...Injuries associated with machines overturning.

...Injuries resulting from the operator's backing over a bystander with a ride-on mower (or backing over his own foot with a walk-behind mower).

...Possible hearing loss due to excessive noise levels of the mower.

Another potential danger can arise if the operator starts a gas motor indoors in a non-ventilated area where a spark could ignite unseen gas vapors or where carbon monoxide could accumulate.

They Didn't Spot the Danger!
Two who didn't spot the two most common hazards were Nancy and Jim.

Nancy was mowing wet grass when it began to clog up at the discharge chute. She reached into the chute to unclog it without turning off the engine. Nancy's middle finger was amputated.

Jim was watching his father mow grass in a hickory tree grove. A hickory nut was thrown through the discharge chute, ricocheted off the house and hit Jim in his right eye. He lost the sight in that eye.

Accident Prevention
Hospital emergency rooms are well aware of the lawn mowing season. Doctors see the lacerated, amputated, burned, sometimes dead victims of mowing accidents.

Government and private agencies, manufacturers, and retailers are establishing programs to alert people to the hazards associated with outdoor power equipment and what to do about them.

Parts of Georgia, for example, participated in an outdoor equipment safety effort. Newspapers and other media helped spread the safety information. Programs also were conducted in Cincinnati, Dallas, and Philadelphia.

Unfortunately, very few of the 80 million users of power lawn mowers are aware that such safety education is available or that safe mower habits can be learned. To aid in the thrust for safety education, a wide variety of useful, sound information and educational materials are available free on request from a number of local and state agencies, and from regional offices of Federal agencies, such as area offices of the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC). Simply ask for information on power lawn mower safety or outdoor power equipment safety.

Anyone may call or write to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission.

Tower Discusses SALT II Treaty

WASHINGTON -- "The President has attempted to create the illusion in the minds of Americans that the SALT II treaty brings about a reduction in nuclear arms, that it makes some new and different contribution to international stability, and that it results in increased strategic strength on the part of the United States. Such rhetorical legerdemain amounts to intellectual dishonesty." Senator John Tower (R-Tex) stated in commenting on President Carter's address to a joint session of the Congress Monday night on the signing of the SALT II treaty with the Soviet Union.

"The President also tried to present a scenario of nuclear horror as the alternative to ratification of the treaty. It could be argued with convincing authority that if the treaty permits the Soviets to gain significant strategic superiority, that, in itself, could increase the likelihood of nuclear war because of the reduced risk to them. And, he ignores the fact that the Russians are already at or near their prudent economic limit in arms spending, and want a SALT treaty because they know they could never win an arms race. Even without SALT their spending would not be expected to increase appreciably. Therefore, the balance would not change significantly," Tower added.

Tower said that in spite of the President's vague generalities alluding to the fairness and balance of the terms of the treaty it "remains inequitable in virtually every category."

Tower cited specifically the retention by the Soviets of 308 superheavy ICBMs which contain enough warheads and firepower to destroy nearly all of our land-based ICBM force and much of our ballistic missile submarine force in port.

"To call this treaty equitable when it allows the Soviets to retain weapons systems we are not allowed to develop, when it places restriction on the ability of the United States to assist its allies with new technology, when it requires us to count B-52 bombers in storage while permitting the Soviets to exclude the Backfire bomber from the terms of the treaty, are just a few examples of an attempt to deceive."

Tower said the President likewise created the impression that the MX mobile missile system was soon to be a fact and would deprive an attacker of first strike confidence.

"The MX system is along way from deployment. In fact, the Administration's plan does not call for its deployment in time to prevent the Soviets from reaching a state of complete superiority over our vulnerable land-based ICBMs in the mid 1980s. And, by opting for the trenching basing mode to get Soviet agreement, he also is opting for a system which is more vulnerable and about $10 billion more costly than the vertical silo approach preferred by our military leaders." Tower commented.

"The Senate of the United States will carry out its constitutional responsibility in the treaty process, in spite of the intimidating statements by both President Carter and Brezhnev. It is highly unlikely that the treaty will emerge from the Senate unamended, if approved at all."

The Speaker Reports
by Bill Clayton
AUSTIN—Don't believe it if you hear that the just completed session of the Legislature was pro-special interest/anti-consumer. The facts just don't match up with what actually happened.
It is a fact that in August the state's interest rate ceiling will be able to float from 10 to 12 per cent, but it is only for a two year period. The change was necessitated by money market conditions that sent costs of borrowing to record highs. The only alternative was the drying up of the Texas housing industry and the jobs it produced. Hundreds of thousands of future home owners would have likely been denied home ownership.
The usury rate bill, then, should not be termed anti-consumer, because consumers will have the product available to them and an entire industry will not be strangled to death.

intensive care unit at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo included Albert Moreno, 20 months old; Gabriel Moreno, three; Mary Christine Moreno, age one and Alma Gonzales, age four.

According to DPS officers, the accident occurred at the intersection of FM168 and FM1062. The officers said Yruegas was southbound on FM168 and went through a stop sign, striking a pickup truck driven by Dale Scott, 47, of Hereford. In the Scott pickup were his two sons, Michael Lynn, 12 and Jason Kyle, eight.

All three are listed in serious to critical condition at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo. Investigating officers said they figure three adults and two children were in the front seat of the car, and the other six victims were riding in the back seat.

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sandy creek discusses the SALT treaty this week, possibly.

Dear editor: It should go without saying that I don't know anything about the SALT agreement. Limiting arms may be a good thing and oughtn't to be much of a strain when you consider that Russia and the United States and a few other countries now have enough explosives on hand to equal three tons for every man, woman and child on earth. About one ton per person it seem to me would be adequate, with perhaps a ton and a half here and there for selected dictators.

But what interest me is the debate on the treaty about to take place in the Senate. Leaders say it should last to somewhere around Thanksgiving. That's six months.

I've tried but I can't understand how a group of grown people can take six months to make up their minds. This brings up something I've been wondering about a long time: Has any Senator's mind ever been changed by a debate? Arm twisting, swap outs, a word from major campaign contributors, promises for future favors and things like that, sure, that changes votes, but has sheer force of reason ever done it?

I don't know of course why I should expect it to happen in the Senate when I've never seen reason change anybody's mind in a private argument. Everybody comes away thinking the other guy is, at the most, stupid, and at the least doesn't know what he's talking about.

If all the private arguments that took place yesterday throughout the country on whatever subjects people were arguing about were put together it'd be hard to tell the results from a session of Congress.

Anyway, if at the end of six months of debate by the Senate on the SALT treaty anybody can find a single Senator who'll admit his mind was swayed by the reasoning he heard and not by anything else, I wish he's identified. There are a couple of things I'd like to sway him on.

Yours faithfully, J.A.

When you get rid of the idea that your mission is to regulate other people you're in a position to improve yourself.
