This eyening the names of the Minister constituting the veritable revolutionist comp defact Cabinet are spoken of as follows: The Duke Du Brogolie, Minister of Foreign Affairs; M. Berkhand, Minister of War. The authorshop of President MacMahov's letter is attributed to the Duke DuBrogolie and M. Fourton. It is affirmed at to-morrow's sitting a manifesto of the Marshal will be read, explaining that it seemed to him that it is dangerous to let the administration of the country remain any longer in the hards of the present Cabinet, at the same time, it is affirmed, availing himself of the article in the constitution which

same time, it is affirmed, availing himself of the article in the constitution which gives him that right, the Mashal will have a decree read prorogueing the Chamber of Deputies for a month. The Chamber will reply by a note of want of confidence or by some other extreme measure, for it is impossible to foresee to what lengths the Chamber, after an example of violence and deception, might proceed.

The struggle is Lenceforth absolutely inevitable ble unless the marshal is enlightened as to the fatal act into which he has been seduced and taxes a cabinet again from the Left, which is impracticable. This news has produced here an impression of bewilderment. Most of the diplomate have not nexitated to qualify it as a coup detail.

Deliberations, however, are still going on, and the greatest efforts are being made to appease the anger of the Loft and to allay the excitement, manifest in artisan quarters. There is every reason to hope that these efforts will succeed, otherwise it may be confidentially declared that elections under these circumstances will harry France to tresh vontures and the future Ministers, it taken from the ranks of the anti-Republican conspirators, will have an unenvisable responsibility in the eyes of history.
