Here's the Answer

Fashion Draws a Sheath Line

BY EDNA MILES

THE sheath line, in some variation, is the important line for spring and summer.

Spiced by sleeve interest or little jackets or neckline interest, it's very different from the narrow tube of the past.

It's narrow, all right, but it fits the body with curves. It isn't reminiscent of the flapper. It's feminine and it can be either sophisticated or young.

For summer, it will vie with the fuller skirts. Many women feel that the wider skirt is cooler. On the other hand, many women feel that nothing is as cool and slick as the sheath on a hot day.

Sheaths are cut, this year, in every fabric imaginable. But the two that most American women will buy are linen and cotton. Both look and feel cool; both are perennial favorites.

While the linen often will be cut from a solid color, it may also be combined with a pretty print or embroidered figure this year. Then shoes or gloves (but not both) can be chosen to pick up and repeat one of the colors in the print.

Summer sheath in white moly-gashel linen features tiny blue heart print and solid blue top. It's fashioned by Will Saunders in junior sizes.

Baileys Bros.' Burglars Billed

RAIN WEST OF HERE MONDAY NIGHT

Between here and Forsan some good showers fell Monday night, accompanied by high winds that did a slight amount of damage.

The Standard-Times reporter, Bill Martin, called the News-Record at about 9 p.m. and asked about the rain we were getting. I told him we were not getting any rain here but clouds and lightning were close to the northwest. He said the radar blip showed that Sterling was getting a rain at that time.

Well, we were up above here on the Bismark Schaffer ranch and on into Sterling County on the western part of the county. Some high winds and electrical displays accompanied the rain.

INDICTED BY GRAND JURY

The three men that burglarized Bailey Bros. store last year were indicted by the grand jury here on Thursday. They are David Elroy Iverson, Almar C. Thorson and Vincent Francis Wilkie. The men are now in custody of the FBI in Montana under Federal counts on other charges. J. D. Kirchman was indicted on charges of theft by bailee. Garland Gordon of Big Spring was charged with a second offense of Driving While Intoxicated.

Judge Joe Mays will arraign the three bank robbers probably Saturday. He may appoint an attorney to defend the men. A trial could be held for the robbers even next week, if there are no delays.

Mays transferred two cases to Federal court from the civil docket. One was the case of William L. Gamble Jr. vs. Continental Casualty Co., in a suit for compensation.

The other case transferred was styled Henry Leo Eaton vs. National Auto and Casualty Insurance Co.—also a suit for compensation.

American U. Attracts Student and Tourist to Campus in Beirut

American educational methods have long been practiced overseas, but in no area have they been more successful than in the Middle East. In the countries of the Arab World there are fourteen colleges and schools operated and financed by Americans. The colleges have an influence far beyond the borders of the nations in which they are located, because young people from all over the region come to learn and, returning home, infuse new ideas and concepts into their own societies.

The best known of the American institutions is the American University of Beirut in Lebanon. Founded in 1866 in a rented stone house as the Syrian Protestant College by American missionaries, the school had a great effect in stimulating Arab minds from the start. While Christian in spirit, A. U. B. has never tried to proselyte its students. As the institution has grown through the years (it became a university in 1920) it has become the largest American educational plant outside the continental limits of the country.

The first addition to a liberal arts and science curriculum was a School of Medicine, established in 1867. Schools of Nursing, Pharmacy, and Commerce soon followed. Later the School of Engineering and the School of Agriculture were started. Enrollment today numbers more than 3,000 young men and women, from 51 countries and twenty different religious sects. To care for them and a faculty of 350, the little stone house has been replaced by fifty buildings, on a seventy-acre campus at the western end of Beirut.

International College, whose campus adjoins A. U. B.'s, is affiliated with the university and serves as its preparatory school. This institution has an elementary division, which prepares young people for a Lebanese certificate, a preparatory division, which prepares for the Lebanese government examinations and entrance into the freshman class of A. U. B., and a "section secondaire," which trains for the Lebanese and French baccalaureate and entrance to the sophomore class of A. U. B. Almost 1,400 students are currently enrolled.

Syria has two institutions, Damascus College and Aleppo College. In Iraq are the Baghdad College for Boys and the American School for Girls.

With education on the march all through the Arab World, American institutions are an important leaven in an area where trained leadership is prized. The students of today will, in all probability, be the leaders of government and private enterprise tomorrow.

American University Overseas

ALMA MATER ABROAD: The 90-year old American University of Beirut is among the outstanding tourist attractions of Lebanon, one of the Bible Lands. With its pink rooftops peeking through green cypress trees it spreads its 70 acres of campus along the shores of the Eastern Mediterranean in the select residential area of the Lebanese capital. An American visitor, viewing its modern buildings, winding drives, stately trees and brilliant semi-tropical flowers for the first time, might think he had wandered on to a college campus in southern California or Florida. Founded in 1866, A.U.B. has grown to be the largest American educational institution outside the U.S. through the untiring efforts of four American presidents. More than 3,000 students from 51 countries, including the U.S., and 20 religious sects are enrolled in its classes. It has a faculty of nearly 400 and a working staff of 700.

When he found out that no one was hurt, he told her to just close the bank and not worry—it's all covered by insurance and with the officers communications systems there they'll have the robbers in a few hours. Then he asked if it had rained here.
