Heavy showers pelted Sterling City Wednesday morning and then more repeated the performance in the early afternoon. Three tenths to one-half inch fell that morning and from one-tenth to two-tenths fell in a hard shower about one o'clock that afternoon.

Tornado Warnings Out

The Civil Defense Center put out a tornado warning for this area of West Texas and it was the middle of the afternoon before it was removed from the warning area.

The school held two tornado drills and Sheriff Bill Green announced at Lions Club that he would blow the siren if danger got imminent. Before the day was over the sun broke through and warmed things up and then a dust storm rolled in, obscuring the sun and making the weather cycle complete—or something. Anyway, you had just about any kind of weather in an eight-hour period. Some hail fell during the morning rain. It did no damage to speak of.

So Sterling had rain, hail, sunny weather, hail, and dust storms all in the daylight hours of Wednesday—the first day of Spring.

THE AMERICAN WAY

A MUST!

WASHINGTON AND

"SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

A billion dollars a year is a lot of retail business. Probably number of giant retail chains doing this volume could be counted on one hand.

Yet armed forces post exchange system is reputedly now doing over billion dollars yearly. Efforts are being made in present Congress to approve them.

Efforts are being made in present Congress to approve them handling even larger scope of merchandise. If successful, it is possible armed services could be operating largest discount house chain in nation.

Among many new items sought to sell are automotive tires, batteries, accessories; men's sport coats and others.

Post Exchanges were started to sell what was known as necessity and comfort items such as tobacco, candy, tooth brushes and so on. During war they expanded and have kept going handling many luxury and semi-luxury items, including such diverse ones as nylons and golf clubs.

All items are sold substantially below prices in nearby civilian stores. Of course, overhead is very low. While armed forces hire civilian personnel to man stores paid out of profits, they are supervised by tax-paid military personnel. And while admirals and generals have long argued operations cost government nothing, there is considerable doubt as to who pays for such overhead items as rent, light, heat, other items.

In addition, the stores pay no income taxes, or state taxes, including local sales taxes. Thus, on tax front alone, they can undersell independent retailers.

Of course, at Pentagon argu-

© National Federation of Independent Business

ment is raised that government operated cut-rate stores are an adjunct to military pay, helping offset military pay deficiencies.

Whether or not military pay is deficient is not issue here. Assuming that it is deficient the question is raised as to why this deficiency should be taken out of the hides of independent retailers who are also paying taxes to support system, that puts cut-throat competition in their midst.

Undoubtedly, armed forces instead of buying from American farmer, could buy food much cheaper in foreign lands and perhaps use some of these savings to make up any possible pay deficiencies. Or on defense projects, American labor could be supplanted by much cheaper foreign workers. In other words, there seems little justice that nation's independent retailers should bear the brunt of keeping up the morale of the armed forces, if that really is the issue involved. This is discrimination.

There is also strong suspicion that cut-rate goods in Post Exchanges get into civilian market. There has never been a comprehensive audit of situation.

This is not to infer there is any financial skulduggery in the operation of Post Exchanges. Regular audits establish that books balance, but no far reaching audit has ever been made on the inquiry level to determine just where Post Exchange goods go.

A billion dollars worth of goods of the types handled by Post Exchanges is a lot of business if the sales are confined, as claimed, to authorized military personnel. There are some who claim on basis of limited data available, that if this is true, then in these categories of merchandise the armed forces consume twice as much, or more, of these goods, than civilian counterparts. Thus, there appears ample room for an investigation of entire field.

THE HOUSE DID LITTLE last week except to pass a resolution, a sort of political maneuver, inviting President Eisenhower to be more specific about a White House suggestion that the Congress would do well to see about trimming the President's budget.

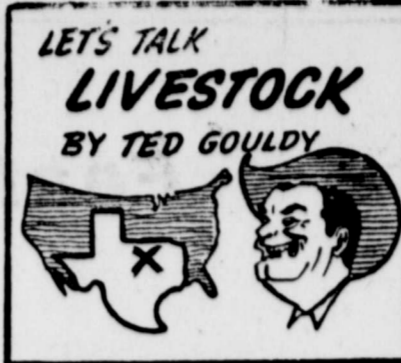

While the resolution was rather meaningless, it did serve to further focus the Nation's attention on high level spending for the next fiscal year as recommended by the White House.

Essentially the fault for the high budget, and the responsibility to do something about it, lies with the Congress. That is because year after year Congressmen vote for federal programs which cost money. Many of these programs have been with the Administration backing and have grown out of political promises and pressures. That point is illustrated by the current Civil Rights ruckus, where as a result of minority group pressure legislation is being pushed to, among other things, create a brand new bureau in the Attorney General's office to handle complaints from any disgruntled citizen who fancies that somebody has interfered with his civil liberties. It envisions a flock of lawyers with staffs to represent these people in lawsuits against other citizens—without charge to the complainers—all at Government expense. It will be interesting to watch and see how many of those who howl the loudest for economy in government will, when the votes are counted, be found saddling the taxpayers with this added cost annually, for years to come. This example can be multiplied many times over.

OUR 1957 QUESTIONNAIRE—the fourth we have sent out in recent years—will reach you soon. It contains 12 queries dealing with vital current issues. I usually spend more than $1,000 out of my own pocket to have these polls prepared. By reducing the size of the page and by using a self-addressed return on the back of the sheet, thus avoiding the necessity for the self-addressed return envelopes which in the past have been enclosed for the convenience of constituents, we have been able to trim the cost considerably this year.

But regardless of cost, our main interest is in getting your views on these issues. A 3c stamp and a few moments of time will do the trick. Your cooperation will be most appreciated.

CATTLE CALVES OPEN STEADY
FORT WORTH—Cattlemen marketed limited numbers again Monday at Fort Worth as the trend to "stay a little longer" and get gains on the improved grazing seemed to be the rule for most.

Prices were strong to 50 cents higher on the smallest Monday offerings of fed cattle in some months. Other classes of cattle and calves turned at steady prices.

Packer circles showed small enthusiasm for the going prices, but in view of the limited receipts no serious possibility of lowered prices appeared.

Good and choice fed steers and yearlings drew $18 to $21, the top figure on cattle which were mates to beves sold here last week at $20.50, which indicated the strong fed cattle tone. Plain and medium butcher sorts drew $13 to $18. Fat cows $12.00—13.50; canners and cutters $8.00—12.00; bulls $10.00—14.75; good and choice fat calves mostly $17.00—20.00, a few higher; medium and low grades $12.00—17.00. Stocker steer calves $21 down; stocker steer yearlings $20.00 down. LAMBS CONTINUE CLIMB SIXTH SUCCESSIVE DAY

Sheep and lambs continued to move in numbers far short of demand, and with four major packers contending for the supply, as well as the dealers and order buyers, the market soared to the best levels of the season.

Milk fat lambs topped Monday at $23.75, a new high for the year. Old crop fat lambs with No. 2, No. 1, Fall shorn and full wool pelts, topped at $22 and $22.50, a new high market for the season. Shorn ewes in the $6 to $10 range were at a new high, and some clipped two-year-old dry ewes topped at $15.

Good and choice old crop lambs with No. 2 pelts or better sold from $21 to $22.50, and No. 3 pelts sold from $21 down. Woolled feeders were quoted around $21 down; shorn feeders drew $20 down; cull to medium lambs sold from $13 to $19. Milk fed lambs of good and choice grades sold from $22 to $23.75. Yearling wethers with No. 1 pelts sold from $18 down; yearlings with No. 2 skins, sold from $17 down.

HOGS OPEN STRONGER WITH TOP $17.50—12.00

Butcher hogs at Fort Worth Monday opened with choice kinds topping at $17.20 to $18, and less desirable weights and grades from $15 to $17. Pigs sold from $14 down. Sows cashed at $13.50 down. Stags drew $8 to $11.

LIVESTOCK SANITARY FUNDS ARE DELAYED AGAIN

Late last week the effort to get an increase in the State appropriation for the Livestock Sanitary Commission of Texas was again delayed. Increased funds for the animal health program of the State are termed extremely important, in view of the danger of hindrance of interstate movement of Texas livestock if eradication of certain animal diseases is delayed much longer.

Earlier proposals to tax the livestock industry for the needed funds met with failure when consensus of opinion seemed to be that a special tax on stockmen would be unfair in view of their distress because of the drought and because animal health properly belongs in the public health program which benefits all of the people.

Fort Worth market men, as well as all of the livestock associations of the state, petitioned their legislators by wire asking that the increased funds be allocated to the program.

It is feared that other states will restrict shipments of Texas livestock, unless positive steps are taken to get the animal health program underway.

Legislators reported an effort would be made to get the additional funds included when the general appropriations bill goes to the joint House-Senate conference committee.

The yearling Debouillet rams and ewes of Foster Sims Price, Roy Foster, and Tommy Foster were inspected and classified for registration by James A. Gray, Extension Sheep Specialist, last Thursday. The Debouillet, one of the newer breeds of sheep, are a cross of Delaines and Rambouillets developed by the late A. D. Jones of New Mexico.

The Debouillet Association uses the flock registration system. All animals must be inspected and passed as meeting certain requirements set up by the association before they can be registered. Animals must be at least one year old before being inspected.

Foster Sims Price is president of the National Debouillet Association and Tommy Foster is one of the directors. The Association has members in Texas, New Mexico, Wyoming, California, Utah, Idaho and several other states.

Bothered by red ants in the yard? Ants are a decided nuisance in the yard and especially where there are children that play in the yard. Bites are painful and are serious to some people.

Now is the time to control the ant. Ants are weak when they first come out of hibernation and are easily killed. However, the weather must be warm enough so that the ants are active.

One method of treatment involves the use of dust type insecticides while another involves the emulsion or liquid form. If you desire to use the dust, a 10% chlordane dust, 2% dieldrin, or 5% heptachlor dust work pretty well. Make a circle around the nest with the dust so that the ants must cross the dust on their way into the nest and carry the dust into the hole with them.

This circle should be about a foot from the entrance of the nest.

One of the emulsions that I have found to work very well is dieldrin. Mix the dieldrin at the rate prescribed on the bottle and pour it into the hole. It usually takes from a half gallon to a gallon of water per nest. Do not close the hole to the nest.

Either method may require two or three treatments but often one will work. Actually I think the emulsion form will work better in this area since much of the dust will be lost to the wind.

Mulberries are a favorite tree of many people until they begin fruiting. Then their popularity drops to a pretty low scale. There is one method of spraying that has helped eliminate most of the berries if the spraying is done at the right time. "Recipe" for the spray mixture is as follows: 2 tablespoons lead arsenate, 3 tablespoons hydrated lime, 3 tablespoons dry lime sulphur and 3 gallons of water. This must be applied several times while the trees are in bloom so that the flowers do not spread the pollen.

This has been used for several years by a number of people with good results. It has prevented stained sidewalks, cars and porches.

4-H Club members will soon begin working out for the grass judging and range judging teams. Last year's range judging team composed of Clayton Stewart, Jerry Payne, David Durham and Carolyn Payne, won first place at the district contest at San Angelo. The grass judging team made up of LeRuth Reed, Milton Reed, Lee Foster and Jodie Green was fourth in the grass judging contest at San Angelo.

These judging teams are an excellent method of training 4-H Club members to identify the plants on the range and to judge the condition of the range. The things learned on the small scale of the contests can be applied on a larger scale.

All 4-H Club members are invited to take part in the workouts. The best judges will then make up the team for the contests. Members will be notified by mail when the workouts will start. Besides the grass and range judging team, a wool and mohair judging team, a wool and mohair judging team will be trained for the state contest in June and the Sonora contests later that month.
