The fall and winter months are good times for building netwire diversions. There is usually slack time and labor available for this purpose during these months.

Netwire diversions and spreaders are good tools for spreading and conserving water. They prevent soil loss and often will irrigate certain sites that might otherwise not get much water. They are also useful tools in other ways. For instance the sites might be a good seed source for the better grasses which need a little help in getting started. Also, they have shown their value in fighting poisonous plants such as bitterweed. By slowing down the water, spread of the seed is also slowed down. The bitterweed seed are heavy and as long as the water is flowing swiftly, they will move with the water. Once the water is slowed down, however, the seed will settle out.

The diversions can be constructed with old net wire and posts that might not otherwise be used. They can also be filled in with brush to help stop the water. Sites that make good diversion sites are around hillides, across shallow draws, and in between rolling hills where water might concentrate and run off.

The recent freezes have killed most of the pasture weeds including the broomweed which is quite thick in many areas. These weeds constitute a range fire hazard which could result in many, many acres of land being burned over if a fire started.

It would be wise to keep your sprayer handy full of water to combat such fires. The early period when a fire is just getting started is the best time to fight it. Available equipment might mean the difference in the loss of a few acres or many sections of burned over land that would be useless as grazing land. Also, the loss of the seed crop of the warm season grasses would be quite serious.

The fire department now has trucks equipped and ready for fighting brush and range fires. To report a fire call the sheriff's office, 8-2121.

The most recent of the animal diseases, leptospirosis, is the third most costly disease to cattle. It is already causing losses of $150,000-000 annually. The two which lead it are brucellosis and mastitis, both old diseases when compared to leptospirosis or leptos, as it is often called. During 1956 and 1957, more than half the herds tested had animals that were positive to the leptospirosis test.

Leptospirosis has a wide range of symptoms that make field diagnosis difficult. It may affect all the animals in a herd with no recognizable or noticeable effects. On the other hand, there may be numerous abortions and up to a 5% death loss in grown animals. Death losses are usually confined to calves where one out of three may die.

First symptoms are high, high temperatures, coffee-colored or blood tinged urine, sudden drop in milk production, and abortion late in the gestation period. Membranes of the animal's eyes and mouths become pale and decidedly yellow due to the destruction of red blood cells.

Veterinarians can treat the disease if called soon enough. There is a vaccine available and considerable benefit has been observed in many cases where it was used. According to many reports, a good many cases of leptospirosis have been diagnosed within 100 miles of Sterling City by veterinarians. In one herd, 90% of the animals tested had symptoms and proved positive to the test.

Last week on the Bangs, tuberculosis and rabies vaccination program, 33 cows were tested for Bangs and tuberculosis, 50 dogs and five cats vaccinated for rabies. Of the 33 cows tested, one was positive for Bangs. Twenty-eight of the 50 dogs were vaccinated Thursday afternoon in town, the remainder on the ranches.

"Historically, the cattle industry in Texas is older than Texas itself. Economically, the cattle industry has been a pace-setter for Texas, and continues to be a leading growth factor in the State's economy, constantly seeking new techniques for building an even more rewarding future for all our citizens," the proclamation read. Gifts also aid more than 23,000 orphans in 288 orphanages operated or assisted by the Christian Children's Fund, Inc.

World Clothing Week will continue that whole week through December 12, and superintendent of school O. T. Jones, has asked that every family in Sterling County gather up all their outgrown, unneeded clothing and send it to school that week. If there are no school age children in a family, a neighbor's child will be glad to bring the gift along with his own. Clothing of all kinds, children's and adult, is needed.

All clothing collected by the school will be turned over to the Christian Children's Fund, Inc., sponsor of World Clothing Week, for distribution.

Is Your House Tight and Ready?

Roof Should Get Top Priority In Checkup

Give first attention to your roof when you make an inspection tour this fall to get your house ready for winter.

Here's how to check a roof to make sure it's ready for the long, rugged months ahead:

1. Take a flashlight into the attic soon after a rain and look for damp spots on rafters and decking. These often indicate that water is seeping through the roofing material.

2. Make the attic as dark as possible and look for pinpoints of light in the undersurface of the roof. The light leaks can mean water leaks.

3. Look at the roof from the outside. It should be smooth and flat without signs of wear. If it has a worn, shabby appearance, it probably isn't giving the service it should, and certainly detracts from the looks of your house.

If your inspection reveals any of these faults, your next step is to call in a reliable roofing contractor for a professional check.

If he finds the roof in bad condition, he'll probably recommend an entire new roof of asphalt shingles. Why not make repairs? Simply because an attempt to repair an old roof rarely works out satisfactorily. A roof wears out uniformly over the years. Consequently, the spots not repaired are weak, and are bound to show flaws soon. Another reason is that walking on an old roof to make repairs often causes new leaks to appear.

The wise home owner swarms all over his house in the fall, getting it ready for winter. Important check points are the roof, windows, cracks at foundation level, weatherstripping, and insulation.

In addition, a new roof of asphalt shingles not only will give you and your family years of trouble-free security, but will do a lot to improve the appearance of the house, especially if you choose wisely from the many colors available.

Fall Inspection Can Save Fuel, Boost Comfort

Many home owners fail to realize that the house, like the family car, needs to be "winterized" to get it ready for cold weather.

If you want to be sure of more winter comfort and economical operation in your home, here are some of the most important areas to check:

Insulation. For efficiency, insulation should surround the house in a thick, continuous blanket, with no holes or gaps. If you aren't aware of the importance of good insulation, consider the fact that a thickness of four inches of mineral wool in the ceiling and at least three inches in walls can save as much as 40 percent annually on heating bills.

Doors and windows. These must fit tightly to keep heat from escaping. Old windows and doors that are loose, swollen, or warped should be replaced. Many styles of windows and doors of ponderosa pine are available from building material dealers, including units complete with frame that go into place at a minimum of labor cost.

Storm sash. To be efficient, storm sash and storm doors must fit tightly to create a dead air space. Modern combination sash and doors are available in ponderosa pine. These have readily exchangeable glass and screen inserts.

Caulking. A careful tour of the house with a caulking gun will save many heating dollars. One villain that often goes unnoticed is the joint between foundation and sidewalls. It should be filled with caulking compound. Other points to watch out for are around window and door frames.

Weatherstripping. Be on the lookout for doors and windows that have no weatherstripping, or whose old weatherstripping has become useless through wear packing down, or loss of spring.

Mineral Wool Ideal For Do-It-Yourself

Three types of mineral wool insulation are available to the home owner for do-it-yourself insulation.

They are mineral wool blankets, long rolls of insulation ideal for insulating attic floors and crawl spaces; batts, which are similar to blankets but in shorter lengths, and pouring wool. The latter comes in lightweight bags and is poured into the space to be insulated.

Thousands of Families Want New Roofing

Nearly 30 percent of 80,000 families interviewed nationally by the Home Improvement Council reported that the home improvement they desire most is a new roof.

The advantages of a new roof of asphalt shingles go beyond the obvious one of protection from weather. This roofing material is economical and is available in a wide range of colors, textures, and designs that make a house look better and add to its value.

THE WORLD'S MOST BEAUTIFULLY
PROPORTIONED

with surprises!

Expect to be dazzled when you see these totally new Fords! Each one of Ford's 19 new models is completely and refreshingly changed in every square inch. Each, in its own way, is the world's most beautifully proportioned car. Each has Thunderbird elegance.

Look for something new and just right in size . . . and you'll find it! The lowest-priced Fords are 6 stunning inches longer . . . have 2 extra inches of smooth-riding wheelbase.

Expect something wonderful in savings. For instance, Ford prices for '59 are traditionally down-to-earth prices. (Every model's priced below the equivalent model of Ford's nearest competitor.*) Ford's aluminized mufflers—standard equipment—last twice as long as conventional mufflers. Ford's standard V-8 and Six save up to 5¢ a gallon because they require only regular gas. Ford cars need oil changes only every 4000 miles. And Ford's new super enamels never need waxing.

Look for something special in performance. New V-8's concentrate their new punch at speeds from 30 to 70 mph, where you need it most.

Look for newness everywhere . . . right down to the new Tyrex tires. Let your Ford Dealer show you. You've never had it so new!
