GOING DOWN—Gas prices in Muleshoe have seen a steady decline over the past 30 to 60 days, dropping as much as 20 cents from one month to the next according to one retail outlet. Diesel fuel sales are down by a good amount due to the inclement weather keeping farmers out of the fields. This same weather also caused a cutback in spending for gas in the last few weeks, but most retailers surveyed reported that sales were generally up due to the slash in prices. Another cut is forecast for this week sometime.

Fuel Prices On Steady, Slow Decline In Muleshoe

In a survey this week of local gasoline and diesel distributors as well as retail service stations, it is evident that gas prices in Muleshoe have definitely dropped in the last thirty to sixty days. Some companies reported a decrease amounting to as much as 13 cents and some about five cents per gallon. One large consignee stated that his price now, to the pump or to the farm, was 1.079 - sixty days ago it ranged from 1.129 to 1.279. He also stated that the prices with his particular company were dropping fairly steady each week or ten days. The supplier did say, however, that no diesel fuel at all had been sold due to the lax farming operations in

Farmer PIK Considerations Depend On Individual Need

Information For Veterans

Whether or not a farmer decides to participate in the new payment-in-kind (PIK) program this year depends entirely on his individual situation, says an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"Each farmer has got to assess his own operation and his current financial situation and he's got to 'put the pencil' to all the different parts of the program as they apply to his business," says Dr. Ron Knutson. "There is no substitute for working through the program and making all the calculations you possibly can at this point."

The Extension Service has prepared a special worksheet that can help farmers with their calculations. The worksheet is available through county Extension agents.

"Farmers need to know their variable costs, which are crucial in determining participation in PIK," emphasizes the economist. "If a farmer is just covering variable costs in his crop production, participation will likely pay."

Of course, farmers need to be sure to consider deficiency payments when they're making their calculations, emphasizes Knutson. Such payments are based on the difference between target prices spelled out in the farm program and actual average market prices. These payments could be substantial this year, particularly for wheat and cotton. However, deficiency payments can be made only on planted acres, so this makes participation in the PIK program less attractive.

"If a producer has a tight profit margin, he's a good candidate for participation in the program," believes Knutson, "while participation might be questionable for a farmer with a wider profit margin."

The program should also be advantageous to farmers with high operating costs and to those with marginal cropland. Farmers with low yielding land might consider putting more of it in the program, suggests the economist.

"Although it's extremely difficult to generalize about the program, we generally feel that corn and grain sorghum farmers will find it advantageous to participate except in those areas where they have sunk considerable expenses for herbicides and fertilizer into the land in preparation

7th Grade Mullettes

The seventh grade basketball Mullettes played against Friona and won, in an exciting game going into triple overtime. The final score was Mullettes, 27 to Friona, 22. Amy Bean was the high pointer with twelve points, followed by Michelle Stevenson with ten points. The highest steeler, with ten, was Joey Heathington, followed by Amy Bean with seven. Players of the week were Amy Bean and Joey Heathington. The Mullette wound up their season last Monday night, Feb. 7. The girls will now start working out for off season or track.

for planting (mainly southern and coastal areas)," Knutson says.

"Cotton farmers will need to look closely at their operating costs in making a decision while wheat farmers may find it difficult to participate at any level. Rice growers will need to consider participating at the 80 percent or higher level."

Basically, the PIK program is designed to take cropland out of production and to pay participating farmers with surplus commodities, many of which are in government storage. Payments would be in like commodities--a cotton farmer who participated would be paid in cotton and a corn farmer would receive corn, for example. The farmer can dispose of the commodity in any way he sees fit other than putting it back in government storage.

PIK commodities will first become available in the fall, at which time market prices could soften, particularly if farmer participation in the program is low.

Knutson advises farmers to see all the information they can get their hands on regarding the new PIK program. County ASCS officials will be administering the program and should have the latest information available as it comes from the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Changes are still likely regarding various details about the program, since the USDA has until Feb. 25 to issue final regulations. The signing deadline for farmers is Mar. 11.

More than 1.72 million veterans now live in Texas, 70,000 more than a year ago. Nationally, there are 28.5 million veterans.

There now is an average of nearly 12 veterans in Texas among every 100 residents. Further, about 45 percent of the Texas population is affected directly or indirectly by VA's benefits, including medical programs.

The Texas veteran population breakdown, based on VA Office of Reports and Statistics, totals for last September 30: 1.46 million war veterans from World War I through the Vietnam era ending May 7, 1975; 553,000 Vietnam era, including 35,000 with Korean conflict service;

318,000 Korean conflict; including 74,000 with World War II service; 686,000 WWII; 20,000 WWI; one Spanish-American War veteran on VA rolls; 174,000 with service between the Korean conflict and the Vietnam era, and 84,000 post-Vietnam era.

Although a state breakdown of veteran age averages by service periods isn't available, the national averages (with total veterans in brackets) are: War veterans, 54 years old (24.2 million); Vietnam era, 35.6 (8.7 million); Korean conflict, 52.4 (5.4 million); WWII, 61.6 (11.3 million); WWI, 87.3 (368,000); Spanish-American War, 102 (52); between Korean conflict and Vietnam era, 43.9 (2.8 million), and post-Vietnam era, 23.8 (1.3 million).

Single Adult Help Seminar Scheduled

The Broadway Church of Christ at 1924 Broadway in Lubbock, Texas will be hosting a Single Adult Help Seminar on Saturday, February 26. This Help Seminar entitled "Improving Your Serve" will be held in the lower level of the Broadway Education Center from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. The seminar is sponsored by the Singles Ministry of the Broadway Church of Christ.

Ray Hawkins, Singles Minister and Church Counselor from Garland, Texas, will be conducting the day long seminar. Hawkins coordinates area wide activities for Dallas singles and serves as resource speaker for various seminars and meetings. Hawkins also volunteers time to serve as the Family Counselor for Dallas Christian Schools. Events of the day will be coordinated by Broadway's Singles Minister, Tim Talley.

Topics that will be discussed during the seminar include: "Learning To Deal With Natural Selfish Tendencies At Church, Job And Home," "Why Developing A Servant Life Style Is Essential To Success And Happiness," and "What It Takes To Be A Serving Single." There will be time for questions and answers and group discussion.

The cost for the seminar will be $3.00. Those attending may bring a sack lunch or eat at one of the nearby restaurants.

If you would like to register for the seminar or would simply like to obtain more information about it, contact Tim Talley at the Broadway Church of Christ, (806) 763-0464.

NOTES --- COMMENTS

Some would say all winters are too cold.

The average student takes too long to learn too little.

Big words fool a lot of people but not as many as some think.

Ownership Of Microwaves On Upward Trend

"A growing number of consumers now consider the microwave oven a necessity rather than a luxury," says Bonnie Piernot, a family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

About 15 percent of American households had microwaves by the end of 1979. An estimated 22 percent of households now contain microwaves, reports Piernot.

As the number of dual-earner families continues to increase, so should the sales of microwave ovens and cooking equipment.

Pack-Man Invades First Birthday Party

Pack-Man invaded the first birthday party of Dustin Elliott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cary Elliott, Saturday, Feb. 19, in the home of his parents.

A Pack-Man cake baked by his aunt, Joyce Holmes, was served along with ice cream.

Attending were his sisters, Kim, LaDawn and Amy; aunts and uncles, Carolyn and Harold Maxwell and Joyce and Wayne Holmes; and cousins, Kenneth, Christi and Troy Maxwell and Jessie, Jackie and Joy Holmes.

DUSTIN ELLIOTT

But research by microwave manufacturers also indicates a "psychological" reason for purchasing a microwave oven. According to Piernot, this research shows that working parents are able to provide "home-cooked" meals with a microwave, thus eliminating a feeling of abandonment or neglect in family members.

A microwave oven may also be purchased so additional family members, especially older children and teenagers, can more readily participate in meal preparation.

"Extension home economists receive a tremendous number of questions from microwave owners and potential owners in Texas," notes Piernot. Most of those questions have to do with energy usage, oven safety, nutrition, and where to place the microwave in the kitchen, she adds.

With the growing number of microwaves in Texas homes, county Extension agents will continue to offer information and programming about microwave use to local residents, says Piernot.

Gas Prices Down

consumer prices. He also stated that prices paid for this same gas will vary with the particular retailer handling the gas. The dealer believes the price drop to be significant and said that it had been dropping fairly steady for his business in the last two weeks.

Most company men we talked to attributed the trouble in gas pricing to the OPEC oil troubles and the impending price war expected among oil-producing countries if the OPEC does not pull back together and rejoin ranks again.

After talking to the consignees or companies, the Journal surveyed some of the individual, as well as Company gas service stations in Muleshoe. We found that their prices, too, had varied a significant amount in the last two months. One smaller station, dependent on his supplier for his gas price advice, stated that his prices now were $1.08/$1.12 at the pump, while in October and November they were $1.24 and $1.31, a difference or drop of 16 cents for the period of time involved. He told us that another drop was scheduled in gas prices this week, and when questioned about the amount of business stated that "business is beginning to pick up; people are buying more gas now since the price is lower."

Other stations revealed large, extremely fluctuating price from October through January. One in particular stated that prices were $1.18/$1.09 in October. Then in November and December prices at the same station dropped to $1.09 and $1.229. Prices at that same outlet in January were $1.079 and $1.119. (This retailer reported an increase in sales due to the drop in prices.)

One small independent service station operator reported that his prices had dropped about five cents in the past two weeks, and about nine cents in the last 30 or 45 days. In November his pump prices were $1.16 and $1.11—they are now $1.07 and $1.02. He stated however that customer buying had been off some due to the bad weather early in the year.

All in all, according to the figures we were able to compile, gas prices have definitely decreased in Muleshoe; however, the change has been slow and steady without any large significant drop as yet. Prices in Lubbock have already fallen to below one dollar per gallon, and if the projected drops keep coming in Muleshoe, should drop that much here sometime in the near future. Most gasoline sales people, however, are skeptical that the price will go that low here—only time will tell.

An Income Tax Clinic has been planned by the Family Living Committee of the Extension Service for Thursday, March 3, from 7:30 to 9:00 p.m. at the Civic Center. Dave Sudduth from the accounting firm of Williams, Adair and Sudduth will be the guest speaker.

FFA Week

are gaining firsthand experience in goal setting through the vocational agriculture program this year as they set their sights on earning FFA Proficiency Awards provided by the National FFA Foundation, Inc.

This year FFA members can earn one of 22 Agricultural Proficiency Awards. The awards are provided through the National FFA Foundation, Inc., which is supported by contributions from business, industry and individuals. Incentive awards totaling more than $300,000 are now available to FFA members nationwide recognizing achievement in nearly every imaginable area of agriculture from production of crops and livestock to employment in agribusiness that process, market and distribute agricultural supplies, services and produce.

Students earn recognition in the FFA Agricultural Proficiency Award Program by submitting records of their activities in the Vocational Agriculture, Supervised Occupational Experience and FFA Programs. Through the FFA Agricultural Proficiency Award Program nearly 100,000 FFA members will be recognized this year for setting and pursuing career goals in the industry of agriculture.

All FFA members who engage in Supervised Occupational Experience Programs as part of the vocational agriculture instruction program are eligible for participation in the FFA Proficiency Award Program. To participate, students maintain records on their vocational agriculture FFA activities and work experiences, and submit an application for the award.

Chapters recognize members by presenting a medal and certificate. Chapter winners may compete at the state level where the winner is presented a check for $100 from the National FFA Foundation, Inc. State winners then compete for recognition in each of four National FFA regions. Each regional winner earns a cash award and a plaque plus travel expenses to the National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Missouri. Here his/her program is judged against winners from three other regions. The top FFA member in the nation in each of the 22 proficiency award areas is recognized at the National FFA Convention with a plaque and cash award.

The FFA Agricultural Proficiency Award Program is made available through funds provided by the National FFA Foundation, Inc. Many of the 22 awards are fully sponsored through the National FFA Foundation, Inc. by contributions from specific corporations and businesses. Funds provided by proficiency award sponsors make available medals, certificates, cash and plaque awards, and travel for winners to the National FFA Convention.

Tax Saving Via Tax Avoidance

Someone has said that only two things in this life are certain -- death and taxes. While we have little control over the first we can do tax planning to minimize the sting of the latter.

The Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981 (ERTA) provides significant reduction of the individual tax rates. The reduction amounts to an effective 23 percent decline in individual tax rates spread over the period of 1981-1984. This 23 percent will be reality if legislation or presidential action does not change any of the original law.

Thrasher...

David Yates, nationally known poet, editor and critic, notified Mrs. Thrasher recently of his intent to publish her poems "Hinges" and "Verbal Cartwheels" along with a short biographical sketch of her in an upcoming issue of "Cedar Rock," a nationally acclaimed literary periodical. "Cedar Rock" is one of the early publishers of now popular contemporary poets Diane Wakoski; Nikki Giovanni, noted black poet; and Jeronie Judson, now poetry editor of "Writer's Digest."

Jamey Thrasher has been an English teacher at Muleshoe High School for the past four years.

automatic changes in the tax load of each of us, we can personally take effective measures to eliminate or reduce, shift, shelter or postpone income taxes. Tax avoidance by using tax-saving techniques is legal and should be used to increase financial net worth.

The key methods for producing a tax savings can be divided into 4 categories. These are: 1) tax elimination, or reduction, 2) shifting the tax burden to others, 3) taking returns as long-term capital gains, and 4) postponing taxation. Some tax plans will involve a combination of these ideas.

Tax planning is financial planning should use the variety of information available for maximizing the tax-saving. Specialists, attorneys, accountants, financial planners and others should be consulted.

(Bailey) filed a statement of intent to increase its rates within the unincorporated areas served by it. This application would result in a system-wide annual revenue increase of $929,506, or approximately 8.39 percent over adjusted test year gross operating revenues. The adjusted gross operating revenues of the test year include an adjustment for the annualization of the Southwestern Public Service wholesale power cost increases in the amount of $2,779,296, which the Utility is already receiving as a part of the power cost adjustment clause. The overall increase to actual gross revenue for the period ending September 30, 1982, based upon these proposed tariffs and schedules is $3,708,802. All customers and classes of customers will be affected. A copy of its application, specifying in detail each proposed change, has been filed at the Commission offices.

The Commission has jurisdiction over this docket pursuant to Public Utility Regulatory Act (P.U.R.A.) Sections 17(e) and 37, Tex. Rev. Civ. Stat. Ann. art. 1446c (1980). Pursuant to P.U.C. PROC. R. 052.01.00.024(b) and 052.01.00.052, a prehearing conference will be conducted on Thursday, February 24, 1983, beginning at 9:00 a.m., at the Commission offices at 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Austin, Texas. Solar Collection Workshop Reset

A solar collector workshop which will offer farmers and homeowners ideas and training in applying solar power to their energy needs has been rescheduled for Friday and Saturday, Feb. 18-19. The workshop, sponsored by the community development committee of the Oldham County Extension Program Building Committee, was originally scheduled for Jan. 21-22, but was postponed because of heavy snow.

It will begin at 5:30 p.m. Feb. 18 with registration at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center, 6500 Amarillo Blvd. West. Instruction will begin at 6 p.m. and continue until 10 p.m.

Saturday, Feb. 19, participants will assemble at 9 a.m. and go to a lumber yard. There they will select materials and work in teams to construct solar collectors.

Leading the workshop will be Bob Dunsmore of the San Luis Valley (Colo.) Solar Energy Assn. Also on the program will be Weedon Echols of Lubbock, energy specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Because of the great interest, with 237 persons registered in advance before we had to postpone the program in January, the rescheduled program will be limited to the first 300 to register," said Jimmie D. Walker, Oldham County Extension agent.

Each participant must pay a $15 fee which helps cover instructional and construction materials. Advance registration can be completed by mailing the $15 fee with your name, address and telephone number to County Extension Office, Box 380, Vega, 79092. Checks should be made payable to Oldham County Program Building Committee.

"If you wait until the night of the conference to register, we may already have reached our limit," cautioned Kay Wells, Oldham County Extension agent for home economics.

Ag Engineers Celebrate National Week Feb. 20-26

The role of engineering in the growth of modern agriculture is the focus of National Engineers Week (Feb. 20-26) for the more than 11,000 members of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers (ASAE).

For more than 75 years, ASAE members have been dedicated to improving agriculture world-wide through the application of engineering principles and by implementing this year's Engineers Week theme, "Engineers: Turning Ideas Into Reality."

ASAE President Gerald Isaacs points to basic engineering achievements such as irrigation, the internal combustion engine, the tractor and farm electrification as evidence of engineering's vital role in agricultural productivity.

"In early agriculture, a farmer fed himself and his family. Today's farmer feeds more than 70 people - in large part through the technical advances achieved by engineers, teamed with researchers, scientists and business," Isaacs said.

One engineering idea early in the century became the first sprinkler irrigation system - and has advanced through engineering to include computer-programmed systems that conserve water, energy and labor.

Some outstanding work in the development of low-energy, precision application (LEPA) irrigation systems has been done by Dr. William Lyle, agricultural engineer with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Lubbock, noted Elston Grubaugh, agricultural engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Another engineering milestone - development of the internal combustion engine - revolutionized plowing and other field jobs that required a mobile power source. With such a source, engineering improvements to the tractor advanced rapidly: in 1910, there were fewer than 1,000 tractors on U.S. farms. By 1919, there were 158,000. Today's farm machinery employs electronic sensing, micro-computer controls and a host of other engineering "ideas" that have become realities.

"Electricity, used experimentally in the 1880's for irrigation and plowing brought a new age to agriculture by the 1920's. To speed farm electrification, ASAE helped organize CREA - the Committee on the Relation of Electricity to Agriculture. An agricultural engineer - Dr. Earl A. White, the profession's first Ph.D. - was named to direct the organization, which proved influential in bringing electricity to rural areas.

Today's farms may be powered by solar energy, biomass, methane and other alternative energy sources that agricultural engineers are developing and that can provide electricity or freedom from non-renewable fuel sources.

Grubaugh said research by agricultural engineers in the Texas High Plains has led to such things as the modern cotton stripper, furrow dikers, ginning equipment and herbicide applicators. Educational programs conducted by Extension agricultural engineers, working with county agents, has helped farmers and agribusiness adopt these tools to improve their operations, he added.

Early in the century, engineering ideas helped put an end to farm drudgery. As the century draws to a close, these ideas and others will help establish American agriculture as the world's leading food and fiber producing system, Grubaugh said.

ASAE is a non-profit, technical, scientific and educational society committed to improving agriculture through the application of engineering principles. Headquartered in St. Joseph, Michigan, the Society has 9,000 regular members and 2,300 student members in 50 states and 90 foreign countries.

"Even with the current economic conditions, both national and international demand will remain strong for technically trained people in agriculture," Grubaugh said.

Crop Insurance Plan Offers Higher Yield Guarantees To Farmers

High yields and good records can pay off in increased crop insurance protection for many farmers, according to F.W. "Ted" Crouch, Jr., Field Operations Office Director of Federal Crop Insurance Corporation.

Crouch reports that a major change in the method of calculating insurance yield guarantees makes it possible for qualifying farmers to obtain additional coverage at no additional cost.

"Our goal is to offer each farmer a guaranteed yield that reflects his own yield experience. Thus, if a farmer can prove that his yields during the past three or more years have been above the average for his area, we'll also give him credit for above-average yields in any years for which he doesn't have the necessary records."

"We'll assume his yields in those years were above average by the same percentage as his recent yields," explains Crouch. The insurance official states that the improved Individual Yield Coverage Program, as it is called, will make Federal Crop Insurance policies significantly more attractive than in the past to those farmers who have a history of high yields. "The fact that there's no increase in cost for the increased protection should also provide an incentive to carry insurance," he adds.

The county ASCS office can provide information about the procedure for verifying above average yields. The farmer must provide ASCS with records of planted acreage and all production of a crop for at least the past three years.

For 1983, the Individual Yield Coverage Program is open to farmers who produce corn, cotton, grain sorghum, rice, and soybeans. Insurance agents can explain exactly what coverage is available and what the protection would cost. To make the insurance as affordable as possible, the Federal Government pays up to 30 percent of the premium cost.

Report

By Wayne Peterson

The Railroad Commission rules on rules for School Bus Conversion. An emergency rule adopted by the Texas Railroad Commission requires that plans and specifications for converting school buses to LP gas motor fuel be approved before the conversion is made.

The rules, which were sought to assume the greatest degree of safety, were carefully designed to place the LP gas container on the driver's side of the bus to ensure that no exit is blocked in the event of an accident.

Hundreds of buses and other vehicles have already been converted, some under these guidelines others not. Make sure your LP conversion will pass all safety regulations, use correct tanks, lines, methods of bleeding vapors and placement of container. When parking LP gas power vehicle in garage leave it ventilated as possible in case a leak should occur. Think safe, don't be sorry, the family you save may be your own.

Four to five minutes after arrival at the scene of a two truck accident on highway 70 intersection with YL FM Road a truck driven was unpinched from the grasp of the truck steering and on his way to the hospital. Just to think, when it was first mentioned that the Fire department wanted such a piece of equipment there were some people not sure it was a good purchase. We don't think anyone at this time feels the acquisition was a bad one. Trying to look ahead into the future for better ways of fighting fires and saving lives is a never ending endeavor, not only for the fire department but the entire community. Lets all do it together.

Mrs. Jewell Griffiths, on behalf of Germania Farm Mutual Insurance came to the last fire meeting to personally present a check for $50.00 to the department for mutual aid to the Lazbuddie departments fire at Wesley Barns Jr.

Donations in the amount of $50.00 each was also received from Shafer's Bell gas and service station and Five Area Telephone Coop. These donations will go into the departments general fund. Although Recess-a-ann lives down at the department, she's not 100% ours yet. Recess-a-ann is not our mascot or our girlfriend, it's a C.P.R. computer manikin and with such donations as received it or she may soon find a home. Smoky! Leave it at the station.

The happiest person in this community is probably the one who has helped the most people, in one way or another.

STATEMENT OF INTENT TO CHANGE RATES

The proposed changes in rates will affect all customer classes and are designed to increase the Company's gross intrastate revenues by approximately 15 percent annually.

A complete set of revised rate schedules has been filed with the Public Utility Commission at Austin, Texas, and is available for public inspection in each of the Company's Business Offices in the State of Texas. A summary of the Company's rate filing has also been sent to the Mayor's Office of each affected Municipality.
