NEW OUTDOOR CLASSROOM AT STERLING CITY SCHOOL

A new type classroom is being used by Fred Igo, teacher at the Sterling City school. Igo is using the Worth Durham property near the school as an outdoor classroom.

Dalton Merz, District Conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service, is assisting Igo with planning and developing the outdoor learning area. Merz said Igo has been using the area to help students gain personal experiences involving the environment surrounding them. This guided personal experience is much more meaningful than what can be gained through book study.

Igo has used the outdoor classroom area in several areas of study. His freshman and sophomore classes are studying, evaluating, and making inventory of natural resources. The classes are using the outdoor classroom studying soils, plants, and their relationship to their environment. They used the area several days ago studying various kinds of surveying instruments and their uses such as measuring slope, chaining, turning right angles, etc.

Your local Soil Conservation Service Conservationists assisting the North Concho River Soil and Water Conservation District will also work with the other teachers in the Sterling school system in developing methods to use the outdoor classroom to benefit their students.

NEWS OF EDUCATION

College Students: Bored of Education?

To many concerned parents, today's college students seem much less impressed with the importance of their education than were students of years ago. Sometimes, the students even seem bored.

But educators and psychologists point out—seriously, yet sometimes with a smile—that many college students today are learning far more at school than their parents ever did.

Today education is different. Not only do new teaching methods make learning easier and lots more effective, but also college is seen as a place for social—as well as academic—instruction.

Which is as it should be, when you consider that college is a mini-model of the tough outside world students will soon enough have to cope with and function in. And adjusting properly to that world is just as important and just as difficult as any course a school has to offer.

That's why so many students are getting involved with the running of their schools. The actuality of practical campus politics is a good deal more enlightening and instructive than classroom theories.

That's also why students seem to take their competitive sports more seriously than ever before. Trying to do one's best is very much a part of the outside world and these kids are very much aware of it. They play hard and work hard at keeping themselves fit with effective medications like Tinactin cream; solution and powder, which fight most fungus to kill and help prevent athlete's foot, that old college locker room nemesis.

Unfortunately, these kids—the good kids who make up the majority of this nation's student body—rarely make news on radio or TV. But their abilities and straight thinking have not gone unnoticed.

Each year, more and more of these grade-A students are being recruited by business and industry before graduation.

Which would indicate that they were far from bored with their college education.

Team members of the first place Natural Resources demonstration team were Melanie McEntire and Carl Igo. Coach of this team was Mrs. Clinton Hodges. Their demonstration was on the range fire plan developed here to combat grass fires and save the grass, one of the county's primary natural resources.

Senior Horse Demonstration team members were Patti Bynum and Melinda Terry. Mrs. Billy Ralph Bynum was coach of this team. The subject of their demonstration was "Horse Care Starts with a Spring Checkup" and was devoted to some considerations in this field such as worming and immunization for the more common and often fatal horse diseases. As the second place senior team in the District Contests, this team will compete in the State 4-H Contest during the 4-H Round Up at Texas A&M University June 3 through 5.

Members of the third place Junior Electric Demonstration team were Lenard Horwood and Russell Jones with Mrs. S. K. Horwood as coach. Their demonstration, entitled "Make the Best Better with 4-H," stressed the safe use of electricity in 4-H Club projects.

They were booked ahead of the time and sang at The Woman's Club, The Garden Club, the Rotary Club and the Senior Citizen's Club.

The sisters retreat was in the mountain home of Mrs. Clinton Woodlock of Lubbock, and the girls stayed there, except Mrs. Joan Jarrett, who lives in Ruidoso.

There were eight girls and a son in the family. The widow of the brother, Mrs. O.C. Sosebee of Walnut, Miss. was present, as was a daughter of the deceased sister—Mrs. Bill Jackson of Irving, Texas.

Appearing in the picture are Leona Ferguson, Joyce Woodard, Doris Brothers, Louise Woodward, Billie Goodrich, Joan Jarrett, Mozelle Woodlock and Mildred Satterwhite.
