THE FEES AND MILEAGE QUESTION.

One of the greatest sets of injustice ever conferred by a law upon citizens, and to-day entitled to be repealed, is that which requires witnesses in felony cases to attend courts at their own expense, and this law has had as much to do towards allowing guilty parties to go unpunished as any other one thing that could be named. A summons to appear in court may require a man to travel a thousand miles at his own expense, or to be absent for a long time and leave his wife and children in the hands of a stranger, and for this reason the wife man with a knowledge of the law has had a close month when in possession of information which might lead, if the fact were known, to his being put to great loss and inconvenience by being taken from his home to appear in some distant court to give his testimony, or to be absent for a considerable time for contempt of court. It is claimed in defense of this law that if witnesses were paid fees and mileage the expense of the criminal courts would be so enormous that it would bankrupt the state to pay them. The expense would not be any greater than at present, the difference would be, that the whole people would have to share the burden, and not only the few who are now required to give their time and money to the public service without remuneration. The hardship upon witnesses would not be so great if they were not compelled to leave their own country without an equal amount of money to cover the expenses of the trip, but there is no justice in requiring them to travel fifty or a hundred, or perhaps one thousand miles at their own expense, to perform a service they are no more interested in than those who do not contribute a cent or lose an hour of time.

Mr. Morris, of Collin county, has introduced in the house a bill for the payment of fees and mileage to witnesses in felony cases, where such witnesses are compelled to leave the counties in which they reside. We have not yet been advised as to what allowance are to be made under the bill, but the legislature should pass some act granting at least sufficient advances to cover the expenses of witnesses who, in the discharge of the duties referred to in Mr. Morris' bill. It would doubtless increase the expense of the courts, to some extent, but it would not be really taking any more from the people—it would only equalize the burden. Under such a law there would be fewer delays and fewer excuses thrown in the way of meeting our justice, for witnesses would attend more freely, and those not inclined to do so could be forced to do their duty with less show of injustice than under the present law.

THE FRONTIER PROTECTION BILL.

We will soon be able to learn the sense of the legislature on the frontier protection question. A resolution has been passed by the senate ordering the committee on frontier protection, Indian affairs and military affairs to "jointly take into consideration the advisability of abolishing and discontinuing the frontier battalions, and report a bill, if necessary, abolishing the same by creating a smaller force, whose duty shall be fully defined; and committee to examine fully into the management, expenditures, etc., of said frontier battalions for the last two years, and report their action as at early a day as practicable." This resolution was offered by Senator Green, of Fannin, a county in which he is interested in the frontier protection, in fact, his interests might best be subserved by withdrawing all protection from Western Texas so to stop immigrants to this state in the northern part of our territory. It would have been a much more patriotic course on the part of the senator from Fannin, and more courteous to his western neighbors, had he offered a resolution requiring the committee named to inquire into what protection by the state, if any, was needed for the western frontier counties, with the amount of expenditures, etc. The effect would have been the same, and it would have saved the senator the embarrassment, if anything can embarrass him, of sending the senate against a measure for protecting the frontier where his merits have been investigated or reported upon.

ROBERTS ON JUDICIAL APPOINTMENTS.

As has already been mentioned in the Express, Gov. Roberts has sent to the legislature a message proposing several radical changes in the judicial system, most of which were embodied in a constitutional amendment drawn by him and submitted to the legislature two years ago, and which failed to meet with favorable consideration, but which his excellent administration shows that "time has shown to be very desirable. The arguments advanced in the message are of a high order, and should be given the most careful consideration, and the effect will doubtless be the adoption of a good portion of the suggestions, at least, or others similar in character. After referring to the failure to relieve the supreme court by the action of the appellate court, the governor says:

"The leading object of a court of last resort, should be first, to do justice, and secondly, to do it with the least possible delay, and the effect will doubtless be the adoption of a good portion of the suggestions, at least, or others similar in character. After referring to the failure to relieve the supreme court by the action of the appellate court, the governor says:

According to the twelfth annual report of the New York state board of charities, the whole number of recipients of public charity in the state last year was 43,712—this includes blind, idiotic, blind and dumb, and pauper. The report estimates the value of property held in the state for charitable purposes at $2,978,752; the receipts for charitable purposes from all sources last year were $7,408,723.

The Receipts Treasury of January 22d says, "In Hidalgo county, on the Rio Grande, the other day, twenty rancheros formed themselves into a vigilance committee and called on the persons charged with recently robbing the Coyote ranch of $600. They found one, tried, convicted and hung him. The others, getting wind of the matter, escaped to Mexico."

According to the St. Louis Post and Dispatch a cow has been discovered in the southwestern part of Missouri, greater in beauty and more extensive in size than the celebrated Mammoth cow of Kentucky. This assertion by the P. and D. will doubtless cause it to lose all its subscribers among the natives of "Old Kaintuck," but the Missourians should come to its rescue.

According to the state comptroller's report the amount of commissions paid county assessors by the state for 1917 ranged in the organized counties of the state from $100 in Somerset county, to $8,142.65 in Galveston county. The board county assessor received from the state $3,308.11.

The state committee on naval affairs, in effect, that if the prayers of twenty preachers will not save the officers, sailors and marines, they may go to the devil. It is said that these twenty preachers will have a strenuous job on their hands.

Mr. Weesebach Explains. The following letter from our representative in the legislature, Mr. Weesebach, explains itself:

Editor San Antonio Express: In your paper of the 1st inst. I see the proceedings, as published by you, in respect to myself and Mr. Hagan in the matter of annulling the latter. I explained that the committee on privileges and elections and by a majority vote, refused Mr. H. the right to serve, by the production of the ballots from Frenchie and Pecos counties, that some 25 votes had previously been given to him, which if counted for H., would have shown that he was elected by 14 votes over Mr. Hagan. The committee refusing the certificate of election to H. would have produced said ballots. This left nothing before me but the difference in the vote of 12 Frenchie county, which if counted, gave Mr. Hagan the election by 19. Mr. H. arguing that said votes were actually cast by him, and not counted, but as stated above Mr. H. counted the 25 votes not counted for him in Frenchie county would show him, which proved the committee decided Mr. H. had not shown sufficient diligence in producing, and therefore did not allow him time to introduce. In this regard I think the committee acted, and as stated on the proof before us, no other action could be had, and I believe if the proof from Frenchie and Pecos had been introduced the action of the committee would have been different.

Yours truly,
C. L. WEESBACH.

The receipts of gold at the Atlantic ports for the past three months are $25,071,419, which is more than 50 per cent greater than those of any previous year. The largest amount received for the year ending in 1917, was $15,321,011, and for the year ending in 1918, $25,071,419.

The total exports of paper of all kinds from Great Britain in the United States in eleven months ending November 30, 1918, were of the value of $11,132,421, against $10,000,000 in 1917, a very marked falling off. Of the total this year only $2,272 of writing paper, stationery and envelopes.

Between Mack and Durward the character of the Pan shanty changes. The low hills of shingles or conglomerate disappear, and their place is taken by lofty cliffs, which rise on either hand from the smooth floor of the valley to a height of many hundred feet. The valley has now become a narrow gorge, and nowhere could twenty men stand abreast. So sharply does the line stand in several places that you cannot see its course fifteen yards ahead, and the feeling is almost that of being at the bottom of an enormous well. Bushes and ever trees grow in the cracks and crevices of the cliffs, and in the spring, these walls of rock must be lovely indeed. Even now they are very grandly picturesque. The natives tell me that the only path by which the cattle can be turned is equally rugged and defensible. If this is so the Pan shanty among the very few impregnable passes of the world.

Further on soldiers were heading wagon whose bullocks had died. This history has had a terrible time since it entered the pass on the 13th inst., and is not yet out of a write. The bullocks were utterly broken down at the end of the third day's march, and those that remain will be useless for months to come. The deep slings have cut their hoofs to pieces, and has literally torn their feet off. It is pitiable to see them tottering along, and almost unable to support themselves when harnessed to drag the wagon. Two of the elephants have died on the road.

As I rode forward I overtook wagon after wagon belonging to the heavy battery 5 and 11 abandoned, with their bullocks lying dead or dying. Half-grown Wagon, No. 10, a 40-pounder stage gun, which two elephants and a hundred soldiers were dragging painfully, with halts at every ten yards distance.
