Mergan, of Alabama, continued his argument in haver of his own substitute.

The vice president had before the senate a communication from the secretary of war enclosing a letter from General Humphreys, chief of engineers, in regard to a plan of the national survey proposed by the sendemy of sciences. After a long review of the statements made by the superintendent of the coast survey, General Humphreys mys experience gives no reason for believing that the national survey can be exceeded at less cost than $45,000 for a rough topographical survey, based upon sistemental determination, or $62,000,000 for the same, on triantion, or $62,000,000 for the same, on trianaurvey, based upon astronomical determina-tion, or $62,000,000 for the same, on trian-gulation, and, $168,000,000 for thorough cadastral survey. By a statute of England, for an able bodied man to be caucht a third time begging, was held statute of England, for an able bodied man to be eaught a third time begging, was held to be a gime deserving death, and the sentence was intended on fit occasions to be executed. If a man out of employment preferred to be idle he might be demanded for work by any master of the caft to which he belonged, and compelled to work whether he would or no. If caught begging once, being neither aged nor infirm, he was whipped at the cart's tail. If caught a second time, his ears were slit, or, bored through with a hot iron. If caught a third time, being thereby proved to be of no use upon earth, but to live upon it only to his own hart and to that of others, he suffered death.
