AMERICAN GATTLE IN ENGLAND.
London, March 8.—The Times says the first consignment of cattle subject to the new regulations, arrived yesterday at Liverpool in the Warren line steamer Brazilian, which has been peculiarly successful in her transport of live stock. This is her second voyage from Boston during the winter, when the Atlantic is rough, without losing a single head of cattle. Yesterday the Brazilian landed 301 head at special lairage, licensed by the privy council at Birkenhead. Every animal was apparently sound and healthy and it is anticipated they will find a ready market in Leadon and Liverpool as dead meat within the tru days allowed for slaughter. If this expectation is realized, it is probable American shippers who are awaiting the Brazilian experiments will send a large number of beasts under the same condition. Where Does Dew Come From?

The general belief is that the soil obtain while the ice-pitcher is colder. Further investigations were made in the study of this question. A tin box, without top or bottom, was filled with soil and placed in growing grass; the next morning the grass was loaded with dew, but not a trace appeared on the box, and the temperature of the soil was 66 deg., and of the air 60 deg. This experiment was repeated many times with the same results. Then a loose tin cover was placed on the box; in the morning the top of the cover was dry, but the under side was "thickly studded with drops of water"—dew.

Seymore, who visited this place on the day before, with his pistols belted around him, remained in the neighborhood all night, returned in the neighborhood all night, returned in the morning, displayed his pistols and bantered the whole county to try to arrest him. Finally, when an attempt was made to arrest him, he mounted his pony, drew his pistols, and began firing indiscriminately at everybody he saw, which so exasperated the citizens that they gathered their guns and opened fire on him. The fight was kept up several minutes and culminated in Seymore receiving several severe wounds and being captured and placed under guard, where we think he will be kept until he pays the penalty of his indiscretion. He has light complexion, sandy hair and moustache, gray eyes, is five feet ten or eleven inches high, weighs about 170 pounds, and seems considerably lame in his left leg; and, by the by, he is quite a good-looking man.
