TWO MONATERS OF THE DEEP.

The Most Gigantic Devil Fishes Ever Captured in American Waters.

Toronto Globe.

Intelligence has just been received of the capture of two more of those gigantic cephalapods, or devil fish, for which Newfoundland of late years has become celebrated; and those are of such all the previous specimens of these monsters of the deep which have been taken. In 1873 I described in your columns the first perfect specimen of the giant cuttles ever obtained, and which it was my good fortune to secure. It was captured in sherring net in Logic bay, three miles from St. John's. The body was seven frost. In length and five and a half feet in circumference. The long arms or tentacles were twenty-four feet, the cight shorter six feet. Since 1873 several other specimens have been cast ashore, but all were destroyed by the fishermen, who, the previous specimens have been cast ashore, but all were destroyed by the fishermen, who course, did not know that they were of any importance, in September, 1873, a Bayerian other specimens have been cast ashore, but all were destroyed by the fishermen, who, and the placed his hand upon his forehead and bowed his head, after the manner of the liquid who desires the separate liquid with the section of the giant cuttles ever obtained, and which it was my good fortune to secure. It was captured in a herring net in Logic bay, three miles from St. John's. The body was seven freet in tength and five and a buff feet in circumference. The long arms or tentacles were twenty-four feet, the liquid the secure of the control Johns, where it was exhibited for several days, and then purchased for the New York aquarium, where it attracted thousands of visitors. It was afterwards exhibited in the leading cities of the United States, and realized a large sum of money for its proprietors. No doubt, as it is the only perfect specimen in existence, it will continue to stimule statement of the several several
