The Reasons tiven Therefor

Washington, May 29.—The president in his message, after stating the main purpose of the legislative bill, which he returns without his approval, says: This money is needed to keep in operation the essential functions of all the great departments of the government, legislature, greentive and sudicial. If the bill contained no other provisions no chiestion to its approval would be made. If embraces however a number of clauses relating to subjects of great general interest which are wholly unconnected with the appropriations which it provides for. As his objections to the practice of tacking general legislation to appropriation bills, especially, when the object is to deprive a co-ordinate branch of government of its right to a free exercise of house bill No. 1, which was reserved to the house of representatives on the twenty-night of last month, the president regrets that the objections which were then expressed to this method of legislation have not seemed to congress of sufficient weight

The veto message was received from the president and laid before the house and read. It was listened to with close, and for the time, almost respectful attention, only an audible titter went through the democratic ranks when the sentence was read as to the effect of the existing law being to secure honest elections. Again, when the sentence was read as to what good faith, honest endeavor and judicial authority can de for the protection of the elective franchise, the democrate laughed outright and the republicans, as a counter demonstration, applauded. Cox wanted to have the sentence read again, but his wish was not gratified. At the conclusion of the reading the republicans again

The house then proceeded to vote on the bill and refused to pass it over the president's veto: yeas 112, nays 91—a strict party vote. It was then referred to the judiciary committee.

On motion of Stephens the senate amendments to the subsidiary coinage bill were concurred in, when the house adjourned till Monday.

If this bill is approved only a shadow of authority of the United States at the national elections will be reduced to mere inspection without authority on the part of the super-nents from obtaining unfair advantages. The object of the bill is to destroy any control whatever by the United States over congressional elections. The passage of this bill has been urged upon the ground that the election of members of congress is a matter which concerns the states alone; that there are and can be no such elections as national elections, and that the existing laws of the United States regulating elections is without warrant in the constitution. He then quotes the constitution to show that the framers of that document regarded the then quotes the constitution to show that the framers of that document regarded the election of members of congress in every state as justly a matter of political interest and concern to the whole country, and refers to the law passed in 1866, which prescribed full and detailed regulations for the election of senators by the legislatures of the several states, and says this law has been in force almost twelve years. In pursuance of it all the members of the present senate of the United States hold their sents. Its constitutionality had not been called in question, and he confidently believed no sound argument can be made of the constitutional transportations.

If power to supervise in any respect whatever congressional elections oxists under section s, artisls 1 of the constitutions, it is a power which, like overy other power belonging to the government of the United States, is permissent and supreme, and includes the right to employ the necessary means to carry it into effect.

He concludes: This bill recognizes the authority and duty of the United States to appoint supervisors to guard and scrutinize congressional elections, but denice the government of the United States all power to make its supervisors of feetus. The great body of the people of all parties want free and fair elections. The constitutional authority to regulate congressional elections which belongs to the government of the United States, and which is measurer to exert to secure the right to vote to every dilicon possessing the requisite qualifications, ought to be enforced by appropriate legislation. So far from public option in any part of the country favoring any relaxation of authority of the government in the protection of elections from violence and corruption, I believe it demands greater vigor both in the enactment and in the execution of the laws formed for lint purpose. All this was put in at eight cents and a fraction per pound. If it could be sold now the profit on it would be about $35,000. This would make it worth white to close the mills, but for the throwing of the operatives out of employment. It is not a simple thing here, where new hands would be hard to obtain, to shut down work and let the operatives go; and on this account Mr. Richardson has not attempted to reduce wages during all the hard times. his very particular friend, and seems to think that hucky genius has the golden touch of Midas.

"Mr. Keene," observed Mr. Ward, at the Brevoort, on Tuesday evening, "has been very securate as well as fortunate in his forecast of events during the spring campaign, and if he is as fortunate and unerring in his judgment this summer, his profits will roll up into the millions. Mr. Keene buys to hold for a time and does not allow the fluctuations of the market to bother him. Some large operators have recently suggested to him that he could form a pool and make a curner in Erie preferred, of which, you know, there are only eight millions—seven or eight—but he promptly refused to enter into such conspiracy to squeeze the street."

"Has Mr. Keene much Erie at present, Mr. Ward?"

The report of the Eric road should be made monthly for publication, as you state in the Mail, and I publication, as you state in the Mail, and I have no doubt Mr. Keene will exert his influence to that end."

OFFICE OF THE DARLY & WHEREY EXPRESS,

OFFICE OF THE DAILY & WERKELY EXPANSES,
Thursday, May 29, 1873.

There is no change in business circles.
Trade continues lively and freights both in and out are large.
The wool market was quite animated to day and the prices realized show a rising tendency in this city. Receipts are liberal but are difficult to report, as the demand is so great that many clips are wold as soon as they appear on the plana. Among the receipts to-day we report the following. By Berg & Brother, 18 bags of the Parker and Rich clip. Also 30 bags of the A. Real clip and 13 bags of the Neuber clip. About a hundred other bags were received and the most part sold, while the remainder was well distributed over the city.

Among the sales to-day we report the following as showing the state of the market. By Mr. Sam. C, Bennett, 42 bags of the J. Baldwin clip at private terms, which are reported to be above our highest quotations. By Messrs. D. & A. Oppenheimer, 115 bags of the B. O. Stout clip of medium wool at 21 cts., 47 bags of the John J. Burke of Mexican wool at 12 cts., 9 bags of the Neeb at 21 cts., 45 bags of the John J. Burke of Mexican wool at 12 cts., 9 bags of the A. Real clip was sold at 24 cts. The same firm also report at 21 cts., 45 bags of the John J. Burke of Mexican wool at 12 cts., 9 bags of the A. Real clip was sold at 24 cts. The same firm also report the sale clip was sold at 24 cts. The same firm also report the sale of the R. L. Crouch clip at another. Same and 12 cts. The same firm also report the sale clip was sold at 24 cts. and 13 bags of the Newber clip at 25c. Besiden the above, 30 bags of the A. Beal clip was sold at 24 cts. The same firm also reports that 31 bags of the Wisconsin Wool Growing co.'s wool from Dove creek, near Conche, and also the clip of Judge D. M. Dorman, of Kickapoo springs, are now en route to this city, consigned to, him for sale, and will arrive in a few days.
