Watter Pleasant's Good-bye. Waiter Pleasant's Good-bye.

It was reported yesterday that Walter Pleasant, a journeyman carpenter, and subcontractor for the carpenter work on the Groos bank building, had skipped out, and up to the latest accounts the report was not denied. Saturday evening Pleasant failed to pay off his employees, as he had been accustomed to doing, stating that he had no money, but he had drawn money from Mr. Smye, the contractor for the construction of the building upon which Pleasants was em-ployed. Sunday, he took his turtle-dove out for a ride, and nothing wrong was noticed G. H. and S. A. R. W. Co, vs Hyatt limman.
