A private letter from from El Paso, dated plenty of Indiaus. The reds have all left the Stannton, Tularora, Ojo Gaiente and San Carlos agencies, and are now roaming over this country in large bands, some being two and three hundred strong. Ten days ago, they attacked a town sixty five miles above here and killed fourteen Mexicans and took possession of their corn fields. They remained about the ranches six or seven days, and feasted themselves and fed their borses all they wasted. Since then, a fruit train, ou its milurn from Selver dity, was overtaken sear Mason's ranch, and fourteen men accompanying it were killed and the enty of Indians. The reds have all men accompanying it were killed and the train robbed. Four miles beyond the localthey have also killed about twenty citizens of Las Cruces and Mesilla, and the people are out after them with acouting parties. are out after them with acouting parties.

Last evening they surprised the wood choppers' camp fore miles above our place, but the choppers fied and saved their lives.

Mr. Jorden thinks that a destroyle lost this full about full 200,000. sin autonio lost this fall alone fully 300,400 pounds of wool, which turned down to San Diego, because of the high water in the Nucces. But Mr. Jorden is of the opinion hat the establishment of a good ferry would be far better than to bridge the stream. It would not be half as expensive, would not be in danger of washing away and would not be in a longest. It would also answer he purpose best. He thinks that the old fort-Ewell road abound to followed, as it would reach the people at better advantage, and would therefore be most profitable to an Autonia. O'Grady was a native of Westport, Ireland, and after receiving a liberal education at 8t. Garlath's college came in his early marhood to America. After serving some years in the United States army, Mr. O'Gradymarried in 1856, the faithful companion who now mourns his loss, and in 1859 selected Boerne as his place of residence, where he continually resided until his death. Called frequently to positions of public trust Mr. O'Grady always discharged the duties devolving upon him with credit to himself and satisfaction to the public. Public spirited in an eminent degree, Mr. O'Grady ever manifested the deepest interest in the prosperity and development of Kendail county, and so long and so prominently was he connected and identified with the interests of Kendail county, that it almost seems as if in his departure a large portion of the country had been taken away from us. Difficult indeed will it be to supply the place in the social business circle made vacant by the death of

been taken away from us. Difficult indeed will it be to supply the place in the social business circle made vacant by the death of John O'Grady. Firm and decided in his opinions Mr. O'Grady was yet broad and liberal in his views. He showed himself to be the active friend of education and morality, and the sites upon which are erected the Catholic and Methodist churches of Boerne was giffer from his hands; and on the barely see of the found in the hands; and on the barely see of the found in the hands; and on the barely see of the found in the hands; and on the barely see of the found in the hands; and on the barely see of the found in the hands; and on the barely see of the found in the hands; and on the barely see of the found in the hands; and on the barely see of the found in the hands; and on the barely see of the found in the found i Catholic and Methodist churches of Boerne-were gifts from his hands; and on the banks of the Balcones stands a modest temple of learning on ground deeded by him. to the cause of education. These structures if not so durable as monuments of marble or brass will at least remain for years, to attest the will at least remain for years, to attest the liberality. progressiveness and catholicity of one who while on earth acted well his part, in all the various relations of life. Mr. O'Grady's heart "was open as the day to melting charity." No appeal to humanity passed unheeded by his ear, and scores upon scores who experienced his kind ministrations in their last libers would it.
