How the Glorious Fourth was Cele Amsteurs With Imtion Over the Killing of John Zoller

On the 13th of the present month one year ago, the Teutonia singing association of this city, under the leadership of Mr. Udo, Rhodius, began to prepare the popular derman opera, Czar and Zimmermann, for the stage. The task was a horoulean one, not only for Mr. Rhodius, for the anateurs of the singing association to undertake, Many of our German musicians were doubtful whether success could be attained, and not a few, for this reason, were disposed to throw cold water on the undertaking. That the opera could ditors San Antonio Expuess: The patriotism of '76 holds a large pla The patriotism of '76 holds a large-place in the hearts of western Texas people. Wonder if the fathers on the rugged hills of Valley Forge, over whose lines my eyes were so often east in childhood, ever-thought the history they were making would be an official to the fathers on the rugged hills of Valley Forge, over whose lines my eyes were so often east in childhood, ever-thought the history they were making would be an official to the fathers of the Rio Grander that men of all lands would gather here and form part of the matine being created through their sufferings, and that their memory taken an active part in celebrating independence day. On the fourth a large picnic was held on the beautiful grounds of A. F. Dignowity, Eeq., on Piedra Pinta, where men and women, boys, girls and babies had a most enjoyable time, and such a dinner as as Kinney county, ladies know how to prepare. Swings were put up for us little girls, and the way we did romp and gather here and to them I tender my sincerest expressions of condolence. On the morning of the tit, John had accompanied a young man going to San Antonio part of the way, and reduced about ap hour later. He remained in the upper portion of the town, spending the day in company with others. I did not see and the such a dinner as and others, took a drink and left again. Upon leaving me, he and his party were met by deputy sheriff E. S. Beacom, who was as kinney county, ladies know how to prepare. Swings were put up for us little girls, and the way we did romp and gather here and others, took a drink and left again. The prepare were met by deputy sheriff E. S. Beacom, who was a king a drunken and rather unruly man to all. Beacom ordered John to assist, which he readily did. After locking up their man, it appears John and Beacom became involved in a quarrel, John and second became involved in a quarrel, John saying. Beacom, you are a "—d coward for not helping me put this man in jail," at the same time advancing towards him and making a motion to strike. Upon this, Beac whether success could be attained, and not a few, for this reason, were disposed to throw cold water on the undertaking. That the opera could be memorized and given, after a fashion, no one doubted, but to present it in favorable contrast with the manner of its presentation in Europe, and by professionals, was writes the father of John Zoller, this city, as follows regarding the killing of his son by deputy sheriff Beacom:

Prompted by sincerest sympathy for you and yours, I took it upon myself to transmit you the painful news of John's death, and can well imagine the pain and sorrow my telegrams caused to the loved ones at home, and to them I tender my sincerest expression. was a sight to see and hear. We came home early, too tired for anything, went to bed and dreamed of boating, and fishing, and dranged of boating, and fishing, and singing, and playing all night long.

At Dolores also a pienic was held in a beautiful grove, attended by a number of people from Brackett, where also enjoyment reigned and cares were forgotten. At least, everybody tooked happy on their return. On the 5th a grand barboeue was held at Dr. Grant's ranch, on west Nueces, at which were gathered a large concourse. Speaking, sambling, eating and conversing were the order of the day. Several vehicles of Brackett people went out, and this morning have not all returned, so I have not received into the strength at the same time advancing towards him and making a motion to strike.
