The Boston Advertiser of last wednessay, says:

"There has been more inquiry for wool, and manufacturers are disposed to slightly increase their offers for fiecee. Staple is sought for, and dealers from other cities are desirous to make contracts for future delivery, but dealers are not willing to sell before the wool is opened." In fact, the general outlook is very favorable for those growers who have held their wools receiving higher prices. We do not mean by this that we think prices will advance beyond the figures that ruled during the first part of the season, but that higher prices will be obtained.
