Sohuaka, and thinks that when they arrive in England it will be necessary to hold an inquest in order to ascertain the cause of his death. In the event of such inquiry being held, he declares he will retireate the charges against the contractor who furnished supplies, and whom he accuses of the murder of the Franklin party. Cheyenne has been making these charges in lectures and addresses since the return of the Varoe expedition, but the papers here have usually left out the name of the contractor, fearing action for libel. His charges against the contractor are of the most startling character. It was not the arctic regions that sent Franklin's men to the next world, says Cheyenne. They were murdeted by a contractor who supplied the expedition, and the tins labelled beef and mutton contained nothing but offal. Some of the tins contained nothing but offal. I should be glad to have him to do so, for I could cetablish to bring action for libel. I should be glad to have him to do so, for I could cetablish the truth of what I say.

THE BEXAR DEMOCRACY.

TY CONVENTION.

th for Clerk, Cocke for Attorney

The democratic county convention for Bexar county assembled at 11 s. m. yesterday in Turner's hall, and was called to order by Maj. Joseph E. Dwyer, chairman of the democratic executive committee of Bexar.

The delegates were invited by the chairman to occupy front seats, and it may truly be said that a more intelligent and respectable looking body of men were never before assembled on any similar occasion in this county.

After order had been secured, the chairman explained the object of the meeting and invoked harmony. He trusted that good men would be presented by the convention for the various offices of the county, and that in the deliberations of the convention the spirit and principles of genuine Jeffersonian democracy would prevail. With good men, the democracy would have no trouble in sweeping the county with their ticket in November.

On motion made by Judge T. J. Devine, Major Dwyer was made temporary chair-man, and George W. Caldwell and E. P. Clandon, secretaries.

The chair invited members of the press to socoupy seats on the platform.

Upon motion of Judge Devine it was decided to appoint a committee of five on credentials and basis of representation, and a similar committee on permanent organization.

The chair appointed as the former committee, J. M. Exkford, Solomon Delgado, James McCann, A. I. Lockwood and J. A. Baker. As the latter committee, J. B. Mason, Louis Gembler, Jack Harris, Henry Pauly and Rafael Quintana.

Upon motion duly seconded and carried a recess of a half hour was taken to give the committee time to report.

Judge Simpson did not like the tacking ou to the tail of the report of the committee or basis of representation, the selection of county commissioners. He wanted good countcommissioners, and after having ballotted and wrangled, delegates would not take that interest in the selection of commissioners they should. Jedge Simpson moved that the nomination of commissioners be first considered.

The result on second ballot was as for lows: Cocke, 45 14-18; Bowman, 27 4-18 and a third ballot was ordered. Cocke, is will be observed, gained 1 11-18 of a vote. Third ballot: Cocke, 41 4-6; Bowman, 31 2-6. Great applause among the Bowman and the companies of the cocket.

Judge B. I. Boone presented the name of Hon. Felix G. Smith. Seconded by James M. Ecktord, who moved that the nomination be made by acclamation. Cries of "No! No!" and considerable confusion for a moment.

W. D. Parish presented the name of Geo.

James L. Trucheart, Jr; was chosen as assistant secretary.

Here Lee Tarleton, Esq., seconded the nomination of Judge Felix G. Smith, and paids high tribute to the character of Mr. Smith as a lawyer and a judge.

There being no further nominations, balleting was ordered.

First ballot, Smith, 36½; Edmonds, 4½; Robinson, 20½; Judson, 11½. No election. Joe Sheely was appointed assistant sergeant arrans and a 2nd ballot was ordered. Second ballot, Smith, 37; Edmonds, 2½; Judson, 11; Robinson, 22½. Still no choice. Third ballot, Felix Smith, 34½; Robinson, 24½; Edmunds. 2; Judson, 8. No election. After the third ballot, J. H. Mason arose and withdrew the name of Elias Edmonds. Fourth ballot, Smith, 34; Robinson, 31; Judson, 8.

Judge Devine thereupon moved to a ljours ntil 9 o'clock this morning. Leo Tarleton moved to adjourn until 8 p. Leo Tarleton moved to aspound and to put of last evening.

The chair proceeded to put the first motion amid a din of "nees," when James M. Eckford arose to a point of order. There was great confusion. Eckford's point of order was that Tarleton's substitute took pres
