rant on Hancock.

The reported interview with Gen. Grant, a which he gives what he calls the inside istory of General Hancock's celebrated ornistory of General Hancock's celebrated or-der No. 40, is probably a canard. We cannot imagine that General Grant would so splitfy himself as he is made to do. There is malice, envy and falsehood running through every line of the so called interview. If it is au-thentic, Grant belittles himself without in-juring General Hahccek. For the present we prefer to believe that he had nothing to do with it, but that it is a mere campaign fiction manufactured out of whole cloth.

same roeis with Mr. Collville and wife, they being people of limited means and cramped for room. The negro is about twenty years of age, but says he is only fifteen. Last night, after the family had retired for the night and gone to skeep, this negro breate arose from his bed and, approaching the bedside, began to take liberties with Mrs. Collville, and was only preveited from a determined purpose of accomplishing a heliish doed by Collville, who struck the negro a heavy blow with his fist. From what we can learn, the negro was permitted to continue work in the colton field to-day, and Mrs. Lou Collville, the assaulted woman, went to Mr. Gibes Harding, who resides not far from her place of abode, and reported the case to him. Harding hance disfully went over to where the negro was at work, carrying a loaded shot-gun, and, after striking the negro a heavy blow with the gun, secured the vicious brute with a rope, brought him to town and sware out a war-natt before Justice Dills. He was committed to juil to await his examination. The negro does not hesitate to make a voluntary confession of his helinous intentions.

The number of deaths in the first and fourth districts of this city have progressively deceased in a noticeable degree in both districts. It is a curious fact that the mortality in the first district—that in which the case of young Singer occurred—reached its greatest height in the mouth of May, when it was 152, which, taking the population, gives a death rate of 31,73 per 1000 inhabitants. The mortality in the same of visited last month rose to 110, giving a death rate of 18.59 for every 1000 inhabitants.

The fourth district during the past year was reached in the mouth of June. It was then 81. Since that time, as in the first district, the mortality has progressively decreased, and in the past mouth it was only 63.

Gonzalea, October 13.—The case of the state vs. Isah Walver, colored, for murder, was called in the district court yesterday. Both parties announced ready. The trial consumed the whole day, and at 7 p. m. the case was given to the juny. The juny, being out ten minutes, retu...ed a verdict of murder in the first degree and punishment at desit. In 1873 Isah, in a fit of jealousy, took a gun and deliberately shot his wife, killing her instantly, in the presence of three witnesses, and made his escapes. About three months ago he was captured at Palestine and brought back. The court appointed L. H. Plancke to defend him, who made an able defense, which world do honor to

ING ADDRESS.

Policy of His Administrations Its Purposes and Accomplish-ments.

Governor Oran M. Roberts, of Texas, familiarly known as the Old Alcalde, addressed a larce and intelligent assemblage of ladies and gentlemen at turners' hall, this city, last evening. At 7 o'clock, the central Hancock and English club formed in front of turners' hall, headed by a brass band, and bearing torches proceeded to the residence of Col. J. H. McLeary, whose guest the Governor has been during his stay here, and received and escorted him to the place of speaking. Upon entering the hall, his excellency was greeted with cheers and general applause, which was renewed as he stepped upon the stage. There occupied seats with him appon the platform Maj. Joseph E. Dwyer, Judge T. J. Devine, Commissioner Walsh. of the land-office, Ool. J. H. McLeary, N. O. Green, Col. John Walthall, Mayor James M. French, Col. J. T. Thornton, Sam Maverick, J. L. Trueheart, Edward Miles, Thomas Rodriguez, of Atascoso, Capt. Frazier, of Fort Stockton, and Messer. Carr, Tarleton and others.

This was demonracy, he said—the honoring of an humble publication and the said of the meeting of the meeting of the property has an anomoned a few days ago, said the present of the meeting of the meeting of the property would be designed to the demonracy filed, liberty would be designed to the development of the proposed to see the demonracy filed, liberty would be designed to the development of the proposed to the development of the proposed to the development of the proposed to the party's liberty in the same through the proposed to the development of the proposed to the party's liberty in the same through the proposed to the party's liberty in the proposed to the party's liberty in the same through the proposed to the party's libert the mutual interests of the people. The de moorary states of the people. The de moorary and the people of the peop ege in fact; of the penitentiaries, in their manify policy and it worked well in the administration of state affairs. When a government was run on credit, the people had to pay money to specialsors upon its credit. The governor proposed to remain at Anstin and attend to the business of the people. He had not written a line or spoken to any one requesting aid in securing his renomination. The people of Texas understood his democracy, and with one upheaval rose up in their precincts and instructed their delegates to go to Dallas and vote to get in the Old Alealde again. Speaking of General Hancock, the speaker said he was proud to be on a ticket with Hancock, the candidate for president. The democracy of this country were again going to try to secomplish something. If they failed this time, it would be through the influence of money, but they would keep on fighting. Hancock was not only a soldier but a tatassman—he had said. "let the civil be superior to the military power." He had said this at a time when it means to make a full and complete examination of the position, when he was jeopardizing his own position, but to raise up an opperased and deep mondent people.

Here the governor remarked that he had been requested to visit the southwestern towns, but had not the time to do so. Ha hoped he would be excused on this ground. The governor thereupon devoted considerable time to the principles, operations and results of his administration, as follows:

The central pillar that upholds the fabric of government in any country is a conjugate to the process of the carrying on the basis, with the government, by means of an equalized taxation, not burdensome on any of the care of the government of the state. In devising the solution of revising else will be brought to harmonize and congress to the support of a revenue annually, adequate to the support of a revenue annually, adequate

In its preservation and perpetuation, everything else will be brought to harmonize and cooperate with it. It consists in the collection of a revenue annually, adequate to the support of a revenue annually, adequate to the support of an efficient government, by means of an equalised taxation, not burdensome on any of the material interests of the country and an honest and economical disbursement of the revenue, so collected, without permitting extravagance, wate, speculations or fraud thereon. The very effort to preserve such a system of finance makes it necessary to examine into and closely scrutinize the operations of every part of the government, and thereby the information is necessarily obtained which is required to improve the solution and the property. It yields, as heretofore estimates the control of the government, and thereby the information in necessarily obtained which is required to improve the solution of the government in all of its uperations of the government in all of its uperations of the government, in a strong or the government, in a strong of the government, in harmonious co-operations of the property of the government, and the results which its to be the true philosophy of government, when the voice of the people called me to be your chief executive, i set about a thorough investigation of the affairs of your state government would have to be continually extended to the complish the results which they aimed as in their efforts to recalabilish good government in their efforts to recalabilish good government in their efforts to recalabilish good government in the state. I found that for thirty years, leaving out the period of the civil war and military government, the revenue collected by taxation, has reached the treasury annually, had never been sufficient to pay the annual expense of the government, and that from this fact there had read to the produ

STRONG EFFORT TO ACCOMPLISH THERE A STRONG EFFORT TO ACCOMPLISH THREE GLIECTS.
To bring the expenses of the government within the revenue collected, to slop borrowing money and increasing the bonded debt, and to bring the state warrants up to par aind prevent the loss of their discount to those cutilited to them, and thereby cease the running of the government any longer on a credit. By this measure we should make a starting point at once in the establishment of a solid basis for a good system of finance. This task was rendered the more difficult, and in a great measure experimental, from the fact that no person knew, or from the reports furnished from year to year of the receipts of Tevenne, and of the expenditures, would tell exactly, or approximately, what was the net revenue, the product of each former year, or the net expenses of each previous year. Therefore it was, as the result proved, impracticable to make correct estimates of the revenue and expenses of the embing two years then proved in efficiency as well as in economy, in all of the departments of the governments service. The more rigid the examination, the better, into the operations of the frontier protection and notice forces of the frontier protection and notice forces of the frontier protection and notice forces of the product of the continuous of the frontier protection and the first of the pending of the properties of the recapitage of the first of the pending in fact, of the pendinding of the recaptare of criminals on requestions of the innational continuous of the first of the captains of the first of the quarantine against epidemics, and of the executive offices at the capital of the state of the examination, it be found that more money has been spent than insual in any of them a corresponding improvement will be discovered. THE SCHOOL VEND, MIGHT HAVE EEEN INCREASED one million of dollars by selling lands in large quantities in conjunction with sales made by railroad companies owning the alternate sections. Over cleven millions of acres of lands have been reserved, one-half of the proceeds of which are to be applied to the payment of the public debt, a small portion of which has already been sold. One leading reason, not to mention others, why there must be a change of policy in the selling of our public lands is, that most of them are not go out on the broad plains and settle on a small place of land as he ould and did formerly, when there was plenty of timber and water, and therefore large portions of the country will have to be settled by colonies, backed by capital, or by ranches for stock. The immigration of good people should be invited and welcomed, by at least such statistical information being published and sent abroad as would show that we offer preemptions to settlers, and cheap lands for sale, adapted to almost every industry in the different sections of the state, that we have fine public schools with an immense endowment, for future improvement, a genial climate and agreat variety of rich and fertile soils with great an interest wealth, and such other fact out home in this country, if say, as I have often repeated published and such other fact out home in this country, will say, as I have often repeated published and such other fact out home immigration of good, honest people of any nationality of the white race to Texas, was faise and unfounded. He had done all that could be asked of him so far as a devotion of his time to the public service was concerned, and now it is a shame to drag that poor old man from his fireside to the arduous duties of the lerk's office. After a landation of the republican county nominees, but not a word of praise for either (arfield or Arthur, he concluded. Parson Grant was then introduced as the first colored speaker of the evening. He made what might be called a red hot republican speech, told stories and kept his audience in the best possible humor, but likewise falled to say a word in favor of Gardield or Arthur.
