Colores. Thompson, superintendent of the railway mail service, will ask congress to continue the appropriation for fast-mail service. Congress will doubtiess look into this matter carefully before another appropriation for the service. When the Morey letter was first published, we were given to understand the democratic managers had another and simipriation is made. Thus far during the current fiscal year the south has not had the duced if necessary. We do not believe a benefit of a dollar of the $550,000 appropriated last spring. The troubles in Iroland are again attract. ng much attention throughout the world, and Eugland seems to be thoroughly alarmed. A more deplorable state of affairs never existed in any country, if we except actual mines and postilences, and the government does not appear to us to be approached ing mar an early solution of the Irish problem. The Weekly Preeman and Irish Agriculturest, published in Dublin, is full of the most distressing accounts of the condition of the people. It advocates a solid combination of all the tenants against the landlords, and declares if the people will stand shoulder to shoulder they must suoered against all the power the government can bring to bear—that, in fact, the whole people cannot be evicted. The feeling of e intance seems to be becoming more in tensified each succeeding day, and the de-termination to hold the lands in spite of the landiords is growing stronger.

Mr. Sharman Orawford, a concrable and prominent Irish politician, has written a tter to the London Times which contain what may be called the pith of the Irish question:

"The English landford provides the raw roa terial, the land, and the fixed plant, beside building the fruces and drains. On the other hand, the frish landtord lets but the bare land the tenant drains, fences and builds; after doing all of which he is liable to extetion without com-pensation, unless he pays rack-rent on dawl made restable solety through his labor. When switch he has no prospect before him except that of a laborer. But a laborer in Ireland, even on such prosperty as that of the duke of Devenables, at Liemers, and which is well govemployers do not find rottages. This causes the fear of eviction to constantly haunt the trish tenant. He consequently loathes the landford, | u detests the government, and by every possible |

Friday Morning, October 29, 1880. Home Attractive.

From the N. Y. Times.

Mrs Higgintontom, as a first step, visited her husbatd's tavoite concert satoon under the protection of a disguise and a detective officer. When she had learned what were the attractions which most powerfully appealed to Mr. Higginbottom s mind, she proceeded to repreduce them as far as practicable in her own house. She find the parlor carpet taken up and the saire floor nicely sprinkled with beer and the stumps of igars. She removed the pictures from the wallr, and hung in their places cheap and gandy chromes representing impossible gaudy chromes representing impossible young wom n in undertrable costumes. Two young wom n in undesirable costumes. Two dirty wooden tables and a supply of wooden chairs from the kitchen completed the furniture of the room, and it began to assume a really attractive appearance.

Before the hour of her husband's return from his business, Mrs. Higginbettom hir d a man to play on an accordion and another to torture a violin, busides three professional dynakards of great indepense of a recovering a really attractive appearance.

Before the hour of her husband's return from his business, Mrs. Higginbottom bir dana to play on an accordion and another to torture a violin, busides three professional drunkards of great indecency of appearance and conduct, and a notorious burglar kindly furnished for the occasion by the point appearance captain of the precinct. There were in the kitchen two Irish gir's who were deadedly ugly, but who were clean, decent and modest girls. These two shy instructed in the art of Leving beer and spirits, and modest girls. The fiddler and the according player immediately struck up; the drunkards, at a sign from Mrs. Higginbottom, began to swear and wrangle, and the burglar sidded up to Mr. Higginbottom and invited him to take a drink. The two Irish girls brought hear Higginbottom and invited him to take a drink. The two Irish girls brought beer and spilled it on Mr. Higginbotton's table; they called him "dear" and saked him to "open a bottle of wine," and Mrs. Higginbottom, applogising for the fact that they were underliably deern girls, assured her busband that nevertheless she was confident that he had finally fearned how to make home attractive; that she hoped to spend in many jolly evenings with him, and would like a hot whiskey without any further delay.

Alaska letter in San Francisco Bulletin. As for the salmon, as seen this morning urging their way up the swift, brawling current—tens of thousands of them, side by side, with their backs out of water in shallow places—nothing that I could write may possibly give anything like a fair conception of the extravagance of their numbers. There is more salmon apparently, bulk for bulk, than water. In fording the stream the writhing multitude crowding against one another could not get out of one's way. One of our men wated out in the midst of them and amost himself by selzing them above the tail and zvinging them over his head. Thousands of them could thus bu taken by hand while they were making their way over As for the salmon, as seen this morning for any the gagainst one of one's way. One in the midst of them one of one's way. One in the midst of them one of the first of the firs

"Ichabod Smiley, do you think I'm a fool just because they're making game of you down to Smallbeer's grocery store? That balmoral stays there, rebel flab or no."
"Then Fil take it down myself," and he reached for the first clothes pin.
"See here, Ichabod. That flag, as you call it, rules this family. You rebel if you dare." And the neighbors who had gathered around the back yard fence were treated to the interesting tableaux of a mop handle and a white ping hat.

The Swiss "Good Night."

Among the lofty mountains and elevated valleys of Switzerland, the Alpine horn has snother use besides that of sounding the farmamed Ranz des Vaches, or Cow Song, and this is of a very soleran and impressive nature. When the sun has set in the valleys and the secure surveits of the mountains. and the snew summits of the montains gleam with golden light, the herdsman who dwells upon the highest babitable spot takes his horn and pronounces clearly and loudly hrough it, as through a sp aking trumpet, "Praise the Lord God!"

"Praise the Lord God!"

As soon as the sound is heard by the neighboring huntsmen they issue from their buts, take their Alpine horre, and repeat the same words. This frequently lasts about a quarter of an hour, and the call resounds from all the mountains and rocky elifest around. Silence at length settles over the seene. All the huntsmen kneel and pray with uncovered heads. Meantime it has become quite dark.

"Good night!" at last calls the highest herdsman through his horn. "Good night!"

Pecans are in-fair receipt and as high as six and a quarter cents per bound, or two deliars and severty-dive costs per bushel, was paid for the best. The prices to-night size from wagons, theners having a stock of pecans in store will not seil them at these figures.

The demand for country produce exceeds the sueply, and prices are very firm.

Grain is strong and in active demand at our quotations. The receipts to-day by wagons were very light. There is a demand here for three thousand bushels of cara for a contractor, bestdes a heavy local demand.

The market is bare of core fodder and there is considerable inquiry for the best article.

The receipts of freight by rail during the past thee days have amounted to sixty-seven earhoads and included thirty-one carloads of general merchandise, five of government freight, sixteen of lumber, one of oil, one of wagons, one of hacon, three of baled hay, one of three pipe, two of fides, two of coffee, two of machinery, four of coal and one of wood.

The out-freights by rail continue to be heavy and consist largely of wool and cotton.
