—Mr. David Donaldson, who is supplying the government post at san Antonio with hay, has introduced an innovation in the manner of stacking. He has erecised a frame and stacks with a Koyes grapple fork and anti-friction carrier. With this machine he elevates the hay from the wagon to a height of thirty-due feet and then earries it along the centre of the stack, dropping it any place at his pleasure. It carries up from Mo to 700 pounds at a lond, thus neloading a wagon in a very few minutes time. It is a labor saving machine which every hay man should hare, and can be seen in operation any pleasant day while Mr. D. is filling his contract.

Tun Globé-Democrat says a very sensible and apropos thing in the following: "The fank pas in Georgia in the matter of the electoral vote in that state is on a par with the general character of American legislation th which laws are drafted and passed, not only in the different states but in congress. The inexacters of phraseology in our revenue laws has cost the country millions of dollars merely for interpretation. Searedy a day passes that the government is not called upon for a lengthy legal opinion as to the meaning of a phrase which the use of good E-glish would have rendered plain enough And in nine cases out of ten the ambiguity is such that no two judges agree as to the original lutent. D. Quincy says there is not act and of parliament that might not be made. original lutent. Di Quiney says there is not an act of parliament that might not be made the basis of a suit in chancery, on a question involving merely the English of its construction. This is much more true of the United States now than it ever was in England. Our level are framed in hasts, to be construed or misconstrued at leisure, and in the misconstrued at leisure, and in the opposite side, or may hap by the misconstruction. the multitude of constructions and miscon-structions there is infinite confusion and now and then a case of Georgia chaos."

THE county commissioners have resolved to ask the legislature to relieve this county ar somewhat at a loss to understand how the legislature can lend us any aid, through the action of any special laws. The constitution emphatically declares that the stop tax, exclusive of the tax necessary to step tax, exclusive of the tax necessary to pay the public debt, shall not exceed fifty cents on the one hundred dollars, and that the county tax shall not exceed one-half the sacross ax, "except for the payment of dobts already incurred and for the erection of public buildings,"—"the debta already incurred, and for the erection of public buildings,"—"the debta already incurred, "it is claimed, meaning those existing at the adoption of the constitution. The log slature has no power to relieve the inhabitants of any county, city or town from the payment of taxistion, for state or county purposes, "andess in case of great public calamity," and our misfortune could scarcedly be classed as "a great public calamity," The county can leave warrants and trust to future increase in values its bring up the revenues as at the affords a revenue to mean them, but the peaclice must prove remained to the ecounty's credit and greatly increase the expenditures. The revenues can be increased in the county's credit and greatly increase the expenditures. The revenues can be increased as a second and the county's credit and greatly increase the expenditures. To repair it without express authority of the legislature would be a penal offense. When the legislature is in session the work cannot be done, and that body is not likely to care anything about it when it is not in session. It would not be a bad idea to rent Major P nn's big tent to hold the meetings of the legislature in until the new capitol is ready for occupancy.

Gov. Roberts, in denying that he was plotting for the U. S. senatorship, says offices come to him unsolicited. There will doubtles be a strong effort made to task him to go the callating of the passes of the legislature in until the new capitol is ready for occupancy.

Sunday Morning, December 12, 1880. Her Story.

Why am I here,
Alone in the night?
Oh, if poor weak words would tell you why;
If the tongue so hot and the lips so white
Could be angel-touched till they made reply;
If the heart that is crushed could speak; wrong,

ff the soul that is lost could tell its woe;

ff ife that is spent and death that is strong

could reveal it now, you too well would know

Do not shrisk from me now;
Ah, you once drew near,
nd you kissed and caressed me fondiy then;
on breathed your passionate yows in my ear
hen my heart was light as the elder d.wn,
hen I was as happy as birds in spring,
no my frame was as fair as an angel's crown,
was pure as the touch of a scraph's wing.

Tee, I once was pure,
As pure as the snow,
they as pure as the snow,
they as pure as the snow,
to end to the maidens fair;
c, outeast, forasken, fallen so low;
a dying the light without even a prayer,
at the light Formy love was blind;
the light Formy love was blind;
to wrong was my poor weak heart resigned;
to love in its awest idolatry.

This is why I'm here, You led me here, h your name in the world unstalned towith your name in the worday; a who have not even a tear; the trusting heart that you led astray; u, with the face and voice of a friend et of the woor with promises aweet, dging to cherish and love to the end, urning me now like the filth at your feet.

You did all this.

ou came like a serpent disquised with charms,
ad you gained my Edon of sinless bliss.

sen you craftly stilled my soul's alarms.

Il feared to more; my frust was so great,
d'thus you, with your wites, procured my fall;
althou is word, but, alas, too latewas lost, dood was lost, heaven and all.

You kneel to me now? Nay, kneel to your God, the God whose image you have dra ged down; tel to Christ who bought me with Calv'ry's blood. About the Christ and blood, And tell Him you stole one star from His crown. That you took from Heaven and gave to Hell, that you perjured your soul for plea so strong You might win from Him one who loved Him well.

Hush one harp, one voice in the angel song.

Ah, now you weep!

Will I forgive?
es, I can not in death deny you this,
or I know that now, as I once did live,
am dying for you—just one last kirs.
forgive you here—oh, If God can there!
my love san pardon this wrong of thine,
h, I wonder if one like me shall dare
ope Christ's love will save from a sin like mine

Dying at last—
But you are near.
Is all thave wished—more than I prayed.
Ill you thick of me sometimes—drop a test or the one who once loved too well, and strayed?
It mother calls? Oh how can I go those beautiful ones—go solied with sin—a outcast—forsaken—fallen—so—low—ercy—Lord—O—mother—may—1—conne—in?

Of our own Importation,

Celluloid Novelties,

Celluloid Novelties,

In the misty realms of fancy, In the vague, strange realms of fancy, Oft we wander till the mind seems free From every earthly care; Wander by its limpid streamlets, Where the trees cast shades fantastic, Choose some sp t of splyan beauty— Then we build our castles there.

Thus I wandered on a pathway
Where the early morning dew lay,
And the air was ful of music
From a thousand feathered throats;
Where there apread a sheet of water
Like a sea of moises silver,
While the swans disporting o'er it Seemed like many fairy boats. Just beyond, aimost surrounded by the trees that here abounded, was an even stretch of meadow. As from Nature's band it came; Here, then, would I rear my castly with ruggged form of "Bastl But a fair and roung cottage."

Soon it 'rose an exhalation From my own imagination, And I gazed with foy cestatic On the castle I had n ade; Windows where, in cages swinging, Mocking birds were sweetly singing, Doors made beauteous by the bload of the vines that o'er them strayed.

List! an organ's tones comes stealing Fairy like, while full of feeling Are the plaintive airs it utters. By a weal trained hand brought forth with a sweet voice, that is lending, Extra charms unto the music. That before seemed scarce of earth. Now it swells in notes of gladness, Now it sinks in wails of saduess That, though sad, have such a pathos We would not have them end. In my soul the music's ringing. Long ago I heard such singing As I passed the happy hours With her whom I called "My friend."

But dear friendship's chains are broken since the last farewell was spoken. And I isomehed upon life's ocean in the strife for wealth and fame; Oh, my castlet thou has left me-cruel fale, thou has bereft me-goes back into shadowy nothing, Into nothing, whence it came.

The Two Ages.

Folks were happy as days were long
In the old Arcadian times;
When life seemed only a dance and song
In the sweetest of all sweet climes.
Our world grows bigger, and, stage by singe,
As the pilliess years have ruled,
We've quite forgotten the Golden Age,
And come to the Age of Gold.

Time went by in a sheepish way
Upon Thessaly's plains of yore,
In the nineteenth century lambs at play
Mean mutton, and nothing more.
Our swaies at present are far too sage
To live as one lived of old;
So they coupe the crook of the Golden Age
With a hook in the Age of Gold. From Corydon's reed the mountains round Heard news of his latest fame; And Tityrus made the woods resound. With echoes of Daphne's name. They kindly left us a lasting gange Of their musical srt, we're told; And the Pandeau pipe of the Golden Age lighings mirth to the Age of Gold, Dwellers in huts and in marble halis— From shepherdess up to queen— Cared little for bonnets, and less for shaw And nothing for crincline. But now simplicity's not the rage, And it's funny to think how cold The dress they were in the Golden Age Would seem in the Age of Gold. Electric telegraphs, printing, gas,

Tobacco, balloons and steam,
Are little events that have come to pass
Since the days of the old regime;
And aptic of Lempriere's dazzling page,
I'd give—though it might seem bold—
A hundred years of the Golden Age
For a year of the Age of Gold.

In expeciancy of an immense increase of business consequent upon the completion of the International to this place. I was induced to purchase, when in New York, an immense and varied stock of goods in my line. But owing to the continued bad weather, I see that I am apt to be disappointed, and have resolved to offer my entire stock at cost, consisting of diamonds and watches, clocks, fine lewelry in the latest styles, in ladies sets, ear-rings, aleeve buttons and stude, rings, in cameo, onyx, amethysi, topaz, pearl, etc., the largest stock ever brought to this place. A fine stock of solid silver ware, of sterling quality; also finest English cutierly, in pocket and table knives, fine carving sets, in cases and without, at lower prices than ever offered to the public of San Anti-Marie and the control of the city, and which will be offered to dealers and the public at factory prices, with full trade discount of callers in this line, as I will sed is the same prices as they pay, freight added, whereby they will be enabled to obtain goods quicker, at the same time having a complete stock of fresh goods to select from.

If you want good flour regularly, buy

Guenther's Best.

This flour makes the best bread and the most delicious bleenits; everyone should convince him be to the feet. The flour can be had in nearly all grocery stores in San Antonio and surrounding towns. Try a 24 pound sack, it contains the same quality as a half barrel or barrel.

Leve and a half (2½) years ago Guenther's Lower Mill was replaced by a mill unit seconding to the newest system; since then constant improvements have been made, and now it is equal to the best in the United States. This mill, like most merchant mills, is built for the manufacture of a special brand, and this is

"Guenther's Best Flour."
