irresident's message, that this congress will open the country. A blizzard bas been blowing all day, and it is recreated. The actiliers shiver around the campaint, and present a pittable appearance. Attempts to make them feel that key have been done ited by the leaders of the movement seem to have no effect on them; but if this weather continues they cannot stand it in camp. They claim that it ey are receiving supplies from Friends of the movement throughout the country. An address was sent out to-stay by the colouists asking for assistance. If its now believed that dissatisfaction will soon manifest itself, and that the colony will break up in disgust.
