Late Friday night, seven year old David Blue, son of Jimmy Don and Diana Blue of Anson, died in a house fire that destroyed the Blue's home. Seriously burned in the accident, and currently in the Burn Center at Dallas is nine year old Jason Blue.

Receiving burn injuries is Jimmy Don Blue. A daughter, Jana, eight and Mrs. Blue escaped the fire.

A fund for the Blue family has been established at Muleshoe State Bank, to help defray some of their costs.

Mule Days Show Very Successful

A jubilant Jeff Smith reported "We made a little money this year," although he could not give figures until everything was tabulated and all the bills paid. Of course, he was talking about the annual Mule Days Festival, which was held last weekend.

He attributed the change from the previous two years to cutting back on some events that had proven to be very expensive, and better utilization of volunteer help.

This year, proceeds from the festival will go to West Texas Boys Ranch at San Angelo. In the past, proceeds went to Girlstown, U.S.A. at Whiteface. However, earlier this year, Girlstown was taken over by Cal Farley's Boys Ranch west of Amarillo.

The Boys Ranch officials said they were afraid if they participated in the Mule Day Festival, it would take funds away from their own Boys Ranch event held during the Labor Day weekend each year, so declined benefitting from the Mule Days Festival.

As Smith wanted to continue a tradition started some six years ago, that of helping in any

Farmers Ask Restrictions On 2-4-D

When Bailey County commissioners met Monday morning, they were quite surprised to see 32 concerned farmers show up to meet with them.

Bailey County Judge Gordon H. Green said the farmers asked the commissioner's court to impose restrictions in this county on the use of the herbicide, 2-4-D.

Judge Green explained that in the State of Texas, counties have the option of imposing restrictions on the use of certain herbicides.

He also said counties surrounding this county do have restrictions on the use of herbicides.

With numerous reports received about pesticide damage in Bailey County this year, an investigation was conducted.

Farmers, the Bailey County

Raft Race Film Shown For Rotary

Dick Chitwood, who was in charge of the program for the Muleshoe Rotary Club Tuesday at noon, took the Rotarians and guests along with him on "The Great Muleshoe Raft Race No. Two" at South Fork, Colo. in July.

Several Muleshoe residents took to three rafts on the Colorado River. Chitwood filmed the five hour raft ride, and showed a film that covered a portion of the race.

He said the film included local celebrities, non-celebrities and other people -- as they bounced, floated and spun down the river. They said it was fun?

President Tommy Gunstream, who incidentally, was noticeably present in the raft race film, said the Rotary Club needed a money-making project, to come up with $1,200 for the Polio Plus project.

Rotarian J. D. Cage presented a banner from the Tinomium Rotary Club in Maryland and Jeff Smith reported on the Mule Days Festival.

Smith said he wanted to thank everyone who helped with the Festival, and had a lot of praise for the Mule Rodeo and especially for the Mule Show that was added this year.

"Everything went real well," he commented, "except we

Some Local Areas Receive More Than Three Inches

Rain, and more rain, has been in the local weather picture during the past several days, with moisture recorded in five out of the last seven days.

According to the official weather reporting station in Muleshoe, some 2.59 has been recorded here during the past week.

Some areas have reported more rain, and some areas have reported 'just showers' in the local and area picture.

With the Mule Days Festival covered under a special insurance policy for Saturday, August 8, between the hours of 5-9 p.m., the rains did come, but it started around 11 p.m., just two hours too late to collect the $5,000 to benefit West Texas Boys Ranch at San Angelo.

Jeff Smith said the official rain gauge at his farm showed 1.1 inches of rain Saturday night -- too late, of course, to benefit Boys Ranch.

This has been a week of very 'spotty' rain for most of the area.

Birdwell Cattle Feeders at Coyote Lake in southwestern Bailey County reported two and a half inches of rain during this week.

Less rain was recorded at and around Lazbuddie, with Foster Fertilizer, located three miles east of Lazbuddie reporting 1.9 inches for the week.

In the southeastern corner of the county, Claunch Gin at Bula has recorded 2.8 inches during the week, with isolated locations north of Bula reported more rain.

Back into the western edge of the county, one mile west of FM1731 and just north of 1760, 3.6 was recorded on the Willis James farm. "We're boggy out here," said a family member.

Very light rain was recorded in the southwestern areas of the county, according to Maple Butane.

"We just received very light showers," said a spokeswoman, "but a few people have reported up to a half inch."

At Needmore, the Needmore Co-op Gin said they received .8 just one-half mile west of Needmore on Tuesday evening, and just got light sprinkles at the Gin.

More than two inches of rain has been recorded in that area during this week.

Voter Turnout Very Light; Tax Approved

A sparse 15 percent of registered voters took the time to go to the polls Saturday to cast a ballot 'For' or 'against' a proposed one-half cent county sales tax. There are 3800 registered voters in the county, and a total of 420 cast ballots. However, the proposal passed by a wide margin, 365-65.

Only one voting box in the county failed to carry the proposal by a big margin, in the City Hall Box, No. 7, the proposal failed, 14-18.

In absentee voting, it was 41-4 for the proposal; Voting Box 1, 86-14; Voting Box 2, 86-9; Voting Box 3, 21-2; Voting Box 4, 82-16; Voting Box 5, 21-1; Voting Box 6, 14-5; and Voting Box 7, 14-18.

The new tax goes into effect on January 1, 1988.

ELECTRICITY ON THE FARM
While old fashioned oil lamps are still used in about half the farm homes of this country, the General Federation of Women's Clubs finds, in a survey recently completed, that 28 in every 100 of the farms have electric service, 19 of these being served by electric light companies and the remainder generating their own power. Eighteen out of each 100 farmers wives have electric irons.

55,000 ACRES OF COTTON PLANTED IN BAILEY COUNTY
There are approximately 55,000 acres of Bailey County land planted to cotton this year, which is an increase of some 10 percent over the planted acreage of last year.

Most of the planted crop averages around three weeks later than normal, occasioned by it having to be replanted two and three times. However some of it is now coming to blossom.

Present prospects are for a record production. Recent weather conditions have been quite favorable to the crop development and a rapid growth has been obtained.

While the annual carryover of American cotton has been greatly reduced by governmental programs, it is possible that prices may not be so good as during the past two years should a record crop be grown over the cotton belt. It is further stated on good authority that the grower of short staple cotton will be penalized as never before on the markets. While the crop as a whole is said to be good over the entire cotton belt this year, boll weevils and other pests are working farther east, and it may be possible that the southwide production will be such that present price will be sustained.

More than 470,000 pounds of cucumbers have been shipped from Muleshoe in the past two weeks, with the average price being $2.84 per hundred weight.

This represents a gross income of almost $13.5 thousand to growers of the pickles in this area, and the crop is just now leveling off at its peak, growers say.

The cucumbers are being brought into a shed at the Gilbreath Elevator where they are graded and bagged for shipment to Garland.

The cucumbers are expected to maintain their price in production until frost, and at least to September.

TORNADO HITS SUDAN COMPRESS, MARS CITY

Lightening laced thunderstorms, accompanied by high winds, hail and rains lashed portions of the Panhandle-Plains Sunday night leaving a path of destruction across the state.

Sudan was hardest hit in the immediate area when a tornado struck Central Compress and completely demolished one large storage building filled with baled cotton and severely damaged another building of the same type. All other buildings on the compress yard were damaged from minor to major range.

The damage was estimated at $80,000.00 to the buildings and cotton contained in them was not damaged.

Winds were clocked at the compress at 100 miles per hour. Sheet iron from the demolished building was strewn for miles to the south. Some of it piled against box cars at the edge of the compress yard while other pieces could be found several yards away.

Around the square in down town Sudan, the age old elm trees were ribbled as if scores of persons had chopped them from top to bottom at random. Limbs covered the immediate grounds and were scattered around the streets.

Many other buildings, out buildings and fences were blown down or otherwise damaged. City wide damage is estimated to total more than $100,000.00.

4-H Club News

4-H is keyed to the development of individual boys and girls so that they may become productive, contributing citizens, points out Spencer Tanksley, county Extension agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. 4-H lays a broad and firm base for a lifetime of personal growth.

Further, the purpose of 4-H is to develop young people through the involvement of parents, other adults and volunteers who organize and conduct learning experiences in a community setting. The focus is on human interaction designed to develop skills, abilities and understandings in youth and adults as participating and influential members of their community. The central aim is for youth to acquire a set of skills for perceiving and responding to life's significant events, emphasized Tanksley.

Through 4-H, boys and girls discover an active method of turning their time into productive projects, identify with others their own age and other ages, acquire an interest and understanding of the private enterprise system, participate in meaningful and often physical work, and build strong family relationships.

4-H is effective because its educational services relate to youth's needs, Tanksley points out. Through informal, practical, learning-by-doing programs, 4-H helps boys and girls establish real-life goals and skills and become competent, productive citizens. The home, local club and community are the training grounds in which 4-H participants develop knowledge, skills and attitudes.

4-H is an ever-renewing movement, takes pride in its contributions to American society for more than 75 years. It is not easy for a youngster to develop a realistic sense of his own individuality and yet have awareness of his social role and responsibilities, says Tanksley.

Participation in the 4-H program is voluntary and open to all interested boys and girls regardless of race, color, creed, national origin or handicap, and who are between the ages of 9 (or in the third grade in school) and 19. More information on 4-H and how to join is available at the Bailey County Extension Office in Muleshoe. Everyone is asked to come by and visit, and enroll your children in a 4-H club.

Children And Vitamins

While you're out buying clothes, school supplies and lunch boxes to get your children started for the new school year, should you also be buying vitamins?

According to Dr. Alice Hunt, a nutritionist and Registered Dietitian, the answer is "probably not."

"Normal, healthy children who eat a varied and balanced diet will get an adequate amount of all the necessary nutrients their bodies need, so a vitamin-mineral supplement is unnecessary," says the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service specialist.

Hunt also advises considering the foods your children eat regularly. For example, if a child eats a bowl of fortified cereal every day, it may be similar to taking a vitamin, depending on the degree of fortification.

The labels on cereals and other fortified foods list the percentage of the recommended daily allowances (RDAs) of vitamins and minerals contained in a serving of the product. According to the specialist, a number of these products contain 100 percent of the daily requirements for adults.

"If your child has a consistently poor appetite or eats only a limited variety foods, a check-up by a physician is appropriate," says Hunt. "The doctor may suggest a vitamin-mineral supplement to improve overall nutritional health."

Because excessive amounts of some nutrients, such as vitamins A and D, can be toxic however, she advises against giving a child supplements without checking with a doctor.

"Giving children vitamins can easily lull parents into a false sense of security that the child's nutritional needs are being met," cautions Hunt. "But a supplement is not an adequate substitute for a good diet."

Grandparents Day; It All Started In West Virginia

By Terri Winefordner

Every National Grandparents Day, Marian McQuade pauses to remember the woman she calls her "Wonderful little grandmother."

"She looked just like Granny Clappett—the same size, dressed the same way, everything the same," the Oak Hill, West Virginia woman says. "I remember she worked all day doing the things everyone on farms had to do in those days: milking cows, feeding chickens, fixing breakfast, doing the washing by hand. Then she'd put on a clean apron, or turn her apron around, and we'd take a glass of jelly and go see somebody who was sick a couple of miles down the road. She always had time to do that."

"That's the main thing I remember about her."

It's memories such as these that have driven the 70-year-old mother of 15 to work with the elderly in nursing homes and to be a delegate to the White House Conference on Aging, besides serving on a wide variety of state foundations and commissions on the needs of the elderly.

Through her work in the field of aging, McQuade conceived the idea of setting aside a special day honoring people like her grandmother.

"I've worked in nursing homes for so long, and it seemed there was so much loneliness," McQuade says. "Grandparents Day (provides the opportunity for) such a wonderful reunion to keep families together and give youngsters a sense of curiosity about their roots."

McQuade's crusade to have a special day declared nationally in honor of grandparents began in 1973, when she wrote letters to the governors of all 50 states. At that time, she says, she still had four or five children at home and they did all the stuffing of envelopes.

Her husband, Joe, provided the money. "He never objected and doesn't yet," says McQuade.

Former West Virginia Governor Arch Moore declared a state Grandparents Day soon after receiving McQuade's letter, as did many other governors.

"Nearly every one of them sent a beautifully worded proclamation," recalls McQuade. "Even (then California governor) Ronald Reagan made a proclamation. He said he'd see that all aging groups in the state would celebrate Grandparents Day."

That same year, U.S. Senator Jennings Randolph of West Virginia introduced a bill in the Senate to establish a National Grandparents Day. The bill failed to pass the House, however.

The undaunted McQuade made repeated trips to Washington, D.C. and elsewhere to lobby in support of a National Grandparents Day. At the 1976 Republican National Convention in Kansas City, she appealed personally to President Gerald Ford, to whom she had written earlier.

Ford's reply, says McQuade, was, "Well, since you asked twice, I'll just have to do it."

But Ford was defeated by Jimmy Carter in the 1976 presidential election, so it was back to Congress for Marian McQuade. This time, she was joined in her efforts by Atlanta businessman Michael Goldgar.

By 1978, the pair had sold Congress on their idea. The lawmakers passed a bill, which was signed by President Carter, declaring the first Sunday after Labor Day as National Grandparents Day.

"When I started out, I was thinking about May," said McQuade, "I was thinking about May, springtime. But there are already so many holidays, in May, then weddings and graduations. Senator Randolph suggested September or the fall because there aren't so many holidays and it's still good weather."

But the true significance of celebrating Grandparents Day in the fall, McQuade believes, is that the people being honored are in the figurative autumns of their lives.

Even though Grandparents Day has been an official national day of commemoration for nine years, it has yet to achieve the prominence and traditional status of Mothers or Fathers Day. But thanks to the passionate conviction and persistence of people like Marian McQuade, there can be little doubt that recognition will activities:

•Don't make promises, but talk and wonder with the child about school. Read books about school and tell your own stories about the days when you went to school. Help the child understand about progress in learning. Some children are upset to find they can't read the very first day!

•Make a visit to your child's classroom and teacher. Some schools schedule these visits with parents in advance. Explore the playground and bathroom, try out the chairs and find the water fountains.

•Encourage your child to play with another child who will be in the kindergarten class, so he or she will have a friend there.

•Get a head start on schedule changes by adjusting bedtime and mealtime if that will be necessary once school begins. If new day-care arrangements for before or after kindergarten are necessary, start the day-care routine before school begins, so the child doesn't have to adjust to both at once.

•Help your child learn his or her whole name, address, telephone number and what to do if you are late arriving at home or school.

"The first day of kindergarten is also a time for parents to become involved in their child's schooling," maintains Welch. "Knowing and talking with teachers, joining parent-teacher organizations and doing volunteer work at school will help you be a part of this important aspect of your child's life."

Tasty, Nutritious Beef in Minutes

What kind of meals do today's families want? One example is an up-to-date and nutritious beef entree like Steak 'n' Vegetable Medley. It starts with a small, lean beef eye round roast. This meat cut has less calories than any other beef cut — 157 calories, per three-ounce serving. Steak 'n' Vegetable Medley can easily meet today's time restraints. The recipe takes just half an hour to prepare and another 8 to 11 minutes to cook. Use a food processor to make the tasks of chopping and shredding vegetables even quicker. Serve panbroiled steaks over a cooked vegetable mixture for a colorful and nutrient-packed meal.

ABOUT YOUR HOME

By April Rhodes

Now, before the seasonal rush, is prime time to have your annual heating-plant checkup. Wood-burning fireplace chimneys should also be cleared of excessive soot.

When buying fruits and vegetables, a good rule to follow is to buy medium sizes to avoid immature or overmature items.

If your yard hanging baskets have grown too large to bring indoors, start new plants now. Most plants will root in water or sand.

A reminder to parents of preschool children—there are only a few weeks left before school starts. Be sure they have a physical and required immunization shots.

POSITIVE THINGS ABOUT MULESHOE

Letters To The Editor

July 30, 1987

Dear Editor:
Even though both the regular and special sessions of the Texas Legislature are over--the fact that in certain parts of the state Texans are finding it increasingly difficult to get the medical care they need proves the medical liability crisis is not over.

In a recent informal survey, the Texas Medical Association found that some hospitals and physicians in 18 TMA county medical societies have limited obstetrical care because of the rising cost of professional liability premiums or fear of a lawsuit. In addition, some hospitals and physicians in 11 County medical societies totally have eliminated this service due to similar reasons.

Through the efforts of TMA and others, the legislature took the first step toward alleviating the crisis and establishing a more fair and stable tort liability system. Also in the regular session, the legislature imposes sanctions against frivolous suits and limited the liability exposure for physicians who contract with the Texas Department of Health or who provide volunteer work for non-profit corporations. Sadly, the net effect on the cost of medical liability insurance is likely to be minimal.

TMA also strongly supported and helped to pass legislation that strengthens the disciplinary hand of the Texas State Board of Medical Examiners. Mandatory reporting of substantive disciplinary actions and immunity from retaliatory lawsuits are just some of the measures enacted to deal effectively with negligent or incompetent physicians.

But the legislature failed to act on a proposed constitutional amendment to validate the medical liability limits originally enacted in 1977. In addition, we believe that the Texas Supreme Court would find ways to preempt the purpose of the amendment even if Texas voters approved it in November.

It is clear that the Texas Supreme Court--not the Texas Legislature--is writing our tort laws. While we recognized going into the 70th session of the legislature that the courts had been broadening and inventing theories of recovery, we believed that the legislature was the proper place to write and pass legislation. But when it comes to tort laws, this apparently is not the case.

Physicians want persons who are harmed to be fully compensated. Upholding the medical liability laws passed in 1977, which places a cap on liability awards, excluding the cost of medical care, does this. Under this law, persons still can be compensated for items which cannot be quantified, such as pain and suffering. But a reasonable limit would apply so that the legal system, which is designed to redress wrongs, can continue to serve Texans that need it. The Texas Supreme Court's stematic overturning of most of the 1977 liability laws threatens this system-- and the health care system Texans have come to enjoy and expect.

Texas physicians will do their best to continue to care for their patients despite a legal system that has made it increasingly difficult to predict and therefore stabilize liability insurance premiums. TMA will continue to work for a fair and stable system that allows access to both the courts and to a quality health care system.

Sincerely,
David Vanderpool, MD
President

Dear Editor:
We would like to take this means of expressing our appreciation to the police department, the managers and owners of the Heritage House Motel, and the citizens of Muleshoe for the assistance given to us on August 1, 1987. We were stranded with no means of transportation, in front of the Town and Country Exxon station in downtown Muleshoe at 1:30 A.M. on August 1. Two local young ladies, with the aide of the local police on duty, Gary Maddox and Jimmy Mills, saw to it that we had transportation to the Heritage House where we spent the night and offered to come back the next day to take us to the bus station if necessary. The owner of the Motel went one step further, offering to take us to Lubbock if need be.

We want the people of Muleshoe and the surrounding area to know that they are blessed with having such fine, caring people as their public servants, friends, and neighbors. We will always have a soft spot for Muleshoe and recommend it as a place to stop because of the concern and fine treatment we received while stranded there. Our hats are off to the fine "Good Samaritans" of your community.

$50,000 Awards
Will Be Given At Amarillo Fair

When you think of a fair, the first thoughts that come to mind are the carnival midway, cotton candy, candied apples and special stage shows and attractions. The fair is composed of all these ingredients, but probably the more important aspects of a fair involve the events where people match their individual skills, goods and animals against each other for prizes, ribbons and other special awards. The 1987 Amarillo Tri State Fair, scheduled for September 21-26, will offer over $50,000 in awards to winners in the competitive judging events. In addition to the traditional livestock judging, there will be competition between hundreds of people in the areas of art, literary, aquarium, photography, ceramics, 4-H baked goods, vegetables, canned goods, breads, cakes, cookies and pies. Also knitting, sewing, embroidery, quilts, rugs and novelty handicrafts. All of the items will be judged before the opening of the fair and will be on display throughout the week for viewing by fair-goers.

Your Life

We are idealistic enough to feel the human race is on earth for some purpose. And, likewise, we believe every citizen has an obligation to contribute something as he travels the road of life.

In some towns, large towns and rural areas, there are many who spend all their time seeking pleasure, self-indulgence and entertainment. Too often money and a good time are the only goals.

Open Sheep
Show Included
In Annual Fair

Premiums totaling $5,796 are being offered in the Open Sheep Show, one of several livestock judging events scheduled during the 70th annual Panhandle-South Plains Fair here Sept. 26-Oct. 3.

General Manager Steve L. Lewis said Gil Engdahl of San Angelo would judge the event and all entries must be received by September 7. A non-returnable entry fee of $3 will be charged for each head.

Thomas C. Gaither and Gary Pattereson will serve as superintendent.

Divisions of competition include Rambouillets, Dorsets, Suffolks, Hampshires, South-downs and all other breeds. Judging will be held on Oct. 2 and premiums will range from $5 for eighth place to $20 for first place in most classes.

The base date for computing ages will be September 1. Yearlings must be born before Sept. 1, 1986; senior lambs between Sept. 1-Dec. 31, 1986 and Junior lambs must have been born after Jan. 1, 1987.

Seven shows have been booked for Fair Park Coliseum during the 1987 exposition.

The lineup includes George Jones, Sept. 26; Dwight Yoakum, Sept. 28; Marie Osmond, Sept. 29; Sawyer Brown, Sept. 30 and The Judds on Oct. 1, all of which will perform only in 7 p.m. shows. Randy Travis is scheduled for 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. shows on Oct. 2 and Reba McEntire will be seen in 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. shows on closing day.

Tickets are $10 each for all shows and all seats are reserved. Tickets may be purchased at the fair office or by writing Show Tickets, P.O. Box 208, Lubbock, Texas 79408. ## 4-H -- An Investment In Our Youth's Future

Today's 4-H program is for all youth--rural and urban--from all racial, economic and social backgrounds.

4-H reaches girls and boys in a variety of ways as members of organized 4-H clubs, as participants in special interest groups, as enrollees in short-term projects, points out Spencer Tanksley, county 4-H program leader with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. It reaches them through television, workshops and other educational methods, and programs are planned to meet specific needs of youth in communities where they live. Girls and boys "learn by doing" in 4-H.

4-H involves young people everywhere--in big cities and little towns, in the country and in the suburbs. Activities are typically conducted in the homes of members or their leaders, in schools or in other community buildings.

Youth organizations in more than 80 countries around the world have adapted the 4-H idea. Opportunities for individual, club, community, state, national and international projects and activities are available through 4-H, Tanksley points out.

Today's 4-H gives young people an opportunity to take an active part in learning about and solving problems that face them and their communities. These include problems of environment, health and the use of drugs. Members participate in projects that give them knowledge of science, agriculture, home economics, personal development, community service, leadership and citizenship. Often this knowledge helps open the door to a future career. But the main purpose of 4-H is to help youth become effective citizens, emphasizes Tanksley.

OVERALL WINNER OF PARADE--This impressive float, designed and put together by the Muleshoe Girl Scouts, was the Overall winner of the annual Mule Days Festival last weekend. With the 10 a.m. parade, more than 40 entries made their way down Main Street, with a good crowd on hand to watch. On the float are several members of the Muleshoe Girl Scouts, who are very proud of the float they made for the parade.

Among 4-H projects popular with youth are food-nutrition, clothing, home improvement, home grounds beautification, health, safety and leadership. New projects range from aerospace to theatrics and karate.

In rural areas, many 4-H members work with livestock, crops, poultry, forestry, marketing and farm machinery. Both girls and boys learn new farming methods, do experimental research, and have fun in the process, adds Tanksley.

Popular with city, suburban and rural young people alike are projects in community development, electricity, environmental protection and conservation, home gardening, photography, public speaking, woodworking, entomology, small engines, grooming and personal development. Older girls and boys find satisfaction and challenge in projects in automotive care and safety, career studies, money management, consumer education and leadership.

Flexibility is the key to today's 4-H projects--flexibility in the kinds of learning offered and in the variety and size of projects. For instance, one of the fastest growing is a horse project for youth who don't own horses!

In 4-H, it's kids that count! And that's an investment in the future, says Tanksley.

KNOW THE WEATHER

Does the air and our elevation from sea level affect our health?

The atmosphere (or air) we live in definitely affects our health and the key to the correlation is the oxygen content in the air. Normally, oxygen makes up about 21 percent of the gas in the atmosphere.

However, when people drive into the mountains (as many of us have in recent weeks) and ascend to a higher altitude, the oxygen pressure decreases (oxygen content remains the same in the atmosphere at all altitudes). The same thing happens--pressure decreases as the weight of the air becomes less--when flying in private planes.

Many people can be affected by this drop in oxygen pressure. Those with heart disease, who are anemic, diabetics, those with pulmonary complications and many others should avoid high-altitude travel by either car, plane or bus--unless supplementary oxygen pressure is provided.

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sandy Acres reports on photographic memory this week.

Dear Editor: Final reflections on the Iran-Contra hearings:

One of the things they revealed was the wide variety of ways witnesses could come up with for saying they couldn't remember.

Some of them: I can't remember. I don't remember. I don't recall. I have no memory of it. My mind didn't register any such thing. And (my favorite) I don't think I can remember that.

There's a phrase, little used today, that might have covered everything, from "I don't honestly recall that" to what

Funeral services for Jake Adringa, 71, will be held at 11 a.m. today, Thursday, Aug. 12 in Ellis Funeral Home Chapel of the Chimes with Pastor Mack Bearss, pastor of the St. John Lutheran Church of Lariat, officiating.

Burial will be in Bailey County Memorial Park under the direction of Ellis Funeral Home. Justice of the Peace Todd W. Ellis pronounced him dead of natural causes at 9:55 a.m. Sunday at his residence.

Born Jan. 15, 1916, in Sanborn, Iowa, he moved to Muleshoe 20 years ago from Phoenix, Ariz. He married Wookeena Fritts on Nov. 9 1968, in Las Vegas, Nevada. He was a dairyman and a member of the Christian Reform Church.

Survivors include his wife, Tena; three daughters, Mrs. Trudy Holloway of Phoenix, Arizona, Mrs. April Giddens of Plainfield, Georgia, and Mrs. Laura Kennemer of Muleshoe; five sons, Jack Adringa and James Adringa, both of Sanborn, Iowa, Kenneth Adringa of Phoenix, Arizona, Lawrence was never heard but frequently suspected: "I don't honestly recall that."

The phrase is "disremember." When asked about something that happened right under your nose and would be a little incriminating, you answer "I disremember that."

One of the outstanding "disremember-ers" was the witness with the photographic memory. With his steel-trap mind that forgets nothing and makes a mental photograph of everything he reads or hears, he finished college at the head of his class and rose rapidly in the military. That would be Admiral Poindexter.

He was at the center of the scheme to sell arms to the Iranian terrorists, the diversion of profits to the Contras, etc., but when he got on the witness stand his photographic memory seemed to fail him completely. He couldn't remember half the crucial that happened right in his own office.

Committee members were baffled. They couldn't understand what happened to his photographic memory.

I think the answer is simple. He must have gotten hold of some bad film.

Your faithfully, J.A.

Phoenix, Arizona, Lawrence Holfield of Camp La June, North Carolina, and Steve Holfield of Crestline, California; his mother, Mrs. Maggie Adringa of Sanborn, Iowa; a sister, Mrs. Jeanette Boone of Sanborn, Iowa; three brothers, Pete Adringa of Phoenix, Arizona, and Fred Adringa and Charles Adringa, both of Sanborn, Iowa; and 17 grandchildren.
