Cotton Plan For 1935 Is Explained At Meeting Wed.

Two Government Agents Tell of Economic Phase of Reduction Program and How It Works; Certificates Received.

A special meeting was held in Carlsbad yesterday at which time O. M. Clark, representative of the cotton section at Washington, explained the economic phase of cotton reduction program. W. B. Camp explained the operation of the present reduction program, and possible changes in the 1935 program. The cotton producers in Eddy county express themselves as being much in favor of the continuation of the reduction program for 1935.

The state allotment of exemption certificates for 1933 contracts were received Friday, October 26th, and were distributed to the farmers by Tuesday, October 30th. Information was received from the state board that all exemption certificates for cotton adjustments on 1934 contracts would be sent out by the first of November. These will be immediately distributed to the farmers who have been granted certificates. The agent wishes to call attention to the fact that all farmers who desire to place their tax exemption certificates in the government pool should do so before November 10th, as no tickets will be accepted after that date. Tickets placed in the government pool will be sold out on a percentage basis and all producers will receive their percentage of the sold tickets. The unsold tickets will be returned to the producers and can be used next year if the Bankhead bill is in effect.

The secretary of agriculture has announced that the reduction program will be effective for 1935, and as soon as possible the details of the program will be announced. There will be no voting on the cotton reduction program as on some of the other programs, however, there will be a vote taken on the Bankhead bill sometime later. The Bankhead bill is under the administration of the president and congress.

HALLOWEEN PRANKS FEW

The usual Halloween pranks were conspicuously absent last night, due to the vigilance of the officers. No damage of any consequence was done. A part of a fence was torn down and dragged away and this was the only property damage reported.

ONE WELL PLUGGED

One well has been plugged in the city of Roswell under an FERA program. One hundred and fifty-nine other wells are scheduled to be plugged before the program closes.

CONDITION OF BANK SHOWS BUSINESS IS GREATLY IMPROVED

General business conditions here have improved more than thirty-three and a third percent over the corresponding period of last year, if the financial condition of the First National Bank may be accepted as an index. A financial statement of the condition of the First National, on the last call October 17, 1934, shows the deposits of this institution to be $643,569.88, an increase of $223,767.82 over a similar call of last year made on October 25, 1933. The deposits, of course, vary from day to day, but since October 17th, the deposits have increased approximately $30,000.

The amount of loans as of October 17th, listed as $213,958.94 as compared with $240,681.37 at the corresponding period of last year, or a reduction in the loans of $26,722.43.

TUESDAYS ELECTION EXPECTED TO DRAW UNUSUAL INTEREST

Big Vote Seen in Eddy As Campaign Nears Its End; Democrats Claim Usual Margin of Votes in the County.

Unusual interest is attached to the general election Tuesday, inasmuch as the present political campaign has been an unusual one. Party lines have been broken in many instances and as result forecasts say that the "split tickets" in normal democratic and republican counties will be more numerous than in other elections. Democratic party leaders of Eddy county are predicting a margin of victory in about the same percentage as was returned in 1932. Republican leaders base their strongest hope on the election of Sen. Cutting, the ticket leader. Betting odds on such bets as have been made are about even on the election of Cutting. No bets have been offered that the entire republican ticket will be elected.

Eddy county is expected to poll near its registration strength Tuesday. Total registration this year was about 7,300. This precinct fell down on its registration this year as compared with 1932, but will come nearer polling its strength than the south end of the county.

Both parties will wind up the campaign in the northern part of the state. Both parties are likewise working strenuously for the Albuquerque vote.

COTTON GRADES MIDDLING

The majority of cotton classed this week from the irrigated southwest was strict middling and better in grade. The proportion classed 1-1/16 inches and longer in staple length increased in California and Texas, District 1. Arizona and New Mexico showed a decrease.

NEW MEXICO: Practically all cotton classed this week and to date has been strict middling and better, good middling and better accounting for 74 percent to date. This week 78 percent was classed as 1-1/16 inches and longer in staple length, an increase being reported in lengths of 1 inch and 1-1/32 inches and longer, and 34 percent 1-1/8 inches and longer.

M. E. CONFERENCE OPENED YESTERDAY FOR 4-DAY MEETING

Over a hundred delegates to the annual New Mexico conference session of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, gathered at Las Cruces yesterday for a four-day meeting with Bishop Hiram A. Boaz of Fort Worth, presiding.

Registration figures yesterday morning revealed 88 pastors and 40 lay delegates representing a membership of 20,034 persons in 101 churches in New Mexico, West Texas and Colorado.

The first session opened last night and the conference will close November 4th.

PIONEER RESIDENT DEAD

Mrs. Thomas F. Blackmore of Clovis, a former resident of Artesia, died Tuesday night at her home in Clovis, after a brief illness, it was learned here yesterday. Mrs. Blackmore, as Miss Edith Ole, was the first school teacher in Eddy, now Carlsbad. The Blackmore family lived here for several years, where Mr. Blackmore operated a real estate agency. The family occupied the residence now owned by Ray Bartlett on Main street. The only relatives of Mrs. Blackmore are a niece and nephew in New Jersey.

BURGESS INFANT BURIED HERE ON WEDNESDAY

Funeral services were conducted here yesterday for the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Burgess of the Cottonwood with the Rev. F. C. Rowland officiating. The baby, born at the St. Francis hospital in Carlsbad on Tuesday, lived only a few hours. Mrs. Burgess is going nicely.

New Pay Hit In Baish No. 4

The Maljamar Oil and Gas Corp., has apparently opened a new production horizon in its Baish No. 4, in the NE sec. 21-17-32, western Lea county. From a depth of 2330 feet, the Baish No. 4, made eight or ten heads yesterday in a few hours, flowing through a twelve inch casing at a depth of 2330 feet. While company officials declined to estimate the output after yesterday's performance, the production had previously been estimated at seventy barrels per day with 1,000,000 feet of gas. This well is a quarter of a mile south of the discovery well or the Baish No. 1, which has been producing several years from the 4100 foot level. Tests drilled after the discovery well failed to develop anything but a showing around the new sand found at 2330 feet.

Company officials now believe the Baish No. 1 was on the south edge of the new pay and arrangements are under way to give the district to the south and east a more thorough test. Plans have been made to start the Baish No. 5, a quarter of a mile south of the No. 4. Workmen are running ten-inch casing in the No. 4 well.

With the greatest number of oil tests pounding away for the pay dirt in the southeastern oil area since 1929, the prospects of conducting exploration campaigns into many unproven districts before the close of the year are very bright. Six new locations were staked the past week, principally in southeastern Lea county.

SCHOOLS TO STUDY PARIS PEACE PACT

High schools from all sections of New Mexico joined the National Student Forum last year, according to Irvin P. Murphy, state chairman, a former resident of Hope, in a study of the Paris Pact under the capable direction of former State Chairman Vernon O. Tolle, executive secretary, New Mexico Educational Association.

Others have indicated their intention already of participating in the forum work during this year for the benefit it will be in creating international good will by a practical study of the Paris Pact by high school students on "International Relations" with Watkins' "The Paris Pact" as the basic text.

Educators evidence a belief in the idea that to make the settlement of international difficulties effective through pacific means there must be developed an intelligent and active supporting public opinion, which may result from a study in high schools of the Paris Pact. For several years the National Education Association has recommended that the pact be taught in our high schools.

The National Student Forum is ready to help any high school by providing materials sufficient for starting the work in connection with a history or other social science class. The prospectus will be forwarded to any school officer or teacher interested in its program, which can be developed easily any time before the end of the school year.

Informational material has been forwarded every accredited high school in the state; these schools are expected to report during the next week to the National Student Forum on the Paris Pact, 532 Seventeenth St., N. W., Washington, D. C., or to Irvin P. Murphy, state chairman, Grenville, New Mexico.

ELECTION PARTY

On next Tuesday evening The Advocate will follow the usual custom of holding an election party. Arrangements are under way to get the returns from each precinct in the county as rapidly as they are completed and in addition a radio will be installed to get what state returns are available as well as election news from other states. The Advocate also hopes to keep in touch with the county chairmen of both parties to facilitate the gathering of state election results.

The returns are expected to begin coming in between 7:30 and 8:00 p. m. Election officials of north Eddy county are requested to get in touch with this office just as soon as the vote may be counted in your precinct.

REHABILITATION IN THE RURAL AREA IS TO BE STARTED SOON

Fred C. Huckleberry, who has established office quarters with the FERA office at Carlsbad, was here Tuesday arranging preliminaries toward starting the inauguration of the Eddy county rural rehabilitation plan, to be operated under the social service set-up.

Mr. Huckleberry anticipates that it will be several weeks before his department will start functioning properly. The chief function of this work is to rehabilitate needy people of both the town and rural districts by either moving them to another section of the county or placing them on a farm, truck patch or in a place where they can earn a living. It is possible that an extensive survey may be made of both the Artesia and Hope districts. Mr. Huckleberry's office will aid in placing both the needy farmer and the laborer in a position where they may be self-sustaining. In cases where farms are heavily incumbered, the land will either be bought under the sub-marginal plan or the farmer assisted in getting back on his feet, financially, through working capital supplies, made possible by federal loans. A state corporation is expected to be formed to finance and work out the details of the rehabilitation plan, which is to be inaugurated shortly.

THREE DISTINGUISHED MEN ARE HERE TODAY

Voters of north Eddy county will have the privilege of hearing three noted men speak before the close of the political campaign. Today (Thursday) at 3:00 o'clock, Senator B. M. Cutting, with W. A. Sutherland, Las Cruces attorney, will be here for a thirty-minute address, coming by plane from Santa Fe. After the address here they will go to Carlsbad for an evening engagement.

This evening (Thursday), beginning at 8:00 o'clock, at the Legion hut, Clark W. Thompson, Texas state representative, will address the public in the interest of the democratic party.

Saturday, November 3rd, at 3:00 o'clock at the Legion hut, Senator Morris Sheppard, one of the best known members of the United States Senate, and one of the ablest statesmen of the south, will address the voters in the interest of the democratic ticket. Senator Sheppard is widely known, both for his fraternal and political activity, and will have an interesting message for the citizenship.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ridge of Houston, Texas, were here on business the first part of this week. They were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith while in the city.

2,200 CATTLE BOUGHT UNDER THE DROUGHT PALN LAST 2 WEEKS

Last Allotment is to Be Expended by First of Week; Most Cattle Go to California; No Dairy Cattle Killed.

The last allotment for cattle purchasing will be expended by the first of next week. Approximately 2,200 head of cattle have been bought during the last two weeks. Most of these cattle have been shipped to California for immediate slaughter and no dairy cattle are being shipped. Only dairy cows that are poor or diseased are taken, and these are condemned and slaughtered. Mostly the old cull cows and bulls are being purchased. A special request was made by the government to purchase cattle on forest ranges as there producers are forced to remove their cattle. Approximately 300 head of cattle were purchased and removed. It is expected that the cattle purchasing program will be completed by November 8th, and all ranchmen having cull cows to sell should contact W. A. Wunsch at once so arrangements can be made to handle these cattle. An inspection trip will be made in the Hope area on November 5th.

All cattle feeders are advised to vaccinate their calves against black leg and hemorrhagic septicaemia. A few cases of losses have been reported. Due to the poor conditions of the animals on the ranches they are very susceptible to disease when transferring to feed lots. Sheep men and lamb feeders are urged to give their lambs worm treatment with using tetra chlorine ethyl capsules, or the nicotine and copperas solution treatment. The agent will be glad to give any assistance or information in regard to this method.

The sheep and goat buying program is nearing completion. A total of 14,500 sheep have been purchased and 2,000 head of goats. A total of approximately $21,000 has been received by the sheep raisers in Eddy county to date of October 30th. Remittances have been made approximately eight days after vouchers have been signed. Vouchers cannot be sent in until the producer secures a receipt for his pelts delivered to the receiving agent.

Checks totaling $10,532 were received by County Agent W. A. Wunsch Saturday for sheep men in the county who have sold sheep to the government under the drought relief program. An earlier payment received in the county brought the total receipts under the sheep reduction program to $19,126.

At the start, goats as well as sheep were purchased but because of a recent order this has been stopped.

FIRST FREEZE IN HILLS

Tom Runyan, Lower Pecos rancher, reported Friday that his section received its first freeze last Thursday morning. There was no frost, but the freezing weather killed the tomato vines and other tender vegetation. The temperature also dropped to thirty-two degrees here on the same date, but no vegetation was killed.

CATTLE PURCHASED IN THE DUNKEN AREA

Approximately 200 head of cattle were purchased to be shipped and to be condemned in the Dunken area yesterday under the federal drought relief plan, Ed Lane, Chaves county appraiser, announced. Saturday the government representatives will buy and condemn cattle in the Greenfield and Lake Arthur sections.

THE REV. J. D. TERRY ACCOMPANIED MRS. PAUL TERRY AND SMALL DAUGHTER, ELMIRA, AND MRS. A. J. WIXOM AND L. ALLAIRE TO CARLSBAD FRIDAY.

SPEAKERS VISIT HERE

Judge H. A. Kiker of Raton and Capt. Irving Patrick O'Hay of Taos, stopped to visit friends here several hours yesterday afternoon while en route to Carlsbad to fill a speaking engagement in the interest of the democratic ticket. These men were invited to speak here, but owing to the shortness of time to arrange the speaking, it was felt that an engagement here might be impractical.

POLICE COURT

M. Cobble was arraigned before Justice W. H. Ballard yesterday morning, charged with driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated. He was given a fine of $100.00 and costs and a thirty-day jail sentence in the county jail. The jail sentence, however, was suspended on payment of the fine.

M. and Mrs. Paul Ridge of Houston, Texas, were here on business the first part of this week. They were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith while in the city.

Eddy Co. Leads State In Gains For Taxable Valuations

Eddy Gains $1,936,633.00 Over 1932; Property Values in State Also Jump, Total $7,082,490; Six Show Loss.

Eddy county, with an increase of $1,936,633 in property valuation assessments over the figure for 1933, has made the greatest increase of any county of the state, figures compiled by the Taxpayers Association of New Mexico and received here shows.

Chaves county, immediate neighbor to Eddy county, had the largest decrease. It dropped from a first class to second class county when valuations fell $1,047,536 from $14,392,485 to $13,345,120.

Property values in the state increased $7,082,490 jumping from $284,865,150 in 1933 to $291,947,640 in 1934. The increase amounted to 2.56 percent.

Six counties show decreases in assessments totaling $1,812,336. The remaining 24 counties show total increases of $3,894,826.

Colfax county had an increase of $1,085,244. The 1934 assessment was $19,889,309 as compared with $18,799,065 the year previous.

Other counties showing increases of approximately $500,000 or more are Bernalillo, Lea, Lincoln and Santa Fe.

Two counties will show changes in classification. Chaves drops to second from first and Lincoln county rises from fourth to third. Eddy county remains a second class county.

Classifications are based upon assessments. First class counties are those with valuations greater than $14,000,000. Second class counties have valuations between $8,250,000 and $14,000,000. Third class counties have valuations of between $6,500,000 and $8,250,000. Fourth class counties have valuations between $4,750,000 and $6,500,000. Fifth class counties have valuations of less than $4,750,000.

TO SPEAK FOR DEMOCRATS

Morris Sheppard, democratic United States senator from Texas, will make six addresses in the state in the interest of the democratic ticket. He spoke at Raton last night. Tonight he will speak at Tucumcari. Friday afternoon he will speak at Portales and in the evening at Roswell and on Saturday afternoon here and Saturday night at Carlsbad.

LIGHT FREEZE KILLS TENDER VEGETATION

The mercury has touched the freezing point on two or three mornings the past week with the result the tops of the cotton stalks, tomato vines and other tender vegetation have been killed in many areas. The cold weather has done no extensive damage.

ATOKA FARMER GETS VERY GOOD RETURN ON 38 BALES COTTON

Here is an enviable mark to shoot at. Charley Martin, living south of Artesia in the Atoka district, recently received out-turn grade and staple on 38 bales of cotton, all of which was good middling. Thirty bales of which was one and one-eighth inches in staple, five bales one and five-thirty seconds staple.

Mr. Cook, local manager of the local branch of the Southwestern Irrigated Cotton Growers Association, states that aside from one other bale these five bales, all coming from Mr. Martin's farm, are the first of this length of staple that has been handled thru his office, this, or any previous year. A most unusual record.

The cotton was all ginned at the Artesia Alfalfa Growers Association gin at Atoka.

WHY WE CANNOT SUPPORT CUTTING

For the information of those who have been following the New Mexico political situation closely and regardless of whether you believe as we do, we propose to tell you frankly why we cannot support Cutting, and why since Cutting is really the progressive republican party of New Mexico why we cannot support this party.

Few will deny that Senator Cutting has some very fine qualities; he has had all the social advantages wealth could give and has been serviceable to the state in many instances.

How much responsibility Senator Cutting assumes over his correspondence, we do not know, but he does give prompt replies. His promptness is impressive until you give the matter some thought. Soon after his appointment as senator we had occasion to write him about a matter of importance but not of vital importance. He came back with a wire saying he was doing all he could to have the matter adjusted. His efforts never amounted to anything, but his service was impressive until it was discovered that this telegram was franked or paid for by the government. This and many other telegrams along with thousands of letters, pamphlets, etc., have been franked at the expense of the taxpayer, all for his political advancement. A voter Monday showed us three different letters he had received all in the same mail and all franked. You would not expect an ordinary business correspondent to answer your letters with telegrams, unless the matter was urgent.

On another occasion about sixteen months ago, when Artesia was facing one of the gravest crises in its history with a closed bank we wired Senator Cutting. A telegram with his name signed came back the next days, saying he was doing everything possible for the bank. Of course it made us feel kindly toward the senator, but the wind was knocked out of the writer when a friend, seeing the telegram remarked, "Why Cutting is in the Panama Canal Zone." Later newspapers substantiated this statement together with a story about Cutting holding up the big liner at Panama while he ate breakfast. A pro-Cuttinger heard of this and informed us that Cutting's secretary did all the work anyway, which provoked the thought that maybe we ought to elect the secretary instead of Cutting himself.

One of the Cutting struggle holds for re-election is his service to the war veterans, but if memory serves us right, he was out of Washington at the time the economy measure was passed. Looks like he would have stayed until the outcome was determined, but instead he was absent and paraded. And during his trip to Europe much of the public works were allotted. New Mexico allotments during the period were conspicuously absent. This was another service Cutting could have performed by sticking to his post of duty.

When somebody gave Cutting the name of a liberal, it sure wasn't a misnomer, especially when it's on the government. We do not believe that he would even pause at spending a million dollars of the government's money if this million would get a half a dozen votes necessary for his election. If the money gets the votes, he's for it regardless of whether it is good or bad for the people. We learned a long time ago that we cannot have everything we want; such a policy would not be good for us in some instances.

And herein lies the difference between a vote-getter and a statesman. It is to be confessed that very little statesmanship has been shown on either side in the present campaign. Much fun has been poked at Upton Sinclair, democratic nominee of California, but that fellow has the courage of his convictions and the intestinal stamina to state his position in unmistakable terms. Roosevelt has done the same thing, even when he realized what he advocated was not popular.

The public does not know the political complexion of Cutting, whether he is a democrat, republican, socialist or communist. He has flip-flopped around until he has finally landed in the lap of the republicans and has disrupted the party. Now he does not even think enough of his child, the so-called progressive-republican, to conduct his campaign with the other candidates and the few remaining old guarders, who still say they will vote the progressive-republican ticket are fearful lest he will drop his creation if the pinch comes. Secretly they know enough of Cutting to know he is for himself, first, last and all the time, and that he will discard the two party system theory if and when it becomes necessary.

Lastly, we don't like the tax program Cutting framed. This program is aimed at getting a hand in southeastern New Mexico's pocket, just as the Cutting-Seligman bunch tried to do, except it was under a democratic banner. When a party tells you that they are going to extend the social, educational and other services of the state and at the same time reduce taxes, you can put it down that they are after your vote and that you and other citizens of southeastern and eastern New Mexico will sweat a plenty in paying the bill. We are not any relation of Santa Claus, we are getting too old to act Santa Claus and we are not going to vote for any tax program that smacks of this fable. You can do as you please.

RESTORATION

Patrons and friends of the institutions of higher education in New Mexico should be delighted with the positive declaration made by H. R. Rodgers, Democratic candidate for superintendent of public instruction, that he will exert every effort to restore the standard rating of the teacher-training universities of the state which was lost because of the interference of partisan politics with their management and administration.

Mr. Rodgers is thoroughly familiar with the circumstances in which the New Mexico Normal University and the New Mexico Teachers' College lost their credit ratings with the North Central Association of Universities and Colleges, also with the American Association of Teachers' Colleges and Universities. He knows that because of the deliberate and insistent interference of politicians, the management and administration of each of these institutions were unable to meet the requirements of the rating associations which make it possible for graduates of a college or university to transfer enrollment to any other accredited educational institution

Chislings

An old story is about a go-getter of a country boy who became so good in the store business in a small town that he moved to a larger city. It was his boast that he could sell anything cheaper than anyone else. A customer entered his grocery store and made some remark that he had to purchase a Pomeranian for his wife. He said that they wanted $150 for one and that he thought it was too much.

"Why, I'll get you one for $100," said the old country boy. "I'll take it," said the customer. And the old country boy went back to consult his partner. "I've just sold a Pomeranian to a man out there for $100," he said. "What in hell is a Pomeranian?"

Mrs. Jones stepped quietly into the outer office. "I wish to speak to the proprietor," she said.

The cheeky-looking junior clerk smiled at her.

"Most certainly, madam," he said. "The boss is always glad to meet pretty girls like you."

She grimaced. "Oh, is he?" she replied. "Then tell him his wife is here and wishes to see him."

Husband: "No woman can keep a secret."
Wife: "I don't know about that. I have kept my age a secret since I was 25."

Husband: "I don't know about that. If a woman has kept a secret 20 years she can keep it for ever."

"Good gracious, man, what's the matter? Have you been in a motor smash or an earthquake?"
"No, no, nothing like that, but do you remember that pretty blonde we met at the dance, the girl whose fiance went to Ireland?"
"Yes."
"Well, he didn't."

An Irishman went to be married when he was very drunk. "Take him away," said the clergyman to the bride, "and bring his back when he's sober. I won't marry a man who is drunk."
"But sure, your reverence, what can I do?" replied the weeping bride. "He won't come when he's sober!"

For the sake of C. J. Dexter, we'll be glad when the election is over. Dexter has been so busy policking he forget to give us a break on the news of the vacation of Mrs. Ethel Lewis. Just think, Mrs. Lewis was out of town for about two weeks and nobody knew anything about it because we forgot to put the item without penalty or loss of earned credits. He knows that in both the Normal University and the Teachers' College, the members of the board of regents appointed as Progressives according to the announcement of Governor Seligman, maliciously and persistently upset the management and administration of these important institutions. These petty politicians considered the employment of janitors, attendants and minor members of the faculty of more importance than the credit rating sought for the benefit of students.

He promises to use the influence of his position as superintendent of public instruction and ex-officio secretary of the state board of education in advising the governor on selection of proper personnel for boards of regents. In this promise he has the frequently pronounced willingness to cooperate of the Democratic nominee for governor.

These declarations mean a great deal to people familiar with the situation in which all but one of the higher educational institutions of the state lost their credit rating and thereby penalized hundreds of sincere and hard-working students. These promises mean that the losses will be overcome and the way paved for educational progress without the impediments of politics.

There is much being said by the Cutting candidates for state office about what their platform pledges in this connection. But the people who know what the past record has been must realize that platform promises mean nothing to the type of politicians who were directly responsible for the abuses of our leading colleges and universities during the past three years. Given the executive power of appointment, this gang would return to authority in each board of regents the same malicious and petty political servants who see nothing in a public institution or department except the opportunity to reward their own clique with jobs.

Voting for H. R. Rodgers means the exacting of responsibility from a proven educator for the advancement of public education in New Mexico during the next two years. Little of equal importance attaches to any other state office. That should be borne in mind by every conscientious voter.—Las Vegas Optic.

Let's not only help restore the standing of the higher educational institutions of New Mexico, but give the only Eddy county man on the Democratic ticket a 100 percent vote.

And speaking of mud slinging, Caswell Neal, the erstwhile democrat, who has assumed the role of the official GOP mud-slinger, is using both hands and both feet and wishes he had about two more hands to use. He has recently discovered a deep, dark conspiracy existing between Dempsey, Tingley and "them" blood-sucking corporations. Maybe Caswell's flop to the republicans was timely for in another two weeks the corporations would have had us body and soul. Perhaps the political convention had about the same effect on Caswell as the old-fashioned revival has on the ordinary individual's spiritual welfare for it hasn't been long since Caswell was accused of lobbying for the corporations and calling it good.

Some are inclined to think we are sorter hard on our political opposition, but our editorial opinion is mild, very mild, compared with what some newspapers are running. Over in Quay county, the Tucumcari News, a pro-Cutting newspaper, in speaking of his competition, the Tucumcari American, headlines an article: "Buzard Lies Eight Times One Edition" and then with the sub-heading: "Bot and Paid For Polecats Throwing Mud With Both Hands In Every Issue."

in the paper. We are also reminded that we forgot to mention about the bridge party of Miss Alice Moore and Mrs. Troy Olds.

A minister was holding services in a Minnesota town. A Montana man put $10 in the collection plate and after the sermon came around and told the minister: "You made a damn good talk, parson."

Not to be outdone, the preacher rejoined, "Thanks, stranger, it does cost like hell to run a church."

A Minnesota parent wrote to the teacher who had chastised her son: "Teacher—please don't strike Johnny—we never strike him at home except in self-defense."

Lady (to shopkeeper): "I sent my little boy, Tommy, for two pounds of apples, and you only sent a pound and a half."

Shopkeeper: "My scales are right, madam. Have you weighed your little boy?"

Gradually our old land marks (frame buildings) are disappearing, and Sunday morning another one went the way of the pioneers. Despite any sentiment, we'll be glad to see the day when the first four blocks of Main street will be of brick or fire-proof materials. A business man in an old frame building told us the other day his heating and insurance bill would more than offset the price of rent in a substantial building.

Monday morning I put on my Sunday suit and while visiting various places received such favorable comment that I think I'll try it again sometime. Judge McCrary has started shadowing me again too, with the idea of getting my breeches. I've already put him where he has to use one cane and if he keeps this up, don't be surprised if you see him using two canes.

FATHER OF WILSON BOYS PASSED AWAY SUNDAY

P. D. Wilson, Sr., father of J. Harvey Wilson of this place and of P. D. Wilson, Jr., formerly of Artesia, now of Carlsbad, passed away at his home at St. Charles, South Carolina, Sunday afternoon. The death of Mr. Wilson was not altogether unexpected as he had been in failing health for more than a year. The boys were unable to return home for the funeral services. Most of the children visited their father recently. J. Harvey and family visited him in August.

Andrew Dooley of Grand Rapids, Michigan, arrived here last Friday for a visit with his brother, William Dooley, and daughter Miss Florence, and to look after property interests.

NEWS BRIEFS OF THE CHAMBER COMMERCE

"As Your Chamber of Commerce Is So Is Your City"

The provisions of the National Housing Act should mean more to the property owners of Artesia just now than any other recovery act of the present administration. Under its provisions so many things can be done to improve and sustain property values that no one who has the credit available to take advantage of the privileges of this legislation should fail to do so.

Here are some suggestions as to how it might work out in some given cases. A property owner has permitted his property to go unprepared for some years due to the prevailing conditions but now the time has come when to keep in line with good business he must repair or suffer severe loss. He has, we will say, sufficient credit or funds with which to do this work but at a cost of borrowing money for some other phase of business. The money borrowed will cost 8 or 10 per cent interest. Instead of this borrowing he secures a loan from the NHA for the purpose of repairing the property for 5 per cent.

Supposing in a few months he has an unexpected sale which brings him some free money. This he can use to retire his loan from the government, receiving a discount on the loan for the time it has yet to run.

This act makes provision for the installation of water systems, sanitation equipment which many in the city need badly, heating equipment, etc.

We shall be glad to discuss with you the provisions as they may apply to your own individual case if you will call at the office.

BULLDOGS LOSE TO ROSWELL 20 TO 7

The Artesia Bulldogs lost a hard-fought game, playing the Roswell Coyotes at Roswell Friday by a 20 to 7 score. It was the poor showing made by the local squad in the first half that cost Artesia the game and this poor showing was probably due to lack of confidence. In the third quarter when Artesia received the ball on their own forty-seven yard line, Ross Conner made a forty-two yard run through the Roswell line for the only Bulldog touchdown. Champion made the extra point around the left end.

Roswell excelled in passing, completing nine of fifteen tries. Artesia took to the air only four times and completed only one pass. Roswell made fifteen downs to Artesia's four. Roswell was penalized seventy-five yards and Artesia thirty-five.

State Land Office Receipts Add Big Sum To N. M. School Fund

(By F. S. DONNELL)
 Uncle Sam has been very liberal to his youngest state in aiding education. In 1898, under the terms of the Ferguson bill, he turned over to the common school fund Sections 16 and 36 in each township, and under the Enabling Act, which gave statehood to New Mexico, Sections 2 and 32 were added to this fund.

In case these sections were not at that time in government ownership, the state was given the right to select an equal amount of land in any part of the state to make up the full amount granted. The total of both grants amounted to over eight million acres.

Section 2 of Article 13 of the constitution of New Mexico provides that: "The Commissioner of Public Lands shall select, locate, classify and have the direction, control, care and disposition of all public lands under the provision of the acts of Congress relating thereto and such regulations as may be provided by law."

With such almost unlimited power given to one man, it makes the Commissioner of Public Lands the most important official in the state, as his actions in the management of this great trust affect every man, woman and child in the state. The man chosen for this position should be carefully selected, both for business and executive ability. It is rather unfortunate that under our laws the term of office of the commissioner is only two years, and also that the salary of $3,000 a year is very poor compensation for the kind of a man who should be selected for this position.

At the time these grants were made, New Mexico was fortunate in having for its Land Commissioner a man of the board vision of Robert P. Ervin, and while no thought was given to anything but grazing and agricultural possibilities, large tracts of the best lands were selected for these purposes. It was due to this policy that the state now has for its schools and other institutions 1,300,468 acres in Lea county and 565,221 acres in Eddy county in the area in which, during the past few years, has been developed some of the largest oil fields in the United States, with a production last year of nearly fourteen million barrels of crude oil, bringing in more income to the school funds from oil than from grazing.

All leases for oil provide for an annual rental of from five cents to $1.00 per acre, and if oil is discovered a royalty to the state of 12 1/2% of the value of the oil produced. The income from rentals, either for oil or grazing on the school lands, is turned over to the schools for current expenses; but that from royalties is placed in a permanent fund, which in time should amount to many millions of dollars, the interest on which will go a long way in supporting the schools of the state.

In 1900 the total income for schools was only $12,680.82, while for the year ending June 30, 1934, it was $841,505.34. The sum of $310,521.27 was added to the permanent funds. The total received for the support of schools since 1900 has been $11,877,582.26 for current expenses, and $2,474,417.90 in the permanent funds.

While the cattle and sheep men have been great sufferers from the drought and depression during the past year, collections from grazing increased $21,339.06 and from purchase contracts $9,890.42 over the previous year. This was in a large degree due to the better business methods of the present commissioner, who during the year compiled a complete record of the leased and unleased lands, and found many thousands of acres not leased but from which the state is now securing good revenue.

In past years the greater amount of revenue came from cattle and sheep men, but today the oil receipts are the most important. Last year the total from grazing leases was $328,457.37, from purchase contracts $240,227.15, from oil leases $665,125.93, and from oil royalties $382,872.21.

Mrs. Hugh Burch accompanied her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Louie Burch, to Mineral Wells, Texas, the first of this week. Mr. Burch is convalescing from several weeks illness of typhoid fever and it is thought that a change of altitude and climate might benefit him.

ARTESIA MAN GETS CLAIM E. TEXAS HOT OIL HAS BEEN STOPPED

Not many people living in this vicinity today know that it was an Artesia man who was directly responsible for securing an appropriation for the Lake McMillan dam. This man was no other than Chas. Ballard, one of the old timers of this section and a member of the Roosevelt Rough Riders during the Spanish-American war. Those who know the story of course know the connection between the Rough Riders and the dam.

Theodore Roosevelt, who became president at the death of William McKinley in 1901, headed the Rough Riders of which Mr. Ballard was a member. About the time or shortly after Mr. Roosevelt took office as president, an agitation was started for the damming of the Pecos river, near Lakewood. The federal government could not see the point, although the reclamation service had started functioning. After several attempts to secure an appropriation, it was finally decided to send Mr. Ballard, a member of the Roosevelt Rough Riders, to Washington and induce President Roosevelt to approve the appropriation. In 1905 when Mr. Roosevelt was inaugurated president on his second term, Mr. Ballard attended the inaugural ceremonies and was a guest of honor at the occasion.

HEALTH COLUMN

Rheumatism
 When I was a lad rheumatism was always considered to be a disease of old age. Children were only allowed to have "growing pains." Today we know that it is in childhood that rheumatism is most to be feared. The age at which rheumatism most frequently appears both in boys and girls is at ten years. That is for the first time. Once a child has suffered from rheumatism he is likely to have other attacks. More than half the cases have recurrent attacks.

There are several infections which may lead to rheumatism. The commonest are tonsillitis or sore throat and infected teeth. A child who has had his tonsils removed may still get rheumatism from a sore throat. Removal of tonsils will not prevent the child getting rheumatism. But Dr. A. D. Kaiser believes that rheumatism in children who have had their tonsils out is less fatal. In other words the youngster who had his tonsils out before he got his first attack of rheumatism is less likely to die from the rheumatism than is the child who still has tonsils when he gets his first attack of rheumatism.

Taking the child's tonsils out after he has had an attack of rheumatism does not make him any less likely to get another attack. The decision as to whether or not tonsils should be removed is frequently a very difficult one and should always be made by a physician.

The risk of rheumatism from infected teeth can always be prevented by proper dental care. We cannot always save our children from colds and sore throats but any good dentist can save them from abscessed teeth—if we give him the chance.

THE IMP OF THE PERVERSE

COTTON ADJUSTMENT PROGRAM CONTINUES

WASHINGTON—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace announced Friday that the cotton adjustment program would continue into the 1935 season. This announcement was made in order that the more than one million cotton farmers who signed 1934 and 1935 cotton contracts can proceed with their farming plans for the next season with full assurance that the voluntary cotton adjustment program will be made effective for 1935 under the terms of the two-year contracts.

The cotton section of the AAA is engaged in developing the details of the 1935 program. These include the amount of reduction in acreage to be required and the amount and manner of rental and parity payments made. Details of the 1935 adjustment program will be announced as soon as they are completed and approved.

Under the terms of the contracts with the producers, the maximum acreage reduction which can be required is 25 percent of the base acreage which is the average of the amount and manner of rental and parity payments made. Details of the 1935 adjustment program will be announced as soon as they are completed and approved.

Under the terms of the contracts with producers, the maximum acreage reduction which can be required is 25 percent of the base acreage which is the average of the five years. It was pointed out that since this compares with a 35 to 45 percent reduction below the base acreage this year, which averaged 40 percent, it means that contract signers may plant an average of at least 25 percent more acres in cotton in 1935 than they planted this year.

"We are canvassing the entire situation," says C. A. Cobb, chief of the cotton section, "and obtaining all the available data on the outlook for domestic and foreign consumption."

An important phase of the 1935 program will be to offer cotton producers who did not sign the 1934-35 contracts an opportunity to sign a contract covering the 1935 season. In addition to enabling farmers who are cooperating in program to make their cropping plans for 1935, the preliminary announcement that adjustment would continue was made in order to prevent any misunderstanding of the relationship between the voluntary cotton adjustment program and the Bankhead Cotton Marketing Act.

Donald Burch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Burch, who has been a student at the St. Mary's Academy at Berkeley, California, returned home Monday. He was unable to continue with his studies on account of illness.

RED CROSS AGENCIES SAFEGUARD HEALTH

First Aid, Life Saving, Nursing Care, Promote Health and Safety

Five outstanding services make up the health-conservation program of the American Red Cross, according to the annual report just issued in Washington. These services are first aid and life saving, which together have trained more than a million persons; nursing, with an active enrollment of 36,133 registered nurses; Public Health Nursing, conducted by 7500 nurses in 424 chapters last year; and Home Hygiene, which has taught more than 700,000 men and women simple ways of caring for the sick at home.

"The achievements of the Red Cross in public health nursing place it among the leaders in this field," said James L. Fieser, vice chairman in charge of domestic operations. "This service was organized in 1919 to meet needs developed by the flu epidemic which in 1918-1919 took so great a toll of life."

"Since that time Red Cross nursing services have been pioneers in more than one half of the counties in the United States. Many services established were taken over later by civic, state and federal agencies, and the Red Cross continues to establish services in other new fields. Red Cross nurses made more than a million visits to patients last year, and 629,025 children in schools were inspected."

"Red Cross courses in home hygiene and care of the sick are especially important in times of depression, because they teach families to maintain hygienic conditions in their homes and to recognize symptoms of illness early enough to prevent serious consequences."

"Our courses in first aid have been instrumental in saving lives of the injured; in safeguarding the accident victim until the physician arrives, and in reducing time lost by workers in factories, mines and other industries. We are also giving the course extensively to police and fire departments throughout the country, and to state highway patrols."

Everyone is invited to join the Red Cross during the annual membership roll call which continues from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving, to have a part in the health program and the other humanitarian services of the Red Cross.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Adams of Hope announce the birth of a son on Friday the 26th.

Mr. and Mrs. Bunyan Bell returned to their home at Pinon the latter part of last week, taking with them their daughter, Miss Irene, who underwent a major operation at a Carlsbad hospital this past month, and who has been convalescing here at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Newman.

DEMOCRATIC SPEAKERS ADDRESS VOTERS HERE THURSDAY AFT'NOON

Five democratic candidates addressed a good sized audience at the Majestic theater last Thursday afternoon in the interest of the state and national democratic ticket. Judge G. U. McCrary acted as chairman of the meeting and introduced the speakers, the first of whom was J. J. Dempsey, candidate for congress. Mr. Dempsey called attention to the accomplishment of the national administration, and especially its efforts to help the farmer, stating that over $5,000,000 had been loaned to the farmers in the past eighteen months. "The opposition are saying that Roosevelt is spending too much money, but there was nothing said when the international bankers were buying and selling foreign bonds, most of which were not worth ten cents on the dollar," he said. Mr. Dempsey called attention to the fact that the federal money spent in New Mexico had not cost the state a penny thus far, whereas most states had to match the federal funds to secure relief.

Referring to the claims of the opposition he said, "It is a matter of record that every progressive in the special session of the last legislature voted against the state NRA act, passed to conform to the national act."

The only issue in the campaign the speaker said, was whether or not "You believe Franklin D. Roosevelt has been fair to you."

Frank Patton, candidate for attorney general, was the next speaker and devoted the greater part of his speech to the accomplishments of the democratic state administration, stating that in four years the administration had saved the taxpayers $2,500,000.00. In this period taxes over the state have been reduced from fifteen to forty-eight percent. Comparing the sales tax with the proposed republican gross income tax he said the republicans were offering the voters the same old horse under a different color.

Robert Valdez, candidate for corporation commissioner, spoke briefly in both English and Spanish, stating that he would yield his time to Senator Carl Hatch.

Senator Carl Hatch, the fourth speaker, paid a tribute to the three other candidates traveling with him and to Congressman Dennis Chavez. Referring to some of the things the republicans were advocating, namely: cession of the public domain to the states and a tariff on oil, he said these were no longer issues since practically every representative, republicans and democrats, had advocated these measures for the past fifteen years.

Praising Roosevelt for his accomplishments, Senator Hatch said he did not blame the depression on the republicans, but said he believed they were wrong on some issues. "I lived in a wheat country, in 1932 we got twenty-five cents per bushel for our wheat, this year we received about 85 cents per bushel. These figures represent the difference between profit and loss and indicate whether Roosevelt was right in his farm policy.

Citing figures on the cost of the depression he said it had cost to date about six billion and about five and a half billion would be paid back, representing a loss of about a half billion. "This seems like a lot of money, but the world war cost twenty-three billions," he said.

George Harris of Hobbs, candidate for representative, made a short talk attacking the republican tax platform and showing why he reasoned the platform would bring ruin to southeastern New Mexico if carried out.

80,929 HEAD OF CATTLE SHIPPED IN SEPTEMBER

ALBUQUERQUE—Cattle shipments from the state during September totaled 80,929 head, W. A. Naylor, secretary of the state cattle sanitary board, said Monday.

The figure, he said, represented a considerable increase over the shipments for the month of September a year ago when the total was 15,821.

Government purchases of cattle under the drouth relief program was largely responsible for the increase, he said. September shipments however, were much below those of August which totaled 164,834.

My Favorite Recipes

Frances Lee Barton says:

MAKING candy is a regular feature of my domestic activities, so I am constantly on the lookout for candy recipes that have no complications. When I find a candy recipe so simple that one of my older children can make it too, then I rejoice greatly! This is the case with Coconut Apricot Candy. You can make it at the last minute if unexpected guests are dropping in.

Coconut Apricot Candy
½ cup dried apricots; ½ cup shredded coconut; ½ cup nut meats; ½ teaspoon grated orange rind; ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind; 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Wash apricots and steam 5 minutes. Put apricots, coconut, and nut meats through food chopper. Add orange and lemon rind and lemon juice and knead mixture until blended. If candy is dry, add enough orange juice to moisten. If too moist, work in small amount of confectioners' sugar. Shape into balls about ¾ inch in diameter. Roll in granulated sugar. Makes 18 to 20 balls.

Cotton has held within a range of thirty points for the past week, failing to break 12.10 on the downside, or 12.40 on the up-side. This steadiness in cotton in the face of other markets all declining indicates underlying strength, and the market should do better after the coming government report is out of the way.

The size of the crop has ceased to be a factor in price, but the question of consumption becomes an increasingly puzzling enigma for the administration to solve. If in their decision relative to next year's crop the agricultural administration decides to increase the crop to as much as twelve million bales in order to regain some of our lost foreign markets, the price will decline. If their decision favors rigid restriction of acreage another year, the price should advance, at least temporarily, but because of the loss of foreign markets under such a policy, we shall pay very dearly for it.

The ideal condition, it seems to the writer, would be to permit the cotton growers of the south to grow all of the cotton they could possibly grow, under a contract that each grower should receive a tariff protection or premium of four or five cents the pound on the domestically used percentage, and take the world price for the remainder.

The important question at the moment to most growers is whether they should sell their cotton or place it in the government twelve cent loan. In view of all the circumstances, it is our opinion that where three or four dollars the bale or more can be realized above the twelve cent loan, the grower had best take his money and forget it, since the rise of the market would of necessity have to be sufficient not only to offset the actual carrying cost, but the probable further de-

The University of Wisconsin does not only have the distinction of being the oldest among all of the state's institutions. It appears that the state's major educational institution is even older than the state itself, since the birth goes back a whole decade before Wisconsin reached statehood.

Purposeful Lamps for Study and Reading

By Jean Prentice

OF COURSE no mother means to hurt her children's eyes or her own. Nor does Betty, away at college in the hubbub of quizzes and rushing teas, mean to injure hers.

Yet they do that very thing when they fail to provide good lighting for reading, study or sewing. And that, scientists say, is one reason why 20% of grammar school children, and 40% of college students have defective eyes.

Now comes a new lamp that obligingly takes such responsibilities off mothers' and students' shoulders! You will know you are actually protecting eyesight when you use it, because it bears a tag of approval showing it meets specifications of a national scientific organization, the Illuminating Engineering Society, designating it as an "I. E. S. Study and Reading Lamp."

And what a relief such scientific approval is—when you consider that good light actually adds to the alertness and chances of success for your child. Recent comparative school room tests reveal that pupils studying under good light are keener and more progressive than those handicapped by poor lighting.

One of the nice things about the I. E. S. lamp, designs for which have been created by many leading manufacturers, is its variety of style.

Whether you live in a spacious home, college dormitory or modest cottage, appropriate ones to suit every purse are available for any decorative scheme beside chair, davenport, or on table or desk.

Several things make these lamps "kind to the eyes." The one in the large sketch at the right is scientifically the correct height for the table, 19 inches from base to bottom of shade.

A glass bowl in each lamp shade directs light upward and at the same time sends well-diffused light downward, thus eliminating glare. Excellent results are attained by using a standard 100-watt bulb for which all have been designed.

A few of the many designs are indicated in the sketch at the left: a wall type fitting on a push pin, and others for floor and table. With lamps like these, Johnny and Betty have no excuse for low grades!

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT HAS GIVEN . . . . .

. . . . . NEW MEXICO A SQUARE DEAL

LET'S SHOW HIM WE APPRECIATE HIS ACTION BY ELECTING DEMOCRATS Nov. 6th

Next Tuesday you will elect to office men and women who will have a vital part in shaping the policies of the state and nation for the next two years. In casting your vote you owe it to yourself and to New Mexico to remember: Democrats brought the New Deal. Democrats, under President Roosevelt, brought the recovery program.

The national administration considers it highly important that the two senators and the representative which you will send to congress be democrats. President Roosevelt considers it important.

He is sending to New Mexico his personal confidant and adviser, Senator Joe Robinson, majority floor leader of the senate, to urge election of Congressman Dennis Chavez and Senator Carl A. Hatch as your senators and John J. Dempsey as your representative in congress.

Senator Robinson comes to New Mexico direct from a conference with President Roosevelt.

Following that conference, Senator Robinson gave a statement to the press in which he said that he was taking the stump in behalf of the congressional candidates in New Mexico.

"The president and I," Robinson was quoted as saying, "are both well satisfied with the political situation."

Newspapermen commenting on this statement, said: "Significance was attached to Robinson's entry into the New Mexico contest, where he will speak for Representative Chavez, democratic opponent of Senator Cutting, republican independent and FORMER ally of President Roosevelt."

The fact that Senator Cutting is classed as a FORMER ally of the president, should mean much to the people of New Mexico.

We need men in Congress who are with the president now and will be during the next session of congress.

That is the reason President Roosevelt is sending Senator Robinson to New Mexico to ask the voters of this state to send to Congress democrats on whom he can depend.

Congressman Chavez and Senator Hatch, representatives of the two great races which compose the citizenship of New Mexico, both have made enviable records.

Both have given strong support to the president. Both are glad to be classed as supporters of the New Deal. Both have pledged themselves to work with the president to see that the hungry are fed, the homeless sheltered and the unemployed given jobs.

Congressman Chavez, during the four years he has been in the house of representatives, has fought for New Mexico. He is chairman of the powerful committee on irrigation and reclamation. His work on this committee was of so much value that recently C. H. Scott, president of the National Drainage Levee and Irrigation Association, stated:

"The part you (Congressman Chavez) played in securing drainage levee irrigation and reclamation legislation, which has made it possible for the farmers and property owners within drainage and irrigation districts to re-finance and rehabilitate their districts, has given new lease on life to farmers and property owners."

Irrigation and reclamation is a vital factor in the agricultural life of New Mexico. Congressman Chavez and Senator Hatch have both been active in support of legislation which will develop the water resources of the state to the fullest extent.

John J. Dempsey, democratic candidate for congress, was selected by the president to represent him in the state as NRA director. Dempsey is a personal friend of the President. He is heart and soul for the New Deal.

When a man does a great work, it is only human nature for him to want to know that his work is appreciated.

Roosevelt has tackled his big job courageously. He has done it well.

Let's show him we appreciate what he has done for New Mexico by electing democrats.

Two years from now Roosevelt will be up for re-election.

The men who are now in control of the republican party label will be fighting Roosevelt. They will be attempting to elect a republican president.

New Mexico does not want that to happen.

The Progressives pliously state that they are exponents of the New Deal. At the same time they boastfully declare that they have the full support of the chairman of the republican national committee . . . a man so reactionary and so bitterly opposed to President Roosevelt and his policies that all liberal republicans have repudiated him.

Any party which believes in the principles of the chairman of the republican national committee, cannot be for the New Deal. It cannot be in sympathy with the President or his recovery program.

If you are for the President, now is the time to fight for him by electing democrats, who will be out fighting for him two years from now.

The democratic party in New Mexico has made a record which is unequalled by any state in the Union.

This is the only state which closed the last fiscal year with a cash balance and all bills paid.

This is the only state in the Union which has not floated new bond issues during the last three years and which has been able to pay off old bonds at the rate of $1,000,000 annually.

Property taxes, under democratic guidance, were reduced $2,500,000 before the 20 mill limitation took effect.

Expenses of the government were reduced far more than this amount.

The economy program will go under Clyde Tingley.

Progressives are making last minute attacks in a desperate effort to save their candidate for governor in order to control the patronage of the state. If the progressives are elected, all patronage will be distributed by Herman Baca. He will determine the policies of government.

Democrats have conducted a clean campaign. Speakers for the democratic party have not attacked the character of any of their opponents, nor has it hired speakers to do so.

Attacks have been launched at Mr. Tingley. These attacks are being made by the same newspapers and the same group which has opposed Tingley in all of his campaigns in Albuquerque. Your neighbors know the kind of man you are. The people of Albuquerque know Clyde Tingley. They know he can be trusted.

Despite the scurrilous attacks made on him in his former campaign in Albuquerque by his political opponents, he won each succeeding election by a larger majority.

If the people of Albuquerque believed that Mr. Tingley was unworthy of their confidence and their trust, they would not have elected him to office repeatedly, and each time by a larger majority than the time before.

In the recent recall election in Albuquerque, when a group of citizens who cannot dictate to Mayor Tingley, attempted to remove him from office, the people voted to continue him as their Mayor by a majority of six to one.

Such an overwhelming vote can mean but one thing. Mayor Tingley is appreciated and loved by his neighbors, the people who know him best.

He has been a resident of the state for over 20 years. Because he is his own boss and can and does say No to people who attempt to dictate to him, he has made political enemies.

His enemies are the self-seekers, the people who would like to use him for their own selfish gain.

Mayor Tingley has stood between this group and the people of Albuquerque for years, protecting the interests of the people.

It's folly to think that if he were the kind of man his political enemies are now saying he is, the residents of Albuquerque would not have discovered it fifteen, ten or five years ago.

Last minute attacks should be ignored.

The people of New Mexico owe it to themselves and to the state to elect Mayor Tingley and a straight democratic ticket.

Democrats will keep faith with Roosevelt. They will get things done.

REESE SEEKS TO ADD OIL PROPERTIES TO COUNTY TAX ROLL

An appeal to Gov. A. W. Hockenhull to order the state tax commission to place $3,000,000 worth of taxable property of oil companies in Eddy and Lea counties on county tax rolls was made Monday by George L. Reese, Jr., of Carlsbad, district attorney, it was announced at Carlsbad. Reese's action followed his victory in a suit to tax the property. The suit was carried to the federal district court of Judge Colin Neblett at Santa Fe on an appeal by the Humble Oil company. Neblett's ruling against the producers and in favor of the two counties was received by Reese Monday.

At the present time producing companies in New Mexico are paying a gross production tax on 50 percent of the value of oil produced, Reese said. They are paying no taxes on field equipment, including derricks, gathering pipelines, bunk houses, lease equipment, and so forth.

Reese filed suit in district court in the spring of 1933 to force the addition of this property to tax rolls.

Since 1925, the companies have paid the gross production tax. Under the plan, they made returns of the value of all oil produced to the state tax commission. The commission takes 50 percent of this turned in value and apportions the values to the various county treasurers. The treasurers collect ad valorem taxes on the values apportioned.

A ruling of Jim Bujac, assistant attorney general, in 1925, was that under the gross production tax the companies were exempt from other ad valorem tax on field equipment.

Reese argued that there is more than $3,000,000 in field equipment in Lea and Eddy counties that should be taxed. He filed suit in the spring of 1933 to force taxation of this property.

Judge Mike Otero of the Santa Fe district court, ruled for Reese and issued a writ of mandamus ordering the tax commission to place the field equipment on the rolls.

The Humble Oil company immediately appealed to the federal court and sought to enjoin the tax commission, the county treasurers and Reese from proceeding.

Reese filed a motion to dismiss the Humble suit and the motion was upheld by Judge Neblett.

The Humble company filed an amended petition and Neblett's ruling on this was released Monday.

In his decision, Neblett declared the 1925 law did not intend to exempt field equipment of producing companies from taxation but that, if it did, it was unconstitutional.

The governor must act in the matter, Reese said, since the ruling of Otero's court, upheld by the federal court was for 1933 taxes only and that tax period has ended.

It will be possible, Reese said, to collect back taxes from 1925 by special act of the legislature but not by order of the tax commission.

Tax Fables --Vs-- Horses

You may have your personal preference as to what color of horse you like. You may paint a black horse red or a white horse brown, but after you have done this you still have a horse, although his color may be different. And the same thing applies to taxes, whether you pay them under the name of sales tax, intangible tax, gross income tax or what not. Perhaps one name sounds better than another but after all, the money you pay to the support of your government is a tax.

The progressive republicans are pledged for the immediate repudiation of the sales tax, which they say is too great a burden on the poor. Practically all citizens understand that the present sales tax was passed as an emergency measure and is still classed as an emergency measure.

To lift the burden imposed by the sales tax, a gross income tax of one percent is proposed. How would the gross income tax operate? Take the merchant, for instance. The wholesaler would pay the one percent, which would be passed on to the retailer and the retailer would pay one percent which would be passed on to the consumer, who would still be subject to the one percent, making a total of THREE PERCENT paid by the consumer. In what way is this different from the sales tax, except the percentage is higher, and is the consumer any better off? You can answer!

Another tax proposed by the republicans is an intangible tax. Perhaps you may not know what an intangible tax is, but think back about five years. You will recall New Mexico had an intangible tax on oil and minerals. This tax practically succeeded in stopping all oil and mineral development, but it was never enforced and leading republicans fought it just as bitterly as anybody else. Your land, if you have any, may be potential oil, sulphur or potash land and you may have opportunity to lease it, but do you know any yardstick that can be successfully used in measuring the value of your lease or royalty? You can answer!

The republicans propose an oil severance tax. You remember New Mexico had an oil severance tax of four cents per barrel about two years ago and you remember when oil went to ten cents per barrel. The severance tax, apparently small as it was, represented forty percent of the profit from oil. Do you think the oil industry, now paying fourteen different kinds of taxes, would continue to operate in New Mexico? And do you know that the gasoline you buy now for eighteen and twenty cents per gallon, eight and a half to nine cents of this cost is represented in taxes? You car owners, how much tax are you willing to stand? You can answer!

New Mexico is comparatively poor in taxable wealth. We realize that we do not have as many taxable sources as other states and therefore may not be able to extend the benefits of governments as extensively as other states and to offer to extend public benefits as the republicans propose to do would mean a greater expense in taxes, regardless of the tax name. Who will pay for these benefits? You can answer!

During the past four years, the average advalorem tax has been reduced about twenty-six percent in Eddy county. While doing this the highway system has been extended and improved and the school system extended and improved, including free text books for the first three lower grades. Other progressive social service has been inaugurated and other improvements made as rapidly as general conditions would permit.

Do you want governmental and social benefits inaugurated as New Mexico citizens are able to pay for them, or do you still believe in fairy tales?

RED CROSS RELIEF GIVEN TO VICTIMS IN 103 DISASTERS

Tornadoes, Fires, Hurricanes, Floods, Epidemics, Make Record of Year

A history of the disasters in the United States in any year is written annually by the American Red Cross, according to Chairman John Barton Payne, commenting on the report for the year ending June 30, 1934, which has just been issued in Washington.

"Because of the charter provision which places upon the Red Cross the responsibility for disaster relief, our chapter and staff workers are notified of all calamities of storm and fire and flood," he continued. "The emergency period may prove to be brief, in cases where the victims have their own resources to draw on. While it lasts, however, whether it brings the immediate need of food, clothing and shelter for the homeless, or entails a program of investigation and rehabilitation, the Red Cross is the official director of all relief."

A great variation in type, and a wide geographical distribution, characterize the 103 disasters reported last year. Tornadoes, hurricanes, hailstorms and other storms made up almost one half of the total. Especially numerous were the tropical storms which swept in from the sea to the Atlantic and Gulf Coast region. There were 21 storms of this type, establishing a new record for frequency.

Next in number to storms were disasters of fire, the report shows. Red Cross aid was given following 25 fires in the United States and insular possessions. The most spectacular was the Chicago stockyards fire, where Red Cross workers arrived shortly after the fire started, administering relief until the emergency period passed, giving first aid to about 1,000 persons.

Floods caused serious damage in some sections, 17 calling for Red Cross relief. Three explosions were reported and three epidemics of malaria and typhoid fever. A school bus wreck was one of the year's tragedies for which Red Cross funds were needed for relief and rehabilitation.

"Technique acquired by the Red Cross in these disasters and the hundreds of others we have handled is at the service of the public," Chairman Payne said. "To make this possible the disaster relief service has issued a manual containing instructions for chapters interested in advance preparations for emergencies. Disaster institutes were held last year in 28 strategic locations, to enable Red Cross and civic workers to formulate plans for possible disaster emergencies in their communities.

Support of the disaster relief activities of the Red Cross comes from the annual roll call held each year from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day.

Trained to Save Lives

First aid certificates were issued by the Red Cross last year to 130,972 persons who finished the course of instruction put on by the chapters. Included in this list were more than 70,000 foremen, time clerks and other key employes on Federal Civil Works projects. Further evidence of the government's endorsement of the first aid program is found in projects now under way where Red Cross chapters, at the request of the War Department, are giving first aid instruction in OCC camps. Where it has been requested by Army engineers the same instruction is also made available to key men working on federal water conservancy and flood control projects.

War Veterans' Problems Increase

Last year American Red Cross chapters dealt with the problems of nearly 400,000 veterans and their families. The workers find that as the years go on their responsibility increases rather than decreases. Changes in legislation, the increasing age of veterans and the consequent increase in physical ills, bring new needs for sympathetic treatment by trained Red Cross workers. In addition to this service to veterans the Red Cross served as the official medium between the people and the men in military and naval service, giving aid through this service last year to 6,979 men in the army, navy and marine corps.

Busy Year for Volunteers

Red Cross volunteers made nearly five million garments last year; they prepared 342,366 pages of hand-transcribed braille and 314,788 by the duplicated process; 16,132 Christmas bags, 3,678,831 surgical dressings and 18,475 layettes were prepared, and many other valuable community services were reported by chapter volunteers.

GENERAL NEWS BRIEFS

G. D. Macy, state highway engineer, has assured Eddy county that the Malaga-Carlsbad road contract will be let before January 1st.

Virgil Stalcup, a desperado facing 245 years in the state penitentiary; Clarence Brown, his companion in crime, and a third man, escaped the Dickens county jail at Dickens, Texas, Saturday after they had shot and killed Sheriff W. B. Arthur with his own gun. Stalcup and Brown seized the sheriff as he entered their cell, grabbed his gun and fired one shot which was fatal. The trio was later sighted ten miles west traveling at a break-neck speed. It was thought the jail breakers might head for Clovis.

Through last Saturday, travel at the Carlsbad Caverns since January 1st reached a total of 84,218.

Tipped that an attempt would be made to rob the Bank of Wendell, near Raleigh, North Carolina, Wake county officers Saturday surrounded the institution and captured five men after letting loose a burst of gunfire.

The court freed Mrs. Fren Mae Sankey of complicity charges in the Chas. Boettcher, II, kidnaping case in which her husband, the late Verne Sankey, played a notorious part.

The National Recovery Administration has requested President Roosevelt to command at top speed a court prosecution of NRA code violators.

With the inauguration of "Better Housing Week for New Mexico," Roswell officials estimate that $10,000 worth of repair work will be inaugurated there soon.

The great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co., announced Saturday in Cleveland, Ohio, it has closed 428 stores and warehouses in that center, because of labor troubles.

More than 200 New Mexico farms have been saved for the farmers through debt adjustment through the farm debt conciliatory committee, it was announced at Albuquerque last week.

A pledge of full cooperation in the recovery campaign was made personally to President Roosevelt by the officers of the American Bankers association at Washington, Friday.

EDDY COUNTY MAY ENTER HEALTH CONTEST

Members of the Rotary club heard the nation-wide health contest explained Tuesday by Dr. O. E. Puckett, county health officer, and Victor Minter, secretary of the Carlsbad Chamber of Commerce. This contest is being sponsored by the United States Chamber of Commerce and is open to any county or city in the United States that can qualify. Last year Carlsbad entered the contest and placed twenty-third in cities and towns under 20,000. This year it is hoped that Eddy county may enter as a unit, as there are only two counties in the state able to qualify and Eddy is one of these. The matter of entering Eddy has been left up to the two commercial organizations and the Artesia Chamber of Commerce is expected to approve the plan at its first meeting.

Visitors were: J. R. Ogden, Loving; Dr. O. E. Puckett, Victor Minter and Fred C. Huckleberry, all of Carlsbad; John Tweedy and Tom Burchman of Roswell.

Artesia, N. M.

Mr. Jos. Wertheim,
Carlsbad, New Mexico.

Dear Mr. Wertheim:

Referring to our recent conversation regarding the activities rendered in service to us and this community by Hon. Dennis Chavez, it is a pleasure for me to state personally and for our Organization to add its confirmation to the following facts:

As you may know, the Artesian well district of the Pecos Valley had never been allowed Federal Farm Loans on land.

Later, when we began to get matter in shape to get these Emergency loans we found many obstacles of such serious character that it to permit the making of Emergency Farm Loans in those districts throughout the United States where the regular Farm Loans had been denied for one reason or another. Our Congressman, Mr. Chavez, was Chairman of the Irrigation Committee and as such was in position to render most valuable aid and succeeded in amending the Act so as to include this Federal aid by way of loans and he voted for the measure. It passed.

Later, when we began to get matter in shape to get these Emergency loans we found many obstacles of such serious character that it appeared impossible for us to get the loans after all. Mr. J. E. Robertson and myself went to Albuquerque and met Mr. Chavez by appointment and got matter in shape. Mr. Chavez was very attentive, promised us that he would do all possible when he again returned to Washington. At that time we tried also to see Senator Cutting but he was on a vacation as I recall in the northern part of the state.

Some time elapsed and finally word came to us from Washington that Mr. Chavez was behind a move to secure for us what the act intended we should get. Thinking that some additional help from Mr. Cutting would not be amiss, we wired him. His secretary informed us that he was traveling in Europe.

You will understand that the Emergency Act was passed at the session of the Congress of March and April 1933, immediately following the inauguration of the present President into office.

That summer, our efforts failed to get the loans to which we were rightfully entitled by the Act.

That fall when Congress again convened, the fall of 1933, Mr. Chavez was very busy, but not too busy to render us most valuable assistance. Congress was in session, Senator Cutting was traveling in Europe, and we needed help to save our farms—not only we, but multiplied thousands all over the country; none of us were getting anywhere, because of red tape and various so-called rulings on the Emergency Act.

Congressman Chavez, writing to me, said: "If we cannot get what is due the hard-pressed farmers under the Act as it now reads, I shall introduce a Bill to so amend it again that we do get it." But he kept working between the Land Commissioner at Washington and others until finally he secured the necessary ruling to permit of the proper functioning of the Act to our benefit.

I have gone into detail in explaining this to you because it so graphically reflects the activities of the two men now running for U. S. Senator as it affects the State of New Mexico.

My Favorite Recipes

Frances Lee Barton says:

ON "pot-lick" Monday, when the remains of the Sunday roast adorns the table, I find that a mold of sparkling, bright colored jelly is a tactful gesture. It makes the family forget that they are being fed left-overs. Red Spiced Jelly and cold meat go together like ham and eggs. Unlike most jellies it has no fruit in it, so regardless of the season, I can make up a quantity whenever the spirit moves me. It's so easy and quick to make, too; by the short-boil method and bottled fruit pectin.

Red Spiced Jelly
1 1/2 cups water; 1/4 cup apple vinegar; 3 three-inch sticks cinnamon; 1 tablespoon whole cloves; 2 teaspoons whole allspice; 3/4 cups (1 lb. 7 oz.) sugar; red coloring; 1/2 bottle fruit pectin.
Measure water, vinegar, and spices into 2-quart saucepan. Bring quickly to a boil. Remove from fire, cover, and let stand in warm place 10 minutes.

Measure sugar into saucepan and mix with spices and liquid. Place over hottest fire, and while mixture is coming to a boil, add coloring to give desired shade. As soon as mixture boils, add bottled fruit pectin, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1/2 minute. Remove from fire; remove spices. Skim, pour quickly. To remove all traces of spices, pour hot jelly through fine sieve into glasses. Paraffin hot jelly at once. Makes about 6 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

Over the Bridge Table

By SUZANNE SMITH

"CERTAINLY you have heard that Tom and Betty Linton have decided to forget their matrimonial disputes and carry on together," said Fanny Barton as she was dealing the cards at the Wednesday afternoon bridge club, meeting at her home.

"Yes, I heard that they were reconciled. It happened at Atlantic City last month, didn't it? When Betty sent for Tom when the boy was ill?"

"Let's keep the conversation for over the refreshments, girls," suggested Hilda Bowns.

Fanny Barton followed Hilda's glance toward a boy sitting reading. "Why not run out and play, Jack," suggested his Aunt Fanny. "I'll call you when it's time for refreshments."

"I'd rather read this book, Aunt Fanny. And besides, mother or father might call and I want to be on hand to talk to them."

Later on Hilda Bowns said: "And now for the inside facts about the Lintons, while the refreshments are being served. I'd like to hear all about the case."

"Well," began Fanny Barton. "It certainly looked as though their married life was due for the divorce courts. At first they were ideally happy but then Tom made a lot of money and they stepped out. Later came the crash, and then the trouble started. Betty admits she was as much to blame as her husband. She had taken young Tom to Atlantic City and they had planned divorce action in the fall, and then Tom—the son—took a sudden turn for the worse down there—you know he's always been a delicate boy. Betty was panicky and telephoned Tom. The boy was delirious and tossed around in bed, and called for his father incessantly. Tom went down immediately and they didn't leave the boy's bedside for several days until he began to recuperate. He begged them to take him home and for them to stay there with him. That was the first time that either Tom or Betty realized that Tom Junior knew about their planned separation. It impressed both of them a great deal and they decided to try getting on together for young Tom's sake."

Cora came in with the refreshments and as she passed the boy, absorbed in his reading, she whispered: "Fruit punch, sandwiches and cakes for you, Jack. Shall I bring them in here, or will you eat them on the porch?"

The boy closed his book and smiled up at his aunt's maid: "No, Cora, I think I'll take them in the kitchen. It will save you a lot of trouble."

When Jack had left the women for his refreshments in the kitchen, his aunt spoke. "I do hope Jack was too interested in his reading to hear what I said about the Lintons. You probably know that his parents—my brother Joe and Belle—are having the same trouble. He realizes that things are upset at home and is very sensitive about it."

At dinner that evening, Jack announced to his aunt and uncle that he would like to go home.

"Uncle Harry can drop me at the corner of our street and I will surprise mother and father. I'm not feeling so well and I think I'd better go home."

It was just a little after seven the next morning when the telephone rang and the voice that reached Fanny was excited.

"It's Belle, Fanny. I—I just couldn't wait to tell you. Jack was sick last night but he's much better this morning, thank goodness. Joe sat up all night holding him and he's giving him his breakfast now. It was so strange and sudden. We called the doctor and he couldn't find anything wrong with Jack, but he tossed from one side of the bed to the other and acted delirious. He kept calling for both of us and he didn't get to sleep until some time after midnight. Neither Joe nor I slept a wink all night but he slept soundly until six this morning. But Fanny, what do you suppose he said, just before he dozed off last night?"

"He said: 'If you love me and want to keep me, if you don't want me to be sick, then you both must stay right here with me—all the time.' Oh, Fanny, to think—"

"And now what?" prompted her sister-in-law amiably.

"Joe and I have talked everything over. We talked and talked last night while we sat in Jack's bedroom watching him. And decided for Jack's sake we'd make a strong effort to forget all our differences of opinion. I'm going to have the doctor come again this morning to see Jack."

"I don't think a doctor is necessary, Belle, dear. Don't spoil your new happiness—and Jack's—by calling in an outsider. Just pack up and go on your trip as soon as you can. And remember that Jack needs both of you, more than ever. I'm so glad to hear you've patched up all your troubles."

"Everlasting Punishment" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches and Societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, November 4th.

The golden text is: "Whoso diggeth a pit shall fall therein; and he that rolleth a stone, it shall return upon him." (Prov. 26:27).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Draw nigh to God, and he will draw nigh to you. Cleanse your hands, ye sinners; and purify your hearts, ye double minded." (Jas. 4:8).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook: "If sin is not regretted and is not lessening, then it is hastening on to physical and moral doom. You are conquered by the moral penalties you incur and the ills they bring. The pains of sinful sense are less harmful than its pleasures. Belief in material suffering causes mortals to retreat from their error, to flee from body to spirit, and to appeal to divine sources outside of themselves."

TO ASK NEW MEXICO TO ADOPT UNIFORM NARCOTIC LAW THRU LEGISLATION

H. T. Nugent, field supervisor for the federal bureau of narcotics, announced Tuesday in Albuquerque efforts would be made this winter to have the New Mexico state legislature adopt the uniform narcotic law now in force in eight states.

Nugent said W. J. Barker, federal district attorney for New Mexico, was among the persons in the state interested in having the uniform narcotic law passed. State laws now covering narcotics have been held by many to be inadequate.

Peter 3:18. 11:00 Song service and sermon. 6:00 B. T. U. Please note the change in time of meeting from 6:30 to 6:00, one-half hour earlier. Govern yourself accordingly and be on time for the opening bell. Last Sunday night we had over sixty present in the B. T. U. Let's make this number even greater next time.

7:00 Song service and sermon. On Monday night at 7:00 o'clock we will have our regular weekly choir practice. Interest in this phase of our church life is growing, but we still need more voices at these practices.

On Wednesday night at 7:00 o'clock we will have our regular mid-week prayer service. Note the half hour change in the time of this service also.

Sunday is the beginning of our every member canvass. We are hoping that every member of the church will cooperate fully in this enterprise, so that we may complete the canvass as quickly as possible and go forward with the work represented by our budget in a manner worthy of the Master we honor and serve.

Remember our coming January revival in your prayers. Prayer is the means ordained of God for laying hold of the power of God for the accomplishment of His kingdom work by His loyal, consecrated followers.

One of the new song books is missing, and we are hoping that it will soon be returned by who-ever unintentionally carried it off with him or her.

LESLIE MARTIN TAKES $135,000,000 FED. RELIEF FUNDS GIVEN FORTY-SEVEN STATES

Branding as absurd the assertion of James McCall, Carlsbad attorney to the republican state headquarters, that Eddy county would go progressive-republican November 6, W. Leslie Martin, Artesia precinct chairman and prominent north Eddy county democrat, has challenged McCall to tell the people why he turned republican so quickly after seeking the nomination of attorney general at the state democratic convention.

"Eddy county voters know why Mr. McCall changed his political color and they know it was for a selfish reason," Martin said. "McCall aspired for the democratic nomination of attorney general, and when the Eddy county delegation went to the state democratic convention they realized that Eddy could have but one place on the ticket. It was also known that H. R. Rodgers, county superintendent, would accept the nomination of state superintendent. To be fair to both candidates a vote was taken among the Eddy county delegation to determine which candidate the delegation would support and Rodgers won overwhelmingly. After it had become apparent that McCall would not be nominated, he quit the convention with the statement he could not follow the leadership of Rodgers and resigned his position as secretary-treasurer of the county democratic organization."

Martin declared that the county would return a normal democratic majority next week. "Cutting and his following," he said, "may get quite a sprinkle of democratic votes, but these will be more than offset by the old guard republican vote which is 85 per cent for the democratic ticket."

5,000 MEN IN EX-SERVICE MEN'S DEMOCRATIC CLUB

SANTA FE—More than five thousand ex-service men have enrolled in Democratic Ex-service-men's clubs which has for its chief aim election of democratic candidates in the coming election, Everett Grantham, former state commander of the American Legion, announced recently.

Mr. Grantham, in charge of organization work, stated that all but two counties in the state have active organizations and are working to put the democratic ticket offer. They are especially interested in the election of Congressman Dennis Chavez to the U. S. Senate, Mr. Grantham said.

He expects that by the time election day comes around, more than half of the approximately 17,000 ex-service men in the state will be enrolled. Mr. Grantham predicts that a majority of the ex-service men will support democratic candidates. He bases this prediction on the enthusiastic response of veterans in joining the democratic club.

LEA PEOPLE SUED ON BOND OF DALE ROBERTS Suit has been filed in the federal court at Albuquerque to collect the sum of $96.45 for the government from the bondsmen of Deward D. Roberts, former postmaster at Hobbs. Roberts was charged with embezzling post-office funds in 1930, was indicted, tried and convicted.

The bondsmen named in the suit are A. G. Trout, Portales; J. E. Simmons, Seth Alston and Eva Vosburg, of Lovington, and J. T. Harris, Center, Texas, all on Roberts' bond for $1,000. In the pleadings it is alleged that the bondsmen have refused to meet the demands for payment.

The bondsmen deny that they are liable for any funds that may have been embezzled by Roberts. They say they surrendered his bond and were given a discharge from any obligations under it long before the alleged embezzlement took place.—The Lovington Leader.

SURPLUS SKIMMILK CAN BE FED TO COWS

Nearly everyone is familiar with the old story about the cat and the rat farm. There, it will be recalled, the rats were fed to the cats and the skinned carcasses of the cats fed back to the rats. Thus the industry was self-supporting with the skins from the cats as the profit.

Attempts have been made, with only a limited degree of success, to make the dairy industry self-supporting by feeding some of the dairy products back to the cows, says E. E. Anderson of the New Mexico State College.

On many farms where cream is sold, not enough skim milk will be produced this coming winter for the calves, chickens and hogs. However, there will be some farmers who will have no method of utilizing their skim milk profitably. Under such conditions these people may find it to their advantage to feed their surplus skim milk back to the cows.

Feeding trials at the University of Minnesota would indicate that skim milk can be fed to cows satisfactorily by merely mixing it with ground grain and feeding the grain to the cows in a wet condition. It was found that four

POUNDS OF GRAIN WILL ABSORB ABOUT ONE GALLON OF MILK. ALSO, THAT ONE GALLON OF MILK WILL REPLACE ONE POUND OF COTTONSEED MEAL IN THE DAIRY RATION.

With the present price of cottonseed meal, skim milk for feeding to dairy cows would be worth approximately three cents per gallon, or 35 cents per 100 pounds. On this basis, the skim milk from a given quantity of milk, with present cream prices, would be worth about one-fourth as much as the butterfat.

According to all information available, skim milk should be fed lightly at first, gradually increasing the amount. It is also advisable to cut down on the amount of grain fed at the beginning so the cows will have more of an appetite for the grain which has been moistened with the skim milk.

Wall Street Is Cheered By Bettered Farm Conditions

NEW YORK—Wall Street is considerably cheered by indications that when all crops are finally harvested the farmer will "dig in" for the winter with a much fatter pocketbook than last year. In sharp contrast to conditions prevailing in industry, where earnings statements and labor disorders reflect the stress and strain of troubled times, farm income in the first nine months was reported by the bureau of agricultural economics to have totaled $4,313,000,000 compared with $3,479,000,000 in that period last year, an increase of more than $750,000,000. While the farmer's financial condition has improved greatly this year, his living costs have also expanded. For example, the standard statistics index of prices paid for commodities bought for farm consumption averaged 109 in 1933 compared with 122 thus far this year, a gain of 12 per cent. Farm wages and prices of commodities bought for production of crops have advanced around 10 per cent from last year. Such increases, however, have been at least partly offset by a reduction in the farmer's fixed debt, reflecting lower interest payments, reduced taxes and the farm mortgage relief program sponsored by the federal government.

SIX STATES TO VOTE ON LIQUOR NOV. 6th

WASHINGTON—Among other issues, future liquor control policies are at stake in the November 6 elections. The men elected to congress will be called upon to frame a permanent liquor control system. The codes which now regulate distillers, brewers, wholesalers, blenders and wine-makers will expire June 16, 1935. As to the states, a check by the Anti-Saloon League shows Florida, Idaho, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, West Virginia and Wyoming will vote November 6 on state prohibition repeal. California will ballot on a proposal for local option. Communities in Ohio and a number of other states will decide local liquor questions. In many instances, candidates elected to the legislatures of "wet" states will re-shape their control systems along permanent lines. State liquor control officials will thresh out their problems at a national conference before most of the legislatures convene in January. Merits of state liquor store systems are to be debated.

MANY OPERATORS TO ATTEND DALLAS MEET

DALLAS, Texas—The stage is set for what probably will be the most representative gathering in history of governmental and oil officials controlling the destinies of the vast petroleum industry. It will afford unequalled opportunity to reach a better understanding of the grave problems confronting the industry, Captain J. F. Lucey, general convention chairman, said in announcing further plans for the annual American Petroleum Institute meeting in Dallas, November 12 to 15.

Perhaps never before, Captain Lucey said, has the necessity for such a meeting been so great as at the present time. The oil industry is facing problems affecting the entire economic situation of the world, and it is the hope of oil leaders that the conferences between the industrial leaders and others to be held during the convention will pave the way to a better understanding.

Representing the federal government will be Harold L. Ickes, Secretary of Interior and Federal Oil Administrator, who is scheduled to speak at the second general session Wednesday, November 14. Mr. Ickes will discuss legislation concerning the oil industry and outline his plans for control. Members of the congressional oil investigation committee, which opens its hearings in Dallas following the convention, also will have an opportunity of being present at sessions of the Institute.

State officials from Texas and the neighboring states have been invited, these including the governors and oil control bodies. An important meeting of officials and oil leaders will be the banquet being given by the Dallas Chamber of Commerce. Guests at this banquet will not only include Secretary Ickes, members of the congressional committee, governors and oil control bodies from the states, but the directors and officers of the A. P. I. and representatives from the Texas regional chambers of commerce and important oil cities in the southwest.

Mr. and Mrs. John Prude were in from their ranch west of Hope yesterday, shopping and visiting friends.

YOUNG FOLKS LEAD IN RANKS OF CRIME

Active Criminals Under 30, Bureau Shows.

Washington.—Youth continues to predominate in the ranks of crime. Boys and girls of nineteen form the largest individual group in the criminal element. One-fifth of all known crimes are committed by persons under twenty-one, three-fifths by persons under thirty. This was the record written in youth finger prints in the files of the United States bureau of investigation during the first six months of 1933. While it set no precedent it added still another chapter to the story of youth's leadership in crime which has been told periodically by the investigation bureau ever since it began several years ago to catalogue finger prints of every person arrested for a criminal offense in the United States. This time, analyzing its statistics, the bureau found in them a new indication that it is a short step from a minor first offense to more serious and deliberate crimes. Nineteen year olds, it was pointed out, exceeded the number of eighteen-year-old offenders by only 10 per cent when the whole group of offenses was taken into consideration with minor crimes pulling the average down. But in the more serious offenses the number of nineteen-year-old criminals exceeded eighteen-year-olds by these margins: Criminal homicide, 74 per cent; carrying weapons, 37 per cent; assault, 34 per cent; robbery, 28 per cent.

Take to Serious Crimes.

These figures," the bureau stated, "tend to indicate that youthful offenders go quickly to the more serious crimes." During the first half of this year, the bureau reported, 159,493 arrests were made in the United States and the finger prints of the arrested persons transmitted to the Department of Justice. Of that total, 31,997, or 20.1 per cent were under twenty-one years of age and 62,977, or 39.5 per cent, were under twenty-five.

Of the total number arrested, the bureau said, only 11,023, or 6.9 per cent, were women. Their most frequent offenses were disorderly conduct, drunkenness and vagrancy, of which 1,963 cases were reported; larceny, with 1,910 cases, and sex offenses, with 1,336 arrests. Thirty-five per cent of the 159,493 persons arrested during the six months period had previous arrest records already on file in the bureau of investigation, it was said.

"This does not mean that they were previously convicted, nor does it mean that they were previously charged with committing the same offense," the bureau explained, however. "It means merely that at some previous time they were arrested and finger-printed and copies of the finger print records were forwarded to the bureau at Washington. Six of ten arrested for violation of the narcotic drug laws and approximately four of each ten charged with forgery and counterfeiting, disorderly conduct, drunkenness, vagrancy, robbery and embezzlement and fraud had previous records," the report added.

Burglary Most Popular.
The bureau found burglary the most prevalent crime among eighteen and nineteen year olds. During the half year, it was said 6,253 persons under twenty-one were arrested for this offense. Larceny, with 5,835 arrests, was second among the more youthful criminals, while disorderly conduct, drunkenness and vagrancy was third with 3,961 cases. In addition there were, among persons under twenty-one, 2,459 cases of robbery, 2,458 of auto theft, 309 of criminal homicide, 499 of rape, and 494 of carrying and possessing weapons.

At the end of June, 1933, the bureau said, there were 3,780,554 finger prints on record in its files, and 4,901,443 index cards, containing names or aliases of criminals. In the month of June, it was said 347 fugitives from justice were identified through these records.

Eddy County Farm News

The regular meeting of the Atoka and Cottonwood Woman's clubs is to be postponed from the week of November 1st to the week of November 12th. This postponement was made due to the fact that Miss Strong, state home agent, could not be present this week. On Thursday, November 15th, a meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. E. P. Malone, at which members from each of the four Woman's clubs will be present and a program will be planned for the year 1935.

An agricultural census will be taken next year. The extension agent is securing sample copies and will mail them to all farmers and ranchmen in Eddy county. The agent will be glad to assist the farmers in filling these out, and urges everyone to fill out these correctly, as most all of the present agricultural programs are based on the figures in this census, thus, unless accurate figures are given, some farmers do not receive a just reduction to which they are entitled. This is particularly noticed in cattle and sheep buying programs where a certain percent of animals could be purchased according to the past listings made. If the accurate figures are not given the census enumerators must only put down an estimate, and many times these enumerators do not know anything about the farm and ranch conditions, thus, their figures are all a guess.

Peanut Brittle Trifle
1/3 cup quick-cooking tapioca; 1/4 cup sugar; 1/4 teaspoon salt; 1 or 2 egg yolks; 4 cups milk; 1 or 2 egg whites, stiffly beaten; 1 teaspoon flavoring; peanut brittle, coarsely crushed. Combine quick-cooking tapioca, sugar, salt, egg yolk, and milk in top of double boiler and stir enough to break egg yolk. Place over rapidly boiling water, bring to scalding point (allow 5 to 7 minutes), and cook 5 minutes, stirring frequently. Remove from boiling water. Fold a small amount into egg whites; add to remaining tapioca mixture and blend. Cool—mixture thickens as it cools. When slightly cool, add flavoring; chill. Fold in peanut brittle. Serve in sherbert glasses. Top with additional coarsely crushed peanut brittle, and garnish with whipped cream, if desired.

FIRE DESTROYS THE VALLEY MARKET AT 2:00 A. M. SUNDAY

Fire of unknown origin demolished the Valley Market stand west of the post office, Sunday morning between 1:30 and 2:00 o'clock. Starting in a north room the flames spread quickly and the building was practically gutted before the fire department arrived. The walls were left standing, but the interior of the building as well as the greater part of the contents were badly damaged.

The heaviest loss was sustained on the market fixtures and contents, estimated by Frank Watkins, proprietor, at around $1,900. The loss was partly covered by insurance, but it was not learned whether the loss on the building was insured. Money, checks and some valuable papers were damaged also and had the building burned to the ground, these would have been lost. The frame building was one of the land marks of Artesia.

84,846 PEOPLE SEE THE CAVERNS SINCE JAN. 1st

The October total was 5,418 people from forty-seven states and twelve foreign countries. During October, California had the second largest number of visitors of all other states with a total of 1,066.
