Legion Initiates 30 New Vets

Thirty veterans of World War II, including a WAC and one of the "Men of Bataan," were initiated into Clarence Kepple Post No. 41, American Legion, Tuesday evening, in what is believed to have been the greatest mass initiation of the organization in New Mexico to date.

During the business session the post went on record in favor of universal military training for the youth of the United States.

The WAC initiated is Mary Linde Dudley, who has been honorably discharged. She is the first woman of World War II service to join the American Legion post here.

Sgt. Hoyt Keller of Hope, a member of the 200th Coast Artillery, Anti-Aircraft, who was liberated from the Japs a few weeks ago, was the first of the "Men of Bataan" initiated by the post. Sergeant Keller has not been discharged as yet.

The others who were formally initiated and the branches in which they are serving or have served:

Jackie D. Woodside, AAF; Alouis J. Pokluda, Army; Pedro C. Lopez, Army; Robert Rheberg, Army; J. T. Easley, Navy; Chalmers W. Guillilan, Army; Olin E. Woodside, Navy.

Ned Martin, Army; Fred Wilson, Army; Creighton Gilchrist, AAF; James N. Hightower, AAF; John F. Gladfelter, Army; O. H. Howard, Army; C. K. Bailey, Army; T. C. Goss, Army; R. E. Lee, Army.

Howard Linell, Army; Ivis Boykin, Army; Joe G. Taylor, Army;

Ernest Boyce, Army; Maxwell Johnson, Army; LeRay Teel, Navy; Edwin McGonagill, AAF; Fred B. Kamplain, Army; Alan Thompson, Army; King P. Burtner, Army; W. P. Smith, Army; Roy C. Laman, Army.

It was reported by Oscar Samelson, membership chairman, that of 161 membership cards for 1946 which had been issued prior to the meeting, 61 were made out for veterans of World War II.

The initiation was put on by a special team, with Steve Lanning, a past commander, serving as initiating officer.

The American Legion accepted a proposition presented by Mrs. Jewell Heard, president of The 200th-BRO, that the latter organization share in activities on Saturday, Nov. 24, when the American Legion "Fun Frolic" is to be staged for the benefit of the building fund.

Coming from a meeting of The 200th-BRO to the veterans' meeting, Mrs. Heard said her group wishes on Nov. 24 to honor the returned servicemen and servicewomen, especially those of the 200th CA (AA), with a parade, as well as Western sports at the arena of the Artesia Goat Ropers Club, with the group cooperating.

It was decided the community will "go military and Western," as related in another news story.

Commander Charles Denton appointed J. B. (Bun) Muncy, Alan Thompson, and Howard Whitson as a committee to cooperate with The 200th-BRO in the celebration.

Ray Bartlett, post finance officer and a member of the "Fun Frolic" committee, reported an estimated $5000 in tickets for the frolic dance has been realized. The profits are to go into the general fund, which there now is about $26,000, for erecting an American Legion building and furnishing it. Plans call for an expenditure of about $50,000.

An invitation from Mrs. H. R. Paton, president of the American Legion Auxiliary, to all veterans' wives, mothers, daughters, and sisters to become members was passed on to the legionnaires by Commander Denton.

The post voted to pay the rent of $40 for the Artesia Service Club, for which funds have been depleted, during December, the final month it will be maintained.

One or two other incidents were reported over the city, causing some little concern, but the belief was expressed that another year all of this could be eliminated.

The youngsters were not so sure of the party or its purpose this year, it was explained. Now they know the adults arranged an enjoyable evening for them and provided plenty of fun and entertainment. The belief was expressed that another year will find all of the boys and girls of Artesia present.

The party here, of course, was possible because of the sponsorship of the Lions and the full done by their members; the full and complete cooperation of the schools and their teachers and the business and professional men of Artesia, who donated a total of $198 for the refreshments.

Principal C. D. Marshall, Principal George Short, Mrs. Flora Thompson, Coaches F. L. Green and Alan Thompson took charge of the entertainment and game features and did an outstanding job in conducting them.

Mrs. P. V. Sheldon assisted in the directing of the games for the high school girls while Misses Morris and Robertson directed the

Stores to Close Monday, Observing Armistice Day

Stores in Artesia will be closed Monday, Nov. 12, in observation of Armistice Day, which will fall on Sunday.

The decision was made after a poll of owners and managers had been made by Arba Green, secretary-manager of the Artesia Chamber of Commerce.

Some feel that the armistice was over with the declaration of war on Japan and Germany in December, 1941, when the United States became involved in World War II, but others have pointed out that Armistice Day is of great historic interest and a day close to the hearts of veterans of World War I.

Although the day will be observed here on Monday, no special arrangements have been made for a local program.

Death Comes To Mrs. Terry, 96, Wednesday

Mrs. J. D. Terry, 96, widow of the late Rev. J. D. Terry, an old-time Methodist preacher and the last of the Confederate soldiers in this vicinity, died at her farm home eight miles southeast of Artesia at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Funeral services for Mrs. Terry, one of the oldest women in Southeast New Mexico, will be from Bayless Chapel at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon by the Rev. Chester Rogers, pastor of the Lake Arthur and Cottonwood Methodist Churches. Burial will be in Woodbine Cemetery by the grave of Mr. Terry.

There survive Mrs. Terry eight children, 16 grandchildren, and 18 great-grandchildren.

The children: Paul and Tom Terry and Mrs. S. O. Higgins, Artesia; Mrs. N. R. Stroud, Altus. (TURN TO SOCIETY PAGE, PLEASE)

Central School P.T.A. Sounds Plea for Children's Safety

Pleas that proper signs and protection be provided at the Artesia schools and particularly the Central School are being sounded here by the Parent-Teacher Association at that school.

The executive committee of the Central Parent-Teacher Association in a recent meeting urged that not only proper signs be placed near the school calling for all drivers to use care and caution, but they are also requesting that a policeman be at the school at dismissal time to protect the children.

They are urging that the city provide this protection for their school children. While, of course, more interested in Central School, they point out the need at the other schools and are hoping that proper steps can be taken.

Besides urging that the city provide a patrolman during the dismissal periods they are also requesting that the city require examinations for bicycle riders to provide all the protection possible for the boys and girls, who ride bikes.

Mrs. L. A. Hanson, president of the organization, has explained that the organization is merely endeavoring to urge that all safeguards possible be thrown up to protect the children. Accidents, she pointed out, can easily be prevented with proper care and caution. She stated that children are thoughtless and careless and that it is the adults, who have to do the thinking to prevent some child or children from being hit by a car.

Several years ago student patrols were employed to aid the children in crossing the streets. If a police patrolman cannot be obtained, it may be necessary to work out something along this line soon.

It is believed that the signs will be erected not only near Central School but around the high school and Park School as well.

The Artesia Lions Club has indicated they will sponsor the erection of these signs, if they are provided and it is understood that they will be prepared.

Driving in the vicinity of the schools not only by adults but by some students, it has been declared, is entirely too fast and every effort is to be made here to halt this practice and to make care and caution the by-word of every driver when he or she is near the schools.

Hope to Dedicate Nazarene Church During District Confab Nov. 20-22

It is hoped the Church of the Nazarene of Artesia will be out of debt and that it may be dedicated during the three-day district convention to be held here Tuesday through Thursday, Nov. 20-22, the Rev. Dan D. Jones, pastor, said this week.

He said a committee consisting of himself and Mrs. E. A. Paton and Mrs. Jess Shildneck is striving to raise the necessary $1000 to lift the church debt, and that it is hoped an additional $1000 may be raised for new pews.

The Rev. Mr. Jones said he has been getting a good response from other towns in the district, which embraces all of New Mexico and a portion of West Texas, indicating that there will be a large attendance at the convention. It has been estimated upwards of 200 pastors and laymen will be in attendance.

The pastor likewise said he has been getting good response here among the people of various churches in an appeal for housing for the visitors during their three-day visit to Artesia. That and the church financing project are the two problems on which members

Many Pictures Viewed During 'Art Week'

Many works of art by local artists have been attracting attention in the business district of Artesia this week, as they are being exhibited in show windows in observation of "National Art Week."

A number of old favorites of local art lovers have been noted, along with some splendid new pieces of work.

As had been the custom, there is no judging of the exhibits, but they are shown merely for the pleasure it gives the citizens of the community to view them and to the artists themselves in the pride of their art work.

In some of the show windows there is the work of a single artist, while in others several artists have their exhibits. And the paintings of a few of the artists are found in more than one window.

In the windows of McClay Furniture Store are paintings by several artists. Mrs. Jack Fauntleroy has a sunset over a lake scene and two forest scenes, while Mrs. J. Carl Gordon is exhibiting a black and white sketch of two cats. In the same windows are a black and white flower picture and a still life of a vase, statue, and tapestry by Mrs. B. N. Muncy, Jr., as well as Mrs. B. E. Spencer's picture of cowboys roping a bear.

At the Southern Union Gas Company office are five pictures by Mrs. M. A. Mapes, Jr., including a mountain scene, the old mill at Ruidoso, a Taos scene, "Harvest Time Around Phoenix," and a winter scene. Miss Violet Robertson is showing in the gas company window a scene of Walnut Grove, a North New Mexico scene, and a barnyard scene.

At Atteberys' Floral and Gift Shop, Miss Robertson also has a picture of a Pueblo Indian and a mountain forest scene with a rider.

Mrs. Stella Glascock has on exhibit at Peoples Mercantile Company a desert scene, as well as an Indian and horse at a mountain stream. At the same store Wayne Hornbaker is showing a still life picture of a vase and apples and a study of desert plants.

Mrs. Glascock and Miss Robertson's work is also found at the Mann Drug Company store, the former with a mountain road and the latter with a mountain scene and an Indian.

A scene on the Upper Peco River and a cowboy and horse at a stream are exhibited at Bakwin's by Mrs. B. E. Spencer. An Mrs. S. W. Gilbert has in the same window a study of a violin and music, a basket of fruit, and a mountain stream. There also are found Mrs. J. B. Atkeson's blue bonnet scene and a lake scene and two pictures by Mrs. Glascock, a young girl, and a Spanish American girl. Mrs. J. Carl Gordon's castle on a waterfront shown, as is a mountain stream scene by S. P. Emmons, the only picture by him shown this year.

War Fund Contributions Needed to Reach $12,700 Goal

Public Service Company office here.

There are several calls yet to be made, it was stated, and the leaders are striving to reach as many of these individuals as possible. They continue to make a few of these each day but it all takes time. Chairmen Watson and Mahone have already given time to the drive since early in October. They are anxious to conclude the drive but do not want to do so, they stated, until they reach the goal.

Some $7,500 of the $12,700 goes to the War Fund and all of its various agencies, it was stated. This money is used to provide extras, entertainment and programs for the boys in service and help and aid the victims of the war torn countries.

The remainder of the funds go to the Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts, and to the Teen Canteen here.

Contributions and gifts are being collected up to the goal of $12,700 in the fund campaign.

An announcement was made Wednesday by Hollis Watson, D. Smith, and A. P. Mahone, chairmen in the campaign.

More than $10,000 of the $12,700 has been collected up to the time but the leaders are hopeful that the remaining needed to reach the quota are continuing to make contacts are possible, they are sounding pleas for those who have not made their donations to send in their gifts.

The contributions, it was explained, can be mailed direct to the chairman or they can be left at the Southwestern

To Honor Vets Nov. 24

Among the veterans especially to be honored during the day will be the returned "Men of Bataan," the North Eddy County heroes who defended the Philippines until the final surrender of Bataan and Corregidor and then sweat celebration for the returned veterans, sponsored by The 200th-BRO, and the American Legion post's previously announced "Fun Frolic."

The town's "go-in' military," and it's "go-in' Western"—or a sort of combination of the two—on Saturday, Nov. 24!

The occasion will be a combination of a North Eddy Countywide out more than three years in prison camps as "guests" of the Japs. Plans for the combination "whing-ding" were made here Tuesday evening severally and jointly by the two organizations, which plan to share the day. The 200th-BRO in honor of returned veterans and the American Legion in behalf of its building fund drive, which will have a highspot the evening of Nov. 24 in its "Fun Frolic," a dance and a Ford automobile to share honors in the final wind-up.

It was indicated by members of the various committees this morning the date for the entire celebration may be changed to Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 22, which should make for a bigger crowd participating. Besides the rodeo, which might be held that morning, and the "Fun Frolic" in the evening, the Artesia Bulldogs and Lovington Wildcats will meet on Morris Field in the afternoon, which, put all together, would make a full day of fun and should attract many people to the city, committeemen said. The matter will be discussed at a meeting this evening.

General plans for the affair were made Tuesday evening at a meeting of The 200th-BRO at the city hall in Artesia, while the American Legion members, having heard of the other organization's intentions, voted to give every assistance possible.

Then Mrs. Jewell Heard, the former Beth King, president of The 200th-BRO, paid a visit to the American Legion meeting and laid down the plans of her group, to which the legionnaires gave full support.

Mrs. Heard said that at the meeting of The 200th-BRO it was decided there should be a parade in honor of the returned veterans—with emphasis on the members of the 200th Coast Artillery, Anti-Aircraft, of whom more than a half hundred were from North Eddy County—and that in the afternoon there would be a Western cavalcade at the arena of the Artesia Goat Ropers Club, with the cooperation of that organization, while the evening would be left open to the American Legion's "Fun Frolic."

On that day it was planned, the city will "go military and Western." It was decided that those returned veterans wishing to do so will don their old uniforms, and that men still in the service will take part. Members of the American Legion of World War I will wear their old uniforms—provided they are not too fat and wish to. Others will "go Western," as has been the custom of Artesia and other Western cities for special occasions.

Mayor Emery Carter is to be asked to designate the day as a special occasion.

The exact designation is to be worked out this evening at a meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Abe Conner, attended by representatives of The 200th-BRO, the American Legion, and the American Legion Auxiliary. At the meeting, plans for the combination celebration also will be discussed and perfected.

At the meeting of the relatives of the men of the 200th CA (AA) it was decided that as soon as they wish, it will be turned over to them, as it now has served its purpose otherwise. What finally will be done is not known, but Mrs. Heard suggested that the men become members of the American Legion Auxiliary, to perpetuate the work started during the imprisonment of the "Men of Bataan."

Victory Loan Campaign Is Lagging Badly in North Eddy County Area

With less than $50,000 worth of War Bonds purchased here during the first week of the Victory War Loan drive, pleas were being sounded for the individuals in North Eddy County to join with the rest of the nation in oversubscribing the quota of $257,000 assigned North Eddy County and Artesia. A total of $100,000 of this $257,000 is in series "E" bonds.

While the bond campaign is moving along slowly here, according to Mrs. H. R. Paton, who is in charge of the booth in the First National Bank, hopes are entertained that the sales will pick up during this week and the remaining period of the campaign.

L. B. Feather, chairman for North Eddy County, explained that over the nation there has been the finest response for any drive for the Victory Loan. He declared everything now points to the fact that the nation will oversubscribe the 11 billion dollars. Eddy County, he stated, should be keeping pace with the other communities in buying its share of these bonds.

The quota, of course, is the smallest assigned to the county and leaders are eager and anxious for Eddy County to maintain a record of having oversubscribed every drive which has been in this part of the county.

Any and all denominations of bonds are available here and the can be purchased at the bank during the regular banking hours.

Considerable interest has been displayed in the new $200 W Bond, the Franklin D. Roosevelt Memorial, which is being offered for the first time during this campaign.

The public is being urged buy bonds to pay for the peac which the men in service have already paid for. And the public is being urged to provide the money to maintain the occupation forces, to return the boys home, provide for the wounded, and carry out the provisions of the Bill of Rights.

Civic Matters Being Discussed Here Today at Chamber Luncheon

The monthly luncheon of the Artesia Chamber of Commerce is being held today noon at the Christian Church here, with many of the civic problems, which have come up in the past few weeks, scheduled for discussion.

With no meeting held for some weeks now because no place was available, a good attendance was urged for the meeting Thursday noon and more than 40 are expected to be present. Besides the local members it is hoped and expected there be several representatives from some nearby cities for the report to be presented by A. H. Hover, president of the Texas-New Mexico organization on the superhighway.

One of the most pressing problems, which has prevailed for years and still prevails, is that of housing facilities. It is expected this matter will be discussed. Not only are more apartment and light housekeeping room needed, but there is a real need for rent houses here. Recently the Artesia Chamber of Commerce housing committee was given a proposal for 20 new houses to be erected not to exceed $7500 each in cost. Carl Folkner is chairman of the housing committee.

It is also expected that other civic matters will come before the organization at this time for presentation and discussion.

Demand for Places to Live Still Top Problem Here

Demand and need for places to live continues to rank first among the problems here.

The demand, which has prevailed for four to five years here for rent houses, an apartment, living quarters, or even a room, still ranks high in November of or a year ago. The supply of rent houses, apartments, or even light housekeeping rooms is no greater.

The matter is receiving considerable attention on all hands with many realizing that until Artesia can meet this demand the number of new residents the city can have is very limited.

The city to grow, it has been pointed out by Ralph Petty, president of the Artesia Chamber of Commerce, is to be met by the

Can't Do Both

CONGRESS CANT eat its pie and keep it, too. We as citizens and taxpayers seemingly think that it can.

Our clamors for tax reductions go up on one hand. And in the next vote we want to know why Congress doesn't build this or that.

Congress can't reduce taxes and create unheard of amounts before the New Deal administration to provide pay for the unemployed. Congress can't continue to build this and that and yet reduce taxes.

For instance Congress spent millions of dollars over the nation constructing air fields. One of those millions was spent here. Now there is a clamor for Congress to spend more millions to improve, enlarge and keep in repair the very airports it constructed with the understanding the cities or counties would take them over and maintain them.

The City of Artesia is prepared and ready to do exactly that.

And we don't believe that we want the government to spend any money on our airport here and likewise we don't want it to spend any more money elsewhere.

But very definitely if she does spend money elsewhere then we want our part of it here.

We believe Artesia and North Eddy county want taxes reduced and less from Uncle Sam instead of a continuation of the present tax rates or more taxes and the continued spending.

We also believe that if Congress does decide to do more spending and less reducing of taxes then some thought and some effort should go into the spending. We believe that we have had all the weed cutting and the ditch digging we want. We believe if we go on another spending spree then we want something left when the spree is over besides an unbalanced budget.

There are certain expenditures within reason carried on from year to year. Our new proposed postoffice is in that category. But the sum appropriated here isn't sufficient to justify the spending. It wouldn't provide what the city now needs let alone taking care of its future growth and expansion. And it should do that.

Building and constructing of highways should be among the top ranking project. The last war should have taught us that with all our highways we still haven't sufficient to meet the need of a peacetime nation and very definitely we haven't sufficient highways during a war.

We are firmly convinced that Artesia is more interested in a federal tax reduction program than it is in a federal spending and building program but if the wild spending spree is going to continue Artesia wants her part of it.—O. E. P.

Praise Youngsters

ARTESIA boys and girls were being given a pat on the back this week for their fine conduct on Halloween.

On the whole adults had only praise for them. Some few may have stepped out of line but the larger group should not be condemned for the few.

Police Chief Kelly Stout and city officers only had praise for them and their fine conduct.

Certainly the Halloween party gave them an outlet for their energy and it provided them plenty of fun and entertainment. It will be a greater event next year and they will have a greater part in it.

So the Lions club, the merchants, business people and professional men, school officials, principals, teachers and workers deserve the thanks of all for making it possible.

But after all it was the attendance by the boys and girls of Artesia and their keeping faith and proving they are worthy of their honor that made Halloween an enjoyable occasion here marked by fun and entertainment rather than destruction.—O. E. P.

Get The Record Straight

LET'S GET THE RECORD straight once and for all in regard to the increasing number of fellows who are wearing discharge buttons and shirt patches.

On the street the other day, a man was heard tell another, "One of those damned soldiers come back and took my job away from me." To which the other replied, "Yes, they're getting mighty thick around here."

As the old saying goes, "Them's fighting words!"

In the first place, everybody should be thankful that the boys can come home and that they are coming home every day—because the war is over. That alone should be sufficient cause for thanksgiving.

In the second place, when the boys went to war, they were assured they could return to their old jobs when they came home. Therefore, anyone else holding down a job which a man left to become a soldier, sailor, or marine should know he must step aside, and he should be more than happy to step aside. During the war, the fellow who took the job undoubtedly made more money in a week than the man he displaced made in a month in the service. Besides, the fellow away at war was subjected to dangers to which the substitute was not exposed.

In the third place, the chances are that the fellow who is griping because he lost his job would have been fired months ago, had it been possible to replace him. We all know that inexperienced, incompetent, unskilled workers have been holding down jobs in which they were far from efficient, merely because someone had to do the work. The fact that they did not really do the work, but merely went through some motions—as few motions as possible—did not get them fired, because the next fellow who might come along probably would be even worse.

Yes, they—the former soldiers, sailors, and marines—are getting mighty thick around here, and they're getting their old jobs back, and the inefficient workers are having to seek new jobs more in line with what they are fitted to do—as it should be.—A. L. B.

Wasted Wishes

IF ALL THE GOOD wishes for a community could come true then active civic and community work would not be necessary.

We believe that in any and every community the best wishes of every man, woman and child in that community, is for the growth, expansion, development and progress of that community.

Unfortunately wishing doesn't get the job done. Such wishes are only wasted.

In every community in which we have ever lived there has always been those individuals, who sit back; complained because the city didn't do this or that; because the chamber of commerce didn't get this done; because certain business people didn't accomplish those things, which they believed should be done.

Yet these same individuals were not active in civic affairs; they never attended a city council meeting; they didn't have any idea of how much money the city had or should get or what it cost to operate the city. They were not contributing members of the chamber of commerce. They never paid any dues. They never worked on any of the various committees in the community on the many and numerous free jobs, which had to be done.

The fact is they never made a single contribution in any way to their community. Theirs was always destructive criticism. They never had any constructive criticism and if they did have they wanted the other fellow to do it for them.

Every community, we say, has some of those folks. All communities have business people, professional people, merchants and citizens who want to take everything out of the community they can possibly get but they never want to put anything back.

They haven't learned the lesson we have slowly learned about our soil—that is if we want to take something out we better put something back.

We recall hearing an assistant cashier in a bank once say, "I can spend my money where I please. I work hard to earn it. No one gives it to me; I haven't any obligation to anyone."

He was foolish and had the wrong slant. Because if the business people and the farmers in that community didn't operate and do business they wouldn't have any business to do with that bank. And if the bank didn't have any business it couldn't continue to operate. And if it wasn't operating then this particular employee wouldn't have a job.

He was just wrong. He did owe something to his job and something to his community.

And we can't escape that if we continue to take out of a community we must put something back. If the community has been kind to us—then we in turn should be kind to the community. We owe our success to the community where we have enjoyed that success.

And in our community when we work and toil together for the common good we can have about what we want.

And we have in our community men with vision; with courage; with faith; and with a willingness to invest their money and employ their credit to build our future. We owe them loyalty, support and co-operation. And we owe them our encouragement.

It doesn't build a community to stand off and criticize the leader, who is doing and giving his best. It doesn't build a community to let personalities enter into our opposition and our complaints about our civic and booster groups.

The best thing for our city and our county and for us is to get into these movements; place our shoulder to the wheel and work with others in bringing about the changes, which need to be made for the good of our community.

Idle wishes may indicate good will but after all they are only wasted wishes—they don't build communities.—O. E. P.

Did you ever notice it is the fellow, who doesn't bother to attend the meeting, who complains about the action taken.

We are often confused about a program adopted—confused because we say that it doesn't meet with the approval of the majority when the fact is it is only our approval that is lacking.

Public buildings are built with public funds for the use of the public. How often there is confusion about this, too.

We can't keep from thinking sometimes that either the dropping of the threat of dropping a few atomic bombs on those troubled spots in the world might eliminate some of the continual revolting.

Up and Down Main Street

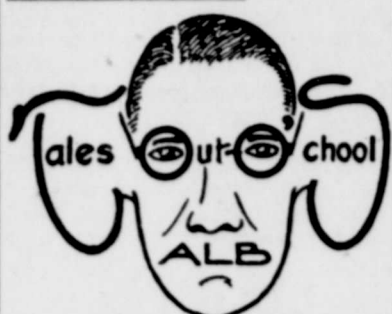

PROPER DIRECTION UP AND DOWN MAIN WILL GET RESULTS

It has often been said that an individual could circulate a petition providing for the hanging of every signer of that petition and that they could still secure many names on that document. And all of that merely goes to show that we don't pay much attention to what we sign; we don't pay too much attention to civic and community affairs; and we go along, permitting things to happen or occur and then complain only when the situation reaches a condition it should never have permitted to reach. One can walk down or up Main Street in Artesia and ask anyone a question about any particular thing and questioner will receive three answers. One of these answers will be condemnation; one will be praise; and one will be indifference resulting directly from the fact that the individual questioned doesn't know a single thing about the situation, condition or the affair. The average citizen has little idea of the cost of operating this city; the county; or any of the governmental agencies of the county yet it is his taxes, which provide the money for the operation of the governmental agency. But that same citizen shouts the loudest and complains the most when something does not go to suit him or her. It was this indifference on the part of taxpayers which permitted the Late Senator Huey P. Long to become a dictator in Louisiana. It was this same indifference, which permitted the Kansas City political graft. It is this same indifference and lack of interest which permits graft and corruption to prevail in any public office in our nation. Our own failure as citizens, voters and taxpayers to take an interest, familiarize ourselves with situations and conditions and to take an active part in governmental affairs is responsible for the waste and extravagance of public funds.

Dennis Higgs looking for a duck stamp—Paul R. Dillard not only had the duck stamp but he was out early and got the ducks—Ray Bartlett looking over some work being done at the Valley theatre—Chuck Aston visiting before getting into his car to head for lunch—"Bun" Muncy pushing the sale of dance tickets and advertising the New Ford Car—Louis Story declaring he got more soap on his windows than any Halloween and yet contending it was a fine evening and that the boys and girls were good—Howard Whitson wondering when he was going to get a new chair which he had ordered—Dr. Ed Stone getting his mail at the postoffice and being reminded to do a particular thing in the near future—Dr. H. A. Stroup visiting with a friend while in the drug store on business—Mrs. Waldo Ports headed up the street—Mrs. Joe Foster needing some particular kind of paper—Nedra Folkner getting ready for a big event, which occurred last night—Dr. Louis Hamilton enjoying that cup of coffee with friends—Ralph Petty declaring the biggest need of Artesia right now is more places for folks to live—Wesley Sperry sauntering down the street and declaring he still has more automobile tires than there are tire certificate holders—Forrest Warren, A. P. Mahone and Hollis Watson doing a little special job—Thelma Miller pushing the work at the club cafe with hopes that the restaurant can be opened this week—Fred Cole declaring he was going to get even with a certain group of individuals at some future date—Most of the town getting ready for a trip to the mountains and the opening of deer season—Forrest Green headed east on Main—J. L. Truett visiting with Reverend Frank—Elmer Perry busy as usual with more jobs to do than he had time—That was Up and Down Main this week.

When we fail as citizens, taxpayers and voters to take an interest in our governmental affairs we are inviting those we charge with this responsibility, to do as they please. And when that occurs over a period of time it is easy for them to slip into the practice and adopt the idea that after all it is none of our business. When any such condition exists and it does far too often in governmental affairs—we are to blame. We have permitted the situation to exist. And this is true, we say from the lowest office in the nation to the highest. The honest, sincere, economical, practical and efficient office holders know the indifference of the public. And long ago he or she saw to it there was always an accounting for their stewardship.

They don't permit anything to be done or do anything without seeing that the public knows about it. If they are members of governing bodies, they see the doors to their meetings are open and they see that the hour and day of that meeting is publicized. They see the public knows what went on at that meeting. If the law does not provide for the publication of minutes of that meeting then they see the story gets into the press. Those, who do not desire for the public to know what they are doing, take just the opposite steps. Sometimes it is difficult for an honest and sincere citizen to learn what he or she wants to know. Frequently they are not only discouraged in their efforts to secure information but outright resentment is voiced. Yet if the agency, office or governmental agency is operated with public funds it is the right of every taxpayer, voter and citizen to know and if peacefully friendly requests, which can grow into demands, do not secure the satisfaction there are legal steps open to the voter. But again we say that it is our indifference; our failure to take an interest and our refusal to participate in governmental affairs, which permits and encourage any unhealthy situation to grow or develop. We alone are responsible.

THE OLD FERRET
A snaffle is better for
Than forced literacy;
In memory
Lasts much longer.—A. L. B.

A young woman was filling out a questionnaire here the other day and came to the question, "What is your church membership or preference?" And here's what she wrote: "I am a member of the 'A' Church, but my preference is the 'B' Church."

When the watermelon season was at its height, an Artesia woman saw an acquaintance struggling home with a huge one, so she pulled her car to the curb and offered her a lift.

Just a few days ago—it was nearly November—the owner of the car had occasion to be at the home of the woman she had picked up in her car. The latter, by way of "tea," disappeared and returned a few minutes later with slices of watermelon.

"For pity's sake," the car owner said in astonishment, "where did you find a melon?" "Oh," was the reply, "don't you remember? You helped me bring it home."

We overheard one boby soxer remark to another the other day, "If these Levi's shrink any more, I'll have to lose a whole bunch."

And of course, you've heard about the gal who stuck a whole bunch of War Savings Stamps on a package the other day by mistake and then had quite a time trying to salvage them.

A young matron in Artesia tells with glee a tale about herself when she was a mere 17 years old and was one of the "senior" girl helpers at a girls' camp.

The younger girls made gifts for their own mothers and for the women in charge of the camp—clothes sprinklers in the form of pop bottles, on which they stuck transfer pictures and to which they fitted sprinkler tops, bought at the dime store.

And the girls, after a whisper-ed conference, made an extra one, which they presented to the ancient senior helper. The girl selected to make the little speech and presentation had a touch of pity in her voice, probably because of the spinster state of what they considered an old maid, and said it was "for your mother, because you have no husband."

One of the very few stunts pulled on Halloween worthy of note really was worthy of note and 'twas:

Visitors to Carlsbad Caverns Set New High Record During October

More people visited the Carlsbad Cavern during October than in any previous 10th month, the first time a monthly record has been broken since before the war.

The monthly report issued by Col. Thomas Boles, superintendent of Carlsbad Caverns National Park, shows 19,518 persons were escorted through the Eddy County wonderland last month, compared with 14,054 in October, 1941, the previous record 10th month.

The total included 4290 members of the armed forces and 150 foreign visitors. For once, California nosed out Texas for the month's honors, the Prune State being represented by 4691, as compared with 4266 from the Lone Star State.

Geographical distribution of visitors by states and territories: Arkansas 230, Alabama 76, Alaska 14, Arizona 265, California 4691, Colorado 780, Connecticut 73, Delaware 10, District of Columbia 55, Florida 110, Georgia 67, Hawaii 47, Idaho 40, Illinois 1118, Indiana 345, Iowa 210, Kansas 680, Kentucky 88, Louisiana 220, Maine 15, Maryland 13, Massachusetts 123, Michigan 386, Minnesota 165, Mississippi 76, Missouri 500, Montana 56, Nebraska 84, Nevada 51, New Hampshire 9, New Jersey 153, New Mexico 916, New York 450, North Carolina 39, North Dakota 10, Ohio 530, Oklahoma 923, Oregon 140.

Pennsylvania 256, Rhode Island 19, South Carolina 29, South Dakota 13, Tennessee 120, Texas 4266, Utah 103, Vermont 4, Virginia 25, Washington 350, West Virginia 29, Wisconsin 345, Wyoming 51.

Morris Field, a group of people—presumed to have been boys—did a moving job, in which an out-building, variously described as a Chic Sale and Johnny, was transferred from an outlying district to the lawn of Artesia High School, where it was discovered the next morning, along with a sign: "C. D. — Private — For Emergency."

C. D. Marshall, principal, says it is a mystery for whom the initials stand!

At any rate, the incident prompted the women teachers to draw up a petition, in which they asked that they be given a special powder room—not, of course, after the architecture of the displaced small building.

The petition went first to Marshall, then to W. E. Kerr, superintendent, and it is presumed it ultimately will go to the school board, and Heaven only knows where it will go then, or what will happen.

Selective Service Boards Busy Assisting Vets

Col. Rufus Sedillo, state director of Selective Service, said that Selective Service local board offices, which are also veterans' information centers, have been extremely busy during the past few weeks assisting returning veterans who report as civilians and seek veterans benefits under the GI Bill of Rights.

Many agencies in the state, Colonel Sedillo said, have been requesting information as to how many veterans have returned in individual counties. State headquarters for Selective Service is releasing the following figures of veterans who have so far returned to their individual counties as of Oct. 25:

Eddy 854, Bernalillo 3055, Catron 131, Chaves 898, Colfax 593, Curry 670, DeBaca 137, Dona Ana 1015, Grant 666, Guadalupe 284, Hidalgo 156, Harding 103, Lea 668, Lincoln 331, Luna 225, McKinley 746, Mora 274, Otero 368, Quay 450, Rio Arriba 657, Roosevelt 470, Sandoval 357, San Juan 420, San Miguel 783, Santa Fe 1212, Sierra 240, Socorro 403, Taos 468, Torrance 299, Union 278, Valencia 465.

The total number of returning veterans for the state of New Mexico was already 17,676, as of Oct. 25, Col. Sedillo said.

CONSUMERS MAY CUT FOOD BUDGET

Although national income in 1946 may be about 15 per cent less than in 1945, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics believes consumers will spend only from 5 to 10 per cent less for food.

"This prediction," a BAE spokesman said, "is based on current trends and information. Large unemployment in the cities is only one of several possibilities that could upset the estimates."

To Show Alaskan Views Nov. 14 at Church of Christ

Scenic views of Alaska will be shown at the Church of Christ at 7 o'clock Wednesday evening, Nov. 14, by Miss Elsie B. Green, a teacher at Central school and a teacher of a Bible class at the church, who was sent by the congregation last summer to Juneau, the capital of Alaska, to help in missionary work.

On her trip to Alaska, Miss Green, after riding buses 95 hours to Seattle, sailed on the SS Princess Alice by Vancouver to Victoria, British Columbia, where she transferred to the SS Nora.

After stopping at Alert Bay and Prince Rupert in Canada and Ketchikan and Wrangell in Alaska and 100 hours of sailing time, Miss Green reached Juneau. She said she arrived in a drizzling rain and that it rained 43 of the 45 days she was there.

To add to her post card picture hobby, Miss Green collected about 600 scenic cards on the trip, some of which she will show at the Church of Christ on a single slide projector which she made.

In order to acquaint people better with the beautiful scenery, customs, and problems of living of Alaska, and to help people here to know what she experienced and saw, the public is invited to attend the showing, to which there will be no admission charge and for which no collection will be made.

Woman's Club Cookbook Ideal Christmas Gift

The Artesia Woman's Club Cookbook makes an ideal Christmas present, it was declared here by Mrs. H. R. Paton, chairman of the committee in charge, Monday. The book makes an especially pleasing gift to some former residents of Artesia and to relatives and friends of those, who reside in some other part of the state or in some other state.

The Woman's Club has approximately 100 of the original 500, which they had printed, still available. The book, of course, contains recipes prepared by the members of this club and is divided into various sections so that the proper receipts can be found in just a minute.

The club, of course, is eager and anxious to complete this project and to sell the remaining books before the end of this year.

It is believed there are many, who have contemplated purchasing the books, but have neglected to do so. They are urged to act now so they will not be disappointed.

Those, who would like to secure one or more of the books and send to friends as Christmas gifts, are urged to act now in order to be sure of securing copies.

Copies can be obtained at The Advocate office or from Mrs. Paton.

A beautiful double-ring ceremony was held at the Catholic Church Monday, when Miss Sela Padilla, daughter of Mrs. Juana Padilla of Artesia, became the bride of Jose Gerardo Trujillo, son of Lucas Trujillo of Roswell. The Rev. Stephen Bono officiated at the wedding.

The bride entered accompanied by her brother to the strains of the "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin." She wore a floor-length white satin dress with a long, flowing bridal veil and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums.

The matron and maid of honor were Mrs. Natividad Calderon and Miss Christiana Villa. Mrs. Calderon's floor-length dress was of pink satin. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Miss Villa wore a blue satin dress and carried a bouquet of red roses.

Victor Calderon and Ysidro Chavis attended the bridegroom. After the wedding ceremony, a wedding breakfast and luncheon were held at the home of Mrs. Gonsalo Gomes, sister of the bride.

Many Pictures—

whereas in the past he has exhibited many.

Eight pictures by Mrs. Lewis Story are in a window of Palace Drug Store, "Clear Creek," "Signal Peak, a dog, a mountain and valley scene, Spanish sunflowers, Saddle Mountain near Monterey, Mexico, and a lily grown on the Boyd Williams ranch near Elk.

Two more pictures by Mrs. J. B. Atkeson are to be found in a window of the J. C. Penney Company store. They are a poplar grove in the mountains and a basket of apples.

At the Artesia Furniture Company store, Mrs. Hattie Merchant has on exhibit a mountain scene in which are cattle. There also are found five pictures by Patsy Robinson, a stream scene, a mountain scene with buildings, a Pueblo village, and sunset and winter scenes.

At the same store Mrs. B. E. Spencer has on exhibit a view of Rio Bonita and Mrs. S. W. Gilbert is showing a distant view of the White Sands, with the San Andres Mountains in the background, and a still life picture of peaches.

Mrs. J. B. Atkeson has in a window of the Toggery Shop a road scene, which took first premium at the Eastern New Mexico State Fair at Roswell in 1936. She also has a sunset scene. There are found a vase and rose study by Mrs. J. C. Hefley and a vase and flowers study by Mrs. S. W. Gilbert.

An interesting exhibit at Brown Mercantile Company is six sepia sketches by Mrs. M. A. Maples, Jr., including an Indian weaver, Rancho de Taos Mission, two antelope, an Indian, and desert and water scenes. In oil Mrs. Maples is showing there also a painting of Walnut Grove, a mountain scene, Taos Pueblo, and "A Challenge," a farm scene.

In the Brown window, Mrs. S. W. Gilbert has a portrait and a woman at a spring, while Mrs. J. B. Atkeson is showing a scene with bluebonnets and a still life of an Indian vase and blankets. Miss Violet Robertson has on exhibit at Brown's a native home, an Indian woman, and a mission church.

Wayne Hornbaker, with a still life of tumbler and an apple, and Mrs. Gilbert, with a study of a fruit vase and flowers, make up the exhibit at Marie's Dress Shop.

At Schmitt's Variety Store are found two paintings by Mrs. Gilbert, one of the remains of the fireplace at the old Seven Rivers Hotel, once a favorite stopping place of Billy the Kid, and a vase of chrysanthemums.

At the Advocate office Mrs. Atkeson has a picture of Shiprock, while W. E. Brady is showing two paintings, "The Cowboy and the Dude" and "Desolation."

Death Comes—

Okla.; Mark and Witt Terry, Rawlston, Okla.; Cleve Terry, Marlow, Okla., and Mrs. Beulah Hunter, Lafayette, Ga.

As Nancy Elmira Gosselin, Mrs. Terry was born Nov. 13 1848, at New Orleans, La. On April 9, 1868, she and J. D. Terry were married, the 70th anniversary of which the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Terry observed on April 9, 1938, three months before his death on July 2, 1938.

To them were born 11 children, of whom the eight mentioned survive.

The Rev. Mr. Terry began his ministry at the age of 40 years and, with Mrs. Terry, served the Methodist Church in Oklahoma, Texas, and New Mexico many years. As an old-time circuit rider, he visited many churches over the Southwest in missionary work.

In 1912 the Rev. and Mrs. Terry came to the Artesia community and settled on the farm southeast of Artesia, which they named "Beulahland," on which they both lived the remainder of their lives. Services will be in charge of Bayless Funeral Home.

Bulldogs to Meet Roswell Coyotes Here This Evening

The Artesia Bulldogs will meet the Roswell Coyotes here on Morris Field this evening, the first game in 13 days for the local team.

After an open date last week, the Bulldogs are on their toes and with a number of new plays in their skulls to use against the Coyotes, whom Coaches F. L. Green and Alan Thompson admit are tough.

The game was scheduled for this evening, instead of Friday, because of the opening of the big-game season Saturday morning, giving players and coaches a chance to get away to the mountains. Likewise, according to C. D. Marshall, athletic director and high school principal, the crowd probably would have been mighty slim Friday evening, from the way hunters already are leaving for the mountains. As it is a record crowd is expected.

The coaches said they will have a complete string, with all injuries to players well healed. Joe Watson and Jerry Dublin, first-stringers, who were on the casual list, will be in the opening lineup, they said.

The Coyotes have won five games, including one last Friday over Clovis 18 to 13, and have lost four, while the Bulldogs have won two and lost five.

Lake Arthur—

C. Floore of Artesia investigated the accident and reported it to State Police. He said an inquest was pending in Chaves County, but he had not been informed when it would be held. Deputy Floore said Revada's head was crushed as the car overturned and that he was killed instantly.

Marks at the scene indicated that the car swerved into the barrow ditch for some reason and that evidently Revada swerved the car back to the highway, and in so doing overturned it. The car came to rest on its wheels, with every tire up.

Funeral services for young Revada were at the graveside in Woodbine Cemetery Monday afternoon by the Rev. Paul L. Brown, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Artesia. Services were in charge of Bayless Funeral Home of Artesia.

The accident victim was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Revada of Lake Arthur.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Van Antwerp of Portales and Mr. and Mrs. William R. Cooley of El Paso will join Mr. and Mrs. Albert Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Blocker, and Mrs. C. R. Blocker for hunting season.

Ray Powell of Columbia, Mo., a discharged soldier on his way home, arrived here Saturday to visit Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Green. He is to join the deer hunting party with which Green is going to the Guadalupe.

Bishop Stoney, Episcopal, Coming Here Nov. 11

The Right Rev. James M. Stoney, bishop of the Episcopal Church for New Mexico and that Texas territory west of the Pecos, will make one of his two annual official visits to Artesia on Sunday evening, Nov. 11, it has been announced here.

Bishop Stoney is to deliver the message at 7:30 o'clock Sunday evening at the Episcopal Church. Members of the church are urged to be present and a cordial invitation is extended to the public to hear Bishop Stoney's message at this time.

The Rev. Joseph H. Harvey, rector of the local church and the church at Roswell, will accompany Bishop Stoney to Artesia. The Rev. Mr. Harvey usually conducts services each Sunday evening at the local church.

Although Bishop Stoney makes two official visits to the local church during the year, he usually is here one or more times besides these official visits, it was explained.

His home and the cathedral are located in Albuquerque.

Annual Red Cross Meet, Election To Be Thursday

The annual meeting and election of officers of the North Eddy County chapter of the American Red Cross will be held at the Artesia Service Club at 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening of next week, Nov. 15.

Other business will include the annual reports of the various committee chairmen. Everyone who contributed to the Red Cross at the annual drive last spring is a member and each is urged to attend, so as to hear the reports and learn what has been done and is being done with the chapter's money.

Officers of the Red Cross stressed that the organization still has much to do, although the war is ended, and the membership should attend the annual meeting, so as to help select good officers again and have a voice in the local administration and activities.

To Hold Services First Three Sundays Each Month, Christian Church

Regular Sunday morning services are to be held at the First Christian Church here each Sunday morning of the month except the fourth, it has been announced.

Aubrey B. Gregg will supply the local church until a regular minister can be secured, it was stated. There will be no services, however, on the fourth Lord's Day of each month.

Sunday school is held at 9:45 each Sunday morning with worship services at 11 o'clock and Christian Endeavor at 6 o'clock.

Dr. C. H. Hemphill to Retire From Active Practice on Nov. 10

Dr. C. H. Hemphill, Artesia physician, after being in active practice of medicine 32 years, is retiring from full-time service Nov. 10.

He and Mrs. Hemphill plan to leave Artesia Monday for Western North Carolina to spend a few weeks before going to Florida, where they have business interests, for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Lankford and children of Wink, Tex., have arrived for a two weeks visit with Mrs. Langford's parents, Judge and Mrs. J. D. Josey. Mr. Langford plans to go on a deer hunt with Judge Josey this weekend. Mrs. Josey, who had been visiting them in Texas returned to Artesia with them.

NOV. 21, 1945

AN IMPORTANT DATE FOR THOUSANDS OF ARMY VETERANS NOW IN CIVILIAN LIFE

Between now and November 21, thousands of Army veterans will reenlist in Uncle Sam's new volunteer peacetime Army. Because men who have been discharged between May 12 and November 1 of this year and reenlist on or before November 21 will be able to return to the Army with the same grade as they held when discharged.

Men with six months of satisfactory service discharged as privates will, on reenlistment before November 21, be given the grade of private first class.

Men now in the Army who apply for discharge after NOVEMBER 1 for the purpose of reenlisting in the Regular Army will also retain their present grades, if they enlist within 30 days after discharge and before FEBRUARY 1, 1946.

"BEST JOB IN THE WORLD"

These special privileges are typical of the new law recently passed by Congress. Few opportunities for a lifetime career offer as many attractive advantages.

Can you think of any other job that would give you good pay, your food, clothing, quarters, free medical and dental care, world-wide travel, 30 days furlough every year, education and training in any of nearly 200 skills or trades, and enable you to retire with a life income any time after 20 years' service? There isn't any! That's why a job in the Regular Army has been called "The Best Job in the World."

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE NEW ENLISTMENT PROGRAM

- Enlistments for 1½, 2 or 3 years. (1-year enlistments permitted for men with 6 months' service.)
- Men reenlisting retain their present grades, if they reenlist within 30 days after discharge and before Feb. 1, 1946. The same applies to men discharged between May 12 and Nov. 1, 1945, who reenlist before Nov. 21, 1945.
- An increase in the reenlistment bonus to $50 for each year of active service since the bonus was last paid, or since last entry into service.
- 20% extra pay when overseas.
- Paid furlough, up to 90 days, depending on length of service, with furlough travel paid to home and return, for men now in the Army who enlist.
- Mustering-out pay (based upon length of service) to all men who are discharged to reenlist.
- Option to retire at half pay for the rest of your life after 20 years' service - or three-quarters pay after 30 years. (Retirement income in grade of Master or First Sergeant up to $155.25 per month for life.) All previous active federal military service counts toward retirement.
- Benefits of GI Bill of Rights.
- Family allowances for the term of enlistment for dependents of men who enlist or reenlist before July 1, 1946.
- Choice of branch of service and overseas theater in Air, Ground or Service Forces on 3-year enlistments.

Irrigated Pastures In Artesia Area to Be Aired Over KOB

The establishment of two irrigated pastures in the Artesia area on farms in the Central Valley Soil Conservation District will be described on the radio program, "Soil Conservation Reports," over station KOB at 8:30 o'clock Monday evening, Nov. 12.

In the latter part of August, J. W. Collins seeded six acres of irrigated pasture. He watered it twice weekly until the rain began about the middle of September and now has an excellent stand.

W. M. Jackson planted four acres of irrigated pasture in a triangular strip to two different mixtures recommended by the Soil Conservation Service. The first mixture, planted on two acres, consisted of a pound each of Ladino clover and domestic rye grass; two pounds each of alsike clover, perennial rye, and Tennessee button clover; six pounds of alta fescue, and five pounds of orchard grass. The other plot was planted to a mixture consisting of three pounds each of Louisiana red clover and orchard grass, six pounds each of Hardgrass and Dallis grass, five pounds of meadow fescue, and two pounds of button clover.

Technicians are watching these plots closely in order to determine the one best adapted to the Artesia area, as will be explained in the broadcast.

In Portland, Ore., a precinct police sergeant called for one of his patrolmen to confess and endure embarrassment for the honor of the force. A fire alarm sent firemen next door rushing to their hose and ladder truck. Motors roared and the big doors swung open—but in the middle of the driveway was a parked car. Police hurriedly pushed it aside, one reached for his ticket book—and then discovered it was a patrol car.

Two heavyweight policemen in Chicago were called to help a couple of not too hefty co-workers who found a 500-pound safe in a South Side alley. Policeman Thomas Maher, who weighs 215 pounds, and William Rossow, 230, wrestled with the safe and managed to lift it into a patrol wagon. An inspection of the safe at the Wabash Avenue station disclosed it was bottomless and empty.

The House of Commons dining room, one of Europe's finest pre-war eating establishments, felt the effects of a labor government. On behalf of His Majesty's government, Robert Morrison, chairman of the house kitchen committee, formally announced that tipping had been abolished and the price of meals reduced. Asked if an M. P. who continued to tip would be reprimanded, His Majesty's representative gave the matter solemn thought and replied: "I should hesitate to be precipitate in the matter."

Miss Emma Lou Hamilton took a cab to a Kansas City hospital, where she was to assume her duties as a Red Cross Gray Lady. She paid her fare with what she thought was a $1 bill and hurried in. Walking through the hall a few minutes later she was confronted by the taxi driver. "Lady, you gave me a $5 bill and didn't get your change. I had to hunt quite a bit to find you." He then gave her five $1 bills. Considering this too much of a good thing, Miss Hamilton pointed out to him that she really desired to pay something for the ride.

It required three parcel post packages and $8.86 mailing charges to do it, but a Kansas City motorcycle enthusiast in the Army in Germany finally got his German-made motor home. The third package, containing the single cylinder, cylinder head and other parts, was received from T/5 Irvin Hammonds by his former employer, Earl Harding. Harding has assembled the motor and is keeping it for Hammonds.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Americans have a word for it

Bill Larkin's boy, who's back from overseas for good, was telling us about the funny customs and the different languages of European countries.

One thing he noticed is that in so many of those countries there is no word for "home." "House," yes... or "building." But no name that stands for what we mean when we say home.

"In spite of the fact," says Bill, "that it's the most important thing there is... a place where you can take your shoes off and let down your hair... enjoy a glass of beer before the fire and relax with folks you love!"

From where I sit, that may be an important difference between this country and some others. The conception of home as a place of tolerance and sacred loyalties—where differences of habit and opinion give way before love and understanding! Yes, we Americans have a name for it!

Conservation Of Soil in North Eddy

The leaves are falling and some people are burning them. Had you thought that you were burning organic matter when you burn your leaves? The quantity of organic matter present in the soil influences plant growth a great deal when water is adequate and other factors are favorable. Soils low in organic matter produce small weak plants and trees while those high in organic matter produce vigorous plants.

Why not save those leaves? Dig a pit in the backyard about one and a half feet deep, four feet wide, and six feet long, then place a two-inch layer of leaves in pit, cover with an inch layer of soil, watering each layer of leaves. Alternate a layer of leaves and a layer of soil until all leaves are covered. This pile of soil and leaves is known as a compact pile and should be kept moist. In four or five months the leaves should be sufficiently decomposed for use as fertilizer, and may be spread on lawns or gardens like barnyard manure. According to the Department of Agriculture yearbook, "Soils and Men," leaves alone when dry are about twice as rich per pound in plant food as barnyard manure. Now is a good time to begin soil conservation in Artesia and reduce the need for barnyard manure fertilizers each spring.

Some of the highest yielding wheatland milo in the vicinity of Artesia was grown by W. B. Wilbanks this year on R. M. Sallee's farm. An estimated yield of 4,000 pounds of grain is expected. The milo rows are almost level from one end to the other and was watered from both ends. Wilbanks said that when he watered from the lower end, water would back up two-thirds of the way through. Soil Conservation Service technicians supervised land leveling on three acres in this field in February, 1945. Wilbanks' cotton will average one and a quarter bales per acre, and the best of it, which is on the most level land, will produce two bales per acre.

Plans were completed on the G. R. Brainard farm this week. According to Brainard, crop yields are not as good as they once were on his place. He plans to level 15 acres this winter and a crop rotation is planned whereby no field will go longer than four years without a legume being grown on it. Concrete turn-out gates are to be installed where ditches cross benches on the land leveled.

Anyone wishing to talk to McNatt may call at the Chamber of Commerce office in the city hall or telephone 192 Tuesday afternoon.

SUPPORT THE VICTORY LOAN DRIVE

A. E. Triviz, extension economist of New Mexico A. & M. College, called on farmers and ranchers to support the Victory Loan drive.

"I'm sure they will," he said. "Men and women who generally supported the seven War Loan drives will be the first to realize that the aftermath of war carries grave responsibilities that must be met."

"A substantial Army and Navy must be maintained until order is restored throughout the world. The cost of settling contracts, of bringing our forces home, and of making good our commitments to veterans will be great. Mister, you've got

SHOVELITIS

SOUNDS BAD, doesn't it? What can be done about it? You can rush down to see your doctor and chances are he'll fix you up. Or you can go to bed for a few days and say you're 'down in the back.' Then what happens next time you have to shovel ashes again to get a fire going? SHOVELITIS!

But in the house that is run by Natural Gas, there is no shoveling or other back-breaking work to be done! Natural Gas goes quietly about doing its job — heating, cooling, cooking, refrigerating, and water heating. You turn a valve and there's your dependable servant — Natural Gas — at your command, ready to do whatever job is required without coaxing and pampering.

Three Liberated 200th Men Come Home This Week

Three more liberated members of the 200th Coast Artillery, Anti-Aircraft, returned home during the last week, making 16 of the 20 known to have been freed who have arrived in North Eddy County. They are:

Sgt. Roy C. Castleberry, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Foster, who arrived Sunday night.

Sgt. Carl C. Foster, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Foster, who also arrived Sunday night.

George C. Tidwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Tidwell, who arrived Saturday and whose present rank was not learned.

All three of the boys are to report in the near future at Brunson General Hospital, Santa Fe, for further check-up.

It is understood they and all other returned members of the 200th will be able to obtain special furloughs from hospitals to come home for the special celebration in their honor, which will be Nov. 22 or 24.

Presbyterians Take Steps for New Buildings

The manse and garage of the First Presbyterian Church are to be sold, as a first step in a planned building program, which ultimately will include a new church building, it has been announced by members of the board of trustees, after that body and the corporation held meetings the last few days.

The board has advertised for sealed bids for the manse and the garage, which are to be moved off the church property at Fourth and Grand. The bids will be received by Hugh W. Kiddy, chairman of the board; the Rev. Paul L. Brown, pastor, or William Linell.

Members of the board said it is planned after the manse and garage have been sold and moved off, to build an educational building, into which the church activities will be moved, while the present church building is razed and a new structure is built. The new church and the educational building will become a unit when completed.

The church has purchased the Hamilton property across from the church and that house will be the temporary manse. On that property, which has a 100-foot frontage, the same as the property on which the church stands, will be erected a new manse in time, to conform in architecture with the general plan of the new church and educational building, board members said.

Gas Explosion and Fire at Pharmacy Do But Little Damage

An explosion from a methyl chloride line of the refrigeration plant and a small fire at the Artesia Pharmacy caused an alarm at 11:25 o'clock Tuesday morning, but little damage was done.

The gas, which quickly filled the store, made it impossible to approach the small blaze only a gas mask. However, it took only one man and a small portion of the contents of a hand extinguisher to extinguish it.

After the store was aired out, business was resumed, and it was only a matter of hours until the damaged gas line was repaired.

CLARK WILL OCCUPY PULPIT AGAIN SUNDAY

The Rev. C. A. Clark, pastor of the First Methodist Church, whose wife is in a Temple, Tex., hospital recovering after a major operation, returned home Wednesday night and will occupy his pulpit at the regular services Sunday.

Mrs. Clark is improving satisfactorily, it was reported.

Civic Mothers—

The most important project being sponsored now, of course, is the highway project. The local civic organization is sponsoring the formation of New Mexico and Texas cities in an effort to secure the construction of a super-highway across west Texas, into New Mexico, and across the mountains at or near Cloudcroft to link up with Highway No. 90. Several meetings have been held concerning the project and much interest is being displayed.

Confidence has been voiced with the proper emphasis that such a road could be secured. Not only have the chambers of commerce of Roswell, Carlsbad, Hobbs, Las Cruces, Alamogordo, and other nearby cities approved the project, but the Albuquerque Chamber of Commerce also has endorsed the project and are offering their assistance.

President Ralph Petty urged all citizens and business and professional men to plan to be present for the meeting here and to submit to the organization those projects, which they feel should receive the attention of the civic group.

glad I didn't, because I feel it is a fine thing for the youngsters and for Artesia and that it should be continued."

Ralph Hayes, Artesia Abstract Company: "I feel that the party should have been started many years ago, judging from the fine reports I have heard. It is a good thing, did a good job, and I feel should be continued."

Mark Corbin, Brainard-Corbin Hardware Company: "I missed the party and didn't get to attend, but from all the fine comments I have heard I believe it was a wonderful thing and should be continued from year to year."

Mayor Emery Carper—"I came in the night of the party and, of course, missed it. However, from all the reports I have heard I think it was a fine affair and I am sure that it justifies being continued and growing in the years to come."

P. V. Morris, city manager: "I was out of town Halloween night but when I returned I heard no reports of destruction and no extra work on the part of the street and garbage crews. That would mean they had no extra trouble. This has not always been the case in the past. Judging from this the party must have been an enjoyable event—one worthy of being held each year."

They were assisted by a number of others in handling the youngsters the night of the party.

A total of $198 was collected here either in cash or with one discount on refreshment bill of $3. The total cost of the party, including $10 in prizes, $75 for the ice cream; $25.75 for the apples, and $30 for the doughnuts, amounted to $140.75. This left a balance of $57.25 in the bank for future parties. The Ross Baking Company, which produced the doughnuts for the party, made a $5 donation at the time the bill was paid, making it $25 instead of $30.

Demand For—

Commerce, and Mayor Emery Carper, must have places for people to live. And until that can be provided its growth is limited.

Several are planning or have planned the erection of new homes as soon as building materials are available. Several new homes are under construction now. There has not been a period in the last four years, it was explained, when there has not been from one to a half dozen houses under construction here.

Oil firms and oil well supply firms are now agreeing to construct homes for their employees. This will aid somewhat. Some plan to erect rent houses if and when they can find labor and materials.

The belief continues to be voiced that 100 new houses could be absorbed here and that possibly the problem would still exist.

The new addition to the city being opened by the Carper Drilling Company is expected to help somewhat, when the construction of new homes gets under way there. More than 80 home building lots are being offered and many of these have already been purchased.

The city has been granted approval for the construction of 20 new residences with each unit not to exceed $7500 in cost. But these must be financed here with someone constructing them.

Loans of all kinds and types, of course, are available here now through building and loan organizations or through the First National Bank. The bank is prepared to finance loans for new construction, either through the FHA or through their own loan plan. They also are prepared to make loans for remodeling or repair work under title No. 2 of the FHA.

Indications are that if and when labor and building materials are available there will be one of the largest building programs in the history of the city.

'Educational Week' To Be Observed In Artesia

"National Education Week" will be observed in the Artesia schools next week, with parents of students and other patrons invited to visit any of the schools at any time during the period, it was announced by W. E. Kerr, superintendent.

Kerr said emphasis on the importance of education is to be made during the week throughout the nation.

Although the day and time have not been set, a special assembly period is being planned at Artesia High School in observation of "National Education Week."

Although the national dates for the special week have been set as Nov. 11-17, the first date is Sunday and in Artesia Armistice Day, falling on Sunday, will be observed on Monday, Nov. 12, so there will be no school that day, Kerr said.

There will be a double holiday the next week also, Kerr said, Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 22, and the next day, Friday, Nov. 23.

Jack Rowland, boatswain's mate second class, arrived in Artesia Sunday evening to visit his aunt, Mrs. F. E. Pennell. Seaman Rowland spent 19 months in the South Pacific. At the end of his two-week leave he is to report at Santa Fe.

Mordus Sabbatious (Sunday Sickness)

Mordus Sabbatious, or Sunday Sickness, is a peculiar ailment which attacks only church members. The attack comes only on Sunday morning, usually before the prayer meeting. On Saturday night the patient is well, but on Sunday morning he wakes up with a headache, a heavy breakfast, but about church time he feels better, and continues until the morning services are over. The patient apparently seems to feel better, but is unable to take a ride, talk politics, read the paper, do a bit of work around the garden or house, and he eats a hearty supper but about 10 o'clock other attack and removes his shoes from stays at home. He retires early, sleeps well, and other symptoms of the disease until the morning but never serious enough to call a doctor.

mock war staged by seven boys on the outskirts of Albuquerque. He investigated after a youngster in the playground was hit in the shoulder by a stray shot. Hubbell found the "soldiers" ranging from 10 to 14 years of age, divided into two armies, each armed with one .22 rifle and peppering away at one another. They were turned over to juvenile authorities.

M/Sgt. John C. Dodd, 53, re-enlisted in the Army Air Forces at Kirtland Field, Albuquerque, but he won't have to serve a single day of that enlistment. A veteran of 29 years, eight months, 10 days, in the Army, Sergeant Dodd has gone on a 90-day re-enlistment furlough to be followed by the retirement furlough which will carry past his 30 years of service, when he is eligible to take his pension. The old-timer is only one of 46 men who have re-enlisted there under the new recruiting campaign, according to First Lt. David Karp, recruiting officer.

Two German prisoners of war, Fritz Bueckner and Karl Henglein, beckoned a cruising police car near Albuquerque, and in broken English asked for a ride. Questioning developed that they had crawled under a work camp fence six hours earlier, crossed town and visited friends at another POW camp. They were en route back to their own camp, the two said, explained they stopped the police car because "we thought it was a taxi." Military police taxied them back.

Nine-year-old Geneva Scalf, of Albuquerque, isn't taking any chances on slow mail delivery north. Two months before Christmas she mailed her letter to "Santa Claus at the North Pole."

Mrs. Eloisa Cervantes called an ambulance after her 5-year-old son, Manuelito, told her he swallowed a "marble." At the hospital in Albuquerque, directors searched in vain. Manuelito, questioned further, told them it was a white marble—"like you put in with clothes." He was pronounced moth-proof at least for a while.

More than 20,000 New Mexico boys and girls in 175 schools are eating hot lunches every day under the state school lunch program. And Robert D. Coppock of the Production and Marketing Administration predicts many more schools will participate in the program before the year is over. "In fact," Coppock says, "reports indicate that this year's school lunch program will set a new high for New Mexico."

Being locked in a psychopathic ward holds no fascination for Deputy Sheriff Cope Hartley of Modesto, Calif. The accidental imprisonment gave him some bad moments. Passing attendants who heard his cries of "let me out, I'm a deputy sheriff," smiled indulgently. Finally, however, he got someone to believe him and answering a call about a peace disturbance, another deputy there created a furor when a mouse ran up his trousers leg. He jumped right out of his pants before an audience of five women he had been questioning.

Clint Anderson Discusses World Farm Problems

Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson discussed three of the world's major agricultural problems before the conference of the Food and Agriculture Organization.

Price support commitments for farm commodities: "If each of us tries to fulfill these commitments independently without regard to the need for expanded world trade or the agricultural problems of other nations, we are all in danger of repeating the mistakes that followed the first world war."

Adjusting agricultural production to peacetime conditions: "During the war, farmers of the United States increased food production by more than a third. Our amazing increases in agricultural production during the war were not achieved without far-reaching distortions in our farm economy. The distortions were the result of our efforts to meet urgent international needs, and there is every reason to believe that necessary readjustments will have interna-

Cattlemen to Speak At State College 'Ranch Day' Nov. 30

Two New Mexico cattlemen, E. G. Hayward of Cimarron and George Godfrey of Animas, will be guest speakers on New Mexico A. & M.'s "Ranch Day" program Nov. 30.

Hayward, who is president of the New Mexico Cattle Growers' Association, will discuss the long-range outlook for the range cattle industry in New Mexico. Godfrey's subject is "How I Select My Replacement Heifers."

Other highlights of "Ranch Day," according to Prof. John H. Knox, animal husbandryman of the New Mexico Experiment Station, will include a ranch tour, a barbecue, and talks by staff members of the college and of the Southwestern Forest and Range Experiment Station.

OUR BOYS

Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Shira have just received a photograph showing their son, James J. Shira, sea-man first class, and other men and officers of the crew of "Miss Conduet," the Patrol Bomber Mariner to which he is attached. The huge flying boat, a Martin bomber, is less known to most people than the land-based bombers, such as those which trained here, the B-17's and B-29's. It carries a crew of 12, for whom sleeping quarters are provided, and it carries sufficient gasoline to furnish fuel for the two engines for 36 hours. "Miss Conduet" is now operating out of Sasebo Kyushu, Japan, but soon is to be transferred to Tokyo Bay. Every member of the crew has been awarded an Air Medal, two are entitled to wear the Distinguished Flying Cross, and the skipper has a Navy Cross, earned for the sinking of a Jap cruiser and other ships.

WOOL INDUSTRY NEEDS MORE OUTLETS

One of the greatest immediate needs of the American wool industry is increased market outlets, the Department of Agriculture reports. At the same time, USDA specialists predict that American wool growers can expect keen competition from synthetic fibers and from wool produced in other countries. Supplies of foreign wool have increased tremendously during recent years. Imports of app- wool increased from 10 per cent of United States production during the 1930-34 period to 20 per cent in 1935-39 and 150 per cent in 1940-44.

CARNAUBA WAX

There is more than just the rhythm of Brazilian music on a wax record you may buy. There also in its other contribution to Brazil, an exclusive product of that country—carnauba wax—which goes into the composition of phonograph records as well as in that of a number of other important objects. In spite of the fact that it is today among the first four products exported to the United States from Brazil (in 1940 was the second in value among these products), because it is one of the complementary elements in the manufacture of others, very few people have even heard of the existence of such a wax.

The carnauba is a graceful palm tree of which Brazil has almost an exclusive monopoly. Its Latin appellation of copernicia cerifera was given it by its discoverer, Dr. von Marcus, in honor of the famous astronomer, Copernicus, and because it had the faculty of yielding wax. Long before the natives of the wild regions where it grows has attributed medicinal and curative faculties to the tree. The genus copernicia exclusive to the Western Hemisphere and the particular species are interested in is further restricted to a few areas in a certain region of northeastern Brazil, of which landscape it is a typical element. This region, which extends roughly from the Amazon to the state of Bahia and includes two principal wax-producing areas, Ceara and Piauhy, is characterized by a climate which is a combination of droughts and rains. During the wet season the carnauba plant absorbs a great quantity of water which is required to carry on its life functions. In order to defend it from excessive evaporation during the dry season, nature has provided a protective covering of wax. The more prolonged the dry spell, the heavier this coating of wax, collectors have observed that during dry spells the yield is often 25 per cent above the average. Without well-defined dry periods, the carnauba palm would be worthless as a producer of wax. It is surprising, therefore, that a condition of such strong climatic contrast should prove to be the perfect habitat of this interesting plant.

The tree itself is tall and straight, with wide, fan-shaped leaves attached to long stalks reaching out in all directions from the crown of the tree to which they give a pin-wheel appearance. On these leaves, like a coating of dust, the wax is to prevent excessive water evaporating. The growth of the plant is slow and only after 10 years is it safe to start cutting the leaves, at an interval about 80 days. With a knife held to a long stick and curved like a sickle, the worker cuts stems and collects the leaves as they fall to the ground. Care must be exercised in selecting leaves to be harvested. If very young leaves are cut, the tree will slowly die; if fully matured leaves are cut, they yield little wax. Selection is based on the position of the leaves on the tree. Young leaves grow upright, and then, of their own weight, bend outward and downward as they mature. Leaves pointing to the rising or setting sun, in what natives call the "six o'clock position," are old. As a rule, the trees grow wild on land belonging generally to wealthy landowners who seldom collect the wax themselves but have squatters to do it for them. The first move after the leaves have been harvested is to dry them out in the sun, where they shrink and thus loosen the wax surface. From beating or combing them, a powder is obtained, which in turn is make sure that the supplies are channeled into the most essential uses which cannot be publicized for security reasons, the peaceful applications of this wax are many and can be told. From lipstick to shoe polish, from candles to wire insulation, from insecticides to records, from pharmaceutical products of our modern civilization. But its way into the composition of innumerable products of our modern civilization. But Humboldt's appellation of the carnauba palm tree, "tree of life," is further made true when one considers that not only the wax but also the trunk, leaves, heart, sprout, roots, fruit, and almonds of this amazing plant all have important and varied uses.

DAIRY PRICES MAY DROP SLIGHTLY

Because of weakening demand, prices paid dairy farmers in 1946 are expected to average slightly less than in 1944 and 1945, the USDA says. However, market specialists see no indication of such a sharp price decline as occurred in 1921.

Army at the separation center there.

Sgt. Clyde O'Bannon of Artesia is at William Beaumont General Hospital, El Paso, for a check-up prior to being discharged from the Army. He enlisted in November, 1941, and served as a cook with the troop carrier command in the Asiatic-Pacific, from Jan. 14, 1943 to Oct. 2, 1945. His brother, Ray O'Bannon, and Mrs. Maude O'Bannon, his mother, live in Artesia.

Capt. Jesse L. Truett, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse L. Truett of Artesia, has been honorably discharged from the AAF at the Separation Center at Randolph Field, Tex. He is the holder of the Air Medal with five Oak Leaf Clusters and the European theater of operations ribbon with three battle stars. Captain Truett was a student before he joined the Army.

WORLD NEWS —in— BRIEF FORM

From Near and Far, Some Timely, Some of Human Interest

Mrs. Howard F. Woodward, president of the Animal Rescue League of Taunton, Mass., is convinced animals respond to human kindness. She spent 15 minutes taking a Mason jar off the head of a skunk—without any effects.

An Army lieutenant had to listen to the advice of his kid brother, a technical sergeant, when he went through the Davis-Monthan Field separation base at Tucson for discharge. Lt. Harry B. Leidenfrost, 21, New York City, heard T/Sgt. Robert J. Leidenfrost, 19, outline job prospects and rights under the GI Bill after personal felicitations were over.

Near Lees Summit, Mo., 300 men went on a wolf hunt but only one wolf was killed. Eight others escaped. The farmers who organized the hunt blamed its success on inexperienced city hunters. "Those city guys all wanted the first shot. They bunched up and kept running ahead of the lines," one farmer commented. "If wolves can laugh, they'll knock themselves out, now."

Oklahoma City burglars, who decided to cart away a safe they couldn't open, still are out of luck; the safe fell out of the truck. It contained an estimated $3000.

"I've walked and walked that beat and nothing ever happened," complained Edward F. Smith, night watchman for a group of offices in Kansas City. "But last night what happens? I find three guys giving the safe the works in one of the offices. I reached for my gun and it wasn't there. I felt like 2 cents." Smith lost his big chance. The safecrackers escaped with $45 in cash and checks while he ran after his pistol.

When the Salt Lake City family doctor was informed that the son of George A. Jenkins had broken his arm the physician inquired incredulously, "Not the same boy?" But Jenkins assured him it was the same boy, 6-year-old ElRay Jenkins, who broke his right arm last July 19, when he tumbled from a tree, his left arm a couple of months later, when his gymnastics on a clothesline pole crossbar ended disastrously, and now his left arm again. All of this has given young ElRay a chance to make up his mind about his future profession. He wants to be a doctor.

In Spokane, Wash., a marine corporal and a girl calmly sat on a curb devouring youngberry pie as the curious stared. Cpl. Ernest Tarter, Hartline, Wash., explained he was observing a pact made with Cpl. Tony Boletto as they dreamed of home-front luxuries during three and one-half years in a Japanese prison camp. On his release, each was to get a girl with a gardenia in her hair and sit on a street corner of a large town eating berry pie. Tarter found the pie and persuaded Miss Kay Tuninga, Spokane, to assist him, gardenia and all. He said he would mail a picture of the event to Boletto at an Oakland, Calif., marine hospital.

A pretty Japanese girl shouting, "Hi, hi," and waving her arms brought an American jeep to a quick stop. The GI driver grinned agreeably when she indicated she'd be back if he'd wait. In a few minutes she reappeared with an old woman and a batch of children. All climbed into the jeep—except the pretty girl, who disappeared.

Although an intruder broke in and chased the family out, windows and doors remained wide open for several hours at the home of T. P. Sullivan, Illinois, director of public safety. The unwelcome visitor, killed and removed by state police, was a skunk.

Some People Do Some Mighty Strange Things

Residents in St. Louis became quite excited when they suddenly discovered that all the cuspidors in the new Federal Building had been removed. A flood of inquiries to Building Inspector Schuene-meyer brought the announcement that the Public Buildings Administration in Washington had ordered the removal because they were unsanitary, unsightly, and odorous.

Jefferson City, Mis., testifies that peace is here and the Army isn't nearly so strict about regulations. A bare-headed soldier was seen to salute an officer without donning his cap and the officer, laden with bundles, saluted with his left hand.

Mrs. Ada King of Rochester, N. Y., has enrolled at the age of 81 at the University of Rochester to study philosophy.

This sign was on the windshield of an automobile in Tulsa, Okla., "Notice to thieves—the two boys who stole this car the last time are now serving five years in the penitentiary."

Judge Joe B. Brown of Dallas, Tex., wrote a writ of habeas corpus on a napkin. The suit was duly honored by the deputy sheriff.

Coach Burns Crookston of Logan, Utah, demonstrated "the proper way" to run interference in a football game to his high school charges and now has one leg in a cast as a result.

A trolley car and a train collided in Montgomery, Ala. The operators of both the train and the trolley were arrested for reckless driving.

CONSUMERS WILL PAY MORE FOR BUTTER

The consumer—and not the farmer will bear the additional cost of butter since the removal of 5-cents a pound government subsidy of Nov. 8. The retail price of butter will advance 5 or 6 cents a pound.

WOMEN '38 to '52' are you embarrassed by HOT FLASHES?

If you suffer from hot flashes, feel weak, nervous, highstrung, a bit blue at times—due to the functional "middle-age" period peculiar to women—try this great medicine—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms. Pinkham's Compound HELPS NATURE. It's one of the best known medicines for this purpose. Follow label directions.

Supply Address Cards Available Still at Advocate

A small supply of the address cards, which were prepared here at the suggestion of Postmaster J. L. Truett, are still available at The Advocate office.

Some 12,000 of these cards were printed and more than 8000 of them are now in use. They are so prepared as to give business and professional people a card on which their customers, patients, and clients can place their full name and address.

This was done here in an effort to correct present mailing lists to provide the full address of the one to whom mail is being sent and insures quick delivery.

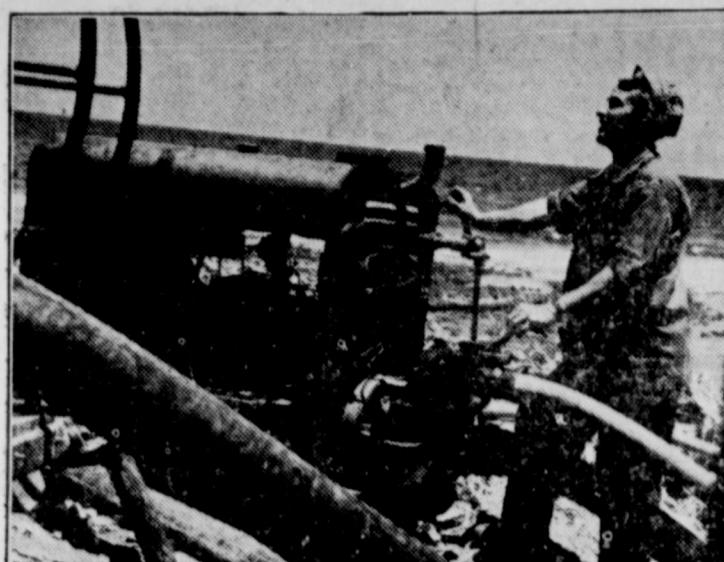

Postmaster Truett has pointed out that just the name of the individual and the word, "City," or "Artesia," is no longer sufficient to insure quick delivery. Mail, which is properly addressed with the postoffice box number or the proper street number, permits the immediate delivery of mail.

Many of the mailing lists of those who send out statements the first of each month, do not contain proper or complete addresses and the pleas being sounded are not only to speed up the correcting of these mailing lists but also to assist in the delivery of mail.

The cards for securing these addresses can be secured at The Advocate office at a small cost.

AAF WATER WORKS ON OKINAWA—The No. 1 problem on every Pacific island in the Army Air Forces' hop, skip and jump toward Tokyo has been water. Water for canteen cups, water for a helmet shave, water for showers, and water—great quantities of it—for wetting down the coral airstrips of the fighters and bombers. It is piped from caves. Above, the pipelines completed, Cpl. Donald Schliesman, Spokane, Wash., pulls the lever that starts the water up the face of the cliff. The pump is at the entrance to the cave from which fresh water is obtained. Below, from its trickle of water the aviation engineers set out to produce enough water to supply the equal of a city of 15 to 20 thousand people. Left to right, T/5 Joseph N. • To the thousands of our applicants waiting so patiently for telephone service we are happy to be able to say: "We have turned them on."

Our list of "held orders" for telephone Mountain States territory increased by 100,000 in almost two years, and during that time reached a peak of more than 66,000. Today, somewhat lower, and we expect by the end of the year to reduce the total by about 18,000, as the instruments from Western Electric increase.

There is still a "long row to hoe" before service for everyone who wants it, when it may be reassuring to know that every Mountain Electric which can turn out telephones now going full speed.

The greater portion of our unfilled orders for telephone instruments, and these are stalled as fast as humanly possible when from the factories.

In those places where we must have new cable or new buildings it will take a few cases quite a little longer—before every service can have it.

Clearing the waiting list is number one business with us however, and no effort will be spared to make the waiting period as short as possible.
