No Voice Now

THERE USED TO BE a very popular statement, which was issued when the federal government did things, which the people did not like. That statement was "Write your congressman."

But that practice doesn't seem to carry much weight any more. Congressmen still endeavor to find time, perhaps, to answer such letters but the practice of flooding Washington with letters and telegrams by organized groups and lobbyists has become so great that the Congressman isn't sure any more whether the letter or telegram expresses the desires and opinions of his constituent or whether it is all for the lobby leading the battle.

Then, too, there has crept into our governmental affairs and idea, which almost amounts to disregarding the opinions of the people. The voice of the people doesn't seem to count much any more. There isn't a great deal of concern any more for the voters' views except when an election is about to be held.

That practice, of course, has tended to discourage many people who use to offer suggestions and ideas. Very frequently ideas and suggestions offered by some citizen or taxpayer has resulted in a fine program being carried out.

But today too many things are done to benefit the political party or to benefit some group or association or organization that little attention is paid to the citizen.

The voice of the individual in governmental affairs has about become just a theory rather than a reality.

The individual still possesses the right but has about lost it through failure to exercise it.

We are told we would eventually lose the use of an arm, or a hand or a leg, if we did not use it. The same thing is true about some of our rights and privileges supposedly granted us under our form of government.

We have lost them through failure to exercise them.

And those limited few, who continue to try and employ them, find not only that their ideas and suggestions are not wanted and not welcomed but they are frequently the object of bitter tirade or attack because they did exercise these rights guaranteed them under our form of government.

The late President Roosevelt talked a great deal about "the forgotten man." Certainly the citizen today is that forgotten man and he perhaps will continue to be.

He is ignored and forgotten except when it comes time to vote. Then for a few weeks he is a much sought after individual. He is patted on the back and his ideas and suggestions are wanted.

Once the election is over, however, his usefulness is also over and he is relegated to the shelf once again.

But it is still the right of every citizen, taxpayer and voter in the nation not only to have an opinion but to voice that opinion. He is entitled to this right without being the subject of bitter attack; without being held up to ridicule; without being accused falsely and untruthfully.

The fact is that it is office holders and candidates, who are the targets of criticism because they have offered themselves for public office. A private citizen is protected by law because he is a private citizen leading a private life.

But far too often for the good of our various forms of government we now find that public officials resent suggestions and ideas from taxpayers as to how their tax money should or is being spent. Far too often we find opposition from those charged with administering public affairs in keeping with the desires of the taxpayers and the citizens. And this resentment and this opposition from the so called public servant comes from a desire on the part of that individual not to serve but rather to do as they please in all matters, which they are handling.

The rights and privileges now denied the average citizen will only be restored if and when the citizens themselves demand they be restored and when they show the courage, fortitude and perseverance necessary to continue to exercise them regardless of how the so called public servants seek to prevent this practice from prevailing.—O.E.P.

Both Sides

THE QUICKEST AND BEST way, we believe, to clear up misunderstandings, is to bring them out in the open.

The easiest and quickest way to quiet opposition, just or unjust, is to give that opposition a hearing.

There are usually two groups, two factions and two philosophies in all movements, organizations, in communities and in all governmental affairs.

The two party system has done and will continue to do much for American Democracy. These two systems have made America's democracy succeed.

Practices of ignoring one group; refusing to advise or inform them; refusing to give them facts and data doesn't make for cooperation from them. It makes for greater opposition.

Every citizen regardless of his size or importance is entitled to certain consideration; entitled to an opinion and the right to voice that opinion. Such leaders as the late Huey P. Long, didn't believe in granting that right. He didn't believe that anyone but those on his side had any right to do things; to know what was to be done; or how the taxpayers' money was being spent.

What happened to his administration and to his group is the ultimate result of that philosophy of government.

We all know that. It isn't a healthy situation when citizens and taxpayers are ignored; rode over rough shod; or when they are denied their voice or even when they must put forth considerable effort demanding and endeavoring to secure the right, which is given to them under our form of government.

Yet despite our experiences; despite the history of the past; despite our pretense at being good Americans and our purported belief that the majority has a right to rule and the minority has a right to its opinion, we devote our time denying all this instead of affirming it.

Our contentions that we are for our community; that we believe in the American form of government; believe in philosophy of all participating and having part; and that we are working and striving for the good of our community, state or nation, all sounds and looks a little ridiculous.

We fail to practice what we preach. We are actually living that famous quotation of Ralph Waldo Emerson when he stated "What you are speaks so loud that I cannot hear what you are saying."

More harmony, far more cooperative effort, more willingness to participate in our community programs will be generated when all are extended the consideration to which they are entitled than when we follow practices such as those observed by Louisiana's Famous Kingfish.—O.E.P.

Love for Youth

EVERY NOW AND THEN someone musters up their courage; digs up the real facts; looks us as individuals square in the eye; and tells us the truth.

Very frequently when we are told the truth we don't like it. Fact is we hear so much propaganda these days and times we are a little slow about recognizing the truth.

And yet most of us know the truth and recognize the truth when we hear it.

Last week Rev. Paul Brown, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church told the Rotary club some rather straight facts regarding the youth problem, juvenile delinquency, and the problems confronting us and confronting our young people.

He declared that the problem begins at the birth of the boy or girl. And in far too many instances, he declared, it results from a baby born without the love and devotion, which must prevail. He roughly estimated, judging on what facts are available, that approximately 45 per cent of the children are not born from love.

And as a result then individuals fail to shower the love and devotion upon a child through babyhood and through the years, which follow.

There must be more love and devotion shown children, he declared. There must be a genuine desire born of love to do for boys and girls. They must be considered in their true value. They must be given that love and devotion to which they are entitled.

They must be placed first in the home instead of beautiful furniture. Companionship with them must be provided. And fathers and mothers must learn to play with their children instead of seeking ways and means to get rid of them during the evenings in order that the parents may be able to do as they please regardless of where the children are or what they are doing.

He explained he had no solution to the problem except he was firmly convinced that children born of love would receive love and devotion. Rev. Brown reminded those present they perhaps had the solution to the problem—a better solution than he could offer.

He commended all of the various youth movements but declared these must be carried out because of love of youth. They must be promoted because of the desire to do something for youth rather than to provide something to keep youth busy.

A love of youth will bring about solutions to the problems and perhaps eliminate the problems but that, he declared, must start when the baby is born.

The solution to the problem rests in attacking the cause rather than devoting attention to the results, he declared.

There are many truths in what he said—truths which should result in us giving his suggestions our serious consideration.—O.E.P.

Prevent Disease

RECENTLY A LOCAL PHYSICIAN in discussing Artesia and its future emphasized the fact that every precaution should be employed here to provide a clean city; to eliminate unsanitary conditions; and to especially eliminate flies.

In discussing this, he jokingly said, "I am working against my own interests and yet I would rather help prevent disease than to have an epidemic."

The doctor went on to say that Artesia had too many flies last summer. And then he related how the baby had eaten the banana on which the flies had dined and had developed Infantile Paralysis. The banana was sent to the state laboratory, fed to a monkey and the monkey developed Infantile Paralysis.

There was almost a shut and closed case. It is something to give real consideration—the flies. And flies gather where unsanitary conditions prevail. It means everyone must work and cooperate to eliminate flies; to destroy flies; and to keep down the number of flies in Artesia.

Every precaution should be employed, this doctor pointed out, to adopt and follow sanitary rules and regulations. It should not be a matter of being a law or observing a city ordinance or laws but rather it should be done in the interest of health and in the interest of preventing disease.

It is likely in the weeks just ahead several suggestions and recommendations will be made to help accomplish just this. And if everyone will do everything they can to help provide the greatest sanitary conditions here not because it is the law but because they want to help make Artesia the cleanest city possible, it will probably be surprising how much good can be accomplished.—O.E.P.

Up and Down Main Street

FRIENDLY TOWN
 UP AND DOWN MAIN
 IT PAYS DIVIDENDS

Everyone, we believe has at some time or other visited in some city or town, which radiated that friendly atmosphere to its visitors and its newcomers. There was just a welcome feeling in the air—something, which made those who were there for the first time feel like they were at home. Most towns and cities, we believe, seek and strive to create such an atmosphere. Yet the fact remains that few succeed. But there is nothing, which creates a finer attitude among new comers than to feel they are welcome; they are wanted; and that they are a part of the community. In some cities the Chamber of Commerce goes to considerable effort to extend a welcome hand and a hand of fellowship. In some instances special letters are mailed the newcomers; special gifts are sent them; and they are accepted into the community quickly. Artesia is seeking to do that very thing. An effort is being made to extend the hand of welcome to all newcomers and to create within them the feeling they are wanted and they are welcome. Back a few years ago Artesia was a small town. Even the 1940 census gave the city a population of a little over 4,000. But since then the growth has been almost 100 per cent. The population has doubled and the growth is continuing. It is the coming of these new people, new citizens and new residents, which is responsible for the housing shortage. It is these new citizens, who have created the business which the local stores, firms and concerns, have enjoyed. It is the newcomers who have created the need for more stores, more firms, more business houses to accommodate the new customers. It is these newcomers, who have helped to make Artesia the city it is today. They have made the city almost twice its former size. They have created the good business conditions which prevail. They are contributing to the cities future.

Most cities have always adopted a definite program of building for the future. And their efforts are directed toward securing more industries to provide more jobs. This in turn provides payrolls. And it is from these payrolls that business concerns enjoy business. There is always a desire and a demand for more industries. Many communities feel by creating industries they provide jobs. And by providing jobs they attract newcomers and new citizens. And all of this just makes for a better business town and for more business. We sometimes, of course, lose sight of this fact. We sometimes are inclined to accept the newcomers' money; to accept their contributions and their gifts; and yet to neglect them; forget them and even to ignore them. If they come into our community to become a part of it; to make their home with us; to make their gifts and contributions and to spend their money then we should welcome them into all activities in the community. We should welcome their ideas and their suggestions; we should permit them to have a part in the program for the city's future and to participate in this program. We should prove to them they are not only welcome but we are really and truly glad to have them and we want them to join hands with us in continuing to build Artesia. We believe that is the desire of every citizen here. We believe that we do want them to aid and help and to be a real part of this community. We want more employees here working in industry; receiving payroll and spending this pay to live in our community. We want more firms, concerns and individuals to come into Artesia, make investments to give us

Stick to the Lines

ARTESIA IS ABOUT to take another step forward toward metropolitan ways, not that we are that big, but we do like to be modern and up to date. Soon traffic lanes will have been painted on the streets for the safety, convenience, and education of the driving public.

Whether the average driver in Artesia will know what to do about the lanes remains to be seen. But with an educational program the lanes will help speed up downtown traffic, at the same time making it more safe.

By using traffic lanes properly, the danger of crumpled fenders and numerous bumps will be largely eliminated.

If everyone pitches in and obeys the traffic regulations and pays attention to the new lanes and driving instructions, Artesia will have taken another big step forward, a step ahead with our other advancements.—A.L.B.

Did you ever notice it is the fellow, who does the least to help build up his community, who hollers the loudest about how little is being done?

Child Welfare Should Start In the Home

"The fact that we are like young people and want to develop their responsibilities and personalities should be the underlying principle in providing recreation for them, not just places for them to get them out of the house," declared Rev. Paul L. Brown in a strong address at the weekly Rotary Club luncheon Tuesday noon, in which he laid the blame for "so-called juvenile delinquency" at the feet of the parents.

The Presbyterian pastor said the problem starts when the child is born, that too often he is not wanted and is not the product of love, which leads to bad results. A child should be the product of love and faith, with parents wishing to develop his personality, education, and potential citizenship, he declared.

In too many families, Rev. Brown pointed out, the parents unconsciously send their child from home "to save the furniture, to get rid of him—and the child knows it." In other words, he said, they substitute other ideas for family life. The speaker brought out that many homes have no room, which is exclusively for the children, a place where they may have their friends and do as they please, having their own privacy, which have no recreational facilities; which find it too costly to build on another room, so the children may have their place.

And how many communities he asked, have places of recreation not for the protection of property, but for the children's good.

Unless the problem of children is attacked in that light, Rev. Brown declared, the problem of juvenile delinquency rears up, and no laws or restrictive action will keep it down.

more industries and provide more payrolls. We want more citizens and more business to serve these citizens and to serve our trade territory. We all want to help make Artesia a friendly city, which welcomes its newcomers and which helps to make them feel at home. We want to do everything to help make Artesia the city we want it to be and the city we all know it can be. And sometimes it is the little things like really accepting folks into our community, and making them feel at home that accomplishes our program.

Farm-Ranch Page Makes Appearance In The Advocate

A farm and ranch page, to be run regularly in The Advocate was being introduced to readers last week.

An effort will be made to keep the stories on the page of general interest to the farmers and ranchers and the farm and ranch households. However, the inauguration of the special page will not preclude stories of interest to farmers and ranchers on the front page and other pages of The Advocate. The pages will be built around a series of two-column features, "Practical Farm Building," which have been purchased especially for the page.

In support of the feature page and in order to extol to the readers the news of their various businesses, eight Artesia firms deal-

GOOD FOOD COMES FROM GOOD SOIL
 N. E. Dodd, director of the Field Service branch of the Production and Marketing Administration, recently told the Associated Women of the American Farm Bureau Federation that research work is finding a definite relationship between the content of the soil and the food grown from the soil.
 "The research job is not yet completed, but enough has been done to indicate to me that if we want good, nutritious food we must look to our soils," he explained. "That's why the first job in good nutrition for our people is up to the folks who farm the land. . . . If we don't care for the soil, we will not be getting the full value from our food. Soil conservation and good nutrition go together."

Mrs. Fred Jacobs, first on the program, gave reports on the state conference which was held at Albuquerque recently. She reported that out of 13 possible awards for Girl Scout achievements, Artesia received 12 and was matched only by one town, Clovis.

Hollis Watson received a certificate of merit for community service of the Girl Scouts during the conference, as did the city of Artesia, it was reported during the program Monday.

An item of interest was that a new Brownie troop has been started and the leaders, all present during the tea, are Mrs. G. P. Ruppert, Mrs. Pat Fairey, and Mrs. Clyde Parrish.

A tentative date was set for the opening of the girls' established camp, in the Sacramento Mountains, which is June 16.

Members of intermediate troops Nos. 5 and 7 were hostesses during the delightful occasion.

Beautiful decorations of the house consisted of roses, Dutch Iris, snapdragons, and other pretty summer flowers. Bouquets of flowers appointed the piano.

Dainty confections and open-face sandwiches were served with iced tea from a tea table decorated with flowers and lighted by white tapers in single candleholders.

Those who were responsible for the delicious refreshments were: From Troop No. 5, Mrs. Fred Jacobs, Mrs. George Beadle, and Mrs. Bill Royer, leaders and Mrs. Troy Peppers, Mrs. Grady Booker, Mrs. Clarence Fischbeck, Mrs. Calvin Dunn, Mrs. Nevil Muncy, troop committee members; and from Troop No. 7, leaders; Mrs. C. Pardue Bunch, Mrs. Jack Frost, and Mrs. Glenn Myers; and Mrs. C. C. Harris, Mrs. Charles Solt, Mrs. Louie Burch, and Mrs. Otto Wood, committee members.

Ladies who were in attendance were Meses. Otto Wood, Clyde Parrish, Calvin Dunn, Nevil Muncy, Howard Gissler, Fred Jacobs, Clarence Fischbeck, George Beadle, F. L. Green, Grady Booker, Charles Solt, Troy Peppers, Pat Fairey, C. Pardue Bunch, Gus Arnold, J. P. Ruppert, Glenn Collard, Herman Fuchs, H. O. Brown, S. M. Watts, B. A. DeMars, and V. P. Sheldon.

Mrs. Orville E. Priestley presented the subject of the program, "Challenges for the Church."

The women of the First Methodist Church were hostesses and decorated the table very attractively with an arrangement of beautiful roses.

Dairy Prices Are Upped For Two Months By USDA

New Mexico dairy producers will receive 55 cents a hundred for milk and 15 cents a pound for butter fat during May and June, Roy Forehand, chairman of the Eddy County ACA Committee, announced.

Increase in rates from 35 cents a hundred for milk and 10 cents a pound for butter fat was announced by the Department of Agriculture April 19, Forehand said.

Initiated in 1943 by the War Food Administration, dairy production payments have as their objective an increase in the production of milk and milk products through off setting some of the increased production costs. Although requirements for milk remain high, a greater than anticipated decline in the number of cows has taken place.

Another situation which Forehand said is adversely affecting the milk production is the feed situation.

MARKET WHEAT SO OTHERS MAY LIVE

Pleas of U. S. leaders are being directed to farmers with wheat to sell these days because, unless farmers will market their wheat, this nation cannot do its full part in preventing starvation abroad.

These pleas echo those of the millions of people in other lands who must have food if they are to maintain life in their bodies during the critical months ahead.

Wheat cannot fight against famine if it remains in the farmer's bin or in commercial storage. The Department of Agriculture reports that shipments of wheat have fallen behind goals with the wheat export goal for the January-March period 112 million bushels, shipments were about 12 million bushels short.

Increases in meat animal, vegetable and grain prices lifted the general level of prices received by farmers two points during the

BABY CHICK HATCH EARLY THIS YEAR

A 6 per cent increase over a year ago in the number of chicks on farms April 1 is attributed to earlier 1946 hatches for farm replacements. In its April 15 hatchery production report, the Bureau of Agriculture Economics says the May and June hatchery output probably will be considerably reduced. On April 1 there were 30 per cent fewer chicks ordered for later delivery than in 1945. Commercial broiler chick prices are now at top levels with the present supply below demand.

WORKERS' WAGE RATE INCREASES KEEP PACE

Farm wage rates went up 2 per cent during the first quarter of 1946. On April 1 wage rates were 6 per cent higher than a year ago. The number of hired hands working on April 1 was about the same as a year ago, while the number of family workers increased enough to lift total farm employment 2 per cent over 1945.

How to prepare for a festive Mother's Day Surprise Mother by letting her be guest of honor for at least one festive meal on Mother's Day. Make it the kind of a meal that Dad and the youngsters can prepare without her help, but include the pretty touches to give it a party feeling.
DRESS UP THE TABLE—Choose Mother's favorite pastel color, and make placemats with ruffled edges from crepe paper. It's just a matter of cutting and stretching the edges. For the centerpiece, cover a large box with crepe paper, May-basket style, ruffle the edges, and fill with flowers or trailing ivy. At Mother's place, have a smaller May basket filled with her gifts or a variety of her favorite cosmetics.
FOR BREAKFAST OR BRUNCH—Start off with chilled tomato juice that's been pepped up with a bit of lemon juice... about 1/2 tsp. of lemon juice for each glass of tomato juice. Garnish with a sprig of parsley or a celery leaf.
Easy Scrambled Eggs have a party air, and are easy to fix. Beat eggs slightly in the top of a double boiler and add 1 tsp. top milk or evaporated milk for each egg used. Season with salt and pepper and cook until smooth and creamy over boiling water, stirring frequently. Heap on the breakfast toast cut in triangles, dust with paprika and serve while piping hot.
IF IT'S DINNER FOR MOTHER—Begin with a dressy opening course such as orange and grapefruit chunks in grapefruit shells. Garnish with a berry, cherry or a stuffed olive. When planning the rest of the menu, remember that chicken is a party dish. Plan to fix it Mother's favorite way, and serve it with new boiled potatoes, fresh green beans, peas or asparagus. For dessert, there's no prettier one than ice cream on canned peach halves.

Farmers Urged To Conserve Hay Protein Content

New Mexico dairy farmers faced with the growing shortage of protein feeds can help meet the critical situation by handling the season's hay crops to conserve more of the protein content, according to E. E. Anderson, New Mexico extension dairyman.

Present conditions point to a continuing and possibly deepening shortage of protein feeds, and the college dairyman today offered two specific recommendations to aid dairy farmers in the future months.

One way, according to Anderson, is to harvest legume hays when they are in the one-tenth to one-fourth bloom stage and to harvest the grass hays when they are in the early stages of maturity. Harvested at these early stages of maturity, the plants will contain from 10 to 15 per cent more protein than if harvested in the late-bloom and late head stages, and the crops will yield more total protein per acre.

The second way is to get more of the home grown protein to the cows by reducing the field and storage losses. In tests at the Agricultural research center, Beltsville, Md., it was found that making the alfalfa crop into silage instead of curing it as hay would produce feed having 9 per cent more protein (on the same moisture basis) and make 12 per cent more protein per acre available for the cows. These differences favoring alfalfa silage were obtained under good haying conditions, and the differences would be even more favorable under poor haying conditions. Making silage conserves the protein of the feed during the storage and minimizes the loss of protein in the field.

Cows will get enough protein for liberal milk production, however, if they get all the early-cut good quality legume silage they want, or if they get all the high quality early-cut legume hay they want. Therefore, Anderson says, dairy farmers can largely meet the protein shortage by cutting their hay crops early, and by making high quality hay when conditions are favorable for haying or by making silage when conditions are unfavorable for making good hay.

Soil Conservation

Irrigated pastures sown last fall on the M. W. Jackson and J. W. Collins farms look very good. These farmers are cooperators of the Central Valley soil conservation district.

It has been necessary for Jackson to mow his pasture to prevent irregular grazing. He has three cows and two horses grazing on three acres.

Collins does not have sufficient livestock on his pasture and as a result it needs to be mowed in order to prevent patch grazing.

Pastures sown this spring on the H. A. Keinath, Elzie Swift, and William Jackson farms are looking good, too. Many of the clovers in the Keinath and Swift pastures have died, apparently because of being covered by silt caused by washing from irrigation. It is necessary to keep the top soil moist in order to get a stand of these pasture mixture. It appears as though a better stand of clovers will be obtained on the Jackson planting.

Jackson marked or corrugated the ground in the direction of irrigation before drilling in the pasture mixture on 11 acres. As a result of this corrugation it has been possible to irrigate the pasture with small heads of water and there has been much less covering of legumes by silt. His pasture was sown on bench leveled ground.

Now is the time to order seed for September planting. The recommended date for seeding irrigated pastures in this district is between Sept. 1 and 15.

The following mixture per acre is recommended:
Alta fescue, 5 pounds; Perennial rye, 2 pounds; orchard grass, 4 pounds; harding grass or dallis grass, 4 pounds; button clover, 1 pound; ladino clover, 1 pound; alsike clover, 1 pound.

Sometimes it is necessary to substitute other grasses and legumes for some of the above listed because they are not available. The Soil Conservation Service will be glad to help you with your pasture seedings or any other soil conservation problem. Come in to see us at 108 West Main Street.

PRACTICAL FARM BUILDINGS

Waste Disposal System

By W. J. DRYDEN, WNU Farm Editor.

The septic tank provides one of the most satisfactory means for the disposal of sewage. When properly built, it will require little or no attention for many years.

This is one job on the farm that demands concrete. While it is possible to build with treated timber, it will prove far more durable and satisfactory if concrete is utilized.

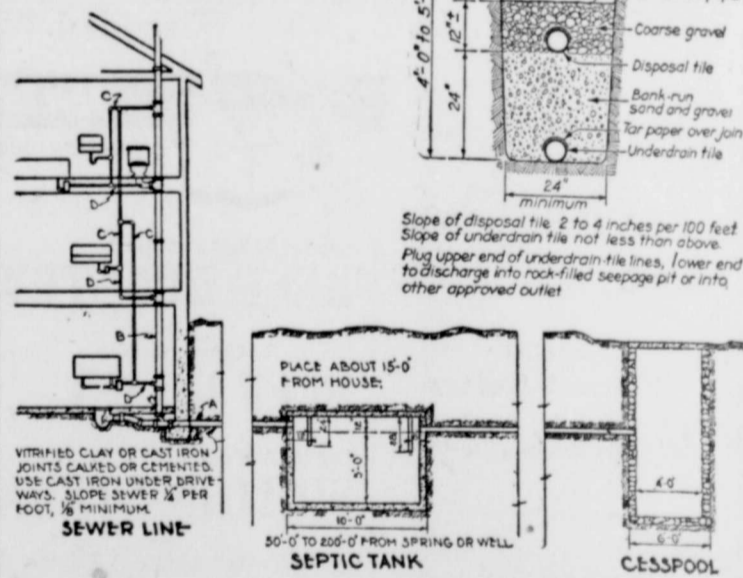

The forms for building septic tanks are rather expensive. In many sections it is possible to rent the forms from local building supply dealers or contractors. In most cases, it is cheaper to contract for the construction than to buy the forms.

A septic tank is intended to handle sewage only. Coffee grounds and ground garbage may be included if water is available for flushing. The size of the tank, however, should be increased by about 25 per cent when these materials are included in the sewage.

While septic tanks seldom freeze when in constant use, if the system is to be out of service for a period of time or exposure to severe weather, it may be advisable to mound over the poorly protected portions of the system with earth

Purchase of Grain Restricted By Food Order

War Food Order No. 145 restricts purchases of grain, grain products, or grain by-products by livestock feeders; the use of grain, grain products or grain by-products by mixed feed manufacturers; the use of grain sorghums by feed manufacturers, dry processors, and wet processors, and limits inventories of corn and grain sorghum by feeders, mixed feed manufacturers, feed manufacturers, dry processors, and wet processors.

The order provides that no feeder or shall purchase grain or grain products or grain by-products for use in feeding hogs (other than breeding stock) to a weight beyond 225 pounds or for feeding cattle to any grade better than "A."

It provides that during the period from April 1 to Sept. 30, 1946, inclusive, no feeder may purchase grain or grain products for use in feeding chickens, turkeys, ducks or any other species of poultry in excess of 80 per cent of the aggregate number of such fowl fed by such feeder during the corresponding months of 1945.

No mixed feed manufacturer during any calendar months can use grains, grain products or grain by-products in excess of 80 per cent of all grain, grain products or grain by-products used by him during the corresponding calendar month of 1945.

Livestock Slaughter Quotas Are Resumed To Even Supplies

OPA has announced a livestock channeling program to be put into effect on the commercial slaughter of cattle, hogs, and calves. Since the OPA control order was suspended in September, 1945, there have been no restrictions on livestock slaughtering and some packers have been killing several times their normal proportion of the available supply of livestock.

The new channeling program will give each legitimate slaughterer an opportunity to slaughter the same proportion of the available supply of cattle, hogs, and calves as he slaughtered in 1944. The volume he may kill will be adjusted rapidly as the supply changes. Slaughter by farmers for their own use is not restricted by this program.

DRIED EGG PURCHASE PROGRAM INCREASED

The U. S. Department of Agriculture's dried whole egg purchase program has been increased from 45 million to 57 million pounds. Through April 11 total purchases under the program amounted to 42 million pounds.

Offers of the additional quantity, for delivery in May or later if necessary, will be received each Tuesday as under the previous requirement.

The additional 12 million pounds of dried eggs are being obtained for export to the United Kingdom for use under Great Britain's food rationing program.

CCC Contracts Of Sale May Be Used For Loan Security

CCC contracts of sale received for wheat delivered by farmers for famine relief under the emergency wheat purchase program may be used for security for a bona fide loan, the state PMA offices have notified. Lending agencies accepting the contracts are required to be issued or a proceeds of such contracts at The Advo-

 "Adam and Fallen Man" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, May 12, 1946.
 The golden text is: "As in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive." (1 Corinthians 15:22)
 Among the citations which will comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "And God said, let us make man in our image, after our likeness: . . . so God made man in his own image, in the image of God created him;

male and female created he them." (Genesis 1:26, 27)
 The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science text book, "Science and Health with key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The standard of perfection was originally God and man. Has God taken down His own standard, and has man fallen?"
 Visitors always welcome.

Democratic Nomination for the Office of New Mexico
State Corporation
Commissioner
 Primary Election
 June 4, 1946

Tom Jernigan, who is a candidate for Democratic nomination for State Corporation Commissioner, came to New Mexico in 1920, shortly after he was Honorably discharged from the U.S. Navy, following the end of World War I and bought a farm in Roosevelt County.

After farming a few years he went into business in Portales, in which he remained until November 1928, when he was elected Sheriff of Roosevelt County.

After he had served two terms as Sheriff he was appointed Deputy United States Marshal with headquarters at Roswell where he lived until in 1937 when he was appointed State Sales Tax Auditor for the Eastern part of the state.

In January 1939 he was appointed Chief of the State Division of Liquor Control in which position he remained for five years when he resigned and enlisted in the U.S. Navy, from which he received an honorable discharge last month.

Tom was born June 25, 1893 in Llano Texas. Married in 1913, has two boys and two girls. Max, the oldest boy was discharged from the Navy last December and is now living in Albuquerque. Rex is still in the Army. Leora, the oldest girl is married and lives in Nevada, Betty Sue the youngest is 12 years old and is with her parents.

It has always been Tom's policy while in or out of public office to treat everybody right, regardless of whether it was an individual or a corporation, they got his best consideration and were dealt with fairly. If nominated and elected State Corporation Commissioner, he shall continue such policy toward all whom he may do business with.
