Silver Wedding Party Honors T. A. Southards

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Southard were surprised with a party June 27 in honor of their 25th wedding anniversary at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Southard, 1308 Yucca Avenue with Mrs. Southard and Miss Norma Jo Southard their daughter, as hostesses.

When the honorees came in the door, Sharon Haynes sang "I Love You Truly," with the quartet Howard Haynes, Clifton Stark, Bill Tidwell and Floyd Embree, humming. The group then sang "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

Mrs. Southard was presented a white carnation corsage tied with silver ribbon and Mr. Southard was presented a carnation boutonniere.

The silver theme was carried out in the decorations. A bassinet decorated in silver stood in the center of the room and on the outside was printed "Blessed Events" and contained three dolls, one dressed as a sailor, a little girl and a boy and bore the names and ages, Bob, Norma and Bill and the bassinet was filled with many lovely and useful gifts, which were presented the honorees.

Wilma Jo Young was in charge of the guest book, which was in silver and inscribed "Alva and Beulah, June 27, 1926-June 27, 1951 and about 85 guests registered.

A five-tiered wedding cake decorated with rosebuds and leaves and the inscription "25th wedding anniversary, Alva and Beulah," on top centered the table which was covered with silver lace doilies and gandle holders filled at the base with roses and holding white tapers were on each side.

The cut glass punch bowl centered another table which was covered with a white rayon tablecloth which was brought from Japan by Mrs. R. A. Southard's brother. A large bouquet of roses was also on the table. The punchbowl was presided over by Norma Jo Southard. Favors of small silver nut cups filled with mints and nuts were presented the guests by Dixie Williams. Cake and punch were served by Mrs. R. A. Southard. The napkins were white, inscribed in silver "Alva and Beulah, June 27, 1951."

Country Club Chatter

By Jack Fauntleroy

After much discussion, pro and con, long deliberation over various plans submitted, countless interviews with everyone that could be cornered and finally by just sticking their necks out a country mile, the board of directors decided to have a trial run for two months on the local golf situation.

The plan was submitted to the membership by letter last week and is to go into effect July 1. Each membership will be entitled to six guest cards per month. They will not be transferrable and each card will be signed by the member at the time the cards are picked up.

Members can get these cards by calling at Rex Holmes' office on the third floor of the Carper Building. I believe that the plan, which is made of the best ideas from several plans submitted, has a very good chance of working successfully.

Whether or not it is a success will depend on the membership, but knowing practically everyone by their first name, middle initial, I think it will work fine. At the end of August, each member will be queried to see what he thinks of the plan and be asked for any suggestions he or she might wish to make.

Supply Low
My golf ball supply dwindled last week when Stanley Carper

(French pronunciation—StawnLee CarPay) holed out on No. 5 with his second shot for a big fat eagle. I didn't actually see the shot go in the cup, but CarPay brought along Harry Plowman, Jim Farmer, W. C. Gott and Harold Crossett, all pretty big boys, as witnesses, so I took his word for it.

This, along with another fast round later in the week, was too many strokes for Old Spot and Old Spot passed away. Judge Neil Watkins or Watson or whatever his name is, was there at the time and helped with the interment. (In case this bit of writing looks like it comes from the Unknown "Tongue, Judge Whatshisname will explain to you on request).

Claude Withers and his family are back from their vacation in Hot Springs, Ark. Apparently the Hot Springs pro has perfected the technique of approaching and putting and Claude was thoughtless enough to give me a demonstration of what he had learned.

Work Out
Jim Farmer is working out daily at the club, getting in shape for the pro-football season. He wears a plastic sweating jacket as he runs around the course smack dab in the heat of the day. The way the sweat pours off of him, we could tap another plentiful water supply if we could find some way to hook him up to a pressure pump.

Now I want to tell you about one of the nicest parties that I have ever attended. John and Harriet Cochran gave the party Saturday night, honoring Mrs. H. B. Justice, a lovely and gracious lady and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Tripplehorn.

Mrs. Justice is Harriet's mother, and Mrs. Tripplehorn is Harriet's twin sister and just as pretty as Harriet. They look so much alike, in fact, that I thought someone was kidding me when they introduced her to me as Harriet's sister.

Mrs. Justice and the Tripplehorn are from Tulsa and joke, like all us guys from Oklahoma is a pretty good-sized boy and also in keeping with the tradition of us natives of Oklahoma, is a very handsome fellow.

Plenty of Food
There was more food and folks there than a body would think. Everybody got well fed, so you'll know how much food they had when I tell you who all was invited.

Besides the three guests of honor, there was Bill Siegenthaler, no slouch when it comes to puttin'

away food and the following Starving Armenians:
Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bourland, Stanley Carper, Barney Cockburn, Chili Currier, Aub Fairey, Jack Fauntleroy, J. R. Caudle, Jerry Losee, Bert Muncy, A. C. Sadler, Marshall Rowley, T. C. Stromberg Jack Tinson, Cecil Waldrep, Neil Watson, Harvey Yates, St. Clair Yates, B. G. Robinson, Tout Caudle, Clyde Guy, Fritz Ward and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lackey, who came down from Roswell.

Harriet was unable to attend due to a very uncomfortable case of the flu, but John was a perfect host. After seeing all these folks there, I think it was understandable why John gave a very definite NO when I suggested that Yetta and I bring our kids. Even without the children though, we had a wonderful time, as did everybody else.

Christian Youth Map Three-Month Activity Plans

The Christian Youth Fellowship of the First Christian Church held a planned retreat Sunday, June 24, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nevil Muncy.

At noon several tables were placed in the yard from which fried chicken and all the trimmings was served.

The afternoon was spent in visiting, dancing and taking pictures. String music was played by Johnny Price and Redden Bolton.

Mrs. Bolton had seven children and their families present for the occasion. They were: Daughters, Mrs. L. C. Mayberry and Mrs. W. B. King of Cottonwood, Mrs. Mayfield Gibson of Hillsboro, Mrs. Johnny Price of Deming, Mrs. A. K. Ripley of Lake Arthur, and Mrs. Doug Curry of Hillsboro, and son, Edgar Bolton of Maderia, Calif. The C.Y.F. wishes to thank Mr. and Mrs. Muncy and Billie Jean for the hospitality shown them on Sunday. They also wish to thank the sponsors who helped in the planning, Burrell Chenoweth, Mrs. Lloyd Bell, and Rev. and Mrs. Arthur Bell.

Rowley and their daughter, Mrs. Lucille Brittain of Portales and their grandchildren, Jan and Jerry Cranford, children of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Cranford of Artesia, arrived in Pasadena, Calif., for two weeks. They spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Leroy Cranford and Mr. Cranford and left for their home Monday and were accompanied by their granddaughter, Jan Cranford, who will visit them for several weeks.

Mrs. Justice is Harriet's mother, and Mrs. Tripplehorn is Harriet's twin sister and just as pretty as Harriet. They look so much alike, in fact, that I thought someone was kidding me when they introduced her to me as Harriet's sister. Mrs. Justice and the Tripplehorn are from Tulsa and Joe, like all us guys from Oklahoma is a pretty good-sized boy and also in keeping with the tradition of us natives of Oklahoma, is a very handsome fellow.

There was more food and folks there than a body would think. Everybody got well fed, so you'll know how much food they had when I tell you who all was invited. Besides the three guests of honor, there was Bill Siegenhaier, no slouch when it comes to puttin'

away food and the following Starving Armenians:

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bourland, Stanley Carper, Barney Cockburn, Chili Currier, Aub Fairry, Jack Faunteroy, J. B. Caudle, Jerry Losee, Bert Muncy, A. C. Sadler, Marshall Rowley, T. C. Stromberg Jack Tinson, Cecil Waldrep, Neil Watson, Harvey Yates, St. Clair Yates, B. G. Robinson, Tout Caudle, Clyde Guy, Fritz Ward and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lackey, who came down from Roswell.

Harriet was unable to attend due to a very uncomfortable case of the flu, but John was the perfect host. After seeing all these folks there, I think it was understandable why John gave a very definite NO when I suggested that Yetta and I bring our kids. Even without the children though, we had a wonderful time, as did everybody else.

still lives in the youth of our nation. We shall have forsaken our bounden duty as parents — as the elder generation — if by any action, or lack of it, we lead this nation to socialism and leave our youth bereft of the spirit of freedom they cherish, and for which those who came before them have died.

Eating Is Necessary, Also Mighty Pleasant

Some folks say they live to eat, while others claim they eat to live. At any rate it would sure be hard to find many people who don't enjoy the thought of a big, thick steak and some French fries. Eating is a necessity and it sure can be pleasant. But there are some folks who can't enjoy good food... it just doesn't seem to agree with them. If you're one of these folks because of deficiencies of Vitamins B<sub>1</sub>, B<sub>2</sub>, Iron and Nicotin, then this article is intended for you.

Guy H. Housley, who lives at 641 14th St., San Diego, Calif., was one of those folks who couldn't enjoy food without having after-meal distress, but not any more. Mr. Housley heard how HADACOL was helping folks suffering from these deficiencies and began taking it.

Here is Mr. Housley's statement: "I am 40 years of age and have had a nervous stomach condition for quite some time. Couldn't eat hardly anything. Back in my home town, I bought a bottle of HADACOL and before the first bottle was gone, I could tell a difference. Then I came to San Diego and couldn't get it here. I sent back to Atlanta for it. Now, thank God, they have it on the market here and I have a supply in my house. Not only that, but I'm telling all my friends what HADACOL has done for me. I sleep well, eat anything I can get and feel wonderful. I could go on and on praising HADACOL. It's done so much for me."

Start taking HADACOL right away and if you do not get the results you expect your money will be immediately refunded. HADACOL costs only $1.25 for a trial size bottle. Large family economy size, $3.50. There is only one true and genuine HADACOL. Recommended by many doctors.

started in 1925 when a group of Carlsbad business men headed by Birch Harrison, Frank Kindel, Hugh Hall and Ira Stockwell decided that Carlsbad should sponsor a fireworks display in connection with the celebration of Independence Day. The east bank of the Pecos river opposite the Municipal Beach offered the best location for this fiery display as the waters of the Pecos provided safety for the crowds and also added beauty to the display because of the reflection across the water.

Annual celebrations have included motor boat racing, aquatic contests, bathing beauty contests, baseball games, with the fireworks display as the finale of the day. Money for the program has been provided by public subscription until 1949 when the Veterans of Foreign Wars financed the display from their own funds.

This program attracts thousands to the Municipal Beach each Fourth of July evening when hundreds of people within a radius of 100 miles or more attend this display.

This year's program is being financed by the Central Trades and Labor Council of Carlsbad, Carpenters' Local 1245, International Hod Carriers, and Common Labor Local 1385, Bricklayers and Masons Local 4, Operative Plaster and Cement Finishers, Iron Workers, Operating Engineers, International Association of Mechanics, Butchers, Barbers, Painters, Roofers, Postal Workers Union, Plumbers, Teamsters and A.F.L. affiliated unions.

There will be no public solicitation of funds. This year's program will be one of the most entertaining and thrilling which has ever been shown in Carlsbad and will include a 100-foot long Niagara Falls in fire and will be so placed that the fire will actually flow into the Pecos river. Another very spectacular piece of skill will be the Light of Freedom displaying in fire a battle in New York harbor between land fort and a battleship with the Statue of Liberty in the background.

Also included in the show will be nine-inch rocket shells of assorted colors, flitter and novelty effects, 12-inch rocket shell in spider-web, flittering fireflies, shining moonbeams and other beautiful designs, 15-inch shells in colorful signal stars, national colors, parachute shells suspended in space and lit by magnesium, and the enormous 18-inch rocket shells ascending and breaking at dizzy heights, lighting the heavens with searchlights, illuminated American flags floating down by parachutes, machine gun shells discharging 50 shots in rapid fire and multi-bursting shells changing hues with each break.

The grand finale of the show erupts around the American Flag with a mighty bombardment of hundreds of shells and the Land of the Midnight Sun portrayed by six large oriental spires set in pieces. Forty-eight assorted multiple-break serial shells are fused together so that at one lighting they are fired in rapid succession, creating a mighty spectacle as the din and flash of reports mingle with the hissing dragons and multitude of colors released high in the night.

Another fireworks display is to be staged at Easley Lake in Lovington at eight o'clock in the evening of the Fourth. Displays will include portraying the American Flag, a Niagara Falls display, welcome flares, fiery illumination, megr-go-rounds, magnesium and atomic flares, fountains, and devil among tailors.

There will be the annual Ranch Hands Rodeo at Cloudercroft, which opened Sunday and will have its final performance at two p. m. of the Fourth. For the racing fans there will be horse races at Ruidoso, which have been going on for the past few days.

stage a display. Other fireworks displays are scheduled for Silver City, Santa Fe, Farmington, and Deming.

Two more rodeos are on tap, one at Cimarron and one at Fort Sumner. Rounding out July the Fourth activities we have a Rabbit Ear roundup at Clayton, a celebration commemorating the Gadsden Purchase at La Mesilla, an old town fiesta at Las Vegas, and a special celebration at Los Lunas.

This array of activities should give fans plenty to choose from when trying to decide what to do on the Fourth. However, with all this merriment there is a deeper meaning of the Fourth. For it was on that day 175 years ago that a resolution introduced by Richard Henry Lee "that these united colonies are and of right ought to be free and independent states" was formally adopted and proclaimed.

It announced to the world of 175 years ago that the original 13 colonies would no longer tolerate control by a foreign power, but would guide their own destinies. It is for this principle that wars have been fought since that time and for which the United States is at present engaged in a war in Korea.

Soil-Saving—

Bratcher, which is located three miles northeast of town. Yager began by explaining the procedure used by the SCS in making a plan for a cooperater, how to interpret soil maps, and how the data is obtained.

By using a soil auger and soil tube, the problem area in Bratcher's field was studied, and it was found that a tight deep clay which allowed poor penetration of water and air, plus a tendency to crack when drying out added up to a poor stand of cotton. A check of the "alkali" or soluble salts made on the farm showed that the salts present were not the cause of the poor stand.

Other spots studied included a top bed where practically no top soil was present to grow a crop, and another part of the same field where a loam of good structure was growing a good stand of cotton. Trainees were shown the operation of the electrical instrument which measures the salts present in soil or irrigation water, and several brought samples for testing.

Only one sample, however, contributed by Roy D. Angell of Lakewood, was found to contain harmful quantities of salts.

The samples taken on Bratcher's farm have been sent to the State SCS laboratory for analysis which will further aid the technician in advising management practices which will increase the productivity of the soil being studied.

The United States has 1,141,615,364 acres of farm land.

that have already been cut over, Moore said.

The timber must be harvested soon to assure the manufacture of good lumber, Moore said, although Douglas fir will remain sound for a much greater time than will pine. As soon as the timber is harvested, the forest service expects to cut out some 25 poles to the acre and string them end to end around the hillsides on contour and then press them into the earth by running tractors and bulldozers over them. The poles will thus prevent hillside erosion.

Also in the plans of the local forest office is the planting of some 2000 new fir trees which are being grown from seed in the forest service nursery in Monument, Colo. The seed was gathered in the Lincoln Forest last year and, being native seed, is expected to produce a high survival of seedlings.

to go on an early July the Fourth holiday. The group made a brief stop at Wimsatt Store and then drove on to Mayhill, where souvenirs were passed out.

From here the trippers returned home arriving in town Saturday afternoon at two o'clock.

Local Banks Share In Federal Rebate

Artesia's two banks, Peoples State and First National, will share with the 13,640 members banks of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation in credits against their monthly assessments.

Peoples State estimates it will receive 50 per cent of its total assessment for the year when credits are returned, according to Cecil Waldrep, an executive vice-president of the bank. For First National the credit percentage is 56 per cent according to C. F. Hammett, assistant cashier.

The rebates are being made at this time because of the start of a new fiscal year, and result from a 1950 act of congress.

Corn in a can retailing at 39 cents brings less than two and 3/4 cents to the producer.

Forest Service Sets Up Safety Rules on Fires

In the wake of the series of forest fires that has struck New Mexico this season comes a letter from C. E. Moore, forest supervisor, Lincoln National Forest, and a proclamation by C. Otton Lindh, regional forester, Albuquerque. Moore's letter, received by this newspaper on Thursday, was sent from Alamogordo and is dated June 26.

"For the duration of the extreme hazardous conditions," says Dindh, "I hereby proclaim that all national forest lands in New Mexico and Arizona are closed to smoking while traveling except on paved or surfaced highways and places of habitation. The proclamation also states that camp fires are not permitted except on designated and posted forest camps or with a permit issued by a forest officer."

Preface of the document says that forest lands in the Southwest are "extremely and dangerously dry"; "forest fires do untold damage to trees, grass, and watersheds"; and "all people are urged to refrain from using the national forests in New Mexico and Arizona during the hazardous period except on essential business and then only under such circumstances as will insure that no fire will start."

Just Isn't Possible

IT IS JUST AS IMPOSSIBLE for this newspaper to say only the things and do the things that everyone wants said or done as it is for the public office holder to please all of his constituents.

So it is never surprising when someone comes along to tell us they do not like our editorial policy; or some editorial we have published; or the way we run our paper.

We say tell us—they usually don't. They tell someone else and ask them to tell us.

We recently had such a report come to us. One business man said there were some business men who didn't like what we said editorially. Very frequently we know when we write an editorial certain people are not going to like it. Fact is it is written for the purpose of arousing people, stirring them up and even making them angry if it can accomplish the desired result.

We learned a good many years ago that you couldn't please all the people and you couldn't let everyone else run your business—it just wouldn't be possible to please them all.

So we go along exercising our right of citizenship—the right of free speech and free press. We expect to enjoy this right even if we have to insist on it. And the same laws which grant us the right to our opinion also grants to others the right not to read it. And the same law gives us the right not to listen to those we don't want to hear.

We are sure that even those who sometimes don't like what is said editorially in this newspaper or other papers still wouldn't want to deny the newspapers the right to have their opinions—an American right.

They would be the last to want to try and tell others what they should do, think or say. Because they want to retain their right to free speech and free press.

We likewise are sure they don't think that because they pay the subscription price for the paper, it carries with it the right to dictate the policy of the paper. Once and a while you find those who seem to think this.

But they don't grant to their customers the right to run their business for them, merely because they are customers.

Your American right permits you not only to disagree with the policy of any newspaper but also the right not even to read their editorial comments but we are sure you do not want to deny them the right of free speech and freedom of the press.

Do We Want It?

IT IS RATHER SURPRISING and amazing sometimes just how we change on our ideas of what we do or don't want. We sometimes wonder whether we actually want what we say we want.

This is always true, we believe, insofar as politics are concerned.

We recall that a great many individuals were all for the program as outlined and the promises made by Gov. Edwin L. Mechem, when he was seeking election to the state's highest office.

We favored the very things for which he stood and were squarely behind him when he was seeking votes and seeking the office.

But now some of us, apparently, are a little disgruntled. We are not happy and not satisfied. There are those who want to contend the governor has created some political enemies. They even want to discuss one term.

And when you start digging into just why some folks who were for him are now against him, it is surprising to learn that they didn't mean when they supported him they actually favored his program. They were only for it, it now seems, until he was elected.

They weren't used to seeing candidates elected to public office keep their promises and seek to do the very things they told the people they were going to do.

And so when Governor Mechem started keeping these promises or doing everything he could toward keeping them—they just aren't happy about it.

They don't want him to do that especially if it keeps them from having or doing some of the things they want done. They don't want them done if it means denying them a job; they don't want them done if it denies them having a place on a board; they don't want them done if it denies them handing out political patronage in their own county.

Perhaps there is nothing unusual about this. As a group of people we always believe in law enforcement—that is for the other fellow; we believe in economy as long as it doesn't affect us or our pet project; we believe in a good many things just as long as they do not apply to us.

That is probably why we don't like some of the things the governor is doing. We don't like them because he doesn't do what we want him to do and he is being governor just like he said he would be when he was running for office.

He said before he took office that he wasn't going to fire an individual because he belonged to the other party as long as that individual was doing his job. He has sought to do that even though some of those who have been left on the payroll haven't appreciated it fully, judging from some of their comment.

He hasn't been too concerned about the party affiliation of an individual if he felt the individual could do a good job and was qualified for the post to which he was appointed.

He has been honest and frank to say that even some of his own party members, who only want to get back on the payroll as they once were, wouldn't receive appointments merely because they wanted a job. And someone of his party members haven't liked that.

But we are rather firmly convinced there are a good many citizens and taxpayers over the state who do like what he is doing and the way he is doing it. And after all it wasn't any political party or political leaders, who elected him. He was elected by the people of the state—those who pay, the taxpayers. It took both party votes to win him the election and he has sought and is honestly seeking, we feel, to serve those who elected him to office.

The disgruntled politicians, of course, do a lot of talking and a lot of complaining. The people, who really named him governor, have not been talking much. We feel they are pretty well satisfied with the way in which Governor Mechem is keeping the promises he made before he was elected to office.

There would be less pedestrian patients if there were more patient pedestrians.

What Other Editors Are Saying

PLENTY OF HEADACHES

The retail merchant who wants to be a laboring citizen has been suffering from a severe series of headaches in recent months. These are the result of various Office of Price Stabilization orders which have been next to impossible to follow. Even large stores and chains, which have all kinds of specialized talent in their employ, have found compliance difficult. Small stores are in the worst position of all, as they haven't the staffs to carry out orders which demand the compilation of endless forms and reports.

OPS, faced with a wave of protests from retailers, has changed some of its orders, and additional changes will be made. But the situation is one more example of the fact that when government dictates to business, confusion and waste are inevitable. The government administrators may be good men, trying hard to do the best possible job. In most cases, they just aren't familiar enough with the problems and internal workings of the businesses they control.

In some instances, OPS policies have been definitely unfair to retailing, in that they do not permit retailers to add to their selling prices increases in wholesale and operating costs. In such cases, retailers have no choice but to stop ordering the merchandise involved. Retail profits are just too small these days, despite high prices, to make any other course possible.

OPS has a great deal to learn. It is to be hoped it learns the lessons fast and applies them without delay—otherwise the national economy will be seriously weakened. If that happens, everyone—including the consumers OPS is supposed to protect—will be hurt.—Industrial News Review.

OIL-AND AGRICULTURE

Last year, for the first time in history, farm automobiles, not including trucks, out-numbered draft animals on American farms.

This casts an interesting sidelight on the way the machine has revolutionized agriculture's way of working and living. Today oil-powered tractors, trucks and engines in use on our farms represent a total of 78,000,000 horsepower in mechanical energy—twice the figure of 10 years ago. In that period farm output per man-hour has jumped about 50 per cent.

Oil-powered energy has made it possible for the farmer to produce larger crops of all kinds with less physical work. It has released for food production 15,000,000 acres formerly required to produce feed for horses and mules. It has speeded the spread of stubble-mulching, contouring, strip-cropping and other soil-conservation practices. And now oil is playing a major role in the old battle against weeds. Petroleum chemicals in the form of fertilizer improve the productivity of soils. Insecticides help protect plants, animals and human beings. Rust preventatives conserve equipment and lengthen the working life of machinery. In almost every farm chore, oil has a place.

Oil is one of the big factors that has made it possible for present-day farms, with fewer farm workers to normally produce 40 per cent more than in the best bumper crop years up to 1940. The farmer, like everyone else, has a direct personal interest in the progressiveness and welfare of America's great oil industry.—Industrial Review.

EUNICE POLICY

We are interested in Eunice because we have our money invested here. Our chips are in the pot and we intend to play our hand just as we see it will do the most good for Eunice and for our newspaper and our investment. All the rest of you are doing no less.

Our policy has always been that if a man wasn't for us he was against us—there could be no half way ground.

When we once become convinced about a man's intentions towards us and our newspaper, we act accordingly.

As we have said before, we think Eunice has a very good future. If we didn't we wouldn't be in business here. Since we are in business here, we expect to do everything in our power to make the town and community ever bigger and better.

Those who help us will have our undying gratitude and loyalty. But those who do not support the newspaper and who spend a lot of time knocking it will get from us just what they are handing out—and more.

So, now we are all through with the rhubarb. We're going to move over here and run this newspaper. We are going to give Eunice the best paper it has ever had because our training and experience will allow us to do just that.

We hope a lot of the local business concerns will go along with us and support the newspaper. But, if they don't that is their business and we will never criticize anyone of them unless we hear that they are criticizing the paper.

We are not at all worried as to whether the newspaper will make money for there are always smart business men who will buy advertising space to reach the three million dollar (or more) payroll in this area. They may not be in business in Eunice, but if not, they are to be found and they will advertise.—David L. Watson, Eunice Enterprise.

Montgomery Clift

NEW YORK—Mine is a commercial-type mind reasonably alert to the opportunities of a lifetime, and the first time I saw Montgomery Clift on a movie screen, this wistful thought appeared in that mind in day-glow letters: Oh, to have 10 per cent of this guy. I felt the same way first time I saw Lena Horne. They couldn't miss, and all my commercial-type mind wanted was a few shares of common stock in them.

That was a few years ago—The Search was the name of that first Clift movie—and in the interim there has arisen a kind of Clift legend. His acting and personal background is very roughly like that of Marlon Brando, the talented poseur, and at times have been made to label Clift another Brando—a lackadaisical, sloppy, go-to-blazes-all-of-you personality. I am sorry to say that newspaper and magazine writers made most of this up about a pleasant young guy with intelligence, integrity and taste. Most of it's trash.

The other afternoon, because I was interested in why a handsome man like Clift prefers to live in a little New York apartment the year-around, instead of a Hollywood castle with swimming pool and fan-tail Cadillac, I sat down with him in a dark corner of Twenty-One and asked him. It was simple. He doesn't like castles with swimming pools and fan-tail Cadillacs—and he does like New York. "I have to think three times before I answer something like that," he told me. "It sounds like a simple question and all I'd have to answer would be the truth, which is that I like to live in New York. But if I use the wrong words, I'll have a hundred people jumping down my throat.

"A luxurious life in Hollywood comes close to being a full realization of the American success dream, and if I say I don't like the idea, many persons will think I'm nuts or a snob. Maybe if I put it that way: My home is in New York, and suppose I went to act in Denver for three months. That wouldn't mean I'd have to give up New York and live in Denver the rest of my life, would it?" He looked around the famous old saloon, as if he were looking around Manhattan. "I live here. I like it."

CLIFT HAD JUST COME FROM AN ITALIAN LUNCH at a little place called Mercurio's when we met, so when we sat down and the waiter came by, all he wanted was a glass of water. If that doesn't make sense, God knows what does. He had just had lunch, so why eat or drink more?

That doesn't make Twenty-One any money true, but it was the middle of the afternoon and they had a lot of empty tables, anyway, and besides, he was good window dressing for them. Still, you can see some of those Hollywood characters now: "I was out with Monty Clift today, and—this'll kill you—guess what the kid drank? Water, yet!"

Small talk bores him—and by small talk, he means who's your agent now, what's your tailor's name, did you go to Fil's party, was there, is it true Darryl is filming the Bible????

He has a consuming interest in acting—he's not really a latecomer to it, either, having been on the stage for years—but he wants to be a well-rounded man. Thus, he spends a lot of time reading—not best-seller junk, but literature.

"If you want to lead a full life and become really mature," he said, "I think this is about as good a city as any to do it in."

I ASKED HIM WHAT HIS PLANS WERE, and he just grinned. "None," he said. "I'm unemployed." This is a state of affairs of his own choosing, because he just has finished the re-make of Dreiser's American Tragedy, now called A Place in the Sun, and according to the early word, Clift can have any lollipop in Hollywood after this one. The Picture Post, Britain's weekly magazine, calls this one "the finest film that has ever been made."

Out of 90 days of filming on it, Clift worked 88 1/2. He emerged with an enormous respect for director George Stevens, a sentiment I also heard Shelley Winters voice last summer. Miss Winters also stars in A Place in the Sun, and they say she, too, will knock your eye out with her performance.

Clift, an Omaha native, doesn't give luncheon interviews on the set of pictures in which he's working, because he thinks you have little enough time to get your teeth into your part and he spends lunchtime thinking and learning. For that, he's looked on as a snob. The real tragedy will be if he ever lets it get under his skin, and mends his ways.

Right now Clift is a guy who lives easily, comfortably, intelligently and happily. Because he has talent and money, he can do pretty much as he wants to do, and he does. That includes living in New York. The day they take that away from a guy, I resign.

burned up. The fire is believed to have started from a pile of books and papers in a corner of the room. There were 15 firemen responding to the alarm. One section of a new length of hose failed to function, slowing down the firemen in putting out the blaze. Fire Chief J. A. Richards said.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

I LEARNED from Thomas R. Henry's fascinating book about the Antarctic, The White Continent, that the "killer whales" in those waters, a species of dolphin, are the only animals except man capable of combating the mighty blue whale. The blue whale can only hold its breath for five minutes at most; the killer for twenty. Operating in pairs, the killers drag a blue whale underwater until it succumbs, then rip out its delicious tongue and leave the rest of the 150-ton carcass to float away.

Henry says Antarctica is "the natural ice-box of the world." There where there are "no bugs to eat grain and no bacteria to spoil meat," enormous food surpluses of the Southern Hemisphere might be stored for decades "as insurance against recurring food shortages and famines." The Byrd Expedition of 1940 found Scott's magazines, left in the snow when he froze to death in 1912, looking as fresh as if they had been printed that day.

come "GI-X" if the Korean war continues apparently has been given a respite of several months more of life as a result of far lighter casualties recently, Harvey observed.

Combat deaths fell off nearly two-thirds a month ago to the surprisingly low rate 13 to 15 fatalities a day, or 90 to 100 a week. This compared with a high average of 40 a day, or 275 a week, two months ago.

Historic Million Total U. S. war deaths since 1775 are now within 2,000 of the historic million mark and automobile fatalities since 1900 are about 20,000 under 1,000,000.

The totals for war and traffic deaths are now only 18,000 apart, compared to 42,000 a year ago when military fatalities at the start of the Korean war stood at 986,000 and traffic deaths had reached 944,000.

The automobile toll may rise steadily to an average of 115 deaths a day, last December's peak rate, for the final six months of 1951, he emphasized, unless intensive national and local highway safety campaigns are started immediately to reduce traffic accidents and save a large number of lives on the home front.

A seven per cent increase in traffic fatalities during the first four months this year over the same 1950 period, as reported by the National Safety Council, indicates the prospect of a far heavier automobile death toll later this year and the urgent need for immediate drastic action to curb ## speeding and drinking-and-driving, the major causes of traffic accidents, Harvey declared.

"Accident X," in which the millionth automobile fatality will occur, is still expected next December, he said, although an intensive traffic safety campaign seeking to postpone it may delay the death of "Victim X" until early in 1952.

"Victim X" may be killed on Christmas Day or near December 25 if present high traffic death rates are not reduced, the study indicated.

"GI-X" might be killed on or about Armistice Day, November 11, dedicated to the nation's war dead, if Korean fighting continues with U. S. combat deaths running at the recent low rate of approximately 100 a week, according to the study. On the other hand, should these fatalities return to earlier high rates near 300 a week, the new unknown soldier symbolizing the first million lives lost in America's wars might die as early as mid-August.

American battle casualties in Korea during the war's first year totaled about 75,000 including 12,000 killed in action, nearly 12,000 missing, and close to 50,000 wounded, according to Defense Department reports. Non-battle casualties, which included frostbite victims and sick and injured soldiers in Japan as well as Korea, 85 per cent of whom were returned to duty, totaled nearly 73,000 in 11 months.

The aggregate of U. S. battle and non-battle casualties in 12 months is approximately 150,000, but the non-battle category included "minor ailments," Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army Chief of Staff, told the senate committees a month ago when these casualties were reported for the first time.

Since the war started nearly 1,300,000 men, women and children have been killed or injured on the home front by automobiles, Harvey estimated. The total of traffic-injured, nearly 1,262,000 is more than 25 times the number of U. S. soldiers wounded in Korea and nine times greater than all American battle and non-battle casualties, with deaths excluded, in the same period.

Since 1900, he added, automobiles have injured more than 30,500,000 motorists and pedestrians. The combined total of 31,480,000 killed and injured in traffic since the advent of the automobile exceeds the entire pre-Civil War U. S. population of 31,443,331 in 1860 by nearly 40,000, Mr. Harvey pointed out.

A 25 per cent reduction in the nation's traffic casualties from the 35,000 killed in 1950, as estimated by the National Safety Council, would save about 8,775 lives in a single year, Harvey declared. Similar reductions in injuries and traffic accidents would mean 300,000 fewer persons would be hurt and several million accidents would be prevented in the same 12-month period.

Miss Carter believes in Scott and in a blazing climax he cleans up the entire gang with the final struggle taking place on a freight train speeding through mountain canyons.

The frontier adventure features Jerome Courtland, Peter Thompson and John Archer as Randolph Scott's erring brothers, while Warner Anderson plays Scott's boss on the railroad. ## In The Telephone Business IT TAKES TWO KINDS OF DOLLARS

UNLESS WE HAVE ENOUGH CUSTOMERS' DOLLARS WE CAN'T GET THE INVESTORS' DOLLARS WE NEED

These dollars invested in our business by thrifty people in all walks of life are used to build and equip new telephone buildings, to buy and put in place the wire and cable, the poles and telephone instruments needed for telephone service. We must raise many millions of dollars this year and in the next few years to carry out the biggest expansion program in our history.

Unless we have enough customers' dollars so that there is a reasonable amount left over for the people who have put their savings in our business, we won't be able to get the investors' dollars required for expansion of telephone service to meet today's defense and civilian needs. To induce investors to put their savings in our business, our earnings must compare favorably with other investments available to them. It is the investors' money which has made possible the expansion and improvement of telephone service in this state.

Famous Outlaw Horses Featured in Vets Rodeo

"Pikes Peak" is a familiar landmark near Colorado Springs, Colo., but to hundreds of the top cowboys in big-time rodeo circles, "Pikes Peak" is one of the toughest broncs they've ever come out of a chute on. This picture shows "Pikes Peak" three jumps from the chute, at a recent Elliott-Steiner rodeo; three seconds later there was a lot of dust, loud squeals, a groan or two—and another cowboy lay scattered in the dust of the arena!

Like his namesake, the mountain, "Pikes Peak" comes out high, steep and slick. He's a tough one to get with, for his gyrations are not spontaneous, spur-of-the-moment jumps the ordinary bronc makes in trying to get rid of the man on his back. "Pikes Peak" thinks if ever a horse did think and each jump he makes is the result of cold, hard calculation. Watch for this cowboy-criper at the Elliott-Steiner produced United Veterans rodeo on Sept. 13-15.

II and their dependents. Included in the benefits for dependents of deceased servicemen and veterans with active service on or after June 27, 1950, are death compensation and pensions, reimbursement of burial expenses, and burial flags.

Death Compensation

Unremarried widows, unmarried children and dependent parents may be entitled to death compensation at wartime rates, if a serviceman or veteran dies because of disease or injury incurred in line of duty on or after June 27, 1950.

The unmarried children may be eligible if under 18, or under 21 and attending an approved school. Wartime rates vary with the number and type of dependents. A widow with no children, for example, would receive $75 a month, and a widow with one child would get $105. Peacetime rates in all cases are 80 per cent of the wartime rates.

The new law authorizes wartime rates in all cases where the disability occurred on or after June 27, 1950. Before the law was passed, wartime rates could be paid only in peacetime cases where death resulted from injury or disease received in line of duty as a direct result of armed conflict or while engaged in extra-hazardous service.

Death Pension

Under the new law, eligible dependents of certain veterans who die of nonservice-connected ailments now may be entitled to death pensions.

At the time of his death, the veteran must have been receiving—or was eligible to receive—compensation for a service-connected disability (not necessarily the disability which caused his death).

Or, having served at least 90 days on or after June 27, 1950 (or discharged sooner for a service-connected disability), the veteran at the time of death must have had a definitely ascertainable service-connected disability.

Eligible dependents include unremarried widows and unmarried children under 18, or under 21 if attending an approved school. Monthly rates vary with the number and types of dependents. Examples of rates are $42 a month for a widow without children, $54 for a widow and one child, plus $6 for each additional child.

Pensions may not be paid to a widow without a minor child, or to a minor child, whose annual income exceeds $1,000; the income limitation for a widow with a child or children is $2,500 a year.

Before Public Law 28, death pensions were not payable at all to dependents of deceased veterans of peacetime service; the pensions were limited to dependents of those who saw service during war.

Burial Expense

As another result of the new law, a sum not to exceed $150 now may be payable as reimbursement for burial expenses of a veteran.

Previously, the reimbursement benefit was paid only on behalf of wartime veterans or those peacetime veterans who either were receiving compensation at time of death or who were discharged or retired for disability incurred in line of duty.

Burial Flags

As in the past, American flags to drape the casket of a deceased veteran may be presented by VA, if the veteran (1) had service during a war period, or (2) served during a complete peacetime enlistment or was discharged for disability incurred in line of duty.

In case a veteran cannot qualify for a burial flag, the flag still may be furnished, if it is desired, and the cost deducted from the burial allowance.

Wage-Hour Bureau Makes Known Rule On Illegal Wages

Violations of national wage and salary regulations may result in the disregard of all such illegal payments for income tax purposes.

That was revealed today by J. R. Cartwright, supervisor of the U. S. Department of Labor wage-hour office in Albuquerque. Wage-hour offices throughout the nation serve as local field offices for the wage stabilization board.

"The national board," Cartwright said from his office at 413 Federal Building, "contends that strong enforcement action is necessary to prevent illegal wage payments which would impair the entire anti-inflation program and lead to the pirating of manpower."

In a resolution, the WSB recognized that by and large labor and industry will comply with the provisions of the Defense Production Act with regard to wage stabilization.

But the resolution added: "... violations of the law will occur... to disregard such violations, whether they be willful or made through honest mistake or ignorance, can and will impair the entire anti-inflation program. It also places violators in a decidedly advantageous position in obtaining manpower, and leads to the practice of pirating critical manpower."

To insure compliance with the law, the board therefore feels that strong enforcement action should be undertaken as soon as possible. Part of that enforcement action was spelled out in the board's new resolution, Cartwright said.

The resolution provides that the executive departments and other agencies of the government shall, upon certification by the WSB, disregard the entire amount of illegal payments—not merely an amount representing the increase—for the following purposes:

- 1.—In calculating deductions under the revenue laws of the United States.
- 2.—In determining costs or expenses under any contracts made by or on behalf of the United States, either directly or indirectly.
- 3.—In the setting or approving any maximum price ceiling.

4.—In determining costs or expenses of any such employer for the purpose of any other law or regulation, whether heretofore or hereafter enacted or promulgated. The board, in addition, may recommend to other federal departments that such department "withhold priorities assistance and the allocation of materials" from employers who have made illegal wage payments.

The board's resolution also provided for the creation of similar enforcement commissions in each of the 14 regional WSB offices, of which is in Dallas.

The national enforcement commission, to be composed of the persons who are not members of the WSB, and the regional commissions will make the recommendations, determinations, and certifications provided for in the resolution.

(Editor's note: This is the last of a series of four articles on benefits provided for servicemen and veterans with service on or after June 27, 1950, the beginning of the Korean conflict.)
