

Squirrel Can Soar 152 Feet

National Wildlife Federation Flying Squirrel

Yes, there really are Flying Squirrels! Most people know little about them, though, because the small, fast-moving animals hide away and sleep in the daytime. It is only at night that they tirelessly explore the trees and ground. They actually fly, too, but not with wings.

To help them glide, the Flying Squirrel has a thin fold of skin along each side of his body, between his front and hind legs. When he leaps, with legs outspread, the skin stretches and makes the underside of his body broad and flat. Like the wing of an airplane, this surface enables him to sail through the air.

He cannot stay aloft, like a bird, but according to the National Wildlife Federation, he can glide long distances between trees and down wooded hillsides. From a height of 60 feet, a Flying Squirrel has been known to sail 152 feet through the air.

By shifting his body, the Flying Squirrel can control his aerial movements. He can turn from side to side, or he can swoop upward before alighting. This helps him to avoid obstacles and to pick out the spots where he wants to land. He also tries to stay away from his worst enemies, owls and cats.

Two Kinds in U.S.A.—
While some of them lose their lives to larger foes, Flying Squirrels are abundant in nearly all the wooded parts of North America, from the Arctic Circle south to the forests of Mexico. In the United States there are two kinds—a small variety in the east and south and a larger one in the north and west.

The small Flying Squirrel is about 9½ inches long, including a 4½-inch tail. His larger cousin is a foot long, with a 6-inch tail. Both are gray-brown on top and white underneath.

Most Flying Squirrels make their homes in trees. One pair may build a nest in a woodpecker hole, another in the hollow of a limb, and a third in a hole on the side of a tree trunk. They also occupy fogles in trees and take over old bird nests. If there is a house or barn near the woods, they may even live in the attic or loft.

In the spot which they have chosen, the parents build a nest of leaves, grass, moss, fur, and other soft materials. There, during March or April, from two to six young are born. They are very tiny and remain blind for the first four weeks.

When they are old enough, the young join their parents in the search for food—nuts, seeds, buds, fruit, and some insects. They also eat birds and eggs, but not enough to cause any great harm.

As winter comes to the coldest parts of the United States, the Flying Squirrels are less lively and active, but they do not hibernate. In warm regions, the National Wildlife Federation reports, they never slow down, but remain busy the year round.

His early canvas of the state has given him a head start on any other prospective candidate and more support is being pledged to him every day.

While Frazier may be considered an east sider his supporters say he is not favorable toward state division sentiment. Frazier believes, says his backers, that the governor of the state should be more interested in fair and equal administration of good govern-

It is a possibility he may by-pass the convention because, some say, it is usually controlled by machine work, and carry his candidacy direct to the people to petition him in the event the people desire him as their choice candidate.

However, if the convention is Apparently this is a year for big deer, as witness the feat of good old Seldom Burks, Jr., of Carrizozo, who brought in a 212-pounder. Bucks that weighed over 200 pounds are reported from Hobbs, Las Cruces, Gallup, Las Vegas, and perhaps other points not bragging about it. Normally 150 pounds is about the high average.

Dimensions of the building are 275 by 75 feet; capacity is 365 students.

Lobo Gridders Score on Books

ALBUQUERQUE, Dec. 4. (Special) — Football players ain't so dumb.

Mid-term grades for the University of New Mexico football team, released last week, show that the Lobo gridders are going quite well in the classroom with the team's scholastic standing as high as that of any other male group on the campus.

And it isn't only the upper classmen that are moving on to the dean's lists of their various colleges. The freshmen, in their first year of college, are also making scholastic names for themselves.

In a group usually composed of mostly physical education majors, a surprising number of Wolfpack members are majoring in engineering and allied subjects. And they are doing well in their chosen fields.

Of the upper classmen, junior tackle Don Anderson is leading the field with a 2.3 average. The 225-pound El Paso has three A's, two B's and one C. Close on Anderson's heels scholastically is sophomore fullback Dave Matthews. Matthews, who is majoring in Spanish, garnered a 2.2 average after eight weeks of work with two A's, three B's and one C.

Other upper classmen who are looking good in the study hall as well as on the gridiron are Dick Brett, junior end from Fort Wayne, Ind., and little Glenn Campbell, the 165-pound Farmington flyer who has been a consistent stand-out at halfback for the Lobos.

Brett, a mathematics major, racked up two A's, two B's and a C in the first eight weeks of study, five week-ends of which the Wolfpack spent playing out-of-town games. Campbell, a chemical engineering student, kept the pace by recording one A, four B's and a C at the mid-term.

Artesian Third — Leading the freshman gridders is Clovis' Engle Southard. The 18-year-old former prep All-Star hit the ball with three A's, one B and a C in the first eight weeks of his college career while making all but two of the Lobo road trips.

Albuquerque's Marlin Pound seconds Southard scholastically with an eight week average of 2.2. Pound recorded two A's, two B's and a C in the mechanical engineering department.

Next in line is Jim Briscoe, Artesia tackle. Briscoe, also a mechanical engineering student, garnered an A, two B's and a C for his mid-term tally.

Ralph Melbourne, Albuquerque, Jay Crampton, Albuquerque, and Larry White, Hobbs, follow up in that order in the freshman higher brackets. Melbourne posted two A's and two C's, Crampton, an industrial arts student, came out with two B's and a C, and White scored with two B's and three C's.

According to averages, not a man on the squad is in danger of being dismissed from school at semester's end because of failure in the classroom.

Some of the boys are admittedly not standing as high as they might be, but past experiences has shown that grade averages tend to rise following the end of football season.

Coach Dudley DeGroot, proud of his boys' classroom know-how, says: "The boys have been working very hard, both at their studies and on the football practice field. Going to school and playing football at the same time is not easy to do. We're pretty proud of the boys on both counts."

New Skelly Well Runs 196 Barrels On 4-Hour Test

A new oil well was brought in at a depth of 8230 feet in Lea county recently. Drilling had been slated to go to 12,500 feet, before oil was discovered at the higher level.

The new well is located 815 feet west and 660 feet of the lines of section 31-16S-37E, six miles southeast of Lovington.

It is known as the Skelly Oil Co. State "O" No. 9, and flowed 196 barrels of 39.2 gravity oil in a four hour 16 minute test.

The well was brought in Nov. 23.

New postage stamp commemorates Battle of Brooklyn. Zadok Dumkopf wonders if it depicts the National league flag flying over the Polo Grounds.

Next in line is Jim Briscoe, Artesia tackle. Briscoe, also a mechanical engineering student, garnered an A, two B's and a C for his mid-term tally.

Ralph Melbourne, Albuquerque, Jay Crampton, Albuquerque, and Larry White, Hobbs, follow up in that order in the freshman higher brackets. Melbourne posted two A's and two C's, Crampton, an industrial arts student, came out with two B's and a C, and White scored with two B's and three C's.

New Mexico Book Shows Wisdom Of Hound Pack

The UNM Press' newest book, "Slash Ranch Hounds," is a natural for sportsmen, dog lovers, and advocates of southwestern Americana.

The book has an added appeal because the author is G. W. (Dub) Evans, former state senator and past president of the New Mexico Cattle Growers Association.

First off, Slash Ranch, heart of the Evans' cattle interests, is also the heart of some of the best lion-hunting country in the entire Southwest.

The ranch is bordered on three sides by the Gila Wilderness touching such rugged country as the Mogollon Mountains, the Black Range, and the East and Middle Forks of the Gila.

Then for every hunter, dogs are important animals. The Brownies, an unbroken line of hounds since 1900, have been with the Evans family through three generations.

Blue, the wise old leader of "Dub" Evans' present pack is representative of hounds that were bred for brain and brain to spearhead the hunters' path.

Hunters have said that the Evans pack is at the very top of dogdom when it comes to bear and lion hunting.

Lastly, the personality of Dub Evans, with his left-handed hat roll as a trade-mark, shines through the record of over 150 bear and lion kills.

"Slash Ranch Hounds" is the story of hound wisdom pictured told by the man who knows most against the mystery of scent and about the habits and characteristics of southwestern "varmints."

Two construction projects will be underway in Carlsbad within the next month. Construction was started last month on a new Sears-Roebuck store. Cost of the project has been estimated at $265,000. E. Birdsell of Carlsbad is the contractor. Paving on 13.5 miles of city streets in Carlsbad will start after Jan. 3. Cost has been estimated at $590,000. Ashley G. Classen and Associates of El Paso will be in charge of opening the bids.

Elephant Butte Beavers Defeat Engineers Work

Mankind was at odds with Nature in the Rio Grande river bed north of Elephant Butte Lake. The trouble centered about a problem in engineering and at least reports, the Naturalists were holding their own.

State Engineers are engaged in draining some marshes which parallel the Rio Grande between the Bosque del Apache Federal Refuge and Elephant Butte Lake. Roughly one hundred beavers make their home—and dams—in the area and the engineers (Man's, that is), want the creatures removed. As long as the beavers remain, they will continue to build dams and hold back water which the state would like to have drained, so say the State's mountain movers.

The boys in the fur coats have defied all efforts by the competition to remove them. Each day, Department of Game and Fish patrolman Jim Hall of T or C dynamites the dams and each night, the industrious beavers rebuild everything.

Hall cites one dam in a four-foot drain canal which was breached by a drag line. The inhabitants have rebuilt the dam for the 10 straight nights and, apparently, seem determined to continue rebuilding it.

Department fieldmen plan to remove the beavers as soon as a crew of trappers can be recruited from other assignments in the North. Tentative plans call for operations to begin "early this winter." In the meantime, it is hoped that the beavers will surrender the field before the timber supply in the area is exhausted.

Beavers, it seems, are tenacious creatures.

Four Basketball Squads Aligned By Junior High

Going the senior school two better, Artesia Junior High School will have four basketball squads this season.

Topping the list are the Hornets, the ninth graders, coached by Bud Wilborn, whose gridsters won five out of six games this past season. The ninth graders will play a 14-game schedule.

A combined team of seventh and eighth graders will be led by Paul Kerley and will play "10 or 12" games.

The sixth grade will have two teams. Pupils from the rooms of W. A. Brown and Mildred Lambert will compose one of these and will be coached by Brown. The other, pupils from the rooms of Thomas Davison and William Trenfield, will compose the other and will be directed by Trenfield. The Brown and Trenfield squads will play sixth graders of Park and Roselawn.

Canines Chew 300 Pheasants At Carlsbad

Pheasant hunters were deprived of a lot of shooting when two mongrel dogs got into a holding pen at the Carlsbad game farm and chewed up 300 pheasants, says the weekly newsletter, dated Nov. 28, of New Mexico Game and Fish Department.

The dogs managed to dig their way under a fence surrounding the holding pen where the birds were being held prior to release. Of the 300 ringnecks in the pen, the dogs killed or maimed all but one.

Valued at $3.50 each the birds would have been a welcome addition to the season that opened at noon, Dec. 1.

Probe Oil Leases—

handed down an opinion that the commission does not have authority to grant leases for mineral rights on lands they control.

Some doubt exists as to what agency does have the right. "Several" tracts of land belonging to the game department have been leased for oil development but the leases have been discontinued pending investigation.

Approve New Refuge—
The commission okayed establishment of a new game refuge 18 miles east of Carlsbad. It is the Duval refuge, consisting of two sections, created at the request of a company operating there which contended that hunters in the area constituted a hazard to employees.

Artesia Firms Cleared—
The commission decided to take no action against two Artesia refineries for accidentally polluting a 12-mile section of the Pecos river through a section of porous ground.

In his report to the governing body, Fred Thompson, fisheries director, stated that as far as could be determined only the rough fish were affected by the poisonous discharge.

"I've heard of only one game fish being lost and that was a channel cat," he said.

The companies responsible for the poisoning had already taken immediate steps to prevent a recurrence of the event and the commission voted to waive any legal action.
