Brown Says GOP Do-Nothingness Retarding State

Charging that New Mexico has gone backwards in the past four years under Republican leadership, T. E. Brown of Artesia, state Democratic chairman, said today, "The GOP candidate for governor presently now is convinced that the Simms will be elected governor."

Brown said, "This is obvious, the Republican candidate has publicly foreseen a bright economic future for the state and all know that economic progress is most likely to occur under a Democratic administration."

Mechem Blasts Demos' Slick Advertising

PORTALES — Gov. Edwin Mechem said today it will take "more than a few tax raises and slick advertising promotion to win an election in New Mexico."

Mechem spoke at the GOP caravan stopped in Portales on its tour through the eastern part of the state after stopping in Hobbs last night.

The Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate said that voters are not going to be "talked into voting a certain way by high-pressure salesmen. Voters are interested in a candidate's record and his program."

Turning to statements by John Simms, Democratic gubernatorial candidate, Mechem said that Simms had referred to "Mechem and his rich backers."

"Mr. Simms should speak up if he knows a few rich backers who will stake us to an advertising campaign a third the size of the Democratic campaign. We would like to get in touch with them. We need the money."

GOP candidate for governor Alvin Stockton said the state is doing a better job in meeting its responsibilities through internal means. He said that, in many cases, the changes had been accomplished by administrative action rather than by new laws.

Stockton cited as examples of progress during the Mechem administration: Tighter budgetary controls, establishment of a personnel system, and a new state advertising program.

Clovis Men Are Found Innocent Of Bootlegging

CLOVIS — Jack Skipworth and Ed Davis, operator and manager of the Cattleman's club here, were found innocent late yesterday on a charge of bootlegging.

They were charged in Ninth district court with selling beer without a license and also with the possession of alcoholic liquor without a license.

The jury, which had been out there 11 a. m. Wednesday, was discharged at 10 to 2 on the first count and 7 to 5 on the second count. (Continued on Page 4)

In his statement, Brown referred to a statement in Carlsbad last weekend by Alvin Stockton, GOP gubernatorial candidate, that New Mexico's economic future is bright.

"The fact of the matter is," he said, "we have in typical Republican fashion, gone backwards under Republican lack of leadership."

Brown added, "Nothing has been done to bring into the state new investment capital necessary for the development of the state's industries—industries which will provide jobs for our increasing population."

"It now appears," he said, "that the Republican candidates, in addition to saying 'me too' to Democratic plans for state progress, are already counting on the results that can only come about through the election of a Democratic governor."

"It is obvious that nothing has been done in the past four years to improve the economic status of our people. Nothing has been done."

Car Thief Held In Brutal Death Of Store Worker

SANTA FE — Thomas M. Moore, 23, of Houston, Texas, a convicted car thief, is charged with murder in the holdup slaying of a 70-year-old liquor store employee two months ago.

Moore gave officers a signed statement admitting the slaying of Andy P. Adeitsakis on June 23.

He said he shot Adeitsakis after the store clerk pulled a gun and started shooting when Moore ordered him at gun-point into the back room of the Cerrillos liquor store here.

Moore was arrested June 26 in connection with the armed robbery of a service man near Grants. He since has been sentenced to four years in prison for violation of the Dyer Act.

Alcohol Centers' Budgets Reduced

(This is the first of two articles on the New Mexico commission on alcoholism.)

By JOHN B. CURTIS
SANTA FE, (AP) — The state agency dedicated to reclaiming alcoholics and putting them back on their feet has taken a healthy cut in its budget this year, after some rough financial going last year.

The commission on alcoholism is operating on what might be called an austerity budget, compared to its first two years of operations. Arthur Stine, executive secretary, is quick to say the commission could use more money, but he does not sound too discouraged.

Last fiscal year, he says, "we underestimated our expenses and overestimated our income." That was when the state finance board had to help out with a $29,232 loan to the commission which pay off a debt on its new $55,580 Pecos Valley Lodge at Roswell.

The lodge and the Turquoise Lodge at Albuquerque are the two treatment centers maintained by the commission. Turquoise can handle about 22 patients, men or women. Pecos can handle 20 patients, but women are not being taken there because of lack of sufficient staff.

The comptroller's office says the commission, by deferring some payments, finished last fiscal year in the black and "we put the agency on a basis whereby it can't exceed its income."

The commission's funds come from taxes on beer, wine and whiskey and from patients. The patient fees have increased considerably, since an audit criticized the commission for failure to enforce such collections as possible. Asst. Comptroller Ray Hall said.

Revenue this fiscal year is estimated at $166,000 from taxes and $30,000 from patients. Stine figures his actual operating budget at $153,000 after deducting the amount owed the finance board, the percentage taken by the state as an administrative charge, and $3,000 needed for furniture and fixtures.

Four More Die On Highways In New Mexico

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Four more deaths in two separate traffic deaths brought to 221 the total killed on New Mexico highways this year, compared with 246 a year ago.

Mrs. Clara Coleman, 18, of Bristow, Okla., died in an Albuquerque hospital a few hours after the car driven by her husband telescoped against the rear end of a heavy truck and semi-trailer nine miles west of Albuquerque on U.S. 66.

Six other members of her family were injured in the accident. Eighteen miles east of Lordsburg, a sleepy driver suddenly slapped on his brakes, causing his car to swerve into the path of another approaching from the opposite direction.

Three persons died; five were injured. Dead are Era Mae Busby, 17, of Houston, Texas; Fay Ferguson, 37 of Stevensville, Texas and Louis Bishop Boston, 19, of Crockett, Texas.

Willie Busby, 20, husband of the dead teenage girl, suffered bruises. Boston, a passenger in the Busby car, died enroute to a hospital. Mrs. Busby died at the hospital at 5:40 p. m. yesterday, and Mrs. Ferguson died at 4:25 p. m. Jim Ellis Ferguson, 37, of Stevensville, driver of the second car, suffered a broken arm. Phillip Ferguson, 11, riding in his car, received a broken ankle.

Two other persons were injured in the triple-fatality—H. J. Mathis, 22, of Houston, and his wife, Billy Jean, 20. They were riding with the Busbys.

Flood Boosts River Depth Eight Feet

How much water poured through Artesia into the Pecos river with this week's floods?

Pecos river measurements by Emil Bachgiewe a clue to the volume of water which threatened houses in the Hermosa-Catalina, Thirteenth-Chisum, and Main-Twentieth street areas.

The river showed an increase of more than seven feet from 5 p. m. Monday to 4 p. m. yesterday. This morning it began dropping again.

Bach, longtime Artesia area farmer who takes river measurements for the U. S. geological survey said the river measured 4.96 feet at 5 Monday afternoon.

By 6 a. m. Tuesday it measured 7.3 feet, and 6 p. m. it reached a peak of 10.48 feet, then began dropping.

At 5:15 a. m. Wednesday it had fallen to 8.9 feet, but a new flow of water yesterday sent the river back to the peak of 12 feet measured at 4 yesterday afternoon.

Bach said that at 6:30 this morning the river had fallen back to 9.92 feet, and by 10 a. m. to 8.41 feet.

Chief Urges Second City Fire Station for South Artesia

Artesia Fire Chief Albert Richards appeared before the city council at its regular meeting yesterday afternoon and made recommendations he said were necessary and growing more so all the time.

Richards recommended the city: (1)—Hire one more full-time fireman;

(2)—Establish another fire station to be situated in the southern part of Artesia;

(3)—Enforce more strictly the city ordinance forbidding automobiles from following fire trucks and volunteer firemen; and

(4)—Increase the fines for such violations to a minimum of $25 and a maximum of $200 and also set up a jail sentence of some length.

Richards also recommended the approach limit be set at 500 feet rather than the 300 feet now set as the boundary.

No action was taken by the council.

A request by Hermosa school principal C. A. Staleup and the PTA of that school to have a traffic control program set up by next week received consideration and the traffic committee was directed to work with the police to set up the program.

The Artesia Community Chest requested an ordinance be enacted by the council to prohibit other charities from soliciting in the city. The council held that such a statute was out of its limits though it did approve the activities of the Community Chest.

Property owners on Eleventh street have cooperated in providing space for sidewalks for high school and junior high students, according to a report by city supervisor W. D. Fowler. Complaints had reached the council that pupils of both schools had to walk in the streets due to no sidewalk accommodations.

A protest from Ted Kennedy of the A&D Grocery on North First was lodged with the council about the lack of drainage around his store. Kennedy said the trouble is caused by a hump in the street in front of his place which backs up water onto his property.

The matter will be referred to the state highway department for clearance.

The council voted unanimously to allow city clerk and treasurer Tom Ragsdale a vacation and authorized Councilman George Ferriman to counter-sign checks and vouchers during his absence.

The council also briefly discussed the flood situation and the proposed flood control program.

Hobbs Segregation Ruling May Force Grid Cancellations

SPORTS BULLETIN
HOBBS — One Texas high school today cancelled football relations with Hobbs high school and another may follow suit because of the possibility of Negroes playing on the Hobbs squad.

Andrews high school officials notified Hobbs that Andrews will not fulfill its contract for an Oct. 1 game here "as long as there is a possibility of colored player."

The Hobbs school board in May ordered desegregation of Hobbs schools, admitting Negroes to the central senior high school for the first time.

Several Negro youths are working out with the team and some are expected to make the varsity. Kermit high school notified Hobbs today it will play the football Eagles at Kermit on Sept. 10 under limited rules of segregation. Traditional Texas segregation will apply to spectators but not to football players or other participating students, including the band and pep squads.

Monahans high school, scheduled to play the Eagles at Monahans, also has indicated it may cancel its game. School officials there are expected to decide, possibly today, on the question.

Duncan, Okla., only other out-of-state team on the Eagles' schedule, has been informed of the segregation here but agreed to go ahead with game in Hobbs on Sept. 17. The Duncan school wrote that "any boy good enough to make (Continued on page four)

Strange Disease Hits Cattle, Reported Increasing in State

SANTA FE — Widely separated herds of cattle in New Mexico have been found infected by the mysterious X disease which has killed cattle in several other states.

Contagious diseases usually found in some isolated areas—such as malignant edema, pink-eye and hemorrhagic septicemia—were met very rarely in a few places and not at all in others during the past year.

Anthrax, which in late years has bothered cattle ranchers in Colfax, Roosevelt and Lea counties, has not been reported at all. The board says in its annual report that dry weather has apparently had much to do with the reduction in those diseases. Vaccination, which is used by more and more ranchers, has also cut down anthrax.

The board has been investigating in an attempt to learn the causes and possible cures of X-disease. So far neither the livestock experts in New Mexico nor those in other states have come up with a final answer.

They have found, the board says, that cattle getting an unbalanced diet are more prone to come down with X-disease. This is particularly true where there is a lack of vitamins and minerals in the diet. One cause which is known appears to be swallowing by the animal of Chlorophthalene oils, such as the break-in oils used in new cars, tractors or other machinery.

The disease is not infectious nor contagious, the board says. It is usually by a chain of symptoms, usually beginning with slightly thickened skin on the neck, giving a corrugated appearance. Later the skin gets very much thickened, dry, leathery and unpliant, almost like sole leather.

The board's report covered the fiscal year ended June 30. Cattle theft amounted to 40 per cent less than in the previous year and was centered mostly in the north and west parts of New Mexico. The greatest number of thefts were reported from the Taos, Chama, Espanola and Cuba areas, with lots of activity in the Albuquerque area and Socorro county.

"The problem of apprehending cattle thieves is growing more difficult each year due to the fact that pickup trucks on good roads make it possible for a person to kill a beef, never get off the road, and travel great distances to dispose of the carcass," the board said.

About 45 per cent of the instances in which beef cattle were butchered or stolen were solved. The percentages of cases solved could be raised if ranchers would report their cattle losses and beef cases promptly instead of waiting a week or more, the board declared.

Scheme to Reclaim Desert By Windmills Is Proposed

ROCHESTER, N. Y. — A scheme for reclaiming desert areas by the use of giant windmills with blades whirling horizontally has been advanced here by a German-born aerodynamics expert.

The method was described in a paper read by Dr. Werner Spilger, a U.S. Air Force consultant at Holloman Air Force Base in New Mexico, at a session of the 130th annual meeting of the American Meteorological society yesterday.

Dr. Spilger, who did not attend the meeting, called for the construction of a series of giant windmills to coax rain out of the skies above arid regions.

The blades of the windmills, he said, would be about 150 feet in diameter and would revolve horizontally.

Dr. Spilger said about 10 of the windmills would be required for every 500 square miles of desert area.

The windmills, the scientist said in his paper, would serve as "triggers" to start the flow of updraft currents of air needed to make rain.

They would pull up warm air from the surface of the desert, he said, replacing it with cooler air from the upper atmosphere.

Dr. Spilger pointed out that there was lots of rainfall in the mountains near Alamo, N. M., near where the Holloman base is located, but practically none in the adjacent plains.

The windmills, he said, could shift the rainfall to the areas where it is needed.

Dr. Spilger did not estimate the cost of such a project.

Loyal Democrats Protest Political Use of Photograph

HOBBS — Three loyal Democrats today voiced indignation at what they said was political use by the Albuquerque Journal of a photograph made in the friendly atmosphere of a Republican hamburger fry.

State Rep. Don Hallman, former county Democratic chairman, J. W. Eaves, and Attorney C. M. Neal said they posed with Gov. Edwin L. Mechem as a courtesy to his office.

They were indignant, they said, that the Albuquerque newspapers had published the group picture with a caption "implying we are supporting Republican candidates."

It just isn't so, and they issued three separate statements today saying they would support Democrats from the top of the ballot to the bottom.

The photograph was taken here Tuesday night at an outdoor picnic for Republican candidates touring the East Side. The picture was snapped by photographer George Kew of the Republican party.

The three Hobbs Democrats made it plain they attended the hamburger fry at the invitation of Hobbs Republicans and that they went as a courtesy to the governor of the state.

Panel Sees Improving Education In City School

Outlook for ever improving education in Artesia schools is general, according to a panel discussion held this morning by teachers and local business people at the school.

The panel, part of a three-day school system, was kicked off by a school conference carried on the subject, "How Might the Artesia PTA Work Together for the Good of the Child?"

Powell, who said about 450 members belong to PTA organizations in Park, Hermosa, and Centennial, said the organizations boosted welfare of the child. The students have benefitted from such things as cafeterias for needy children, though the activities PTA.

she said, the percentage of parents belonging to the organization isn't even close to what it should be. She added the parents who do get into the PTA program are the ones that are interested in the children and the teachers who are shaping their futures.

Mrs. Kinney said the chief obligations more Artesians are to teach more Artesians about the program—what the problems are and what is being done to improve on the conditions presented by the problems.

She said, "this year offers a golden opportunity to PTA to show what it stands for. With 28 new teachers, the opportunity is ours to really get a firm footing."

In answer to questions about former Asst. Sup't of Schools Vernon Mills and how he would perform in the new office, Mrs. Kinney said his experience in the assistant's position would help him in the foundations of problems existing and the new job would give him chances to translate into reality the ideas which he has developed.

She said, "Reese Smith and Ralph Boyer were assistants before they were head coaches and look at the winning teams they've turned out."

In discussing the second question, "what would constitute a system," Mrs. Ruth Joss and Mrs. Naomi Buckout agreed on the interest the teacher must have in the individual child.

Jack Sweatts Mark Golden Wedding Anniversary Event

One of the most beautiful events of the season took place Sunday Aug. 15, when Mr and Mrs. Jack Sweatt celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home here in Hagerman.

Guests called from 3 to 6 in the afternoon and presented the honored couple with numerous gifts and floral offerings. They were greeted at the door by Mr and Mrs. Jack Sweatt and Mr. and Mrs. Van Sweatt of Ignacio, Colo., and Mr. and Mrs. Max Wiggins of Hagerman.

The rooms of the house were filled with flowers of a golden hue. In addition to table arrangements, several floor baskets tied with gold satin streamers were used in decoration.

The serving table was covered in an exquisite lace cloth, and centered with a floral arrangement. At each end of the table stood two gold floor lamps tied with gold ribbons. Most unique, and the conversation piece, was the large mirror which hung above the table which bore the family tree, and on each side were old pictures of the family.

The white decorated three-tiered wedding cake was topped with gold wedding bells, with gold and white leaves forming a miniature arch, centered with the letters "50" inscribed in gold.

Assisting with the serving and pouring were Mrs. Gene Sweatt, Mrs. Kent Zimmerman, Mrs. E. E. Lane, Mrs. C. G. Mason, Mrs. Ada Sweatt, Mrs. Zack Carr, Mrs. J. W. Wiggins, Mrs. Ida Carr, Mrs. Lilly Carr, Mrs. Fern Tatom, Mrs. Clayte Tatom and Mrs. Clint Fuller.

Miller of Barstow, Texas, and Jack Wiggins of Hagerman. Background music was furnished during the afternoon by violinists, Jane Tripp and Alicia Tripp, and pianist Phyllis Tripp.

Mr. and Mrs. Sweatt are old-time Hagerman residents, having lived here some 30 years. They were married Aug. 14, 1904 in Monahans, Texas, and have two children, Lois Jean (Mrs. Max Wiggins) who with her husband and son and daughter live next door; a son, Van Sweatt who with his wife and daughter live in Ignacio, Colo. Women Golfers Plan for State Golf Tournament

Women's Golf club of Artesia Country club met at the club house Wednesday noon for its regular monthly luncheon and business meeting. Mrs. Harry Gilmore, president, conducted the meeting.

Mrs. A. W. Harrall, tournament chairman, announced the annual club tournament will start Sept. 29 with qualifying for the medalist trophy Oct. 2. Mrs. Jim Miller won the 1953 tournament and will defend her title. Mrs. Miller also took part in the recent women's state golf tournament at Roswell and gave a report on that event.

Mrs. Harvey Jones won the attendance prize.

Following the meeting the members took part in a "bundle" golf tournament with each member putting on a bundle of clothes brought by another member. There was a variety of clothes not usually seen on the golf course and in most cases the sizes were far from right for the woman who drew the bundle.

The next regular meeting of the club will be held Sept. 29. Wives of new members of the country club are invited to join the Women's Golf club.

BUYING TIPS—Medium, Small Eggs to Be Best Buys

By MISS MARJORIE HOWELL, County Home Demonstration Agent

Small and medium-sized eggs are in order. Many chicks from last spring's rather large and unusually hatch for flock replacements are now beginning to lay. When a hen starts to lay, the eggs are small, but they are of better quality than the eggs from old hens.

There are a few more eggs on the market now than at this time last year, and it is expected that the supply will continue to increase. By September, there should be a lot more eggs than were last fall.

You buy eggs by grade and size. To get the best buy in eggs, you have to keep constantly on the alert as far as price, grade and size are concerned. A little paper work may be in order if you want to do the egg buying job up brown. Or can you do fractions in your head?

Eggs come in different sizes. Extra large eggs weigh 27 ounces, large eggs 24 ounces, medium eggs 21 ounces and small eggs 18 ounces. Knowing these weights you can compare the cost per dozen of the various sized eggs to figure the best buy. The medium size should cost no more than 7/8 the price of the large, and small eggs not more than 3/4 the price of large, or 6/7 the price of medium, to be equally good buys. You get the fractions by dividing the weight of the larger size by the smaller size. For instance, 24 ounces by 21 ounces equals 7/8.

The grades of eggs usually found in the stores are grade AA, grade A, and grade B. The AA and A grades of eggs are top quality. The grade B eggs are good eggs but on breaking them open you'll find that the white spreads more than in top quality eggs and that the yolk does not stand up as high. Use the lower eggs for scrambling, in custards, for baking and thickening. Remember, quality is not dependent on size. Whatever the size or grade, eggs are good food and one of the prize packages in the nutrition line.

Egg quality deteriorates rapidly if the eggs are not kept cool. Keep your eggs in the refrigerator at home. Buy eggs from markets where eggs are kept under refrigeration and sold from refrigerated display counter. If kept at room temperature eggs drop in quality in a few days. Above 30 degrees they lose quality even faster. So you can see why eggs lose quality during shipping in a hot truck, in unrefrigerated storerooms, an ordinary market counters and while left in a hot car or out in a hot kitchen.

Eggs should be cooked at low temperatures. When an egg is cooked too long or at too high a temperature, the iron in the yolk combines with a sulphur in the white and makes dark ring. To avoid the dark ring, cook the eggs at a simmering temperature 25 to 30 minutes. Dip hard-cooked eggs into cold water to halt the cooking process and to make the shelling easier.

Disease of Lymph Glands

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

AN itch that cannot be controlled, with no visible sign of any skin disturbance, may possibly be the first sign of Hodgkin's disease.

This is a chronic, steadily progressive disease in which there is a growing, painless enlargement of the lymph glands throughout the body. The spleen and liver may also become greatly enlarged because they contain lymph tissues.

Cause Unknown

The cause is unknown, although Hodgkin's disease is more prevalent among males than females. It can occur at any age, although its years of greatest occurrence are between the third and fourth decades.

The lymph glands of the neck are usually the earliest to be involved, first on one side, then on the other. The disease, however, can start anywhere in the body. If the lymph glands around the lungs are affected, the breathing mechanism may be compressed. If the disease becomes very severe, there may be high fever, serious anemia and much wasting of the body. An exact diagnosis can be made by removing a gland and examining it under the microscope.

At present there is no known cure, although life may be greatly prolonged with proper treatment. High voltage X-ray treatment, removing glands that press on a vital structure, and using nitrogen mustard, all have proven helpful to patients who suffer from this disease.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

T. W. X.: Can the use of streptomycin cause deafness?

Answer: Yes, if used over prolonged periods of time, this antibiotic can cause deafness. However, recently, combinations of streptomycin with a newer form of the drug known as dihydrostreptomycin have diminished the occurrence of deafness.

Home Installed Water Sprinkler System Now Possible and Easy

EVER GET tired of sprinkling your lawn and wish you had one of those golf course sprinkler systems fed from underground pipes? Well, it's simpler and cheaper to install a yard full of such fountains than we ever imagined. You can do it with flexible plastic pipes laid just under the sod and even in northern climates you have no worry about freezing.

Hardware stores and garden supply houses are beginning to display kits of plastic piping 63 feet long with six sprinkler heads and all needed couplings and stainless steel clamps for connections. The setup is supposed to be adequate for an area of 1,000 to 1,750 square feet, depending on local pressure, and the complete price is just under $60.

Dig up your sod about four inches deep, lay the sprinkler system and put the sod down again. That's about all there is to it.

The reason you don't have to worry about freezing is that plastic pipe has a greater expansion than ice. Of course, the sprinkler heads are metal and could burst if frozen. So there's a drain unit in the kit. But complete drainage is not so important as it would be with metal piping.

Four inches is enough for depth, since this leaves the sprinkler heads at ground level where they will not interfere with lawn mowing. A screw driver and a spade are all you need to work with.

The plastic pipe, developed by the Republic Steel Corp., is used by various manufacturers for lawn sprinkling systems as well as other purposes. The material is so light that a man can easily carry 400 feet of the stuff.

SO MANY people, other than movie stars, are interested in backyard swimming pools that our mail has been heavy since we mentioned this subject. One letter you'll want to read over our shoulder is from Harrison Todd, the veteran waterproofer of Sacramento, Calif. He says the 20 by 40-foot pool we described would hold 154 tons of water.

"If the structure is not strong enough," says Mr. Todd, "there will be breaks and leaks that can not be waterproofed. When I am called to waterproof a swimming pool, I run."

"I have found that the expansion joints mentioned by the Portland Cement Assn., are not necessary. In winter there is little expansion and when the pool is full of water there is practically no expansion or contraction.

"A new method of building pools does away with the use of forms and form lumber. The walls and floor are smoothly dug. The steel reinforcement is placed and then a gunite process is used, spraying the concrete in place. Only sand and water are used in the mix, but the gunite process puts it in place with such pressure that the concrete is of equal or greater strength than if rock is added as an aggregate."

A NEW product that came to our attention this week is a self-adhering rubber tile, which needs no messy adhesive. It works like an emergency bandage. You peel off a protective under covering, put the tile in place over practically any type of subfloor (the smoother the better for long wear) and there it sticks. The only preparation called for is to swab the floor with a solvent, such as mineral spirits or carbon tetrachloride, which reacts with the adhesive gum on the back of the tile.

The manufacturers of products mentioned in this column are:

(SPRINKLER: Smead Sprinkler Systems, Toledo, Ohio.)
(SELF-ADHERING TILE: Robbins Floor Products, Inc., Tusculum, Muscle Shoals, Ala.)

Safe Car Showing Ways Developed For Teenagers

AP Newsfeatures

If your teenager takes out his youthful exuberance on the family car, here are some tested methods to get him and his friends to take it easy and slow down, as tried out in various sections of the country.

Hot rodders show off safely in a teen-age roado, sponsored in many communities by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. This is a series of tests in driver skills.

The "take it easy" race teaches drivers economy as the youngsters try to see how many miles they can get on a gallon.

Racing against par features an obstacle course. First a police officer rides over the course obeying all traffic rules. Then contestants do the same. Object of this race is to get youngsters to obey the rules instinctively.

The "drag strip," which started in California, is a straight line track devised with the hot rodder in mind. If the teen-agers want to see how fast they can go—this is the place to do it, where it is supervised and free from pedestrians and other cars.

Hot rod clubs have sprung up all over the country to teach members to abide by safety rules.

Another way to cut down on the 2,350,000 yearly accidents in which persons under 20 are involved is to teach them the right way to drive while they are still in high school.

The American Automobile Association reports that more than 330,000 high school students took behind-the-wheel training courses last year and an additional 250,000 had only classroom instruction. One-fourth of the nation's secondary schools participated.

Cost per student for the full course is only $36—less than the cost of repairing one crumpled fender.

Railroad tank cars used for various purposes may be lined with lead, nickel, rubber, wax, zinc, tin or glass.

Carolina Beauty Once Won Prize Despite Sack

AP Newsfeatures

COLUMBIA, S. C. — Even with a sack over her head, Rankin S. C. won a beauty contest. Now she's going on to represent South Carolina in the Miss America contest in Atlantic City.

Around here, folks consider her a worthy successor to Miriam Stevenson, last year's Miss South Carolina. Miriam was among the 10 finalists at Atlantic City, but this year went on to win the Mis-

U.S.A. and Miss Universe titles at Long Beach, Calif.

At 19, Rankin is a versatile young lady. In high school, she won a statewide oratory contest, was a member of a national scholastic honor society. She is a state officer in the Presbyterian Youth Group. At University of South Carolina, where she was a freshman last year, she was a class officer and served on the university honor board. Next year she'll be a cheerleader.

Her first contest victory came as a junior in high school, when she was named Miss Mermaid of the Sumter, S. C., Iris Festival.

Last year, she won the university's Miss Venus title in a contest where all the girls were clad in bathing suits but had sacks over their heads. Her Venus-like measurements: 36-24-34.

She's a peach-complexioned, green-eyed blonde, 5 feet 7, weighing 130, is majoring in dramatic arts at South Carolina and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Whitmire.

The highest automobile roado in the United States reaches the limit of Mt. Evans—14,200 feet—says the National Geographic Society.

The United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization is preparing preparations for soybeans and fish as substitutes for milk in the feeding of children.
