Garner To Attend Reception For Democratic Chairman

UVALDE, Tex. (AP) — John Nance Garner sheds his old khaki loafing breeches and dons a pin-stripe gray suit for a front porch reception here today.

He is getting into his political working clothes to lend a hand to National Democratic Chairman Paul Butler who is in Texas trying to build up Democratic solidarity and bring the state back into the Democratic fold in 1956.

Garner, who left Washington in bitter anger with the late Franklin D. Roosevelt 14 years ago, vowing to stay out of politics until he died, first broke the vow in 1952 to help Speaker Sam Rayburn keep Texas Democrats in line for Adlai Stevenson. They went down under the Dwight D. Eisenhower landslide.

Now, for the second time since he went into political retirement after two terms as vice president under Roosevelt, Garner volunteered to welcome Butler who will probably be asking some advice on how to corral Texas democrats.

Garner invited the public to meet Butler at his home.

"This is an opportunity for all Democrats to meet their chairman," the 86-year-old Garner said in extending the invitation.

Butler is touring the state seeking to bring "all Democrats" back into some semblance of unity in advance of the 1956 presidential campaign. The Democrats don't want to lose Texas again.

Texas jumped over the Democratic traces in 1952 for the second time in 100 years when they followed Gov. Allan Shivers into Eisenhower's camp. In 1928, Texans spurned Al Smith in favor of Herbert Hoover.

Garner has generally stayed out of the Texas Democratic rows except when he was host to Stevenson in 1952. He has retired from business, and spends most of his

BOY GETS DOG

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP) — Bobby Lawson, 7, of Center Line, Mich., has his pet, Sniffles, back now. But for 10 months the black and white mongrel dog lived here. Sniffles got lost while Bobby and his parents were vacationing. Bobby's mother wrote a pleading letter to the Sault Ste. Marie Evening News, enclosing a picture of Sniffles.

Many people saw Sniffles, but none could catch him. He ate with an anti-aircraft battalion or with the workmen on the coal docks.

The Lawsons made a 350 mile trip, but Sniffles chose that week-end to be absent. They came a few weeks later to find Sniffles living in an abandoned house. He fled when the grown-ups walked in. Then Bobby tried it alone. Sniffles got the scent and bounded into Bobby's arms.

Small plastic containers in which cheese comes make fine "pans" in which to mold fudge. Pour the fudge into these round or half-moon containers so it comes almost but not quite to the top. Cover and keep on hand for company serving or use for small gifts. Nice to take to a convalescent or to a luncheon hostess.

Attending the Methodist Encampment at Sacramento this week from the Intermediate Department are Teresa Olesby, Verna Jean Greer, Sharla Menefee, Pat Johnson and Kemper West. Mrs. Howard Menefee went as their sponsor. They went on a school bus with the Roswell group, and will be back Friday afternoon.

Linda Menefee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Menefee is spending this week with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Royce Lankford of Roswell.

Spurgeon Watford, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Watford left Wednesday morning for R.O.T.C. camp at Fort Hood, Temple, Texas.

Jodell Freeman and Geneva Ackerman returned Saturday from Youth Camp in the Sacramento mountains. Mr. and Mrs. Freeman took them up on Saturday, and Mr. and Mrs. Ackerman went after them Saturday.

Sheriff J.C. Jones, Mrs. Jones and daughters Carolyn and Diana and son Johnny of Roswell visited with the Oglesbys Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Hagest of Albuquerque were visitors at the Barney Green home Tuesday evening. Mrs. Hagest is Barney's sister. They went on to Artesia to visit other relatives while Hagest is attending to business in this area.

of the Ruidoso Methodist Church, and former pastor of the Hagerman Methodist church was here with his wife and four children Friday evening, guests of the Hinrichsens. They have a little daughter only one month old, named Cynthia, and the other three girls are named Carolyn, Catherine and Christine.

Mrs. Howard Templeton has returned from a two weeks vacation trip to Lubbock, Texas where she visited her sister, and did some painting.

Bobby and Eddie White of Melrose were here for the Vacation Bible School at the Methodist church, guests of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L.E. Hinrichsen. Mr. and Mrs. A.C. White, Kathryn and Colleen of El Paso arrived for the Week-end, leaving for their home Monday, and taking their sons back with them. Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Hill, Jr., Jimmy and Pammy of Roswell were also week-end guests at the home of Mrs. Hill's parents to be with her sister and family.

Guests for a hamburger fry in the back yard of the Welborne home Saturday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Donald West, and Kathleen and Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Hart and Jeannie Bob and Susan, Mr. and Mrs. A.L. Henry, Terese Olgesby, Viola Sartin, Cindy and Lynn Welborne.

Kenneth Sims of Hagerman has received his discharge from the U.S. navy after having served four years. The first two years he served in the Pacific theatre, and the past two years he has been on duty in the Mediterranean on the carrier, the U.S.S. Randolph. He was met in Clovis Sunday by his wife, the former Gloria Menoud, his mother, and Mr. and Mrs. A.D. Menoud.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Wiggins and children Jamie and Jackson drove up to Pine Lodge Sunday for a picnic lunch, and for a sight seeing tour of the Ruidoso area, where they attended the horse races.

The Belle Bennett Circle of the First Methodist Church of Hagerman met at the home of Mrs. Byron Wednesday at 2:00 o'clock.

Methodist Church of Hagerman met Wednesday afternoon, June 15, in the undercroft of the church with Mrs. C.W. Curry as hostess.

The president, Mrs. J.C. Ridgley, presided over a routine business meeting with the secretary, Mrs. A.A. Bailey, reading the minutes of the last meeting.

Mrs. Earl Stine gave the high lights from the Advancer bulletin. Mrs. L.E. Hinrichsen gave a report on the student work and told of the Student Day observed in the Methodist Church last Sunday in which the pastor, Rev. A.A. McCleskey, recognized all Methodist High School graduates of the year 1955, and also the college students. It was reported at this service that a loan fund and Methodist Scholarships were available, and a special offering was taken up for this purpose.

Mrs. A.A. McCleskey was the program leader. She served as reader in presenting a playlet taken from the magazine, "The Methodist Women" entitled "The Mothers Talk it Over". She was assisted by Mrs. A.A. Bailey as Mrs. King, Mrs. L.E. Hinrichsen as Mrs. Grissom, Mrs. Lorena Chrisman as Mrs. Black, Mrs. Flora West, Mrs. J.C. Ridgley as Mrs. Long, and Mrs. Earl Stine as Mrs. Graves.

Refreshments of cold drinks and cake were served to Bestdames C.W. Curry, hostess, Flora West, J.C. Ridgley, L.E. Hinrichsen, Lorena Chrisman, J.N. Hopkins, J.W. Wiggins, A.A. McCleskey, Earl Stine and A.A. Bailey. The table was centered with a lovely arrangement of Gallardias in a green vase placed on an orange scalloped plate. A matching table cloth also helped to carry out the color scheme.

Peggy Jane Campsten gave a chicken fry in the back yard of the Raynal Campsten home, on Thursday evening with the following sent:

Loretta Creek, Phyllis Jun Sabra Kelly, Geneva Ackerman, Betty Sue Troublefield and Bledsoe.

Following the chicken fry, Bledsoe had a slumber party at home of her parents, with the guest list:

Gallardo Hurt In Collision With Rocket

The Artesia NuMexers scored twice in the bottom of the ninth inning here last night to edge by the Roswell Rockets, 7-6, in a game marred by an Artesia injury.

Frank Gallardo suffered an injury to his foot in the ninth inning when he collided with Joe Guarino of Roswell.

The NuMexers scored four times in the bottom of the first inning with three of the runs batted in by Tom Jordan, Artesia manager to go into the lead, 4-0.

The second and third innings were scoreless, but the Rockets scored twice in the third, and from that point held Artesia hitless and scoreless until the sixth. The NuMexers scored once in the inning, but there were no hits.

Neither team hit or scored in the seventh, but in the top of the eighth the Rockets staged a five-hit, four-run attack that put them in the lead, 6-5. Pruitt, Woolbright, Traina, Green and Hutzler all got hits.

The NuMexers came back in the bottom of the ninth after failing to score in the eighth but holding Roswell scoreless and hammered two doubles and a single for two runs and the victory. Bobby Boyd, the first man up, hit a double. Paul Dobkowski got on base on an error, and Jim Bavcom singled. The next batter, Tom Jordan, hit a double.

Peterson was the losing pitcher, and he allowed three hits for two runs in one and a third innings. The winner was Eddie Locke. He allowed one hit in one and a third innings.

Friday night, Artesia whipped Roswell at Roswell 4-2. Eddie Locke outpitched Dean Franks. With his win here last night, he has a 7-3 record.

Artesia plays San Angelo here tonight and tomorrow night, and the Rockets here Tuesday.

Five NCAA Records Fall And One Tied In Track And Field

LOS ANGELES, June 18 — Five NCAA meet records fell and one was tied as the University of Southern California came from behind today to capture the National Collegiate Track and Field Championship for the seventh straight year.

Competition was so keen that the winning Trojans trailed neighboring UCLA by a point until the final event—the pole vault, which continued long after the other events finished. However, few persons in the crowd of 14,005 left Memorial Coliseum. They cheered each time a vaulter cleared the bar.

USC's heavenly twin, vaulters Ron Morris and Walt Levaack, came through to produce 10 points for the victory. They were in a four-way tie for second.

USC scored 42 points to win. UCLA collected 35 for second. Kansas won a surprise third with 30 Oregon had 29. Northwestern 20, Manhattan 18, Duke 16 and Penn State 14.

The final NCAA mark of the day fell when Don Bragg of Villanova cleared 15 feet 1 inch to erase the old NCAA record of 14-9 1/2 set by Don Laz, Illinois, in 1951.

Ernie Shelton of Southern California broke the meet high jump record as he cleared 6 feet 11 1/2 inches without missing to that point. But he failed again in three tries to become the first man ever to clear seven feet.

Les Bitner of Kansas smashed the throwable javelin mark with a throw of 246 feet 1 inch and Tom Courtney of Fordham broke the 18-year-old half-mile record when he won in 1:49.5.

The old 880-yard standard of 1:50.3 was set in 1947 by John Woodruff of Pittsburg and equaled in 1949 by Mal Whitefield of Ohio State. Today's second-place winner, Pete Gray of Michigan, also was under that at 1:50.1.

Association Holds Sale

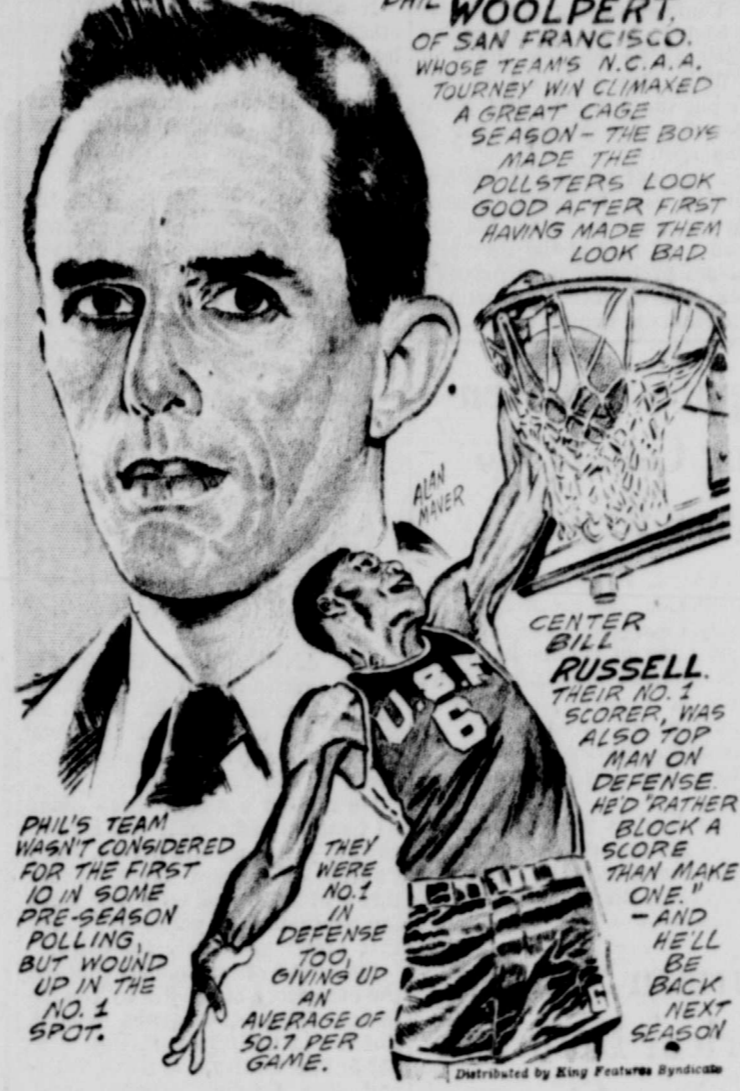

CLOVIS, June 18 — The New Mexico Quarter Horse Assn., held its first sale here yesterday and 22 head passed by the boards for a total of $11,130.

The sale was topped with a price of $1,500 paid for Carako, an eight-year-old stud going back four times to Peter McPue. The top mare, First Fiddle Mare, went for $905. Both horses were bought by J. P. Davidson, Albuquerque, who was heavy buyer for the day.

Several out-of-state buyers were present. The heavy buyer from out-of-state was Charlie Hair, of Bixbee, Okla.

Most of the horses were bought by Davidson and Hair.

Unknown Midwesterner Ties Hogan For U.S. Open Championship; Playoff Today

SAN FRANCISCO — Jack Fleck, a hollow-cheeked unknown from Davenport, Iowa, nailed a spectacular birdie on the final green Saturday to tie four-time winner Ben Hogan for the National Open Golf Championship. They had 72-hole scores of 287.

The 32-year-old midwesterner, who has never won a major tournament, flashed in on a wave of birdies with a three-under-par 67 an hour after Hogan apparently had won the title.

The two leaders clash in an 18-hole playoff today.

On the 72nd hole, with a crowd of more than 10,000 straining for a peek from the natural amphitheater of the Olympic Club course and lining the fairways, Fleck poled his tee shot to the edge of the rough, then laced an iron approach to within seven feet of the pin.

While the crowd sat tense, Fleck walked up briskly, gave the assignment one quick measurement and then sped the ball home.

There were only a few straggling spectators—no more than 25—following Fleck at the 14th hole when Hogan, with the entire gallery yelping at his heels, finished with a 70—the only time he had matched par through the three-day test.

Then word went out that the lean, hungry-looking Iowan, who has won only $2,000-plus on the tour so far this year, was on a birdie binge.

The crowd stampeded out on the course to pick up the challenger at the 15th where he needed two birdies to tie Hogan and three to win—an apparently hopeless task on some of the most treacherous finishing holes in golf.

Fleck plucked up one quickly on the 144-yard 15th where he flew his tee shot to within nine feet and sank a deuce. He got his par five on the 603-yard 16th, longest on the course, and at the 17th a 50-foot putt lipped the cup. The crowd let out a loud groan.

Then came the final hole where Fleck whacked out of the rough, which killed the hopes of many of the sport's greatest stars, and made one of the most difficult pressure putts in this tournament's history.

The ball was flag-high to the right of the pin. It was partially side-hill.

Fleck started the day at 145 tied with Hogan, Julius Boros and young Walker Inman, Jr., behind Tommy Bolt and amateur Harvie Ward.

The Iowan shot a 75 in the morning to fall off the pace as Hogan forged into the lead on a 72. But all other contenders soon folded, leaving the course first to Hogan and then to the unbelievable Mr. Fleck.

Sam Snead, still the runner-up, got a 70-74 to finish five strokes back of the two leaders at 292, tied with Tommy Bolt, the early leader, who faded to 75-73.

Julius Boros, the sly-like 1952 Open Champion, and young Bob Rosburg of San Francisco were tied at 295 followed by amateur Harvie Ward Jr., Doug Ford and Bud Holscher, together at 296.

Hogan's golf rounds were almost forgotten in the late afternoon in the excitement over the darkest "dark horse" since Sam Parks came out of nowhere to win the Open at Oakmont, Pa., in 1935.

Ben, following the familiar formula of coldly playing the course and letting his foes beat themselves, never once cracked the par 70 of Olympic's 6,700-yard cypress jungle. Only Fleck didn't get scared.

Hogan's successive rounds were 72-73-72-70. He had only eight birdies for the four rounds.

For the first time Hogan didn't appear tired. He walked briskly despite his gimpy left knee and had a look of freshness and supreme confidence.

Tomorrow at 2 p.m. PDT 4 p.m. EST, he will go after his fifth championship, more than any other man has ever won. Willie Anderson captured four Opens back in the early 1900's and the great Bobby Jones put four together before retiring on his grand slam of 1930.

More Handouts Voted

THE senate has now passed an appropriation for 3 1/2 billion dollars for "handouts"—the exact amount requested by President Dwight D. Eisenhower. The senate did not remove one penny from the amount requested.

The appropriation must be approved by the house. Let's hope that efforts there to pare this down, reduce it or even halt it are more successful than they were in the senate. Efforts on the part of some senators to place these handouts on the basis of "loans" failed but it would have been much wiser if we could have done that.

But we are appropriating funds to buy "friendships". We know from our own personal experience that you can't buy friendships with dollars and cents. We should have learned years ago we can't buy the friendship of some country or the people of some country with money.

But we are going to continue a program we started over 20 years ago despite the fact that the American taxpayer is now paying out about all he can afford.

We are going to spend a great deal of this money—more than a billion dollars—for military defenses. Much of it is to go to Asia.

And while we are providing some 3 1/2 billion dollars for foreign countries we haven't voted a single dime to provide school buildings, classrooms or public schools for the people of this nation.

While we are going to spend another 3 1/2 billion dollars to try and buy friends and influence people we haven't the money to aid the arid Southwest in a program of bringing water from some other section where they have too much water.

We haven't the money to meet the needs of our own country and our tax bill is too high today but we continue to spend millions because someone has the idea that it will help us.

Maybe all of this would be time if we had more money than we know what to do with or if we didn't need anything at home but when we have to refuse the requests of the American people and yet can provide billions for others—that is a little difficult to understand.

When the American taxpayers corner their representatives and senators in congress and tell them in strong enough language they are sick and tired of trying to support the world with American dollars, maybe we can halt this practice. It should have been halted years ago.

Former Oilmen To Be Ordained As Ministers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The families of three turncoat Americans expressed little emotion Saturday at the news that the men have changed their minds about living in Red China.

There was cautious silence from some and the statement "Of course, it makes me very happy" from others.

But there were no exuberant tears of joy from most of the kin of the men who had been discharged dishonorably for choosing to live in a Communist country rather than come home.

The three were among 21 former American prisoners of war who after the Korean conflict decided to stay in Red China. Saturday a Red Chinese broadcast said the men have requested to leave the country. All three were corporals when captured.

The Red Cross later said two of them intended to go back to the United States, and one to Japan.

In Jacksonville, Tex., Mrs. Albert Griss, mother of Lewis W. Griss, 22, had little to say about the news.

"I had just rather wait until he gets home," she said, "until I know something for sure."

Mrs. Jewell Bell, wife of Otho G. Bell, of Olympia, Wash., said she was not surprised at the news. She said Bell wrote her recently that he planned to return as soon as he could.

"I'm glad he's going to return," Mrs. Bell said. "But I'm afraid I'll miss something might happen."

To say anything until he gets home. Awaiting Bell is his 4-year-old daughter, Paula, whom he has never seen.

In Hillsboro, Miss., E. A. Bell, Otho's 55-year-old father, said it's the "best news I've ever had."

"I would certainly like to know just when and where he will arrive so I can be there," the elder Bell said.

And at Monticello, Ark., Mrs. Chester Green, mother of William A. Cowart, 22, said she was happy that her son had decided to leave Communist China.

Told of a Red Cross report that he had elected to go to Japan rather than back home, Mrs. Green said:

"I'd rather see him go anywhere than stay in China."

Byrd Comes Back To Haunt Old Teammates Saturday

NEW YORK, June 18 — Harry Byrd, traded away from the New York Yankees during the winter, came back to haunt his old mates Saturday as he pitched the Chicago White Sox to a 6-3 victory which put the Sox into first place and knocked the Yankees out of the top spot.

Byrd was not around at the finish, giving way to Sandy Consuegra in the seventh inning, but the Sox had a 4-1 lead at the time and Consuegra protected it sufficiently for the Sox to grab first with a 64.9 percentage compared to New York's .635. Chicago has a 37-20 record, New York 40-23.

Ironically, it was Bob Turley, the other principal in the big winter trade between New York and Baltimore, who was the losing pitcher. Turley, wild and ineffective, was lifted in the seventh inning and charged with his fifth straight defeat.

Byrd, who moved from Baltimore to Chicago in still another trade, made his first start for the White Sox a highly successful one. He had the Yanks blanked on three hits until the seventh inning today. Pinch-hitter Bob Cerv's two-out double brought Gil McDougald and sent Byrd to the showers.

Pressure Builds Up Toward Curtailment Of Oil Imports

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—Pressure has built up this week for a curtailment of oil imports from the Middle East, even as the Reciprocity Act awaited presidential signature. Legislation, which extends the agreement program for the Eisenhower administration that provides that if imports adversely affect a domestic industry, the President may impose quotas or take other action he deems advisable. Sen. Martin (R-Pa.) told the Senate imports of crude oil and oil products for the first five months of 1955 were up 19 percent over the corresponding period of last year and that residual oil imports had jumped 25 percent. Saying many members of Congress voted for the trade bill only because of assurances from the Eisenhower administration that there would be a determined effort to keep future imports at the 1954 level, in ratio to domestic production, Martin added: "While it may be too early to assume that the stipulation implicit in H. R. 1 the trade bill is being disregarded by the import-

Oklahoma Sets Segregation Policy

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—The State Board of Education yesterday released its long-awaited policy on desegregation of state public schools in the 1955-56 school year. The report declared integration of white and Negro students was a local problem. Deial of state aid to small marginal Negro districts, however, may force several schools to comply with the U. S. Supreme Court mandate at once. The board said transfer of children, both white and Negroes to schools of the choice of their parents will be recognized. The statement added that Negro elementary schools with an average daily attendance of 13 students and high schools with less than 25 students will receive no state aid under the state's minimum program unless isolation can be proved.

NM Public Works Included In Passed Measure

WASHINGTON (AP)—Public works at seven New Mexico installations coming to more than 16 million dollars are included in a measure approved by the House Armed Services Committee. The measure, with a total authorization of $2,368,998,000 goes next to the House. A separate bill would be necessary, if it is passed, to provide appropriations. New Mexico projects called for: Army: Wingate Ordnance Depot $632,000; White Sands Proving Ground, $1,247,000; Sandia Base, $1,231,000. Navy: None. Air Force: Holloman AFB, Alamogordo, $4,956,000; Kirtland AFB, Albuquerque, $905,000; Walker AFB, Roswell, $5,259,000; Clovis AFB, $2,570,000.

Army Engineers Use Model Country to Study Problems

VICKSBURG, Miss.—The muddy Missouri, the placid Delaware and the scenic Niagara rivers cut through the 1,500 acres of the U. S. Army Engineers' Waterways Experiment Station here. However, no catfish will disturb the quiet of the Missouri, no ships will leave their shadows on the Delaware, no honeymoon couple will stand beneath the falls on the Niagara.

This is a "model" country—a land where Army engineers duplicate to scale important rivers and harbors of America to study and test in miniature navigation and flood-control improvements. The engineers who tower over the Lilliputian bridges, dams, levees and spillways like latter-day Gullivers are trying to resolve some of man's oldest quarrels with nature.

How best to control meandering rivers which annually take great mouthfuls of land out of the map of our country? How best to develop and keep navigable channels of inland waterways; design structures for channle realignment to reduce costly maintenance dredging; make low dams and locks for increasing navigation depth? How best protect harbor entrances from wave action and keep them open for maritime traffic? How best hold back costly flood waters?

The Detroit, Mich. Harbor model is concerned with another problem—shoals on the lake-tane such a beating from the waves that new breakwaters have been authorized. Where they would be located, their shape, their proper size, and density of rock to be used in their building—all are being determined. Special wave-magik machines produce the necessary effect of nature at her angriest.

While many of the problem being worked out here as of as the ages, esome are so new they would be greeted with disbelief by Army Engineers who first took over the hes possibility of our nation's rivers and harbors in the early 19th century. Hydro-electric power plants, an an example, can be a mixed blessing when they threaten national landmarks. Such was the case on the Niagara River. Working from a model of the river and the famous falls, Army Engineers have designed control structures which will compensate for the diversion of water for power and preserve and enhance the beauty of the falls. Another special project earlier engineers could not have visualized is one to determine the effect of nuclear explosions in harbor areas. Sealed charges of TNT are being detonated in shallow water and measurements made of the size of the air blast at various distances, height of the waves created, and dimensions of craters left in the underlying soil.

The Industries of Artesia...

Expert Tire Repair, Recapping Has Made Pior Company Top Industry

Complete, expert tire repair and recapping has made the Pior Rubber Company in Artesia one of the city's most thriving enterprises.

The owner and manager of the company, located at the intersection of Fifth and Main, is Wesley Sperry, who purchased the business from Ben F. Pior. Pior started the company in 1921 or 1922. Sperry purchased it in June of 1943.

Sperry, who was born here, is married, and they have three children. Two, Donald and Carolyn, are students at New Mexico A&M College. Another, John, is a sophomore in high school here.

Sperry's wife, Helen, is a teacher at Hermosa Elementary School, and has been teaching in the Artesia schools for the past 13 years.

Sperry worked for Pior in 1939 and 1940, but was associated with the First National Bank in Artesia during 1941 and 1942.

All the people at Pior's are fully experienced in their line of work. The owner has been connected with the tire business for a total of 18 years. The tire repair and recap man, Sam Stewart, has spent 30 years in the business, and the service men have from five to 10 years of experience.

Whether tires are repaired or recapped for sale or for a customer, the same high type service is given. The tires are dismounted by an electric tire changing machine. Then, it is inspected for cuts, breaks or bruises to see if it is worth repairing. The tire is then buffed in a precision buffer, which is used to make the tire perfectly round. It is cemented, and the new tread is applied. After this process is completed, it is placed in a mold where it is cured under heat and pressure for the required length of time needed to vulcanize the tread to the tire. Another inspection follows the removal of the tire from the mold, and then it is placed in the rack for sale or for the customer's tire rim, whatever the case may be.

THE BOSS man at Pior Rubber Company, Wesley Sperry, is pictured here as he placed a finished product into a sales rack. Though not new, the recapped tires are good ones, Sperry says, and will give motorists miles of service. In addition to these used tires, a complete line of new tires is in stock at Pior's.

"We can recap any passenger or truck tire up to size 11 by 22," Sperry said. "We use the well-known Hawkins method."

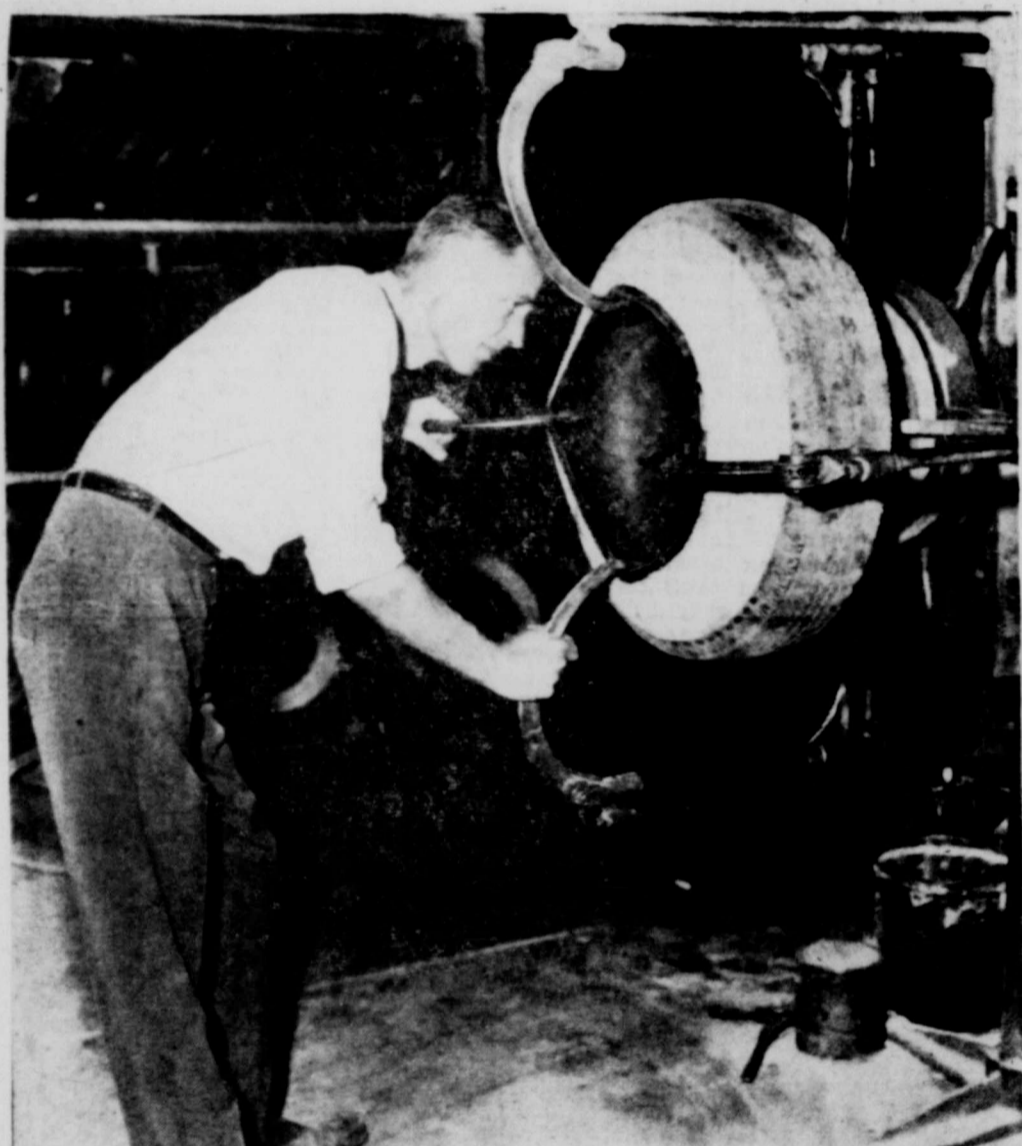

Tractor tires also are repaired, and Sperry says Pior has the equipment "to go right out into the field and remove the weighting solution and repair a tractor's tires."

Five people are employed by Sperry and his payroll for the year was about $16,000.

In addition to recapping and repairing, Pior's is the authorized factory outlet here for a complete line of new Armstrong tires.

"Armstrong is the fifth largest tire manufacturer in the industry," Sperry said.

A service station also is operated, specializing in Sinclair products.

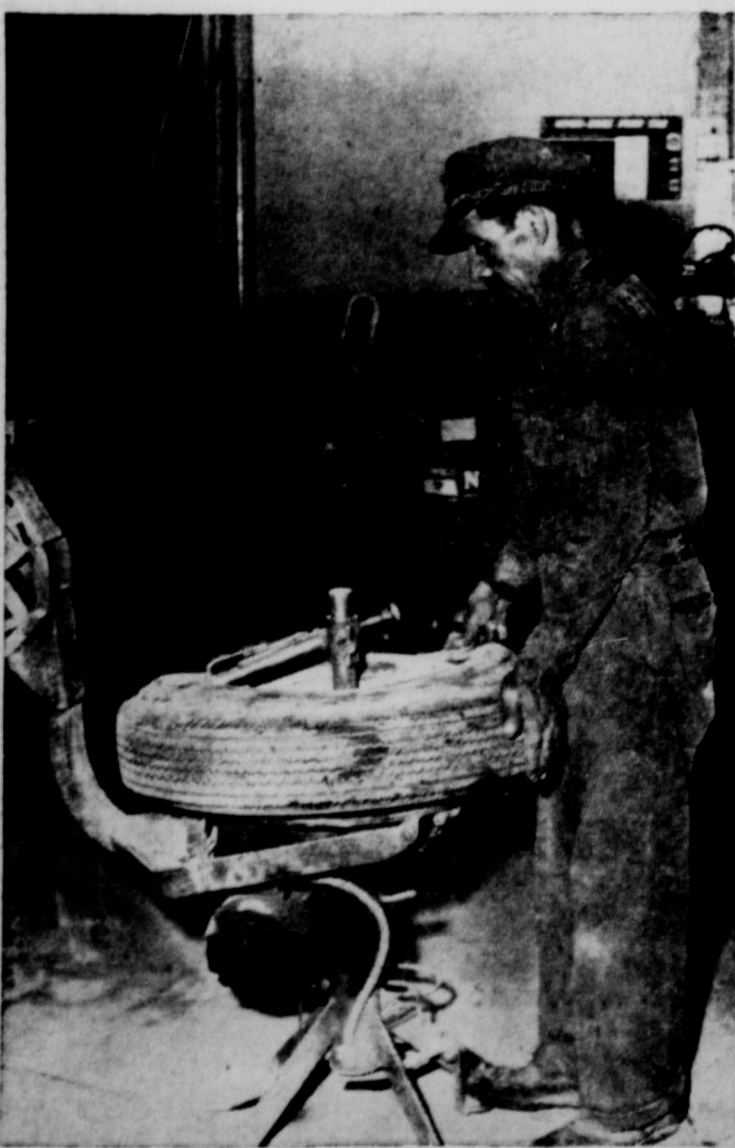

WESLEY SPERRY, owner-manager of Pior's Tire Company, Fifth and main, inspects a tire to see if it is worth repairing or recapping. Sperry, who has owned the business for 13 years, was born in Artesia. More than 15,000 tires have been repaired and recapped for customers at Pior's.

A TIRE is removed from the mold by Sam Stewart after it has been heated under pressure until the tread is stuck securely in place. The well-known Hawkinson method of recapping is used at Pior's.

THIS HUGE tire gets a through going over under the expert eyes of Sam Stewart. When the tires are repaired and recapped, they are either put into a rack for sale or back on the customer's car, whatever the case may be.

JOSE VARGAS places a tire on the electric dismantling machine. Equipped with all the modern machines, Pior's does a tough job in a hurry. However, it isn't all done by machinery. The men who do the work are experienced personnel, ranging in experience from five to 30 years.

MANUEL SOSA prepares to dismount a huge tractor tire which will be repaired or recapped by Pior Rubber Company. Pior's is equipped to go into a farmer's field, remove the weighting chemicals, repair the tire, and replace the chemicals. The company is equipped with the most up-to-date tools and machinery.

SAM STEWART applies new rubber to an old tire, part of the recapping process used at Pior's. Stewart has 30 years of experience in the business, insuring customers excellent service.

Hagerman News Briefs

MRS BYRON OGLESBY

The American Legion Auxiliary of Hagerman met Monday, June 13 for a regular meeting and election of officers.

A formal opening was held by the president, Mrs. John Weir, with the minutes of the last meeting and the Treasurer's report being given by Mrs. Jeanette Michelet.

The Poppy Chairman, Mrs. Garner Mason, reported that the Poppy Sale was very successful.

Jeanette Michelet was elected to be the delegate-at-large, to attend the convention at Las Vegas, N. M. which will be held June 24-25-26.

Newly elected officers for the year 1955-56 were installed by Jeanette Michelet as follows:

PREMATURE BIRTHS?

BARNWELL, S. C. (AP)—The new Earnwell County Hospital hadn't even opened when the administrator officially registered its first delivery—sexuplets. Officials reported that all six of the puppies were doing well. They were born in the storage building of the hospital.

Miss Speissegger Becomes Bride Of Sgt. Robert Bond

Miss Dolores Ann Speissegger became the bride of S/Sgt. Robert Bond of Walker Air Force Base, Roswell, at 7:30 p.m. Friday June 10, at Assembly of God Church. Rev. J. H. McClendon, pastor officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Speissegger, and bridegroom son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bond, Matton, Ill.

The couple stood in front of a lattice arched entwined with white gladiolus, baby breath and greenery. On each side was a tall basket filled with white gladiolus, white stock and baby breath, with seven-branched candelabras on each side. On the piano was an arrangement of Majestic daises, baby breath and greenery.

Mrs. Melvin Loyd at the piano played the traditional wedding music and accompanied Mrs. J. H. McClendon who sang "God Gave Me You," and "I Love You Truly."

The candelights were Patricia Marshall and Gloria Riddle who wore identical dress of orchid net over taffeta with a bolero jacket, and in their hair wore bandeau to match dress with seeded pearls. Each wore a wrist coverage of frenched carnations.

The bride entered on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage. She wore a waltz length dress of tulle and lace over taffeta. The waist was a tight fitted bodice with a high neckline, with a Peter Pan collar, and tiny covered buttons down the front. The long fitted sleeves ended in a point over her hand. Her tiered veil was caught to a tiara of pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with lavender Cattelya orchids in show-er.

Mrs. F. W. Smalley, sister of the bride was matron of honor. She wore a yellow net over taffeta with a lace bolero jacket. In her hair she wore a bandeau to match her dress with rosettes and seed pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations with yellow accent.

Miss Joyce Gelwick, bridesmaid, wore waltz dress of blue net over blue taffeta with matching scalloped cape, and wore lace mitts. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations with blue accent, and Miss Peggy Parrish, bridesmaid wore mint green net over green taffeta with matching scalloped cape. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations with green accent. Each wore a bandeau in their hair to match their dress with seeded pearls.

Brenda Ison was junior bridesmaid. She wore a waltz length of yellow net over taffeta, and wore mitts to match. She carried a miniature colonial bouquet of white carnations with yellow accent.

Pamela Williams was flower girl, she wore a waltz length dress of blue net over taffeta. She wore a corsage of carnations, and carried a basket covered in blue net.

Sgt. Jerry Ray Roue of Lincoln, Neb., was best man William Hinson and K. Gribs were ushers. All the men wore white jackets with white carnations boutonnieres.

The bride's mother wore an aqua blue linen dress with lace waist, with white accessories. Her corsage was cymbidium orchids.

Mrs. Bond, mother of the bridegroom wore a pale blue shantung dress with a fitted bodice with satin ribbon at the waist, and white accessories. Her corsage was cymbidium orchids.

SGT. and Mrs. Robert Bond

A reception was held in the parlorage. The bride's table was laid with a lace cloth, centered with the bride's three-tiered cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom flanked by two tapers in crystal holders. On the table was a crystal bowl filled with sweet peas.

The bride and bridegroom cut the cake after which Mrs. Orval Kidd served. Mrs. Mary Riddle presided over the punch bowl.

Mrs. Floyd Ison was in charge of the bride's book. The couple left on a honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls. She chose for traveling a two-piece blue linen suit with white accessories, and wore the orchid from her bouquet. Upon their return will be home in Roswell.

Out-of-town guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bond, parents of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Bond, brother; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bond, uncle and aunt. Mrs. Orville Doty, and Mae Jarou all from Matton, Ill.

There Is A Reason For Large Increase In Swimming Pools

SANTA FE (AP)—Motel men tell about an owner who built an expensive, heart-shaped swimming pool next-door to his competitor's small one. The rival topped this by adding a second and heated pool, then advertising: "Now Hot and Cold Running Pools."

The story illustrates the major reason for an upsurge in public swimming pool construction in New Mexico. Sharp competition, said one motel owner, has forced operators to consider swimming pools on a par with innerspring mattresses and air-conditioning.

Of 13 new public swimming pools constructed in the state so far this year, 12 have been for motels.

The Sanitation Department of the state health office lists 95 swimming pools for public use in New Mexico today. "Plans are coming in all the time for our approval," a spokesman said. "And it looks like we'll hit the 100 mark before summer ends."

The Sanitation Department must approve plans for construction of public swimming pools. Public health requirements include proper chlorination, filtration and similar safeguards. Pools are inspected regularly.

Charles Caldwell, sanitation engineer, is in agreement with the jump in swimming pool construction. "The more public places to swim in the state, the less drownings and infections you'll see," he said.

"If we can just get away from kids swimming in ditches, it will be a good thing."

The state has some strict regulations on building a public swimming pool. It has to be properly chlorinated, for one thing. Depth markers have to be painted on the sides to prevent somebody from doing a swan dive in three-feet of water.

And a method of recirculation of water must meet standards, if that is used.

"We've gotten away, for the most part, of throwing out water in swimming pools," Caldwell said. "We need it too badly to waste it."

For that reason, he said, most modern pools have a recirculation system set up. The water is drawn out, filtered, chlorinated and put back in.

"It saves plenty of water," Caldwell said. "You only have to add a little every now and then to make up for evaporation, and normal loss."

If you want to take a swim in New Mexico these days, you won't have to look far for a pool.

There are 19 municipal pools in the state, plus the many motel pools.

Santa Fe has a new municipal pool. Farmington, Las Cruces, Truth or Consequences, Santa Rosa White City, Artesia, Roswell and Eunice all have community pools.

Clovis has two city pools. Then Deming, Silver City, Belen, Raton, Clayton, Tucuman, Fort Sumner and Portales have public pools.

Albuquerque doesn't have a strictly municipal pool but has 18 in all, including the YMCA, university, and Country Club pools.

All these, of course, don't take into consideration the hundreds of private swimming pools. A pool in the back yard is growing in popularity in the state and several companies are in the business of building them.

Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Smith and son Charlie of Clovis, arrived Thursday to visit here several days. Smith is attending to business matters.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Dunn returned Friday from their ranch at Pagosa Springs, Colo. Their son Harold remained on the ranch for the summer.

Phillip Dillard returned Saturday night from Fort Hood, Texas, where he had been attending two weeks army reserve camp.

BAKED WATCH HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A woman who wanted her watch fixed, explained to Jeweler Frank Holubec what had happened to it.

"I got it wet, so I put it in the oven at 350 degrees. Then I went over to a neighbor's house and didn't remember about it until a half hour later."

Miss Hunter, Theodore Raff Are Married Here Friday

Lady of Grace church was holding Friday evening for the wedding of Miss Marietta Hunter Theodore Raff, Los Lunas, Stephen Bono, pastor, officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The altar were two baskets of gladiolus, White Majestic and white stock on each side with two-seven branched candelabras on each side, and the aisle was banked with greenery. The bridesmaids wore white dresses with white bows and white daisy corsages.

Miss Cox played preceding wedding "Ave Marie" and "To the Chapel" and also played additional wedding marches. The ceremony Mrs. Van der Kamp sang "Because" and the "Prayer."

Mr. and Mrs. Enid Douglas were the candelights. They wore identical dresses of ballerina style of yellow organdy over taffeta. They wore wrist corsages of white daisies and hair combs to match and the candle holders with yellow and white daisies.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Richard Swartz, who wore a gown of white chantilly with a full skirt with net sleeves of net and lace over a tulle collar with lace edging, small covered buttons at the neck and the sleeves were long to a point over the hand. Her veil was fingertip edged in white lace with rows of seed pearls and rhinestone. She carried a shower bouquet of lily of the valley centered with white daisies.

Myrna Henderson was maid of honor. She wore white organdy over yellow taffeta. She carried a bouquet filled with Margaret daisies and yellow, and wore a corsage to match with white daisies.

Miss Earhart and Sandra Ware were bridesmaids, and wore a dress of white organdy over aqua satin. They carried a bouquet filled with white Margaret daisies and yellow.

Miss Swartz, rosebud bridesmaid wore aqua organdy over aqua satin. She carried a small basket of white Margaret daisies and yellow.

The dresses were identical of ballerina length with a bodice, and low neckline, and wore a bandeau to match their hair.

Galaz of Los Lunas was flower girl, and Frank Parker, Dick and Harry Burklo were ushers.

Richard Swartz, aunt of the bride wore a dusty pink butch-ess dress tucked at the waist with white lace and white shoes. Her corsage was white roses and pale pink fan-roses.

Mike Benac of Gallup, uncle of the bridegroom wore a slant-shoulder two piece dress, with rag-leeves and slate picture hat and white gloves. Her corsage was white daisies surrounded with white carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Wasson, Enid, Okla., mother of the bride wore a lavendar dress with white accessories. Her corsage was white carnations with florets of white stock.

A reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. V. P. Sheldon.

The bride's table was centered with a bouquet of white gladiolus, white stock, and lilly of the valley flanked by six-branched candelabras. The table was laid with a lace cloth over yellow. The bride's cake was four-tiered decorated with lilly of the valley and topped with a lace wedding bell with spray of lilly of the valley coming from the bell. Cake, punch and mints of yellow with spray of lilly of the valley were served.

Sarah Curtis served the cake and June Stromberg presided at the punch bowl. Others assisting were Mrs. C. H. Parker and Miss Nancy Haynes. Kaye Swartz was in charge of the guest book.

The young couple left on a honeymoon trip to California. She chose for traveling a toast of silk shantung box suit trimmed in white, with white pique blouse and wore a white picture hat, and the corsage from her wedding bouquet.

The bride graduated from Artesia high school in 1952 and attended University of New Mexico, Albuquerque.

The bridegroom graduated this June from the University of New Mexico, receiving his degree in field of architectural engineering.

also received his commission as a reserve officer. He will be employed by the national forest service as architectural engineering in Albuquerque.

Out-of-town guests were Mike Benac, Gallup, aunt of the bridegroom, Theo Raff, Los Lunas, father of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. Burklo, Eunice, Miss Ruth McKinley, Alamogordo, Mr. and Mrs. K. Swartz, and Kaye and Dean, Elk City, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. Philip Swartz, Amarillo, Mr. Elva Willey, El Paso, and Mrs. Wasson, Enid, Okla.

On Thursday evening preceding the rehearsal a barbecue chicken dinner was served in the back yard of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Swartz.

The tables were decorated with plaid clothes and bandana handkerchiefs were used as napkins and clothes pins bore each name, and hurricane lamps centered the table.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Raff, Miss Sandra Maloch, Myrna Henderson, Phyllis Earhart, Betty Jo Kaiser, Ruth McKinley, Hunt Zumwalt, Al Galaz, Frank Parker, Dick Reinert, Charles Cox.

Also Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Swartz and Ean and Kaye, Mr. and Mrs. V. P. Sheldon, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Birkelo, Mr. and Mrs. Van Everett, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Swartz and children, Richey and Gaye, Mrs. Wasson, and Pamela Mills.

Milland Says He's Happy To Be Finished With TV Career

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—TV's reluctant star is now through with the medium and he couldn't be more pleased.

"I'm the happiest man in the world," says Ray Milland.

Some TV performers would be singing the blues if their show got canceled. Not Milland. When General Electric dropped sponsorship after two years of the Ray Milland Show originally Meet Mr. McNutley, he was tossing his hat in the air.

"I never wanted to do the show in the first place," he explained. "My agent talked me into it."

In December 1952, he was heading for a three-month Swiss vacation after a heavy film schedule. His agents invited him to a luncheon in New York.

"I thought surely they would present me with a platinum cigarette case or something like that, after all the money they had made from me," he remarked.

But he was in for another kind of surprise. Reluctantly, he had made a sample program for a TV comedy series. At a luncheon, he was told that the series had been sold to a big sponsor, General Electric.

Milland aid he was against the series from the start, but agreed to do it after the three-month rest brought him home eager for work. At least that's his story. He has virtually backed himself into a fortune.

reun to turn a profit," he admitted. "We were in the black from the start. And now General Foods has picked up sponsorship for the summer."

After that, the films will probably be syndicated. But the actor appears unconcerned about the hefty profits involved. "So what?—the government takes most of it anyway," he said.

Having washed TV out of his hair, Milland is bucking down to his film career. He said he has more assignments than he can handle. At present he is playing Stanford White in "The Girl in the Red Velvet Swing."

If he had it to do over again, would he repeat the TV experience?

"I should say not!" he said emphatically, stalking off.

Johnson Youths Celebrate Birthdays

Randy and Ronnie Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Johnson celebrated their birthday on Thursday. Randy was 6 and Ronnie 10.

The group went to the movies and then returned to the honoree's home and were served birthday cake, ice cream and cold drinks.

Those present: Janice Lucas, Johnny O'Black, Leslie Wall, Whitney Johnson, Wesley Woodside, Judy Johnson, Susie and Livvy Goodwin, and the honorees.

Margaret Henderson, Joe H. Giles To Be Married Here Sunday, June 26

Mr. and Mrs. V. S. Henderson, 805 W. Centre, are announcing the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Margaret Belle to Joe H. Giles, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Giles, Carlsbad, formerly of Artesia.

The wedding will take place at noon, Sunday, June 26, at the First Baptist Church, Artesia, with Rev. S. M. Morgan, pastor, officiating. All friends are invited.

The bride-elect was a graduate of Artesia High school, and attended Cameron Junior College, Lawton, Oklahoma. She was active at Cameron as secretary of Phi Theta Kappa and a member of the Aggie tie drill team.

Mr. Giles is with the U. S. Army, stationed at Fort Sill, Okla., and will receive his discharge in November. He was a graduate of Artesia High School, and attended Howard College, Birmingham, Ala.

Two Big Dates Lie Just Ahead For Chessman; Second Book To Come Off Presses July 11

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)—Caryl Chessman, sex terrorist, author and self-tutored law student, has two big dates looming just ahead in his enigmatic 34 years of life.

July 11 the second book he has written in condemned row comes off the press.

July 15 he has a date with death in San Quentin's gas chamber. Publication of "Trial by Ordeal" is certain, but scheduled execution of the "Red Light Bandit" of lovers lanes around Los Angeles is by no means a certainty.

The wavy-haired convict has avoided it for seven years as of late since he was 27, he has a title of his first book His eighth year in death row begins July 3.

The lives of 63 men and one woman have been snuffed out by the lethal hydrocyanic gas in the tiny steel chamber while Chessman has lived on in his 11 1/2 by 4 1/2-foot cell on the fourth floor of condemned row.

Chessman made enough in royalties to hire lawyers after having fought his case alone for several years. Later Richard A. McGee, California director of corrections, clamped a ban on publication of books by condemned men. Last March 3, San Quentin's warden, Harley O Teets, impounded the manuscript of the second book, supposedly the only one in existence.

Yet Chessman's publisher recently literary agent, has insisted the work is Chessman's.

Warden Teets remained skeptical. "When the book comes out, we are going to compare it carefully with the manuscript we have," Teets commented.

There are web-like angles to the Chessman case any way you approach it.

Take his crime. He was convicted of attempted rape and kidnapping. The prosecution said he posed as a policeman by flashing a red light into parked cars of petting couples. Then, witnesses said, he forced women to take part in acts of sexual perversion so revolting that one woman had to be placed in a mental institution.

That's the state angle, upheld by the jury verdict of guilty. Chessman argued otherwise. He said he was in prison for another offense when the "Red Light Bandit" began striking; that the bandit kept on after Chessman was arrested.

His lawyers argued that Chessman wasn't to blame for the young woman committed to the mental institution. They said she went a year and eight months after the lovers lane experience and had been suffering mental difficulties for several years before the crime.

The Chessman trial, subject of his forthcoming book, has even more angles. They have been the basis for six stays of execution and legal battles waged all through the state and federal courts.

The core of contention is the trial transcript. The court reporter who took down the testimony used an old style of shorthand. Before he could transcribe it all, he died.

Another man tackled the job.

Typifying Chessman's bizarre life, his forthcoming book has a baffling angle. How did he get the manuscript out of San Quentin? Or did he get it out?

His first book, in which he argued that society itself was to blame for his situation, attracted considerable attention. It recently was made into a movie.

Chessman made enough in royalties to hire lawyers after having fought his case alone for several years.

Another man tackled the job.

He couldn't make out all of the notes. He did the best he could. The courts approved the transcript. It is the one which has been involved in the appeals—and the defense teed off from there.

'Lum and Abner' Team Joins Co.

HOUSTON, Texas, June 18—Chester H. Lauck, Los Angeles, Calif., better known as the beloved "Lum" of the internationally famous radio and motion picture team of "Lum and Abner," has been appointed Executive Assistant Continental Oil Company, with headquarters in Houston, it was announced here Saturday by L. F. McCollum, president.

"Although Mr. Lauck is known primarily as a radio and movie personality," said Mr. McCollum, "he first was successful as a banker and businessman. His talents will be available to all departments of Continental Oil Company for business meetings, civic and luncheon clubs, conventions, as an after-dinner speaker, and for other community gatherings. We plan to utilize his wide experience and background, both in business and as an entertainer, in our coast-to-coast operations."

Originally an Arkansas businessman, Mr. Lauck is a native of Allene, Ark., and is the son of W. J. Lauck, president of the Union Bank, Mena, Ark. After graduation from the University of Arkansas, he became associated with his father's bank in Mena for several years and later served as manager of the Citizen's Finance Corporation in that city.

He was active for several years in the business and civic life of Mena, where he was president of the Lion's Club and the Retail Credit Association, a director of the Chamber of Commerce and Executive Ruler of the Elk's Lodge. In 1931, together with Norris Goff, his boyhood friend in Mena, he formed the radio team of "Lum and Abner" and began a folky series on Station KTHS in Hot Springs, Ark.

In less than two months, "Lum and Abner" became a network show, broadcasting first from Chicago and later from Cleveland and New York. The career of the popular Arkansas businessmen eventually took them to Hollywood, where, in addition to their radio work, they starred in six motion pictures and participated in the first television program inaugurating the Columbia Broadcasting System's new Hollywood Television Studios.

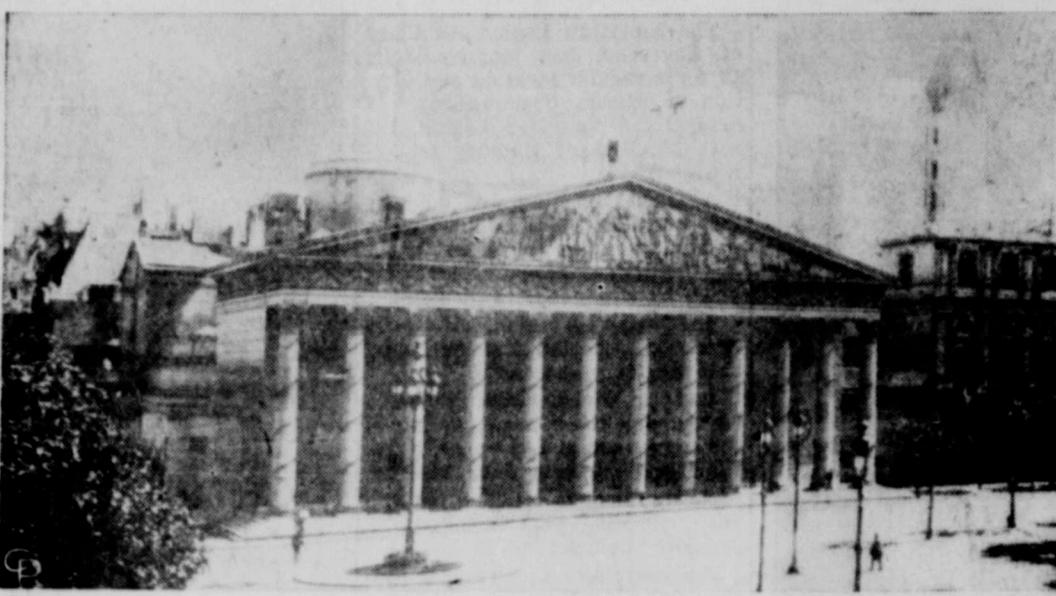

"Lum and Abner" are credited with a number of additional firsts in the entertainment world. They made the first major network broadcast in 1933 from Radio City in New York; the first marathon broadcast for charity (more than 12 hours); the initial show for the Mutual radio network; and the first international broadcast by a radio team, a show produced simultaneously in studios in both London and Chicago and heard throughout the United States and Great Britain.

Still attendance record-holders in many cities throughout the country, the famous Arkansas entertainers were cited by the Treasury Department and the Office of War Information for their "tireless work" entertaining servicemen during World War II. There is an important highway named after them in Arkansas, where the governor recently proclaimed a "Lum and Abner Day" and invited Mr. Lauck to address a joint session of the state legislature.

"Lum and Abner" record albums are treasured possessions in homes throughout America, and

SCENE OF BUENOS AIRES VIOLENCE AS ANTI-CATHOLICS HURL STONES

BUENOS AIRES CATHEDRAL (shown) is where a mob of an estimated 500 screamed insults at Catholics leaving evening mass in the Argentine capital. The home of Santiago Luis Cardinal Copello (right) was stoned and shots were fired at it as Argentines, apparently inflamed by President Juan D. Peron's charges of "treason" against the church, roamed the streets. As soon as the violence began, angry Catholics also swarmed through the streets shouting such slogans as, "Long Live Christ the King!" (International Soundphotos) more than 50 sets of twins have been named after the Arkansas team. Hundreds of independently-owned Jot 'Em Down Stores, which bear the title of the radio shows' fictitious general store, are found all over America and as far as the Alcan highway in Alaska.

The careers of "Lum and Abner" as internationally known entertainers spanned more than two decades, up until the time of Mr. Goff's illness, which prompted Mr. Lauck to abandon the theatrical profession and resume the business career he started after leaving college.

An accomplished artist, Mr. Lauck studied art at the Chicago Art Institute. He recently returned from a tour of Europe, where he spent three months making television films. He also is interested in breeding thoroughbred horses and has owned racing stables with actor Don Ameche and W. C. Stroube and J. L. Collins, Corsicana, Texas, businessmen.

A hunting and fishing enthusiast, he holds several trophies for his prowess at skeet shooting. He is the father of three children, Shirley, Nancy and Chester, Jr.

U.S. SURGEON GENERAL Leonard A. Scheele tells a news conference in Washington that the mass inoculation program for school children will be resumed soon. He predicted it will be completed before the peak of the polio season. Dr. Scheele said that some of the Salk vaccine will be released within the next few days under stringent new safety standards. Report On Business Indicate Times Good

NEW YORK, June 18 (AP)—Big factory payrolls in the months ahead—plenty of jobs this summer.

That was probably the most significant of the many forecasts heard this week on the near-term outlook for the nation's business.

Jumping-off point for rosy predictions about summer employment prospects was the government's latest report on output of U. S. factories and mines.

The yardstick was the Federal Reserve Board's index of industrial production. After allowing for seasonal factors, the index for May stood at 138 per cent of the 1947-49 average—an all-time high. And, economists said, it should soon go higher.

Best news about summer jobs was provided by a U. S. Labor Department survey. It showed that companies in 75 per cent of the nation's major employment areas will need more workers by mid-July. Biggest increase in hiring, of course, will be in such seasonal lines as farming and construction. But producers of steel and manufacturers of electrical machinery will be adding workers too. Layoffs in the auto industry should be slight—despite production cutbacks.

Signs of rising business trend were evident all along the line. Soft coal production was the highest in eight months. Electric power output the second highest in history. With freight loadings up 13 per cent from a year ago, railroads said they were planning to place "substantial orders" for new cars to replace worn-out equipment.

Consumer confidence was lifted by wage settlements in the auto industry—General Motors signed a "Ford model" contract providing for company-financed layoff pay—and prospects for labor peace in other basic lines. Merchants said shoppers today are more willing to take on installment debts than they were a year ago, and they're paying their bills more promptly. J. George Greenberg, executive manager of Associated Fur Manufacturers Inc., said American women will spend 400 million dollars on furs this year vs. 325 million last year. Vast new markets for automobiles, washing machines and other durable goods bought "on time" were envisioned by president Arthur O. Dietz of C. I. T. Financial Corp. "The more consumers have," said Dietz, "the more they want."

Indications were that summer would be busier than usual for most lines and that the final quarter of 1955 would be the biggest ever. But the cost of doing business would be higher, too. In addition to paying higher wages, many manufacturers could look forward to paying higher prices for such basic materials as aluminum, copper, rubber, zinc and steel. Zinc prices advanced half a cent a round; commodity future prices, on average, scored their sharpest one-day rise in more than a year. Wholesale food costs moved up slightly.

The cost squeeze, it became increasingly evident, would probably have its greatest impact on the auto industry, now in the midst of its greatest boom. There was some question whether consumers—long accustomed to big discounts and liberal trade-in deals—would take kindly to any increase in retail prices when 1956 models come out.

By the end of this month, U. S. auto makers will have turned out 4 1/4 million cars. That's an all-time high for any six-month period and almost as many cars as the industry built in all of 1952. The four millionth passenger car of 1955 is due to leave the assembly line on Monday. In 1950, the previous record year, the four millionth car wasn't built until late in August.

The stockmarket thrust to a new series of peaks this week, then leveled out as trading became more selective. Business sentiment was generally optimistic, particularly among those taking the longer view. One measure of the economy was a forecast by Harold Quinton, president of the Edison Electric Institute, trade association for the privately owned electric power industry. By 1959, he said, this country's electrical generating capacity will have to be 33 per cent greater than it is today to meet the requirements of a growing population and a rising standard of living.

Backstage in New Mexico— Prospects of Atomic War Has Ulcers Biting Ulcers

BACKSTAGE IN NEW MEXICO
By The
New Mexico Staff
Of The Associated Press

Prospects of an atomic war have a lot of ulcers biting other ulcers—in New Mexico as well as over the nation.

Most who are expressing the greatest concern wouldn't admit fear. They contend the action they are taking is just good sense. And who can argue?

There is a growing popularity in lessons on how to live. There's a brand new trend in survival. And perhaps because it is the home of the A-bomb, New Mexico is getting unusual attention in this field.

Not long ago The New Mexican, Santa Fe daily, carried quite a story on the number of Los Alamos workers who are packed and ready to head for the hills when someone pulls the panic bell. In Albuquerque it is not particular secret that a good size segment of the Sandia and Kirtland population are giving more than casual thought as to where to head and how to live in event of an attack.

This week's national Operation Alert with its evacuation program points up the thinking along these lines.

It isn't just a matter of getting out of town—and out of a target area. The question is: What are you going to do when you get out of town? How are you going to feed and clothe and house the kids? If you're at work, how can you insure their safety and survival?

There are about as many ideas for solutions to the problem as there are folks thinking about it. Generally, the answer is a turn back to pioneer days.

In Roswell, Set. Billy Layberger of Walker Air Force base is one airman who believes in the old saying "hope for the best, but prepare for the worst."

HE HAS RIGGED up a survival kit for his wife, Ellen, which would allow her to live adequately for two weeks if that eastern New Mexico city is ever the target of an atomic attack.

Layberger's rig is cheap, light and complete. And it can sit for 10 years, he estimates, without going bad.

"I figure $20 is pretty cheap insurance to give my wife a chance to live—should the necessity for it ever arise," Layberger says.

His kit is contained in five containers which together weigh only 30 pounds.

The kit contains outdoor camping equipment, dehydrated food, a sealed container of water, tablets to purify water, a first aid kit, and an Air Force survival jacket.

Layberger, an Air Policeman at Walker, several months ago got the idea for the kit and started to work. Most of his time was spent in making sure that the contents of the kit were tightly wrapped to keep out air and water.

Water will be the big problem. Layberger's kit contains a sealed canteen containing a quart of water which he estimates is enough to last a person using it carefully for a day and a half.

Then, a new water supply must be found.

The whole outfit is either worn or carried on the back.

The sergeant is convinced that with a few changes, his kit could be adopted for a family of any size.

"I'll sure feel a lot better taking care of my job," Layberger says, "if I know that I have provided the best possible protection for her."

We've been listening to an Eastern "gone Western." He's reading up on Western folk lore, and he says it's getting so he doesn't open doors any more—"I kick 'em down!" And he says he's beginning to call everyone "Podnuh."

—o—
A TEXAS NEWSPAPER executive, Wes Izzard of the Amarillo Daily News, suggests New Mexicans stop beating the drums for what he calls an early-day juvenile delinquent, Billy the Kid, and take up the cudgels in behalf of someone more worthy of the effort. He refers specifically to Eugene Manlove Rhodes, one of the finest of all writers on the Western scene.

As a matter of fact, Rhodes may not get as much attention as does Billy the Kid—and who does?—but he is not at all forgotten.

Recently at the grave of the well-known author near Alamogordo a group of oldtimers gathered to spin tales of the days when they were young cowpunches working with Gene Rhodes. One of those present was Alan Rhodes, the author's son who traveled from New York for the occasion.

One of the stories told was by Dallas McCombs of Rotan, Tex., who served as foreman of the Bar Cross Ranch in the early days.

Now 89, McCombs told how Gene Rhodes went 100 miles on a mean horse's back to ranch headquarters to dispatch a chuckwagon. The trip took not the two days it was expected, but a matter of hours. Mrs. Bess Vorhees of Orogrande told one of the old-time favorites.

She related that Gene returned from college dressed like a city slicker, alighted from the stage at Orogrande and asked for a horse. Cowpunchers, thinking to pull a good one on a dude, gave him a bronc. Gene mastered the mount and rode off into the night.

Rhodes is buried at a high point on his old ranch with a great New Mexico boulder, set with a bronze plaque, for his headstone.

SEN. CHAVEZ has come in for praise from two sources.

One was a liberal backslap from Sen. Johnson (D-Tex.). The other was a grateful thank-you from Tennessee's junior senator.

Johnson read into the congressional record a commendation of "the distinguished chairman of the Public Works Committee, the senior senator from New Mexico." The statement praised the committee's efforts in winning the passage of the Gore highway bill, termed by Sen. Johnson "one of the most important bills which will be considered at this session. The statement said in part: "He drew upon many years of experience to make suggestions and to guide committee deliberations. His able painstaking work insured us a reasonable bill which we could discuss dispassionately and on the merit. A legislative body which has such an able, experienced leader in its midst is indeed fortunate."

And the bill's sponsor, Sen. Albert Gore, said he was very grateful for the way Chavez let Gore run things during consideration of the bill.

After passage, he told friends: "Never has a senior senator ever given a junior senator a greater opportunity or break."

Chavez, as chairman of the Public Works Committee, usually served as field general of its projects.

But Gore said Chavez let him direct the hearings and the floor campaigns pretty well as Gore saw fit.

Dust, Damaging Hail, Winds Hit West Texas

Dust—scurage of the plains—and damaging hail and wind pounded scattered West Texas points Thursday. Damage was considerable.

But long after dawn Friday there had been no rain of consequence in the state since midnight, the Weather Bureau said, and skies were clear from the Midland area to El Paso.

Partly cloudy skies prevailed in East Texas, weathermen said, with temperatures across the state ranging from 59 at Salt Flat to 78 at Galveston.

Runnels County apparently bore the brunt of the wind and hail with Ballinger and Winters, 16 miles apart, getting the heaviest damage Thursday. Earlier, heavy dust had reduced visibility at Junction to zero.

At Winters, schools, churches and hospitals and almost every home with north-northeast exposure had windows smashed by pounding hail which Police Chief Bill Whitley said were as large as a man's fist.

Whitley also reported considerable damage at Wilmeth, 12 miles west of Winters.

All rain gauges in Winters were smashed by the hail, but estimates of the precipitation ranged up to 2 inches.

At Ballinger a large drive-in theater screen was blown down with damage estimated at $15,000. Winds at Junction which blew in the heavy sandstorm also wrecked a hanger and a plant at the Kimball County Airport. At least two other planes were damaged in Junction and a small plane was demolished at the Winters airport, where another hangar was destroyed.

Other damage at Winters included an elementary school wrecked and two business buildings unroofed. Most Winters business houses swept water out of their quarters Thursday evening while residents boarded up windows as new storm clouds gathered. A resident said at least 98 per cent of the buildings in town were damaged.

Nobody was reported injured from the weather, but at one Winters hospital the staff stayed busy moving patients from storm-bat tered, wind-paneless rooms to dry halls.

The West Texas storm piled up out of towering thunderheads that built over the area Thursday afternoon.

A cluster of tornado clouds waltzed over the Panhandle but dissipated in the Panhandle-Borger area apparently without damage. Matador and Whiteface reported hail.

Forecasts called for more thunderstorms and showers in the northwest quarter of the state Friday and Saturday.
