The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a street length dress of white eyelet embroidered organza over taffeta with full circular skirt. The fitted bodice was fashioned with sweetheart neckline and sleeves. She wore short organza gauntlets which came to a point over her wrists. Her small hat was white starched lace with rhinestone accents. Her bouquet was an exquisite corsage of phalaenopsis orchids which she carried attached to a cascade of stephanotis on a Rainbow Bible.

Following the tradition the bride wore an old coin in her shoe for good luck, something new her wedding dress, something borrowed, Rainbow Bible belonging to Mrs. Don Brewer, and a blue garter.

Miss Verna Pounds was maid of honor. She wore a street length dress of pale blue figured organza, with long fitted torso, and bouffant skirt. The low rounded neckline and fitted bodice were trimmed with narrow white lace. She wore a coronet fashioned of blue malines, and small yellow and blue satin leaves in her hair. She carried a small fragrant bouquet of yellow roses designed in

Miss Sinclair Wed to Robert McQuay Sunday

Beneath an archway of greenery entwined with yellow gladioli and blue daisies tied with blue satin bows, Miss Joan Sinclair, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Sinclair of Portales, and Robert B. McQuay, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. McQuay of Artesia, exchanged wedding vows on Sunday afternoon, June 12 at the First Baptist Church, Portales. The Rev. L. A. Doyle, pastor officiated at the double-ring ceremony. The church was decorated with baskets of yellow gladioli, blue daisies and baby breath. The arrangement was flanked by potted plants.

The church was lighted by cathedral candles in seven-branched candelabra.

Guests were registered upon arrival by Mrs. Barbara Spears, cousin of the bride.

Pre-wedding music was played by Miss Jim Elyce Ribble at the organ, and she served as accompanist for Mrs. Robert Hunt, who sang "Because," "Through the Years," and "The Lord's Prayer." Appropriate music was also played while the candles were being lighted by Clovce Sinclair, brother of the bride, and James Adams of Clovis.

The bride's pathway to the altar was strewn with flowers by Viki Johnson who wore yellow net over taffeta, with blue sash. She carried a blue basket from which she scattered white rose petals.

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a full length bridal gown of imported elinoid Chantilly lace over tulle and satin. The full skirt was accented with a fitted bodice. The fitted sleeves came to a point over the hands and the collar of the bodice was of the Queen Ann style.

The veil of nylon tulle was finger tip length and was edged with nylon lace. It was attached to a crown of seed pearls.

The bridal bouquet consisted of white roses and stehinotis tied with satin ribbon with the streamers fastened in love knots. The flowers were carried on the white Rainbow Bible awarded her, when she retired as worthy advisor of the Rainbow assembly.

She observed the wedding tradition by having an old coin in her shoe, her new ensemble borrowed the wedding veil from Mrs. Jerry Southard and used a blue garter. She also wore the Sigma Beta Chi Sorority marriage bracelet.

Miss Jean Bollinger of Flagstaff, Ariz., was maid of honor, and wore a yellow eyelet embroidered organza dress over taffeta. It was styled with fitted bodice, low neckline and full skirt. She carried a nosegay of blue feathered carnations.

Misses Judy Phillips and Billie Rae Lanier were bridesmaids, and their dresses were blue eyelet organza styled identical to that worn by the maid of honor. Both carried nosegays of yellow feathered carnations.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Buddy McQuay, and the candle lighters also served as ushers.

The bride's mother chose an aqua colored silk dress and her accessories were white. Her corsage was roses.

Mrs. McQuay, mother of the bridegroom wore a blue lace dress with white accessories. Her corsage was roses.

A reception following the wedding was held in the educational building of the church where the bride's table was covered with a yellow cloth beneath a white lace over cloth. The centerpiece was yellow and blue majestic daisies with baby breath. This was flanked by blue tapers in crystal holders and the appointments were of crystal and silver.

The three-tiered wedding cake was all white with decorations of flowers and love birds. It was topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom.

After the bride and bridegroom had cut the cake Miss Pat South served, and Miss Yvonna Harris presided at the punch bowl. Both had white feathered carnations corsages.

The young people left during the evening for a short wedding trip and the bride traveled in a costume of navy blue two-piece linen suit with white accessories, and her corsage was taken from her bridal bouquet. They are now at home in Artesia where the bride-

UCLA Girls, Posing In Nude Credited With Aiding Business

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—UCLA posing in the nude, were credited today with helping build $600,000 into a million-dollar-a-year small-order art business.

They just came to us by the dozens," Mrs. Mary Dorothy Tager, told Sen. Estes Kefauver, "paid them little or nothing, but we just gave them a set of photographs in their street photographs in payment."

of Directors of Chrysler Sales Corporation.

Mr. O'Donnell, who has been special assistant to the president in charge of manufacturing and organization divisionalization since December, 1954 previously had been assistant general works manager of the Division.

Mr. Briggs has held the post of assistant to the president in charge of sales since March of this year, when he came to Chrysler Division from another automobile company.

"Creation of these new vice-presidencies is the result of our rapid growth which has been brought on by careful planning, an efficient and hard-working organization, and the finest product in the industry," Mr. Quinn said.

"Mr. O'Donnell's promotion to this new post is in recognition of his excellent record and his thorough knowledge of manufacturing methods, costs and procedures," Mr. Quinn said. "He will continue to administer the developmental work he began for the Division last year."

Mr. Briggs will assume full responsibility for all sales activities of Chrysler Division. He will be responsible for marketing sales policies and will be charged with development of the Chrysler and Imperial sales organization. He will provide professional assistance at the retail level to our dealer body and so enable them to handle the increased volume of cars which this division will produce upon completion of our new plant."

A veteran of the automobile business, Mr. Briggs entered the industry in 1924, becoming a general factory auditor in 1926. In 1927 he became a factory branch retail salesman and subsequently served as district manager, manager of branches, regional manager, and in various other executive positions, including vice president.

Mr. Briggs was born in Port Huron, Michigan in 1901, graduated from the Detroit Institute of Technology in 1927 with a B. S. degree in business administration and marketing.

Mr. O'Donnell was born in Lynn, Massachusetts, where he served his apprenticeship as a tool and die maker with General Electric Company. In 1926, he came to Detroit and for ten years was associated with several industrial concerns in tool and die making.

In 1936, Mr. O'Donnell joined Chrysler Corporation as tool engineer for DeSoto Division and in 1940, he was transferred to the Corporation's central estimating department. During the war, he was assistant master mechanic of the Corporation's atomic bomb project, later becoming project master mechanic.

After one year as general superintendent of the Cycleweld Division, he was promoted to supervisor of central estimating for the Corporation and became staff master mechanic in 1951.

Mr. O'Donnell joined Chrysler Division in January 1953 as assistant general works manager.

Audie Murphy, Vejar Stage Movie Battle

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The bell rang and the actors came out of their corners. But this was no ordinary fight—they exchanged real blows.

After a couple of minutes of heavy slugging, the bell rang again. Even the hardened crowd of movie extras applauded the fighting.

On of the fighters, war hero actor Audie Murphy, sported red on his cheek. This was no make up, it was the real thing.

He didn't complain. A stickler for reality, he had trained for nine weeks to get himself down to his welterweight and into shape for his role as a boxer in "World in My Corner." He looked in top condition and was slugging away for three grueling days of fight scenes.

His opponent was well chosen for the role. He is Chico Vejar, not only one of the country's top welterweights, but also a dramatic arts major at New York university.

While Chico was in the ring, his manager Steve Ellis provided some background on the lad. Managing is "an avocation" with Ellis. He's also a top-flight announcer, broadcasting the weekly bouts on ABC radio.

"Chico came to me about five years ago," recounted Ellis. "He said he wanted me to manage him. He was only 17 and had dropped out of high school. I told him the only way I would consider it was if he would return to his home in Stamford, Conn., and finish school."

Chico, who has Mexican-Irish blood, returned to school. When he was graduated, Ellis started him in as a fighter. His record has been impressive: four losses in 63 fights. He's now in line for a shot at the title.

said she and her former husband, Louis Tager, a photographer, started the business with $600 and operated it until 1951. She pressed, she testified, "way the biggest return, she said, was $750,000 in a two-month period when they sold $100,000 worth of slides."

Ralph Starnes, a photographer, testified that he had sold $100,000 worth of slides in one day. He added that he had a concern in the Los Angeles area that operates an even bigger girlie photo business.

The girlie photo business got so big in Southern California, Mrs. Tager said, that operators formed an association called the Association of Photographers of Strippers and Models. She explained the purpose of the association was to "pool our money and stay in business."

Mrs. Tager said nude color slides cost 25 cents apiece to produce and were sold at six slides for $1.00.

Two New Officers Elected By Chrysler Corp.

The election of two new vice presidents as part of a continuing executive expansion program at Chrysler Division is announced by T. Quinn, president, Chrysler Division, Chrysler Corporation.

His many TV appearances drew Chico to the attention of producer Aaron Rosenberg and director Jess Hibbs. And when they learned he was also a drama major at NYU, he was a cinch for the job.

After finishing a rugged round, Chico paused to talk. He shrugged off an eye cut that Audie had opened the day before.

"Jess said to really mix it up, and that's what we've done," he said. "I've seen the rushes and the stuff looks great. It's the first time I've ever seen a fight that looks real in a movie."

TV's $61,000 Question May Seem Familiar

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP)—CBS TV's $61,000 Question may seem vaguely familiar to many viewers, and for good reason.

The developments of the first two shows are strongly reminiscent of a 1950 movie, "Champagne for Caesar," that has been making the rounds of late show telecasts.

The hero of the first two $61,000 Question shows is Redmond O'Hanlon 39, member of the New York Police Department and a Shakespearean scholar with a master of arts degree from Fordham university. He has run his prize money up to $16,000 and must decide by next Wednesday whether to keep it and quit or risk it and go for $32,000.

In "Champagne for Caesar," a United Artists release, Ronald Colman plays Beaugard Bottomley, a bookworm whose chief interest is pursuit of knowledge and pet hates are quiz shows and quizmasters, particularly Happy Hogan Art Linkletter.

Beaugard gets on Hogan's show and answers all the questions correctly week after week until he has become a national celebrity and needs only one more answer to own the sponsor's soap company. But in an agreement with the sponsor that's mutually beneficial, Beaugard dismisses the 43-million-dollar question, gets the girl Celeste Holm and everybody is happy ever after.

Policeman O'Hanlon, a handsome chap who has been married 11 years and has five children, is becoming something of a national celebrity for his erudite answers on $64,000 Question and his mounting prize. But unlike Beaugard, he has a limit on the amount he can win.

It pays to take care of electric cords. Coil them loosely in a drawer or on a shelf so that sharp bends won't break the fine wires or insulated covering.

Cut the GI's Benefits?

WITH all the difficulty that is being encountered in encouraging American youths to re-enlist in the various branches of the service we now see a movement on the part of congress to reduce the benefits of the GIs.

It is because benefits are not all they should be; the failure of the armed services to keep faith; and their failure to live up to all of their promises to the men in the service, that we have so many refusing to re-enlist now. Yet we are going to eliminate $10,000 in insurance for them and some of the aid to their dependents.

We don't think for one minute, however, that this can or will be done. We don't think for one minute that those proposing the change will be able to bring them about.

Bu even the idea of attempting to do this should make most Americans see a little red.

It is a fine thing to draft our boys into service; give them no choice but to serve; let them go into so-called "police action" when it is nothing short of real war; court martial them when they return because under pressure they have been forced to give out information and now we want to cut out their benefits.

We don't know whether those who have gotten rich under the wars in which we have engaged realize that if it were not for the American soldiers they wouldn't have what they have today or not. We don't know whether some of the members of congress, who have avoided military service by being in congress, know what a sacrifice must be paid to defend our country but if they don't then someone should tell them.

We know that someone needs to give a little thought, a little study, a little consideration and a little attention to the GIs and the members of the various branches of the armed services and to see they receive in proportion to our appreciation for what they have done and are doing for us.

Just as long as we have appropriated 3 1/2 billion dollars for foreign aid and to help our so-called friends, who will sell us down the river when the opportunity presents itself, then we can afford to keep faith with our service men; give them decent pay and benefits as a grateful nation should do.

Let's stop taking things away from them and provide a few things for them.

AEC Is Blamed For Threat to Atoms Program

ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—Sen. Anderson (D-NM) says the AEC and "nobody else" is responsible for secrecy which a former chairman of the commission says threatens the nation's "atoms for peace" program.

Anderson, chairman of the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy, says he agrees "wholeheartedly" with Gordon Dean that other nations may take the lead in atomic development unless atomic information is declassified. Dean, former chairman of the AEC, said last Sunday that "people everywhere want cheap power. The atom gives great promise of supplying it. And the United States has many times in the past two years promises assistance in the field, but we are not delivering on our promises. We are simply not implementing the President's 'atoms for peace' proposal. If we do not soon change our policy and take the secrecy wraps completely off these power reactors, our pretension that we are spreading blessings will have a very hollow ring."

Anderson said he believed "the AEC 'nobody else' has kept atomic information 'closed up.'"

He said if the United States doesn't declassify the reactor program soon, Russia "will do it for us" at the Geneva Conference.

The New Mexico senator said he believes it is foolish to believe Russia doesn't know a great deal about the reactor program and "I think Russia is going wholeheartedly into an effort to make this thing wide open."

Springer School Board To Meet; Discuss Break

SANTA FE (AP)—The Springer Industrial School board will meet at Springer Saturday to decide on a course of action to follow with regard to 12 boys who recently made a mass breakout from the school.

The 12 are in the Colfax County jail, but are expected to be released soon. They are being held there on charges of assault on a guard with intent to rob.

However, one of the board members, Miguel Otero, said Dist. Judge Fred J. Federici had said he is going to dismiss the case. Otero said the guard wouldn't say who hit him and the judge's decision was understandable.

The board has two main alternatives—take the 12 back to the school, or return them to the jurisdiction of the courts which sentenced them to Springer.

"There is a grave danger that we can't hold them" at the school because of a lack of strong security facilities, Dist. Judge Edwin Swope board chairman, said.

Mikey Jelke Is Taken To Prison

NEW YORK (AP)—Mickey Jelke finally went to Sing Sing prison today.

His trip up the Hudson, along with 11 other prisoners destined for the penitentiary, came after two long lengthy legal maneuvering.

Since his second conviction, the 25-year-old heir to a multimillion dollar oilman's fortune has been in city prison seeking release on bail pending further appeals.

A few days ago, however, his bail plea was rejected and he was ordered taken to Sing Sing for his two to three year term.

Handcuffed to another prisoner, he walked to a prison van this morning. He gazed straight ahead and ignored shouts from news photographers who wanted him to look in their direction.

The prisoner handcuffed to him looked at the photographers and grinned.

Jelke was convicted of living off the earnings of one woman he induced to take up prostitution, and of attempting to induce a second woman to do likewise.

The prosecution contended that he wished to put the women to work at prostitution among his cafe society acquaintances because he was unable to live on an allowance he received before inheriting family wealth.

His first conviction was thrown out because the trial judge barred press and public from prosecution testimony.

Youth's Fortune Is Figured at 8 Million Dollars

NEW YORK (AP)—Young William Anthony Burton's fortune, which he inherits through a family tragedy, has been figured at nearly eight million dollars.

William, now 12, used to be known as Wayne William Longergan. His name was changed after his father Wayne Longergan killed the boy's mother in her fashionable Beekman Place apartment in 1943.

The father was convicted of second-degree murder of his estranged wife Patricia. He is serving 35 years to life.

Through the death of his mother, the boy became the only living heir of her grandfather, wealthy brewer Max E. Bernheimer, who died in 1913 and whose widow died last year.

An accounting of the estate filed yesterday in Surrogate's Court showed the boy will inherit $7,809,918 as soon as the accounts are approved. He has already received $3,059,198 of this sum, the record showed.

William now lives with his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Lucille Wolfe Burton, who has been his guardian since shortly after his father was imprisoned.

U.S. senators of 1790 had a median age of 50 compared with 56 today.

Socorro School Board Defies State Group

By The Associated Press
The Socorro County school board was on record today defying the State Board of Education. State School Supt. Georgia Lusk said she does not know at this time what state officials can or will do about it.

Socorro County School Supt. Dido Sales said the county board passed a resolution that "school children be transported to schools outside their districts, principally the La Joya district which is independent of the Socorro County system."

This was contrary to one of a set of recommendations recently made by the state board, which had criticized what it called an "unsatisfactory school situation in Socorro County."

Mrs. Lusk said today "I don't know what to say" about the county board's defiance.

Salas, leader of one faction, reported that a county board majority which has been in the camp of State Sen. T.C. Jaramillo, La Joya Superintendent, refused to go along with state board recommendations.

Mrs. Lusk said the state board might discuss the Socorro situation in Albuquerque Thursday.

"My thought is that these people are inexperienced and uninformed," she added. "I think they must imagine that they have to do these things in order to save the schools. They are not completely wrong they are ruining the whole school situation. The state board tried to be very considerate of all factions in pointing out its interpretation of the law regarding school administration. The state board did it as nicely as it could. It was not arrogant or over-demanding or anything of that sort, but simply pointed out things that should be done. And these people the Socorro board majority have seen fit to take completely the opposite action."

Astrologer Is Blamed for Death of Four

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Police today blamed an astrologer's prediction for the death of a family of five.

They said a soothsayer told Madan Mohan Lal, 45-year-old government cashier, that he would die by his own hand before June 30, after bringing great distress to his family.

Lal worried about the prediction so much that he stabbed his wife and three children to death, then threw himself under a speeding train.

Explorer Dies Sunday

SOUTHPORT, England (AP)—Frederick John Hooper, antarctic explorer who found the body of Capt. Robert Scott near the South Pole, died yesterday at his home here. He was 64.

Hooper sailed around the world three times before joining Scott's last expedition in 1912, at the age of 18. When Scott failed to return from an advance exploratory trip, Hooper went out with a search party. Spotting a small bamboo pole sticking out of the snow, he unearthed Scott's last camp.

picture of the President yesterday, previously a rare occurrence in the Argentine capital.

Peron also was absent from yesterday's observance of Argentine Flag Day in Buenos Aires—an occasion which he almost never missed in the past. Army officers held the center of the stage at the ceremonies honoring Gen. Manuel Belgrano, who created the nation's blue and white banner.

Peron's activities were not chronicled in detail, but the state radio said he resumed work yesterday after spending Sunday at his residence. The broadcast said he performed his usual official tasks with the aid of his principal assistants.

The new order also appeared bent on playing down one of Peron's prize assets—the memory of his late wife Eva. The government scientist will work together for the common welfare."

At the outset of his address, carried nationwide on all major television and radio networks, the President said he was confining his remarks principally to terms of "my country's unswerving loyalty to the United Nations and the reasons for our tireless support of it."

He added he was doing so because Secretary of State Dulles—"speaking with my full confidence and concurrence"—later in the week will address the anniversary U. N. meeting "on appropriate elements in the foreign policy of this nation."

Although Eisenhower cautiously declined to predict whether next month's Big Four conference will "reach the initial decisions" which could lead eventually to the kind of enduring peace he envisioned, he did say that like the summer of 1945 when the U. N. was born, the summer of this year "is another season of high hopes for the world." He added:

"There again stir in the hearts of men a renewed devotion to the work for the elimination of war. Each of us here is witness that never in 10 years has the will of many nations seemed so resolved to wage an honest and sustained campaign for a just and lasting peace."

"True, none of us can produce incontrovertible evidence to support this feeling. Nevertheless, all of us, I think, will testify that the heartfelt longings of countless millions are abundance and justice and peace seem to be commanding, everywhere, a response from their governments."

MRS. LUSK TO SPEAK
SANTA FE (AP)—State School Supt. Georgia Lusk speaks again Thursday in Albuquerque about her demands that the federal government assume what she calls its just share of the cost of Indian education in New Mexico. Participating in the discussion with her will be W. G. Donley, state director of Indian Education, and O. J. Holder, School Budget Auditor.

ment radio announcer went on the air with the official news broadcasts at 8:30 p.m. last night. Since Mrs. Peron died at 8:25 p.m. on July 26, 1952, that broadcast has been heard nightly five minutes before the half hour, as a memorial.

There also were no more of the bitter attacks on the Roman Catholic Church that the pro-government press has carried on since the feud between Peron and the church broke into the open seven months ago. Peron then accused some of the clergy of seeking to undermine his regime, a charge denied by the church. The feud set off clashes between Catholics and Peron supporters and led to the expulsion from Argentina of two high prelates, including Msgr. Manuel Tato, auxiliary bishop of Buenos Aires. Only a few hours before the revolt broke out Thursday, the Vatican excommunicated all persons having any part in the ouster of Msgr. Tato.

An official announcement said the supreme council of the armed forces would decide the fate of the revolt leaders. These have been identified as Rear Adm. Anibal Oliveri, former navy minister, and two Marine Corps officers, Rear Adm. Samuel Toranzo Geron and Vice Adm. Benigno Gargiulo. The announcement of the council's decision will be held to Peron for approval.

It was also announced that the nearly 1,000 persons wounded in the attacks on Government House and the central Plaza Mayo area Thursday, 300 were in hospitals and 29 were in serious condition. The government's official estimate of the number killed was 174 but Peron in a broadcast Saturday night said 1,000 died.

AROUND THE LONGHORN— Artesia NuMexers Now Back In First Place in League

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Artesia NuMexers moved into the Longhorn League lead last night by virtue of their 2-1 victory over San Angelo.

The losers, tied at the start of the night's play with Midland at the top of the circuit standings, dropped with Midland into second place when Carlsbad beat Midland 12-10.

In the other games, Roswell whitewashed Ouessa 7-0, and Big Spring beat Hobbs 5-3.

Howard singled Herron, who got on base on a fielder's choice home in the sixth at Artesia for the victory. The game was halted at the end of the seventh by rain. In the top of that inning, the losers scored their only run. Howard smashed a homer in the second for the other Artesia score.

Carlsbad ended its scoring in the sixth but claimed victory despite the two runs Midland scored in the top of the eighth. Don Fornal was the winner, partly due to relief pitching by Angel Oliva, who came in in the sixth when the losers scored four times. Oliver Hardy homered inside the park for Carlsbad with two on base in the third.

At Odessa, righthander Pete Simone clamped down on the home-towners. The Roswell hurler gave up only four singles, struck out eight and didn't walk a man. His mates pounded 10 hits, including a two-run homer by Joe Guarino, in the eighth. Jim Carson was charged with the loss.

Marcus Job was the winner at Big Spring. He was relieved in the ninth by Aga Baca after the first two batters reached base. Jim Zapp slammed his 20th homer of the season for Big Spring in the eighth.

The loser was Evillo Hernandez.

Big Spring Win 5-3 Victory From Hobbs

BIG SPRING Big Spring knocked off Hobbs 5-3 here tonight and advanced to within one game of a tie for seventh place in the Longhorn League.

The win was credited to Marcus Job who joined the Couden Cops last week after drawing his release from Abilene.

Job had the Sports eating out of his hand for eight innings but departed in the ninth after the first two batters reached base. Aga Baca came in and retired three men in a row.

Jim Zapp clubbed his 20th home run for Big Spring as the leadoff man in the eighth inning.

The Cops struck for three runs in the third inning on a walk to Nick Cappelli, a single by Frank

Plans Study Of Navajo Program

Officials of a leading child service agency—Save the Children Federation—are planning an intensive two-week study of its programs on the Navajo Indian Reservation. Conducting the survey will be Dr. John M. Nelson, Director of the American Program of the Federation, and Dr. William F. Cole, a Federation consultant and Chairman of the Department of Sociology at the University of Tennessee.

They will visit the Reservation from June 20 to July 1, conferring with officials of the U. S. Government and the Tribal Council and with Mrs. Editha Watson, the Federation's Navajo Area Consultant.

"Special emphasis will be made on the feasibility of setting up community development projects in selected localities on the Reservation," said Dr. Nelson.

Save the Children Federation—with national headquarters at 245 East 46th Street, New York City—currently helps Navajo babies, children, and schools. In addition, its Navajo Health Fund provides handicapped or sick children with free eye glasses, hearing aids, orthopedic appliances, and transportation to hospitals and clinics.

The Federation works not only on the Reservation but also in isolated rural mountains of the United States and in 10 countries overseas. In some of these other areas, the Federation has already inaugurated community development projects in building a better life for themselves and their children.

The New Hampshire state tennis championships will be held the week of July 4, at Crawford Notch for the 50th consecutive year.

Rain Forces Calling of Game Monday

The Artesia NuMexers scored one run in the second and one in the sixth here last night before rain forced calling of the game in the seventh. But Artesia had enough to win over the San Angelo Colts, 2-1.

Tommy Buford, who went the distance, allowed San Angelo four hits. The NuMexers belted Loser Ben Bonine for eight.

The first NuMexer run was off Dan Howard's homerun. Bob Herron scored the second, getting on base on a fielder's choice and coming home on an error.

San Angelo's lone tally came in the seventh. Williams walked and was batted in by Coats, who slapped a double.

The game was held up for 30 minutes before being called.

Sunday night, the NuMexers slammed the league-leaders, 12-4, with Harry Young hurling a four-hitter.

Bobby Boyd hit a double, a triple, and two singles. Artesia's big inning was in the third. The NuMexers got to Loser George Vidal for four hits and six runs in that frame. Paul Dobkowski and Jim Bawcom hit singles. Bob Herron and Dan Howard walked. Howard's walk forced Dobkowski and Wilson hit a sacrifice fly to score Bawcom and Herron. Then, Young singled to score Howard.

Bawcom hit a homerun in the fourth with none on.

The NuMexers will play the Roswell Rockets here tonight. The game was scheduled to be played at Roswell, but Artesia played at Roswell on a home date because of the crowning of the queen of cotton ceremonies.

Potashers Even Two-Game Series

CARLSBAD Potashers evened the two-game series with the Midland Indians here last night, taking a 12-10 victory.

Don Fornal, the Carlsbad starter, picked up the win and George Escobar, Midland starter, suffered the loss.

Highlight of the contest was the fine relief performance of Angel Oliva of Carlsbad, who went four frames and gave up three hits for two runs to assure Fornal the victory.

Oliver Hardy, Potasher second-sacker, got himself an inside the park home run in the third with two mates aboard.

John Treese, former Potasher infielder, came back into uniform at third base in place of hard hitting Goldie Gholson, who is on National Guard duty in Texas.

With only one day to work out, Treese hit two for three, scored one run and had two runs batted in.

Doris Hart Opens Bid Today For Wimbledon Womens Title

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Doris Hart, of Jacksonville, Fla., the sentimental favorite with British fans, opened her bid today to win the Wimbledon women's tennis crown in what she says will be her last appearance in this famed old tournament.

Except for a few men's doubles matches, the girls were involved in all the action in the second day of the two-week grind.

Miss Hart won the title here in 1951 and is just about as well known on British courts as she is in the United States. She is the favorite of the spectators as well as being No. 1 seed now that Maureen Connolly has quit the tournament circuit.

Miss Connolly—now Mrs. Norman Brinker—is on the scene, but she's following the action from the press box. She won the title the past three years.

Miss Hart and her opponent Mrs. Nell Hopman, wife of Australian Davis Cup Captain Harry Hopman, will play on the center court.

The strongest challenger to Miss Hart appears to be her Wightman Cup mate Louise Brough, of Beverly Hills, Calif., who plays Rosemary Walsh of England. Third ranked Mrs. Beverly Fleitz, of Santa Monica, Calif., goes against Mrs. Inge Polmann of Germany.

Angela Mortimer, winner of the French women's title, is Britain's hope.

Already two American men have been relegated to the sidelines. Hamilton Richardson, a Davis Cupper from Baton Rouge, La., dropped a 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 4-6, 8-6 decision to Sven Davidson of Sweden, and Gardner Mulloy, Miami, lost to Tony Mottram of Britain 6-1, 6-4, 6-1 in the first round yesterday.

The eight seeded men, led by defending champion Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, all sailed through their first-round tests.

Second 18-Hole Qualifying Round Opens

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The second 18-hole qualifying round of the National Collegiate NCAA Golf tournament got underway here today with hopefuls taking aim at the amazing six-under par 66 set yesterday by University of Iowa Sophomore John Marshall.

The collegians are shooting for 64 berths for match play starting Wednesday. Thirty-six hole finals are scheduled Saturday.

Team championship will be decided today. Louisiana State's four-man team holds the first day lead with an aggregate score of 234. Team championship is based on the total score compiled by team members during the 36 holes of qualifying play.

Other team scores include North Texas State 233, Purdue 290, Florida and Oklahoma A&M 231, and North Carolina 294.

Southern Methodist, with all four team members back, is defending team champion.

Marshall's sizzing 66 came from five consecutive birdies on the front nine and one bogey and three more birdies on the back nine for 32-34-66. Par for the 6,903-yard Holston Hills Country club course is 36-36-72.

Purdue Sophomore Joe Campbell, with six birdies and two bogies, was two strokes behind Marshall with a 34-34-68 card.

Southern Methodist university law student Floyd Addington, the 1951 national junior champion and Southwest conference champ in 1953, tied with John Pott of Louisiana State with 67, Addington, of Dallas, who carded a 36-33-69, reached the quarter-finals in the 1954 meet at Houston.

Four entrants fired 70s: David G. Damon of the University of Massachusetts 33-37-70; Denny Bolster of Duke university 33-35-70; Rex Barker of Houston and George Clark of North Texas State both 35-35-70.

Last year's champion, Hillman Robbins of Memphis State and runner-up Cecil Calhoun of Louisiana State, were in a group of nine with 71s.

Colorful Wedding Is Planned Thursday

BIG SPRING (AP)—A bit of color will be added to the Big Spring Midland game here Thursday.

Twenty-four-year-old Big Spring Catcher Huck Doe will take Miss Emma Stevens of Garden City, Tex., as his wife in a home-plate ceremony.

Doe is apparently one player who doesn't want anything to interrupt his baseball playing.

Kangaroo Getting Loving Care at Baltimore Zoo

BALTIMORE (AP)—9 10-inch baby kangaroo named Josie may not be able to get back in her own maternal pouch but she's getting plenty of tender loving care from the human race instead.

Josie was the first kangaroo ever born in the Baltimore zoo. Her mother, apparently disgusted because Josie has a limp, expelled her from her home. Josie can't get back from her own accord.

Arthur Katson, zoo director, has put her in the care of Mrs. Louella Earl, who feeds her with an eyedropper.

And Dr. Robert P. Wagers, a veterinarian, has discovered the reason for the limp: tendon has slipped out of place on one hind leg. He thinks surgery can be slipped back in place with the application of a cast.

Hogan Says He's Finished With Golf; Training Reason

DALLAS (AP)—Ben Hogan has reaffirmed that he's quitting competitive golf at least the way he played it—and that leaves only playing tournament golf and playing golf for fun like this.

"Tournaments are won and in the preparation. It's that grind of preparing for them that will cut out. Playing in the tournament itself is where the fun comes in."

But Hogan said he had no thoughts in mind at this time. Rather he's going to plunge into his golf club manufacturing business at Fort Worth and hope for a few exhibitions.

Hogan, who has been playing professional golf for more than 25 years and has won more championships than any other man in the world, was deeply disappointed in losing the National Open.

His wife, Valerie, said it was the greatest disappointment he had in his long and illustrious career. "But he took it so well," she said. "I guess it wasn't meant for him to win it this time. Some day perhaps we'll know why."

Hogan praised Fleck, the virtuoso from Iowa who came in second, for his golf's big prize. "He birdied two of the three holes over that very difficult course," Hogan commented. "That's wonderful golf."

"I played good golf except the didn't putt very well," he said, "I was surprised when Fleck came to tie me. Oakland Hills is a tougher course but Olynx Club, the one at San Francisco, was a better course. "Oakland Hills was where he won his third Open title in 1951."

Hogan grinned wryly when he mentioned that Fleck used Ben Hogan clubs in winning the Open. "If I was going to get beat I'd rather it would be by my own clubs," he said.

A sports writer said it would be unusual to write about golf if there were not a Hogan.

"I never knew anybody except Roosevelt and Hogan," the writer quipped.

"Well, they got a better shot than Roosevelt, you know," Hogan shot back.

Collision Kills Woman

ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—A collision yesterday took the life of Mrs. V. A. Rouse, 55, Albuquerque, and raised this year's state traffic toll to 127. Officers said she fell from her car and was found under one of the three cars involved. Last year on June 21, the state toll was 164.

Seven Three-Day Schools To Be Held For Sheep Raisers At A&M

Seven three-day schools featuring practical training in wool grading and sheep breeding will be held at New Mexico A&M college in July and August, Ivan Watson, extension animal husbandman, announced today.

The first school is slated for July 11, 12 and 13. Subsequent schools will be held on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of each week thereafter in July and August with the exception of Aug. 1, 2 and 3.

The New Mexico Wool Growers, Inc., co-sponsor of the schools, will supply 250 representative New Mexico fleeces of all grades and yields, which will be used to teach wool grading and market values of grease wool.

Conducting the schools will be F. E. Neale, professor of animal husbandry, J. Richard Stauder, extension sheep and wool marketing specialist, William D. McFadden, assistant professor of agricultural economics, and Watson.

"The training sessions have been spread over a two-month period so that ranchers, wool graders, warehousemen, county extension agents, and others may attend of the most convenient dates," Watson said. "In order to provide each grower and agent with the minimum training facilities and equipment, each of the schools will be limited to about 20 trainees. This reason, sheep and wool graders and others who wish to attend a specific school should make reservations at least two weeks in advance, signifying first and second choice dates."

Correspondence regarding schools should be directed to either Watson or Neale at New Mexico A&M college, State College. There will be no charge for the schools.

One hundred and thirty ranchers, wool graders, warehousemen, county extension agents, students from four states attend similar schools at New Mexico A&M last year.

Trend Now Set Toward Milking Pipeline Methods

By E. F. ANDERSON
Extension Dairyman
New Mexico A&M College

It was only yesterday that all cows were milked by hand. Milking 30 cows a day was a full time job for one man. When the milking machine entered the picture, one man was able to milk nearly double that number of cows in the same time. And now, in an effort to further increase the efficiency of the milker, the trend is towards the pipeline milking system. By this method, the milk goes directly from the cow to the pipeline and on into the milk room where it empties into cans or a bulk holding tank. With this system the common practice is for one man to milk 70 or 80 cows a day. On one large dairy in New Mexico, the operation is streamlined to the point where each milker milks 102 cows in an eight-hour day.

While pipeline milking has greatly increased labor efficiency, it has at the same time created a problem in production testing. This problem is that of accurately weighing and sampling milk from individual cows on the day the tester visits the dairy.

Since some cows react unfavorably to any unusual conditions, it is only natural that such animals may be disturbed by the change in procedure on test day. The fact that they are, is borne out by statements made by some of our dairymen. They say that the difference in routine on test day disturbs some of their cows to the extent that the tester is unable to get representative weights and samples of milk.

In order to disturb the cows the least, there are several important things to observe in weighing and taking samples. The least noise and confusion, the greater possibility that milk production on test day will be the same as any other day. It requires time for some cows to adjust to any change. One dairyman made the statement that he takes care of this problem by keeping an old bucket in the milking barn and rattling it each day. In other words, he tries to make conditions the same every day as they are on test day.

Keeping a radio going fairly well will help drown out test-day noises loud all the time and every day. The successful dairyman has to practice good cow psychology all the time and be especially alert on test day.

Since pipeline milking came onto the scene, numerous sampling methods have been devised. The use of the old milk pail, either as formerly used or with some changes, is the most common way of obtaining each cow's milk separately for weighing and testing.

When used normally, the milk is poured from the milk pail into the tester's pail for weighing and sampling. From there it is carried to the milk room or emptied into a container connected to the pipeline and thus drawn into the pipeline system.

Another method is the use of the old milk pail to which a petcock is fitted at the bottom for sampling. This pail is hung on an ordinary milk scale which is done by bubbling air through the milk. The tester draws a sample from the petcock after which the milk is drawn into the milk line through a hose attached to the bottom of the pail.

There is another point that needs emphasis for those who bubble air through the milk for mixing before taking a sample. According to a recent study, it was found that milk drawn from the bottom of a container immediately after a cow is milked without mixing may test at least one-fourth per cent less than when properly mixed. This indicates that butterfat rises very fast. To get adequate mixing by air, the study showed that air must be bubbled through the milk for one second for each pound of milk in the container.

A third method occasionally used in small herds is milking one cow at a time with the tester taking from the can in the milk room. Doubtless other methods will be worked out and those now in use will be improved upon to make weighing and sample taking easier and more accurate. The various companies who manufacture pipeline equipment now provide built-in device in the milk line for weighing and sampling each cow's milk individually. It is quite evident that the milking procedure followed on test day must be somewhat different than the regular routine. Test day makes more work for the dairyman. He must discard his new way of milking and go back to the old. He must either find some extra help on test day or spend a longer day in the barn.

I have great confidence that when a dairyman realizes the necessity of testing he will work out a way of getting a representative sample for his particular system. Even though they may never have tested before, most dairymen are now convinced that unless they can afford the luxury of some star boarders in their herds, testing is a "must" with a pipeline system. With either hand-milking or with a bucket-type milking machine, the milker has an opportunity to ascertain to some degree how much milk each cow gives even though it is not weighed. But with pipeline milking it is impossible to even guess at what a cow is producing.

Not knowing what a cow is producing can sometimes be very detrimental from the health standpoint. Frequently, sickness can be prevented if detected in time. Usually the first symptom is a drop in production. With pipeline milking there is now way of knowing when a cow is off in production.

Agronomy Head Awarded Service Medal

STATE COLLEGE, N. M. —

John C. Overbeck, head of the agronomy department at New Mexico A&M college, has been awarded a certificate and medal by the U.S. Department of Agriculture in recognition of 30 years of service.

Since 1924, Overbeck has been agent for the sugar beet section of the USDA. This has been a cooperative project between the USDA and the New Mexico A&M Experimental station. The sugar beet seed industry in the United States originated as a result of the cooperative program at the New Mexico A&M experimental station.

While that work has now been discontinued, the USDA still considers New Mexico an ideal place to carry on research in sugar beet disease resistant varieties, according to Overbeck. Complete costs of these research programs have been paid directly or indirectly from federal funds.

New Officers Of Association Are Elected At Meet

New officers of the New Mexico Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association are Carl Schmitt, Kirtland, president; Rupert Mansell, Elida, vice-president; James Leger, Las Vegas, secretary; Ronald Cunningham, Anthony, treasurer; and Otto Dillon, Tucumcari, reporter.

They were elected last week at the Association's annual state convention and workshop held on the campus of New Mexico A&M College.

The new officers and Ross Duke House, and Lloyd Danforth, Dexter, will comprise the Association's board of governors for the ensuing year. Ex-officio member of the board is Fowell Payton, Clayton, past president of the state Association.

Theme of the annual conference workshop was practical farm electricity. Workshop instructors were vocational agriculture teacher Parker Woodul and Bruce Cox, Portales; Ramsey Groves, Floyd; John Short, Artesia; Rupert Mansell, Elida; L. A. McCasland, Melrose; M. D. Wallace, Ft. Sumner; and Dale Sawyer, Rogers.

Cooperation in the preparation and presentation of instructional materials for the workshop was the Inter-Industry Electrification Council of New Mexico. Supervising the conference and workshop at the state level were L. C. Dalton, state supervisor, and J. L. Perrin, assistant state supervisor of agricultural education.

Principal speaker at the final session of the annual conference was Mrs. Georgia Lusk, New Mexico superintendent of public instruction. Dalton closed the conference with a report on accomplishments in New Mexico for 1954-55.

Being Called "Cow Man" Is Sign That You Have Arrived As A Good

When your fellow dairyman can truly say you're a good "cow man," you've arrived. You have reached the top of the dairy heap. You have conquered the art of getting the most out of your cows with a minimum of effort. You've got that "something" that intangible "know-how" that is partially lacking in the run-of-the-mill dairyman. This natural cow instinct, love of animals, and ability to get along with the bovine species are some of the qualifications that cannot be defined. But let's take stock of some of the outward characteristics of a good "cow man" that stand out like an oasis in the desert.

The good "cow man" never hurries, hits or hollers at a cow. Since all his movements among his animals are quiet and gentle, they seldom become upset or afraid. His theory is that an excited or scared cow and an excited and scared jackrabbit give about the same amount of milk. He treats his cows like living creatures, endowed with feelings and emotions—not like factory milking machines.

He does everything he can to keep his cows comfortable. He protects his cows against flies and provides shades in the summer and a well-bedded loafing shed in the winter. Water at a desirable temperature is kept before them continuously.

He milks at approximately the same time each day—not 5 o'clock one afternoon and 6:30 the next. When he milks, he milks fast and then immediately removes the machine. And it isn't yanked off so the teats snap like a rubber band.

He learns what should be put in the front end to get milk out of the bottom end. And he put it there if he's got it or can get it. He feeds dry cows and growing heifers just as though they will someday be milking. He doesn't short change them because for the time being they aren't giving milk.

He watches out for mastitis, milk fever and all other ailments and either takes care of the situation himself or enlists Doc's help. He never sells milk that he wouldn't feed his own family. He believes that a top-quality product is a "must" in profitable quantity merchandising.

The cow tester is his best friend. The good "cow man" realizes that production records are the yardstick to more economical feeding of concentrates and the criteria to heifer replacements. To him, cow testing doesn't cost, it pays. He doesn't keep a cow for her company—she either puts out or goes out (of the herd).

Roy Campanella of the Dodgers has a new hobby in addition to his miniature railroad trains. He now raises tropical fish.

Nelson Principal Speaker At State REA Convention

About 65 representatives of New Mexico rural cooperatives attended the recent state REA convention at Las Vegas.

Principal speaker was Ancher Nelson, national REA administrator. Nelson told the group that "grass roots initiative has paid off in our program. Local people have done much to stimulate the use of electricity on the farm."

Pointing to the impressive growth of rural electrification, Nelson said, "after 20 years of rural electrification cooperatives, more than five million farms or 95 per cent of the total in the United States are electrified. REA systems (850 electric co-ops) serve 53 per cent of these farms with electricity."

"Back in 1935 only 3.3 per cent of the farms in New Mexico were electrified," Nelson stated. "Today, more than 75 per cent have electricity."

Loans to co-ops in the state during this fiscal year, he said, will total $2,262,000. Nationally, he said loan funds for the fiscal year 1956 will be ample. About $185 million have been set aside for installation and improvement loans to local co-ops.

Nelson said he expects all power requirements in the United States to double by 1965 and triple by 1975. This, he pointed out, will mean a stronger agriculture and a stronger America.

The annual convention featured a business meeting of directors, reports from committees, and election of officers.

Come prove it to yourself by taking the "100-Million-Dollar Ride!" It's a driving thrill that no other car can give you... with America's finest family of V-8 engines to choose from... up to 300 hp; mightiest of all! Teamed, mind you, with PowerFlite automatic no-clutch drive... which for honey-smooth take-off power leaves even "second best" out of sight!

Chrysler is a big car. Low, long and sleek. It has fashion experts coining new terms to fit it, like "tailored steel." Yet, thanks to countless exclusive drive-features (all Chrysler-originated) it handles as easy as a wave of your hand. There's Full-time Power Steering, for one. Chrysler Power Brakes, for another. Extra large... extra easy to apply... extra safe stopping power!
