Update Given On High Plains Cotton Crop

The Bailey County Extension Agent, Curtis Preston, reports that recent sunshine and warm temperatures have been a blessing to area crops after the cool, wet spell we had late last month. Corn harvest has resumed and appears to be in full swing. Stalk rot disease is evident in some area fields and lodging has occurred in many area fields. It is too early to tell the effect it will have on corn yields, he explained. Cotton conditions seem to vary from field to field. Some fields have a high percentage of damaged or discolored leaves and other fields tend to have a high percentage of normal leaves. These fields will have the best chance to mature. Most area cotton still has the potential for some weight gain and fiber development.

An exception may be where leaves are already turned brown and died, he noted.

Although High Plains cotton growers have no control over the weather, they can manage the harvesting timing of their crops to stay one jump ahead of potential weathering losses this fall.

According to weather statistics, the five-year average frost date for Lubbock is in late October. For Muleshoe, that date is almost two weeks earlier, in the middle of the month.

"As harvest approaches, growers have the opportunity to protect the yield and quality of their crop through harvest aid management," says James Supak, Extension Cotton Specialist with Texas A&M University in Lubbock. "Harvest aid management can speed harvest and minimize potential weathering losses once harvestable bolls are mature."

At stake is the potential for 3.1 million acres of cotton plants which had been expected to yield some 3.2 million bales of lint, but have been buffeted by insects and capricious weather all year. Several veteran crop watchers now are predicting a crop nearer 2.8 million bales.

Heavy rains and abnormally cold temperatures in mid-September have left many cotton growers wondering if the 1991 growing season is over for an already late crop, says Dr. James R. Supak, cotton agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service here. "The most immediate concerns deal with the prospect of permanent injury to the crop following several days of cloudy, rainy weather and minimum temperatures in the low 40's, Supak said.

Undoubtedly, the weather extremes will accelerate leaf aging, the cotton specialist said. Many older leaves, especially those damaged earlier by moisture stress and aphids, will discolor and defoliate during the first sunny days, he noted.

"However, the remaining grown leaves should still be at least partially functional and continue producing photosynthates that will contribute to lint and seed weight once sunny days and favorable temperatures return," Supak said.

Although fiber development and other plant functions slowed or even stopped after temperature dropped below 60 degrees Fahrenheit, the plants can

Large Crowd Attends Town Meeting Tuesday

On Tuesday, October 4, the Muleshoe Area Industrial Foundation held a Community-Wide public meeting held at the high school auditorium.

Approximately 271 area citizens were in attendance.

Jay Messenger, Project Chairman of the Muleshoe Area Industrial Foundation introduced William Barry, Director of Management Services with the Texas Department of Criminal Justice, Institutional Division. He also introduced Allen Sapp, Terry Wunderlich, Ed Grear and Mike Proctor.

The purpose of the public meeting was to inform area citizens of the proposed prison being sought by MAIF.

If approved, this type of facility would provide 1,000 to 2,250 beds. The unit would provide employment for 300 to 800 people in jobs ranging from clerical to correctional officers and unit administrators. Annual payroll of the facility would range from over $6 million to about $17 million, depending on the type of facility approved for this area.

Mr. Barry stated the it would be a tremendous economic benefit for the city of Muleshoe. He said that the city would benefit from the prison facility paying its utility bills as well as other necessities necessary to operate the facility.

A slide presentation was shown of the different types of facilities now being operated. In the slide presentation it showed that a maximum/security type unit would be a 2,250 facility, while a minimum/security facility would provide 1,000 beds.

Snyder, Childress, and Lamesa have all three recently secured a prison through a proposal process. This same type of proposal is being sought by MAIF. These towns now boast of an increased housing market, increased retail sales, lower unemployment, and an

JIM COOK

District Governor Speaks to Rotary

Muleshoe's chapter of Rotary met Thursday, October 1 in its regular session at the Bailey County Civic Center with about 60 members and guests attending. Rev. Curtis Shelburne provided background music. President Randy Field recognized 16 visitors, several of whom were wives of members who were present for the talk given by special guest Jim Cook, District Governor.

After Jay Messenger announced the importance of attending the meeting for public support of locating a prison facility here in Bailey County and its schedule Tuesday evening, Randy Field introduced Cook.

Jim Cook, Amarillo veterinarian and District Governor of Rotary International, has called on Muleshoe Rotarians to look beyond themselves to fulfill Rotary's ideals.

Citing the theme of Rotary International President Rajenda K. Saboo, the new district governor said the role for each member is "to be Rotary, not just belong to Rotary."

"Rotary is a force of over a million community and world leaders in 172 countries," said Cook. "We are a good and near perfect democracy with a vision to help others beyond ourselves."

Citing the world wide service club's scholarship and group study exchange programs and the Health, Hunger and Humanity project to improve the quality of life in the Third World, Cook urged members to personify Rotary's objectives.

"Philosopher William James said, 'The greatest use of life is to spend it for something that will outlast it.'" Rotary's founder, Paul Harris, knew this and spent his life developing an organization dedicated to the principle of Service Above Self," Cook concluded.

The new district governor is charged with the leadership of 2,700 Rotarians in District 5730 which extends from Perryton to Pecos and from Sweetwater to Denver City. In his current round of club visitations, Cook is conferring with local leaders, reviewing club projects and

Fall Football Highlights

The conference heating-up process starts Saturday with heavy match-ups in at least four leagues as the initial month's warm-up period comes to an end. From now on it's for keeps in the Big Ten, the Pac-10, the Southwest Conference and the Big Eight.

The two pre-season favorites for the Big Ten title, Iowa and Michigan, tangle in Iowa City. The Hawkeys are the defending champions, and Michigan will probably be the toughest challenge they'll face in the conference. Iowa nipped the Wolverines 24-23 in 1990 on its way to the Rose Bowl, and, playing at home, is in good position to upset Michigan again. The Wolverines are coming off a difficult at home against Florida State. A tough one to call, Iowa.

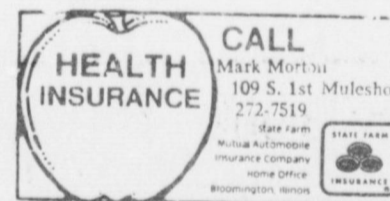

In the Southwest Conference, the headliner will be played in Houston as the Cougars host Baylor. Last fall, Houston scored 511 points to edge Brigham Young by a single point to take honors as the highest scoring team in college football. The Baylor Bears have already flexed their muscles with a big 16-14 upset win over Colorado while Houston fell heavily to Miami 40-10 and to Illinois 51-10. Last year, Houston beat Baylor 31-15. This year, Baylor.

Our forecasting average edged a little higher to .746 based on 456 wins and 155 losses through games of Saturday, September 21. In the West, Pac-10 hopefuls California and U.C. L.A. meet in Los Angeles. The Bears are 3 and 0, having beaten up on Purdue 42-18 and more recently beating Arizona 23-21. This will be the Bruins' first conference game with memories of last year's 38-31 loss at the hands of California. U.C.L.A. is at home, and we're looking for the Bruins to win.

In the Big Eight, Oklahoma, apparently back on track, travels to Iowa State in a bit of a revenge match-up. The Cyclones beat the Sooners last fall 33-31. The winner Saturday, Okohama.

What children think of home determines how much they stay at home. It's strange how often you get a person's opinion without asking for it.

Museum Celebrates Heritage

A celebration of our western and pioneer heritage, featuring music, cowboy poetry, craft demonstrations, children's activities and much more is planned for Saturday, October 5, at the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum in Canyon. All activities will take place on the lawn area north of the museum building from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Among the reenactment groups will be representatives from the 4th Cavalry Group of Amarillo with historically accurate presentations of this area's military history. Mike VanDeventer serves as coordinator for this group.

Dave Mitchell, Don Dollar, and Jerry Hays will be dressed in period clothing of the mountain men and traders of the 1830s and 1940s. They will be doing first person interpretations with a camp set up and trade items displayed.

The Amarillo Gunfighters originated in early 1991 as the result of co-directors Andy Brown, Daniel McFaul and Joe Coffman's visions of how the Old West could be recreated. They will perform throughout the day.

Several textile demonstrations are planned for the entertainment and education of visitors. Mozelle Foran will demonstrate natural fiber dyeing, Betty Burtz will be doing weaving, and Beth Nelson will demonstrate spinning.

A chuckwagon will be on the grounds, representing the Sterquell Collection. A variety of hands-on activities will be offered by Sherry Hill, director for the Collection.

Members of the Texas Inter-Tribal Indian Organization will also be present to demonstrate and share tribal customs throughout the day.

Other activities include soap making, a trading post, tepee, a photo area (be sure and bring your cameras), and free balloons. Sara Wieck from the Nance Ranch will provide information on Ranch activities and western heritage. Reproduction Indian medicine bags will be for sale, offered by Las Canadas. A variety of food booths will sell buffalo burgers, soft drinks, ice cream and other delicacies throughout the day.

The West Texas Ranch Hands, a three piece band with Bill Smith as lead, will start off the musical entertainment. This country-western band features a base, fiddle and guitar. They will perform from 10-10:30.

Andy Wilkinson is a native Texas singer-song writer from Lubbock whose interest in the history of the West is reflected in his songs. He will be featured on the entertainment stage from 10:30-11:00.

When Chuck Milner speaks and sings of the Cowboy Life, one can readily tell that it truly comes from his heart. You would be hard pressed to find anyone who loves the Cowboy Life more and certainly anyone who loves sharing it more than Chuck Milner. Milner will perform from 11:00-11:30.

The Adobe Walls Dancers will perform from 11:30 to 12:15 armed with new dances, plus old favorites. The group, now in its eighth year, is co-educational Explorer Post No. 565.

Knee-Deep in Bluegrass was formed in 1988. Members Elvin "Tiny" Wade, Max Tow, Maurice McCormick, and Troy Mitchell play a variety of instruments to produce their unique sound. Performance time for Knee-Deep in Bluegrass is 12:15-1:00.

From 1:00-1:30 the Texas Thunder Cloggers will perform. This group was formed in the fall of 1989 by Amarillo dance instructors Edye Busby and Larry DeSierra. In 1990 they competed in Branson, Missouri at Silver Dollar City, one of the premier clogging events nationally, and placed high in several categories.

Jimmy Burson grew up in the cattle business and has a commercial cattle operation. He is Judge at Silverton and plays and sings Western music. He will take the stage from 1:30-2:00.

Winding up the entertainment schedule from 2:00-3:00 will be Dennis Gaines, reciting original western poetry. Gaines is a working ranch hand from Mador, Texas.

Previous experiments prove conclusively that broomcorn can be successfully and profitably raised in the Plains country, and this crop is worthy of consideration as one of the substitute crops for cotton and wheat at their present low prices. Prospective supplies of broomcorn for the coming year are below requirements, according to recent reports. Choice brush is now selling as high as $117 per ton, good averaging $90, while the poorest grade runs about $50 this year.

Field day at the Lubbock Experiment Station was well attended Tuesday. Sam T. Logan, county agent, and a group of FFA boys and farmers of Bailey County attended and report a very interesting session. The day was spent in going over the many projects at the station in the morning and asking questions of a staff of trained professional agricultural leaders during the afternoon.

The date for the show will be set earlier this year. It will be a bigger and better show with all new scripts and costumes being made by the JayCees. The minstrel this year will include jokes, songs, dances, specialty numbers and ballads by the black-face chorus and quartet.

Kathleen Fogarty, reporter for the Auckland, New Zealand Star, visited the Journal office Tuesday afternoon. Miss Fogarty said this year was her only visit in an American newspaper office since her arrival in the United States three months ago. Coming to the U.S. as a correspondent for her newspaper, she also planned to go to New York City to see her publisher about a book she has written that is scheduled for publication. The book, "Tales of Tiki," is about the mythology of New Zealand's Maori, or natives. Miss Fogarty said Tiki was the first man in the world, according to the Maori belief. She has made a thorough study of the Maori religion and folklore. The Journal was promised a copy of the book to review upon its publication.

Harold Cowen Wins Weekly Football Contest

Well football fans, what seemed to be a pretty tough contest for some contestants, proved to be somewhat easy for several contestants.

With several contestants each missing four games apiece, we had to go to the double tiebreakers to determine our winners.

Taking first place for this week was Harold Cowan who was 19 points off the tiebreakers. For his efforts he will receive 10 points toward the grand prize and a $10 check.

Placing the second and third place winners was a very close race to the finish line.

Keith Hicks was determined our second place winner, and he will receive 6 points toward the grand prize as well as a $7.50 check. Following closely behind Hicks was Donnie McDonald, who was 26 points off the double tiebrakers.

McDonald will receive a check for $5.00 and 4 points towards the big prize.

Other contestants who each missed four games include: Jimmie Chapman who missed out of the third place slot, was off 27 points of the tiebreakers. Ruth Malone was 30 points; Tom Burgess 31pts.; and Alma Orozco finished off the list of contestants. She missed four games and was 39 points off the double tiebrakers.

With the Missouri-Indiana game ending in a tie, there was no difference in the outcome of the contest.

Also, remember you are only allowed one entry per contest each week.

Be sure to keep those entries coming in, as you still have a chance for the grand prize of $150.00.

Creative Classes Write Characterizations

Students in creative writing class at Muleshoe High School have recently completed characterizations. They were to choose a person who has had an impact on their lives and characterize that person by incorporating a variety of ideas. Mrs. Pat Watson is the teacher for this class, which is an elective open to juniors and seniors.

GIL LAMB
by Gilbert Rennels

They knew his last hours were approaching. They sent for me at school. I walked into the hospital room where various people who were some way connected with our family had gathered. I sat down at his feet. After a few minutes a last seep of air was pushed out of his lungs and he was gone. I gripped one of his hands tightly while the doctor pronounced him dead. As I sat there with his cold hand in mine, I knew this man was with no doubt the greatest man in the world. For my grandfather, however, those words could not always have been true.

Gil Lamb was 16 when he started drinking. He was 39 years old when he found a spiritual fellowship of men and women devoted to keeping each other sober. He enjoyed many years of sobriety through this program.

After becoming involved with radio and television he was loved because of his straight-forwardness. He did not try to hide the fact that he was an alcoholic; he would come out and say it. He was also kind, sympathetic, generous, and charitable. When my mom was a young girl she was left sometimes, to her surprise, with her grandmother because her dad was always going to other towns to help another alcoholic. Alcoholics in this whole part of the country knew that Gil Lamb had the willingness and ability to help anyone, no matter what his problem.

Gil Lamb was also a devoted person to the town of Muleshoe. After the idea of a monument to the mule came about, he became the president of the committee formed for placing it in Muleshoe. Devoted to his town, he labored hard; the Mule Memorial is only one legacy he left his town. For his actions in this and many other projects he worked on he was named the man of the decade in the 70's by the Chamber of Commerce. This once lowly alcoholic had overcome the odds and had become one of the most respected men in Muleshoe.

Now as I sit here, Gil Lamb is in heaven. His body was a shell he used to do his good deeds. As his grandson, those good deeds will always be a part of my life.

THE TRUE FRIEND
by Blanca Sanchez

For sixteen years this strong, but delicate person, who is as fragile as a rose, has been my light in a dark hole. She is loving and active woman who is clever and wise in any situation. When I am puzzled about a problem, she, with her vivacious, but educated way, makes all my foolish worries go away. For example, the time when I was hit with a fishing rod she was there to comfort me, and convinced me that my brain would not fall out. She is not only a special woman, but also a respected and admired person; in fact, everyone looks up to her.

This special person is a perfect role model for anyone. Her life has had ups and downs, but she still keeps a positive outlook on life. She has inspired me to achieve anything I desire or want. She is, and always will be, an outgoing person who is filled with love and charm and is ready to brighten anybody's day.

She is a friend that no one can replace, because no one can offer the love and happiness she does. The affection and attention a mother gives can never be replaced by anyone or anything else.

LOVE
by Ricky Flores

It was a warm night on April 9, 1987. We knew that this would be the end. How could someone so strong and so talented be hurt in that way? I knew in my mind that this would be the last time to say "I LOVE YOU!" My long-suffering thought became a reality.

The morning was still April 10, 1987, and I woke up suddenly. My brother was sitting in a solitary corner, just filled with a numerous amount of tears in his eyes. He stared at me with a gloomy look on his face and said, "When you go into the living room, you must be strong" My weary heart just stopped beating for a couple of minutes. The walk toward the room was drastically long, and my mouth was stale dry.

When I reached my fateful destination, I saw a face that I had loved for a very long period of fourteen years just lying honorably in his bed. At that moment I knew he was gone. My father had left this world and gone to a better one. My life seemed to just shatter all of a sudden.

The man that inspired me so much had left, but his memory lives on. I was deeply inspired by the way my father tried to fight a disease that has never been defeated. He had an uplifting amount of courage. Every day for him would be the same; nothing would change. He lived on machines for two years, not being able to say a word. He could not move or gripe at us; he could just give very puzzled looks. Oh how I loved him.

It is very hard waking up every day and not hearing the words, "Rise and Shine." A day never goes by without the thought of him lingering in my head. He was a wonderful man with a bright cheery smile and personality; he is still that person in my memory. Although he is not with us anymore, I know he still loves me. I never hesitate a day to say, "Dad, I LOVE YOU and MISS YOU!"

MY MOTHER
by Corrie Savuto

She can remember the first time she saw me long before my first memory. It was the day I was born and she just held me in her arms and thanked God for me. Today I thank God for her.

As I grew, she helped me through my day-to-day trials and smiled with me when I experienced joys. She helped me prepare a funeral for my pet fish and later made me realize things change when someone covered my fish's burial ground with cement. She let me have a puppy and then found her a good home when we moved overseas. She clapped for me when I finally learned to ride a bike and encouraged me when the children at school kept teasing me about my freckles and red hair and she reminded me that God made me special.

Her blue eyes have always been a comfort to me and looking at her tall, svelte body has encouraged me to lose weight and wish I was tall. Her theatrical ability has helped me visualize true gracefulness and try to be the same.

The first time we moved she helped me to survive the transition. If a friend hurt me, she convinced me to forgive and forget. Whenever a very close friend backstabbed me, she became angry for me.

I can remember our first real fight. We started out screaming at each other, but ended crying and hugging each other. Our anger never remains for long. No matter how hard I try to be upset with her, something happens and we are back laughing and having a good time.

Although at times her religious habits have embarrassed me, they have also been exemplary for me and have helped formulate my ideas. She has always been friendly and a good cook; because of her hospitality, I have been encouraged to be the same. Even when entertaining, at times, she is quite thrifty, but her generous side appears occasionally. No matter how hard I try to be different from her in certain aspects, I always end up acting the same.

Through all our experiences, hardships and excitements, she has always been there. No matter how cruel or thoughtless I have been, she has been tolerant and has loved me. She is always encouraging and helpful, and I call her Mom.

MY HERO
by Tina Copley

Once upon a time, a girl lived who didn't like herself very much. She wasn't outgoing like many of the girls her age. She had no great talents or friends. She assumed that life was just there to get through to reach bigger and better things.

In desperation, she searched for a hero, for someone to trust and look up to. She did admire a man once; but, as all men do, He made a life-changing mistake and she lost all respect for Him. During her first high school years, she did find friends, but all they were interested in was what she could do for them. One day during the summer before her junior year, she discovered that there was Someone she could look up to. He had been there all along, and He had never failed. He had been helping her throughout her life, but before, she only came to Him in her deepest desperation. As she relied on Him more, He helped her in every way. He taught her how to be a better friend, He comforted her when she was hurting, He answered her every doubt, and He fulfilled her fondest dreams. Even though she often failed Him, all she had to do was ask, and He would be there.

He showed her how to respect and love herself as well as others. Every promise He made to her was fulfilled and she now knows that she can never repay Him. All she can do is keep Him close to her and hope others will see His love. He often helps her correct her shortcomings, but He never reminds her of past mistakes.

This Man has become so much to her and she often wonders why. Looking back, she realizes that she had known of Him all her life. She even talked to Him as a young child. It wasn't until the summer before her junior year that He became so much to her. He knew everything about her and He would give her anything she needed. She realized that she had always asked Him for many things, but it wasn't until that beautiful day in August on 1990 that she decided to give Him something. He wanted everything hidden inside; all of the pain, failures, shortcomings, and rejections. In return for these things, He promised her everything. Today, the changes in her life are obvious. He gives her a purpose for living, life, love, dreams, confidence, comfort, peace, and victory. When He became the most important part of her life, He not only met her needs, He also began to show everything she wanted. The process still continues. Obviously, I am the girl in this story.

The "bigger and better" things did come, but I did not have to die for them because this Man already did. Because He died, I can be happy. It is not always easy to be optimistic and sometimes it will be hard, but He went through everything I go through. He cried tears of rejection; He faced temptation; He forgave those who hurt Him; He loved those who hated Him. How can I do less? He is gone from the earth but not from my life because I have made Him my Hero and He will never disappoint me. I know I will disappoint Him, but my prayer is that He will show me how to please Him more every day. With every failure and every ounce of pain I experience, He builds me up to endure and overcome anything this life may hand me. With every victory and every ounce of joy I experience, I am reminded that I can do all things through Christ who truly does strengthen me.

The little girl who once disliked herself has found love, happiness, and self-esteem. She will, indeed, "live" happily ever after.

The main purpose of education is to teach people to think.
