Bailey County Achievement Banquet Honors 4-Hers

Representing the culmination of hours of dedicated work to their clubs and community, 4-Her, their parents and several friends of 4-H were honored

Sunday, October 6 at the Bailey County Civic Center. Approximately 75 citizens of all ages gathered at 1 p.m. to attend the 1991 Bailey County 4-H Achievement Banquet.

Melissa Bennett, mistress of ceremonies, introduced Marianne Toombs who gave the invocation. Melissa Toombs led the group in the pledge of allegiance. Melissa Bennett led the 4-H motto and pledge.

The banquet welcome was given by Frank McCamish of the Bailey County Electric Cooperative, Inc. and the response was given by Charla Holt. Ms. Holt said, "The Bailey County 4-H Clubs would like to thank Mr. McCamish and the Bailey County Electric Cooperative for providing this annual achievement banquet. The Cooperative has made our banquet possible for the past several years as a means of encouraging 4-Hers to become aware of the differences 4-H makes. As 4-Hers grow and become tomorrow's leaders, we want to assure Mr. McCamish and the electric cooperative that we, as Bailey County 4-Hers, pledge our best efforts toward this goal. In the future, we also pledge our own support and encouragement to those 4-Hers who will follow us."

Special guests at the banquet were Bailey County Commissioner for Precinct One R. L.

Scott and his wife Doris, Bailey County Electric Cooperative manager Duane Lloyd and his wife Loretta, Frank McCamish and his wife Melba, Bailey County Electric Cooperative director Lewis Wayne Shafer and his wife Wanda, Bailey County Judge Marilyn Cox and her husband Reagan, and former Bailey County Agricultural Extension Agent J. K. Adams and his wife Margaret.

County Extension agents Curtis Preston and Kandy K. McWhorter presented over 50 awards in the various areas of achievement. Each year the Bailey County 4-H Council presents an award to a 4-H leader who has devoted much time and energy to the 4-H program. This year the award went to Gayla Toombs. Her husband Gary accepted the award for Gayla who could not be present.

The Council also presents the Friend of 4-H award to a person who has supported the 4-H program in Bailey County for

In last Friday night's game the Muleshoe Mules lost to Amarillo River Road Wildcats 24-6.

The Mules took the opening kick-off and gained several yards behind the driving force of Marvin Lewis. Lewis was able to rack up about 15 more yards before the Mules were forced to punt the ball to the Wildcats.

Taking possession of the ball with 10:20 showing on the clock, the Wildcats managed to move the ball and gained about 33 yards before the Wildcats were forced to punt the ball back to the Mules.

The Mules were forced to punt the ball back to the Wildcats with 5:05 left in the quarter.

River Road capitalized on the Mule punt and were able to make it into the endzone with 3:37 showing on the clock. The point after try by Jimmy Cook was blocked.

After several attempts to move the ball, the Mules were forced to punt the ball back to the Wildcats who scored again with :30 seconds left in the quarter.

Having possession of the ball once again, the Mules managed to rack up some yardage before having to punt the ball back to the Wildcats at 10:33 in the second quarter.

For the remainder of the quarter the teams saw-sawed back in forth with control of the ball with neither team being able to move it.

Valley Grain Sells

Richard Berket informed the Journal Wednesday morning that ADM had purchased Valley Grain in August. They now have operations in California, Muleshoe and Kentucky and operate under ADM Milling Co. in Kentucky.

The dry milling operation manufactures MISA flour which is the fastest growing item in the food industry.

"With the purchase of the Muleshoe plant this gives us a geographical presence in the market. The California and Muleshoe plants gives us the largest operations in the southwest and in Kentucky the largest in the east.

"We are not consumer producers we sell to other food companies. We are very pleased to be operating in Muleshoe and with restructuring we hope to expand and have continued growth, although it is impossible to make a statement as to if there will be any changes made in the operation at this time," Berket continued.

News From Bob Bullock

Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock warned Monday that Texas is losing the war on poverty and the federal government is threatening to make matters worse.

"Our poverty population is increasing despite improvements in the overall economy," Bullock said. "We are gaining new poverty population by birth and by unemployment and underemployment in the workforce."

Bullock said "it is one thing to argue as to why this happens and how to cure it, but it is another thing to confront the more immediate question as to how these people--particularly the children--are going to eat and get even minimal medical care."

"We increased human services spending by $3.7 billion in the budget for the next two years, but even that vast amount of money will do no more than hold our own in some area and fall backwards in other areas of service--because of the increasing poverty population, the increasing costs of medical services and the federal government's expansion of benefits," Bullock said.

And the situation will worsen quickly, Bullock said, if the Bush Administration goes through with its threat to cut $800 million in charity medical money expected by 109 local hospitals and hospital districts and state teaching hospitals which serve a disproportionate share of low income Texans.

"They are changing the rules in the middle of the game. We adopted a budget in good faith and now they want to jerk the rug out from under these hospitals and these Medicaid recipients who are in dire straits," Bullock said.

Bullock called on the state's congressional delegation--"Republican and Democrat alike," he said--to try to talk the White House out of changing the rules.

Bullock pointed out that federally-mandated expansions in most welfare programs bring more federal money, but at the same time drive up state costs since most programs require the state to put up $1 for every $2 of federal money.

"Medicaid and nursing homes are, of course, the most expensive programs and they are the ones on the fastest increase," Bullock said. "If Texas can't keep up with its end of the deal, then do we face putting some elderly parent out of a nursing home and onto the streets?"

So, in trying to keep up with those programs, Bullock said, Texas has not been able to keep up in other equally critical programs such as aid to families with dependent children. (AFDC).

AFDC payments go to poverty-stricken single-parent families with young children. A maximum monthly allotment of $187 for a family of three has not been increased in Texas since 1986.

Bullock said that last year Texas AFDC went to families whose income was no more than 22 percent of the poverty-level income standard established by the federal government. But this year because of the budget crunch, aid will be limited to families with less than 19 percent of the poverty income figure.

"That becomes important when you know that one of every four Texas kids is growing up in poverty," Bullock said.

"And it becomes even more important when you look down the road and tote up the correlation between poverty backgrounds, school dropouts, drug abuse and criminal activity," he said. "If these kids are our future, what kind of future are we letting happen?"

Cotton's Share
Retail Market

Cotton's share of the retail apparel and home fabrics market, excluding carpets, rose through the first six months of 1991, to 54 percent.

These results came from a survey, commissioned by Cotton Incorporated, conducted by Kurt Salmon Associates (KSA) and based on National Purchase Diary's (NPD's) data base of 11,500 consumer families. The survey tabulated all apparel and home furnishings purchases, excluding carpets, by the families, and broke them down according to fiber weight.

"Cotton's market share is up from 53 percent during the same period last year despite a relatively weak retail market," says Ira Livingston, vice-president of U.S. marketing at Cotton Incorporated. "The increase is significant because it represents growth in a stagnant market."

The men's wear category led cotton's growth in the apparel arena. In the first six months of 1991, cotton accounted for 65 percent, by volume, of all fibers used in men's apparel, according to the survey. This was two points better than the same period of 1990.

The key to happiness in life lies in unselfishness.

Football Highlights

The Miami Hurricanes should get their strongest test since their "test" just one month ago against Houston. That test turned into a 40-10 route for Miami. Saturday, Penn State goes to Miami.

It will be the fourth home game for the Hurricanes in their first six. Since their surprise 21-10 loss to Southern California a month ago, the Nittany Lions have performed as expected, beating both Brigham Young and Boston College.

These two teams haven't seen much of each other over the years. Miami nudged Penn State 17-14 ten years ago during the regular in the Fiesta Bowl following the 1986 season, 14-10. This time around, Miami looks to be tough for Penn State.

One of the traditionally great series in college football has been the annual Oklahoma-Texas fracas. In recent years, it hasn't created that much national attention. This year, it may. After being bombed by the Sooners three years in a row, the Longhorns enjoy a two-game winning streak over Oklahoma. It was 28-24 in 1989 and 14-13 last season. A third straight will be difficult as the Sooners have "returned." Oklahoma is the favorite.

Our forecasting average through games of Saturday, September 28th, climbed to .754 based on 595 right and 194 wrong.

Michigan and Iowa received the pre-season headlines in the Big Ten, but there are a couple of dark horses that will be meeting Saturday - Illinois and Ohio State.

Both teams opened their conference schedules last week against Minnesota and Wisconsin respectively. Illinois should survive this match-up.

Pittsburgh goes to South Bend this week to try to avenge last year's 31-22 loss to Notre Dame. The Panthers destroyed West Virginia in their August opener 34-3, but recently just nipped Minnesota 14-13. Notre Dame will win a close one.

Muleshoe ISD Grading

It's hard to believe, but the first six weeks of this school year ends on Friday, September 27, and that means that report cards will be going home the following week. Grades are a necessary fact of school life from the first day through graduation. They are a kind of shorthand that help teachers and counselors understand what a student has done so far in his school career.

We send grades home to parents as one communication about how students are doing, but they are not meant to be regarded as the sole judge of a student's performance. Many other factors--such as a student's ability, his effort, the difficulty of the course work, personal problems or illness the student may have had during the grading period have a great impact on the grade that shows up on a report card.

How parents react to a child's grades is very important no matter how old the student is. Grades can be an emotional issue between parents and their kids(who doesn't want their child to make "straight A's) but the emotion can be diffused if grades are used as a basis for open communication between parents, teachers, and students.

There is no substitute for an on-going, day-by-day awareness of what and how your child is doing in school. By regularly monitoring progress you will eliminate unpleasant surprises on report card day.

When you get your child's report card, discuss it with your child as objectively as possible. Ask your child what he thinks of his grades. Is he satisfied with them? Do they represent his best effort? Is there room for improvement? Together, you can map out a strategy for improvement, if necessary. Perhaps your child needs some tutorial assistance, or a restriction on television time, or guidance in improving study skills such as a designated place and time for homework.

Finally, never hesitate to talk with your child's teachers or counselor at any time during the school year. We want to do everything we can to make your child's years in school as successful and enjoyable as possible.

Another big event is scheduled on October 8, 9, and 10 for students in grades 3, 5, 7, 9 and 11. These are the days when students all over the state of Texas will be taking the Texas Assessment of Academic Skills (TAAS) Tests.

Students are tested on reading, writing, and mathematics, and the results provide us with valuable information about our students' strengths and weaknesses. Our students and teachers have been working very hard to prepare for this test, and we will do well.

It is sometimes said that we spend time "teaching to the test." I certainly hope so! The TAAS is designed to test material that the State Board of Education requires us to teach, so we better be "teaching to the test." We also spent time with students on test taking skills like budgeting their time, planning their writing assignment, being relaxed during the test, etc. These strategies will help them on any test throughout their school career -- including the SAT or ACT to get into college.

You can help prepare your child, too, by being encouraging and supportive. See that your child gets plenty of rest prior to the tests, dresses comfortably, and gets a good breakfast in the morning. Working together we can help our children do their best on this very important test.

Quilt Lovers Go To Festival

Quilt lovers from across Texas will greet their U. S. counterparts and needlework artists from abroad as they make the annual fall pilgrimage to Houston for the 17th International Quilt Festival. More than 40,000 visitors will converge on the Astrodome in Houston, October 24-27, for the largest event in the quilt world, called "the World's Fair of Quilting" by Southern Living Magazine.

This year quilters from more than 20 countries will register for classes; many more nationalities will be represented by visitors to the 30 special exhibits mounted for the show. Held in a space equal to six combined football fields, the show will feature 4,000 quilts in the special exhibits and for sale. Visitors can also shop in almost 450 booths showcasing a variety of quilts, quilted apparel, dolls and other collectibles, plus a vast assortment of fabrics, patterns, books and notions for the quilter and textile crafter.

The 1991 International Quilt Festival opens Thursday, October 24, at 10 a.m. Daily hours are 10-7, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, October 24-26, and 10-6, Sunday, October 27. Admission is $6.00 per day with discounts for children and senior citizens over 65. The Astrodome is located immediately adjacent to the Astrodome and ample parking is available at reasonable rates.

Exhibits this year showcase more quilts than ever before in the Festival's 17-year history including first-time quilts, art quilts, international quilts, Russian quilts, patriotic quilts, and more.

The grass-roots exhibit, Labor of Love, is expected to be a highlight of the show. International Quilt Festival launched a challenge to all quilters to make a quilt between Valentine's Day and Labor Day of '91. With 162 shops from around the globe participating, their Peoples' Choices now compete for the grand prize - a free trip to the American International Quilt Association's 1991 Quilt Expo Europa III to be held in Holland next spring. While not necessarily the most intricate or technically perfect, these highly individualized quilts - pieced, appliqued, embroidered and painted - indeed speak from the heart.

To commemorate the 500th anniversary of the discovery of the New World, Old Glory: Long May She Wave, exhibits free-form interpretations of the American flag. Throughout history, flags and banners have been symbols of pride and patriotism, and the unfurling of these will be a fitting tribute to America's Desert Storm troops.

In cooperation with state fairs throughout America, BETTER HOMES AND GARDENS® Books 1991 Blue Ribbon Quilts will bring together the winners from each state for an award-winning display.

A grand prize winner from the pieced and applique categories will be chosen. A new third category selects a Better Homes Foundation Quilt to be auctioned or raffled to support the homeless.

The annual judged show of quilts made by members of the American International Quilt Association consistently features the best in quilt art, and this exhibition is included each year in conjunction with International Quilt Festival. In Quilts: A World of Beauty, members compete for ribbons in categories from traditional pieced and applique to the most unique art quilts, all vying for the coveted Best of Show Award and Founders' Award.

Quiltmaking is a mystery to many who attend the Festival - they appreciate the beauty of the quilts on display, but have no first-hand knowledge of the sewing process. Volunteers from area quilt guilds, coordinated by the Quilt Guild of Greater Houston, each year teach hundreds of visitors to piece and quilt their own small projects, fostering an appreciation of the time and craftsmanship involved in making a fine quilt.

Many experienced quilters learned to piece using the ordinary Nine Patch. In Nine Patch x Nine, this extraordinary exhibit demonstrates the artistry of design that can be achieved by combining the classic pattern block with plain squares to create interlocking designs, transparent effects, and unusual optical effects.

Come Quilt with Me, an opportunity to rest weary feet and meet fellow quilters while taking a few stitches, revives the old-fashioned quilting bee. Volunteers will instruct those who have never quilted on a frame.

Other exhibits of special interest include "Yes Mam!" quilts, consisting of fund-raising quilts created to make possible mammograms among low income women. This exhibit is presented to call attention to October as National Breast Cancer Awareness Month. Also, for the first time ever seen outside New York, From Russia with Love, a display of Russian quilts and garments sponsored by Cultural Contacts International of New York, will be on view at Festival.

"America's most available art form" - the quilt - has been part of almost every household at some time, and most Texans share some knowledge of them. Over the past decade, however, interest in quilt-making has created an astonishing groundswell of innovation elsewhere - in Japan, South Africa, Finland, Chile, Turkey - fashioning a common language for those who painstakingly transform bits of fabric into flourishing artistic expression.

Necessity is the last and strongest weapon.

Rocking Helps Moms Who Deliver By Cesarean Section

Rocking chairs can help relieve mothers' abdominal discomfort following cesarean section, according to research from The University of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston (UTMB).

The surgical trauma and anesthesia of a cesarean section can often cause intestinal gas problems (such as abdominal pain and bloating) in mothers. Researchers at UTMB reported in the Journal of Perinatal and Neonatal Nursing that adding daily sessions of rocking helped prevent and relieve this abdominal pain.

The show is announced by Sara Wieck, Director of Headquarters for the Nance Ranch. Wieck says, "Nelson, who owns the gallery Spanish Skirts on the Square in Canyon, also sells her handwovens in galleries in Santa Fe. She will be demonstrating her craft at various times during the month of October."

New Eyes For Needy Celebrates 60th Year

New Eyes for the Needy is about to celebrate its 60th year of helping the needy. In honor of this milestone, the organization has set a goal of 1,000,000 pairs of eyeglasses to be recycled during 1992. What started as a simple idea--recycling used eyeglasses for those who couldn't afford to buy their own--has become a nationwide cause. Radio Stations in almost every state will be sending forth public service announcements for New Eyes requesting eyeglasses for recycling.

"We were into recycling long before there was such a word," says Patricia McGinley, President of New Eyes for the Needy.

"We have never solicited a single penny," continued Mrs. McGinley. "We only ask people for what they're about to throw away."

This Short Hills, New Jersey organization grew out of an idea of Mrs. Arthur Terry of Short Hills when she worked during the Depression as a volunteer in a Red Cross food depot in New York City. There she processed the food tickets which many recipients couldn't see to sign. She began by collecting used glasses from friends to give to the poor, but she soon broadened her recycling effort with the help of good publicity.

A non-profit organization, New Eyes for the Needy has helped over 4 million people to see. The organization has its own building in Short Hills where over 170 volunteers have been taught to sort and classify the donated eyeglasses.

Metal frames, old watches, broken and unwanted jewelry are sought for their metal value. Such precious metal scrap is sent to a refinery where the metal is melted down and the cash proceeds are used to purchase new prescription glasses for those in the United States who can't afford them.

Simple non-astigmatic lenses in plastic frames go to medical missions around the world. Non-prescription sunglasses are prized in bright, hot countries. Over the years, New Eyes for the Needy has expanded its recycling to include hearing aids as well.

Every week New Eyes holds sales of antique jewelry and silver along with resalable costume jewelry. Proceeds from these sales add significantly to the funds which New Eyes can use for the purchase of new eyeglasses.

Heartwarming stories have come from all parts of the world from people this organization has helped.

Ten year old Timmy of Waco, Texas who loves to play baseball but always struck out because he couldn't see the ball, now is one of the top batters in his class with glasses from New Eyes.

A child from Taiwan Free China sees for the first time in his life after cataract surgery and glasses from New Eyes.

The Pennsylvania Association for the Blind wrote New Eyes: "We regret that you are unable to share in the joys that result from your magnificent efforts--the joy of an elderly client reading a newspaper for the first time in many, many years, and the little ones who have entered school with the best possible vision."

You can help New Eyes achieve this remarkable goal. Send your used eyeglasses or unwanted jewelry to New Eyes for the Needy, Short Hills, New Jersey 07078.

Reading Conference Set

Over a thousand educators are expected in Lubbock on October 11 for the area annual reading conference sponsored by the Texas Association for the Improvement of Reading (TAIR).

The theme for this year's conference will be "Opening a New World for Children." Dr. J. David Cooper of Ball State University, Muncie, Indiana, will speak at the general session that begins at 4:15 p.m. in the theatre. His topic will be "Integrating Skills through Authentic Literature."

Other features will be exhibits that open at 3 p.m. and a walk-through literature fair from 5:10-7 p.m.

Toza Nelson, elementary reading coordinator for the Lubbock Independent School District, is the TAIR vice president for this area and chairs the arrangements committee.

Advance registration is available in schools in the area. Participants may also register at the conference.

MICROWAVE TIPS

With Thanksgiving and Christmas not too far distant, it's good to know how to defrost a frozen turkey.

Place unrapped turkey breast-down in baking dish. Microwave one fourth time. Then shield any warm spots with foil paper. Turn turkey breast-side up and microwave another fourth time.

Turn turkey again, shielding ends of legs and wings, other warm areas. Rotate dish half turn and microwave another fourth time. Turn over turkey and cook last fourth. Spread legs and wings away from body, loosen giblets and let stand in cool water for 20-30 minutes.

Necessity never made a good bargain. -Benjamin Franklin.

Movement of cattle from the ranches of Bailey County to markets and to the feedlots in other places will probably start early this month, says H.A. Eckler, agent of the Santa Fe railroad here. The Halsell ranches, owned by W. E. Halsell of San Antonio and his son of Vinita, Okla., are probably the largest shippers. Other shippers include the V.V.N. Ranch, Albert Taylor, the Anderson Ranch, the Chesler ranch and some smaller ranches. The ranches are, for the most part, located in the sand hills that cross the county and in the south part, near the Cochran County line.

 many years. The 1991 Friend of 4-H Award was presented to Joyce Holmes.
 Receiving the fourth annual Outstanding 4-H Family Award given by the 4-H Council was the Gary Toombs family. The family is involved in the total 4-H program, carrying on projects in agriculture, home economics, leaderships, club management and citizenship.
 One of the highest 4-H awards on the county level is the "I Dare You" award. It is presented annually to two Bailey County 4-Hers and is made available through the American Youth Foundation and the Bailey County Extension Service. Recipients of this award are chosen because of their outstanding 4-H careers. It is given as a challenge to those who receive the award and those who aspire to it to strive for excellence during the remaining years in 4-H. The award itself is a copy of William H. Danforth's book, "I Dare You." Danforth calls for constructive lives of service and citizenship on the part of his readers. This year Cynthia Bennett, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lane, and Gage Angeley, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. (Tub) Angeley received the "I Dare You" awards.

The Gold Star Award is the highest award that can be received on the county level in 4-H. It is given annually to two Bailey County 4-Hers who have shown outstanding leadership and citizenship potential. One Gold Star recipient is Melissa Bennett, a sophomore at Three Way High School. Report From Larry Combest

The long-awaited federal landfill regulations have finally been published by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), much to the detriment of West Texas. These are the costly, one-size-fits-all government rules and the preliminary regulations already responsible for the premature closure of municipal landfills throughout the West Texas area. Under EPA's rules of the game, all landfills are assumed to be guilty of harming the environment, until proven innocent through expensive studies and pounds of paperwork. Landfills that can stay open to do business under new regulations may have few choices other than to increase local garbage fees to pay the cost of implementing these new rules.

The EPA has written costly regulations that will undoubtedly outlast even the garbage buried in these dumps. The EPA estimates that city landfill operators will spend a total of 115,800 hours nationwide reading instructions, checking their files, filling out forms and verifying the information.

For 30 years after a landfill has been filled and is covered over, towns will be babysitting the garbage. Constant and exhaustive monitoring of the groundwater, methane gases and the final cover of earth and grass is required. They must make a huge downpayment into a trust fund set up to prove financial ability to pay for future problems, or have letters of credit, insurance or a surety bond-if states are unable to set up a fund. The nationwide cost of compliance totals at least $330 million each year.

The only saving grace in this waste is for some of the smallest of the small landfill operations receiving less than 20 tons of garbage each day. The EPA will allow some of those municipalities, generally those cities with less than 6,000 population, to be exempt from some rules. Rural towns with small landfills in our normally dry part of the country that meet certain requirements are exempt from groundwater monitoring and special design requirements. However, large and small landfill operations must comply with all other expenses of special plastic and clay linings, covers, monitoring and paperwork.

I find not only the cost objectionable, but also the way these regulations have been made. Congress passed sweeping amendments to the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA), and then took a hand-off attitude as the EPA interpreted the legislation to write regulations. I fully agree with the complaints of our mayors and town officials that these final EPA rules have taken too long to appear in written detail. Soon, Congress will review the waste disposal act, providing an opportunity to re-examine current policy. For our part of the country, without the crowded conditions and waste problems of the industrialized urban areas, these reams of regulation add another layer of government clutter to the already expensive job of running a city.

Aid To Whitetail Deer Hunter

A five year research program, monitoring whitetail deer, conducted at a South Mississippi Game Reserve discovered the following:

--whitetail deer have an approximate 1 to 2 mile home range area.

-less than 2% of bucks actually feed in daylight hours.

-about 80% of whitetail deer in an area are active during the same hours.

Tolar's Times® (the daylight hours whitetail deer are most active) puts this knowledge to work for you in a nine state area where deer are monitored 24 hours a day. These nine states include Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Alabama, Tennessee, Florida, Georgia, Missouri and Texas.

A smart hunter knows that the best time to hunt is when deer are most active. Now that knowledge is right at your fingertips.

To receive this information, Call "Whitetails of America" at (601) 792-2122 between the hours of 4:00 a.m. and 9:00 p.m. seven days a week.

Muleshoe, Texas 79347

Dear Ms. Harris,
According to FBI statistics $3.4 billion was lost as a result of burglaries last year.

A frightening statistic which could be reduced if more home and business owners paid careful attention to their security needs.

Lock in Safety Month is a month-long event which focuses on this issue and is supported by all facets of the security industry.

As a professional locksmith, I would like to underscore my commitment to educating South Plain's residents about the many security options available today.

Enclosed are two press releases detailing Lubbock Lock & Key's involvement in Lock in Safety Month.

I will call you in a few days to make certain this information has been received. In the meantime, if there are any questions I can answer, please let me know. I can be reached at 795-7117.
