Veterans Memorial Monument Dedicated

A dream come true/ A large crowd gathered in front of the Bailey County Court House Saturday afternoon for the dedication of the Veterans Memorial Monument, and on a very appropriate day, Pearl Harbor day, Dec. 7.

The Rev. Phip McGechie gave the invocation and led the opening song, a Color Guard from Cannon Air Force Base at Clovis, N.M. posted the colors, Members of the Muleshoe Mighty "M" Band played the National Anthem.

Bob Clark, Commander, American Legion; and Hugh Young, Commander V.F.W. Post, Muleshoe, unveiled the monument.

Local scouts assisted veterans, Donna Kirk, Clifton Finley and June Wagnon raised the flags, which will fly 24 hours a day.

Brothers and sisters of Billie Mac Black, the first World War II casualty from Bailey County, stood a wreath in front of the monument.

Following the laying of the wreath, Dawn Merriott sang "God Bless America."

Bailey County Judge Marilyn Cox addressed the crowd stating "It's my pleasure to participate as your county judge, in ceremonies such as this, recognizing our service men and women who made the sacrifice for all of us." She introduced State Representative Pete Laney of Hale Center.

Laney expressed his appreciation for being asked to speak at the dedication, and spoke briefly, paying tribute to the veterans of all wars.

Greg Zamora, VFW Commander of District 13 of Littlefield spoke briefly about the veterans of World War II as well as veterans from all wars, stating that he had been through four wars and all veterans had played an important part in making the United States what it is today.

"This is my first trip to Muleshoe," said Rocky Vieira, American Legion Commander of District 19, of Big Spring, "but this won't be the last." "When looking out over the crowd, I see faces that are proud to honor their servicemen. I was called on to speak at another memorial dedication and there were only about 25 people there. Its good to look out and see this kind of crowd.

Judge Cox introduced the speaker, Colonel Don R. Watson, Director of National Range Operations White Sands Missile Range. Colonel Watson is a native of Bailey County and the son of Mrs. Latish Watson of Muleshoe. Colonel Watson spoke on veterans of all wars as well as those of World War II, the price they had paid defending our country. He also spoke on the sacrifices their families at home had made.

The Rev. Dean Reid gave the benediction followed by Taps by Toby Carpenter. The colors were retired by the Color Guard.

Among those recognized were Pete and Marieta Wilkinson, who were responsible for all the rocks, digging and bringing them into town. Mrs. Kidd also recognized Mr. and Mrs. D.T. Garth, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Embry, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Young, Rod Springfield, Bailey County Judge Marilyn Cox, and Hubert Kidd.

State Farm Denies Seeking Rate Increase

By Shellito Richard Reports that State Farm Insurance is seeking to raise its rates and force rates up statewide are simply untrue, a spokesman for the state's largest auto and home insurer declared today.

"What we're doing is cooperating with the Board of Insurance in establishing rating guidelines as required by the new insurance law (HB-2)," said Ron Nichols, deputy regional vice president at State Farm's Austin regional office. "State Farm was the only company to come forward with the financial information necessary for participating in the property rate proceedings and among the few for auto."

The hearings, which focus on auto rates starting Dec. 16 after home insurance hearings this past week, are to establish a range of auto and home rate levels that companies can put into effect without getting prior approval, Nichols explains.

"A benchmark rate must be established first as a guideline in establishing this range of rates, which can vary up to 30 percent above or below the benchmark," he pointed out.

"Suggestions for what the benchmark should be are being misrepresented because the benchmark should be are being misrepresented because the benchmark is not a State Farm rate. Companies would then be free to set their own rates within the range set by the Board. No companies are required to charge the benchmark amount."

The proposal, presented on behalf of State Farm by Tillinghast, a consulting actuarial firm, calls for a benchmark rate of 9.8 percent above the current manual rate for private passenger auto and 16.5 percent above the current manual rate for homeowners insurance. The consulting actuary proposed that the benchmark rate for commercial auto insurance be 42.3 percent higher than the current rate due to huge losses in that line of insurance, which accounts for less than five percent of the company's auto business.

The new rules are intended to increase competition. Before, there was one rate-established by the State Board of Insurance-that all companies used unless they got approval for a lower or

How To "Iron" Clothes Without The Iron

Here's an interesting wrinkle in fabric care: Using your dryer as a substitute for ironing clothes!

You can do it, say Whirlpool home economists, if your dryer has a Tumble Press Cycle. This special feature tumbles items that are dry but wrinkled for about 10 minutes in heated air, then switches to room-temperature tumble for another five to 10 minutes.

It's great for washables that have been packed into a suitcase, stored for the season in a closet or simply left too long in the dryer. Another use: Toss in that tablecloth with fold creases and show off a crease-free cloth for a special dinner.

Check the care label to make sure that items to be tumble pressed are washable. Long tumbling of woolens may shrink them. Fold, hang or use items as soon as the tumble cycle ends.

Tumble Press doesn't eliminate ironing, but it is a quick, easy alternative to touch-up ironing.

Pam Aulson, owner of Patch as Patch Can, will show how to make a colonial rug by braiding scraps of fabric together. This is terrific way to "recycle" useable cloth from worn out clothing. Ms. Aulson lives in Glen Cove, NY.

On Tuesday, December 17 at 9:30 p.m. and on Thursday, December 19 at 12 noon "Creative Living" will present information on cooking for family or class reunions, decorating with a southwestern flair, and using disposable diapers.

Pat Mitchamore, co-author of several cookbooks, will discuss and demonstrate several recipes that would be great for any type of reunion--regardless of the size. Ms. Mitchamore is from Nashville, TN.

MICROWAVE TIPS

Can one substitute lamb for pork or beef in microwave recipes?

Usually one can. Lamb is naturally juicy and can be prepared in many ways. Beef marinades can be used with lamb.

Veal, however, is dry, with no fat marbling, and can't be substituted in most cases. It can be substituted if, as in stew, it's to be cooked slowly for a long time.

LEARN WHAT CHRISTMAS SAFETY'S ABOUT!

A CHRISTMAS SAFETY CHECK

- Before hanging strings of lights, spread them on the floor and check for frayed or bare wires, cracked insulation, loose connections, and damaged plugs or light sockets.
- Check extension cords for wear or damage and don't run them across walking areas.
- Test lights before putting them on the tree. Unplug them before making repairs or replacing bulbs.
- Overloading circuits with too many lights can cause fire. Follow manufacturer's instructions about the number of lights allowed on one circuit.
- Never string lights on a metallic tree.
- Choose a fresh, green tree, trim its base and keep it in plenty of water. If the needles are brown and break off easily, it could be a fire risk.
- If you buy an artificial tree, make sure it has been tested for flammability by Underwriters Laboratories (UL).
- Always turn off lights before leaving home or going to bed. You'll save money and be safer, too.
- Do not use inside lights on the outside. All outside lighting equipment, including lights, cords and plugs, should be waterproof and made for outdoor use. Also, hang sockets downward and don't leave a socket empty.
- When hanging lights on the rooftop or in tall trees outdoors, stay clear of electrical lines.

Students and Staff Recycle Cans At Dillman

The staff and students at Dillman Elementary, realizing the importance of ecology and recycling, began a recycling project December 6 to benefit our world and the students at Dillman. "Stan the Can Man" is a new addition to the hallway in the school. He is made of a large container and has a mouth open wide to "eat" up aluminum cans. Students are eager to feed Stan each day to fill him up with cans.

This effort will provide opportunities for classroom teachers to conduct lessons and projects encouraging children to take care of our world.

The money received for turning in the cans will be used to purchase materials to be used with the children. If you do not already save aluminum cans for recycling and would like to help, contact a student from Dillman Elementary or call the school. An easy way to determine if the can is aluminum is to check the can for a seam; if there is no seam on the side, it is aluminum. With everyone helping in this recycling project, we CAN make it a successful one.

The project at Dillman will continue until the end of the school year.

Sales Tax Rebate Reflects Decrease

"Sales tax rebates to Texas cities and counties totaled a record $1.4 billion in 1991, a 10 percent increase over the $1.2 billion collected last year," State Comptroller John Sharp said Friday.

"In 1968 when 280 Texas cities first started collecting a local sales tax, they received a total of $48 million in rebates for the year," Sharp said.

"Likewise, in 1988 when 81 Texas counties first began collecting the sales tax, they received $70 million in rebates for the year," Sharp said.

Sharp made the comparison in announcing the December sales tax rebates made by his office to nearly 1,000 Texas cities and counties.

December's payments to 883 Texas cities totaled $80.2 million for a year-end total of $1.2 billion, compared to 1990's 12-month total of $1.1 billion, or a 9-percent increase.

Payments of $9.4 million to 106 counties brought 1991 payments to $138.4 million, a year-to-date increase of 17 percent over last year's total of almost $118 million.

Muleshoe received a check in the amount of $15,032.36 as compared to $24,311.57 at this same time in 1990, reflecting a decrease of 38.17 percent. The 1991 payments to date were $213,486.67, showing a decrease of 4.85 percent from last year's total of $224,358.93 at this same time last year.

In Castro County, Dimmitt received a check in the amount of $18,684.88 down some 51.60 percent from their payment at the same time last year. Payments to date reflect a decrease of 48.44 percent, from last year to date total of $556,679.08 to $287,023.75 payments this year.

Morton, in Cochran county, received a check in the amount of $4,726.35 up some 15.02 percent from last year's payment to date of $4,109.19. To date in 1991, Morton has received checks totaling $59,625.44, up some 6.26 percent over last year's total to date of $56,111.38.

In Lamb county, Littlefield received a check in the amount of $13,964.61 for this period as compared to $14,278.38 for this same period last year, reflecting a decrease of 2.20 percent. Littlefield's payments to date in 1991 were $229,819.69 up some 2.70 percent from this same period in 1990. Payments to date for the year were $223,780.31 last year.

In Parmer county, Bovina received a rebate check in the amount of $1,506.69 as compared to $1,214.36 for this same period in 1990, reflecting a 24.07 percent increase. Payments to date were $23,330.95 as compared to checks in the amount of $22,040.41 for this same period in 1990, reflecting

MISD Hosts Parent Meeting

Muleshoe Independent School District hosted a parent meeting in the Muleshoe High School Cafeteria at 2 p.m. on Friday, December 6. Dalia Ortiz, a representative of the South Plains Health Provider, spoke to those present about Communicable Disease and how important it is for parents to know what resources are available through the school and community for prevention and treatment of diseases that threaten the youngsters in their families.

This program was planned and organized by Janie Balderas, the Migrant Service Coordinator for Muleshoe ISD Georgia Pena, Special Program Director welcomed the parents and introduced the speaker, Ms. Ortiz, and after the presentation, parents participated in a question and answer session which proved to be very informative. hot apple cider and Christmas cakes and candy were served to those present.

One of the parents present was the lucky winner of a crockpot which was given as a door prize.

The city of Houston received $13.2 million as its December rebate, the largest payment in the state, to bring that city's 1991 total to $205.5 million. Dallas received the state's second largest payment, $7.8 million, for a 1991 total of $120.8 million. San Antonio's payment for $4.6 million was the third largest in the state for a year-to-date sum of $70.3 million, and Austin followed with $3.6 million, adding up to $53.2 million for the year. Fort Worth received $2.2 million for a 1991 total of $31.5 million.

Quarterly payments to metropolitan transit programs in Austin, Corpus Christi, Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston and San Antonio and monthly payments to the El Paso City Transit Department and the Laredo City Transit Department totaled $139.7 million--a 0.8 percent increase over last December's payments.

Hospital districts in Baylor, Ector and Reeves counties were sent a combined total of $618,202.

December's checks to cities, counties, hospital districts and city transit departments include taxes collected on October sales and reported in November by businesses filing monthly sales tax returns with the state. This month's checks to MTAs reflect taxes reported in September, October and November. Business file either monthly, quarterly or annually, depending on the amount of sales tax they collect.

Shoppers pay the local sales taxes of up to two percent along with the state's 6 1/4 percent state sales tax when they make a taxable purchase. Merchants then send in the taxes to the Comptroller's Office with their tax returns. The state keeps its share and returns to cities, counties and other taxing entities their portion of the local sales tax.

Area voters must approve all local sales taxes at the polls. Most local governments use the money raised for services such as fire fighting, road maintenance and law enforcement. City sales taxes may also be used for local economic development and property tax reduction.

USDA-FmHA

Reviews Portfolio

On Farmers Credit

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) continues to review its portfolio for possible graduation of borrowers to private credit as mandated by Congress, Neal Sox Johnson, FmHA State Director in Temple, announced.

The FmHA credit programs are administered in a manner that will assure that they do not supplant or compete with credit available to farmers, rural families and groups from other reliable credit sources. The law requires that FmHA borrowers should graduate to other credit on reasonable rates and terms when they are able to do so.

FmHA, as the lending arm of the U.S. Government, has long been a source of credit for farmers, ranchers, and rural homeowners who have been unable to obtain credit through commercial lenders such as banks, savings and loans, Production Credit Associations, and Federal Land Banks. Farmers Home Administration has attempted to aid those borrowers as a "Lender of Last Resort," Johnson said.

Nationwide, and on an annual basis, FmHA reviews its loan portfolio to determine those borrowers who have progressed to the point that they no longer need government assistance to obtain credit. This annual review is currently being conducted by local Farmers Home Administration offices. FmHA borrowers in all program areas may be contacted to furnish information on their ability to graduate from their FmHA loans to private sector lenders.

The mission of the Farmers Home Administration loan program is that of "Temporary source of supervised credit in modest amounts" to those who are unable to obtain credit elsewhere.

New Law Encourages Patients

To Know Their Rights

Patient-Physician Communication Vital

Effective Dec. 1, 1991, every adult admitted to a U.S. hospital will receive information on patient treatment rights and advance directives to make their wishes known concerning the providing or withholding of medical care.

The increased focus on helping patients understand their rights is the result of a new federal law, the "Patient Self-Determination Act." The law is aimed at improving patient knowledge about freedom of choice and at fostering better communication among the patient, family and attending physician.

In the U.S., every adult of sound mind has a right to accept or refuse medical treatment, even if refusal might prolong an illness or lead to death. This freedom is enjoyed by every adult, provided the consequences of refusal are understood and will not injure another person.

This right of self-determination allows a patient to make all medical decisions, whether they be relatively simple (an epidural during childbirth?) or extremely difficult (withholding hydration and nutrition?). But there are times when a patient may be unable to communicate treatment desired. An accident might result in a coma, or an advanced medical problem may lead to incapacitation. In times like these, an advance directive helps physicians prescribe treatment based on patient desire. By using a directive, a person can indicate what kinds of life-sustaining procedures he wants withdrawn or withheld in the event of terminal illness.

In Texas, methods for preparing advance directives are established through the Natural Death Act and the Durable Power of Attorney for Health Care Act.

The new federal law will help disseminate information about patient rights and encourage individuals to exercise options for preparing advance directives.

Texas' Natural Death Act

The Natural Death Act allows the withdrawal or withholding of medical care to be requested by a competent adult who is suffering from a terminal illness. This directive often referred to as a "living will", may include instructions for a physician not to use mechanical or other artificial means of support when the only purpose of those measures is to postpone the natural dying process.

A directive outlining a patient's desires may be prepared at any time, but does not become operative until the patient is terminally ill.

There are specific guidelines for drafting a directive under this state law. The directive must be signed by the patient and witnessed by two persons, with severe restrictions placed on who may serve as witnesses. The directive may be verbal or drafted via another nonwritten means of communication, but must be done in the presence of the attending physician and two eligible witnesses.

The patient issuing a directive must be a competent adult. An advance directive may be prepared on behalf of someone under age 18 by that minor person's adult spouse, parents or legal guardian.

Before a directive may be carried out, the terminal illness must be confirmed and certified by two physicians. The directive may be revoked at any time, even in the final states of a terminal illness. The expressed desire to receive life-sustaining treatment at all times supercedes the directive.

In times where a directive has not been executed and a terminally ill patient is unable to communicate, family members or the patient's guardian and the attending physician work together to make decisions about life-sustaining treatment.

Outlining Patient Rights Hospital Policy

The Federal Patient Self-Determination Act requires that hospitals and other Medicare providers give all adult patients written information on patient rights and hospital policy.

Patient Rights - This written information outlines freedom of individual choice under state law including a person's right to accept or refuse medical treatment. In Texas, hospitals will provide information on the Natural Death Act, which allows a person to request the withdrawal or withholding of medical care in the event of terminal illness, and the Durable Power of Attorney for Health Care Act, which allows the naming of a person to make even routine medical decisions, should the patient become incapacitated.

Hospital Policy - Written information must detail the hospital's policies with regard to implementing patient rights under state law. This policy will outline methods for providing information to patients; a method of documenting in the patient's medical record whether or not advance directives were issued; a statement assuring that execution or non-execution of an advance directive will have no effect on patient care; assurances that each of the provider's facilities are complying with state law regarding advance directives; and provisions to educate hospital staff and the community on advance directive issues.

The Patient Self-Determination Act does not prohibit a caregiver from refusing to implement an advance directive on the basis of conscience, if this refusal is allowed under state law. In Texas, the Natural Death Act allows a physician to refuse compliance with directives and it protects the physician from civil or criminal liability if reasonable efforts are made to transfer the patient to another patient.

According to the new federal law, all adults, whether competent or incompetent, must receive the information when admitted as an inpatient to the hospital.

Counting To One-Hundred

By Eric C. Taylor

The tall, slender greyhaired woman standing in front of about fifteen or so of us six-year olds told us her name was Mrs. DeShazo. Well, she made an impression on us all, especially me. She was closer to me in proximity than any woman other than my mother had ever been. And, I didn't like any of this, my first day of school, even though my home was only just across the dirt road going by the two-room school building. Topping all that off, I didn't know a single soul in the one room we were in.

The boys were mostly wearing pin-striped bib overalls, the girls had on simple cotton dresses, mostly homemade, and most all of us were barefoot, partly because the weather was plenty warm, partly because Texas was still in the lingering effects of the depression and most folks were just plain poor. All of us were squeaky clean and neat.

The schoolroom had a bare creaky pine floor with built-in splinters, a pot-bellied cast iron stove in the center, two or three small-paned windows looking out on the sandy playground, and one door to freedom.

Some fifty-odd years ago it's kind of hard to remember all the details. I suppose the first thing we had to learn was to print our given name: Monkey-see, monkey-do fashion. Somewhere along there we must have learned to count to twelve, because I do remember a big white cardboard clock with big black numbers in a circle and "hands" that moved, one big hand, the other smaller. Learning to tell time wasn't too bad, though. Everyone needs to know if it really is bedtime when Daddy says it is.

Then came the really hard part: Learning to count to one hundred. Most everyone learned right away, but not me. For some reason I procrastinated. I remember her telling us to be sure and finish learning to count to a hundred each day when school was over and we would go on our different ways home. But by the time I had accomplished my long walk home across the road, I had forgotten all about school and was thinking of stacking big flat thick dirt cakes from the road pretending they were adobe bricks. For some reason I just did not want to learn to count really big. Maybe it was the long span of concentration it took, or the mental energy required. To this day I don't like to memorize things I am not, be it's all connected.

Then one day a most terrible thing happened. Mrs. DeShazo told me as I had not learned to count to one hundred as everyone else had, I was going have to stay after school until I learned. So, there I sat all alone except for her after the other kids left. Then out came the twelve-inch ruler and my hand was extended in front of me, palm up, with this lady holding onto my fingertips. After about two whacks of the ruler I was counting to one hundred so fast you could not believe it.

Learning to read was a lot different. Mrs. DeShazo pointed out everyone needed to learn to read so they could read the Sunday funny paper without having to wait for Daddy to find the time. "See Spot Run" was no problem. So most everyone was reading up a storm in no time at all.

In the spring of my first schoolyear I caught chicken pox from someone; I don't recall who. I had more red spots on me than freckles, and I have got a lot of freckles.

Now back then when you had chicken pox, you had to stay in bed and lay real still so you wouldn't get chicken pox in a certain unmentionable place. Since everyone knows every kid likes to lay real still, having chicken pox is really a lot of fun for all in the same proximity. Well, the postmaster's daughter, Jean Witte, heard about my situation and gave my Dad a box of old books for me to read. She must have thought I was really old because one of the books was Zane Grey's "Thundering Herd". The title fascinated me so much that I learned to read it with my mother helping me over the hard spots. Grey's words of buffalo and the smell of sage held my attention as nothing else ever had in my short span of cognizant memory.

Well, all of us-as I remember-survived the first grade and eventually went on to bigger and better things. World War II ended, we moved to another town, and I gradually forgot about the small two-room schoolhouse and Mrs. DeShazo. A lot of her teaching stayed with me, though. I mostly stopped procrastinating because of that twelve-inch ruler.

Through her beginning influence. I graduated a little above average from high school, waded through a couple of years of college engineering interrupted by the U.S. Marine Corps and Korea, and retired as a first level supervisor with a large public utility company.

A few years ago, my wife and I went back to the land of my childhood. The town is still small, quiet and really very pretty in my grown up mind. The house we lived in by the school grounds is still there but it sure has shrunk over the years. The road between the house and school is paved and curbed now; no more adobe bricks. The white two-room school building is no longer there and nothing remains to indicate it ever existed.

As my wife and I continued to drive and look over the town, odds and ends of memories dimmed by years flashed through my mind. I had once been there, some of us played mumbledy-peg under that big elm tree; Billy King, who later died in a sandhill cave-in, lost his left eye throwing his pocket knife into the trunk of that tree when the knife bounced and the blade point struck him in his eye. We stopped in front of a fairly new large, very pretty single-story tan brick building with a freshly mowed lawn divided by a wide concrete walk leading to the entryway. As we looked at the building I realized that unforgettable person of my childhood had made an unforgettable impression on a few other people, too. For over the building's entryway in large shiny steel letters was the name: Mary DeShazo Elementary School. In Muleshoe, Texas, that is.

Somehow, all these years later, I still have the book "Thundering Herd". Reading still fascinates me, gives me Heroes in Whitehats on White Stallions, Perfect Lives and Perfect Worlds.

As an adult, one of my first major purchases was all of Grey's published westerns; I have read each many times.

And, I can still count to One Hundred When Pressed.
