Cross Plains Centennial Celebration Concludes This Weekend

"PARADE OF THE CENTURY" IS HERE

Library Scene — Diana Miller (left) playing the character of Belinda Barnes and her husband Russ Miller playing the character of Ricky Barnes are giving an account as to where they had been when the murder took place to Jack Shepard playing the Deputy.

And the Show MUST GO On!

That was the underlying thread of Saturday night's mystery supper theatre "Murder at the Barbarian Festival" which held it all together. The script was ready in March and our "spoofee's" all signed waivers that detailed how their characters would be portrayed and outlined any behavior that would NOT be performed by their character.

First, "spoofee" Vanda Anderson decided to marry Wendell Draper this spring and that threw a small monkey wrench into things. However, actress Kandy Jones, who played "Amanda Vanderson," came up with the great idea of re-shooting one of her scenes: she donned a wedding veil and a big cellophane "diamond" ring and was transformed into Mrs. Dwindle Caper, which just added to the hilarity! Amanda will return next year as she promised—hey, look behind her: is that press in the background printing $20 bills?

Once band director Matt Sowell looked at the upcoming band rehearsal schedule for Cross Plains High School, he had to bow out, along with band student Kaitlyn Koettel. But board members Colburn Tucker and Ginny Hoskins stepped in to fill those roles.

Colburn's character, Bubba Gumm, aka "Gofer," the ill-bred, but affable high school dropout, turned out to be the killer (only a few in the audience voted for him) and is serving his life sentence in Huntsville. However, since he is eligible for parole in six months, maybe someone will give him a job next year?

And as if Ginny didn't have enough to do with props and changes of the scenery during the play, she pulled off a flawless performance as photographer J.B. Cunningham. I doubt that J.B. will return next year since her art showing in a New York City gallery is scheduled at that time. When Colburn and Ginny took over those roles, they could no longer handle the sound and video as planned. With only a week to go, Ricky and Tina Thomas graciously stepped in to take care of that work for the play. What good friends they are!

Then author Mark Finn called on Thursday to say that he was unable to attend due to a family emergency and could not play the part of Conan the barber. All the photos of his dead body (yes, he was the victim!) had already been taken and edited—but did we let that stop us? NO! Jim Kaiser graciously stepped in to play Mark Finn playing Conan. With only one day of rehearsal, Jim donned a Mark Finn mask and ad-libbed his part, handing out business cards to invite the bald men in the audience for haircuts and making fun of his own bald head! Mark was so disappointed that he was unable to join us, it is rumored he may appear as himself next year—does anyone like the title "Murder at the 'Meet the Author'?"

On performance day there were more problems. We kept burning the popcorn, so we ended up microwaving it instead, and the cotton candy machine kept blowing a fuse, but everyone pulled together and we got it fixed.

During dinner, we lacked just a couple of bowls of stew and some gracious folks ate Sub sandwiches left from the cast party earlier that afternoon. (I think once we revealed just what the "secret ingredient" was in the stew, other audience members wished they had ordered a sub!)

Then, SOMEONE decided to serve dessert before the second intermission! For our first undertaking though, I thought it went great and we learned a lot for next year.

At performance time, there were more snafus. The lovely Danna Bright, played by Tiffany McCaughren, had a wardrobe malfunction (no, not THAT kind!) when her high heel broke, so her mom, Cindy, gave up her shoes for Tiffany's performance. I think Tiffany was as amazed as I that walking through an audience carrying a sign would draw so much applause each time!

And as for Trudy (Carol Walt), she was supposed to star in next year's performance and be reunited with Guillaume Robert. Unfortunately for her, her suspicious past and odd behavior at the Festival finally caught up with her. An anonymous (could it be her missing fourth husband?) tip led authorities to several unidentified bodies buried behind her trailer in Burkett, and this time Trudy didn't get off so easy. But don't feel sorry for her. The black lace stockings and mini-skirt caught the eye of a convicted murderess known as "Big Bertha" and Trudy is now the belle of the ball in Cell Block C.

Some rehearsal bloopers never made it to the play, Wallace Bennett, the announcer, kept referring to character Bonnie Dirksam as the local pet "saloon" (instead of salon) owner in rehearsals, and Connie Kirkham, playing Bonnie Dirksam, couldn't say "half Rottweiler/half pit bull" the same way twice, but they both pulled it off at performance time. By the way, I was surprised that Bonnie received the most votes as the killer. I really thought the unscrupulous Biff had done it!

And speaking of Biff: his actor, Cliff Kirkham, couldn't remember his lines to save his soul! When he stopped in the middle of a scene to "read the newspaper again" (where his lines were hidden) the audience caught on and it just added to the fun—after all we never claimed to be professionals. Bonnie and Biff were so popular that I think they will have to appear again next year, after all Biff will be up for re-election!

Russ and Diana Miller did a great job playing their characters, Ricky and Belinda Barnes. Russ was totally believable as the guinea pig farmer (I guess the character wasn't a big stretch for the rancher) and Diana played the reserved librarian to a "T". Having husband and wives play character husbands and wives worked well in the chemistry

Special Hours at Robert E. Howard Museum

Project Pride member will have the Howard Museum open on the Centennial Saturday from 1:00 to 3:00 p.m. for folks who would like to visit the historical site without the massive crowds that are here for the Howard Days in June.

This would be the ideal time for teachers to check out the museum as a curriculum resource. Just stop by on your way to or from the dedication of the footbridge in Treadway Park.

What a fantastic year our Centennial celebration has been with all the groups participating in so many different and fun ways and so many improvements being made throughout the community.

Now it's time to kick it into high gear and get the "Parade of the Century" moving down Main Street on Saturday, September 24.

Let's make this the biggest day in the history of Cross Plains. All of our school students who are participating in the parade on floats, carrying the Centennial banner, marching in the Buffalo Band or on bicycles, 4-wheelers or horses will carry special memories with them forever—I was in the Centennial Parade of the Century in Cross Plains, Texas.

All entries must check in between the Cross Plains Jr. and Sr. High School buildings by 8:30 Saturday morning. If people are riding on a float or marching in a group, only the actual float or group leader needs to be there by 8:30 to register and to hold the place in the parade line-up.

Each entry will have a registration form to complete which will form the basis of the announcements at the reviewing stand in front of the Texas Heritage Bank. This needs to include the age and make of antique vehicles, brief description of the group, etc. Equine entries must have a negative EIA (Coggins) test within the past 12 months for each animal.

Participants must be prepared to present the VS 10-11 EIA test form for each equine entry.

Entries will be checked in and given a number in chronological order; thus, the parade will provide a constant variety of viewing for the entire time. All those decorated lawn mowers may not be together unless they check in as a "drill team".

Project Pride will have free ice cold water for all the parade participants as they wait for the parade to start south on Main Street.

The parade will leave the school area at 10:00 a.m., led by a color guard from the Turkey Creek Roping Club and the Centurion Ranching and Farming Land Owners. Following will be students carrying the big Centennial banner with the Buffalo Band right behind. Then will come all the floats, old vehicles, bicycles, fire trucks, EMS units, walkers, singers, dancers and horses in no particular order.

The Cisco College Band and Wrangler Belles are making a special trip over here to participate in our parade. The parade route will go south to the new ResourceCare Community Health Center where the units will turn east and disband.

Everybody is encouraged to walk back to the Veteran's Memorial where the American Legion will present a short flag ceremony. The Health Center will have a formal open house with refreshments while the Senior Citizen's Center will be selling hamburgers in the parking lot of the clinic.

Please check out other articles and the ad in this edition of Cross Plains Review for a full schedule of activities of the day.

Just think what a picture it would be for the TV cameras if everyone of those Centennial t-shirts sold these past 9 months is out there on a body!!!!

Don't Forget-Centennial Banquet Saturday!

The Cross Plains Chamber of Commerce will celebrate the city's 100th Anniversary with a special banquet dedicated to this momentous occasion.

It will be a fun filled evening featuring Ed Edmondson and Dale Bishop recalling Cross Plains' Past, Centennial Singers, a Centennial Players

Performance, plus many door prizes, special centennial cake auction, and the Centennial Quilt drawing.

A surprise ending is planned for the conclusion of the evening.

The celebration begins at 6:30 p.m. on Saturday, September 24th.

First Baptist Church Participating in Centennial Weekend

Rusty Maisel will be demonstrating the Gutenberg Press as he prints in English, pages from the 1st Edition King James Bible which is part of the Enduring Word, a movable Bible Museum.

Rusty will also be sharing during Sunday morning worship service.

Cross Plains Remembered— Texas Nachos and Live Music at Senior Citizens Center, Thursday

The book, Cross Plains Remembered, is back from the publisher and will be available Thursday, September 22, at the Senior Citizens Center. Prepared by the Barbarian Festival Committee, the book features hundreds of photographs of people and places in Cross Plains from the early days through the 1950s and on up to some very recent photos.

Be one of the first to get a copy of this special Cross Plains book. Books are $20 each and will be available at the Senior Citizens Center from 4 p.m. until 7 p.m.

While you're at the Senior Citizens Center enjoy a dinner of Texas nachos (also called taco pile up), dessert and tea for $5.00.

The band, Eight Eighty East, composed of Sid and R.W. Bogue, will perform during the evening.

Centennial Quilt Deadline

Have you purchased your ticket on the Centennial Quilt? The three area quilting clubs joined together to piece and hand quilt this special project.

The drawing will be held during the banquet at the last centennial event on September 24th. You may still purchase tickets at the Chamber of Commerce Centennial Banquet and Cross Plains Public Library.

Tickets are $1 each or 6 for $5. Proceeds will be divided among the three quilting clubs to help with their bills.

The quilt is currently on display at the library.

Correction to Commissioners' Court Meeting Minutes

The amount of jury pay in the Callahan County Commissioners' Court article appearing in last week's Cross Plains Review was incorrect, according to new information provided to Callahan County Clerk Donna Bell.

Bell said the changes to the jury pay are being made throughout Texas due to Senate Bill #1, recently signed by Governor Rick Perry.

Bell said the correct motion from the commissioners' court meeting of Monday, September 12th should read:

"Commissioner (Harold) Hicks made a motion to drop the jury pay for the second day and thereafter from $40.00 to $34.00 and the first day, if not picked, from $7.50 to $6.00. Setting the jury fee at $6.00 for first day if not picked, $10.00 for first day if picked and $34.00 for second day and every day thereafter if picked. Commissioner (Tom) Windham seconded the motion and the motion carried 5-0. These changes are being made due to SB 1 which changes the reimbursement rate for jury service by the State."

Cottonwood News

Beverly Brown

We had a good heavy rain shower Sunday evening about 6 p.m. Small pea-sized hail fell briefly in Cottonwood. Rain gauges around the area measured about 1/4th inch.

Please keep an eye on your small animals and chickens. A hawk swooped down over a bunch of chickens and tried to grab one of them at one local place here in Cottonwood. Because of the building materials in the chicken yard, the hawk couldn't get close enough to get the chicken. A small cat at another Cottonwood residence was not so lucky. It was carried off by a coyote in broad daylight.

Cottonwood was well represented at the "Murder at the Barbarian Festival" play in Cross Plains last Saturday night. H.D. Weaver played the part of the sheriff; Wallace Bennett was the announcer; Carol Bennett was a street vendor; Kellie Draper played the part of Ora Knowdem; Diana and Russ Miller played the librarian and her husband; and Dr. Charles Rodenberger was another of the main characters. Dr. Rodentburger. Tom and Sue Bennett, Bob Childress and Judy Luter were part of the crew. Sure are a lot of talented folks right here in Cottonwood.

And speaking of talent, Sid and R.W. Bogue, Eight Eighty East, will be performing at the Senior Citizens Center Thursday night (tonight). The Senior Center is serving Texas Nachos (some folks call this Taco Pile Up), dessert and iced tea for $5.00. The "Cross Plains Remembered" book will be on sale at the dinner. The book just arrived from the printer.

Sid and R.W. will also be the entertainment at the last coon hunt of the season, this Saturday night, September 24. This will be the last chance to see the coon dogs—until next year. On the menu for the dinner: brisket, sausage, ribs and chicken, along with potato salad, beans, iced tea and banana pudding. Arnie is making the beans. Kathleen is making the banana pudding. The rest of the Fire Control Group will have a hand in dinner. The dinner starts at 5 p.m. and runs until about 7:00-7:30 p.m. The coondogs get there about 4 p.m.

The Fire Control Baking Team will have cakes and pies at the dinner for purchase. Here's your chance to take home some great desserts. Proceeds from the evening benefit the Cottonwood Volunteer Fire Control Group.

The Cottonwood Musical is coming up again soon—go ahead and mark your calendar now for Friday, October 7th. Musicians come from all around the area to play here at the Community Center. Everyone has a great time.

Cross Plains Cancer Fund Walk-Plan Your Booth or Walking Team Now

The 2011 Cross Plains Cancer Community Cancer Fund Walk is scheduled for Saturday, October 15th on the CPISD Football Field. This year's theme is "Once Upon a Journey".

The Cross Plains Cancer Community Cancer Fund Walk starts at 5 p.m. and ends about 9 p.m. The parade around the track begins at 5 p.m., lead by the 5K Runners and participants, followed by the walking teams.

Gather up all your friends for your walking team. There's no limit to the number of members on each team. Each team needs to sell 20 prize drawing tickets. You'll get the information on the drawing and the tickets with the registration information. Registration is $25 per team. Register your walking team with Crystal McDaniel (325) 660-8107, email cdmcdaniel@windstream.net.

Get your team, organization or group together and set up a "campsite" on the football field. Theme your campsite as a "Journey". Some ideas: Safari themed journey-crossing the desert looking for a cure; Pioneer themed journey-braving the wilds of the old west in covered wagon; 1950's themed journey—"See the USA in your Chevrolet,"...Storybooked themed journey-Follow Alice through the looking glass; Join Peter Pan on a journey for a cure; Hansel and Gretel's breadcrumbs lead to the scientist looking for a cure. Some other possible "journeys"...Outer Space with Astronauts looking for a cure; Pilgrims crossing in the Mayflower looking for a cure. Use your creativity with this year's "Once Upon a Journey" theme. Start Planning your booth or campsite now.

The Cake Walk girls are taking a "Journey Back to the 50's." They challenge all other teams in the competition for "Best Decorated."

Team Campsites will be judged on "Best Decorated" booth related to the 2011 Theme ("Once Upon a Journey") and "Most Money Raised" for the Cancer Fund.

Teams (and organizations without a walking team) may raise money during for Cancer

Fund during the event. Use your imagination, food booths, homemade items, children's games are all possibilities. Food Booths and game booths will also be judges for best decorated. Several organizations have already decided on their booths: Church of Christ, Frito Pie; Rowden Baptist Church, loaded baked potatoes and homemade ice cream; Methodist Church, popcorn; Cross Plains Library, cotton candy; Masonic Lodge, hotdogs.

Call Cindy Payne 725-6692, Melissa Richards 725-6651, or Dannes Turner 725-7755 if you would like to have a booth at the Cancer Fund Walk donating proceeds being donated to the Cancer Fund.

Teams that only assist with the selling of raffle tickets are greatly appreciated, as well.

We encourage Team support for businesses, families showing support of loved ones fighting cancer or loved ones lost, organizations and groups.

Local musicians are donating their talents to provide free entertainment during the walk. Some of the performers: 4His Glory, Eight Eighty East (Sid & R.W. Bogue) and Final Fight (Megan Thomas).

Get together with friends, family and co-workers and join in on the fun showing support to those families who have lost loved ones, those fighting cancer today and the survivors who have won the battle.

Items are needed for Bingo Prizes and Cakes are needed for the Cake Walk. Also, items are needed for the auction.

Community Cancer Fund T-Shirts will be available again this year, as well as lighted balloons in memory of your loved ones.

The Cancer Walk gets bigger and better each year with the whole community-including church groups, civic organizations and school groups-coming together to support the Cancer Fund. We greatly appreciate all contributions to the Community Center Fund no matter how large or small. Since November 2010, the Cross Plains Community Cancer Fund has assisted 20 cancer patients from the Cross Plains area with gas and food expenses for treatment. This could not be possible with out every penny raised and the support of the entire Community.

To Walk by Faith

There are many excuses for putting faith on hold and contemplating our life and world without God. We don't have to visit the extreme poverty of Africa or the suffering of war in the Middle East, to turn on God. It is easy to say, "If there were a loving God, how could He allow....a horrible tragedy, that terrible storm, or this drought?" This is a logical question and when asked in the pit of suffering and despair has no answer we want to hear. You may be asking this question right now.

Job was faced with such a dilemma in the earliest times of human history and we will face the question until time is no more. He (Job) did not understand what was going on behind the scenes anymore than we do. When he lost his children, his wealth, and his health, he was unaware of the spiritual force of evil working against him. When tempted to turn from God today because we seem overwhelmed by physical circumstances; we must recognize we are in the midst of a struggle with evil: a spiritual struggle with a scheming devil that no amount of physical strength or psychological resolve can stand against.

God has revealed the truth of the universe to us and has poured out His powerful love upon us that we might persevere and stand. To walk away from our only hope is imbecilic. Everything in creation points us to the rightness of His power and love. Now is the time to walk with Him, not away.

BUFFALO NEWS

The Cross Plains Buffaloes traveled to Miles Friday night to take on the Bulldogs. Cross Plains came up short as they were looking for their first win of the season.

It was one big play after another to start the game, as Miles was able to score quickly after receiving the opening kickoff. Cross Plains started their opening drive of the night on their own 45 yard line. Blake Hutchins took the Buffs' first play from scrimmage 49 yards to pay dirt. Ryder Foster made the extra point kick and tied the game at 7-7.

Hutchins would finish the night with 237 yards on 31 carries. Miles was able to spread the ball around all game as 4 different players were able to reach the end zone.

Cross Plains' only other score came on a 64 yard touchdown run by Hutchins in the 2nd quarter. The Buffaloes played stouter defense in the second half as they gave up only one touchdown in the 2nd half. The final tally was Mile 38, Cross Plains 14.

The Buffaloes forced 3 turnovers thanks in part to Christopher French, who had an interception; Dakota Bomar and senior Chance Sencalir each had a fumble recovery.

Defensive leaders for the game were Chance Sencalir, filling in at safety with 8 tackles and defensive end, Cody Self with 7 tackles and a blocked kick. Dakota Bomar and Justin Pope each had a forced fumble.

The Buffaloes were without the services of starting quarterback and safety Tristen Stephenson.

The Buffaloes will host Rotan Friday night at 7:30 p.m. Come out and support the boys.

C.P. Junior High Defeats Miles Buffs 2-0 for the Season

The Cross Plains Junior High football team played its first home game of the season Thursday night hosting the Miles Bulldogs. The hometown Buffaloes put on a show in a 36-6 win. The win brings the JH to 2-0 on the season and will look to make it 3-0 Thursday night in Rotan.

The defense was a play short of pitching a shutout and played very well. Seventh grader Devin Perez started the scoring out for the Buffaloes on a 5 yard touchdown run, set up by a series of long runs by eighth grader Landon Sencalir. The two point try was no good.

Sencalir then picked off Miles QB, and returned it 65 yards for a touchdown. The two-point conversion was good, bringing the score to 14-0. Eighth grader Colton Bradley scored on a long 40 yard TD run to make it 20-0 going into halftime.

Landon Sencalir started the second half scoring quickly with a 60 yard touchdown run a minute into the third quarter. Seventh grader Joe Revoir ran it in for the two point conversion.

The Miles QB answered with his own long run to put the Bulldog's only points on the board to make it 28-6. Devin Perez's 30 yard run and Revoir's two point conversion run made it 36-6, and that was the final score.

The coaches are proud of the team's efforts on both sides of the ball as all players were able to contribute. James Briggs and Logan Phillips had Big Hits for the defense. Landon Sencalir and Phillips each had an interception.

Thursday's game in Rotan is slated for 6:00 p.m.

TxDOT Urges Texans to "Buckle Them Right" During Child Passenger Safety Week

Free hands-on child safety seat inspections held across the state during the week and on "National Seat Check Saturday"

[Austin] - According to figures from the National Center for Health Statistics, motor vehicle crashes are the leading cause of death for children 14 years old and younger. The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) estimates that roughly 3 out of 4 child safety seats are not used correctly.

Correctly installed child safety seats and booster seats save lives - offering the best protection for children in the event of a crash. The Texas Department of Transportation (TxDOT), along with SafeKids, will be offering free safety seat check-ups and advice throughout Texas during Child Passenger Safety Week, Sept. 18th - 24th.

"When it comes to the safety of your children, there is no room for mistake. Child restraint seats can be complicated to install and use correctly. We want to make sure Texas families are buckling their children up right," said Carol T. Rawson, P.E., Traffic Operation Director for the Texas Department of Transportation. "We want to encourage adults to read the child safety seat manufacturer's instructions, in addition to the vehicle manual on installation, in order to protect our smallest Texans."

On Saturday, Sept. 24th, TxDOT and SafeKids certified technicians will offer free hands-on child safety seat inspections and advice at locations across the state to help Texas families learn to secure their children in the appropriate child safety seat, booster seats and seat belts. More information on how to properly secure children and where to find a child safety seat check point is available at www.bucklethemright.org.

A 2011 study conducted by the Texas Transportation Institute (TTI) in 14 cities across the state found that 10.5 percent of observed children were riding unrestrained. The same study found that nearly one third of children observed in child safety seats were restrained in an unsafe manner.

The Texas Child Restraint Law was changed in 2009, requiring all children younger than 8 years old, unless taller than 4 feet 9 inches, to be in child restraint seats or booster seats in the car. Fines of up to $25 for a first offense and $250 for a second offense may be issued for noncompliance.

Visit www.bucklethemright.org to learn more about the 4 Steps for Kids guidelines for determining which restraint system is best suited to protect children based on their age and size, and where to find a child safety seat check point. The website also features video demonstrations on installing child safety seats and crash test simulations, where parents and caregivers can see firsthand the effects of improper child restraint. For more information, you can visit the NHTSA site at <http://www.nhtsa.gov/Safety/CPS> or SafeRiders at <http://www.dshs.state.tx.us/saferiders/>.

USDA Announces Funding to Improve 911 and Emergency Communications Services in Rural America

TEMPLE, TEXAS, September 14, 2011— Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack today announced changes in federal regulations that will help rural communities obtain advanced emergency communications services, including 911 access to better respond to emergencies and disasters. These changes will help rural communities obtain next generation 911 services necessary to maintain the security and safety of rural residents and businesses."

As we mark the 10th anniversary of an event that cost thousands of American lives, we continue to work to ensure the safety of our rural communities," Vilsack said. "Our telecommunications networks should work best when they are needed the most, and that is in times of emergencies. This change provides rural first responders with the tools they need to maintain mission-critical voice and broadband service during times of emergency or during natural disasters."

USDA published in the Federal Register interim telecommunications loan program eligibility requirements on financing the construction of interoperable, integrated public safety communications networks in rural areas. Funding for the program will be provided by USDA Rural Development through the Rural Utilities Service (RUS).

The new eligibility criteria would allow USDA to leverage public and private resources to speed the rural deployment of dual-use public safety/commercial wireless networks, address homeland security communications needs along America's rural international borders, and finance enhanced 911 capabilities for carriers and communities. Advantages include the ability to precisely locate rural wireless 911 calls, contact 911 via text message, or send emergency responders photos or videos of crime scenes or accidents. The new regulation would also give RUS ability to finance wireless upgrades for public safety and security.

"Texas has recently faced natural disasters ranging from hurricanes and drought to wildfires. Our rural emergency responders often have limited resources that are quickly overwhelmed in areas that are large geographically and in some cases densely populated," commented USDA Rural Development Texas State Director Paco Valentin. "We are committed to helping rural Texas communities have access to broadband services that can be utilized to improve interoperability by all levels of emergency responders."

Rural telecommunications providers receiving RUS loan financing have successfully built out high-capacity fiber networks capable of carrying voice and data traffic to and from wireless towers and other mobile base stations," RUS Administrator Jonathan Adelstein said. "These fiber backhaul networks are necessary to enable the deployment of mobile voice and data services to rural and urban communities. This new lending authority complements the Administration's broader efforts to improve emergency communications throughout the nation."

Since taking office, President Obama's Administration has taken significant steps to improve the lives of rural Americans and has provided broad support for rural communities. The Obama Administration has set goals of modernizing infrastructure by providing broadband access to 10 million Americans, expanding educational opportunities for students in rural areas, and providing affordable health care. In the long term, these unparalleled rural investments will help ensure that America's rural communities are repopulating, self-sustaining and thriving economically.

USDA, through its Rural Development mission area, administers and manages housing, business and community infrastructure and facility programs through a national network of state and local offices. Rural Development has an existing portfolio of more than $155 billion in loans and loan guarantees. These programs are designed to improve the economic stability of rural communities, businesses, residents, farmers and ranchers and improve the quality of life in rural America.

September Kiwanis Program — September 13th was chaired by Bob Ossowski who introduced his wife, Marsha, who is an executive with OOCL, a major shipping company founded in 1969 with a vessel shipping 300 containers from the Orient to America. Today they have 50,000 vessels and one ship can handle 8,000 containers. 90% of all trade in the world is transported by sea. Walmart handles 275,000 containers a year. OOCL is located in 150 countries with over 1,000,000 employees. Marsha gave bags of goodies to those in attendance, another perk for being a Cross Plains Kiwanian. They meet every Tuesday at noon at Jean's Feed Barn and the meetings are open to the public. Every meeting is informative and often unexpected.

Maiden Names

When I first married almost twenty years ago, not only did I feel excited at the idea of having a husband and children, but at the same time, I felt like I was losing a part of myself; my identity. I am of course referring to how a woman, upon her wedding day, releases her maiden name, then takes on the name of her husband. Forever gone is the identity she always knew, and there is a combination of sadness and joy, excitement over a new beginning!

After so many years of marriage, my spouse's name is now a part of who I am. I have come to embrace this name for it represents not who I was, but who I now am as a mature woman who is both wife and mother.

It is amazing how, in the blink of an eye, a soon-to-be wedded female can change from one name to another. I cannot help but be reminded of how the Lord can also transform lives, cleansing the hearts of those who sincerely call upon Him in repentance. At this moment, our slate is washed clean of past repented sins, and a new beginning is ours for the taking! No longer are we the same, but we are transformed; new creations in Christ Jesus!

Just as marriage provides us with a fresh start, a new phase in life, so too, does God offer you an even greater gift, eternal salvation! As does the husband and wife wear a wedding band upon their fingers, the Lord's name is engraved upon the hearts of those who believe in Him. No longer do we look back to the hurtful past which previously was sinful, but we are called to start anew and look to the hope of a righteous present and future!

A husband is a wonderful life-partner, indeed, but an intimate relationship with God is even greater!

NOAA's Climate Prediction Center: La Nina is back

La Nina, which contributed to extreme weather around the globe during the first half of 2011, has re-emerged in the tropical Pacific Ocean and is forecast to gradually strengthen and continue into winter. Today, forecasters with NOAA's Climate Prediction Center upgraded last month's La Nina Watch to a La Nina Advisory.

NOAA will issue its official winter outlook in mid-October, but La Nina winters often see drier than normal conditions across the southern tier of the United States and wetter than normal conditions in the Pacific Northwest and Ohio Valley.

"This means drought is likely to continue in the drought-stricken states of Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico," said Mike Halpert, deputy director of the Climate Prediction Center. "La Nina also often brings colder winters to the Pacific Northwest and the northern Plains, and warmer temperatures to the southern states."

Climate forecasts from NOAA's National Weather Service give American communities advance notice of what to expect in the coming months so they can prepare for potential impacts. This service is helping the country to become a Weather Ready Nation at a time when extreme weather is on the rise.

Seasonal hurricane forecasters factored the potential return of La Nina into NOAA's updated 2011 Atlantic hurricane season outlook, issued in August, which called for an active hurricane season. With the development of tropical storm Nate this week, the number of tropical cyclones entered the predicted range of 14-19 named storms.

The strong 2010-11 La Nina contributed to record winter snowfall, spring flooding and drought across the United States, as well as other extreme weather events throughout the world, such as heavy rain in Australia and an extremely dry equatorial eastern Africa.

Average sea surface temperature (SST) anomalies (degree C) for the week centered on Aug. 31, 2011, indicate the re-emergence of La Nina in the tropical Pacific Ocean.

La Nina is a naturally occurring climate phenomenon located over the tropical Pacific Ocean and results from interactions between the ocean surface and the atmosphere. During La Nina, cooler-than-average Pacific Ocean temperatures influence global weather patterns. La Nina typically occurs every three-to-five years, and back-to-back episodes occur about 50 percent of the time. Current conditions reflect a re-development of the June 2010-May 2011 La Nina episode.

Local Church Involved in Drought Relief Efforts

We need input from the community! The First United Methodist Church in Cross Plains is attempting to gather information to submit a request through the United Methodist Church for assistance for the farmers and ranchers affected by the severe drought. We are trying to see if a program similar to the Alvarado Hay Lift would be beneficial in our area. Initially, we are trying to determine the number of people who are in need of hay, so we're asking you to contact the church if this type of program would help you. If you have any other ideas or suggestions to help, please let us know. Please contact the church at 254-725-7377 or email at pastorkevinmorton@gmail.com. Once we gather enough information, we can submit the request for assistance. As we work on this, please continue to pray for rain.

Talk, Talk, Talk — Character, Ora Knowdem played by Kellie Draper rambles on to the deputy while other actors enjoy Dr. Rodentburger's food.

Welcome One and All — A sold out crowd was in attendance as the Murder Mystery Theatre as the play was about to start.

between the players. As for next year, Ricky is still mulling over the what to do with the bank robbery loot, so maybe he and Belinda will show up with the new baby they adopted. Charles Rodenberger pulled off the mad-scientist bit (didn't you like those shiny eyes?) and I think everyone is glad that "Doc" Rodentberger is now out of the meat business. (I TRIED to warn some of you not to eat the pigs-in-the-blanket.) Doc's acceptance of the Nobel Peace Prize is unfortunately scheduled the same time as next year's performance—but maybe we can work something out. Telly Graham (played by Tucker Isbell) had a short cameo appearance and we thank him for representing the younger generation in our production. If Telly's not busy next year, we may have more telegrams for him to deliver. Barbara Seville (played by Helen Parson) proved that some women will do ANYTHING to get a man. After so many desperate attempts, we were thrilled to find out that Barbara finally found true love in Australia. Kellie Draper had the longest speech to recite and finally mastered it for her performance; her acting abilities shined in the character of Ora Knowdem, don't you know. The Sheriff, played by H.D. Weaver and deputy, played by Jack Shepard, might just return next year along with Ora. After all, someone has to figure out who is the murderer.

Happenings at Higginbothams

Editor's Note: The following historical facts were submitted for the conclusion of the Centennial Celebration of Cross Plains for your reading pleasure.
Vanda Anderson-Draper

When you first get out of your vehicle to enter Higginbotham's you notice the rings still in the sidewalk where many years ago they tied their horses up while shopping. Entering the door, you smell wood as the store still has the original floor and ceiling when the building was built.

People also note the posts which help support the building that are unique. The upstairs section of the store is now utilized for storage, but was formerly used to display furniture. Can you imagine how heavy the furniture was being carried upstairs???

The store also had a change cup which was operated by a pull that went to each department. When the clerk would sell an item and received the money, they would send the money and ticket back to the office where the lady in the office would give the correct change back. The change cup was taken down and put in a museum in the Lubbock area.

In the old office, there is a post that has not been painted for years. It has been written on by many people telling about the weather and other events. The weather events are like February 20, 1945- thundered; February 19, 1946 - thundered, rained, sleeted; May 7, 1946- cold enough for a fire; January 12, 1973- 5 degrees below zero this morning after a week of ice, sleet and snow from 6-9 feet of snow on the ground; December 1989—12 to 14 degrees below zero, coldest in history.

Other events posted were March 25, 1975 - death of Chester Glover, who worked here 25 years as an accountant; November 19, 1974 - bank robbed (about 10:27 a.m.), Vera Pearl Bunnell making deposit; January 16, 1978- Baylis Pope found a man lodged in the chimney when he opened store. Man stayed in chimney Saturday night and Sunday night; September 18, 1986 - J.C. Claborn (manager of store) died; July 20, 1987- Steve Lipstraw, clerk in hardware department, shot a hole in ceiling with 410 belonging to Tom Stephenson (manager at the time); Ike Neal, owner of Neal Drug, ran across the street to see if we were getting robbed; March of 1986

Higginbothams went out of dry good business; 1992 the old lumberyard (across the street where Wilson Storage Buildings are now located) were torn down and new lumberyard behind the store was built; July 1968 the new funeral home had its first service.

This store has seen many changes, from writing tickets by hand to posting machines to computers.

The first manager at Cross Plains was Taylor Higginbotham. When he resigned, Tom Anderson filled his position, followed by George Neel, who was transferred from Gustine. J.C. Claborn moved from Rising Star to fill Mr. Neel's vacancy. Tom Stephenson, who currently lives in Cross Plains, filled Doc's position. Jim Hataway was the next manager followed by Mike Smith and today the manager is Vernon Smith.

Higginbotham's has been one of the links in the chain that survived the boom and bust of the 1918 Desdemona Oil Field, the 1929 Depression, boll weevils and drought.

Congratulations to the City of Cross Plains for celebrating your Centennial.

New resources to solve food insecurity across Texas

(IRVING, TEXAS) - September 7, 2011 - The Texas Food Bank Network, Baylor University's Texas Hunger Initiative and First Choice Power today released "Hunger by the Numbers: A Blueprint for Ending Hunger in Texas."

The report includes a hunger scorecard for each of the 254 counties of Texas, a state which ranks second in the nation for food insecurity. The report provides a road map with resources for funding and programs to fight at a local, statewide and national level.

"This is the first time one report measures and describes the extent of hunger and its potential solutions in each of Texas' counties," said Barbara Anderson, executive director of the Texas Food Bank Network, a coalition of the 19 food banks in Texas.

The report comes on the heels of this morning's announcement by the U.S. Department of Agriculture that Texas has the second highest rate of hunger in the nation.

According to USDA, 18.8 percent of Texas households, or one in five were at risk of hunger between 2008 and

Hunger by the Numbers: A Blueprint for Ending Hunger in Texas incorporates the newest national data on hunger made available by Feeding America, the nation's network of food banks, along with U.S. Census data and statewide data on usage of federal and state programs.

"As Texans read this report, they will learn some startling facts about the size of the hunger problem in their state, which currently ranks second worst in the nation when it comes to hunger," said Jeremy Everett, executive director of the Texas Hunger Initiative. "They also may be surprised to learn the extent of the hunger problems in their own back yards."

Hunger reaches every area of the state: 18 percent are food insecure in Harris County, home to the fourth largest city in the nation; 24 percent are food insecure in Hidalgo County, the gateway to Mexico; 16 percent are food insecure in Travis County, where state leaders meet to discuss how to combat these issues. Even Montgomery County, home to The Woodlands and some of the state's most affluent zip codes, has a food insecurity rate of 15 percent, meaning one in seven residents are at risk of hunger.

Along with compiled hunger data county-by-county, the report lists the resources available in each community to address hunger. Those resources include: SNAP (formally food stamps), free and reduced breakfast and lunch in schools, WIC and other federal programs.

First Choice Power, a retail electric provider in Texas, sponsored the report as part of its Food First™ program, which was created to fight hunger in the communities it serves.

"Take a moment to look over this insightful report and ask what you can do to fight hunger in our own backyard," said Brian Hayduk, president of First Choice Power. "We believe the greatest energy source in our state is its people. And we are convinced that an informed community will be an engaged community."

For more information and to view your county's hunger score card, visit www.firstchoicepower.com/HungerGapReport.

National Restaurant Association's ServSafe Exam to be Offered with Professional Food Manager Certification Training in October

Statistics indicate that foodborne illness continues to be a health issue in the United States. Each year, 1 in 4 Americans will become sick, 1 in 1,000 will become hospitalized, and 5,000 will die due to a foodborne illness.

If under the Texas Department of State Health Services (DSHS) jurisdiction each food establishment is required to have one certified food manager on site.

Many of you have already received a letter from the Texas Department of State Health Services regarding this. Under these new rules, each food establishment permitted by the Texas Department of State Health Services must have one certified food manager. Food manager certificates will be valid for 5 years.

Texas AgriLife Extension Service, Taylor County, is offering a professional food manager certification training course. This program will be offered for $115 on October 17th & 24th, at the Taylor County Extension Office located on the Taylor County Expo Grounds. Cost includes training, materials, and the National Restaurant Association's ServSafe certification examination. Registration deadline is September 29th.

This program is designed to not only prepare foodservice managers to pass the certification examination; it will provide valuable education regarding the safe handling of food. Almost 50 cents of every dollar Americans spend on food is spent on meals prepared away from home. Therefore, careful attention to food safety will help keep customers safe and satisfied.

Foodborne illnesses are estimated to cost thousands of dollars in lost wages, insurance, and medical bills. With these statistics, knowledge of how to prevent foodborne illness is essential. The benefits of improved food safety include:

- Increased customer satisfaction
- Improved relationships with health officials

• Prevention of food publicity and law suits due to foodborne illness

By attending the course, foodservice managers will learn about:

- identifying potentially hazardous foods and common errors in food handling
- preventing contamination and cross-contamination of food
- teaching and encouraging personal hygiene for employees
- complying with government regulations
- maintaining clean utensils, equipment and surroundings
- controlling pests

Foodborne illnesses can be prevented by following simple food safety practices. For more information about the Professional Food Manager Certification Training course of Texas AgriLife Extension Service, called "Food Safety: It's Our Business," call Martha Alice Spraberry at 325-672-6048 or send an e-mail to mspraberry@tamu.edu.

Geneva Nelson

Lord, help me appreciate, Everything you do.

Whether I get a little rain, or if I get a slew.

If my place is in the sun, or if it's in the shade.

Let me always look at it as what the Lord has made!

1. If you haven't decided what you want to be when you grow up, be a Christian! There is no other thing that fills you as much...on this earth! If you have never "felt" unconditional love, get ready, it is coming in boat loads!!!

2. We live the best we can, with what instruction we got! If you don't like yours, maybe its time to change manuals.

3. I don't have to know you to love you, through his stripes, we are bound!

4. Thankful has to be built into us, taken for granted...is already there!

5. If we can look back over our lives and see what we have done wrong, can't we as easily look forward and see what to do right?

6. If God had a "wish list", I wonder what it would include?

The Thorny Wire or Devils Rope

As settlers came west in 1800, mostly after the Civil War, they settled on homestead land of 160 acres not quite sure of their future, seeing that Texas had their own homestead laws. The United States Homestead Act stated land had to be partly cleared; have a house and barn built and lived on for 7 years before you could obtain a title.

Life in the American West was reshaped by a series of patents of a simple tool, barbed wire, that helped settlers tame the land. Patents for the improvement of wire fencing were granted by the U.S. Patent Office, beginning with Michael Kelly and ending with Joseph Glidden in November 1874, that shaped the history of the wire.

With no fencing, livestock grazed freely, competing for fodder and water. Where working farms did exist, most property was unfenced and open to forging by roaming cattle and sheep. The swift emergence of this highly effective wire as a favored fencing method changed life on the open range as drastically as the rifle, six-shooter, telegraph, windmill and locomotive.

The new fencing changed the west from vast and undefined prairies/plains to a land of farming and widespread settlements.

Glidden's simple wire barb locked on to one strand of a two strand wire that was twisted. He invented the machinery to mass-produce the wire, also. In 1874, the company's first year, 10,000 pounds were produced. In 1875 600,000 pounds of the 12 1/2 gauge double strand (galvanized) 1,320 feet rolls of wire were produced.

If you lived in a open range county you could fence property to keep the other man's livestock out, not keep yours in.

Resource Care, Clyde clinic construction now underway

Construction of the 7,500 square foot Clyde Resource Care Clinic, located on the North Access Road and Cherry Lane began last week, according to Resource Care CEO Greg Henson.

Henson said construction of the facility is expected to be completed in early 2012.

Carouth Construction in Cross Plains has been awarded the bid to construct a 7,500 square foot medical clinic in Clyde. The clinic sits on a 1.2 acre site, east of Thrifty's Food Mart. Carouth Construction recently completed construction of a new Resource Care Clinic in Cross Plains. Henson also said Carouth Construction also built the Subway restaurant in Cross Plains.

Funding to construct the Clyde clinic will come from grants on hand, as well as a bank loan, Henson said.

Henson said the clinic, to be called "Resource Care, Clyde Clinic", has been designed by CTA Architects in Austin. Henson said CTA designs buildings all over the United States, including the new facility for Dell Computers.

The Resource Care CEO said the project was delayed until the non-profit organization could receive additional funding to pay for the clinic salaries. Henson said Resource Care received a $3.5 million grant over a five year period to pay salaries for all the Resource Care clinics. Henson said Resource Care will receive $650,000 annually from the grant, which is through the New Access Point grant program through the federal government.

Resource Care currently has medical clinics in Albany, Baird, Breckenridge and Cross Plains. The Clyde clinic will be the non-profit group's fifth clinic. Henson said Resource Care is also expanding into Abilene, with a clinic located near Hendrick Medical Center.

Henson said only four Texas clinics received grants in this latest round of funding.

The Resource Care CEO said the Clyde medical clinic will accept all patients. Henson said although Resource Care is not a free clinic, patients pay for services based upon their ability to pay.

Henson said the Clyde clinic will eventually employ 35-40 people, including three full-time doctors. Henson said there will be a doctor on site 12 hours a day, six days a week in the Clyde facility.

Resource Care also plans to employ two full-time dentists, two full-time hygienists and licensed professional counselors.

Henson said the Clyde clinic is not the largest clinic in the chain. He said the Breckenridge clinic is 12,000 square feet. "We believe the business volume at Clyde will be significantly larger than all the others," Henson said of the Clyde clinic.

The Resource Care CEO said he's also talking with Clyde CISD school officials about offering a after-school program at Clyde for students in grades kindergarten through sixth grade. He said the two hour a day program will be for Clyde children in need and the program will be offered at no cost to the parent. Snacks for the children will be provided, Henson said.

Henson said a similar after-school program at the Albany clinic has been very successful. Henson said the program in Albany has been so successful, that Resource Care has purchased a bus to transport the children to various activities, including swimming, track and a summer camp in Shackelford County.

Henson said plans are to hire high school age students and Clyde area teachers to provide oversight for the after-school program in Clyde. He said these oversight positions will be paid jobs.

Henson, who grew up in Abilene and Clyde, graduated from Clyde High School in 1977.

"I'm hoping to get that program rolling in Clyde," Henson said. Henson said he knows that if children are not involved in sports in Clyde, there's nothing for them to do. He said he hopes this after-school program will help make a difference in the lives of children. He said this type of program might put these students on the right path to their future.

The Resource Care chief executive officer said the contract with Carouth Construction calls for the Clyde clinic to be completed in 120 calendar days. He said the contract with Carouth Construction was signed last Friday, September 9th.

Henson said Resource Care will be purchasing new equipment for the Clyde medical clinic.

"There will be a lot of hiring to do," Henson said for the Clyde clinic. He said the company has recently hired a Physician's Assistant who will be relocated to the Clyde clinic.

Henson took over as executive director of Resource Care in January 2011. He had previously served as chief operating officer for the previous year, before taking over the executive director position.

District Court Trial results in 25 year sentence for drug manufacturing

The 42nd District Court heard the case of The State of Texas vs. Ronald Sanders on September 13th and 14th in the Callahan County Courthouse. The trial was heard before the court without a jury. The State of Texas was represented by Callahan County Attorney Shane Deel, and the defendant was represented by Abilene attorney Britt Thurman.

Evidence presented during the trial showed that the Clyde PD, Clyde VFD, and Callahan County Sheriff's Department responded to a 911 call reporting a possible fire on the evening of September 11, 2009 on Shari Lane in Clyde, Texas. Upon arriving at the scene, law enforcement did not find a fire, but did find odors consistent with the manufacture of methamphetamines. Law enforcement personnel entered the residence to get any occupants out of the hazardous situation, retrieving Mr. Sanders and another individual from a bedroom in the residence. After securing the remainder of the house, and allowing the fumes to subside, officers found a meth lab operating in one of the bathrooms of the house.

The scene was processed by Clyde PD with assistance from the Sheriff's Department and an Abilene PD narcotics agent. The officers recovered over 200 grams of methamphetamine from the house. Clyde PD officers also searched a vehicle at the residence which was known to have been occupied by Sanders. Officers found numerous items located in the vehicle which are used in the manufacture of methamphetamine. This evidence was presented to the court through the testimony of Clyde PD Officers Brian Black, Tommy Morris, Tom Elick, Eric Howard, and Robert Dalton as well as Abilene PD Officer Jason Haak.

Sanders was found guilty of the manufacture of methamphetamine and possession of methamphetamine by the court. During punishment proceedings, it was proven that Sanders had previous convictions for burglary and drug possession. Sanders was sentenced to 25 years confinement in the state penitentiary.

Bake sale planned Saturday for Clyde resident needing double-lung transplant

A bake sale is planned for Saturday, September 24th at Lawrence Brothers IGA in Clyde to help pay for a double-lung transplant for Clyde resident Pat Morris. Pat is the wife of Wes Automotive owner Wes Morris.

The bake sale will be held at the Lawrence Brothers IGA beginning at 8:00 a.m.

Pat has never smoked. In 2003, Pat was diagnosed with Alpha 1-Antitrypsin Deficiency, which is a genetic disorder caused by a defective gene called Alpha 1-Antitrypsin, leading to less activity into the blood and lungs. Severe Alpha-1 causes COPD (Emphysema). There is no cure for this disease, but only replacement therapies and treatments that slow down the process of deterioration in the lungs and sometimes in the heart.

According to Wes, most cases of Alpha-1 are misdiagnosed as emphysema. Wes said there are just two known cases of Alpha-1 in the Big Country. He said Pat became aware of the deficiency when she was working at Hendrick Medical Center in Abilene in the rehab department.

In Pat's case, she has gone through all the treatments and therapies for the past eight years and she has reached the point where she needs a double-lung transplant due to this disorder.

She was placed on an organ waiting list last Tuesday at Baylor Medical Center in Dallas. According to Wes, they could receive the call any minute. A double-lung transplant runs in the neighborhood of $650,000.

Wes said when they get the call for a transplant, they will be required to spend about six months in Dallas.

"She has a lot more life to live, as she is the wife of Wesley Morris since 1972, has two daughters, Heather Peterson of Sutton, Nebraska and DeDe Morris, of Abilene, four grandsons, as well as two sisters, Tammy Brown of Cottonwood and Jeanette Ray of Cottonwood, and a brother, Jimmy Stroud of Odessa, and has many family and friends that love her dearly," according to family members.

...needing double-lung transplant

Alpha-1 Antitrypsin Deficiency (Alpha-1) is a hereditary condition that is passed on from parents to their children through genes. This condition may result in serious lung disease in adult and/or liver disease in infants, children and adults.

Alpha-1 occurs when there is a severe lack of a protein in the blood called alpha antitrypsin (AAT) that is mainly produced by the liver. The main function of AAT is to protect the lungs from inflammation caused by infection and inhaled irritants such as tobacco smoke. The low level of AAT in the blood occurs because the AAT is abnormal and cannot be released from the liver at the normal rate. This leads to a build up of abnormal AAT in the liver that can cause liver disease.

Symptoms of Alpha-1 related to the lungs include: Shortness of breath, wheezing, chronic cough and phlegm production, and recurring chest colds.

Symptoms of Alpha-1 related to the liver include: eyes and skin turning yellow (jaundice), swelling of the abdomen (ascites), and vomiting blood and passing blood in the stool.

Testing for Alpha-1 is fairly simple, quick, and highly accurate. It is done through a blood test or a mouth swab test. People at risk for Alpha-1 should be tested because: there are treatments and preventive measures that may slow the progression of lung disease and help you take better control of your health; and since is hereditary, Alpha-1 can be passed on to your children. It should be considered when making decisions about having children and should be discussed with your family members.

Everyone with emphysema, chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD), chronic bronchitis or asthma that is incompletely reversible after aggressive treatment should be tested for Alpha-1. They include: individuals with bronchiectasis, newborns, children and adults with unexplained liver disease, individuals with a family history of liver disease, blood relatives of a person diagnosed with Alpha-1, and anyone with panniculitis, a skin disease.

The test for Alpha-1 requires a physician's prescription and is usually covered by medical insurance. Confidential testing is available through the Alpha-1 Coded Testing (ACT) Study, through which anyone can have a free, confidential test and get their results. For more information on the ACT Study, call (877) 886-2383.

Mystery Picture #6 Identified

Project Pride's mystery picture contest appropriately enough was the front of the Robert E. Howard Museum on Highway 36, west of the motel. The D & H were part of the sign by the front door indicating that Doctor Howard lived there and was available for rural medical emergencies. He also held office hours in various locations around town during his 18 year practice here before moving to Ranger.

Dr. and Mrs. Howard moved into that house in 1919 with their teen-age son, Robert. The house was built in the early 1900's and the Howard's were probably the second family to live in the house. Project Pride purchased the house in 1989 and restored it as a Museum to preserve the legacy of the world-famous author as well as a memorial to an era in the history of Cross Plains.

Correctly identifying picture #6 were Bob Ossowski, Larry Pointer, Bob Childress, Michelle

Kaiser, Leo Franke, Judy Luter, the Shepard girls (Jackilann, Madilynn and Abbigale) and Helen Parsons. These names will be in the drawing for the $100 at the Celebration Banquet on September 24th.

Project Pride would like to thank everybody who made a special effort to cruise around town, looking for the mystery locations and then entered the contest. It has been another fun way to explore our past.

Postal Service to hold public meeting for Burkett

Burkett, TX-The U.S. Postal Service will hold a public meeting to discuss its proposal to make possible changes in the way postal services are provided in Burkett.

The community meeting will take place at 4:30 p.m. on September 28, at the Burkett Christian Life Center located on Pine St. Customers will have an opportunity to meet with a Postal Service representative to discuss alternatives.

A review of business of activities of the Post Office at this location revealed that the office workload has declined. This reduced workload suggests the maintenance of an independent Post Office here may no longer be warranted.

Anyone who wishes to submit comments in writing can send them to:

Manager, Consumer & Industry Contact
USPS Fort Worth District
4600 Mark IV Parkway
Fort Worth, TX 76161-9631

As more customers choose to conduct their postal business online, on their smart phones and at their favorite shopping destinations, the need for the U.S. Postal Service to maintain its nearly 32,000 retail offices-the largest retail network in the country- diminishes. To that end, the U.S. Postal Service announced July 26 that it will be taking the next step in right-sizing its expansive retail network by conducting studies of approximately 3,700 retail offices to determine customer needs. As part of this effort, the Postal Service also introduced a retail-replacement of option for affected communities around the nation.

"Today, more than 35 percent of the Postal Service's retail revenue comes from expanded access locations such as grocery stores, drug stores, office supply stores, retail chains, self-service kiosks, ATMs and usps.com, open 24-7," said Postmaster General Patrick Donahoe. "Our customer's habits have made it clear that they no longer require a physical post office to conduct most of their postal business."

For communities currently without a postal retail office and for communities affected by these retail optimization efforts, the Postal Service introduced the Village Post Office as a potential replacement option. Village Post Offices would be operated by local businesses, such as pharmacies, grocery stores and other appropriate retailers, and would offer popular postal products and services such as stamps and flat-rate packaging.

"By working with third-party retailers, we're creating easier, more convenient access to our products and services when and where our customers want them," Donahoe said. "The Village Post Office will offer another way for us to meet our customers' needs."

With 32,000 postal retail offices and more than 70,000 third-party retailers-Approved Postal Providers-selling postage stamps and providing expanded access to their postal products and services, customers today have about 100,000 locations across the nation where they can do business with the Postal Service.

"The Postal Service of the future will be smaller, leaner and more competitive and it will continue to drive commerce, serve communities and deliver value," Donahoe added.
