LAZBUDDIE YEAR BOOK FUND RAISER--attracted 42 teams from Pampa to Three Way. Basketball was the topic and project "funds" was the aim. The 12 member Year Book staff at Lazbuddie High School aspires to attend the Dallas County Year Book Workshop this summer and also to add to their computer inventory. The Three-On-Three Basketball Tournament proved to be the perfect summer time fund raiser project for the group according to Mrs. Jennings, the year book sponsor. Teams, ranging in age from fifth grade to an open men and women division, traveled to Lazbuddie for a different kind of basketball experience. The Three-on-Three Competition is played half court and is more of a street ball game because the players must call their own fouls.

Amounts Vary From Half To Over An Inch

Ending a long drought, dark thunderstorms moved into the area Friday night and returned again on Sunday night leaving behind some badly needed moisture and some hail.

"We had some hail damage," said Mrs. Chad Gregory, "we are not sure how much. We got hailed out on the place north of the Lazbuddie Gin. Mrs. Gregory reported that they received four tenths of an inch of rain on Friday and another eight tenth of an inch on Sunday."

The hail covered approximately a two mile strip in the Hub area.

On the southern end of Bailey County, Pat Duplar at Bailey Gin Co. reported that they received a half inch of rain Sunday night without any hail. "The rain will help bring the crops up, I just don't know if it is enough," Ms. Duplar said.

Mrs. Don Seales reported that they received six tenths of an inch of rain Sunday night and no hail. On their dry land in the Longview area they received one and a tenth inch of rain and no hail. "It is enough to help, and maybe we will get some more," Mrs. Seales said.

Five miles west of Muleshoe, Ronald Scott received four tenths of an inch of rain Friday night and another four tenths of an inch on Sunday.

City Council Meets In Regular Session Tuesday

Muleshoe City Council met at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday morning in the council chambers of the City Hall. Mayor Robert Montgomery called the meeting to order and minutes of the previous meeting and the budget workshop were approved as distributed.

Darrell Nowell addressed the council concerning a carport he had built on the city right of way, and didn't get a building permit. He stated that it was not under any utility lines, and there was no traffic beyond the carport so it would not pose a problem.

Following a lengthy discussion the councilmen denied the variance, even though it was a nice structure, for the construction, due to the fact that if they granted this variance others would want one too and things could get out of hand.

The council also discussed the taking of long term lease proposals for certain city owned property. Long term lease proposals include the old air port and Santa Rosa, 1530 acres.

The city of Muleshoe has leased the grazed Santa Rosa in past (seven or eight years), now they want to lease it on five year terms. It was explained that it is used for winter grazing, getting out from

Blood Supply Is Low More Donors Needed

In the summertime, blood centers can really feel the heat. When patients need blood, but the supply of blood is low, the pressure mounts quickly.

Blood centers like United Blood Services of Lubbock can only keep their commitment to patients when the community provides the basic ingredient---blood. Unfortunately, summer donors are often in short supply because of all the fun summer activities everyone enjoys.

Along with the recreational activities that distract potential donors, there are other reasons why blood centers can feel the heat.

"High schools and colleges are important sources of blood donors during the school year," said Jana Belw, community relations

Texas Melons For The Summer: Nutritious As Well As Delicious

Fresh Texas melons may be the wonder food of the long hot summer. They taste great. They're very low in sodium and contain no fat or cholesterol. And they are a significant to excellent source of folic acid, vitamins A and C and potassium.

"Shoppers will soon be seeing a thumping good crop of cantaloupes and watermelons at the market this summer," Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry said. "Not only are these melons mouth-watering good, they offer impressive nutritional benefits as well."

Cantaloupes, planted in all nine growing areas of the state, are available March through November, with the peak harvesting period being from June to September.

Some consumers are already finding Texas cantaloupes in their supermarkets. Because of innovative planting methods being used by many growers, this year's crop of cantaloupes will be of a higher quality in taste and appearance. In other words, they will be larger, sweeter and prettier.

Ready-to-eat cantaloupes should have a slightly golden under-color and netting which stand out prominently and covers the cantaloupe. Along with a smooth, slightly soft stem end, a ripe cantaloupe will have a distinctive, sweet aroma. "Texas has always produced an abundant crop of watermelons," Perry said. "Because the melons are adapted to our climatic conditions, they are grown on more acres in the state than any other vegetable for the fresh market."

Available March through October, with June through August being the heaviest volume period, watermelons are already on their way to supermarkets from the Rio Grande Valley growing area.

The harvesting of the state's more than 44,000 acres of watermelons, will spread upward from the Rio Grande Valley to Coastal Bend, the Winter Garden, Central Texas and onto the Panhandle throughout the summer months, assuring that consumers will have fresh melons all summer a long.

Uncut melons should be well shaped with full ends. The underside of the melon should be creamy in color where it touched the ground.

"Texas fresh cantaloupes and watermelons will play starring roles this summer at breakfast, lunch and dinner as dessert, snack, or part of a salad," Perry said.

Super-Nutritious Summer Snacks For Kids

Summer time means more play time for children and an increased need for high-energy snacks, says a nutritionist at the USDA's Children's Nutrition Research Center.

"Parents can reinforce good eating habits this summer by providing their children with plenty of healthy treats," says Dr. Corinne Montandon, an assistant professor or nutrition at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

By giving some thought to snack selection, Montandon believes parents can meet their children's dietary needs while sending a positive nutritional message.

Instead of stocking the kitchen with chips, cakes, sodas and other high-fat convenience foods, she recommends the following summer snacks:

- frozen low-fat yogurt
- fresh fruits and fruit juices
- frozen orange wedges, banana slices or grapes. (grapes and other small snack foods should not be offered to children younger than 5 because they could choke).
- milk shakes made with low-fat

- milk or fruit juice.
- finger-size servings of crisp, raw vegetables
- peanut butter-stuffed celery pieces
- low-fat string cheese
- miniature pizzas
- slices of low-fat sandwich meat rolled around pieces of fruit or low-fat cheese

- natural frozen fruit pops
- whole-grain crackers, graham or animal crackers
- unsweetened or lightly sweetened cereal

Montandon suggests posting a list of snack choices on the refrigerator door or designating a special area in the refrigerator or counter where snacks may be found.

For easy access, she recommends placing snacks on easy-to-reach shelves, providing drinks in single-serving cartons and storing foodstuffs in easy-to-open, plastic containers.

Montandon also encourages parents to discuss appropriate snack times.

Letter To The Editor

Route 2
Rotan, Texas 79546
June 20, 1993

Dear Editor:
During the past two years, I have had the pleasure of serving as the consultant pharmacist for the Muleshoe Area Medical Center. However, I have resigned recently to accept another position, and will be moving from the area.

I would like to express my appreciation to the medical staff and hospital staff for the kindness and cooperation they have extended to me. I am also grateful to Mr. Richard Murphy for his support and able guidance.

The Muleshoe Area Medical Center is a fine facility, and one that the citizens of Bailey County can be proud of. I wish you continued success and growth, and thank you for allowing me to be associated with your community.

Sincerely,
Ella Raye Lovejoy, RPh

Dear Editor:

I hope your readers will take a moment to stop and recall a few of the many ways in which the late Governor John Connally made Texas and America better for us and for our children.

Governor Connally is known as a three-term governor, of course, and as a secretary of the Navy and the Treasury, but he was also a father to Texas' great university system. In fact, at every major milestone of contemporary Texas, John Connally was there, standing tall, leading, making a difference, making history.

He strode across the eras with grace, dignity and iron determination. He will be missed, but more importantly, he will be remembered.

Yours respectfully,
Phil Gramm

WARM GRILLED CHICKEN SALAD WITH LEMON MUSTARD DRESSING

Serves 6-8

- 1/2 cup pine nuts
- 3/4 cup fresh lemon juice
- 2 tablespoons grainy mustard
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped chives
- 1 1/2 cups oil
- Salt
- White pepper
- 4 medium whole chicken breasts, boned, halved, and skinned
- 1/2 pound green beans, cut into 1 1/2-inch pieces
- 2 heads romaine lettuce, light green and white part only, torn into bite-size pieces
- 4 endive, cleaned and thinly sliced
- 3 medium carrots, peeled and julienned
- 1/2 pound mushrooms, thinly sliced

1. Preheat the oven to 350°F. Toast the pine nuts until lightly brown, 5 to 7 minutes. Watch carefully.

2. To make the dressing: Mix the lemon juice, mustard, and chives together. Slowly whisk in the olive oil until blended. Add the salt and pepper and taste for seasoning.

3. Place the chicken-breasts in a large, shallow, nonaluminum dish and pour half of the dressing over. Marinate for at least half an hour or up to 4 hours.

4. Cook the green beans in a large saucepan of boiling water 7 to 10 minutes, depending on their size. The beans should be crisp-tender. Drain and chill until ready to prepare the salad.

5. Place the salad greens and endive in a large salad bowl. Arrange the green beans, carrots, jicama and mushrooms on top.

6. Prepare the barbeque for medium-heat grilling. Grill the chicken breasts 6 to 8 minutes, depending on their thickness. Remove and carve them on the diagonal into 1/2-inch slices.

7. To serve: Arrange the warm strips of chicken on top of the salad. Scatter the pine nuts on top, pour enough dressing over to moisten, toss, and serve. Serve the remaining dressing on the side.

The Realization Of Her Fondest Dream...

In the St. Petersburg State Academic Ballet Theater under Askold Makarov's management everything seemed to be normal during the daily rehearsal: The sound of the music was heard; The choreographer was showing the steps to the dancers and they were repeating these steps after her, not familiar, at first, with pauses and stoppings and then becoming more and more confident. Nevertheless, there was something very unusual happening, even something that had never been heard before.

This was the first time that an American choreographer was creating an original ballet especially for this company's ballet artists--a fresh, new work, and not repeating or restoring, for the company, a ballet composition that had already been done before for others. For Professor Peggy Willis-Aarnio from Texas Tech University, Lubbock, Texas, this collaboration with the Russian dance artists of the Saint-Petersburg Ballet Company was the realization of her fondest dream: to work in Saint-Petersburg, the real home of Russian ballet, where the heart and soul of classical dance are so alive. At last, her dream had turned into a reality which is reminiscent of the magic dreams found in so many of the ballets she loves so well.

For twenty years Peggy Willis-Aarnio had been thinking of this ballet to music by genius Russian composer Sergei Rachmaninoff (named "Rhapsody on a Theme by Paganini"). Her final artistic decisions were made here, in Saint-Petersburg, during the current season of "White Nights", when the unmoved waters of many channels and rivers like mirrors reflect the duplicate beauty of architecture and landscapes, as she worked with the multi-talented dancers of Makarov's company. The whole atmosphere of the city, the magic and beauty of its white nights helped her to feel the composer's soul and to hear in his music not only the dramatic story of Paganini (as her great predecessors Fokin and Lavrovsky perceived this music), but the tender and impassioned lyrical themes, as well.)

Peggy's ballet is called "Rhapsody on a Love Theme". This is a duet-dialogue between a Man and Woman, accompanied by four couples. The choreography is sublimely poetical and at the same time powerful and moving. This is captivating and infectious dance choreography. The choreography corresponds to, and follows the music, in spirit and form throughout, requiring great versatility and imagination in expression on the part of the choreographer. Lyrical duets are changed to bravura variations, and then to canticlenus adagios-with fluid dynamism and brilliance in virtuoso passages. The choreographer succeeds in enticing each episode's mood and spirit and builds up the whole composition in space, masterfully. This ballet should be called "The Poems in Honour of Love and Classical Dance" and its author should be celebrated for a real expressive triumph.

By the way, for Professor Willis-Aarnio, this work could not be finished with a different result. The inspirational source for her choreographic design is not only the music itself, as it often occurred before, but also, the strength and special skills of this group of brilliant dancers, who she had at her disposal--the world class professional dancers, graduates of Vaganova's Academy of Russian Ballet. In addition to this the leading part is performed by Galina Mezentseva-the first class ballet star, Prima-Ballerina of the Kirov's Ballet, working now in Western Europe.

Galina and Peggy have worked together for two years but seem to be friends since childhood. They understand each other without words as they have the same ideals in the Art of Ballet. "Rhapsody on a Love Theme" was choreographed by Peggy especially for Galina-who now is the most individual and deepest respected ballerina in the current International ballet community. To work with such an Artist is a great thrill and honor for a choreographer--an experience that makes Peggy glow with excitement

Peggy's ballet is almost ready for the first night's premiere. She will be at home soon in Texas, but is looking forward to returning to Saint-Petersburg in order to carry out the last rehearsals; to check the scenery and costumes (which are supposed to be very interesting and original, and designed by her colleague from Texas Tech

Travelling With The Texas Angler

By: Keith R. Warren

When Texas summer temperatures soar towards the century mark it generally means that fishing is going to be slow, especially in freshwater. Fish are cold blooded creatures and when it gets too hot for them it has the same effect as when it is too cold. They become very inactive and don't feed.

But for the angler who doesn't let the heat bother him, there's one type of fishing that'll really pay off. Texas rivers are full of fish that'll bite.

Recently I made a float trip down the Llano River with Ray Box, owner of Gruene Outfitters. Ray has guided clients on float trips down this hill country river for years and specializes in fly fishing. The purpose of this trip was to shoot video for an upcoming Texas Angler program.

These trips are usually made in canoes which Box provides. These two man vessels are more than adequate for two fishermen and all their gear.

The Llano River stretches from above Mason, Texas to the Colorado River at Kingsland, Texas. The clear water flows entirely through private ranches as do most of our Texas Rivers. It is a combination of remote local and private property that keep Texas rivers great fisheries.

As we launched the canoe and headed downstream, our videographer followed in a large raft which held all the necessary video equipment and gear. The day we made our float the weather was extremely hot.

Although Ray prefers to fish with a fly rod, both of us were using ultra light spinning equipment. We hadn't traveled over 15 minutes and we pulled over to a small bank that had overgrown brush which provided a shady spot. My guide instructed me to throw into the shade. Instantly I hooked up on a nice spotted bass. After releasing it, I made another cast in the same shaded area. Bang, another nice bass, then another.

The action was so fast that the cameraman had a hard time keeping up. When the fishing slowed down in that spot, we moved downstream to another similar area and found eager biters at each spot we stopped. In that short afternoon of fishing we boated and released well over 60 fish. When we returned to our vehicles we heard the temperature had reached 105 degrees. That's when I realized that if you want to catch fish in the heat of the summer, you'd better be fishing a river.

Ray Box is a knowledgeable guide who provides his clients with a wonderful trip down the Llano River. He asks that anyone who is floating our rivers practice catch and release of fish. The Llano, as most Texas rivers, receives no stocking from our fisheries department. Therefore the only way we can ensure a good fish population is to practice catch and release.

Ricky Van Shelton takes the stage Sunday, Sept. 26, with one show at 7 p.m. Tickets for his performance are $12.

Michael English and 4 Him team up for an appearance at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 29. Tickets are $:6.

Alan Jackson, TNN Music City News' Entertainer of the Year for 1993, plays Oct. 1, at 7 and 9 p.m. Tickets are $15 for either performance.

All coliseum show tickets are reserved and do not include gate admission, which is $4 for adults 12 or older and $1 for children 6-11. Children under the age of 6 are admitted to the fair grounds free.

Ticket orders by mail are being received and processed daily by the fair office, according to Lewis. Tickets will be mailed to fans beginning July 12. To order tickets write: SHOW TICKETS, P.O. Box 208 Lubbock, Tx 79408. Enclose a check or money order for the tickets, $1 per order handling charge and a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

ton businessman Mike Graham provided Travis County prosecutors with testimony he negotiated the job-for-endorsement swap in telephone visits with Hutchison and her husband, Dallas bond lawyer Ray Hutchison; and former San Saba County judge, Tom Bowden, who lost a bid for the office of state treasurer in the 1990 Democratic primary.

Bowden endorsed Hutchison in her successful election race against Democrat Nikki Van Hightower. Soon after the election, Bowden accepted a $31,000 a-year job in the treasurer's office.

Graham Under Indictment
Graham is under felony indictment, having been charged with violating competitive bidding requirements on a private prison project in Pecos County.

According to a report in the Austin American-Statesman, Ray Hutchison worked with Graham on the financing of six private prisons before the deal Graham says he brokered between the Hutchisons and Bowden. One of the six prisons was in San Saba.

Bowden has denied allegations for a job-for-endorsement agreement, but the investigation is under way, and the Travis County District Attorney's Office is reviewing Graham's written testimony and poring through treasury department tapes, computer logs and employee records.

"Potty Parity" Bill Signed
It was bill signing time in the governor's office last week. And one bill Gov. Ann Richards inked was the "potty parity" measure, which requires new public and private facilities where the public congregates to have a 2 to 1 ratio of women's-to-men's restrooms.

Attending the bill-signing ceremony was Denise Wells, the woman who inspired the legislation. Wells was arrested at a concert at The Summit in Houston in 1990 for using a men's restroom to avoid long lines for the women's rooms.

Richards called a sponsor of the bill, Sen. Gonzalo Barrientos, D-Austin, "my hero."

"I thank you, and my two daughters thank you, and my three granddaughters thank you," she said.

Richards also signed into law bills that:

- Allow businesses with three to 50 employees to band together to buy health insurance and transfer it when employees change jobs.

- Provide $750,000 for the Texas Department of Health to establish a birth defects registry and help Mexico do the same.

- Promote alternative fuel use by creating the Alternative Fuels Conversion Council and Alternative Fuel Use Fund.

- Raise from $6 to $10 a day the penalty for contractors on state jobs who fail to pay their workers the prevailing wage.

- Reduce medical malpractice suits and hold down insurance costs through reforms in state medical malpractice laws.

Student Violence Rampant
Nearly one in five Texas teachers responding to a survey released last week reports experiencing a direct threat of personal violence as student misbehavior in public schools has become rampant.

Of the 1,447 teachers surveyed by the Texas Federation of Teachers, more than 83 percent said student discipline and behavior problems are significant both in and out of the classroom. More than 35 percent said they had a significant problem within their rooms.

"We got some rather shocking responses," said John Cole, president of the 20,000-member TFT. "The bad news is that if you are a classroom teacher in some places, you run the risk of being assaulted in your classroom."

Of the teachers surveyed:

- 53 percent reported an assault on students;
- 20 percent reported an assault by a student on another student armed with a deadly weapon in the 1992-93 school year; and
- 8 percent reported an assault on teachers.

Gov. Connally Laid to Rest
Former Gov. John B. Connally was laid to rest last week in the State Cemetery in Austin.

Connally, a three-term governor, died June 15 of pulmonary fibrosis in Houston's Methodist Hospital after a three-week bout with pneumonia. He was 76.

Notables attending the funeral included former president Richard Nixon, former first lady Lady Bird Johnson, Treasury Secretary Lloyd Bentsen, U.S. Rep. Jake Pickle and the Rev. Billy Graham.

Eulogies were delivered by Mrs. Johnson, Rep. Pickle, Rev. Graham and John B. Connally III, the former governor's eldest son.

Connally was the 11th governor buried in the State Cemetery. The historic cemetery is the final resting place of the father of Texas, Stephen F. Austin.

News From Congressman Larry Combest

Responding to last-minute attempts by an Appropriations subcommittee to kill federal crop insurance and the Rural Development Administration, U.S. Representative Larry Combest (R-Texas) is bringing pressure to bear in Congress to save both programs. Combest sharply criticized interference by the Appropriations Agriculture Subcommittee to rewrite laws by simply killing funding, a violation of procedural rules in the U.S. House of Representatives.

"Fifty-eight percent of West Texas cotton farmers have only the Federal Crop Insurance program, between them and financial ruin caused by weather disaster on their crops," said Combest. "I am rounding up a defense against this effort that wipes out Federal Crop Insurance in counties that suffer crop losses more than 70 percent of the time. To deny federal insurance coverage to producers who need it most wipes out the crops, the farmers, and the farming communities that depend on agriculture-and in West Texas, that's just about everyone."

Combest also warned that a proposal to eliminate the Rural Development Administration (RDA)-and its seven new regional headquarters including the location in Levelland-is particularly wasteful. The RDA concentrates on rural economic development. Just nine months ago, RDA regional headquarters opened in Levelland to place economic decision-making at a level closer to the people of the region.

"To shut down the RDA office in Levelland is a tremendously expensive revolving door move by Congress that would likewise get us nowhere in saving money so soon after the headquarters is opened," said Combest.

As the Ranking Member of the Agriculture Subcommittee on Environment, Credit and Rural Development, Combest is actively opposing the moves to gut crop insurance and the RDA.

Automobile accidents continue to kill people if not the same ones.

Hard work still represents the main essential of success in life.

Governor Signs Bill To Create The Alternative Fuels Council

Governor Richards signed legislation that will create the Alternative Fuels Council and the Alternative Fuels Conversion Fund. The council will operate as a state agency and will have the authority to finance activities supporting and encouraging the use of alternative fuels.

"The reasons to promote alternative fuels are self-evident: it is good for the state's economy and for the people of Texas.

"I am confident that the recipients of the loans and grants will have the foresight to create better and more efficient fuel sources not only for the state but for the whole nation. With the new technologies discovered, Texas will be a leader in the alternative fuels market," added Governor Richards.

Governor Richards also congratulated the bipartisan effort from both chambers and its sponsors on the success of this legislation.

The author of S.B. 737 is Sen. Bivins (R-Amarillo) and the House co-sponsors are Rep. Earley (D-Portland) and Rep. Holzhauser (R-Inez). All sponsors of S.B. 737 were delighted that Governor Richards signed such an important piece of legislation.

"The natural gas industry is very important to Texas and in this time of environmental awareness, it is important to promote alternative fuels. I am proud to carry this bill," said Sen. Bivins.

Rep. Earley agreed with the Governor and his colleagues, "This energy package will undoubtedly improve the environment and the economy of Texas. It will encourage the use of clean-burning alternative fuels which are produced in Texas and make Texas a strong leader in the future."

"The passage of this bill demonstrates the state's continuing effort to encourage the promotion of the use of alternative fuels by both the public and private sector," said Rep. Holzhauser.

The council will be composed of the commissioner of the General Land Office, all three Railroad Commissioners, the chairman of the General Services Commission and the chairman of the Texas Air Control Board. The council will have the authority to distribute funds to eligible borrowers for projects that promote the use or conversion of vehicles to alternative fuels. According to provisions in S.B. 737, governmental entities will also be allowed to apply for funds at no interest.

The monies appropriated to the Alternative Fuels Conversion Fund will consist of oil overcharge funds appropriated by the legislature, gifts, grants, loan repayments, or other money designated by the legislature or the executive branch.

The legislation also authorizes up to $50 million in revenue bond financing for public entities or public-private joint ventures that convert vehicles, purchase "dedicated" converted vehicles or build alternative fuels refueling stations.

Senate Passes Sweeping Criminal Justice Reform Package

Lt. Governor Bob Bullock on Thursday called final Senate passage of a criminal justice reform package "a monumental step" toward addressing growing crime and public safety needs in Texas.

"My hat is off to the Senate," Bullock said. "Hard work and perseverance have paid off. This legislation will do more than anything that has been done at any time in the last 20 years to make Texas a safer place to live."

Bullock reserved special praise for the work of Sen. John Whitmire, author of the bills and House sponsors Reps. Allen Hightower and Allen Place. The anti-crime package will:

- Double the minimum time served by Texas' most violent criminals,
- More than double the minimum time served for murder and indecency with a child,
- Increase the minimum time served for capital murder from 35 to 40 years,
- local jurisdictions to try innovative programs in state jails,
- Help relieve county jail overcrowding.

Senate Bill 532 creates the state jail division which will be less costly to run than traditional state prison facilities. Senate Bill 1067 revises the state penal code. Both bills now go to the Governor for her approval.

- Provide punishment in more cost effective state jails for many nonviolent criminals,
- Provide opportunities for representative for United Blood Services. "Students are fantastic supporters, but we can't hold school blood drives during the summer and the young people become preoccupied with their summer jobs and other activities."

"What's more, businesses may be reluctant to sponsor blood drives during the summer when they might be short-staffed due to employee vacations. We understand their point of view," she said. "However, patients continue to need blood right through the summer, regardless of vacations or school holidays."

To help assure blood is available when and where it is needed, Muleshoe's Blood Advisory Council and the Church of Christ are sponsoring a blood drive from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., Thursday, July 15, in the church's family room. Pass It On You've worked hard to get where you are today. If you're like most people, you've put years of careful effort into building and maintaining your estate. And, like most people, you probably want to have your estate distributed among your family and friends after you pass away.

Unfortunately, estate taxes may take a big bite — with rates as high as 50 percent. Probate and administrative fees may consume another 5 to 10 percent. And the estate your heirs receive may be quite a bit smaller than the one you left. It doesn't seem fair, does it?

Fortunately, there are a number of strategies you can use to make certain your estate goes to the people you want it to. Some will even help your heirs avoid estate taxes and probate.

Come to our FREE workshop on estate planning. We'll show you how you can pass on your estate to your heirs. Instead of the probate court and tax collectors.

Tornado Season Is Here!!

Did You Know?

Tornado Facts

- * The average number of tornadoes in Texas each year is 119 with an average of 11 Texans killed each year.
- * Tornadoes can occur anytime during the year, but are most frequent in Texas during the months of April, May and June.
- * Tornadoes can occur at anytime of the day, but are most frequent in Texas between 3 p.m. and 6 p.m. CST.
- * Sometimes tornado outbreaks occur where tornadoes cause widespread damage over an extensive area. During the afternoon and evening of April 3rd and the early morning of April 4th, 1974, a "super outbreak" of 148 tornadoes across 13 states killed more than 300 people, injured more than 6,000, and caused $600 million in damage.
- * On March 18, 1925, the "Tri-State" tornado traveled some 219 miles across Missouri, Illinois, and Indiana it lasted for over 3 1/2 hours and killed 689 people.
- * Codell Kansas was hit by tornadoes in 1916, 1917, and 1918. They all occurred on the same day, May 20th.
- * Most tornadoes (about out of every 10) are weak with wind speeds no greater than about 110 mph, and a path length which averages 3 miles.
- * Nearly 3 out of every 10 tornadoes are strong, with wind speeds between 110 and 200 mph, and a path length which averages 9 mile.
- * Less than 2 percent of all tornadoes are violent with wind speeds over 200 mph and a path length which averages 26 miles.
- * Since 1950, there have been more than 4700 tornadoes in Texas.
- * Since 1916, 1103 people have been killed by tornadoes in Texas.
- * It has been rumored that rivers, hills, and valleys protect an area from tornadoes.
- * This is not true. Tornadoes have been observed to cross rivers and valleys and to climb over mountains with little change in intensity.

Tornado Safety Rules

When a tornado approaches -- your immediate action may mean life or death!

Seek inside shelter, preferably in a tornado cellar, underground excavation, or a steel-framed or reinforced concrete building of substantial construction. Stay away from windows!

In Cities or Towns

In office buildings -- stand in an interior hallway on a lower floor, preferably in the basement.

In factories -- on receiving a tornado warning, post a lookout. Workers should move quickly to the section of a plant offering the greatest protection in accordance with advance plans.

In homes and office buildings -- go to the basement or to an interior part of the lowest level (a closet, a bathroom, or an interior hall). Get under something sturdy.

Mobile homes are particularly vulnerable to overturning during strong winds. Trailer parks should have a community shelter. Appoint a community leader responsible for constant radio monitoring during threatening weather or during watch periods. Leave mobile homes or vehicles and go to a substantial structure. If there is no shelter nearby, lie flat in the nearest ditch, ravine, or culvert with your hands shielding your head.

In Schools

Whenever possible, go to an interior hallway on the lowest floor. Avoid auditoriums and gymnasium or other structures with wide, free-span roofs. If a building is not of reinforced construction, go quickly to a nearby reinforced building, or to a ravine or open ditch and lie flat. Keep listening!

Keep Listening

Your radio and television stations will broadcast the latest tornado advisory information. Call the Weather Service ONLY to report a tornado.

REMEMBER: Tornado watch means tornadoes are expected to develop. Tornado warning means a tornado has actually been sighted.

Reversing Heart Disease: A Call To Action

By Donald E. Wesson, M.D.

The time to improve the health among African-Americans is now.

Contrary to the diseases most often given press coverage in the African-American community, the chief cause of death is heart disease, the number one killer of Americans in general. Studies have shown, however, that in concentrated urban environments, African-Americans are more likely to suffer the devastating effects of this common disorder.

A study in the Harlem community revealed that death rates of people living in Central Harlem--96 percent of whom are African-American and 41 percent in poverty-- are nearly three times as likely to die before age 65 as are whites.

Heart disease includes a number of conditions but heart attack (when a part of the heart muscle dies due to lack of blood flow) and heart failure (when the heart muscle fails to pump the amount of blood to serve the body's needs) make up most of these problems.

All Americans are at risk to get heart disease but some people are at higher risk than others. Heart disease runs in families so your risk is increased if you have relatives with heart disease.

People with diabetes and/or high blood pressure (hypertension) are at increased risk. African-Americans have higher rates of both diseases. Other risk factors include smoking, being overweight, lack of regular exercise, chronic stress, high blood cholesterol levels, and unhealthy diets. Everyone should learn how to reduce their risk of getting heart disease and then take the necessary steps to increase their chances to live a long, healthy life.

Until recently, the primary approach of the medical profession toward heart disease was to treat the problem once it appeared. Fortunately, prevention is gaining in importance as doctors learn more about the causes of heart disease.

More importantly, medical science has taught us that people can be empowered to lower their risks for heart disease. Those with diabetes and hypertension should be under a doctor's care and follow his or her advice to control these diseases.

All people, regardless of their individual risk, can increase their chances of living without heart disease by leading healthier lifestyles. Those who smoke should stop and overweight persons should reduce their weight.

Important, too, is regular exercise--even if it is walking--which not only reduces your risk for heart disease but also makes for better control of diabetes and hypertension.

A "heart-friendly" diet low in saturated fats, cholesterol and salt is recommended. But it may not be easy.

A recent study at Baylor College of Medicine's Nutrition Research Center revealed that African-Americans--particularly women--may have a more difficult time in losing weight.

Traditional foods and lifestyle problems can interfere with following a weight loss program. They study was one of four pilot studies for a proposed five-year Black American Lifestyle Intervention (BALI) study to look at long-term outcome of obesity control among minority women. Stay tuned.

Exercise and dietary changes traditionally have been recommended for people with heart disease and to those who have been identified to be at high risk. Since leading a healthier lifestyle is beneficial for everyone regardless of risk for heart disease, these lifestyle changes are useful for the community as a whole. This is particularly important for the African American Community considering the devastating toll heart disease has taken.

Community efforts to support a healthy lifestyle can increase your chances to live without heart disease.

Diabetics Can Have Healthy Pregnancies

Diabetic women who want children need to be sure of their own health and in good control of their sugar levels prior to pregnancy.

If the woman's sugar is too high or fluctuates too much, her baby could be harmed even before she knows she is pregnant, said Dr. Karolina Adam, an obstetrician and gynecologist at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

Prior to conception, a diabetic should be certain her kidney function is good and that she does not have high blood pressure or heart disease.

Should also be checked for diabetic proliferative retinopathy, an eye condition that can cause blindness. Pregnancy could increase that risk.

Some diabetics would be advised not to attempt pregnancy, but many can have healthy pregnancies and healthy babies if they care for themselves properly, Adam said.

News From Congressman Larry Combest

Last week, the U.S. House of Representatives could have had the chance to cut its $658 million operating budget by 25 percent. I stress the words, "could have," because 46 budget-cutting amendments were not allowed to be voted upon when the Legislative Branch Appropriations reached the House floor. As the Wall Street Journal wrote in a recent editorial, "When democracy means they might lose, the House leadership prefers to win votes the old-fashioned way: They shut off real debate and choices."

Within the inner-workings of the House of Representatives, is the Rules Committee, controlled by the Speaker of the House and the sole determiner of what is considered on the House floor. Each piece of legislation that comes to a vote on the floor must first be granted a rule from the Rules Committee. Granting an "open" rule allows the bill open to all relevant amendments. A "closed" rule sharply limits the number of amendments or closes them out completely. The choice is dictated to the Rules Committee by the House leadership. In the case of the Legislative Branch Appropriations, the 9 Democrats out-voted the 4 Republicans on the committee to prevent the majority of budget-cutting amendments.

"Closed" rules so far have prevented amendments to remove the Clinton Btu Tax. Also, "closed" rules stopped attempts to have a vote on including tax increases on Social Security recipients. For similar reasons, fiscal conservatives have been denied the opportunity to present a true line-item veto authority for the president. Often, amendments that are allowed on the House floor are watered-down or destined to defeat.

The Founding Fathers intended the House of Representatives to be closest to the people and to freely debate the issues of the time. However, the granting of "open" rules has gone from 179 in the 95th Congress, down to just 37 in the last Congress (the 102nd). Only four "open" rules have been granted this year. For 205 years, Legislative Branch Appropriations were brought to the floor under an "open" rule--but not this year.

An amendment cutting the size of huge committee staffs was not allowed for debate. However, the Rules Committee did allow an amendment that simply prevented Members of Congress from moving to another office for a better view. Fine, we saved taxpayers some money, but at a time when more budget-cutting amendments should have been allowed, this seemed like a classical case of re-arranging the furniture on a sinking ship, top-heavy with a cargo of debt.

While the big spenders in Congress still outnumber me and my fellow conservatives on budget votes, what I object to most is the "gag" rules that shut off attempts to even offer meaningful alternatives. Many years ago, a heartfelt position could be fought out, and when the dust settled, the best argument won. Now, because of the restrictions of the Rules Committee, Americans are seeing a constitutionally dangerous trend that is costing citizens their full debate and representation in the "People's House."

Living A Long Life Has Key Ingredients

If a person likes life, they're usually interested in things that will help them live longer. Several things could be listed from various sources but here are a few I've gleaned. Those who have lived a long time seem to have these following things in common.

1. Activity- regardless of their situation they stay busy with things they enjoy. They are usually busy with things that involve other people.

2. Positive outlook- this does not deny the reality of bad things but it lessens their effect or intensity. How we perceive things controls a great deal of how they impact us.

3. Commitment to something- those who enjoy long life seem to have a sense of purpose or direction about them. They believe in what they do; they belong someplace; others depend on them due to their commitment; they put themselves in a position of being needed.

4. Ability to cope with loss- long life will naturally put losses in one's path. It may be loss of family, friends, health, finances, etc. These losses can either completely devastate a person or they can work through all the grief and pain and go on with life.

There's more that can be said about all of this, but space does not allow it. Some of us will not live as long as we like. Regardless of the length of our life, it's important to live with as few regrets as possible.

We will make mistakes and wish we had done differently, but regrets that hurt the worse are those where we make decisions that are deliberately stupid. If we reduce the number of those our life will be more enjoyable even if its not too long.

"Less Is Best" When It Comes To In-Vitro Fertilization

When it comes to overcoming infertility, some couples may find that "less" is best.

That is the premise of an in-vitro fertilization (IVF) technique offered at the Center for Reproductive Medicine and Surgery of the Methodist Hospital and Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

Called "natural cycle IVF," the procedure uses less medication to stimulate a woman's ovaries to produce eggs than traditional IVF, and it costs much less, according to Dr. Michael C. Snabes, assistant professor of obstetrics and gynecology at Baylor College of Medicine and a member of the center's IVF team.

"A woman receiving less medication does not need to be monitored as closely during treatment because her risk for side effects is reduced. She saves money on medicine and laboratory tests and spares herself the effects of large doses of hormones," Snabes said.

Taking less medication reduces the number of eggs produced.

Therefore, the patient spends less time in an operating room for egg retrieval and usually requires no anesthesia. Fewer eggs also means less time spent by an IVF laboratory technician to fertilize them and to monitor developing embryos.

A natural cycle IVF procedure, where the ovaries produce one or two eggs, costs $2,000 to $2,500. Traditional IVF, where the ovaries produce 10 to 15 eggs, averages $8,000 to $13,000.

"The downside of natural cycle IVF is that the chances for a pregnancy are slightly less than from other IVF procedures," Snabes said.

Nationally, IVF pregnancy rates average 15 percent per transfer. That falls to 10 percent with natural cycle IVF.

"However, we think using less medication, or sometimes none at all, to stimulate the ovaries improves the climate in the uterus for the development of a pregnancy," Snabes said.

In traditional IVF, embryo transfers often fail to produce a pregnancy. Researchers believe the high estrogen content of the drugs used to stimulate the ovaries may be the cause.

"Fifteen years ago when IVF procedures were introduced, we thought 'more is better,' so we used the maximum dosage of drugs to produce the most eggs possible," Snabes said.

"Now, we see we may be able to help a couple conceive a child with a more 'user-friendly' technology, and we still have traditional IVF to try if our patients do not become pregnant."

EPA Allows Asana XI

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency approved an emergency specific exemption request by the Texas Department of Agriculture, which allows Asana XL's use on kale, kohlrabi, and mustard greens to control cabbage loopers, Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry said today.

The pesticide may be used on a maximum of 1,500 acres in Hidalgo, Frio, Uvalde, Zavala, Starr, Cameron, Willacy, Gaines and Yoakum counties, which covers the entire leafy green crop for Texas.

Because the U.S. Department of Agriculture rejects such produce if a single insect part is discovered in leafy greens destined to be processed, cabbage loopers have the potential to destroy virtually the state's entire leafy green crop.

The economic loss for the Winter Garden's largest leafy green processor, Frio Foods in Uvalde, could have reached $377,500 and the loss to farmers contracting to grow greens for Frio Foods could have been as much as $93,000 if EPA had rejected Asana XL's use on greens.

Governor Signs Small Employer Health Insurance Legislation

Governor Ann Richards signed House Bill 2055 that allows small business employers to provide affordable health insurance to their employees.

"This is major legislation that goes directly to the heart of a fundamental problem small employers in our state have to face: how to provide their workers with health coverage," Richards said.

"Representatives Mike Martin, Brian McCall and Jack Harris and Senator Carl Parker deserve our thanks for passing this bill that is going to make life better for millions of Texans who have no health insurance."

"This bill allows small businesses to have access to affordable insurance and, more importantly, it protects the people who need protection, working Texans," Rep. Martin, bill author, said. "This bill allows families to keep their dignity and to keep their insurance while having to endure chronic illness."

The bill applies to small business employers with three to 50 employees.

The bill provides for:

Purchasing Cooperatives: Establishes a state purchasing cooperative to allow the creation of private non-profit co-ops through which small employers can join together to buy coverage at the most affordable rates.

 Guaranteed Renewability: All carriers that sell small group insurance in Texas must renew policies to all small employers, regardless of the health condition of an employee. A provision that becomes effective in September of 1995 will prevent previously uninsured employers and their employees from being denied coverage.

 Limits on pre-existing conditions: Prohibits excluding pre-existing medical conditions from coverage and requires that an individual meet only one standardized waiting period for 12 months.

 Benefit plans: Allows small employers to choose from five insurance plans that include a primary and preventive insurance plan that covers preventive care, doctor visits, home health care, five days of hospitalization and limited mental health and substance abuse coverage.

Environmentally Safe Water Saver Now Available

A thoroughly tested (21 years) product is available for farmers this year. There is no product in the world that does what this revolutionary chemical formula does; and at the same time is environmentally safe.

This product is called Spralite. It is a water saver. Plants waste up to 99 percent of the water taken in by roots; through pores on the backside of the leaf.

When one application is made at the proper time (early bloom stage) the reduction of water usage is 50 percent. A second application (2 weeks later) will reduce the water requirement 67 per cent. Aphids and mites do not usually damage Spralite treated plants.

One gallon of Spralite (water saver) added to 89 gallons of water does 30 acres at 3 gallons per acre. No other chemical can be added to the mixture. Use when good moisture is present. Do not apply when plants are under moisture stress.

For the very ultimate of efficiency; Spralite can be used after a good rain or irrigation when it coincided with the early bloom stage.

Spralite treated cotton plants do not have an excess vegetative growth from heavy August and September rains.

A vast amount of yield is lost from cotton when extended unneeded rains occur at this period of cotton production.

The extra unwanted growth is prevented by Spralite because the leaves' partially blocked stomata (pores) limit the amount of water passing through the plant.

This partial closing of the stomata (pores) by application of Spralite limits the growth of 2 or 3 inches making a good quality high yield possible.

An airplane must be used for effective coverage.

Spralite will not wash off from rain or sprinkler irrigation.

Spralite is neither fertilizer, insecticide, herbicide, growth regulator or hormone; but is a water saver.

Make one drop of water do the work of three.

Increase Water Yield of Irrigation Wells

1. Irrigation wells' water yields are really low for nearly all areas of the Plains.

A. It is difficult and cost more to irrigate.

B. A new water source must be found.

2. What was thought to be Red bed has been found to be False during the last 20 years for Hale and Floyd counties and is probably the same in other irrigated counties.

A. The False red bed is from 35 to 50 feet thick.

B. Below False red bed a good supply of water has been developed.

C. The water is under pressure and rises up from 80 feet to 100 feet above the normal water table.

3. The key to a bountiful supply of water is proper development of the New Well.

A. The New Well must be fast bailed.

B. The pump must be set about 5 Feet from the bottom of the well.

C. The well must be back flushed every time it begins to clear up.

4. Nine 8 inch wells have been developed in Floyd and Hale Counties in the last 20 years.

treatment; an in-hospital package that covers hospitalizations or follow-up care; a standard plan that covers the most widely needed services including primary and preventive care, emergency care diagnostic treatment, rehabilitation and prescription drugs. Current insurance packages that cover insurance mandates and HMO plans may also be provided.

HB 2055 also requires that insurance providers use standardized billing forms.

Additionally, this bill makes premiums more predictable by establishing rate bands that have limits on possible rate increases and rate variation among similar employers.

HB 2055 was widely supported by the business community, the insurance industry and health care providers.

The bill goes into effect in September, 1993.

Combust Questionnaire Seeks Your Opinions And Concerns

U.S. Representative Larry Combust (R-Texas) is asking his constituents to weigh-in on national concerns by answering a questionnaire being mailed to their homes. The Combust constituent questionnaire seeks opinions about priorities Congress should address, which actions should be taken to reduce the deficit, preferences on health care reform and thoughts concerning the role of the United States military in world affairs. In addition, the 20-question survey provides additional space for individual comments as well as room on the reply panel for two residents of each household.

"These questionnaires consistently give me meaningful feedback from the people I represent," said Combust. "I have sought to pose questions that will provide

A New Texas "First"?

Was Texas home of the first human inhabitants of North America?

Scientists aren't ready to say yet, but they're inclined to believe that one of the earliest habitations on this continent was 10 miles northwest of Austin.

Archaeologists at The University of Texas at Austin have uncovered the complete skeleton of an Ice Age woman, tools and other artifacts leading them to conclude that a settlement existed on the site as long as 11,000 years ago!

The skeleton, the oldest female human ever found in Texas, was discovered in 1982. Studies of the skeleton and tools found near her grave indicate that she lived thousands of years before the building of the Egyptian pyramids.

information about the options under consideration in Congress. What they say always carries a great deal of weight with me and can help provide the momentum for legislative action."

"I believe that good government involves listening to people, giving them the information they want and seeing to it that they are heard on the issues," said Combust. "I greatly appreciate their willingness to take the time and serious thought to their answers."

Congressman Combust will report back in early August on the results of his constituents' questionnaire.

Travelling With The Texas Angler

by Keith R. Warren

The other day I received a call requesting my opinion on the best catfish lake in Texas. Without trying to appear vague, I tried to be unpecific. In the past my answer to a question like this has drawn criticism and even argument from angry fishermen.

Without offending anyone, I do have the right to my opinion. I feel that there are thousands of fishermen out there that will agree with me that Lake Corpus Christi is certain to be at the top of anyone's list for catfish lakes.

Located 5 miles west of Interstate 37 at Mathis, Texas, lies this shallow off colored stump filled lake. This 21,000 acre impoundment was filled in 1935. The Nueces River feeds the lake as do several small feeder creeks located in the lower end. Most of the time the water is very off colored, some say it's just a mud hole. But this lake consistently produces catfish virtually anytime of the year. Blue cats, yellow cats and channel cats are all plentiful and are by far the most sought after species of fish in this lake.

Usually the serious catfishman uses trot lines and leaves the rod and reel at home because action is just not fast enough. But at this lake you can catch more fish with a rod and reel than with a trot line. However, the trot line usually produces larger fish.

Favorite areas are virtually all over the place. Ask 10 people and you will get 10 different answers. I interpret that as they'll bite just about anywhere on the lake. But

Determination:

The Life and Times of Governor Tom Bolack

This documentary traces the life of a dying breed of Western pioneers whose extraordinary achievements make him an American original. With narration by Ed A. nes, country music, and interviews, the program weaves a tapestry of one man's accomplishments toward improving the world.

Patterning himself after Teddy Roosevelt, Tom Bolack evolved from an inquisitive Kansas farmboy into an oilman, rancher, committed conservationist, big game hunter, museum curator, businessman, philanthropist, and politician. At the hub of New Mexican politics since the early fifties, Bolack was elected Lt. Governor in 1960 and later served as the Governor of New Mexico.

Determination visits Bolack's B-Square Ranch, a Full Multiple Use experimental farm/wildlife preserve in Farmington, New Mexico. Paradoxically, two large trophy rooms in Bolack's Wildlife Museum brim with preserved animals, mammals, fish, birds, and reptiles, including a 17.5 foot crocodile and the world's largest polar bear. They are the result of six major safaris in Africa, India, Alaska, and Australia.

Using philanthropy in practical ways while maintaining conservatism has been a consistent cornerstone of Bolack's life. And his spheres of influence are many. The program visits the Navajo Dam Project, and then travels to Albuquerque to visit the Rio Grande Zoo, the Sandia Peak Tramway, and the Albuquerque Sports Stadium—home of the Albuquerque Dukes, the AAA Farm Team that Bolack sold to the L.A. Dodgers.

Determination: The Life and Times of Governor Tom Bolack will be broadcast Tuesday, June 29th at 1:00 p.m. and Wednesday, June 30th at 9:00 p.m. on KENW-TV.

Ghost Trains of the Old West

Ghost Trains of the Old West features the last surviving steam railroads. These work horses of the past operate today as tourist railroads and scenic lines. The program provides viewers with a tour of over 16 different steam engines on 10 different lines.

Viewers start the tour with Utah's famous Golden Spike National Historic Site, where replicas of Union Pacific Engine 119 and Central Pacific's "Jupiter" recreate the famous meeting of the lines and the driving of the Golden Spike on May 10, 1989.

Next on the tour are the three-foot narrow gauge freight and passenger trains that climb Colorado's Rocky Mountains, the Cumbres and Toltec, and the spectacular Durango and Silverton railroads.

Viewers will then experience Nevada's famous "Ghost Train of Old Ely," Northern Number 40, as well as Virginia and Truckee engine Number 29 operating in Virginia City.

Last on the tour is a climb through Utah's Wasatch Mountains on the Union Pacific Engine Number 618 and a ride through Provo Canyon on Southern Pacific Engine 1744, or the "Heber Creeper."

Ghost Trains of the Old West will be broadcast Sunday, June 20th at 5:00 p.m. It will repeat Saturday, June 26th at 6:00 a.m. and Wednesday, June 30th at 8:00 p.m. on KENW-TV.

Test Your Dinosaur IQ

(NAPS)—Still think that dinosaurs were cold-blooded, dimwitted monoliths who disappeared from the earth millions of years ago? Scientists now have convincing evidence that those descriptions are far from accurate and now the rest of the world may need to develop a new way of thinking about these prehistoric mysteries.

The flood of new research and discoveries about dinosaurs only serves to reinvigorate an already dino-crazy population, particularly those under the age of 10. Both boys and girls are rediscovering dinosaurs, and while they've always been prized by parents for their educational, as well as their recreational value, the imaginary play inspired by new dinosaur toys and games can help to build valuable skill sets in younger children.

The dinosaur craze has reached such a fever pitch that the summer of 1993 may just be remembered as the season dinosaurs repopulated the earth. The number one "videosaur" Barney, and the new line of merchandise set to coincide with the opening of Steven Spielberg's summer offering "Jurassic Park," will provide hours of fun for all the dinomaniacs in your house.

With schools, retailers, and even your local movie theater getting into the act, how much do you really know about dinosaurs? Find out by taking our short test—or risk being corrected by the little dino-lovers in your house!

MYTH: All dinosaurs, being reptiles, were cold-blooded and moved very slowly.
TRUTH: Growing evidence indicates that dinosaurs were, in fact, warm-blooded, or at least had

Sand Puffer

(Patent Pending)

The SAND-PUFFER is a unique, simple and totally automatic flush valve. It mounts below the sand trap or at the end of the overhang. It automatically senses sand build up and flushes each time a predetermined amount of sand accumulates.

The SAND-PUFFER requires no external controls or wiring.

The SAND-PUFFER utilizes sand level sensing device that actuates a shut off plug on a water piston.

Operative off of mainline pressures as low as 6 psi, the unit will work on any system capable of a low pressure spray package.
