Dominguez Named Chief Of Police

"I believe in promoting from within if possible," City Manager Dave Marr told the City Councilmen Tuesday morning, concerning the appointment of a Chief of Police. Julian Dominguez was appointed temporary Chief upon the death of Chief Wayne Homes.

"I recommend to the council a young man who has been with the department 14 years, Julian Dominguez as Chief of Police. I did not solicit applications nor have I reviewed them," Marr stated that he did receive some applications.

The councilmen appointed Dominguez as Chief of Police.

Mayor Robert Montgomery called the meeting of the City Council to order Tuesday morning and minutes of the September 21 meeting were approved as distributed.

Mike McDearmon, manager of the local Southwestern Public Service office met with the councilmen and presented them a copy of the interim rate change.

Southwestern Public Service has filed a statement of intent to change the rates for residential, commercial, industrial, and other retail customers for usage on and after October 15.

SPS has proposed the change which will result in an overall reduction in electric rates of two and 9/10 percent for the customers of SPS.

The proposed change is not a major change that will require a public hearing. They are implementing these rates on an interim basis in accordance with SPS's rate change application, pending resolution of Docket No. 11520 at the Public Utility Commission of Texas.

A discussion was also held on endorsing the efforts of the National League of Cities and the Texas Municipal League to fully inform the citizens about the impact of Federal Mandates on city finances.

It was noted that federal unfunded mandates on city governments have increased significantly in recent years.

The mandates require compliance regardless of other pressing local needs and priorities affecting the health, welfare and safety of municipal citizens.

Excessive federal burdens on cities force the taxpayers either higher local taxes and fees, reduced local services or both, and federal mandates are too often inflexible, "one-size-fit-all" requirements that impose unrealistic time frames and specify procedures or facilities when less costly alternatives might be just as effective.

It was also noted that existing mandates impose harsh pressures on local budgets, and the federal government has imposed a freeze upon funding to help compensate for any new mandates and the cumulative impact of these legislative and regulatory actions directly affects the citizens of the cities.

The National League of Cities (NLC) in conjunction with other state and local government representatives and state municipal leagues, including the Texas Municipal League (TML), has begun a national public education campaign to help citizens understand and then reduce the burden and inflexibility of unfunded mandates, beginning with a National Unfunded Mandates Day on October 27.

A discussion was also held on Cable TV. Marr stated that there were approximately 1600 to 1800 Cable TV subscribers in Muleshoe.

Marr stated that he had filed for a Landfill Exemption--giving notice of closure for most of the Landfill. The Landfill is expected to be closed by October 1995. Right now a small portion is being kept open. Following the closing, trash will be taken somewhere else.

"We are encouraging everyone to cut down on their garbage, this is going to be a big jump," Marr said.

"We are making an effort to clean up the city while we still have time."

Marr also informed the councilmen that a group of people

Gauna Wins Weekly Football Contest

All of you football fans must of had quite a time with your football contest this week. There must have been a lot of upsets, most of the contestants missed from eight to eleven games.

Only four people guessed the Florida VS Auburn right.

Jimmy Gauna missed four games for a first place win. He will receive a check and ten points toward the grand prize.

Andrea Gonzales came in second, after having missed only five games. Each week the second place winner receives a check and six points toward the grand prize.

Three people missed three games so the Journal Judges had to go to the tiebreakers.

well; as an extra edition/section covering the Lady Raiders' NCAA Title.

Also a Dallas Cowboy Super Bowl XXVII shirt; a 1992-93 MHS Student Council membership picture, a school menu; a Muleshoe Mule's baseball cap; and a 1992-93 Muletrain Yearbook.

The items were gathered and presented to MISD administrators along with a plaque to designate the location of the time capsule on May 24, 1993.

The time capsule is to be opened in May of 2093, fifty years from now.

Students and faculty members prepared and donated the contents of historical value to emphasize marked changes in news policy, activities, and projects in fifty years.

Alene Bryant missed three games and was off 11 points in the tiebreakers for a third place win. She will receive a check and four points toward the grand prize.

Adam Graves also missed three games, but he was 13 points off in the tiebreakers.

Two of the games were tied, therefore they didn't count for or against the contestant.

Again this week the Journal received an entry without a name, therefore making it ineligible. Be sure to mark all of the games, including the tiebreakers and sign your name to the entry, that is the only way can win.

Billie Joan Smith is still leading in the contest with 14 points. Several contestants have ten points including: Wade Cargile, Marilyn Engelking, Keith Hicks, Nona Blake Douglass, Billie Joan Smith, Richard Orozco, Gerald Shanks, and Jimmy Gauna.

Keep those contests coming in, it's still anyone's game, whether you have entered before or not, you could still win.

Gramm Announces Loans To Aid Farmers In Texas

U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm has announced that due to droughts, hail, high winds and tornado which occurred between July 7 and 14, 1993, farmers in Bailey County are eligible to apply for low-interest emergency loans to help recover from crop damages caused by adverse weather conditions which began in April 1993 and continue today.

Two other counties, Bowie and Menard counties, are also eligible to apply.

Due to drought which began April 1, 1993, farmers in Bowie County are eligible for the loan assistance.

Due to range fire and lightning which occurred between August 2 and 14, 1993, farmers in Menard County are eligible for the loan assistance.

For those who cannot obtain credit through normal channels, the U.S. Farmers Home Administration will make loans available at below-market interest rates to family farmers.

In addition to the above counties, 14 Texas counties have been named as contiguous counties and therefore are eligible for assistance.

The counties affected by drought, hail, and high winds are Cochran, Hockley, Lamb and Parmer Counties.

Mighty "M" Band Receives Top Ratings

To at least 70 students at MHS, there are two phases that are not welcome: "Summer Band starts tomorrow" and "Tuesday night Rehearsals start this week". "Well, no matter how you take these statements, all the extra hard work has begun to pay off!" said Charlotte Holt. "The Mighty "M" Band went to Plainview Saturday, Oct. 16 to compete in the Wayland Baptist University Pioneer Marching Festival. There were 19 bands performing in three classifications of Bands. There were eight Class A Bands, six Class AA Bands; and five Class AAA Bands competing for several awards. After all of the high school bands competed, the Wayland Baptist University Band performed a short show.

The Mighty "M" Band received a

ONE Rating along with the following awards: a plaque for Outstanding Marching; a plaque for Outstanding Musical Performance and a plaque for Outstanding Percussion.

How Texas Weathered The 90's Recession

The official time span of the latest recession that hit the United States is July 1990 through March 1991. As is the nature of national recessions, not all areas of the country were affected at the same times nor at the same levels. Texas is one of those states where the recession was relatively mild and occurred a little later. However, for comparison purposes, it is easier to use the official time span to measure where the Texas labor market was before the recession and where it stands now.

At the beginning of 1990, the Texas total unemployment rate hovered around 6.0% for a civilian labor force of just over 8,400,000. For the month of August 1993, the seasonally adjusted rate for Texas remained fixed from the previous month and the previous year at 7.2% for a civilian labor force that has grown by 500,000 to 8,928,000. The jump in the unemployment rate results from the employment growth's inability to keep pace with the labor force.

In comparison to Texas, the United States began the year 1990 with a total unemployment rate of around 5% for a civilian labor force of 125 million people. The nation had added 3.4 million people to its labor force since that time and though the total unemployment rate is on a decline from the recession, the August 1993 figure remains higher than early 1990 at 6.7%.

Total Nonagricultural Wage and Salary employment in the state of Texas grew by approximately 400,000 jobs during the time period of early 1990 to the present. While total employment was growing, the component industries were undergoing some pronounced shifts in their share of the total workforce. Nonmanufacturing industries gained an even larger percentage of the total employment (86% as opposed to 79% pre-U.S. recession). At the same time, Manufacturing industries did not have an overall increase in employment, ending up at the same level achieved before the recession. Things were happening within the manufacturing community. Recessions usually result in a decrease in demand for durable goods as consumers tighten their belts and spend less on the high ticket items that constitute durable goods. As that situation occurred during this recession, manufacturing experienced a shift in employment from durable to nondurable goods. However, even as the larger picture was changing, many manufacturers of durable goods were able to maintain somewhat stable employment levels. The majority of the shift came from the big losers of employment in durable goods, Transportation Equipment and Electronic and Other Electrical Equipment, to the largest gainers in nondurable goods, Apparel and Other Finished Textile Products, Chemicals and Allied Products, Rubber and Miscellaneous Plastics Products, Petroleum and Coal Products and Paper and Allied Products.

Mining employment was stimulated in 1990 when Iraq invaded Kuwait and jeopardized the world's oil market. Once the crisis was over, the continuing steady drop in unemployment began. Oil and Gas Extraction was the most heavily affected sector of the industry.

General Building Contractors and Heavy Construction, except Building, experienced minor downturns in 1992 from the recession and have recovered to slightly above pre-recession levels. On the other hand, Special Trade Contractors have had a boom in employment over the past four years and account for the major portion of the 40,000 increase in Construction employment since the beginning of 1990.

Transportation and Public Utilities has been characterized by an increasing trend throughout the time period. This is most pronounced in the Trucking and Warehousing and Transportation by Air industries. Gains in these industries have been offset by continuous declines in all Electric, Gas, and Sanitary Services and Railroad Transportation sectors.

Wholesale and Retail Trade was second only to Services in the number of jobs created since early 1990. Employment in wholesale trade of durable and nondurable goods shows a slow, incremental increase in jobs. The largest increase in retail jobs came in Eating and Drinking Establishments. Several other sectors, including Food Stores and Furniture and Home Furnishings, have only recently begun to grow in employment. General

Oklahoma Sooners, Kansas Jayhawks Meet Saturday

Syracuse and Miami meet for the 12th time this Saturday in Miami, but Syracuse fans are still smarting from the 11th. In the Carrier Dome last November, the Orangemen nearly pulled off the rankings - rearranging upset of the year, mounting an end-of-the-game drive from six points behind the Hurricanes. But Syracuse QB Marvin Graves's pass to Chris Gedney as time expired left the Orangemen three yards short of the Miami end zone, and the Canes squeaked by 16-10. This year Miami should have an easier time of it, and come away with its sixth win over Syracuse in their last seven games.

In South Bend, Ind., Notre Dame hosts Southern California. The Irish have beaten the Trojans 10 years in a row, including a 31-23 victory in Los Angeles in '92 in which Notre Dame ran up 330 yards on the ground. For what it's worth, this is the first meeting of two coaching legends, N.D.'s Lou Holtz and USC's John Robinson. We're picking the Irish by 18.

Look for Kansas to get thumped by the resurgent Oklahoma Sooners in Norman, Okla. Kansas won last year at home, 27-10, but Oklahoma had won the previous seven meetings and holds a 60-24 edge (with six ties) in the longest uninterrupted series in NCAA Division I competition. The Sooners and Jayhawks have met every year since 1903, which makes this their 91st game. It won't be their closest.

Alabama will visit Mississippi in another series rich with history, this one begun in 1894. The Crimson Tide has won seven of the

Services For Laura Johnston Held

Memorial services for Laura Johnston, 77, of Portales, NM were held Monday, October 18, 1993, at 10:30 a.m. (MDT) at Emmanuel Baptist Church in Portales, with Rev. Jim Green of Lubbock officiating.

Burial was in Sudan Cemetery, at 4:00 p.m. (CST) on Monday, October 18, 1993, under direction of Ellis Funeral Home, Sudan.

Mrs. Johnston died October 15, 1993 at her daughters residence.

She was born April 24, 1916 in Quannah, Texas. She married Elmer Johnston on Feb. 9, 1936 in Spade, TX. He died May 31, 1993.

Mrs. Johnston had been a resident of Portales since 1943, moving from Sudan, TX. For the past few months she had been living with her daughter in El Paso, TX. She was a homemaker.

Survivors include one son, Curtis Leon Johnston of Denton, TX; one daughter, Lois La Nell Linder of El Paso, TX; four brothers, Roy Nixon of Yucaipa, CA, Claud Nixon of Hermleigh, TX, Carl Nixon of Huntington Beach, CA, and Alford Nixon of Floyd, NM; three sisters, Jewel Walker of Brownfield, TX, Ruby Ingle of Sudan, Neoma Brewster of Burkburnett, TX; four grandchildren and one great-granddaughter.

Pallbearers were David Conrad, Blake Bunch, Randall Johnston, Calvin Vernon, Jimmie Newman, Harold and Hershell Nixon and Eldon West.

Merchandise Stores began to decline soon after the recession hit and have continued to decline.

Employment in Finance, Insurance and Real Estate has recovered to pre-recession levels even as levels within the individual sectors have changed over the course of the past few years. The decline in Banking began in 1989 and has not abated since then. Insurance Carriers and Real Estate both experienced recessionary downturns in 1992 and are rebounding close to previous numbers. Non-depository Institutions, Security and Commodity Brokers, Insurance Agents, and Holding and Investment Offices have all had incremental gains.

Sparked by Health, Business, Membership Organizations, Social, and Engineering and Management Services, Service employment is responsible for over sixty percent of all the jobs created since early 1990. Health Services by far leads the pack with 100,000 new jobs. All other Service industry categories were able to maintain or have small gains in employment throughout the time period.

When all the labels of Government are combined, employment in this industry has increased from 1990. State Government Education employment shifted to higher levels at the beginning of 1990 and maintained that level throughout the recession. Since the recession, it has started to climb once again. Other State Government, Local Government Education, and Other Local Government have all been trending upward. The Federal Government has lost employment over the past few years. This is reflective of the downsizing in the Department of Defense and Other Federal Agencies.

The hours and earnings data collected for August 1993 indicate a higher number of manufacturing production workers are working longer hours and are earning a higher average weekly wage. Since July, 600 workers were added to manufacturing production lines. The average hourly earnings dropped slightly to $11.13. However, since average weekly hours climbed to 42.8, the average weekly earnings rose to $476.36. This gives the average production worker a weekly raise of $2.91 since July and $12.26 since August 1992.

THE GREAT DEPRESSION

Meet the people who endured the greatest economic crisis of the century.

"Somehow, in the hardest of times, with America slipping away, our parents and grandparents found the courage to fight their way out," begins The Great Depression, a new seven-hour series that chronicles the sweep of events following the 1929 stock market crash.

The Great Depression offers an in-depth look at the way Americans responded to one of the greatest crises of this century. The series portrays America at its most vulnerable and most courageous. People are the center of the story — not just well-known heroes and politicians, but ordinary women and men who were the agents of change.

From a multicultural, multi-regional perspective, The Great Depression connects local crises to national issues and federal decision making as it moves through history. "A Job at Ford's," episode one, presents the Detroit factory as a case study of the nation's economic condition before and after the stock market crash of 1929. "The Road to Rock Bottom" cites several examples of unrest, including the march on Washington by World War I veterans. "New Deal/New York" juxtaposes the patrician president Franklin D. Roosevelt and New York's mayor Fiorello LaGuardia, the son of immigrants, who together redefine and expand the role of government in people's lives. "We Have a Plan" focuses on Upton Sinclair's campaign for governor of California — combining Hollywood glamour, political intrigue, and socialism.

Two visions of liberty collide as working women and men battle landowners and factory managers for the right to join a union in "Mean Things Happening." Meanwhile, America's minorities try to go one step beyond mere survival of the Depression and build a better life. "To Be Somebody" focuses on boxing heavyweight champ Joe Louis, a symbol of national strength, and First Lady Eleanor Roosevelt, who challenges America to live up to its promise of justice and opportunity for all. The series concludes with "Once I Built a Tower." As the 1930s draw to a close, Americans still struggle with economic uncertainty and dream of peace and prosperity. Events in Nazi Germany forecast an unexpected end to the economic hardships.

The Great Depression airs Mondays at 7:00 p.m. beginning October 25th. All episodes are two-hours in length except the final episode, which is one-hour long.

Governor Designates This UIL National High School Activities Week

With almost two million Texas high school students in grades two through twelve taking part in University Interscholastic League (UIL) programs, Governor Ann Richards has declared the week of October 17-24 as Texas High School Activities Week.

"Both academic and extracurricular achievement contribute greatly to the social development and interaction of all high school students," Richards said when announcing Texas High School Activities Week.

"Development directly benefits local communities by channeling young people's interests and talents into positive efforts and by instilling in them an early sense of civic duty and community pride," the governor added.

This year's event marks the 14th observance of National High School Activities Week, which was developed by the National Federation of State High School Associations as a means to increase the public's awareness of the values and needs of activity programs.

Six special days were set aside during Activities Week: October 18 was designated "Officials Day"; October 19 was "Speech and Music Day"; October 20 was "Youth Health Awareness Day"; October 21 is "Be a Sport Day"; October 22 will be "Coaches Day" and October 23 is "Fund Raising Day".

The UIL is the oldest and largest state high school organization of its type in the world, and is the inspiration for similar groups nationwide. In its 84th year, the UIL offers programs ranging from picture memory in elementary school, to calculator contests and girls' softball in high school. Remarkably, one of every two high school seniors in Texas participates in a UIL contest prior to graduation.

In the area of athletics, Texas fields more high school football teams than any other state: 1,047 including 89 six-man teams. The same holds true for basketball, where some 1,153 boys' teams and 1,146 girls' teams participated last year.

In the spring, Texas is again a national leader with more than 1,114 boys' and 1,112 girls' track and field teams and 924 baseball teams participating in high school programs. Behind California, Texas leads the nation in girls' high school volleyball teams with 773.

A unique aspect of the UIL athletic program is its rebate structure, whereby schools are assisted in defraying expenses at state tournaments and meets. Texas was the first state to institute such a system. The philosophy of the UIL is and has been to return income earned by school activities to the participating teams.

The University Interscholastic League positively affects the lives of millions of Texans each year. Texas High School Activities Week is a time to recognize the students, parents, administrators, teachers, coaches, and officials who participate and are involved in the various UIL activities.

Delta Kappa Gamma Society Meets

Thirty one members from Sudan, Olton, Littlefield, Springlake-Earth, and Muleshoe were present. Muleshoe members present were Georgia Peva, Nina Maldonado, Virginia Bowers, Jane Rudd, Lenda Trussell, Linda Latham, Helen Grigsby, Joyeline Costen, and Johanna Wrinkle.

Linda Latham won the door prize.

Purposes of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society are to unite women educators of the world in a genuine spiritual fellowship; to honor women who have given or who evidence a potential for distinctive service in any field of education; to advance the professional interest and position of women in education; to sponsor and support desirable educational legislation and initiate legislation in the interest of women educators; to endow scholarships to aid outstanding women educators in pursuing graduate study and to grant fellowships to women educators from other countries; to stimulate the personal and professional growth of members and to encourage their participation in appropriate programs of action; and to inform the membership of current economic, social, political, and educational issues so that they may participate effectively in world society.

Next meeting day will be Tuesday, November 2, 1993 at 5:00 at Olton.

Fully-cooked hams shouldn't be cooked again in a microwave. Just heat to serving temperature.

The outside might overbrown because of the high sugar and salt content if cooked. A cooking bag with a little water in it (to make steam) is a good container for a ham in a microwave.

Turn ham over once while heating.

Muleshoe Retired Teachers Visit Heritage Farm

On Friday morning Oct. 15, 1993, the Muleshoe Area Retired Teachers gathered at 16th and Ave. D. Church of Christ to begin an interesting field trip.

A cavalcade of four cars embarked on Hwy. 84 for Shallowater, Texas to see what life was really like in the '30s-without electricity or running water, for a visit to Woodward Heritage Farm.

This typical West Texas Farmstead is the result of dreams and a lot of hard work of Elleine and Dana Woodward for restoring and rebuilding the family house, barn, outbuildings, windmill, one-room schoolhouse, etc. from old used, rough and rustic wood.

The facilities include a dining hall where the hostesses Margie Moore and Elizabeth Watson served sandwiches, chips, fruit, cookies, cold drinks, and coffee to the following: Jean Allison, Mary B. Obenhaus, Joyeline Costen, Ethel Allison, Alene Bryant, Betty Jo Davis, Letha Patterson, Ann Oylar, Dorothy Beddingfield, Katherine Sanders, Maxine Ragsdale, Wilma Smith, and Elline and Dana Woodward visitors.

We all enjoyed very much our stroll down memory lane.

Do You?

Men And Women Are From Different Planets

Men and women are attracted to each other, originally, because they are different. They spend time and energy winning the other. After that is accomplished, they may start trying to change the other one. This is where most couples get into trouble. Instead of learning to accept and appreciate the differences, they try to completely remake the other person.

All of us have some changes to make that could improve our relationships. However, there are some basic things, generally, about the human male and female that are best left unchanged.

Some of those areas are: how we handle problems; express affection; manage stress; view our work, etc.

Even though we are different in some areas, it's most important to understand the other, so we can meet those valuable needs. Believe it or not, we can compliment each other, even though we are from different planets.

Creative Living

with Sheryl Borden

Information on preparing salsa recipes and patternless sewing with kits will be the featured topics on "Creative Living" on Tuesday, October 26th at 12:00 and Saturday, October 30th at 2 p.m. (All times are Mountain). "Creative Living" airs on public broadcasting station, KENW-TV, from Eastern New Mexico University in Portales, NM.

Marlene Brown, representative of La Victoria Salsa, will demonstrate some delicious salsa recipes for easy entertaining. Brown lives in Studio City, CA., and her business is Marlene's Cuisine.

Another guest, Ed Clements, will talk about "patternless sewing with a kit." The advantages are that all the pieces are pre-cut, no patterns are required, and even the notions are included. Clements is with Frostline Kits in Grand Junction, CO.

On Tuesday, October 26th at 9:30 p.m. and on Thursday, October 28th at 12:00 "Creative Living" will demonstrate a nutritional way to cook vegetables and introduce a line of toys that delivers an anti-drug message for kids.

Steve Owen represents Regal Ware, Inc., and he will demonstrate how to fry foods with a cooking method that completely eliminates using oils and shortenings. This method allows for the retention of important nutrients as well as flavor. Owen is from Kewaskum, WI.

Another guest, Diane Creston, who represents Toy Island, will show how Robo Cop toys use a unique voice mechanism to get across an important anti-drug message for kids. Creston is from New York City.

"Creative Living" is produced and hosted by Sheryl Borden. The show is carried on more than 100 PBS stations in the United States, Canada, Guam and Puerto Rico and is distributed by Pacific Mountain Network, Denver, CO. Viewers can request copies of materials offered on the show by sending one 29 cent stamp for each handout requested. Send the stamps, along with your name, address, and booklets requested to:

Public Health Care Reform: The Sum Of The Parts

By David R. Smith, M.D.
Texas Commissioner of Health

Since President Clinton's health care plan stands to influence the lives of every man, woman and child in this state, each one of us is asking--how will it affect me? How much will it cost?

But the truth is, it's just too soon to tell specifically how the plan will affect Texas and Texans. And, it's certainly too soon to know how ASCS...

Nominating petitions were recently mailed to all eligible voters in Bailey County. The final date to return these ballots is November 1, 1993. The ballots will be mailed on November 24, 1993 and must be returned to our office by December 5, 1993. If you did not receive a petition, or do not receive a ballot, please come by the office and one will be furnished to you.

have begun to discuss trying to rejuvenate efforts to try to get a prison here.

communities with physician shortages. To be successful, health care reform must address this gap in our health care delivery infrastructure. It also must address public health. While everyone is scrambling to figure out how the plan will affect individuals, someone better be looking out for the health of the whole population--the sum of the parts. That is the indispensable role of public health.

Currently, less than 1 percent of total health care expenditures for these public health services--yet they probably account for 90 percent of the reductions in needless illness, injury and death in this nation. The basics of public health--clean drinking water, for example--must be the underpinnings of health care reform. Overall, President Clinton's plan is an important step in the right direction. Many details remain to be resolved. And many will be left to the states. For Texas, this represents a good place to get started. It will take time to study the plan--and more time to decide what's best for this state. But we must begin by building on to existing efforts, such as the work of the Governor's Health Policy Task Force, to find logical ways to improve health care and health care access for all Texans.

It's not too soon, however, to know that the plan has great potential to improve the health of the millions of Texans who today lack access to health care. And it's not too soon to conclude that the plan's impact may be greater in Texas than in other states. This is because we lead the nation in number of persons living in poverty and number of uninsured. For these people, this plan could mean a longer, healthier and more productive life. It could mean the difference between a mammogram and a mastectomy--between treatment for hypertension and a debilitating or deadly stroke. In essence, the plan could be the difference between prevention and premature death and disability.

I've said before that if we are to curtail the rocketing cost of medical care in this country, we have to have health care reform. I've said also that any reform measure, if it is to be successful, must emphasize primary care and prevention. So I'm gratified to find that the President's plan includes primary and preventive care in its basic package of benefits. Universal availability of immunizations, prenatal care, annual physical exams, well-baby care and similar services would substantially improve the health and well-being of millions of Texans.

In our state, however, the plan presents some challenges. For example, Texas has vast areas without enough physicians and other health professionals to meet the current demands for services. Expanding those services to the millions who are now uninsured will not necessarily guarantee health care. As I've said before, it we give everyone in Texas a plastic health care card tomorrow, where are they going to use it? At the Dairy Queen?

To compensate for the current shortage of primary care physicians, medical schools must tailor curricula to emphasize basic patient care and must provide training and role models for the practice of preventive medicine and primary health care. Fully half of all medical students should be enticed into the study of primary care. And it is my personal belief that all medical school graduates should be obligated to serve at least two years in Kimble, McCulloch, Mason, Schleicher, Sutton and Tom Green counties.

Gramm said farmers have eight months to apply for the loans to help cover part of their actual losses.

The FmHA, which will supervise the loan program, is charged with providing aid to the farmers and ranchers in order to assist their economic recovery from natural disasters.

LUBBOCK, Friday, October 15, 1993

By Shawn Wade

A quarterly meeting of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers Board of Directors was held Wednesday, October 13, 1993 at the site of the first Annual Texas Farmer-Stockman Show. The Farm Show, held on Lubbock's City Farm one and one-half miles east of Loop 289 on 50th Street, is being called the biggest farm and ranch exposition ever held in the state of Texas.

PCG Board members discussed a number of issues including the North American Free Trade Agreement, the Plant Variety Protection Act, Federal Crop Insurance, recommendations for the 1994 Farm Program and the reorganization of the United States Department of Agriculture. Also discussed was the progress of the 1993 PCG Boll Weevil Control Program.

PCG Board members were given an opportunity to view some of Dr. John Gannaway's new cotton breeding lines developed through the PCG Plains Cotton Improvement Program (PCIP). They also had an opportunity to see some of the new commercial varieties being developed from PCIP lines by High Plains seed companies.

Roger Haldenby, PCG Boll Weevil Program Coordinator, briefed the Board on the progress of the 1993 Control Program. He noted that a total of 9 aircraft are being used on the program, maintaining a six-day a week flying schedule. Haldenby added that the third application would get underway Tuesday, October 19.

The PCG Board meeting was held at the site of the Texas Farmer-Stockman Show and the Board commended the Farmer-Stockman organization for the tremendous job done to plan and execute the exposition.

Harvesting activities have been picking up steam across the High Plains with producers treating fields in preparation for harvest. It is expected that the next two weeks will bring a rapid increase in the number of acres harvested. Many area gins are now running 24 hours a day.

As more of the crop comes in yield estimates are beginning to change based on actual production. In general, yields on dryland cotton have been better than expected. Irrigated fields are also doing well, however only part of the acres so far fall into this category. Some crop watchers feel most of the crop will probably be out of the field before Thanksgiving as long as a significant weather delay is avoided.

The October crop estimate from USDA lowered U.S. crop prospects to 17.01 million bales, a decrease of several hundred thousand bales. The High Plains estimate was relatively unchanged, down slightly to 3.5 million bales.

News From Baylor College of Medicine

Calcium supplements cannot reverse bone loss caused by anorexia nervosa during adolescence, said a researcher at the USDA's Children's Nutrition Research Center.

"This news may come as a surprise to many anorexics who mistakenly believe they can take calcium supplements and sidestep osteoporosis, a well-known consequence of the disease," said Dr. Steve Abrams, an assistant professor of pediatrics at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

In a recent study of adolescent females, Abrams and co-investigator Dr. Tomas Silber with Children's National Medical Center in Washington, D.C. found that anorexia nervosa severely hampers bone formation while breaking down existing bone.

They also found that, despite taking high levels of calcium, girls with anorexia nervosa did not absorb the calcium as well as healthy girls who were on their usual diets. Abrams noted that the anorexic girls excreted high levels of calcium in their urine because of the bone breakdown.

Abrams emphasized that the teenage years are critical bone-building years. Anorexia nervosa is particularly dangerous for young girls whose bones are forming.

To determine how anorexia nervosa affects the body's use of calcium, Abrams and Silber examined girls with and without the disease. The volunteers, ages 13-20, kept a dietary record, were measured for bone density and were given a stable isotope of calcium, a special "tracer" that tracks the rate at which bone is formed and broken down.

The girls with the disease were hospitalized at Children's National Medical Center and received levels of calcium above the current daily recommendation of 1,200 milligrams.

Abrams believes the results indicate that the patient's health must be improved before there can be any improvement in bone growth and development.

"There is no guarantee that the bone these girls lose as adolescents can be regained later," he said.

Abrams said a treatment program including nutritional and behavioral modification and, possibly, hormonal therapy may be the key to improving an anorexic's overall recovery.

Jalapeno Pepper Processing Plant Is Now Open

The old Galante Plant reopened its doors recently and will be operating under new management. Denmark Products, owned by Rush Loyacono, out of Denver, Colorado has purchase the plant from Bobby Free. However, Free still retains an interest in the company.

Under the new name, High Plains Agro Industries, the plant has been in operation now for about four weeks. The plant employs about 75 people and is currently processing and chopping locally grown jalapeno peppers for industrial use.

Manager, Mark Loyacono, informed the Journal that the plant also processes sliced peppers and markets them under the Nacho Grande label. The plant operates as a private label manufacturer and will soon be processing salsa and cheese sauce for several different labels.

The peppers are brought from the fields to the plant in special trailers that allow the peppers to be dumped onto containers that convey the peppers up to a washing tank. Then, the peppers are sorted by machine and again by hand. The stems are removed and the peppers are culled.

The pepper odor grows stronger as we continued our tour of the pepper plant. Near the machine that chops the peppers, the fumes are extremely strong. Several of the workers wear masks to keep from being over-come by the fumes.

The peppers are chopped and salt and acetic acid are added to make brine to preserve the peppers. Two processes are used. The dehydrobrine product is used to make salsa and a light base brine is used for the sliced peppers. The plant contains a lab, where the content of the final solution is monitored for maximum productivity and excellence.

The chopped peppers are placed in barrels and must be stirred before they are sealed. The peppers can be kept in the barrels for as long as two years until they are needed.

The reopening of this plant and the creation of new jobs is an asset to the community. Both production and processing of jalapeno peppers is now being done in Bailey County.

Number-One

The war on drugs continues as top priority among civic and law enforcement bodies in the U.S. The Clinton Administration has begun concentrating more on education and treatment, rather than offshore interception of supplies.

Somewhat overlooked is the tragic human toll from the most abused of all drugs--alcohol. Three fourths of the U.S. population imbibes alcohol--so glamorized on TV commercials. (Films have sold drinking hard liquor as normal for decades.)

Drunk driving is the number-one cause of death among those 16 to 24 years of age.

Alcoholism ruins millions of homes, destroys families, produces wholesale premature death. It is the number-one drug problem in the U.S.--not crack, coke, heroin, etc.

Education, the realization of the enormity of the problem, and stiffer penalties and tests for drunken driving and drunkenness, are needed today.

Nothing is ever accomplished tomorrow.

October National Cooperative Month

COOPERATIVES
People In Partnership

Part Of Your Life
Part Of Your Future

Cooperatives - any kind, every kind, big or small - are all around you. The food you eat, your credit union, your telephone and electric service, insurance and health care - 47,000 cooperatives throughout the United States might be providing you goods and services the co-op way. Housing, florists, day care, farm marketing and supply, and news services are on the co-op list, also.

Whether co-ops are urban, suburban or rural, they work hard to meet people's needs as efficiently and economically as possible. Local control and local ownership make co-ops a special kind of business; and they not only benefit their member owners but also their communities.

So if you're one of the 120 million Americans served by a co-op, consider yourself lucky because you've got a good thing going right now and for the future - and so do your neighbors and the entire nation.
