Traffic stop ends in drug bust; 2 arrested

In what Muleshoe police officers thought would be a routine traffic stop for a vehicle with defective equipment Saturday night, ended up with the seizure of 12 pounds of marijuana, under an ounce of methamphetamines and two Ruger magnum guns.

Two men from Missouri, Carl D. Harris, 21 and Benny Flaucher, 22, were both arrested in connection with the incident on the 2100 block of American Blvd. They are currently being held in the Bailey County Jail in lieu of a $100,000 bail each.

The incident began when officer Chris Lopez made a traffic stop at about 10 p.m.

Saturday night for a car with defective headlights. He was assisted by constable Rich Magby, who was also on patrol, and by peace officer Benny Parker.

The police conducted a vehicle search with consent of the men and found the 12 pounds of marijuana in a gym bag. They then brought in a dog from the Littlefield De-

Eagles snag district seat from Whitharral

Kyle Kindle's tip-in at the final buzzer lifted the Three Way Eagles to a playoff victory Monday over Whitharral's Panthers, 45-43.

The battle at Muleshoe's Watson Junior High Gym determined the second of two post-season playoff spots from District 11-1A. With the win, the Eagles advanced to the bi-district round Thursday (Feb. 23) against the Plains cowboys, champions of District 12-1A. The game is scheduled to be played at Whiteface at 7 p.m.

Whitharral and Three Way ended the regular season tied for second place in District 11-1A behind Meadow. The tie forced the playoff for the second post-season berth.

Three Way dominated play early against Whitharral, outscoring the Panthers 10-2 in the first period. Whitharral did not get its first points until the final seconds of the quarter.

But turnovers took their toll on the Eagles in the second period and Whitharral pulled within 20-18 at the half.

Turnovers were again the key in the third period for Three Way. Whitharral outscored the Eagles 16-7 in the quarter and took a 34-27 lead into the final eight minutes.

Facing elimination from the post season, Three Way rallied in the final period, outscoring the Panthers 18-9. With 17 seconds on the clock and the score tied at 43-43, the Eagles missed and the Panthers took possession.

With three seconds remaining, Keith Kindle deflected a Panther inbound pass and got off a shot. It missed, but cousin Kyle was there to tip in the game winner.

partment of Public Safety, who found the controlled substance, methamphetamines. The marijuana and substances were seized, as well as cash and a .357 Ruger magnum and .57 Ruger magnum and the pickup truck they were driving.

The pair were arraigned Sunday in Muleshoe before Justice of the Peace Jack Bates.

According to Muleshoe Police Chief, the men were arraigned on two felony charges, possession of marijuana, under 50 lbs., but more than five, a third degree felony; and possession of a controlled substance, also a third degree felony.

Dominguez said the case will be filed with the district court. He also said the MPD has contacted the DPA and Alcohol Tobacco and Firearms (ATF) bureau and is looking at the possibility of filing federal charges.

"Anytime there are weapons and drugs both involved, it can be considered a federal offense," Dominguez said.

Dominguez said that the drug bust on Saturday was the largest single bust in Muleshoe during the 16 years he has been here. He estimates the drugs have a total street value of $20,000.

Dominguez said it appears the men from Missouri were just passing through when they were stopped in Muleshoe.

"I would like to commend officers Lopez and Parker and constable Magby for a job well done," Dominguez said. "They were attentive and alert." Dominguez said the using of the dog who sniffed out the drugs also helped greatly. Police chief Gary Lightfoot brought in the dog from Littlefield.

Dominguez said, "We are sure that drugs come through Muleshoe at times and there are drugs in town as well. We plan to aggressively work to get drugs off of the streets."

Officer Lopez said, "I am glad that our police department was able to get $20,000 of dope off of the streets. It may not have been a huge bust, but maybe it will help a little."

The drugs seized will be sent to a lab in Lubbock for analysis.

Better Business Bureau

Your Better Business Bureau receives many calls and complaints regarding drycleaning services. Some of them develop because the consumer did not fully understand the material content of a garment and others occur because individuals dry clean garments that bear instructions to machine wash.

Look for the care label which supplies instructions for drycleaning or laundering. Federal law requires that manufacturers attach labels permanently to most garments; exceptions may include totally reversible garments; sheer or fragile articles; clothing that can be washed by the strongest possible methods without damage, and articles that sell for $3 or less.

You may think you are extending the life of certain garments by drycleaning them even though the label says machine wash. Be careful, garments labeled as washable might not hold up to drycleaning solvents. For your free copy of "Tips on Drycleaning" call your BBB at 763-0459.

The Better Business Bureau often receives calls from young consumers that are interested in a career as an actor or model and have recently responded to an ad in the paper.

The young consumer finds out they must pay usually several hundred dollars upfront, with the promise of their name and picture being distributed to talent/modeling agencies. A registration fee or advance fee is the main characteristic that distinguishes a legitimate agency from a phony one.

In Texas, agents must be licensed and bonded with the State. Their registration certificates must be posted publicly. An agent may not charge an advance fee or require a performer to use a particular photographer, resume service or take any acting or modeling school courses or workshops.

All advertisements, including business cards, must carry the name, address and registration number of the agency. For your free copy of a brochure about acting and modeling, call your BBB at 763-0459.

Texas Senate opposes listing of Arkansas River Shiner endangered

The Texas Senate recently passed a resolution letting the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service know that Texas adamantly opposes placing the Arkansas River Shiner on the endangered species list. The two-inch minnow is found in the Canadian River in Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma; and in the Cimarron River in Kansas and Oklahoma.

Rep. David Swinford of Dumas wanted to introduce a similar measure in the House. But because of the way the House operates, it doesn't get up and running as quickly as the Senate, so the House leadership told Swinford it was considering only memorial resolutions.

Swinford thought about it and asked, "What if we just go there and kill one? Then we could do a memorial resolution, and I could still make my point."

He was kidding, of course, but we're all very serious about our opposition to naming the shiner an endangered species. We know the shiner is not in trouble, and we've seen what happens when the federal government comes in unreasonably applying the Endangered Species Act.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Departments-- which knows a lot more about Texas species than any federal agency -- has conducted multiple studies and found the shiner is not endangered or even threatened. Yet, the feds continue to claim the shiner must be protected.

The implications of designating any species as endangered are tremendous. Strict controls can be placed on land and water use.

I have a couple of letters sent by the Fish and Wildlife Service to land owners in Central Texas where a federally protected bird is known to nest. One letter warned a landowner that he could be committing a federal crime by clearing parts of his own land without a permit. The poor guy could go to jail just for cutting down a few trees on his property. That's scary.

In another case, a woman wanted to build a house on her property. The wildlife service told her that it needed to do a study first to determine whether the bird was using nearby vegetation during the breeding season. If construction would not interfere with the bird's activities, then she could build a house as long as the following conditions are met: 1) Vegetation clearing is limited only to the amount necessary for construction, 2) Landscaping is done with native vegetation, and 3) Construction activities occur between August 1 and March 1.

CREATIVE LIVING

Salmon for Dinner, without Reservations!

Fresh salmon has the reputation of being America's most wanted seafood. According to Tamsen Salvador, representative of the British Columbia Farmed Salmon Institute, "You may not be a world-class chef, but you can prepare world-class salmon dishes. All you need is good salmon and a few tips."

Salvador will be a guest on Creative Living on Tuesday, February 21st at 9:30 p.m. and on Thursday, February 23rd at 12:00 noon to talk about selecting and cooking fresh salmon.

Processed immediately upon harvest, B.C. Salmon is packed to order and shipped in less than 24 hours. Atlantic and Pacific species are available whole, or in steaks, fillets, and portions. When you've purchased fresh salmon, rinse the whole and cut portions in ice-cold water before storing or preparing. Refrigerate or freeze salmon in an air-tight container, if not used immediately. At 32 degrees F. the salmon will remain in top condition for two days. Store frozen salmon at 0 degrees F. up to three months. Thaw salmon in refrigerator overnight before cooking and use immediately.

QUICK TESTS FOR FRESHNESS:

- * It should smell fresh (mild odor);
- * the eyes should be clear;
- * the flesh should have minimal scale loss;
- * the gills should be clean and bright pink-red;
- * the flesh should be firm and elastic.

Steaks are a very handy portion size, while fillets are easy to eat because they contain no bones. For broiling and grilling, steaks and fillets of 3/4 inch or thicker are best and are easy for a quick barbecue.

An average adult portion of salmon is 3 1/2 ounces. When purchasing a whole fish, half a pound per person is a good rule of thumb.

COOKING TIPS:

Extremely versatile, farmed salmon is delicious baked, broiled, grilled, pan fried, poached, sauteed, roasted, or microwaved. To cook salmon properly, Salvador advises measuring fish at its thickest part. For each inch, cook fresh salmon 10 minutes, or just until firm to the touch and opaque in the center. For baking, 350-400 degrees F. is recommended. For broiling or grilling, steaks and fillets should be at least 3/4 inch thick to prevent the fish from drying out.

When barbecuing, place salmon steaks and fillets approximately 4 inches directly over hot fire on an open grill. For fillets, it is best to grill flesh-side first, then turn, and gently lift off the skin when the salmon is done. For a whole salmon, cook in a covered grill, over indirect heat. It is best to wrap salmon in foil to prevent drying out and to keep your grill clean.

Changes in farm program could hurt cotton industry

WASHINGTON—National Cotton Council President Bruce Brumfield praised the U.S. cotton industry for producing and selling the largest crop in history last year, but he warned that such prosperity could be jeopardized by unwise changes in farm programs.

Speaking to delegates here recently, attending the National Cotton Council's Annual Meeting at the JW Marriott Hotel, Brumfield said the contentious debate on every budget measure and appropriations should "serve as a reminder that government support for agriculture is diminishing."

The council president, a cotton producer from Inverness, Miss., said the industry favors maintaining the principles of the current program in 1995 farm law. He also said it is critical that agriculture be allowed to operate under "sensible government regulations which do not put us at a further disadvantage with our foreign competitors."

Brumfield said the industry has an important story to tell Congress and the public regarding its environmental stewardship, productivity, increased market share, and price competitiveness.

"Think about it," said the council president. "If we were operating today with the same technology we used in 1937, we would need to plant an additional 20 million acres to produce the crop we just harvested."

Brumfield said this figure alone proves that cotton production is highly efficient -- utilizing less acreage for the large crop while making significant contributions to the preservation of the environment.

The council president said policymakers and everyone who is concerned about preserving the environment should take note of how this efficient use of the land is positively affecting wildlife habitat and soil conservation at a time when agriculture has endured its share of criticism.

Brumfield noted the government-industry partnership that has contributed to cotton's current success must continue if U.S. cotton is to remain competitive in a world that is at times flooded with subsidized cotton.

"Prior to the marketing loan, price competitiveness had been the missing link in U.S. cotton's marketing package," said Brumfield. "The marketing loan gave us a globally competitive price, which coupled with income protection for growers, armed U.S. cotton for the battle in every dimension of competitiveness."

Brumfield further stated that it is no coincidence that the industry has a market for the largest cotton crop in history. "We have the market because this industry has carefully crafted a program to build

Bivins introduces bills to protect victim's rights

AUSTIN — State Sen. Teel Bivins (R-Amarillo) recently introduced five bills, including several proposals designed to expand crime victims' rights and enhance crime prevention.

Senate Bill 491 would allow crime victims to place liens on the property of convicted criminals to recover or property damage and medical expenses incurred during the offense.

"Current efforts to force criminals to literally pay for their crimes have fallen short," Bivins said. "This bill would give crime victims added leverage."

Senate Bill 491 would give judges authority to order defendants to pay into a victims' assistance fund as a condition of probation. Texas law currently allows judges to order defendants to adhere to a variety of conditions for probation.

"Many victims' assistance funds lack the revenue needed to meet demand," Bivins said. "This proposal would help increase those funds -- appropriately by the criminals themselves."

Senate Bill 490 would assist home owners in obtaining insurance discounts for installing security systems. Currently, a certificate for a peace officer licensed to make inspections is required to receive an insurance discount. This bill would remove that requirement.

Because of liability concerns on the part of police departments, they have been hesitant to perform the inspections. SB 490 addresses the problem by allowing the security company installing the system to present a certificate required for a discount to the homeowner.

Senate Bill 492 would allow defendants to use video equipment to enter pleas, which now must be entered in person while in open court. Giving defendants this option would reduce counties' transportation and security costs.

Senate Bill 493 would allow DWI assault or manslaughter offenses to be used to elevate the severity of subsequent DWI offenses. Currently, specific offenses are used to enhance later DWI offenses, but DWI assault and manslaughter are not among them.

Cotton

markets and service them," he said.

He cited Cotton Incorporated's highly successful research and promotion program, which has given cotton record levels of domestic market share in the past five years.

He also credited Cotton given cotton record levels of domestic market share in the past five years. He also credited Cotton Council International's overseas promotion program for helping to increase U.S. cotton exports to record levels this year.

While noting that GATT and NAFTA will increase export opportunities for U.S. agriculture - and particularly cotton - Brumfield warned that "We'll continue to be confronted with a system of foreign subsidies which undermine our comparative advantage in production and marketing."

"Sound farm programs are essential if U.S. agriculture is to remain viable in world markets where its comparative advantage has been countervailed by foreign subsidies," he said. The Council president said the cotton industry agrees with House Speaker Newt Gingrich who called unilateral disarmament in the industrial policy arena just as illogical as unilateral military disarmament.

Brumfield said one of the major challenges for the cotton industry in the '95 farm bill debate will be communication agriculture's positive message to newcomers in both the House and Senate.

The Council president said two thirds of the House members were elected since 1990 when the last farm bill was written, while only 11 current members of the House Agriculture Committee were present.

Brumfield said he has no problem with critics who want to review all farm program spending.

"There's nothing wrong with government requiring justification for federal spending," he said. "But there's no basis for singling out agriculture to start with a 'blank page' in 1995 unless the same protocol is used for all federal spending."

Brumfield said Congress has interpreted the results of the November elections as a mandate for smaller government and fiscal responsibility. The challenge, he noted, is convincing skeptics that a workable cotton program is compatible with those objectives.

He pointed to record production and offtake, profitability in all industry segments, and declining program costs as prime examples of how the cotton program has worked so well in recent years.

"We have a great success story to tell," said the Council president. "Few allocations of federal money have delivered a greater return on investment."

Shiner

The Endangered Species Act was a good idea when it was passed back in the Nixon administration. But it's gotten out of hand. The federal bureaucrats that administer the law have broadened its application way beyond Congress' original intent. It unreasonably restricts what people can do with their own land. And this is happening across Texas and across America.

John Rogers with the Fish and Wildlife Service appeared before the Natural Resources Committee in Austin last year and pledged to try less burdensome measures like releasing species before going to the extreme and placing them on the endangered species list. The Parks and Wildlife Department was ready and willing to participate. Unfortunately, nothing happened. The feds went ahead and proposed listing the shiner anyway.

The wildlife service recently held a meeting in Amarillo to hear what people thought about listing the shiner. Hundreds of people turned up to tell the service that Texas is capable of protecting its own natural resources and doesn't need the federal government's help.
