Three arrested in connection with daytime burglaries

A Clovis man and two Clovis youths were arrested Sunday after allegedly breaking into a home near the intersection of the West Camp Road and U.S. Highway 84, west of Muleshoe.

Ray Chavez, 35, a prime suspect in a string of daytime burglaries in Bailey County the last two months, is being charged with two counts of burglary. He is being held in the Bailey County Jail on $300,000 bond. More charges are expected.

The two youths, 12 and 14 years old, have not been charged yet and were released into the custody of their parents. The 12-year-old is the son of Chavez' girlfriend, according to police officials.

More arrests are expected in connection with a string of 25 burglaries in four counties in Texas and New Mexico in the last two months, according to Bailey County Chief Deputy Don Carter. Sheriff's departments from Parmer, Roosevelt and Curry counties are also involved in the investigation. Seven of the burglaries have occurred in Bailey County since April 20. All the break-ins were in the daytime.

Chavez, who police believe was trying to support a drug habit by trading stolen goods for drugs, was a suspect in the burglaries from the start, according to Carter.

He was put under surveillance last week after investigators recovered some stolen goods at a pawn shop in Clovis.

Chavez was under surveillance Sunday when he left his home in Clovis and crossed into Texas shortly before noon. An airplane from the Texas Department of Public Safety kept surveillance from 4,000 feet, and officers from the Bailey County Sheriff's Department kept close by.

Chavez was observed breaking into a home just west of the West Camp Road, according to Sheriff's apartment officials.

When officers closed in, Chavez fled in a car, leading Bailey County officers on a five-mile chase through mostly dirt roads before he was cornered northwest of the Muleshoe Co-op gin. He surrendered without incident.

Two houses were broken into in the Lazbuddie area May 22, and since there was never been longer than three days between break-ins, Carter said investigators figured it was just a matter of time before Chavez struck again.

LHS graduates 26 seniors Friday

By JOANNA GALLMAN
Journal staff writer

Twenty six Lazbuddie High School seniors received diplomas at commencement exercises held Friday in the high school auditorium.

Valedictorian Dawn Weir boldly addressed her classmates, challenging them to look toward the future.

"What we do with the rest of our lives is in our own hands," she said. "It is our responsibility to use those lessons from yesterday to guide us in making decisions today."

She concluded by urging her fellow graduates to live to their greatest potential by accepting and learning from past obstacles.

"We must be able to accept occasional failure and know that those disappointments can lead us in more challenging and rewarding directions. We can never stop learning, for if we do, we will find ourselves unable to conquer life's disappointments," she said. "Knowledge and desire are the keys to overcoming obstacles cast into our path."

Weir, an honor graduate and member of the Lazbuddie National Honor Society, was the recipient of the Fred and Vigil Wilbanks Memorial Scholarship, the Western Drug Memorial Scholarship, and the Texas Education Agency Valedictorian Scholarship. She also received the Carr Academic Scholarship from Angelo State University, the FINA/Dallas Morning News

Showers offer little relief for farmers

By JOANNA GALLMAN
Journal staff writer

Rain showers Saturday offered little help to farmers facing government-mandated planting deadlines.

Because of government regulations, dryland cotton farmers in Bailey and Parmer counties must plant their crops by June 1, even though the soil is too dry to even sprout the seeds.

"It's a pretty bleak outlook for dryland cotton," said Bailey County Agricultural Extension Agent Curtis Preston. "It's probably not going to make it."

"Basically, it wasn't enough. It's going to take close to an inch to plant dryland and get it up," he said. "However, as dry as it is, it won't last very long, because an inch doesn't wet the soil very deep."

Small amounts of rainfall and random patches of hail were reported Saturday.

An employee of Needmore Coop Gin reported between 4/10 and 9/10 inches of rain, while Calvin Meissner at the Lariat Gin reported no rain, but a mile and a half wide strip of orange-sized hail.

Meissner said several corn and cotton patches were ruined, and noted that one of his customers began replanting Monday.

Wade Baker, an employee at Farmer's Co-op Gin of Enochs, reported 1/2 inch of rainfall and considerable sand damage to area crops. Maple

McDonald graduates into adulthood

By JOANNA GALLMAN
Journal staff writer

Julie McDonald's dreams are no different than anyone else's — except that her dreams are made for two.

Before attending her senior prom, the Lazbuddie High School senior was prematurely thrust into an adult world, giving birth to a daughter in February. While most seniors are worrying about what to wear to their final prom, or how far from home to go to college, Julie, an honor student, was concerned about completing high school and providing for her three-month old daughter, Briah.

The pregnancy was met with some disapproval in the community, and created a void between her and her friends.

"I've just been so tired of proving myself to people," said Julie, who delivered the salutatorian address at commencement exercises Friday. "Having Briah has made me try harder. I feel like I have to prove to everybody that I can succeed in school and in raising her."

Julie faced many difficult decisions — the first was telling her parents she was pregnant.

"My first thought was 'how am I going to tell my Mom,'" Julie said. "That's all I could think about — how it would affect my Mom."

Her parents proved supportive.

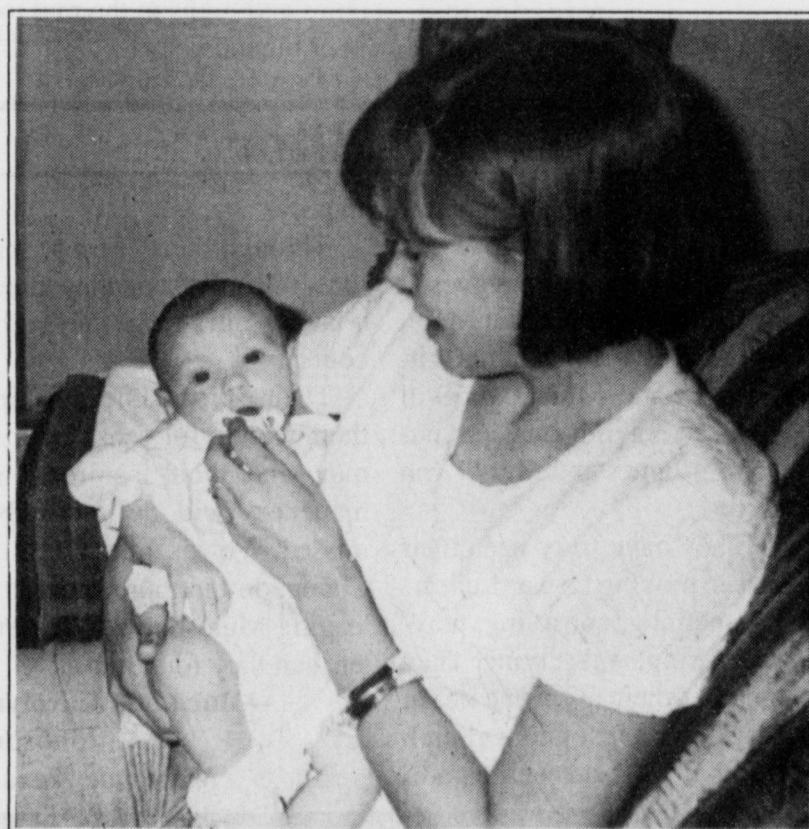

"They never told me outright that they were disappointed. We just had to move on and decide what we were going to do," she said. "They were very supportive and never gave me trouble."

Julie said she and her parents considered all the options, including adoption.

"For some people, adoption is the best option. We considered it and decided that it wasn't the best thing for us to do," she said, adding that she has not regretted her decision.

Julie, the recipient of three sizeable scholarships, plans to get married this summer, and

Smaller is big reason for success at Three Way

MAPLE — Opting for a small school was the turning point for Jessica Hood.

Not that she had much of a choice.

Admitting she was a troublesome teen in her hometown of Fort Worth, more prone to being booked than opening a book, Hood was sent to live with her father in Iraan. They moved to Maple her sophomore year.

"I thought I didn't need to be in school," said Hood. "I thought I knew it all."

Immersing herself in her studies and sports when she got to Three Way High School, Hood turned her life around.

Hood gave the valedictorian speech during Three Way's commencement exercises Friday in the school auditorium, giving way to tears when she talked about the day she left her Mom.

"It was kind of hard at first," said the 17-year-old Hood, whose parents are divorced and have since remarried. "But now that I'm older, I know it's the best thing that ever happened to me."

Hood, one of eight seniors that graduated Friday, had a four-year average of 91. She earned several scholarships, including the State of Texas Honor Graduate Award given to valedictorians (two semesters of tuition at the school of her choice) and the C.R. "Choc" Hutcheson Award at Texas Tech for mass communications. She plans to major in advertising at Tech.

Hood is the daughter of Bill and Rhonda Hood.

Keith Kindie gave the salutatorian speech, at one point joking that "with the education that anyone of us has received, at least one of us should be able to get moisture from the sky. . . it's become a known fact that the school of Three Way graduates a group of seniors more often than it rains."

Kindie, who plans to major in architecture at Texas Tech, later talked about what makes attending a small high school (29 students) special.

"The faculty becomes your friend," Kindie said. "When you have a problem either academically or personally, they are there to help you through it."

Kindie is the son of Joey and Carolyn Kindie. Former Three Way Schools Superintendent

Retirement reception for local librarian slated for Friday

A retirement reception for Anne Camp, librarian of the Muleshoe Public Library, will be held Friday, from 3-5 p.m., in the meeting room of the Bailey County Civic Center. The public is invited to attend.

Camp, who will retire this week after 32 years of public service, began as a volunteer librarian in 1963, when Bailey County was designated to house and provide service to four counties through the use of the Bookmobile, a van which traveled to rural communities, lending books to children. When the permanent Muleshoe Area Library opened in August of 1964, Camp became the full-time librarian.

Camp says she has always loved books, and is proud of the Muleshoe Library.

"It has been really fun to work with the public. That's what makes a library worthwhile — people that enjoy using it," she said.

Hospital District Board of Directors to hold meeting

The Muleshoe Area Hospital District Board of Directors will meet in regular session at 7 p.m. Thursday in the dining room of the Muleshoe Area Medical Center.

On the agenda for the meeting is a review of Hospital and HealthCare Center financial and statistical reports, as well as election results. New Board Members will take an oath of office, and election of new officers will be held.

Board members will consider a resolution for checking account signatures and appointment of physicians.

1995 saw fewest number of traffic fatalities in state history

Traffic deaths increased by one percent in Texas in 1995 compared with the previous year, according to the Texas Department of Public Safety. However, the number of fatalities for that year per 100 million miles driven dropped to the lowest level in the state's history.

Statistics compiled by the DPS show 3,172 persons died in traffic crashes in 1995, up one percent from 1994, when 3,142 fatalities were reported.

Traffic fatality reports for 1995 showed a slight increase in the number of motorcycle fatalities and a 7.7 percent increase in pedestrian traffic deaths.

No traffic fatalities were reported in Texas on Feb. 28, 1995 — the only day during the year no traffic deaths occurred. Single accidents claimed six or more victims on two occasions during 1995.

Amarillo Garden Center offers Bouquet of Gardens tour

State-wide elections held for Texas Corn Producers Board

In the fourth statewide election since the Texas Corn Producers Board became a statewide entity in 1990, five board members were elected or re-elected in March and April.

Prior to the elections, the TCPB divided the state into eight separate voting regions in order to provide a better representation of all Texas corn producers. Each voting region will represent one-fifteenth of the total corn production in Texas.

Bert Williams of Farwell was selected in Region Two, Neal Burnett of Plainview will fill the Region Three seat, and Robert Young of Dalhart will serve for Voting Region Four. Winning the seat in Voting Region Five was Dee Vaughan of Dumas. David Foehner of Boling will serve in Voting Region Seven.

The five new board members were sworn in on May 15, during the TCPB's quarterly meeting in San Antonio.

The next election will be in the spring of 1998. There will be five seats up for election.

Coop Gin reported 1/2 inch of rainfall as well, while Greg Gregory of the Lazbuddie Gin reported no rain.

R.G. Bennett, an observer for the National Weather Service in Muleshoe, said .16 inch of rain fell in Muleshoe, bringing the yearly total to .28 inch.

Lubbock National Weather Service employee Greg Shelton said that Abernathy received 4.76 inches of rainfall, the most in the observation area, while Hereford and Snyder reported no precipitation.

Shelton said a storm that tracked from Hobbs to Childress Saturday afternoon produced a tornado that touched down west of Friona, which downed several power lines in the area.

The extended forecast for Thursday through Saturday predicts fair skies and dry conditions, with lows in the sixties and highs in the mid to upper nineties.

Letter To The Editor

The greatest and perhaps the only perfect gift that we can give is the gift of ourselves at our best. Many of us in Muleshoe have received this gift from two individuals who will soon be leaving our community — James and Mary Lynn Bell.

They have truly been their best in moving forward, cheering, helping, consoling, praying, caring, and serving. They have let their life shine out in service, not just to our church family, but to our entire community.

Through their years of service, the only pride they knew was in pursuing the right course.

Their spiritual leadership, their wonderful sense of humor, and their inspired humaneness will definitely be missed. We wish them well in Clarendon and appreciate them leaving Muleshoe a little better than they found it.

Mastering the art of the comeback

BAXTER BLACK
ON THE EDGE OF COMMON SENSE

"Hey buddy, maybe you'll rope better after your horse foals. Ha ha!"
 "Thanks, pal. I had a horse like yours once. But his brain was so small his head caved in and he bit his own ears off! Look it's starting in yours ... see that indentation."
 The quick retort. That clever comeback, the snappy rejoinder that puts the annoying smart mouth in his place. The French call it Esprit d'Escalier - the wit of the stairway. In my case it would be better called Esprit d' Much Later. I don't think of what I wished I'd said till I'm tossing and turning at two o'clock in the morning.
 My normal response to the roping chide would have been more like, "Huh? Oh. It's a gelding. Yeah, I guess you know, I get it. Ha, ha, Duh!"
 The trick is to let the tormentor step into his own trap.
 "My gosh, Bill, if I had a bull that threw calves like that I'd sell 'im as quick as I could!"
 "You had ... you did. I bought him at yer yearlin' sale two years ago!"
 "This is ridiculous havin' to nearly undress to get through airport security."
 "I've never heard anyone say that who's been hijacked."
 "I've been tryin' to call you for three weeks to tell you about this great networking investment opportunity. How do you expect people to get a hold you if you have an unlisted phone number?"

 (a visual Esprit d'Escalier ... the raised eyebrows)
 "How can you live without a computer?"
 "Somebody's gotta think up all that stuff you read on that little screen."
 "Ugh ... how can you wear that fur coat?"
 "I'm doing research on lunatics and this seems to be good bait."
 "Dear, why do you always under cook my bacon? You know I like it crisp."
 "Yer mother always cooked it crisp and she said you were difficult to potty train. I don't want you to revert."
 "I hope you don't mind us joining you. Looks like yer catchin' all the fish."
 "Not a bit, have y'all been vaccinated for leprosy?"
 "Would you mind me cuttin in line? I have a handicap."
 "Oh. You a Republican?"
 "I run every day. Are you familiar with running?"
 "Yeah, I saw The Fugitive."
 "Don't feel bad, you can't be good at everything."
 "All I'm tryin' to do is zip this jacket."
 "How could anyone be so stupid?"
 "Maybe it's the company I keep."
 Now that you've got the idea, try this on...
 "Did you make that bridle yourself or is your kid learning leather work in kindergarten?"

Furrowed dikes maximize rainfall

No one knows when the next rainfall will occur on the dry Texas High Plains; therefore, it make good sense for area producers to keep furrow dikes installed in their fields to maximize precipitation benefits when it does rain again.
 Furrow dikes are small mounds of soil mechanically installed in the furrow. Installation of these mounds of soil creates a small reservoir in front of each dam.
 In most instances, area soil infiltration rates are adequate to absorb small amounts of rainfall with little runoff. However, when rainfall occurs in amounts exceeding soil infiltration rates, the furrow dikes hold the water in place until it can soak into the soil.
 "Water is the limiting factor in crop production in this area," says Ken Carver, Assistant Manager of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 in Lubbock. "It must either be obtained from precipitation or by pumping ground water from the Ogallala Aquifer. Maximizing precipitation reduces the amount of withdrawal from the aquifer, reduces agricultural production costs associated with meeting crop water needs, and has the potential to significantly increase crop yields."
 A three-year study at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Lubbock indicated an average annual runoff of 2.73 inches from land with varying degrees of slope.
 Keeping rainfall on the field rather than allowing it to flow into ditches and/or playa basins provides additional water for crop use.
 For every inch of water available above the basic water needs for plant development, cotton will yield 50 to 100 pounds of lint per acre; grain sorghum will yield 300 to 400 pounds of grain per acre; and wheat, two to three bushels per acre.
 The potential crop yield increase resulting from two to three inches of additional water on cotton could increase production by 100 to 300 pounds of lint per acre, and grain sorghum production from 600 to 1,200 pounds per acre. Other crops grown in the area should have similar yield increases when furrow dikes are used to retain similar amounts of additional water.
 Producers should also remember that furrow dikes are especially effective when used under a center pivot sprinkler system.

Agricultural survey is an opportunity to speak out

AUSTIN — How will the new Farm Bill affect Texas farmers and ranchers? What will tight U.S. and world grain supplies, high grain and feed prices and the dry spring mean for Texas agriculture?
 To gather reliable, objective information, the Texas Agricultural Statistics Service will be surveying Texas farmers and ranchers for the 1996 June Agricultural Survey as part of the annual USDA spring planted acreage survey.
 A representative of the Texas Agricultural Statistics Service will contact local producers between May 29 and June 14. This survey is particularly vital because it will provide the first clear indications of the potential production of major commodities, producers' reactions to the new farm bill, and how the drought affected spring plantings.
 The information gathered is widely used. Producers rely on the data to make production, marketing and investment decisions. It helps policy makers evaluate current regulations and programs. Industry analysts, extension agents and farm organizations use the information in various ways that benefit all segments of agriculture.

 "We safeguard the confidentiality of all survey responses," state statistician Dennis Findley says.

Adult

Kevin Gaasch, her fiancee and Briah's father, attended Texas Tech University and worked full time during the school year. He has taken a major role in raising Briah.

"He's made it a lot easier for me just knowing he's there," Julie said.

With her sudden entry into adulthood, Julie felt alienated from her high school peers.

"My friends tell me they think I'm more mature now. They forget that I'd like to go out," she said. "They see me more as an adult and not so much a teenager now."

Julie said that despite some disapproval, she has received tremendous support from the Lazbuddie community. However, she feels that teenage pregnancy is an issue that is not addressed enough.

"I think everybody will talk about it just to talk," she said. "But they don't seem worried about it because they know it's not their kids," she added.

She noted that education should be implemented in elementary and junior high to prevent the increase of teenage pregnancy.

Julie's mother, Joann McDonald, said the whole family has learned from her daughter's experience.

"One thing I've learned is not to talk about other people's kids because you never know what your's is going to do," Joann said.

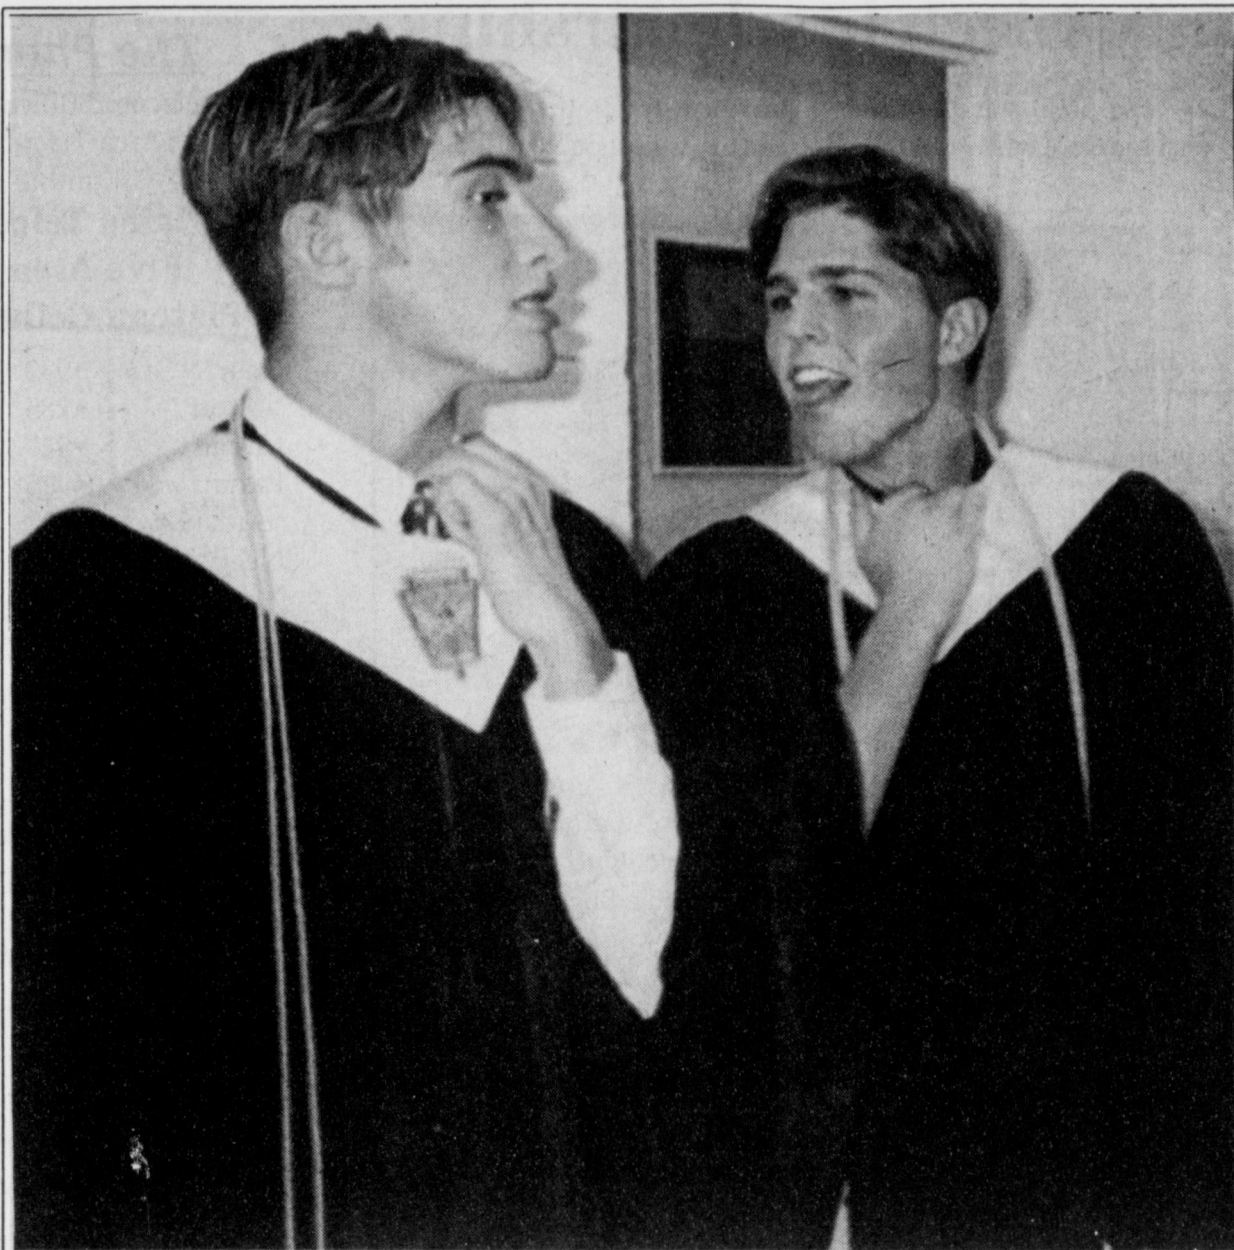

While the stress of teenage motherhood might frustrate and discourage many from the pursuit of their dreams, Julie says she is optimistic about her situation, and confident about her future.

Julie's parents have made it clear whose responsibility it is to raise the child.

"They made it clear that she's my responsibility because they may not always be there," Julie said. "I think that's a good thing, though. I wouldn't want to not take care of her. Since I take care of her now, I'll know what to do — if I went off to college after Mom had been doing everything, I wouldn't know what to do."

Even as an unexpectedly difficult senior year draws to a close, Julie continues to worry. With many more hurdles to overcome, she says optimism is the key to ensuring her future success.

"I have worries, but I don't dwell on them," she said. "I try to think about the best."

Tops News

By Polly Otwell

TOPS Chapter Number 34 met at the Muleshoe church of Christ on Thursday, May 16, at 6:30 p.m. with Leader, Laverne James calling the meeting to order. The TOPS Pledge was recited and the fellowship song was sung. James led the group in prayer.

Betty Jo Davis, weight recorder, called the roll with 15 members answering with the amount they had lost or gained. Minutes were read by Evelene Harris, secretary, and were approved as read.

Best loser for the week was a three way tie between Evelene

Harris, Rose Sain and Polly Otwell. Molly Davis was first runner-up and second runners-up was also a tie between Alma Robertson and Aurora Mata. As reported by Alene Bryant, assistant weight recorder.

Ruth Clements received a birthday gift. Alma Robertson received a gift for being best loser last week and losing this week. Lucille Harp received a "just because" gift from her secret pal.

"Pray for Rain" contest is going strong. The point system is underway, with side one, under the leadership of Alma Robertson, is ahead.

The highlight of the evening was an auction with Naomi Sanchez and leader Laverne James, as the auctioneers. For eight weeks, members had been given play money when they lost and attended the meeting. Each member brought a white elephant gift in a brown paper bag. No one knew what the other person brought. The auctioneers told their bidders only if the item was light, heavy or rattled. Then the bidding would begin. At times the bidding became intense. Each member got something and a good time was had by the members.

The meeting was adjourned with the good night song.

Great Performances

"Dance in America: A Renaissance Revisited"

Hosted by lifelong dance fan Joanne Woodward, Great Performances "Dance in America: A Renaissance Revisited" is a 20th-anniversary souvenir of some of dance's greatest moments. The multi-award winning "Dance in America" series on Great Performances began with an evening of works performed by the Joffrey Ballet on January 21st, 1976. Since then, it has presented virtually every major American choreographer and dancer.

"Dance in America: A Renaissance Revisited" offers amazing evidence of the dancing brilliance of Mikhail Baryshnikov, Gregory Hines, Natalia Makarova, Rudolph Nureyev, and others. The telecast revisits masterwork by such seminal figures as George Balanchine, Martha Graham, and Jerome Robbins, asking the question "What is dance about?" The program lets these great choreographers answer with their work, which unfolds thematically rather than chronologically, presenting pieces inspired primarily by story, music, and movement.

The nine choreographers seen on camera offering thoughts on their work include Alvin Ailey, Frederick Ashton, Merce Cunningham, Agnes de Mille, Robert Joffrey, Kurt Jooss, Jerome Robbins, and Paul Taylor.

Great Performances "Dance in America: A Renaissance Revisited" airs Tuesday, June 4th at 2:00 p.m. and Thursday, June 13th at 9:00 p.m.

The Gentle Doctor

When dogs rest their heads in our laps, gazing up at us with heavy, houndishly trusting eyes, when birds perform simple but uplifting chirping concertos, or when we get a sneak peek at our cats during an innocent and peaceful slumber, the bond between human and animal intensifies.

It's a bond of companionship, trust, love, and responsibility. However, when a pet is sick or misbehaving, both pet and owner endure stress and confusion. Since pets can't speak our language, we must attempt to learn theirs so we can care for our pet's needs. In addition to training our pets, we need to train ourselves for responsible pet ownership.

In this 14-part series, The Gentle Doctor travels across the continent to visit pet foster care programs, injured pets who use "wheelchairs" to get around, pet day care centers, the Animal Rescue Foundation, bird shelters, physicians who perform pet organ transplants, dog psychologists, and more.

In addition to the feature stories in each episode, basic pet care tips are presented by veterinarians and animal trainers. Each show also visits Walt Disney World's Discovery Island, a Galapagos-type wonderland where an interesting animal is profiled.

Dr. Debby Turner, Miss America 1990, hosts the series again this year. Turner, an animal lover since childhood, has dedicated her talents toward the welfare of animals with her work as an animal activist and veterinarian.

The Gentle Doctor airs Sundays at 10:30 a.m. beginning June 2nd.
