A QUICK READ OF THE NEWS

Tiring of the paper chase

Honest, the paper is in the mail. In a letter to the Texas Press Association, a subscriber to The Bracket News reported how long it took his hometown newspaper to reach him in Redwood City, Calif.

In 1997, only 10 of 52 copies were delivered in the post office's stated acceptable time of six working days from the date of posting.

Not a good record. And to date for this year, not one issue has been delivered in the acceptable time period. One copy is still missing.

He said contacting the post office had failed to produce any real improvement. They told him to complain to the newspaper.

Editor's note: If you are not receiving the Journal in a timely fashion, or are missing papers, please contact the newspaper office at (806) 272-4536.

Computer Gate crashing

CHICAGO — No one is immune to an attack from the computer gremlins.

Microsoft chairman Bill Gates was demonstrating his company's new 'Windows 98' software at the Condex Spring Show when the system crashed.

The system collapsed when a (former?) Microsoft employee attempted to plug in a scanner with the boss standing alongside. Gates was forced to move to a different computer to complete the demonstration.

Mammals with a porpoise

CORPUS CHRISTI — The U.S. Navy received some help from mine-detecting dolphins as part of a large fleet exercise in the Gulf of Mexico last week.

The five dolphins are trained to use their natural sonar to find mines that could otherwise go undetected. It is their first time working in the Costal bend.

Signal interference might keep the Navy's sonar from detecting some shallow-water mines, but the dolphins have an uncanny ability to find them according to a Navy spokesman.

Each dolphin serves up to 25 years after five years of training.

The Navy didn't mention a pension plan.

EXTENDED FORECAST

Fair Friday with highs in the mid 80s and lows in the 40s. Partly cloudy and windy Saturday and Sunday with highs around 80.

Strong winds could make for weak dryland wheat crop

A once promising dryland wheat crop is wilting in the wind.

Bailey County Extension Service agent Curtis Preston said Tuesday the area's dryland wheat is in dire need of moisture.

"The prospects for a good dryland crop were pretty good three weeks ago, but the wind has dried it out," Preston said. "It's not lost yet, but it's in need of immediate rain."

Irrigated wheat is in much better shape, Preston said.

"We still have a chance to have an above average crop if the irrigated wheat gets some rain because the winter moisture got it off to such a good start," Preston said.

Wheat is entering the critical heading stage when the wheat needs plenty of water.

Preston estimated about 50,000 acres of winter wheat is planted in Bailey County, of which only about 10,000 is harvested.

Most of the wheat is used for grazing cattle or for hay.

The current market price for red winter wheat in Bailey County is $2.75-$2.85 a bushel.

The statewide wheat forecast is favorable, according to the Texas Agriculture Statistics Services, which estimated a 5 percent increase in the wheat harvest over 1997 and a 66 percent jump from the drought-plagued 1996 crop.

The first national wheat forecast will be released May 12.

City Council discusses need for new emergency systems

By TERESA STONE
Journal staff writer

Two local emergency communication systems are in desperate need of revamping, but the Muleshoe City Council is concerned that the city's already stretched budget may not be able to handle the needed overhauls.

During Tuesday's City Council meeting, Chief of Police Don Carter and Bailey County Emergency Management coordinator Todd Ellis both discussed the need to replace two different emergency communication systems that would cost the city around $70,000.

Carter said the police department needs to replace the back up generator used by local law enforcement and 911 dispatchers during power outages. He told the council that the existing generator, which was used when it was purchased 18 years ago, is inoperable and a shock hazard.

Carter recommended that the City of Muleshoe invest approximately $20,750 to replace the existing generator and install a battery backup system.

The Council agreed to solicit bids for a new system, however, Mayor Robert Montgomery said the city needs to seriously consider buying a salvaged system rather than a new one because of the city's current economic situation.

City manager James Fisher, not committing to any specific amount, said that if the cost is reasonable, this year's budget could probably be rearranged to cover the expense of replacing the emergency generator.

Deadline nears for corn board position

Voting for a director's position on the Texas Corn Producers Board will end May 1.

Two producers have been nominated as candidates for an expiring director's post in TCPB Voting Region 2, which includes Bailey, Oldham, Deaf Smith, Hartley and Parmer counties.

The candidates are incumbent director Jimmy Wedel of Muleshoe and Leroy Burnett who lives near Friona, according to Jerry Don Glover, TCPB executive director.

TCPB is conducting its biennial election in four of its eight voting regions to elect five board members where current members' seats are expiring.

"The election is under the guidelines of the Texas Commodity Referendum Law," said Glover. "We encourage Texas corn producers within the regions to take part in this important election."

Wedel farms about 1,200 acres of food corn and yellow feed corn near Muleshoe in Bailey County. He also farms cotton, wheat, grain sorghum and several specialty crops, along with raising stocker cattle. He is secretary of the Texas Agricultural Lifetime Leadership Alumni Association.

Burnett's operation in parmer County includes corn, cotton, grain sorghum, wheat and cattle production on 480 acres. He has been in the farming business since 1956.

Producers are eligible to vote in this election if he or she is currently a producer of corn or has produced corn for at least one production period three years prior to May 1, 1998.

Ballots are available through TCPB, 218 E. Bedford, Dimmitt, TX 79027, grain elevators or a county extension office in the voting region.

TCPB is a research and promotion program for corn funded by a uniform corn checkoff collected on a refund basis from corn producers in every county of Texas.

For more information on the election, contact TCPB at (806) 647-4114 or 1-800-647-CORN.

Muleshoe library receives foundation grant

The Muleshoe Area Public Library recently received a $13,896 grant from the Tocker Foundation.

The grant will be used to refurbish the library's reference section, computer stations, and with other plans in making the library a better resource.

The grant will help the library provide patrons with access to computers and the Internet. Portions of the grant will be used to build two computer desks to house six stations. A Telecommunication Infrastructure Fund has provided the Internet connection, two new computers and a printer.

The grant will also be used to help provide a safer children's section with the purchase of eight new chairs. The current chairs are too short for the tables, and tip over easily.

Muleshoe librarian Dyan Shipley also plans to use the money to help make the library more user-friendly and welcoming.

Hanging signs, which will designate the different sections within the library, will be purchased to help patrons find books easier.

The library's reference section will also be enhanced by the grant to provide a better information center to meet the patron's educational needs.

The Tocker grant will help purchase reference section to be filled with materials purchased by the Texas Library Foundation grant awarded to the library last month.

Also being purchased is a new circulation desk to be built by Marshall Cook of Muleshoe. The desk will accommodate the circulation computer, laminating machine and two computer card catalogs, as well as the desk for assistant librarian, Linda Lopez.

The final expenditure allocated from the grant is an update of the library's electrical wiring to handle the increased load created by the added computers.

cerned new emergency warning sirens for the city.

Ellis pitched a new three-siren alarm system to the council that would alert citizens of potential dangers, including storms, tornadoes, hazardous spills, and other threatening situations.

The emergency committee recommended installing three sirens throughout town. The sirens would have dual capabilities — being able to emit a siren or transmit a voice message.

Ellis said that currently residents are alerted to potential danger by local radio and television stations, by emergency personnel going door to door, and by blaring the sirens of emergency vehicles as they are driven through town.

The proposed new system, which would spread three sirens throughout the city, costs about $54,000. Montgomery, in agreement with other council members, again said they are concerned about the city's emergency warning services, but realistically, a new system can not be in place overnight from a financial perspective.

The Council said they plan to approach the County about assisting in paying for the new system.

"I'm definitely concerned about our citizens safety," said Montgomery, "but I certainly don't want to burden the public with more fees and more taxation"

In order to defer the expense, Ellis recommended the council might want to consider buying into the system gradually — one this year, a second siren next year or the year after, and a third one down the road.

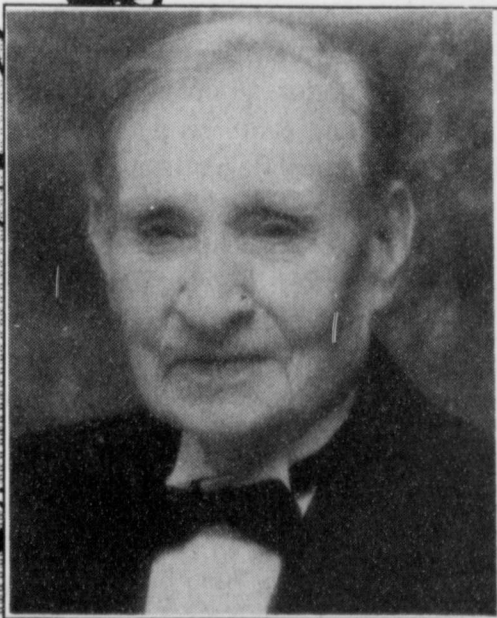

Montgomery assured Ellis that during the next budget cycle the council will make an effort to try and set aside funds in the city's budget to at least get the project started.

Theola attended school ten years, then chose to wed.

Mr. Dewey's Hook and Chain

BAXTER BLACK
ON THE EDGE OF COMMON SENSE

I went out with Mr. Dewey, maybe learn a thing or two.

We motored through the pasture to his cows Till our path befell a crossing, a trail laid to waste,

Like forty rhinos passed by pullin' plows. All the sagebrush had been flattened, great big gouges in the earth,

Bits of cloth and hair were blowin' in the breeze.

Mr. Dewey hacked a lunger and then felt of his black eye

Which now looked more the hue of moldy cheese.

"You?" I asked. He nodded, "I was out here yesterday,

I had to pull a calf, came straight from town, but I used my regular method, what I call the Hook & Chain,

Where I sneak up on'em when they're layin' down.

Then I chain their little foot up, slip the hook into a link,

The big one on one end, you know the one.

Then I put my book into it, always keep the pressure tight

That way they never get up till your done.

"A hook?" I asked, "What kind of hook?" From the rubble on the floor

He fished a good size hay hook from the mound.

It was old as grandma's photos and, no doubt it was hand made,

It looked like some old stirrup that he'd found.

"See, I prop my back against her with my boots there in the hook,

And push against her when she starts to strain.

I get quite a bit of leverage and they never do get up

As long as I keep pressure on the chain."

"I see," I said. Though I didn't.

I looked back across the trail.

I could picture what had happened in my mind.

When the ol' cow quit the country through the cactus and the rocks

With Mr. Dewey draggin' long behind.

"That explains those nasty bruises and that gash there on yer ear,

But what went wrong to sabotage yer plot?"

"I was wearin' city footwear, not my mud boots like I should.

It slipped right through the handle. I got caught.

But you know they never get up, if you keep pressure on.

I've proven that a million times before.

And I'll show ya if we spot one that's in need of our assist.

I've got the chain and hook here on the floor."

Then I glanced down on to the floorboard. He was wearin' Birkenstocks!

"There's one a calvin' now," he said, "just look!"

"So what?" I asked suspicious,

"Well, I see yer wearin' mud boots."

With that ol' Dewey handed me the hook.

Alexander, Perryton pounce on MHS, 8-4

PERRYTON — Perryton threw another curve into Muleshoe's playoff plans.

Junk ball left-hander Jeff Pinion and reliever Jeff Williams combined on a four-hitter and Tanner Alexander blasted two home runs Saturday, leading Perryton to an 8-4 win in a key District 1-3A contest.

Muleshoe's second-straight loss drops them two games behind district co-leaders Perryton and River Road at 5-3. Perryton, which has won seven-straight since losing to Muleshoe 20-10 in its district opener, and River Road are 7-1.

Muleshoe coach Brad Hill said the loss makes it "almost necessary to win out to make the playoffs."

In other district games Saturday, River Road beat Friona 15-5, Sanford-Fritch edged Dimmitt 10-9 and Dalhart topped Tulia 8-5.

Alexander, hitting in the No. 8 spot, reached Muleshoe starter Rodney Alanis for a solo home run in the second inning and a two-run blast in the fourth as the Rangers built a 6-3 lead.

AMERICAN HEART ASSOCIATION NEWS

Joyce McGehee, president, welcomed the nine members in attendance April 8 during the monthly meeting.

The treasurer's report was given by Joy Stancell. Special event reports followed.

Jump Rope for Heart and Hoops for Hearts were not held at the elementary schools this year due to the P.E. instructors relocating.

We hope to meet with the new teachers and get these important programs started again next year.

Our Sporting Clay competition "Shoot From the Heart" will be held June 6.

Glenda Powell is in charge of the event. One price will include unlimited shooting throughout the day, sandwiches, chips and cold drinks. Prizes are currently being donated. More on this later.

Dance for Heart is in the works. Nancy Kidd is in charge of the event. Big Band era music will be provided by Bill Casey and the Velvetones. We are planning this for a Saturday night in September.

Tickets are $10 for a buffet-style meal of baked potato pile-on with all the toppings and the dance or $5 for the dance. Tickets will be sold by the Heart Association board.

Ricki Kelley, in charge of Tumbling for Heart, was unable to attend the meeting. Update on this later.

Anita Mitchell and Linda Tucker (communication chairs) were pleased to learn MagAnn Rennels (Ch. 17) was the recipient of the Paul R. Ellis Media Award.

Presented yearly by the American Heart Association, Texas affiliate, the award recognizes outstanding achievements by Texas media and other communication professionals who convey cardiovascular health information to the public. Rennels will be presented the award May 12 at the Heart Association's annual meeting.

We need new volunteers, even if it is only to help with one project. We currently are still without any men volunteers.

There are no dues, only new friends and a fun learning experience. We meet once a month at noon, except during the summer months.

Our mission is to fight disability and death from cardiovascular diseases and stroke.

Superior students

Ten Muleshoe students honored for their academic achievements were (front) Kendra Benham, LeAnn Altman, Julie Slayden, Amy Hooten and Brianne Locker. (Back) Larry Pineda, Katie Black and Matt Mason. The students were honored during a celebration of Education Excellence hosted by South Plains College and sponsored by the Texas State Board of Education and the Texas Education Agency.

HERITAGE FOUNDATION NEWS

The Muleshoe Heritage Foundation Board met April 13 at the Muleshoe Depot.

Board members present were Vivian White, Dan Throckmorton, Carolyn Johnson, Charles Flowers, Kristy Price, Gordon Green, Jean Allison and Peggy Bruton, Center hostess.

The minutes and treasurer's report were approved.

Discussions were held about further repairs on the old Muleshoe cook house and lawn upkeep. It was decided, also, to get an estimate for putting a new roof on the log cabin in order for the loft to be installed. Logs have already been purchased for this purpose.

Members discussed maintaining and operating the Thrift Shop, which is one of the main sources of income for the Heritage Center. Vivian White, president, is in charge of the Thrift Shop, and she said volunteer workers are needed. She noted that this is not only a source of income for the Heritage Center, but also serves the community.

Anyone interested should call Vivian White at 272-3370 or the Heritage Center at 272-5873. The Thrift Shop is open on Friday and Saturday.

The Center hostess reported that "Certificates of Appreciation" have now been framed.

Carolyn Johnson reported that she has the Eagle Scout memorabilia belonging to Irvin St. Clair, Muleshoe's first Eagle Scout. She noted that Irvin has also donated a display case for these items which will soon be in the museum area of the James Ranch House.

Charles Flowers reported that Southwest Airlines has donated two round trip tickets to anywhere the airline flies for prizes at the "Tour de Muleshoe" held on Labor Day weekend.

Gordon Green asked the board to consider taking the initiative in getting deteriorating Muleshoe and Bailey County Journals put on microfilm in order to preserve area history. Members agreed that this will be a worthwhile project.

Jewell Pool has donated a special edition of the Journal from the 1960s. Members decided this paper should be laminated for preservation.

DECA students headed for national conference

Three Muleshoe High School DECA students have earned the opportunity to compete at the 52nd annual National Career Development Conference April 25-28 in Denver, Colo.

Bobby Ellis, Becky Flores and Katie Woodworth will be leaving this week, as will 12,000 fellow DECA contenders from across the United States, Puerto Rico, Canada, Guam, the District of Columbia and the Virgin Islands. MHS students are competing in the Civic Consciousness Team Event.

The students raised $900 with a raffle held during the 1997 Christmas Parade that will be used to help area muscular dystrophy children to attend summer camp.

The DECA students planned, organized, implemented and evaluated the project, using business principles and practices. They won district and state honors for their project, manual and presentation.
