A QUICK READ OF THE NEWS

Cock-a-doodle-don't

DALLAS - City Council member Laura Miller is crowing about the noise from roosters in her neighborhood, and she hopes to ban all roosters within city limits.

Miller said she has received several calls from other residents of the south Dallas neighborhood complaining about endless crowing.

"When I first heard one... I thought, 'Isn't that quaint. That's so charming,'" she said Monday. After a while, it grew "aggravating," and Miller vowed to "get rid of those roosters."

Miller plans to ask her council colleagues to make it an offense punishable by up to a $2,000 fine to have a live rooster within the city limits, with a few exceptions.

Mattel buys Barbie collection

PALO ALTO, Calif. - Lots and lots of Barbies are going home. A 21,000-piece Barbie doll collection, which for years made up the Barbie Hall of Fame, has been purchased by Mattel, the creator of the wildly popular doll.

The El Segundo, Calif., toy company announced it acquired the collection from Evelyn and Robert Burkhalter, former owners of the Barbie Hall of Fame. The collection was evicted last month to allow a restaurant next door to grow.

"It's such a great collection, we wanted to make sure it stayed intact," said Mattel spokeswoman Lisa McKendall. The collection, which includes one of the first Barbies created in 1959, will be kept in company archives while plans proceed for a Mattel museum.

The purchase price was not disclosed.

The hall of fame spent 15 years bouncing around Palo Alto. "I feel lost, but Barbie has returned home," said Mrs. Burkhalter.

MISD teachers get 'minimum' $2,000 raise

Muleshoe Independent School District teachers and other certified staff members will receive an across the board raise of at least $2,000 for the 1999-2000 contract year following action Monday by the MISD School Board.

The board voted 6-0 to approve the raise at the recommendation of Superintendent Bill Moore. Board President Cindy Purdy did not attend the meeting due to a conflict with a Texas Association of School Boards committee meeting in Austin.

But the raises could be more, depending on action by the Texas Legislature. Moore said legislators are now haggling over the size of raises and based on those discussions, Moore

Texas DOT honorees

Recognized for safety, service and skills at today's Texas Department of Transportation Safety Awards Banquet in Littlefield were these members of the Bailey County Maintenance Section. Standing (from left) are Richard Morris, maintenance supervisor; Jim Carpenter, maintenance tech; Rhonda Smith, office manager and Jesus Agundis, maintenance tech. At top is Ronnie Garner, heavy equipment operator.

Bailey County DOT personnel honored by the state

Five Bailey County Maintenance Section #11 workers will be honored as the Texas Department of Transportation (TxDOT) holds its annual Safety Awards Banquet today (Thursday, April 29) from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Littlefield Agricultural Center.

Each year, TxDOT employees are recognized for their services and their years of safe driving. They also receive awards for the number of years they've gone without lost time or personal injury.

From the Bailey County Section, Maintenance Supervisor Richard Morris has 23 years without personal injury, while maintenance tech Jim Carpenter has 10 years as a safe operator, 10 years with no personal injuries and 10 years of service. Heavy equipment operator Ronnie Garner has completed 28 years without personal injury.

Office manager Rhonda Smith will be honored for 15 years of service.

Last month 18 maintenance sections competed in a Truck Rodeo, showing their skills handling different types of large equipment through challenging courses. First and second place winners will also be recognized at the banquet. District winners travel to Austin this summer to compete in the statewide event.

From Bailey County, maintenance tech Jesus Agundis, Jr. placed first and Carpenter was second.

"Safety is extremely important in our business," said Ken Sylvester,

Lubbock District safety coordinator. "The banquet is our way of recognizing employees who put safety first on the job."

"The awards are an incentive for employees to practice safety in every aspect of their jobs," Sylvester added. "Many of our employees have gone 15 years or more without an accident or a personal injury," he said. "That says a lot for our safety program."

The Muleshoe Section boasts 3 years without lost time.

Supplements may not lead to profits

LUBBOCK — Feeding supplements to steers and heifers grazing wheat pasture isn't always a cost-effective way to boost gain-per-head, says a Texas Agricultural Extension Service beef cattle specialist.

"Supplements for wheat pasture cattle have their place, but supplemental feeding isn't always economical," said Dr. Ted McCollum, Extension beef cattle specialist based in Amarillo. "Pencil-out your supplement cost and then compare it to the market value of the additional weight gains it may produce.

"As a general rule of thumb, each pound of added weight gain is only worth about 50 cents because of price rollback in the market place. Aside from costs-returns, you also need to con-

Literacy a family affair in Texas

By LAURA BUSH
First Lady of Texas

Since January 1996, Governor Bush has been reminding Texans that the single most important thing we can do in Texas schools is teach our children to read. Yet my husband and I both recognize that a large number of Texas adults struggle to meet the demands of a technical society while performing at the lowest level of reading proficiency. The challenges are two-fold.

First, we must ensure that our children can read. Literate children become literate adults. Texas school children outpace the children of states with similar populations in their rate of reading skill improvement.

Second, adult literacy goes hand-in-hand with children's literacy. Reading is a critical skill. But family literacy is more than simply reading. Family literacy is the way adults equip themselves to meet the daily needs of their families and help their children learn how to succeed in the modern world.

Family literacy programs work to break the parent-to-child cycle of illiteracy. Through intensive education of more than one generation, family literacy programs build on families' strengths. Families come to school together. While their children learn in nearby classrooms, parents work on their own reading skills. And parents practice teaching their children under the guidance of professional teachers. Parents learn that the most important thing they can do to prepare their children for success in school is to read to them early and often.

eracy, I established the First Lady's Family Literacy Initiative for Texas. The initiative is a grant program which awards seed money to Texas family literacy programs. In three years, the initiative has granted almost $600,000 to 30 family literacy programs.

A crucial factor in the First Lady's Family Literacy Initiative - as it should be for any literacy program - is effectiveness. This year the initiative funded results-oriented programs that measure progress in reading skills in terms and numbers that everyone can understand.

We've also asked many parents who participated in these family literacy programs if the programs make a difference. Parents tell us they've learned ways to help their children develop language and reading skills, such as writing out shopping list together or reading road signs when driving in a car.

Parents tell of a sense of accomplishment for the first time in their lives. Asked what she learned most about reading, one parent said, "Not to be afraid."

Perhaps most important, parents tell us they are reading more to their children than before they signed up for family literacy support.

A new Texas Family Literacy Center at the University of Texas at Austin will help Texas family literacy programs better serve their clients and measure results. The center will provide technical assistance and information on research-based practices, assessments, and accountability. The center will be a vital resource for family literacy programs statewide.

Governor Bush and I are optimistic that the efforts of Texas family literacy professionals, working hand-in-hand with public school teachers, will help us reach our goal of a more literate Texas, so that fewer Texas families are left behind.

trip to Tahoka. Today's meeting is scheduled to be closed and no action will be taken. The Board has set the May 4 as the date for a special meeting to select the new superintendent, and to canvass results of Saturday's (May 1) School Board election.

Hutton and Charles E. Carter, superintendent of Grandfalls-Royalty Schools in Grandfalls, Texas, are finalists. They seek to replace Bill Moore, who will retire at the end of the current school year. Hutton and Carter are two of the six finalists interviewed by the MISD board for the job.

Hutton received an associate's degree from Lubbock Christian in 1965 and a bachelor's degree in communications, English and physical education from West Texas State (now West Texas A&M) in 1969. He received a master's from Southern Oregon College in 1974 and a master's in education from Abilene Christian in 1989. He has also done additional graduate work at Lamar, University of Texas at Arlington and Abilene Christian.

Before coming to Tahoka, Hutton was a high school principal for two years and assistant superintendent for two years in the Clyde ISD.

Hutton began his career in education as a teacher and coach in the Harlendale ISD in San Antonio in 1969. He was a teacher in Mineral Wells from 1977 to 1979 and a teacher and coach in Coahoma from 1983 to 1985.

Hutton served as assistant principal at Abilene Christian High from 1985 to 1988. He taught in the Abilene ISD from 1988 to 1990 before becoming high school principal in Clyde.

For all students, the '99 scores were: reading, 90 percent passing; math, 77 percent passing; and writing, 88 percent passing. Because of changes in the way the scoring was done in the last year, only estimates from '98 were available for comparison. In '98 the percentagages of MHS 10th graders projected to pass were 87.5 percent in reading, 78.6 in math and 85.9 in writing.

Handicapping The World

Fred is a number 4 header. He claims he's just a number 3, but I've seen him rope. Whoever rated him a number 4 gave him a gift. His wife Debbie is a number 2 header... but she claims she should be a number 1.

BAXTER BLACK
ON THE EDGE OF COMMON SENSE

This handicapping of teamroper according to ability has been great for the sport and since every roper I know claims his handicap is overrated, then the system must be fair.

Fred pointed out that we are all griping because our handicaps are too high, but what if the handicap system was applied to our other abilities?

Fred is a western artist. I wonder if he'd be satisfied to be a number 4 artist? Then what would that make Charlie Russell? or Rembrandt? or Galen Propp? Galen painted my house.

Debbie suggested we'd look at life differently if every skill had a handicap. Say we had to get a tooth filled. Dentists in the Yellow Pages would be listed:

Dr. Garvey #4: Root Canals and Lack Odontia

Dr. Graham #3: Orthodontics & Bits Sharpened

Dr. Guzman: Extractions, a #2 but we have gas!

"Debbie, quick. I've got chest pains, call the doctor!" "Which do you want! I got a #6 who won't take credit cards, a #4 that requires you join Amway before angioplasty and a #2 who's got a class action suit against him but he can see you right away!"

Various state governments are attempting to rate school teachers and pay them accordingly. Doomed to fail, I'm afraid. How can you compare one student's progress to another's? It all depends on where they start.

Law firms make a big deal about hiring the graduates with the highest grade point, their handicap, if you will. The assumption is they will make the best lawyers, whose job should be to uphold, interpret and defend the law. A quick glance at the miasma of the legal profession swamp today would suggest scholastic achievement might be as poor a method of selection as size of feet or depth of father's pocket book.

How would we handicap hairdressers, psychics, plumbers, horse trainers, milkers or embalmers? Speed? ... Quantity? ...

Shinness? ...

"Yup, we had Uncle Harold done at Bill's Drive Thru Funeral Home. He's a 6, ya know. Harold looked almost real except for the onion rings. But it only took twenty minutes!"

In conclusion I'd say that handicapping anything using guidelines such as popularity, essay testing or taste would do nothing but create more dissension in the world. Which reminds me, they made me a #3 heeler... when in fact, I should be a #2.

NURSING HOME NEWS

Our volunteer list continues and we wish to pay tribute to the following services of these special folks.

Beverly Wagnon — She is an energetic, talented beauty shop "Holy Roller". She is the main person to trim and style the ladies' hair. She also assists with seasonal parties and makes refreshments. She shares her recipes with the residents and other beauty shop workers.

Holly Milsap — She participates in the Wednesday afternoon sing-a-long. She assists with parties and special events, and she is a friendly visitor of the residents and their families.

MAHCC staff and employees — They volunteer their time to act out skits, dress in costumes, go with us on outings, furnish refreshments, create special decorations and are always willing to let us borrow their things for theme parties.

They also help out in the beauty shop whenever there is a need. The volunteer work that the residents put forth and their willingness to do so is unbelievable.

Our Mother's Day celebration is scheduled for Thursday May 6 at 3 p.m. The Happy Hatters from Dumas will entertain. Please come and join us for the party.

Salary increase for Texas teachers

Texas lags behind other wealthy, populous states in teacher compensation, but a remedy, or at least an improvement, may be in sight.

Last week, as part of his new school funding plan, Senate Education Committee Chairman Teel Bivins, R-Amarillo, proposed a plan to help Texas teachers who receive the minimum salary of $21,000 by giving them a $4,000 pay increase.

To do that for the lower paid of Texas' 265,000 teachers would cost nearly $1.7 billion.

Bivins' proposal would take another $1 billion from the state budget to offset a cut in school property taxes. That's only half the amount proposed by Gov. George W. Bush, but Bush's plan wouldn't be as generous with teacher pay raises.

Recognizing the strong support in the Senate for treating teachers better, Bivins, who needs votes for his plan to pass, said he shifted money from property tax relief to teacher salaries.

While his plan does not guarantee a raise for every teacher, Bivins pointed out that the state cannot mandate salary increases in school districts that pay above state minimums.

Meanwhile, teacher advocates are lobbying for a $6,000 pay increase to elevate Texas teacher compensation to the national average.

Sophomores Set TAAS Record

Texas high school sophomores set a record passing rate on the Texas Assessment of Academic Skills exit exam given in February.

Commissioner of Education Mike Moses said sophomores hit or surpassed the 90 percent mark on the test's reading and writing sections for the first time in the exam's nine-year history.

"It's a red-letter day for Texas students," Moses said in announcing the results.

Also, 83 percent of the sophomores who took the test passed the math portion.

Plant to Clean Up Emissions

The largest source of "grandfathered" air emissions in Texas has agreed to seek air quality permits from the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission.

Last week, the TNRCC announced the coal-fired Alcoa Aluminum production plant in Rockdale volunteered to seek air quality permits for those emissions.

Alcoa's decision makes it one of the eight largest source of grandfathered emissions to submit to the permitting process. Each has made the commitment in writing to Gov. George W. Bush, according to the TNRCC.

The Rockdale plant generates 104,108 tons of grandfathered emissions, or more than 10 percent of the statewide total of 900,00 tons per year.

Other Highlights

■ President Clinton last week cancelled his plan for an April 21 trip to preview Austin-Bergstrom International Airport. The president announced the cancellation on April 20, after gunmen attacked a high school in Littleton, Colo., leaving 16 students and 1 teacher dead.

■ About 25,000 sex offenders are behind bars in Texas prisons. About 1,500 of those are chronic child molesters who qualify for castration under a state law passed in 1997. So far, according to a report published by The Dallas Morning News, four inmates have said they want to go through with the surgical procedure.

■ A bill to thwart frivolous lawsuits and limit a plaintiff's ability to collect from multiple defendants made it to the floor of the Texas Senate last week only to fail with less than a two-thirds vote.

■ The full Senate last week approved legislation by Sen. Royce West, D-Dallas, to prevent telephone companies from disconnecting long distance service if a customer is late paying a local phone bill.

■ The Senate Finance Committee last week passed its $98.4 million proposal for the 2000-2001 state budget. Assuming it will be moved swiftly through the full Senate, the legislation then will be reconciled with the House's proposal.

■ The University of Texas and the state attorney general's office last week filed a petition with the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans to overturn the 1996 "Hopwood" ruling prohibiting state institutions of higher education from using an applicant's race as a criterion for admission.

■ The Texas Department of Health is seeking an opinion from the Texas Attorney General as to whether lists of ingredients in tobacco products, submitted to the agency by cigarette makers, are confidential or open to the public.

SOUTH PLAINS COLLEGE AG ASSOCIATION OFFICERS

Brian Box of Muleshoe (front, center) is the vice president of the South Plains College Agricultural Association. The re-organized association recently participated in the Texas Junior College Agricultural Association convention in Lubbock. The group's original founder, Earl Gerstenberger, then an agriculture instruction at the college, helped found the statewide organization more than three decades ago. Also pictured are (front, from left) Tana Haase of Tucumcari, NM, president; Box, and Heath McKinney of Plainview, second vice president. Standing are Alison Drennan of Lamesa, treasurer; Amber Morris of Lubbock, parliamentarian; Tara McCandless of Floydada, freshman representative; and Ron Presley, Jr., SPC assistant professor of agribusiness and organization sponsor. McCandless was named sweetheart and outstanding horticulture student at the TJCAA convention.

Despite rain, rolling plains still moisture short

VERNON — Recent rainfall brought a flush of green spring growth to pastures and rangeland across the Texas Rolling Plains. Even so, cattle ranchers should practice guarded spring grazing to preserve their warm-season forages, said a Texas Agricultural Extension Service range scientist.

"We've received some beneficial rains lately, but in most cases our pastures still are short of moisture," said Dr. J. F. Cadenhead, Extension range and brush control specialist here. "The rains caused a flush of green growth, but don't let that fool you when it comes time to stock your pastures. Most of that green growth is from cool-season grasses and broadleaved plants.

"Warm-season grasses such as sideoats grama, blue grama, buffalograss, windmill grass and the bluestems aren't yet greening up. They were hammered pretty hard by last year's drought."

Cadenhead advised producers to assess the condition of their pastures — especially the sider what those cattle really need in a good pasture supplement."

Most cattle grazing wheat pasture have relatively low supplemental mineral requirements. Cattle raisers should feed a mineral supplement calcium. Magnesium is of less concern for stocker cattle, but it is a good idea to feed supplements containing magnesium to mature cows in order to prevent grass tetany, the specialist said.

"If adding weight gain is your goal, and the cost-returns are right, your supplement should contain an ionophore such as Rumensin or Bovatec," McCollum said. "Aside from promoting weight gain, experience has shown that Rumensin also helps prevent bloat. Bovatec is a good additive, too, but the cattle will need to ingest at or near the recommended dosage for it to readily enhance gain.

"Just remember that feeds containing ionophores are not cleared for use in self feeders.

You have to limit daily intake in some way."

Energy and protein are two other key ingredients to consider, he said.

"Grain is a good source of energy, but low-quality roughage is not. Feeding low-quality roughage won't increase gains, but it can help prevent bloat," he said. "A wheat forage-only diet will produce better gains than a wheat forage-roughage diet. Wheat forage plus grain can be even better.

"Grain-based supplements that contain Rumensin or Bovatec are most economical when fed at relatively low rate — somewhere around two pounds per day per head, or less."

Feeding silage as a supplement is another option. "You can stretch the available forage and perhaps use a higher stocking rate by feeding silage," he said. "It's also a good, nutritious feed that can help you maintain or boost gains during forage-deficit pe-

Feeding times can be just as important as supplement ingredients, the specialist said.

"Don't feed your supplement when the cattle are hungriest (early morning), or when they have already filled up on forage (afternoon)," McCollum said. "Wheat should be their main course meal. Feed your supplement as a dessert — after the cattle have finished their morning grazing."

The Fully Digital hearing aid automatically and continuously analyzes the sound in the wearer's environment.

This new technology is capable of fitting mild to severe hearing losses and because of the ability to program this hearing aid, it can be modified to meet the needs of the user for many years. Livingston Hearing

New pill geared to obese

The first fat-blocker diet drug has been approved by the Food and Drug Administration, the agency announced Monday. It will begin arriving in pharmacies in the next few days.

Orlistat, which will be sold as Xenical by Hoffmann-La Roche, works by keeping about 30% of dietary fat from being absorbed by the intestine.

The company's Valeria Suga says Xenical is designed for obese people who are 20% to 30% over their healthy weight and not for dieters who only have a few pounds to lose. Still, 66 million people could qualify to take it, she says.

"Society is getting fatter and fatter," says John Foreyt, an obesity researcher with Baylor College of Medicine in Houston, who has studied the drug. "We need all the help we can get."

Earlier drugs, including fenfluramine, part of the popular fen-phen combination, and dexfenfluramine, worked on the brain chemistry to control appetite. They were pulled from the market in 1997 because of a high incidence of heart-valve problems among patients.

Patients who take Xenical and cut about 600 calories a day can expect to lose 5% to 10% of their weight in six months. People who eat a high-fat diet and take Xenical are more likely to experience some of its side effects, including oily stools. Early research indicated a possible link between the drug and a higher incidence of breast cancer, but a large follow-up study showed no connection.

Look for the Muleshoe Journal's Mother of the Year winner coming up May 9! If you're in the 4th grade, you can enter your mom, too! Call 272-4536 for details! The winner will receive gifts from local businesses.

Combest calls for bridge of farm credit gap

WASHINGTON—In a letter sent yesterday, House Agriculture Committee Chairman Larry Combest urged Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman to use his authority to release $150 million in unobligated funds to help bridge the current gap in farm credit while supplemental loan authority is addressed by the President and Congress.

"At a time when credit availability can mean the difference between putting a crop in the field or selling the farm, the immediate release of these loan funds could prove to be crucial to thousands of our Nation's farmers faced with this very decision," Combest wrote.

"Persistent low commodity prices coupled with last year's crop losses have teamed up to create a severe credit crunch throughout farm country," Combest wrote. "Consistent with your expressed desire to see farmers through these difficult times, I am writing to request your immediate help in providing thousands of American farmers and ranchers with the credit they need now."

Recently, Congress approved and the President signed H.R. 882 into law, releasing unobligated funds reserved for the Beginning Farmers and Ranchers program a month early and providing a timely infusion of $472 million for USDA to guarantee agricultural loans. Congress' timing of H.R. 882 was essential for farmers and ranchers who were up against spring planting dates and whose loan applications had been approved but not yet satisfied.

"While the House of Representatives did pass H.R. 1141 to provide supplemental appropriations for $1.1 billion in new loan authority to satisfy credit needs, the President's request for additional monies to carry out NATO military operations in the Balkans has delayed this much-needed funding," Combest wrote.

"In view of this delay and with planting dates drawing closer for more and more farmers, I believe it is vitally important that you exercise your authority and immediately make available additional monies for both emergency and operating loans," Combest wrote. "Specifically, current law provides you with the flexibility to make immediately available approximately $150 million in reserved but unused funds.

Importantly, the Supplemental Appropriations Bill currently under consideration will ensure that equally important but less immediate loan applications under various accounts are met."

The Television Series JOURNEY TO PLANET EARTH

The delicate relationship between people and the demands they place on the world they inhabit is explored in a bold new 3-part documentary miniseries, Journey to Planet Earth. Kelly McGillis ("Top Gun") narrates.

Journey to Planet Earth makes environmental issues understandable, accessible, and personal. The miniseries provides a perspective for viewers to understand the complexities underlying ecological issues. Each episode looks at a specific problem from the scientific, economic, political, and historical viewpoints, as well as efforts by different communities to address these problems.

The first episode, "Rivers of Destiny," looks at the threat to the world's river systems with visits to the Amazon, the Jordan River, the Mississippi River, and the Mekong River Delta.

"The Urban Explosion" explores the effects of rapid, massive urbanization through journeys to four of the world's mega-cities: Mexico City; Istanbul; Shanghai; and New York City.

"Land of Plenty - Land of Want" visits diverse farming communities on four continents to examine the worldwide problems of feeding a growing population without exhausting the land: Lancaster, Pennsylvania; Zimbabwe; France; and China.

Journey to Planet Earth will be broadcast Sundays at 11:30 a.m. beginning May 2nd.

Battlefield: Vietnam

Battlefield: Vietnam examines the military realities of the Vietnam War while excluding the social slants or political biases that often accompany references to that conflict. Using footage recently collected from various international sources to help depict the war's major military battles, Battlefield: Vietnam airs on PBS in six 2-hour programs.

Battlefield: Vietnam provides insight into the military and human realities of this controversial conflict and history's most photographed war. From the arrival of the first U.S. Army-piloted helicopters in 1962, to the final frantic mass exodus of Americans and South Vietnamese from Saigon, the series captures the grueling, graphic images of combat. The disastrous Dien Bien Phu, the Tet Offensive, the siege at Khe Sahn, and the air war over Vietnam are some of the many military battles examined by the series.

Battlefield: Vietnam will be broadcast Tuesdays at 11:00 p.m. beginning May 4th on KENW-TV.

Diary Market Loss Assistance

On March 8, 1999, the Secretary announced the provisions of the DMLA Program. DMLA is available to producers on dairy operations if the dairy operation marketed milk commercially anytime from October 1, 1998 through December 31, 1998. Sign-up for DMLA begins on April 12, 1999 and ends on May 21, 1999. Producers shall file applications for benefits in the county where the dairy operation is located. All applications must be submitted by the May 21, 1999 deadline. Late filed provisions will not apply to DMLA. Applications received or requested after COB May 21, 1999, will not be approved, including faxed or mailed applications. A national payment rate will be determined after the end of sign-up. Payments are made to a person or persons on dairy operations. Only 1 application per dairy operation is required. To be eligible to receive payment, a dairy operation must have produced and marketed milk commercially during the fourth quarter of 1998, have marketed milk commercially anytime in either the 1997 or 1998 calendar year, include milk marketing's from all persons that were involved in the dairy operation during the application period. DMLA payments are subject to assignment and offset. USA will issue payments based on a dairy operation's first 26,000 hundredweight of milk produced in 1997 or 1998, (the higher of). It is estimated that the final payment rate will be between $.18 and $.20 per hundred weight, and maximum benefits are estimated at $5000.00 per dairy operation.

warm-season forages—before turning cattle out to graze or before buying more cattle.

“Keep tabs on how the warm-season forages are growing as it continues to warm up. They may start up normally, but they still may not be fully recovered from last year's drought,” he said. “Use lighter stocking rates on stressed pastures this year—give the grass some more recovery time.

“Don't take on more cattle than your pastures can support. Recent rains helped replenish soil and stock tank moisture, but if we get a repeat of last year's weather, we may need to defer grazing again this year, too.”

Moving cattle onto improved grass pastures that have recently been fertilized is one option for ranchers who need to defer grazing from moisture-short native pastures this year, the specialist noted.

Bumper weed growth following spring rains is another factor to consider, he said.

“We could have a bumper crop of spring weeds to contend with, especially in the eastern Rolling Plains,” Cadenhead said. “Remember that eight or more broomweed per square yard is enough to justify a weed control treatment.”

“If a weed treatment is necessary, try to get it done in April when weeds are small and when lower, less-expensive application rates are feasible and effective. The next best window for weed treatment occurs in June, but at a higher application cost.”

Pasture-wide weed treatments shouldn't be used if preserving wildlife is part of a rancher's management strategy.

“Spring and summer rainfall promotes weed growth as well as forage growth, but those weeds do provide food for quail and other wildlife,” he said. “I wouldn't practice fence-to-fence weed control if a pasture or piece of land is leased for hunting.”
