A QUICK READ OF THE NEWS

This little piggy is a hero

Spammy is no ordinary porker. After all, how many pigs bust out of a burning shed and rescue their best friend?

How many pigs have a best friend, for that matter?

"Oh, she's a special pig," said owner Les Morgan, 29, standing in a muddy pen Spammy shares with her pal, Spot the calf, near Chico, Calif.

Morgan said the piggy often cuddles beside her bovine buddy and the two rub noses.

Spammy's name — a twist on the canned ham product — was chosen to remind the Morgans' children that the pig was born to be bacon. Her bravery changed all that.

Last May, flames engulfed Spammy's shed. When firefighters quelled the blaze, they heard a familiar squeal coming from a nearby meadow.

Judging from the scratch marks, burn blisters and soot marks on her backside, it appeared the then-40-pound pig used her rump to punch a hole in the shed wall, and the calf followed.

"Spammy's a heroine who deserves to live and her friendship with Spot should live on, too," said Mary Ellen Smith, 51, who helped create a fund to keep the pair together.

Last week, the fund was at $200.

Junior high campus closed; De Shazo action pending

By RONN SMITH
Editor

The board of the Muleshoe Independent School District voted Monday night to close the campus of Watson Junior High School and require students to remain on campus during the school day.

This means students will no longer be able to buy lunch at nearby restaurants, although exceptions can be made for students who want to go home for lunch.

The action came at the request of Watson Principal Sheila Joyner, who said there have been some incidents of vandalism and harassment of other students during the trips off-campus, and the school just doesn't have the personnel to supervise such activities.

"If you go to the campus, you'll see that we cannot see from there to the Yellowjacket," she said, referring to a popular source of off-campus lunches.

She said student offenses during the off-campus trips include smoking (including five students last year caught smoking marijuana in the alley), rocks thrown through windows of houses along the way, and rude behavior to residents along the way.

Perhaps most alarming, she said, "There are people who I think you would call undesirables who drive around the campus at noon, knowing that we cannot supervise students off-campus."

She said she knew of three incidents of students getting into cars that were driving past, and in two of those cases the students were headed out of town when the incidents were discovered.

All in a day's work

Muleshoe High School Principal Dave Jenkins sets the proper example as he allows an attendant to draw blood for testing early Tuesday morning in the school cafeteria. District employees were asked to participate in the testing for cholesterol, blood-sugar levels and other standard bloodwork. About 120 people cooperated; there were no reports of fainting.

Boll-weevil program's bills out; spraying to begin

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL

Individual farmers have been billed for their share of the cost of the boll weevil eradication program and spraying on the High Plains could begin next week, according to statements from the program administrators.

The three zones involved are NorthWest Plains, Western High Plains and Permian Basin.

"Our personnel have completed mapping of fields in all work units — we have traps out at least one per field — and we have checked and certified all airplanes and equipment to be used in the spray program," program director Osama El Lissy said in a phone conversation this week.

Lindsey Patton, executive director of the Texas Boll Weevil Eradication Foundation, said that while the program's personnel worked Saturday to get the assessment billings in the mail, there were some glitches.

For example, he said, growers with both irrigated and dryland acreage in the program will find that their invoices show a blended rate for the two types.

The total due should be correct, he said, but the rate charged per acre may be unclear. (Questions about the bills can be resolved by calling (800) 687-1212.)

The first treatments of the 1999 reproductive/diapause phase of eradication in the three zones will be made to individual fields

USDA Crop Report to be topic of teleconference

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL

LUBBOCK — Farmers can get an up-close analysis of USDA's Aug. 12 Crop Report and discuss its market implications at a 7:30 a.m. teleconference Aug. 13 at the Lubbock County Extension office, said a Texas Agricultural Extension Service economist.

The teleconference team also will present a marketing program at 7 p.m. Aug. 12 at the Lamb County Electric Co-op in Littlefield.

"Our teleconference network features comments from some of the most highly respected market analysts," said Dr. Jackie Smith, Extension agricultural economist.

"Marketing clubs can call in on 800 lines to participate in the teleconference by listening to the presentations and asking questions," Smith said.

"Each teleconference runs for about 45 minutes through toll-free 800 telephone lines," he said.

Pat McClatchy, coordinator of the network, will conduct the Aug. 13 conference call.

The discussion will center on USDA's Aug. 12 Crop Report and its market implications.

Marketing club leaders can call Extension agricultural economist Dr. Carl Anderson at (409) 845-8011 or Smith at (806) 746-6101 to get instructions on how to connect with the teleconference.

"There is no registration fee, but space is limited at the Aug. 12 meeting," Smith said. "This meeting ... will include a meal. Producers can call Aaron at (806) 385-4222, Ext. 235, to inquire about participation, or to register."

Producers or county agents who want more information on marketing clubs or the Master Marketer Program should contact Smith at (806) 746-6101, or visit <http://agecoext.tamu.edu/marketer/list.htm> on the World Wide Web.

Board members discuss possibly increasing taxes

By RONN SMITH
Editor

Some Muleshoe School Board members made it clear Monday night that they're prepared to increase the district's tax rate if that's what it takes to keep the district afloat financially.

Board President Cindy Purdy said, "We as a board need to decide whether we want to go up a little now and a little next year, if we need to then, or do we want to stay the same now and maybe take a bigger step next year."

Two members said, however, that they'd prefer to pass the whole increase at once rather than in two small increments.

Thurman Myers said trying to split it up won't make it more palatable to the public. "Raising it a little this year and a little next year isn't what people will remember — it's that you raised taxes two years in a row. That's what they'll remember."

David Tipps said he also would lean toward supporting a raise of whatever size is needed.

"My opinion now is that we have to take care of business this year, and if we can see a half-million-dollar deficit, we need to do what we can to hedge that a little if we can," he said.

Tipps said the cattle market is looking better and that while crop prices are still down, "we're getting rain in this part of the country while other areas aren't getting rain."

He asked Nick Bamert to share his opinions about the agricultural outlook.

Bamert said irrigation costs this year should be down by half from last year, and maybe in some cases three-fourths.

He added that some farmers who had to plant grain sorghum in place of cotton this year may actually be better off than they would have been growing cotton.

Purdy said one of the district's problems is that changing the tax rate by a penny used to bring in $18,000 a year but now brings in only $16,000.

Hutton told board members that they won't face a decision next year's budget until Aug. 23 and then will have to adopt the tax rate for next year by Sept. 13.

He added that while the district car he drives has more than 100,000 miles on it, he felt it should not be replaced this year in order to demonstrate to taxpayers that the main office is being frugal.

The board approved special budget requests that were given the highest priority, signified by a line drawn through the prioritized list of requests. Items listed "above the line" were considered the highest priority, while those "below the line" were less urgent.

Board member Curtis Shelburne expressed support for acquiring more iMax computers to allow students Internet access, a project that ended up just below the cutoff line, if the money is available.

Purdy disagreed. "I think there's a reason they were placed below the line," she said, and board members voted agreement.

AROUND MULESHOE

'Meet the Mules' night is Aug. 19

Muleshoe High School head football coach David Wood said Monday that this year's "Meet the Mules" night has been scheduled for 7 p.m. Aug. 19 at Benny Douglas Stadium.

Fans are encouraged to come out, meet the coaches and players, and continue the tradition of making this one of the city's bigger sports events of the year.

Assembly plans Bible school

Muleshoe's First Assembly of God has scheduled its Vacation Bible School for 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Aug. 14 at the church, 521 S. First.

Church officials say the event will feature food, fun, Bible stories and more. There is no charge to attend.

More information is available by calling 272-3017.

Boosters schedule another meeting

The Athletic Boosters Club has scheduled another meeting for 7:30 p.m. Aug. 17 in the science wing at Muleshoe High School.

Cindy Barrett said Tuesday that one of the items the group will discuss is advertising sales for the football program.

Cemetery group plans Aug. 14 session

The annual Bailey County Cemetery Association will meet at 4 a.m. Aug. 14 in the west-side meeting room of the Bailey County Coliseum.

Business will include the election of three officers for three-year terms and two officers for one-year terms.

An afternoon work session at the cemetery will allow those who can to help with cutting weeds and necessary maintenance.

Anyone who owns property at the cemetery or has loved ones buried there is especially asked to attend.

Events scheduled at Mule-Putt course

The Jennyslippers, managers of Mule-Putt Miniature Golf, have scheduled some special events during August.

Aug. 14 will be back-to-school night, when players can bring a friend and the friend gets one game free.

Finally, Aug. 21 will be youth night, with group rates and special hours 7 p.m. to midnight.

Breast-cancer screening set

The Women's Center of the Don and Sybil Harrington Cancer Center and Baptist St. Anthony's Health System of Amarillo will conduct a breast-cancer screening clinic Aug. 17 at South Plains Health Care Providers, 208 W. Second St. in Muleshoe.

The key to beating breast cancer is considered to be early detection through an annual breast exam, mammogram and performing a breast self-exam each month.

Clinic participants will receive a low-cost screening mammogram. Each one will receive a breast risk appraisal and individual instruction by a registered nurse in breast self-examination.

Funding is available through the Texas Department of Health for state residents who qualify.

Examinations will be done by appointment only. More information is available by calling (806) 356-1905 or (800) 377-4673.

The deadline for items to appear in Around Muleshoe is 5 p.m. Monday for Thursday's edition and 5 p.m. Thursday for Sunday's edition. Items may be brought to the office at 304 W. Second, mailed to P.O. Box 449, called in to 272-4536 or faxed to 272-3567.

WEEVILS

where boll weevils are present reaching the 'early open boll' criterion set by the foundation.

The earliest this appears likely to occur is the week commencing Aug. 16. Subsequently, all fields in each work unit will be treated, regardless of crop stage, when 50 percent of the fields in the unit have reached the 'early open boll' stage.

The key stage is described by the foundation as "when 25 percent of plants in a field have at least one open, or cracked, boll."

In the Northwest Plains, where weevil infestations are considerably lower, the level of trap catches becomes a second criterion used to determine field or work-unit treatments.

It is expected that the majority of treatments will be focused on the southern half of the Northwest zone.

CAMPUS

Board President Cindy Purdy asked Joyner whether Watson students had been reported as going to the hospital during their off-campus treks, and Joyner said the hospital had "called about it."

"If a supervisor turns their back, that child can be gone before we know it," Joyner said.

High School Principal David Jenkins was asked whether the high school has similar troubles.

"We do not have much problem with students violating the policy we have now," Jenkins said. "We have a very healthy situation. We essentially have a closed campus now."

But, he added, part of the problem is the maturity of different ages of students. "I understand Sheila's problem completely. When I was a junior high principal, I wanted a closed campus." In his current situation, however, he said he would "hate to set policy for 2 percent of the students."

Joyner said the percentage of students causing problems at Watson is more like 25 or 30 percent.

And, she said, there is little necessity for Watson students to go off campus. "Anything they can buy off campus is available on campus," she said.

Purdy said the district has to put student safety first. "When these parents let their children off at our door, we're responsible for the safety of the children. That's my main concern. It's not the food issue; it's the safety issue."

De Shazo Principal Barbara Finney said she also would prefer a closed campus, but the board decided to wait for alternative lunch ideas there.

Spring-flowering bulbs get gardeners in the mood to work

By RONN SMITH
Editor

If you haven't already, it's time to look through those bulb catalogs for a group of ornamental plants that can be as valuable to the gardener as any we grew. These are what we call spring-flowering bulbs.

I value them from personal experience, and for reasons that aren't strictly rational and easily defined.

When the snow crocus start blooming the last week of January (or mid-January, as in this past winter because of the warm temperatures), it just tends to warm the gardener's insides: Winter is still here, but nature is starting to come back to life, indicating that the summer is just around the corner.

This lift to the spirits is just invaluable at that time of year.

By early February, the earliest crocus are so covered with flowers that it's hard to see the foliage, and I just have to get down on hands and knees and look closely at the flowers and the tiny pollinators that attract. (Where do winged insects come from in January when flowers suddenly start blooming?)

This is just about the best motivation I've found to get people moving in the garden, preparing for spring planting when it should be prepared for!

Out at the Smith farmstead, the earliest crocus is a deep-gold variety of Crocus chrysanthus whose name I don't know. (The basic color is similar to one commonly in catalogs called Goldilocks.)

That's quickly followed by a beautiful icy pale blue that I suspect is Blue Pearl — and then my favorite variety, Ladykiller, white with dark purple splashes on the outside of each petal.

There are many varieties of Crocus chrysanthus to choose from, plus several commonly available varieties of Crocus sieberi, Crocus tommasinianus and Crocus vernus. That last one is the larger-flowering and slightly (but not by much) later-flowering "giant crocus" of the catalogs, and I used to prefer it, but now the bigger blooms seem kind of gaudy and the smaller species get to me.

Generally, spring crocus flowers run the white-yellow-purple gamut, with a few leaning to blue.

And there are many early-flowering bulbs besides crocus. One of the easiest to grow is the grape hyacinth clan (Muscari species), with flower colors ranging from pure white to deepest blue, almost blue-black.

The name describes the flowerspikes: Clusters of little rounded flowers that really do resemble grapes.

Like crocus, these grow only a few inches tall. That's no doubt one of the ways they are able to get so beautiful so early in the year — they don't produce a lot of tender stems and the flowers no doubt benefit somewhat from ground heat.

If you have a spot that's partly shaded (sunny in the morning but shaded in the afternoon is a good combination), you might try some of the snowdrops (Galanthus species).

As a general rule, these are March-April flowering, white with varying degrees of green markings.

Don't confuse snowdrops with summer snowflakes

(Leucojum species), which are larger and later-flowering (May-June) but otherwise similar in appearance.

There are also tiny species of iris that bloom in March and April, with flowers that resemble orchids just a few inches off the ground.

The colors in these iris generally range through purples, blues and yellows.

Of the many varieties of Iris reticulata that are easily available, most are in bold colors. A variety that may be a little harder to find is Natascha, pale blue with a central yellow spot.

Iris bucharica, generally only available as the species rather than in named varieties, not only offers a good color combination (creamy white and golden yellow) but is scented — also a welcome trait in later winter or early spring.

Iris histrioides contributes not only some conventional-looking varieties but also the striking variety Katharine Hodgkin, whose flowers look (to me) like spotted snake-skin.

Most of the bulb houses have ended their early-order sales, but one that hasn't (through Aug. 27) is Breck's. Call (800) 722-9069 to order or get them to rush you a catalog.

Happy planting!

Time Your Cotton Harvest to Maximize Bottom Line

With cotton harvest, timing is everything. Harvesting a week late can mean nearly $30 an acre in yield and grade loss to your bottom line.

Connie Banks
Zeneca Ag Products

That's why it's important to use a cotton harvest aid that stimulates the maturing process of cotton bolls and desiccates crop and weed foliage for a quicker, more efficient harvest.

CYCLONE® harvest aid stresses the cotton crop and forces the transfer of nutrients from leaves to bolls to accelerate maturation. This allows growers to harvest more mature cotton with open bolls earlier in the season.

In addition, Cyclone acts as a desiccant, killing foliage abruptly so leaves fall from plants and weeds. Cyclone reduces unwanted cotton foliage and kills weeds for a faster, cleaner harvest.

When used in a harvest aid program, Cyclone allows growers to:

- increase cotton yields by cracking more mature, unopened bolls
- schedule cotton harvest and reduce harvest problems
- reduce regrowth of cotton foliage after cutout
- eliminate late-season weed problems
- improve lint quality and gin turnout by reducing levels of green foliage at harvest.

Apply a tankmix of Cyclone with phosphate or chlorate defoliant when bolls are 80 percent open and remaining bolls to be harvested are mature. When tank mixing with other defoliant, such as Def®, Folex®, Dropp®, Harvade® and Prep™, treat when bolls are 60 percent open and remaining bolls are mature.

After cotton has been properly defoliated, use Cyclone to open mature bolls and desiccate green weeds when 75 percent or more of the bolls are open and the remaining bolls are mature.

Let Cyclone help you plan your harvest aid program. The better your timing, the more lint you'll put through the gin. For more information about Cyclone, contact your local ag chem retailer.

Clovis plane crash kills one

A 29-year-old Amarillo man was killed Friday afternoon when his single-engine plane crash on approach to Clovis Municipal Airport.

Pierre Gasser was the only passenger aboard the plane; he was pronounced dead at the scene by Deputy Medical Investigator Phillip Jackson.

Pieces of the Cessna Centurion 210 were scattered over a sizable area of the grain sorghum field where the crash occurred, about 3/4 of a mile northeast of the airport.

Representatives of the National Transportation Safety Board and the Federal Aviation Administration began their routine investigation of the crash on Saturday.

Ex-student pleads guilty in gay hoax

A former student at Eastern New Mexico University in Portales has agreed to a plea bargain in a highly publicized case in which she apparently circulated threats against gay professors at ENMU and faked an attack on herself.

Miranda Prather, now 24, faced four charges of harassment and one of filing a false report.

The charges stem from July 1997 incidents in which she apparently circulated petitions and letters from "The Fist of God" that included death threats against specific ENMU professors and other homosexuals.

She also was accused of staging an attack on herself that resulted in minor scratches. She had told police that a woman named Jessica Forrester, who looked like Prather, was responsible for the attack and the fliers, but authorities never located such a person.

Prather, a lesbian, placed her own name at the top of the threat lists.

Her trial had been scheduled for this week in Clovis. Her plea hearing has now been scheduled for 9 a.m. (Mountain time) Aug. 18 before 9th District Judge Robert Brack in Clovis.

Feedyard Rodeo coming up

The sixth annual Parmer County Feedyard Rodeo is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Aug. 21 at the Friona Riding Club Arena.

Participants (feedlot employees) will vie in team penning, trailer backing, a feedbunk race, team branding, manager's "chip shot" and team roping.

Also included but open to anyone is the calf-dressing event, in which a three-member team attempts to put a pair of shorts on a calf. Participants must be age 18 or older.

The rodeo also will include a calf scramble for children ages 6 to 10.

Prizes for the calf scramble will be given in Friona Bucks. Top contestants in other events will receive ribbons through third place along with cash awards of $15 (first), $10 (second) and $5 (third).

Charity golf tournament scheduled

The sixth annual José Alemán Scholarship Fund-raiser is scheduled for Sept. 11 at the Farwell Country Club.

Registration deadline is 4 p.m. (Mountain time) Sept. 6. There will be a four-man blind draw.

Application forms are available at the Hispano Business Center at 1821 W. Grand Ave. in Clovis, or by calling a VISTA volunteer at (505) 762-5988.

Clovis jail inmate escapes

An 18-year-old inmate escaped Saturday from the Curry County Jail in Clovis.

Officials said Greg Mareg was emptying trash into a Dumpster behind the jail when he knocked a guard off balance and ran down an alley.

Mareg was serving an 18-month sentence for larceny less than $1,000 and probation violations; his only previous offense was shoplifting and officials said he had demonstrated no indication of violence.

Miss Friona deadline near

The deadline for entering this year's Miss Friona pageant is Aug. 16, and organizers of the event have mailed out lists of 132 young women known to be eligible to enter the pageant.

The fee for a business or individual to sponsor a candidate is $65 for members of the Friona Chamber of Commerce and $80 for non-members.

The pageant is scheduled for Sept. 11.

More information and the list of names are available by calling (806) 250-3491.

CCC registration set to begin Aug. 17

Registration for the fall semester at Clovis Community College is scheduled for Aug. 17-27.

Students should plan to report for registration according to the alphabetical schedule on Page 2 of the fall course schedule.

Only students who were enrolled at the college during the spring or summer 1999 sessions may register on Aug. 17. All other students may register on Aug. 18-19.

Late registration will be held Aug. 23-26 from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. (Mountain time) and 6 p.m. to 7 p.m.

And on Aug. 27, registration will be available from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

More information is available by calling (505) 769-4025.

The deadline for items to appear in Around the Area is 5 p.m. Monday for Thursday's edition and 5 p.m. Thursday for Sunday's edition. Items may be brought to the office at 304 W. Second, mailed to P.O. Box 449, called in to 272-4536 or faxed to 272-3567.

Water planning essential to area agriculture

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL

AUSTIN — Legislation signed by Gov. George W. Bush will increase agriculture's involvement in statewide water planning, Agriculture Commissioner Susan Combs said recently.

"Agriculture is continuing to work at becoming a more efficient water consumer, with irrigated water use peaking in 1974 at 13.1 million-acre-feet a year and current use around 10 million-acre-feet a year," Combs said.

"As the state's second-largest industry, it is imperative that agriculture be fully represented in water planning that is under way statewide," she added.

The legislation found in House Bill 2660 by Rep. David Swinford, R-Dumas, will require that the Texas Department of Agriculture be included as an ex officio member of each of the 16 regional water planning groups created by Senate Bill 1 during the 75th Legislature.

The department's cooperation with the Texas Water Development Board also is enhanced by the legislation.

Notice of Public Hearing on Tax Increase

The BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF MULESHOE AREA HOSPITAL DISTRICT will hold a public hearing on a proposal to increase total tax revenues from properties on the tax roll by 1.3 percent. Your individual taxes may increase or decrease, depending on the changes in the taxable value of your property in relation to the change in taxable value of all other property and the tax rate that is adopted.

The public hearing will be held on August 19, 1999 at 6:30 p.m. at The Dining Room of Muleshoe Area Medical Center, 708 S. First Street, Muleshoe, Texas.

FOR the proposal: Tim Campbell, L. T. Johnson, Arlene Phelps
AGAINST the proposal:
PRESENT and not voting:
ABSENT: Victor Leal, Mike Miller

The following table compares taxes on an average home in this taxing unit last year to taxes proposed on the average home this year. Again, your individual taxes may be higher or lower, depending on the taxable value of your property.

|   | Last Year | This Year |
|---|-----------|-----------|
| Average residence homestead value   | $ 50,000 | $ 50,000 |
| General exemptions available(amount available on the average homestead, not including senior citizen's or disabled person's exemptions) | $ -0-    | $ -0-    |
| Average taxable value   | $ 50,000 | $ 50,000 |
| Tax rate  | .25/100   | .25/100   |
| Tax   | $ 125.00 | $ 125.00 |

Under this proposal, taxes on the average homestead would remain the same compared with last year's taxes. Comparing tax rates without adjusting for changes in property value, the tax rate would remain the same per $100 of taxable value compared to last year's tax rate. These tax rate figures are not adjusted for changes in the taxable value of property.

NOTICE TO HOSPITAL DISTRICT TAXPAYERS

The Hospital District is not increasing the tax rate.
 The tax rate will be the same as it has been for the past 9 years, based on the budget being prepared for the Hospital Board.

The Hospital District is not increasing the tax rate.
 The "Notice of Public Hearing on Tax Increase" - the adjoining ad - is a requirement of state law when the total of property value in the District increases, but the tax rate remains the same.

The Hospital District is not increasing the tax rate.
 The wording comes from the state and the District can only fill in the blanks.

The Hospital District is not increasing the tax rate.
A slight increase in tax revenue is expected from the increased appraised value of the District.

The Hospital District is not increasing the tax rate.
 There will be a public hearing on keeping the same tax rate as last year (the same tax rate of the past 9 years) at the hospital at 6:30 P.M. on August 19, 1999.

The Hospital District is not increasing the tax rate.
 The budget being prepared for the Hospital Board does not intend a change in the tax rate.

Research shows bats help control corn earworm

AUSTIN — Frequent rains this year have dressed Texas in a lush green coat.

In due course under these conditions, insects — including pests — can proliferate.

Fortunately, Texas is blessed with a waiting defense: An estimated 90 million Mexican free-tailed bats in Texas consume roughly 2 million pounds of the state's most costly agricultural pests each night.

Researchers from the University of Tennessee and the U.S. Department of Agriculture have discovered that bats are intercepting billions of migrating corn earworm moths, also known as cotton bollworm moths.

Corn earworms are considered the No. 1 agricultural pest in the United States, and their larvae will fatten on crops throughout Texas, Canada.

Despite their immense ecological and economic impact, bats rank among the least-studied wildlife. They are susceptible to decline and extinction because they are among the slowest animals to reproduce and because some species form large, vulnerable aggregations.

Though the status of many of Texas' 31 bat species remains uninvestigated, several are known to be endangered and many others are in alarming decline.

Recognizing the need for more bat conservation in Texas, Texas Parks and Wildlife and Bat Conservation International are jointly sponsoring a bat biologist position (held by Annika Keeley) in Parks and Wildlife's wildlife diversity program.

One major goal is the development of a Texas Bat Action Plan, which will lay the groundwork for bat conservation.

Education is another focus of Keeley's bat work. Plans include working with educators to help raise public awareness of bats, creating brochures about bats and teacher workshops.

Most Mexican free-tailed bats live in caves where colonies can number in the millions. Bracken Cave, near San Antonio, contains the largest bat colony in the world — 20 million mammals.

Extension agents trained in cancer prevention

Overton, Texas — The dangers of smoking and using other tobacco products, eating a diet high in fat, and overexposure to the sun were stressed recently when Extension family consumer science agents from East Texas attended a cancer prevention seminar at Texas A&M's University Agricultural Research and Extension Center here.

In 1997, cancer killed more than 32,000 people in Texas, according to the Texas Cancer Data Center. Lung, female breast, colon and prostate cancers caused more than 50 percent of those deaths.

African-American males have the highest lung and prostate age-adjusted mortality rates, while African-American females have the highest age-adjusted mortality rates from breast cancer.

These numbers of deaths become even more tragic when one realizes that many of these cancers could have been prevented by small changes in lifestyle.

Agents were provided with exhibits and various educational aids to help make people in their respective counties more aware of cancer-risk factors and to teach preventive measures for the more common cancers.

Family Consumer Science agents have long been encouraged to teach the benefits of a healthful diet and lifestyle.

Beginning in the early 1990s, however, as the risk of cancer to Texans everywhere became clear, these educational efforts were increased.

Agents were encouraged to try new ways to encourage citizens to follow a more healthful lifestyle.

In 1996, county Extension agents, district Extension directors, Extension program agents, and Health Education Rural Outreach Program coordinators were trained in breast health awareness and networking.

In 1998, East Texas FCS agents coordinated the popular Walk Across Texas program, which later became the model for walking fitness programs in all of Texas' 254 counties.

Today, the goals of Extension's risk reduction program include more than just prevention education.

They also include networking with agencies such as the Texas Department of Health to disseminate cancer prevention information to the public, promote early detection and screening for cancer, promote healthful lifestyles and habits of school-age children to minimize cancer risks, and promote the development and/or strengthening of cancer prevention activities in local communities and work sites.

More information on cancer prevention, or scheduling an agent for training in cancer prevention, is available by contacting a county Extension office.

More information on statewide Family Consumer Science programming may be found on the Internet site <<http://fcs.tamu.edu>>.
