STEERS CLOSE FIRMER

BEEVES OFFERED.

WESTERNS BROUGHT $8.90

Cows and Heifers Closing Fully Steady -Calves Steady to Higher-Stock Cattle Higher Than Monday.

Comparatively liberal marketing at this point during the week embraced the lightest showing of corn-fed steers seen here on any previous week of the year. Nothing that could be classed as choice got in, the best being some fair conditioned 1150@1313-1b. steers that sold at $9.00@9,10. There is an excellent outlet here for well-fatted steers but such kinds seem to be closiy marketed in St. Joseph territory and nothing is coming that is salable within a close radius of top quotations.

The first and feeders has been made up.

QUARANTINE DIVISION.

About thirty loads of cattle have been marketed on the Texas side this week, the bulk of which came in on Thursday. Steers predominated, but there were several loads of cows and calves included in the arrivals.

A good demand met everything offered and on both steers and butchers' stock sales were considered fully stock sales were several loads of cows and calves included in the arrivals.

A good demand met everything offered and on both steers and butchers' stock sales were considered fully stock sales were considered fully stock week. Light weight steers sold down at $4.15@4.75, with a good class of 981 top quotations.

Good, well-hardened western grass beef is meeting a favorable reception on this market. Some 1309-lb. Kanon veal calves, $9.00. on this market, Some 1309-lb, Kansas westerns sold at the low point of the week, Monday, up to $8,90, which indicates that buyers are prepared to pay well for the right class of goods.
Other weighty westerns sold at $8.00
68.75 this week, but there was relatively few offerings with quality enough to land them above the $7.50
mark

Local receipts for the week total around 13,000, an increase of 2,000 over last week and a gain of 700 over the corresponding period a year ago. Total marketing at the five points reached the biggest figure of the year or 190,000 head, an increase of 30,000 over last week and a gain of 14,000 over last week and a gain of 14,000 over the run a year ago.

The following prices are quotable on the St. Joseph market today: Choice to prime steers, $9.75 @ 10.50; good to choice, $9.00@ 9.50; fair to good steers, $8.00@ 9.00; common to fair, $5.50@ 7.75; good to fancy year!

COWS, BULLS AND MIXED.

Cows and heifers shared in the general weakness that hit the cattle trade Monday when liberal receipts at all markets tended to give a bearish tinge to the whole market situation, the general run of female killing stock dropping to a level 10 60 15c below last week's closing basis. In a few cases the decline was even more on medium and fair grades, but canners showed relatively little loss, a good many thin cows finding clearance at steady prices. Light receipts of butcher classes have been the rule since Monday and along with steers the market has improved considerably, so that at the close today prices on the rank and file of the offerings are back on a par with a week ago. Canners have met with a broad demand and are closing strong to 10c higher than last week. Quality has been rather plain in the cow and form cups which had been presented mand and are closing strong to 10c higher than last week. Quality has been rather plain in the cow and helfer line this week. One prime helfer sold Thursday at $9.00 and a few choice corn-fed cows sold during the week at $6.50@7.00. Few of the helfer offerings possessed the requisite quality to sell above $7.25 and sales of cows over $6.00 did not form a very large percentage of the week's transactions.

STOCKERS AND FEEDERS.

STEERS CLOSE FIRMER values in general are 15@25c higher than Monday's close and about 10@15c under prices ruling a week ago. Some little business in a good class of Kansas feeders has been done around $6.75@7.09 this week, with bulk of the ordinary 900@1000-lb. feeders at $6.25@6.75.

feeders at $6.35@6.75.
Stock cows and heifers are around 10@20c lower than a week ago, a part of Monday's decline being recovered.

Mighty slow going throughout the week in this department, compared with rapid-transit trade of two weeks ago, when speculators were forced to the limit in order to supply the demand. Double crossed in the expectations of a better country call during the closing days of last week, dealers stocked up with a big assortment of good stockers and feeders, and were left with about 2500 cattle to hold over. Handleapped by the big supply in west-side pens, trade opened up anything but auspicious, buyers chipping off 25 @ 40c on their purchases on Monday and continued their bearties have up to Wednesday, when prices are more difficult to obtain.

When the Sandman Story Comes to See The Children

ACK and Evelyn were hoping that the sandman would come around early that night. You see, the next day was Saturday, and grandpa had promised to take them on a nice trip to the city if they would get up in time to meet him at the village station for the 8 o'clock train. The children were going to bed as soon as they had their supper so that they might be able to turn out bright and early in the morning. "Ah," said daddy, "the way to please the sandman is to go to bed early every night. He is a regular old soul is the sandman and gets into a way of oming back to the same house at about the same time every night. "You see, the sandman has his sleeping time in the day when the children are wide awake. When the dusk comes on, the silver bells all over his silver palace in the moon ring out to him that it is the children's sleepy time. "Then the sandman crawls out of his nice soft bed, throws off his nightcap and nightgown and gets into his working clothes as fast as ever he can. Last of all, he claps on his invisible cap. Then human eyes, no matter how they may stare, cannot see him.

"Stepping out through his beautiful garden of poppies, he calls for his dream horses and, harnessing them to his silver dream chariot, darts down to earth, where the little boys and girls in their white nighties are crawling into their soft little beds.

"Very quietly the sandman creeps in at each window and, putting his hand into one of the bags which he wears at his side, sprinkles some of his magic sand into their eyes. Each grain of sand is a beautiful dream that unfolds in ovely colors as the little one sinks deeper and deeper asleep.

"There are nice dreams for the good children, but for the naughty ones he has a bag filled with black sand, each grain of which is a horrid dream. "For the boy or girl who eats too much he has another bag of sand. The Native stuff has ceased grains from it are ugly dreams called nightmares. > "When the sandman has gone all his rounds he is very tired and hurries home to sink into his own soft bed of poppy leaves, which the elves pick fresh every day.

> "No one has ever seen the sandman any more than he has St. Nicholas, but of course every little boy and girl believes in him." But just then the sandman sprinkled a big handful of sand into Jack and Evelyn's eyes, and they were off to sleep before daddy could get an answer.
