South Dakota Expert Outlines Methods in Use in Range Country and Under Average Farm Conditions.

This article at this particular time, when cattle prices have been soaring skyward, should be of some interest to cattle growers, but as a reminder of the important place the calf occupies in this most interesting and profitable industry, it is presented.

The suggestions to be given as to how to handle the calf at this time in its life should be considered under two headings, viz: Under range conditions and under those that prevail under average farm conditions.

While my actual experience in weaning and caring for the calf under range conditions is limited, and all the water that experienced ranchmen have told me I shall only attempt to set out what seems to be the common practice among these cattlemen.

The calves are rounded up with their dams and separated. Usually this is done sometimes during the month of October or November. The calves should be constructed of material that would admit of being built into an absolute calf and dam-proof fence, so that the gulf between the calf and the dam is not too wide.

MANY FARMS HAVE NAMES

Missouri Said to Have More Named Farms Than Any Other State. It is said that there are more named farms in Missouri than in any other state in the union. This is probably due to the fact that Missouri was the first state to have a farm name registration law, the passage of which was secured by W. L. Nelson, present assistant secretary of the Missouri State Board of Agriculture.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — The Crickets Liked Polly's Nice New Handkerchief

CRICKET, cricket, cricket: the crickets were calling. "It makes me sleepy to hear them," Jack said to Evelyn. "Yes; it's a nice sleepy song, isn't it?" remarked daddy. "Mr. Cricket is serenading his sweetheart or perhaps singing to Mrs. Cricket. It's about time, though, that Mr. Cricket began to think of winter."

"Mr. Cricket is a violinist. He has a ridge on his wings which he scrapes over a rough part of his body to make the noise we hear."

"Mr. Mole Cricket is a big brown cricket that digs a house in the ground where he lives snug and warm like Mr. Mole."

"I must tell you the trick the crickets played on Polly. Polly had a nice new handkerchief of lawn and lace. Her Aunt Marie, who is very particular, had given it to her, so Polly meant to be very careful of it. But poor Polly had a way of losing things. Polly's mother said she was careless."

"On Sunday afternoon, when Polly had on her best dress and her silk stockings with little kid slippers, she asked for the handkerchief."

"You must be very careful of it," Polly's mother said. "Of course, mother, dear, I shall be real careful!" Polly made answer. "She carried the handkerchief in her hand at first, but while she was playing in the garden with Fido, her fox terrier, she laid it down on the grass with her book."

"Then she went off to pick flowers and left the book and handkerchief on the lawn. Fido went with her, and so, of course, he couldn't be blamed for what happened."

"When Polly went into the house she picked up the book and handkerchief, and what do you think? Although no one had been near the handkerchief, it was cut up into holes."

"Oh, dear!" wailed Polly. She felt very bad about it. "Oh, dear!" sighed her mother when she saw the holes. "Polly, you know I told you to be so careful."

"But I was careful," wailed Polly. "I didn't lose the handkerchief at all. I only laid it on the grass."

"But look at the holes," her mother answered. "Then Polly's papa came in. He laughed when they showed him the handkerchief."

"Ah," said he; "let us hope the crickets enjoyed their Sunday evening tea!" "Crickets?" queried Polly. "Were those brown bugs that were hopping about crickets?"

"They were crickets," answered her papa, "and have very strong jaws. They can chew holes in a piece of cloth. They ate your handkerchief!"

stuffs conditions this year are unusually favorable. Not only is there a big corn crop, but farmers after the experience of last year have raised an ample supply of feed stuffs other than corn, putting them in a very independent position.

DRAFTED FUTURE SUPPLY.

That high prices all through the summer have scraped the country bare of mature hogs is demonstrated by quality of current receipts and meager volume of supply, comments the Chicago Live Stock World. Corn was high, forcing cattle to market early, and hogs came prematurely with them. At all times growers were satisfied with prices, and that condition is always a magnet for the market. The new crop is late and has been seriously decimated by disease, consequently winter marketing will be on a scale much smaller than last season.

GIRLS TO GROW TOMATOES

Unproductive Land Near Kirksville, Mo., to Be Cultivated by Them. Kirksville, Mo., Nov. 15.—Tomato growing under the supervision of the United States department of agriculture as a stimulus to intensive cultivation of the soil, is to be tried by the girls of the school girls of the Sugar Creek district of Adair county. The plan was announced last night by County Superintendent Sipple after a conference with O. H. Benson, specialist in charge of club work for the department of agriculture.

The Sugar Creek district includes some of the most unproductive land in the county. Each girl in the school is to plant one-tenth of an acre with seed furnished by the government. The department of agriculture also is to furnish directions and advice from time to time. The pupils will be required to keep accurate record of the development of their crops and after the harvest send a report to Washington.

The proceeds from the sale of the tomatoes will go to the girls who grow and can them, the government getting its return in information for use in further experiments.

HAGGIN SUED FOR $2,512,954

Government Asks Value of Timber It Alleges He Cut. New York, Nov. 15.—The government brought suit here this afternoon against James B. Haggin of this city to recover $2,512,954, representing the value of cord wood and other products alleged to have been cut wrongfully by the Anaconda Company from natural lands in Montana between August, 1884, and January, 1912.

The Anaconda Company was a partnership composed originally of the defendant, Haggin, Marcus Daly, George Hearst, Phoebe A. Hearst and Leonard Davis.

A separate count in the complaint adds that a co-partnership, composed of John Caplice and Albert W. McCune, the Anaconda Mining Company, and the Anaconda Mining Company were concerned in the cutting and removal of 717,987 cords of wood from the Montana lands without permission.

It is said that there are more named farms in Missouri than in any other state in the union. This is probably due to the fact that Missouri was the first state to have a farm name registration law, the passage of which was secured by W. L. Nelson, present assistant secretary of the Missouri State Board of Agriculture.

The time spent in company of the sheep will pay and success will crown your labor.

THE FARMER'S FRIEND.

From Morning Till Night Feathered Helpers Are Destroying Weed Seeds.

From sunrise to sunset certain kinds of birds are steadily eating the seeds of weeds. Many of the weeds are annual; that is, they are killed each winter by the frost and depend on their seeds for a chance to appear again in the spring. It is on these seeds that many birds depend for food during the winter, says the October Home Progress Magazine.

The number of seeds destroyed in this way is enormous. In Shrewsbury, Mass., a snow bird picked up for breakfast in a garden in February 1-2 seeds of pigweed. The mourning dove takes a very active part in this warfare against weeds. In the crop of one killed in a rye field in Warner, Tenn., were found 7,500 seeds of wood sorrel. As these represented one meal, the value of this dove to the farmer would be difficult to overestimate.

Everything possible should be done to prevent its meeting the fate of its more beautiful relative, the messenger. Another bird long considered a game bird is the meadow lark. It is a great mistake to kill this bird, for its usefulness and beauty far surpass its value as food. The farmer cannot afford to dispense with the meadow lark, for it busies itself all summer eating grasshoppers and noxious insects, and when autumn comes, carries its diet with ragweed and other harmful plants.

A MONSTER PAINTING.

Ohio Artist Working on Canvas Sixty of Mile Long. The longest painting ever executed in this country or abroad, according to authentic statements, will form a striking feature of the decorations for the educational building at the Fifth National Corn Exposition at Columbus, S. C., next January. The canvas for this immense painting will be nearly a sixth of a mile in length, by nine feet wide. It will extend over about 7,500 square feet of space, and 533 pounds of dry paint will be necessary in the execution of the work.

The artist who will transform this material into a mammoth work of art is E. E. Sprague of Columbus, O., who executed a somewhat similar landscape scene for the exposition at St. Louis, Mo., in 1904. Mr. Sprague is not a resident of Columbus and is beginning upon the huge task. The canvas will be divided into thirty or more spaces, into which will be painted landscape scenes typical of the state whose exhibits will be arranged below.

OLD PILOT IS DEAD

Here of "Life on the Mississippi," on Duty to End.

Famous Character Resented Notoriety—Disliked Use of His Name by Mark Twain, Who Was Under His Tutelage. St. Louis, Mo.—Horace E. Bixby, the best known of the Mississippi river pilots, who taught the art to Mark Twain, is dead. Captain Bixby died suddenly at his home. Dr. Rolla Bracy, coroner of St. Louis county, who held an inquest, said death was caused by apoplexy. Captain Bixby was eighty-six years old, and was still in the river service at the time of his death. He daily expected a call to take out the government towboat Nokomis. He arose early and dressed. A little later his wife went to his room and found him lying dead on his bed. He died as he often had said he wished to die, "in the harness."

Captain Bixby's fame rests upon the writing of a cub pilot, one of the many youths he taught—Samuel Clemens (Mark Twain). He made an epic of the days he spent with Bixby and the pilot's name was known throughout the world. Captain Bixby received hundreds of letters from strangers who knew him solely through Mark Twain's books. This became distasteful to him, and during late years he had avoided all mention of Mark Twain's name. The sixty-six years Captain Bixby spent in the pilot house marked the growth and gradual decline of steamboat days on the Mississippi and Ohio rivers. White pilot on the Missouri river in 1856-58 his boat would be stopped by buffalo herds crossing the river one day and by Sioux warriors the next. In the Civil war he was chief pilot for the Union fleet besieging Vicksburg and Memphis. He always held the Union victory at Memphis due to the information he gave Commodore Foote. Later, as a principal stockholder and commander of the finest steamboats in the Anchor service, Captain Bixby was known the length of the Mississippi. He ran the City of Alton when it made the single trip record of 70,000 clear. On the decline of river commerce he entered government service. Captain Bixby was pilot of the Paul Jones about 1856, when Samuel Clemens became his pupil. Clemens then gathered material later used for his "Life on the Mississippi." Years later, after he won literary fame, he made a trip from St. Louis to New Orleans with Captain Bixby, and only a few years ago was his guest in St. Louis. Captain Bixby was of small physique, nervous and wiry. He had a tremendous energy. Throughout his river service he kept a diary, recording daily the events and the shifting of the river current. This record the United States government is anxious to get and it probably will be embodied in a book which will further perpetuate Captain Bixby's fame. Mark Twain in his writing made Captain Bixby out a profane man. This was incorrect, his other friends say. He was, by reputation, gentle in speech and courteous to all men he met.

STATE WILL HONOR SCORE Three Daughters of California Are Selected and Public May Name the Remainder. San Francisco.—San Francisco is to have a hall of fame. Therein the 20 native sons and daughters of California who have done most to reflect glory on their state are to be honored in art glass and sculpture. The temple is being erected by the Native Sons organization. In the main hall are 20 oval frames, garlanded with laurel wreaths. In each will be placed the art glass effigy of one who had helped make history in California. Three daughters of the state—Gertrude Atherton, Sybil Sanderson and Mary Anderson—have been selected for the honor. The public is invited to name the remaining 17. On the temple walls will be placed portraits of many who, though not natives of California, have been identified with the state.

MARBLE PAY RATE IS LOW Nineteen Cents to $1.93 a Day is the Wage of Carrara Workers, Says Consular Report. Washington.—An interesting description of the world-famous Carrara marble of Italy is given in a report by Consular Agent Felix A. Delmas, who is stationed at Carrara. What he says on the subject of wages, however, gives no reason for congratulating the poorly paid employees who have to do with Carrara marble. Delmas says the daily wages, which have been slightly increased within the last few years, are, quarrymen, 45 cents to $1.93; mill operators, 45 cents to $1.15; marble cutters, 38 to 57 cents; studio workers and sculptors, 45 cents to $2.31, and boys, 10 to 35 cents. Refuses Cream; Is Shot. Monticello, N. Y.—Because she refused to eat ice cream at his expense, Arthur Darber shot Mrs. Fred Miller. The bullet took away her left ear.

COUNT WEDS; IS ARRESTED

Nobleman and Bride Stop at Police Station on Way to Marriage Supper.

Chicago.—John Drashkovitch Orloff, who says he is a Russian count, passed an anxious hour while friends were hurrying to the home of a municipal court judge to obtain his release after he had been arrested on a charge of larceny. With him was his bride of a few hours. The charge against Orloff was made by W. B. Wenham, representing the Chicago Safe and Merchandise company, 3032 West Lake street, and he accused the count of having failed to pay for a typewriter which he is said to have purchased December 19 last. Detectives with Wenham served the papers on Orloff a few moments before he and his bride, with a party of friends, were about to leave the home of the bride, 1927 West Adams street, for the Chicago Beach hotel, where they were to have a wedding supper. The marriage was performed at 3 p. m. in St. Paul's Reformed Episcopal church, South Winchester avenue and West Adams street. The marriage ceremony was read by Bishop Samuel Fallows.

The arrest of Orloff resulted in the postponement of the count's honeymoon trip to an eastern city. The accused count was saved from a cell by Detective Welling, who stood in front of the Clark street police station with him while his friends were signing the bonds. In front of the station also was an automobile in which were the bride and Mrs. L. M. Czar and Miss Violet S. Halliwell, who had acted as bridesmaids at the wedding. Countess Orloff, who before her marriage was Miss Mary Henrietta Sparrow, was nervous during the wait at the police station and at first was unwilling to talk about her husband's arrest. Finally she was persuaded to talk about a woman who her husband had intimated was responsible. "My wife has been receiving numerous letters from this woman, who has told her I am not a real count," said Orloff. "I cannot reveal her name at the present time." He admitted having obtained the typewriter, but said he had given the machine to a friend, who had agreed to pay for it.

PARIS CABS MUST BEHAVE

New Regulations on American Models, Cause Drivers Deep Discontent.

Paris.—The cochmen and chauffeurs of Paris are muttering and protesting over the new series of regulations relative to street traffic. Frenchmen dislike changes of any kind, and it is not strange that the veteran Parisian cab drivers should grumble over any rules which pretend to tell them how they shall drive through the streets of Paris which they know so intimately. Louis Lepine, the prefect of police, has, however, become a believer in the system of the American inventor, William Phelps Eno, which has already been so successfully applied in New York and London. Each coachman and chauffeur has been given a little book dealing with keeping to the right side of the road, the rights and duties of hirers and drivers respectively, and such questions as signals, speed and the treatment of horses. There is also a special page devoted to the regulation of traffic on the world-famous avenue, the Champs Elysees.

HALL OF FAME IN FRISCO

Native Sons and Daughters of California Will Be Represented in Art Glass.

San Francisco.—San Francisco, like New York, is to have a Hall of Fame. Therein the twenty native sons and daughters of California, who have done most to reflect glory on their state, are to be glorified in art glass and sculpture. The temple is being erected by the Native Sons' organization. In the main hall are twenty oval frames, garlanded with laurel wreaths. In each will be placed the art glass effigy of one who has helped make history in California. Three daughters of the state, Gertrude Atherton, Sybil Sanderson and Mary Anderson, have been selected for the honor. The public is invited to name the following seventeen. On the walls will be placed portraits of many, who, though not natives of California, have been identified with the state.

GIRL WOULD JOIN THE NAVY

Newburg Miss Tries to Enlist, but Uncle Sam Says No—Declares She Was Born at Sea.

Newburg, N. Y.—Catherine Elliott, 18 years old, applied at the navy recruiting station for enlistment. Her father was a sea captain. She gave her birthplace as "at sea, bound from Melbourne to New Orleans," and she was raised aloft. Miss Elliott was disappointed when informed that men-of-war were only for men, and said she would communicate with the navy department and learn the reason. She speaks five languages, has been in twelve countries, sailed on seven seas, and can take a trick at the wheel. Gaynor Asks Laborer for Chew. New York.—Mr. Gaynor disclosed one of his habits by asking a laborer in front of the City hall for a chew of tobacco.
