BEEVES BRING $9.15

General Quality Greatly Improved Over Monday-Cows and Heifers Uneven, Tendency Lower-Stockers and Feeders Held Steady,

Dullness completely enveloped steer trade today and any change in the schedule of prices compared with yesterday was directed downward. Receipts were larger than most dealers anticipated in view of the approach-ing holiday. General supply aggre-gated approximately 3,500 head and steers formed a rather bulky propor-tion of the total. Quality of the beef steer holdings was distinctly better than on the opening day of the week when the run was sadly deficient in this respect. There were a few loads of corn-feds on display grading fairly choice, any number that could be termed good and a rather large quota of medium to fair lots. Common warmed-up stuff was in fair showing warmed-up stuff was in fair showing but taking the run as a whole the quality presented was quite a little above the average.

There were enough steers at hand of all descriptions, barring strictly choice to prime, to satisfy all pressing orders held by local and eastern buyers and buying interests made a play for cheaper rates. Sellers did not take kindly to the price-cutting program buyers outlined and inevitable slowness resulted. A few cheap light gram buyers outlined and inevitable slowness resulted. A few cheap light killers sold at the outset at about steady figures but the general market had a sluggish opening. Salesmen and buyers haggled over terms for sometime before there was much of a movement scaleward. When the trade was finally established dealers quoted it a steady to 16c lower affair, with least weakness on the well-fattened higher-valued classes. A four-car string of steers from the feeding of J. C. Hamilton, DeKalb coutny, Missouri, sold at $9.15, averaging 1370 lbs. This was the top for the day. Some 1100-lb, Colorado steers sold at $7.75 and some weighty Kansuland and the statement of th sold at $7.75 and some weighty Kansas-westerns sold up to $8.65. Closing trade was quoted mostly weak to Dressed Beef and Shipping Steers.

COWS. BULLS AND MIXED.

Trade in butchers' and canning stock showed more or less unevenness again today. There was a fairly generous showing of cow stuff on offer and the general quality was fair, although there was quite a little canner material available, including a sixcar shipment of thin Arizona cows that sold at $4.00. Buyers took plenty of time in sizing up the offerings and placing bids on the moderate fresh supply, mostly light and medium weight stockers from farm pastures and a few loads of western feeders, showing much insistency in their demand for desirable offerings that was indeed refreshing following long period of narrow outlet and feeble markets. On the best grades of feeders and breedy stockers prices were a little stronger with instances where the good yearlings sold a dime higher. On the general run of ordinary stockthe good yearlings sold a dime higher. On the general run of ordinary stockers and placing bids so that it was rather late in the forenoon before the movement toward the scales became of very large vlume. Medium to good cows ruled slow and barely steady with the opening day of the week, with spots quoted a shade lower. Canners showed additional weakness, most sales ruling weak to 10c lower than yesterday and 10@20c under late last week. Cutter grades were late last week. Cutter grades were quoted weak. Strictly choice cows with the buying element was attested by the sale of a string of high-grade were scarce but sales at $5.50 up to stock calves from Kansas pastures, showed a tendency to slump under the influence of enlarged offering of eartile. Early bids on the mesus showing of good country cows and sharply sharply believes selling readily at steady prices lower but salesmen managed to limit the slump to 10@45c. The thin half-fat grades, owing to combined packer and feeder buying competition held to a generally steady range, exceptions showing a dime discount. Sales included good dry lot heifers up to

Bulls and stags were rated steady to 10c lower, bulk of the good grades selling little, if any different from Monday. Veal calves held even with the previous day, tops selling at $9.50. Some common Arizona calves sold at $4.50@5.50.

Hog trade ruled brisk in tone at steady to strong prices, with spots showing a shade higher than yester-day. Geo. W. Wood, a veteran farmer and live stock shipper of Madison county. Iowa, and a regular patron of the St. Joseph market long before the new yards and the Exchange were built, was here with a load of butcher stock that sold in line with his expectations. Mr. Wood boasts of the big crops, especially corn that was raised in his section this year, and incidently-cited the wonderful live stock and agricultural development during his fotry years' residence in Madison county. In comparing the old way they had of handling live stock before they had any rallroads and the present method of shipping out stock on trains Mr. Wood finds that the twentieth century farmer and feeder division of the cattle yards for a rabbit hunt by bagging the game himself this morning. In comparing the old way they had of handling live stock before they had any rallroads and the present method of shipping out stock on trains Mr. Wood finds that the twentieth century farmer and feeder division of the cattle yards for a rabbit hunt by bagging the game himself this morning. For some time a rabbit of the cotton-tail specie has made his home somewhere in the stocker section of the yards. He has been sighted several times and the boys had talked of organizing a posse to effect said "bunny's" capture. Alkins beat 'em to it, however, and was noted marching down the main cattle alley about 10 a. m. this morning, with his chest all swelling at his side. He was reticent regarding the method by which he had managed to slay the "beast." "Vint" has trailed big game in the wilds of Canada; likewise he has, in past seasons, accumulated some reputation as a fisherman, and he isn't telling the secret of how he made his latest killing. It is hinted that "Vint" sprinkled salt on the animals's tail and then "Vint" Aikins frustrated a plan on a fisherman, and he isn't telling the secret of how he made his latest killing. It is hinted that "Vint" sprinkled sait on the animal's tail and then spit in it's eye, blinding it so that it couldn't get away. "Vint," however, on the subject is as mum as an oyster or the oracle of Oyster Bay. At any rate the rabbit is dead and "Vint" Aikins is credited with the deadness ing it to market. The cattle run of good 1912 has been short of age, weight than the dinner; it should have a wider significance than that of roast turkey or goose, celery or crabber-ries, plum pudding or "fisings." It is a good time of the year to take account of one's personal relations to the world at large. Most of us are so concerned with ourselves and with ourselves and with our immediate surroundings that we fail to note our relation to what is outside of us or beyond our immediate environment. It is a good time now to find out where we stand.

Most of us during the last year had desires that have not been realized, ambitions that have not been realized, and as a result many of us feel discouraged and are inclined to think that we have not had a fair show and that under the circumstances we have nothing for which to be particulary.

A Lunch Counter For the Bushy

"'The north wind doth blow, and we shall have snow, and what will poor robin do then, poor thing?" " hummed daddy. "Waat will poor robin do?" asked the children.

"I don't know unless some little boys and girls start a lunch counter on the lawn, as two I know of did last year.' "Oh, of course, we are going to feed the birdies this winter!" answered Evelyn. "We had such fun last year. We learned a lot about birds, and Jack got some lovely pictures with his little camera." "One day as I came through the woods wearing my magic glasses and my magic cap," said daddy, "I heard Mr. and Mrs. Bushy Tail chattering up in

"As I passed their tree Mr. Bushy Tail had just run down for a beechnut ad was cracking it in his strong teeth.

"'I hope we shall not have many deep snows this year,' Mrs. Bushy Tail murmured. 'Do you remember, Mr. Bushy Tail, what a hard time we had ast year digging up our nuts when the ground was frozen and covered with deep snow? I do hope those nice children will have their lunch counter for us

"'What was that, mother?' one of the little Bushy Tails asked. "'It was a nice bench in front of a house, and on that bench the children who lived in the house placed nuts and other goodies for us. One day there was a delicious piece of chocolate. I enjoyed it so much. This is your first winter in the woods, my children, and so, of course, you can't know how hard it is to get to the nut cellars in a storm and how economy, now becoming essential, painful it is to dig into them when the ground is covered with ice."

'Goodles!' cried the young Bushy Tails. 'I wish Jack and Evelyn would have a lunch counter of that kind. The chickadees and buntings have told was well suited to the age of prime us what good meals-those children gave them last winter.

'Perhaps they will,' Mrs. Bushy Tail said. 'They gathered quantities of nuts off our trees this fall, and it's only fair they should divide with us." "We will, daddy; we will!" cried the children.

Real Estate Advertising After He Had Told Helen Whole

By S. E. KISER.

For three hours Helen Sibley had been waiting at Northport Junction. Luckily the evening was pleasant, so that she was not compelled to sit in the stuffy, dingy little station. There was just one pretty thing about Northport Junction, and that was Helen. If the train for which she was waiting ever came and ever departed again, Northport Junction would resume its habit of being about as unlovely a spot as one might find within the temperate zone.

While Helen remained the place would possess one attraction that would have lent distinction to a far more important and a far more splendid center of activity than the Junction was ever likely to become.

The operator in the bay window that jutted out into the point of land between the branching tracks evidently had an eye for beauty as well as an ear for Morse. As Helen walked up and down the platform he watched her and became thoughtful. He wonder-6 miles from town, two A No. 1 set of improvements. Price $67.59 per acre if taken before Dec. 1, 1912. Presett owner wants to retire; good terms can be had. Pralle Bros. Realty Co., Browner Kenney. have made a dozen plain girls fair if it had been distributed among them. Such was the operator's reasoning: The operator at Northport Junction was a philosopher.

But Helen was not thinking of philosophy, and if she had noticed that the perator was eagerly watching her the act neither added to her pleasure nor caused her annoyance. For some reason she was thinking of Tom Harlow. Perhaps it was because of the loneliness of her surroundings. It was nearly a year since she had refused to listen when Tom had said that he could "explain everything in good time," and for months she had thought hat she was never going to have any nterest in him again.

Thinking of Tom naturally caused her to think of Mrs. Danforth, the pretty, young grass-widow who had come between them. There was something mysterious about Mrs. Danforth. Peo-ed to know just why. She had come didn't want the story of her troubles to Springfield a stranger and she had been careful to leave her past behind her. It had not taken her long to find riends, and she was quickly admitted to the best social circles. With plenty of money, she lived at the most fashionable hotel, she entertained lavishly, and her clothes were the talk of the town. Then, one day, she disappeared, and on the following morning Tom Harlow told Helen that it had become necessary for him to go to Chi-

A week later he returned, but a substantial citizen of Springfield had re-turned before him. The substantial citizen had seen Tom and Mrs. Danforth together in Chicago. Of course Tom had assured Helen that it was all right, but he had not explained. He had merely promised to do so "in good time." And Helen had naturally decided that the "good time" could never come. So Tom went away.

She thought over all this as she impatiently waited at Northport Junction. A dozen times she tried to fix her thoughts on other things, but alject. She became angry with herself, at last, and more for the purpose of trying to forget Tom Harlow than with the hope of obtaining information she went into the station and asked the operator if it was likely that the ten minutes. train for Medford would arrive on Selecting the darkest corner in the station, Helen sat down, turned her back toward the door, and waited, hopng that no one would come in and fearing something that she could not have explained. Her corner was so dark, and she remained so silent that Tom entered without noticing her.

"When does the train leave for Medford?" he asked at the ticket win-

"I guess you may as well make up your mind to hang around here all night," said the operator after the instrument had ceased clicking the spoke rather loudly for Helen's benefit); "they say the track is washed out in half a dozen places. There's been a cloud-burst."

While Tom drummed with his fingertips upon the ledge of the ticket window the operator lighted the lamp in his office and then proceeded to illuminate the waiting room, which served for both men and women.

For a moment after the light had been turned on Tom Harlow looked silent," at Helen, who sat with her back toward him, her head bent and her face hidden in her hands. The operator turned to his instruments, which were clicking frantically.

"You see, Helen, it was necessary for Mrs. Danforth to take somebody into her confidence," Tom said. "For some reason she selected me. Her former husband, who was a scalawag, had informed the secret service agents that she had been smuggling jewelry. It was merely a case of blackmall. She had refused to support him and he tried to get her to buy him off. She needed somebody to help her establish an alibi, and at the same time she to get out. So she drafted me into her service, and I couldn't very well beg off. She was a woman in distress, that was all."

"But why didn't you tell me before?"

"She had asked me not to tell anybody until she gave me permission to "Then she has given you permission

New Haven Laborer Digs Up Silver Dated From Years 1750 to 1780 -Searchers Wreck Cellar.

New Haven, Conn.-Pasquale Valenti, a laborer, while digging in a cellar here, struck his shovel into a pewter pot containing more than a hundred pieces of Spanish silver coins. The face value of the coins is about 60 cents each, but they are of dates 1750 and 1780 and may be worth a considerable premium to collectors. The spot where the coins were found

The Pastor said

PASTOR RUSSELL appreciate the Scriptures on all subjects, we must handle the Word of God honestly. We must recognize that our Lord Jesus is one person and the Father another person. The oneness between the Father and the Son is that declared by our Master Himself, saying that He and the Father are one in the same sense that He desires all of His disciples to be one-in mind, in purpose, in will, in effort. (John xvii, 21, 23.) Our Lord Jesus is God's un-

> The speaker then showed that God set before our Lord a great joy, the influence of which led Jesus to endure cheerfully the bitter experiences of His earthly life. This joy is intimated to have been: (1) His pleasure in doing the Father's will; (2) His privilege of "bringing many sons to glory"-the Church; (3) His pleasure and joy in being by and by the world's Restorer, deivering them from the power of Satan, in and death. TO REBUILD NOTED TEMPLE!

Scheme of Freemasons and Opinions of Jews on Reconstructing Solomon's Edifice.

London.-The scheme of the Freemasons to rebuild the Temple of Solomon at Jerusalem has aroused much sentimental interest in Jewish quarters here, and much doubt is expressed as to whether the project will ever be realized.

As to the intended uses of the projected temple, details are necessarily incomplete, but however generous the financial support that has been placed at the disposal of the promoters of the scheme, however skilled the artificers, it will be difficult to convince the Jew that even modern arts and crafts can reproduce the stateliness and the splendor of the original temple, a splendor that is considered by some to have been exaggerated.

The scheme appears in one respect to anticipate the yearnings of the pious Jew, who in his devotions prays daily for the restoration of Jerusalem, and incidentally to the rebuilding of the temple:

"O dwell in the midst of Thy City of Jerusalem, as Thou hast spoken, and speedily establish the Throne of David therein. O build it speedily in our days, a structure of everlasting frame."

It would seem that after all this part of a nation's hope may be realized-but through an alien agency!

The question, moreover, has been asked by intelligent Gentiles whether temple, if when constructed, would be retained by the Freemasons for their own use or handed over to the Jewish people "to enable them" Pastor Russell then contrasted the as one correspondent suggests, "to course pursued by Satan with that fol- restart their ancient sacrifices and
