TRIAL ENDS IN HUNG JURY

Lovelady Jury Dismissed After Five-Hour Deliberation

An all-male jury which deliberated for five hours and 33 minutes, failed to reach an agreement in the district court trial here of Karl Lovelady, former Bailey county attorney, charged with theft. The State contended he took $100 from three Spanish-American brothers—Tom, Frank and Rafael Covaza—July 3, 1961 after another brother, Joe Covaza, had been jailed on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

The case went to the jury at 7:42 Wednesday evening, and was discharged at 1:15 Thursday morning after twice reporting to District Judge Pat Boone, Jr. that they were hopelessly deadlocked.

Except for an hour off for dinner, the jury considered its decision for the entire time after attorneys had concluded their final arguments before the jury Wednesday night.

Specifically Lovelady was charged with "theft" of $100 from the three Covaza brothers.

The jury was given a tough assignment in instructions which Boone handed down. One of the chief witnesses of the state was Noe Anzaldua, who formerly worked part-time for Lovelady as an interpreter and typist. He was the go-between for the Spanish-American brothers, he told the jury, and it was he, the State contended, who paid the $100 to Lovelady from the three Covaza brothers.

In his instructions the court asked that the jury must decide whether Anzaldua was an accomplice. If they decided he was an accomplice, then the jury would need a corroborating witness before conviction could be obtained, his testimony. It was reported that this phase of case is the stumbling block which prevented the necessary unanimous decision by the jury.

No vote on how the jury stood was announced. Judge Boone called the 12 men back into the courtroom shortly after midnight when they first reported they were deadlocked. He did not ask them how they stood, but asked them to return to their deliberations for another hour. It was at the end of that time that they again announced their inability to reach a verdict. Judge Boone thanked the jury and dismissed them, declaring a mistrial.

Jack Young, district attorney, said Thursday that no immediate decision probably will be made for re-setting the case. Another criminal case is due for trial Friday, the case of Willie Walker, charged with forging and passing.

Much of the trial, both for the defense and the State, centered around an alleged $100 which the State contended had been paid to Lovelady to free Joe Covaza from the county jail July 3, 1961. The defense however, denied that such a sum was ever paid, or if it was, it went to Noe Anzaldua, the brothers' go-between.

After the state had presented all its witnesses—seven altogether—the defense moved that the jury be instructed to ignore one charge in the two-point indictment—that of "extortion". The motion was granted by Judge Pat Boone, Jr. The defense had contended that the State had failed to prove extortion.

From that point forward, the trial was centered on the second part of the charge, theft.

Both Lovelady and Mrs. Lovelady took the stand to deny any money was paid to Lovelady by Anzaldua or the Covaza brothers.

Lovelady said he and his family had just returned from a two-weeks' vacation on Sunday, July 2, 1961, and that they had driven some 270 miles during the afternoon, reaching Muleshoe in the "late dusk".

One of the Covaza brothers had claimed he and his mother had gone to see Lovelady that evening to try to arrange release of Joe Covaza from jail. Both Lovelady and Mrs. Lovelady denied that anyone had visited their home that evening.

Lovelady, asked by the defense attorneys if he had "ever accepted money from the Covaza brothers or from Noe Anzaldua," denied emphatically that any such payment had ever been made. "I have never taken money from anyone," the former county attorney replied.

The former county attorney also denied that anyone had contacted him at his office the following morning, regarding the Covaza case. He said he had five justice cases and three county court cases which took his attention that morning, and that Joe's charge—that of contributing to the delinquency of a minor—was among those disposed of that morning.

His former secretary, Annone Dunlap, corroborated his testimony, claiming that "we had been very busy that morning," and contending that neither the Covaza brothers nor Anzaldua had visited Lovelady in his office. She said that she did not leave the office all morning, not even for a coffee break.

Figuring prominently throughout the trial was the testimony given by Anzaldua in still another case—statutory rape—tried September 24, last year when Joe Covaza was the defendant.

Anzaldua first denied on the stand in that case any money had been paid to Lovelady in the 1961 case to free Joe after he had been jailed on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Later in that same trial he changed his testimony to say that Lovelady had accepted a $100 fee for such services. Transcript of the trial was read in part.

Lovelady said he had not attended the September 24 trial, and the first he knew of Anzaldua's testimony was when he met Anzaldua in a downstairs hall of the courthouse. He said Anzaldua told him, "I may have ruined you on the stand today," adding that he had testified Lovelady had accepted a $100 fee in the 1961 case against the same defendant. Lovelady said Anzaldua was crying at the time, and that he was unable to understand exactly what had happened. Lovelady testified that Anzaldua

Pouncey Resigns As C-C Manager, Successor Sought

Carroll Pouncey, for the past four years manager of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce, has resigned to become a member of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce staff in charge of membership, conventions and legislation. Airhart said a selection committee has been named to seek applicants for the position Pouncey is leaving. The committee is composed of Vice-President Bill Wimberly, Treasurer Harmon Elliott, and Dr. Charles Lewis and Frank Ellis, members of the board of directors.

Pouncey said, "It is with a sense of reluctance that we leave Muleshoe and the friends we have made here during the eight years we have lived in Muleshoe."

The Pounceys came to Muleshoe from Littlefield, and for four years before becoming C-C manager, he was editor of the Muleshoe Journal. In Littlefield he

Running Water Plan Given Final Approval

Completion of first stage in the creation of "Running Water Draw" Water Shed was assured recently when Lamb and Castro Counties signed co-sponsorship agreements with the Running Water Draw Water Shed authority.

This action brings all counties and cities involved in joint agreement as the first step toward creation of a chain of dams and lakes up and down the water shed from Curry County, New Mexico through Parmer, Castro, Lamb, Swisher, and Hale Counties in Texas.

F. F. Calhoun, chairman of Hale County Soil Conservation Board, and chairman of Running Water Draw Water Shed Project Steering Committee, said today that the forward thinking responsible action of all officials and interested citizens in the various counties was a big jump in the right direction for control of flood waters, soil erosion, conservation of water and for creation in the future of recreational areas from all of which unborn generations will benefit.

Calhoun also said that costs of such a project is a complex matter. (See WATER, page 6)

'Empire' Player Takes the Stump For a Favorite Subject, Education

Tim of "Empire" has come home to Muleshoe during the winter months while it's too cold to shoot film for that popular TV modern western, and do you know how he spent two days recently? Bull-dogging? Training horses? Nope.

He was up at Muleshoe high school giving lectures on one of his favorite subjects. Getting an education. He wasn't talking about training cowponies, how to fall off a horse without breaking your neck, bulldogging or anything else related to the job of western movie-making. He feels very strongly about this matter of an education.

In fact, he sums it up like this: "If I can only help one student (to get a high school education) out of the 450 in Muleshoe school, I feel that my two days of time was well spent by visiting the school."

There's a real reason why Tim (or Buddy) feels like he does about this matter of an education. "I see what I have missed during the past 10 years by not obtaining a high school education, and I want the young people of Muleshoe high to know that only one or two out of two or three hundred people who can prosper without a high school education."

And he goes on to say, "I encouraged these young men and women to obtain a high school education because those odds are too small to gamble on."

Buddy is here visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Truelock, and will be here until sometime in March. Then he probably will go back to Santa Fe, N.M. where "Empire" is shot and again work in the series. He says they make a one-hour TV show in about seven to 10 days, and they had a backlog of 23 pictures before the show started on television. The show, which stars Richard Egan, has been shown in the U. S., Mexico, Canada and the Orient, and has been one of the most popular new shows to come out of Screen Gems in a long time.

Speaking of Richard Egan, Buddy says it has been a "real

Ray's 'Retin'

By RAY MARTIN

There's a story on this page about Buddy Truelock, "Tim" of the "Empire" series who has been doing right well for himself despite the fact that he failed to finish high school.

But he's one in thousands who succeeded without a high school diploma, and Buddy Truelock will be the first person to tell you that. He admits that because he dropped out of high school, it's been pretty rough for him, and that lack of an education has been a definite handicap.

That's why he spent two days recently lecturing to Muleshoe high school boys and girls about the importance of an education; he's not just talking through his hat (western) either. He's talking straight from the heart.

He's been taking dramatics and speech to help him in his acting career, but he says that most of the stars of today have at least a high school education. "Hoss" Blocker has a master's degree, and so has Robert Horton of the old Wagon Train series. Richard Egan, with whom Buddy has been working closely on "Empire", also is a college graduate.

Of course in Buddy's profession, the lack of an education has been especially tough. Actors not only must speak their lines with proper diction, but also must use correct grammar. It's along those lines that Buddy realizes that he has been handicapped.

Of course this far left corner of the paper has always been strong for proper grammar. I never knew a successful speaker, author or actor who failed to know good grammar—and use it every day.

I've known many persons whose vocabularies did not even contain such words as "came," "gave," "saw," "did," "been," "ran," or "sit." But I've seldom seen such persons attain very great success.

I've always liked this sentence: "I come home this afternoon at 4 o'clock, give the door a slam, taken off my shoes, done up my hair and set down and seen a TV show that they run at 4:30."

Maybe the sentence above with its seven grammatical errors, is an extreme, but it serves to show what I'm talking about.

Like the young woman in a store here the other day who said to me: "I seen this stuff when it come in and I just taken out two for myself." Ueh, I might add that she is not a department manager; she never will be even if she is so good a saleswoman she could sell snowshoes in the Sahara.

And I've never been one who accepted the idea: "Well, I know better, but I just get careless and don't pay no attention to my grammar." Why? It's just as easy to say it right in the first place, and if proper habits are formed, the right word will automatically come to mind.

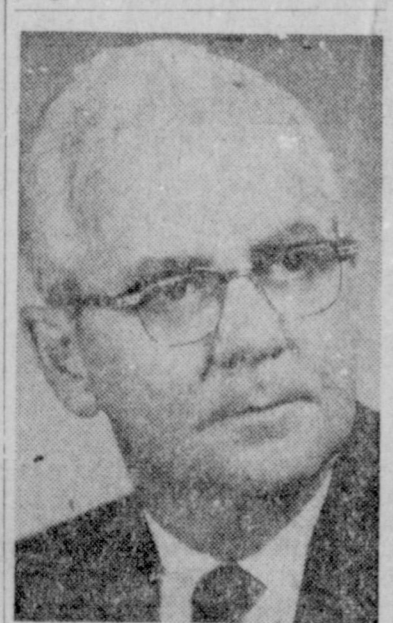

There's a middle-aged housewife here whom I admire for Registering the wedding guests was Mrs. Jimmy Owen, Littlefield.

A reception was held in the church parlor and the bride's table, laid with an all-over emerald and white floral arrangement. The three-tiered wedding cake was decorated with white and silver roses.

Lazbuddie Family Showered With Kind Deeds After Home Destroyed

By J. P. HALL

A Lazbuddie community family is continuing to be showered with thoughtfulness and aid of friends, relatives and neighbors after the ground-leveling fire which destroyed the Charlie A. Watson farm home and all of their possessions the afternoon of January 25.

"It makes one thankful to live in this West Texas area where people really act like friends..." one neighbor of the Watsons commented. "That's what friends are for — to help one another. And I can't think of anyone we want to help more than they. They are fine people."

The women of the Lazbuddie community expressed their friendship by hosting a shower for the family Friday afternoon at the community house. Some 100 persons crowded hall, seven tables bore gifts. Included in gifts were linens of all descriptions, pots and pans, appliances, blankets, sheets, canned goods, groceries, clothing and even a lovely hand-made doll.

The Sunday following the fire, the three local churches — Lazbuddie community's Baptist, Methodist and Church of Christ churches took part of their offerings for the family. The family's own Muleshoe Primitive Baptist Church sent a substantial donation. In addition the Northside Church of Christ in Muleshoe and the Primitive Baptist Church of Clovis have sent boxes this week.

The Watson family of four moved last Thursday into a house on the E. E. Engelking's farm which the Engelkings graciously donated to their use until such time as a new home can be readied on their farm 14 miles north and three-fourths mile west of Muleshoe. Word Tuesday was that a house had been purchased and was to be moved from Springlake in near future. They had been staying with their son, Howard and family in Muleshoe since the fire.

The Journal's correspondent from Lazbuddie for the past three years, Mrs. Watson, is without a telephone at present. She said Monday when she arrived with this week's column that she would "just manage" with gathering news through the schools, friends and visitors, and with her car.

SON ASSISTS

Just one handful of personal belongings was brought out of the home before the explosion. Don Watson, West Texas State College freshman who had just arrived home between semesters, saw his mother and brother, Leon safely out, and on his way took the guitar he had been playing and the family television under his arm and ran out the front door.

Lazbuddie high school junior, Leon had just returned home from school, as had his mother, and changed into his "at home" clothes before the explosion and fire. Mr. Watson was returning from a farm sale and helped move the family cars from the burning home.

Don phoned Muleshoe and Friona fire departments from a neighbor's house. The local department made record time and Friona's came shortly. The out-buildings were saved by their help, even a coat for Mrs. Watson who was shivering in the 5 o'clock cool afternoon.

"I was so thankful that we four were safe — that is all that mattered", Mrs. Watson said as she watched their home burn.

A story making the rounds now is that she told a friend that the second thing she thought of was the loss of seven full books of trading stamps. (She now has eight replacements.)

JOHN KNOX'S BOOK

Charlie Watson lost through the fire several very old fine religious books, one over 30 years old and several around 200 years old. Written in old English, an original print of John Knox's "The History of the Reformation of the Church of Scotland," was the valuable oldest book printed in the middle 1500's.

"It was something I'd wanted for a long time", he said philosophically, "and it can never be replaced."

Leon was most crushed over the loss of his brand new Lazbuddie Longhorn football jacket, Number 41, which had arrived several weeks previously.

Mrs. Watson received second degree burns on her hands and legs from the fire. She also has a very attractive short hair-do now too.

The Watsons told this reporter that they did not know how to express their appreciation of the kind deeds of so many.

However, their story, we feel, will reveal their thankfulness for their friends, their community and the neighbors of the Muleshoe area.

Now Mink's Jaded

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A woman may become a malcontent about her 'minky looking' mink next year when she sees that the link across the street is greener.

Green mink is the luxury symbol of the industry for 1963. It is one that will require plenty of greenbacks to own.

Just how much the verdant minks will be worth is hard to estimate, says a spokesman for EMBA, an organization of 5,000 mink breeders. But the law of supply and demand will certainly up the price tag astronomically.

At the New York Auction house in February 7,500 of the natural (not dyed) pelts will be sold to the highest bidders. The rivalry among manufacturers is expected to be considerable for the quantity cannot satisfy more than 150 women's dreams for full length green minks.

Developing Four Years

If the bidding is anything like two years ago when silvery mink pelts called "morning light" were brought to the auction house floor, new green coats could cost more than $35,000 each. At that time the furriers eagerly bid up the price to $500 a pelt. Approximately 70 pelts are needed for each coat.

In their ravenous little animals have been busily developing their new fur hue for the past four years. Furriers describe it as pale olive colored. The breeders claim it as an offshoot of tourmaline, a light beige mink mutation, which went to market in 1958. Instead of the beige, however, the background hairs have a greenish cast, an effect which has been tagged tourmaline.

Up to Mink

Is it possible that red, yellow, or even orange minks are in the future?

That is entirely up to the minks, say the breeders, for the minks are the ones who have made the color decisions in the past.

An independent thinking set of parents genetically creates a few babies bearing hitherto unseen pelt colors. If the breeders are pleased with the mink's work, they supervise carefully the love life of these offspring, making certain they marry the proper and related mink.

Thus far minks have produced a dozen different shades of pelts, running the gamut from rich dark mink to white, with blues, silvers and beiges in between.

REAL RUN AROUND

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Russ Taylor went to Tucson City Hall to check on an old bicycle registration. He consulted five city employees and each gave him different directions. All were wrong. Finally a helpful employee said, "Go through that door, up the stairs, and take a sharp left." Taylor followed the directions and found himself outside the building. He gave up and went home.

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS A. ESKEW

Double Ring Rites Are Solemnized For Yvonne Ross and Thomas Eskew

In a double ring ceremony solemnized January 26 at the Longview Baptist Church, Yvonne Lackey Ross and Thomas A. Eskew were married by Elder Glenn Williams, Muleshoe. The altar was adorned with bouquets of blue-throated gladioli with white bows, and white tapers in tall candelabras.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Lackey, Rt. 5, Muleshoe, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eskew, Piedmont, S. C.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a formal-length gown of silk and lace, designed with a scalloped Sabrina neckline and long tapering sleeves, coming to petal points over the hands.

Hand-chipped Chantilly lace fashioned the bodice and tiers of lace formed the bell-shaped skirt. The full carriage back was emphasized with hoops and streamers.

The bride carried a Cascade bouquet of white Carnations atop a white Bible with satin streamers tied in love knots, as she walked the aisle on her father's arm.

Traditional musical selections and marches were played by Wayland Ethridge at the piano and also accompanied himself in a vocal rendition.

Bridal attendants were Janie McDaniel, Muleshoe, Maid of Honor; Carolin Woolley, Pampa and Margaret Nelson, Spearman, bridesmaids. They were all dressed in teal blue, full skirted dresses with high necklines, accented with pearl accessories, teal blue slippers and white hats with veils. They carried nosegays of white carnations.

Best Man was Dean Lackey, brother of the bride, Portales. Candlelighters were Hurshel Freeman, Muleshoe, and Stacy Lackey, Muleshoe.

Carl Thomas, Muleshoe, and Randy Lackey, brother of the bride, served as ushers.

A reception was held at the dining hall of the church following the ceremony. The reception table was covered with a white lace table cloth over blue background. The serving set featured crystal punch bowl with blue punch, flanked by a centerpiece of blue and white carnations and a three-tiered wedding cake. Gean Killingsworth and Gayle Kitchens served and Brenda Lackey, sister-in-law of the bride, registered guests.

Immediately following the reception, the couple left for Piedmont, S. C. and will have as their permanent residence, Albany, Ga.

The bride chose a teal blue dress with pleated skirt and high neckline accented with pearl accessories, blue slippers and white pill-box hat, as her going-away attire.

Mrs. Lackey wore a light beige silk sheath dress with a rounded neckline and a fuchsia hat and accessories, also a fuchsia carnation corsage.

The groom's mother was attired in a light green brocaded taffeta dress accented with white accessories, hat and pearls. She also wore a white carnation corsage.

The new Mrs. Eskew attended Muleshoe High School and in 1962 attended Eastern New Mexico University. At present, she is attending Amarillo Junior College, with a major in science.

The groom is a graduate of Greenville High School, South Carolina, and is now in the Air Force at Turner F. Georgia.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Eskew, Piedmont, S.C.; Mr. and Mrs. Dean Lackey, Portales; Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Gibson, Portales; and Mrs. Karen Ranson, Portales.

Only one person out of 100 in Finland is illiterate.

Freemasonry was introduced into the American Colonies before 1730.

He emphasized the fact that a person should never be satisfied in his work, and should continue to improve. Thirteen members were present and six adults. Adults there were: Jean Allison, Bertha Daniels, Gavnell Plitts, Ronny McNutt, Lady Clare Phillips, and Kerry Moore. The meeting was adjourned and Veta Allison led the group in recreation.

Off The Runways

By DORIS KINSER STUDENT PILOT

Marshall Cook began flight training at Muleshoe Flying Service this week in the Cherokee.

Cook who recently moved here from Lubbock, said he's experienced a number of "firsts" on his flight as it was his first time to use a dirt runway; his first flight in a Cherokee; his first flight with Morgan Locker instructing and also the first time he had been aloft in some time.

He began training in Lubbock at West Texas Aviation with Buddy French and Tom Craig as instructors and had 20 hours logged. He is also enrolled in the Instrument Ground School training program here.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Jim St. Clair and Mrs. and Mrs. Irvin St. Clair flew to Dallas recently. Upon arrival at the famed Dallas Love Field, the attendants actually rolled out the red carpet for them.

Complete details on the event are not available as the two couples took off early Sunday morning flying to Las Vegas, Nev. for a vacation there. They are expected to return the latter part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Bryant and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Barnert drove to Albuquerque where they boarded a Jet to fly on to Las Vegas, where they joined the St. Clairs.

TWIN ENGINE RATING

Jack Little flew to Amarillo last week where he took examinations for his twin engine rating.

Little's experience was somewhat unusual, as with two Federal Aviation examiners on board, he flew to Hereford to make the required landings. He completed this phase and was enroute back to Amarillo when they encountered a cold front moving southward. Striking the front, the air became extremely rough, the most severe that Little had ever experienced — this condition lasted only a few seconds and when sailing became smooth again, they noticed that many articles had floated out of their pockets and the examiner in the back seat made a mad scramble for something he had been relieved of — what? His dentures!

AMBULANCE FLIGHT

Jack Cox, co-owner of Fry and Cox Bros., was flown to Dallas Sunday morning in the Aztec where he entered Baylor hospital for treatment. Morgan Locker was pilot for the ambulance flight and Jim Cox accompanied them.

Edwin Cox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cox, had driven the family car to Dallas and flew back to Muleshoe with Locker.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

The signing of a contract of sale is an extremely important step in the purchase of a home. Once buyer and seller have signed, there are bound by the provisions of the contract. Their respective legal rights in the transaction are thereby set and determined. If the contract is poorly and haphazardly drawn, a harvest of regret may be reaped at a later date.

Sales contracts are often called by other names such as earnest money contracts, binders, receipts, etc. All of them are for the same purpose and almost without exception involve the deposit of money by the buyer. Some require the seller to put up a good faith deposit. The fact that such deposited sums are usually to be forfeited in event the depositor later fails to go through with his specified contractual obligations lends additional weight to the often stated admonition that no contract should be signed without complete understanding as to its terms.

But many home purchasers (and sellers) rush to sign a hastily prepared contract with very little knowledge of its contents. The pressure of time, the informality of the occasion, the casual appearance of the contract, and perhaps the fact that a partially printed form is used may contribute in causing the true importance of the act to be overlooked. At any rate, many are lulled into a lapse of good business judgment.

Every significant detail of the bargain should be crystallized in unstakable terms in the contract of sale. Land and fixtures being sold should be clearly described. A complete description of the property by lot and block, or by metes and bounds, is a must, the street number being inadequate by itself.

Articles and fixtures included in the sale but not always sold with houses generally should be specifically listed. Included in this category are such items as venetian blinds, removable floor coverings, draperies, air conditioning units and others. In purchasing property under construction, complete plans and specifications form an essential part of the agreement.

The price to be paid must, of course, be specified, along with method and terms of payment. If a certain sized loan is a prerequisite to the buyer's ability to complete the purchase, this fact should be noted. Sad indeed is the prospective purchaser who loses his earnest money when a contemplated loan transaction falls through, his contract requiring payment of the entire consideration in cash.

The sales contract should also state the quality of the title to be conveyed to the buyer and the type of title evidence to be furnished.

The buyer's individual circumstances and desires may require that various matters not mentioned above be provided for in the contract. All too often people try to squeeze a sales contract to fit to type of printed form on hand, omitting or leaving to easily misconstrued or forgotten oral agreement many vital provisions. Do not fall into the "pitfall of the printed form." Too many unfortunate entanglements have been announced by clients to lawyers with the words, "I have just signed a receipt for a house on Blank Street. Will you take over now and see that everything is O.K.?"

trying to improve her grammar. She's been taking a correspondence course in grammar, and is eagerly absorbing grammar—and a much larger vocabulary. She said, "I'm finding this study has already done wonders for me; before I started the course I had difficulty reading many of the better things and understanding them because my vocabulary and my grammar were both very bad. Now I can enjoy some of the material that I never could understand before."

Her pronunciation has improved greatly, also, and she no longer says "Emarillo" and "Enthony's" as does a speaker I know.

Many of the bigger companies now require their candidates for jobs to pass certain tests before they are hired. These tests run the gamut from IQ to grammar and back again. Here's a question which I picked from one of the forms required of all employees of a large oil company: "Correct this sentence: 'I do not know nobody who can swim across the Atlantic.'" Of course the error is rather obvious: a double negative.

This question, incidentally, is not asked just of executives seeking employment; it is asked of ALL candidates for jobs, even office boys. That's how strongly this particular company feels about the matter of correct grammar.

I once asked a personnel director of an oil company why his company bothers to seek correct grammar by all of its employees, and his answer ran something like this:

"Our company believes that all employees are public relations people — that everybody who works for the company is a contact man and as such, people outside the company will form an opinion of our company from the employees they contact. For this reason we feel that it is important for an office boy to speak correctly as it is for a top executive; all are 'contacts'."

I once had a high school pupil ask this question: "What difference does it make whether I speak correctly or not? People I live with know what I'm talking about anyway."

The answer is obvious: He may not always live with the same people. Others, literally, may not be able to understand him, even though all speak a form of English. If grammar and pronunciation are not maintained on a high level, eventually we might have as many different dialects as has China; in that country, people from one section can't even communicate with people in other sections of the same nation.

The steering committee of the project is composed of one member from each county Soil Conservation district, one representative from each commissioner's Court, and one representative from each city signing co-sponsorship agreements. Soil Conservation districts representatives are Leon Marks, Clovis, N.M., A. L. Black, Friona; Wade Mills, Nazareth; H. A. Hysinger, Oton; Woody Boston, Kress; and F. F. Calhoun, Plainview.

Other members of the steering committee will be named by the counties and cities this week preparatory to a committee meeting to be held in the near future to continue work on the project.

Members of the committee expressed their appreciation for the efforts on the part of all county and city officials and interested citizens spread out over the 480,000 acres of the water shed. One member said that the "actual benefits to this immense area would literally stagger the imagination when full realization and comprehension is possible."

through Thursday, starting at 7:30 p.m. Meetings will be held in the second floor meeting room of Bailey County Electric building.

Francis A. Flynn, supervisory training specialist from the University, will conduct the course. He has been conducting similar programs for the past five years, and conducted a similar course in Muleshoe two years ago.

"Indifference on the part of salespeople is responsible for 68 per cent of customer turnover," explains Flynn. "Because salespeople are not selling as well as they can, they seem indifferent to the customers'." he added. Flynn's course places emphasis on getting ready for the customer, product knowledge, and adding the plus sale.

Lindal Murray urges all salespeople in the Muleshoe area to attend. For reservations or more information on the course, contact the Chamber of Commerce office at phone number 2480, or Murray at Anthony's Dept. Store.

1,897 Poll Tax Receipt Issued

A total of 1,897 persons between the ages of 21 and 60 will be eligible to vote in city, school board or special bond elections during 1963, plus those above 60 who do not have to pay poll tax.

That's the number — 1,897 — who paid their poll taxes through the month of January as deadline for payment of poll taxes was reached.

Much of the credit for the final spurt of poll-tax selling goes to Muleshoe Jaycees who set up booths in two downtown groceries last Wednesday — double stamp day — and then kept the Chamber of Commerce offices open until midnight Thursday for last minute customers.

The 1,897 figure compares favorably with the 1962 total of 2,042. Dess Stafford, county tax collector, said this week. Since last year was a general election year, a high total was to be expected. With this year's sales only 145 below last year, officials consider this year's sales of receipts unusually high.

This is expected to be the last year that poll tax payments will be a prerequisite to voting since the state legislature is expected to eliminate that often criticized requirement for voting.

HUNG JURY--

said, "Mr. Young put words in my mouth." Mrs. Lovelady said a short time later Lovelady's secretary had telephoned her to say that Lovelady was ill at home, driven into "a sort of shock over Noe's testimony." She said Lovelady suffers from diabetes.

She said that when she got home, her husband asked her to go get Anzaldua and to bring Jesse Leal (Anzaldua's brother-in-law) along also.

What was said at the meeting of Mr. and Mrs. Lovelady, Anzaldua and Leal occupied considerable time in Wednesday afternoon's trial. Lovelady said he asked Anzaldua to "add" to his testimony. He denied on the stand that he had asked Anzaldua to "change" his testimony to say that Anzaldua and not Lovelady had received the $100.

At Wednesday's trial, defense attorneys attempted to introduce witnesses to testify as to the reputation of Anzaldua and the Cavoza brothers. These included Mrs. Blanche Volkman, Kenneth McCool, Allen Guinn and Randy Johnson. Much of their testimony, however, was stricken after the district attorney protested, on the grounds that their opinions were their own and did not concern the men's reputations.

Several character witnesses also were introduced by defense attorneys.

Representing the state was Jack Young, district attorney. Defense attorneys were Clifford Brown, Lubbock, and Bill Sheehan, Friona, former district attorney for this district.

There were a number of legal skirmishes by the attorneys and the jury retired five times during the trial while the attorneys argued issues before Judge Boone.

At the outset, Young has asked that the rule of order be invoked — that witnesses be kept out of the courtroom until called to the stand.

At the outset, only 17 spectators were present in the courtroom when the case went to trial after all witnesses had been removed. When attorneys gave their closing arguments before the jury Wednesday evening, however, a near-capacity crowd was on hand to witness the final session of the trial.

Lovelady still faces district court trial on another grand jury indictment — a charge of giving a worthless check for the sum of $50. No date has been set for trial on that charge.

the Bailey County jail back in July 1961?

It is around that question that the case against Lovelady revolved.

Did the money go to Noe Anzaldua, the brothers' contact man, for his services? Did he use the money to pay back loans that the defendant had granted him? Or was the money used as a "fee" for the county attorney?

It was on those questions that the entire first day of the trial revolved when the State paraded its witnesses who said that the money was paid to Lovelady. The State contends that the fee was illegal since Lovelady was then county attorney, and thus could not accept fees in criminal cases.

Except for Nelda Merritt, a clerk in the district court clerk's office who appeared to identify a receipt, all of Tuesday's witnesses were Spanish American men, and three of the State's witnesses were the Cavoza brothers — Tom, Rafael and Francisco. They are the ones who allegedly raised $176.85 to free their brother, Joe, July 3, 1961. Of this amount $76.85 went to pay Joe's fine. Mrs. Merritt testified that the fee ($76.85) was paid by Noah Anzaldua in Joe's behalf. The State introduced the receipt as an exhibit.

Testimony of the three Cavoza brothers centered around:

1. The total amount of money paid.
2. The time the payment was allegedly made to Lovelady.
3. The place where the money was paid.

Two of the brothers contended that Lovelady was contacted at his home on Sunday evening, July 2, and that the money was paid the next morning at Lovelady's office, after they had been told the amount that would be necessary to free their brother from jail.

Francisco, first of the Cavoza brothers to appear on the stand, said no effort was made to contact Lovelady until Monday morning, but the other brothers, when they appeared on the stand, said Lovelady was first contacted at home on Sunday evening and was told how much money — $100 plus the fine — would be necessary in order to free Joe.

Defense attorneys introduced a transcript of a Nov. 3, 1962, hearing before the Texas Bar Association's Grievance committee at Lubbock which they claimed was at variance with the testimony given by Tuesday's witnesses.

At that hearing, the defense maintained, Francisco Cavoza had testified that Lovelady was first contacted on Sunday night while at Tuesday's trial he said Lovelady was not approached until the following day.

This was an obvious effort on the part of the defense to discredit the witness.

Principal witness Tuesday afternoon was Noah Anzaldua, a filling station operator back in 1961 when the alleged payoff took place, and now Spanish program announcer for KMUL.

Under direct questioning Anzaldua admitted that he had committed perjury on the stand last September when he had said that Lovelady did not receive any fee for freeing Cavoza in the 1961 incident. At the September hearing, Anzaldua was a witness in another trial of Joe Cavoza, charged with statutory rape. The incident of the alleged payoff came in testimony at that time, and on the stand Tuesday he admitted on cross examination by Lovelady's attorneys that he had his testimony to say that Lovelady did receive a $100 fee in the 1961 case.

It was on testimony given at the September trial that the grand jury indictment against Lovelady was based.

On the stand Anzaldua was questioned at length about his relationship with Lovelady. He said he had worked for Lovelady as an interpreter and typist on several occasions, and that when the Cavoza brothers came to him to ask for an attorney, he had recommended Lovelady.

He said he had gone to Lovelady and made arrangements for Joe's release, and he claimed that he had also personally paid Lovelady $100 as a fee and then had gone to the district clerk's office and personally paid Joe's fine. He set the date as Sunday when he had first contacted Lovelady at his office, and that it was the following morning when the money exchanged hands.

The defense attorneys asked if he had ever owed Lovelady any money, and he admitted that he and the defendant had frequently borrowed money from each other. He claimed, however, that the $100 paid Lovelady in July, 1961, was not a re-payment of money which Lovelady had loaned him. He also exhibited an unpaid check for $50 which he said had been given by Lovelady.

Defense attorneys offered objections to exhibiting the check, and the jury was sent from the courtroom while attorneys argued the matter. Judge Pat Boone, Jr., ruled that the unpaid check could be entered as evidence.

Following the "switch" in his trial of Joe Cavoza, Jesse Leal, operator of a restaurant here, said he went with Anzaldua, (his brother-in-law) to Lovelady's home where he said Anzaldua was asked by Lovelady to "add" to his testimony that the $100 payment went to Anzaldua — not to Lovelady.

He said this took place last September following Anzaldua's testimony in the Joe Cavoza case.

Leal said the request to come to Lovelady's home that evening after the trial was made by Mrs. Lovelady.

Leal's testimony concluded the first day's activities at the trial.

The trial, originally slated to start at 1:30 Monday afternoon, was postponed until the following morning after defense attorneys had asked that the entire jury panel be quashed, charging that two members of the jury commission — Bobby Airhart and John Blackman — also had been members of the grand jury which

'Empire'--

(Continued from Page 1) privilege" to work with Egan, a college-educated man who is deeply religious. "Really," he says, "I was amazed at the very fine people with whom I worked on the 'Empire' series. Mr. Egan is really very religious (a Catholic) and it has been a pleasure to find an actor who has dedicated himself to his religion as has Mr. Egan. He has been a very great help to me."

And he likes such other stars of the show as Terry Moore, Ryan O'Neal and Anne Seymour. He admires O'Neal greatly, a young actor who did his first work in "Empire." He calls "Empire" a modern western, based as a modern western series offering something new that the public is going to like, adding, "It has already proved itself."

Buddy got into the series through rodeo work through Fred Patton, a public relations and advertising firm at Santa Fe.

But the work he has been doing on "Empire" was pretty much right down Buddy's alley: He likes rodeos, horses and all that goes with it. In fact he started in rodeo back in his high school days when he was in PFA rodeos. He entered his first rodeo at Morton when he was only 15, and since then has made numerous rodeos throughout the west. Recently he took part in a rodeo at Amarillo.

The "break" for a part on "Empire" came between rodeos at Albuquerque when he was working on a construction job. This Santa Fe firm asked him to handle livestock and transportation problems for the series.

It wasn't long until Truelock's job expanded beyond his livestock handling chores. Although he plays Tim and has had speaking parts in six of the 23 shows so far, he says his principal work is saddle bronc riding and taking horse falls for different actors. He likes that sort thing, although the acting roles also are interesting, especially the New Year's Day show, "Stopover on the Way to the Moon" when he had a major speaking part. That was his biggest picture so far in the role of Tim, one of the Garrett Ranchhands.

The horsefalls and other doubling acts are carefully worked out with the makeup men turning him into various characters. "First," he explains, "they try to make me look as much like the person whose part I am playing as possible, and these makeup men can do wonders on that line." Then when I'm doing my act, I actually try to ACT like the person whose part I am playing. It's all been very interesting to me, and all the doubling roles I have played have been wonderful."

He not only plays the part of Tim and doubles for the top stars of the series in their rough action scenes, but he also is a livestock consultant. That includes taking care of the horses of the stars, but it also covers considerably more territory: It's telling the film bosses how many horses they will have to have to make it look as if there are hundreds of horses. Buddy knows his horses and he knows how to push them past the cameras in just the right had returned the indictment against the former county attorney.

Judge Boone then ordered the sheriff to call in 60 additional persons to serve on the jury, and the case was recessed until 9:30 Tuesday morning.

The jury was made up of 10 farmers, a wholesale gasoline man and an employee of a public service company. They include Kenneth Nesbett, Baker Johnson, J. W. Roberts, Sam Fox, F. W. Watts, J. L. Elmore, Leon Dupler, Fred Clements, James Green, Clarence Kube, Fred Ramm and Douglas Bales. All but Fox and Clements are farmers.

After the jury was seated and Young had read the grand jury's indictment, Lovelady stood and said: "If it please the court and the jury, I am not guilty."

Chamber Selects Advertising Group

Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce has appointed three members of the board to "oversee the purchase of appropriate advertising and souvenir material" for this summer's 50th anniversary celebration of Muleshoe. Exact date for the event has not been set but probably it will be held in connection with the annual Fourth of July celebration here.

Named to the committee at last Monday night's meeting of the Chamber board were Truman Lindsey, Dr. W. F. Birdsong and John Smith.

Roger Albertson reported on proposed plans for his membership committee, and a committee was named to start seeking a manager for the Chamber to succeed sequence to make a scene look real big. That's all a part of his job.

Buddy has had one goof: Once he was supposed to say, "I'll bet on Mr. Redigo (the character played by Egan) but instead he said, "I'll bet on Mr. Egan." As a result they had to re-tape the sound.

But Truelock says he probably will go back to Santa Fe when shooting starts again in the spring. He's no longer a nervous rookie, and he says the directors and assistant directors have been most helpful with acting advice for a newcomer to the profession.

And he says the constant stream of guest stars each week has given him an opportunity to know some of the nation's top actors. He thinks Charles Bronson, who appeared as the show's pilot and takes over a regular role next month, is a fine actor. Buddy has been interviewed by TV Guide for a feature in an upcoming issue, and he also has a friend in Taos who has sole movie rights for some of his books. That friend hopes to find a spot for Truelock in the films.

He's very modest about his success so far. He says: "I've been getting a lot of credit, but I still say I'm a long way from an actor yet. It takes time, experience and schooling."

But he still loves the rodeo, and he concludes that whether he continues with the "Empire" series or other feature pictures, "I'll continue to do rodeo work because I love it."

Carroll Pouncey, who has resigned to accept a position with the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce. Named were Bobby Airhart, president; Bill Wimberly, Harmon Elliott, Frank Ellis and Dr. Charles Lewis.

Pouncey expressed his appreciation to the board for their courtesies during the four years he has been manager of the Chamber.

Present were Bobby Airhart, Frank Ellis, James Jennings, Harmon Elliott, Red Simmons, Dr. W. F. Birdsong, Roger Albertson, Bill Wimberly, Truman Lindsey, Dr. Charles Lewis and Pouncey.

New 'Retraining' Program May Aid Unemployed in Finding New Jobs

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The new federal retraining program for the unemployed appears to have caught the fancy of younger trainees. But the older men are leary. Those nearing 40 are skeptical. They've been through hard times — the layoffs, the strikes, the big grocery bills. They ask: "Am I going to get a job out of this?" The idea behind the program is to take unemployed men — and train them to do jobs that appear to have bright futures. Only unemployed men are eligible.

In Pittsburgh a 50-week course is being taught to 25 men in the promising field of electronics. It started in September.

By all accounts things are well organized and running smoothly. The instruction is good; the equipment is first class; the trainees were selected according to aptitude; they are studying hard.

OLDER MEN WORRY
But the older men in the class are not convinced they are really on the road to a permanent job, a secure future.

One of them, a trainee in his late 30s who worked 11 years in a Pittsburgh steel mill, spoke candidly about this. He asked not to be identified. He said: "Look, the older guys are leary. I know. I've talked with them about it. They are worried about their age. Will this schooling be enough?"

"Okay, say we go through this course and finish. We apply for jobs. Are they (employers) going to give us the same old baloney that you need experience... that school's not enough?"

He said, "You've got to face facts. When you get near 40, who's going to hire you? We were told that age won't be a big barrier. But most of us aren't convinced."

WHY STUDYING?
Then why is he taking the course? He answered:

"I had no choice. This is my last opportunity. Face it, where can you get paid to go to school? What else could I do... loaf?"

A similar view was given by a 40-year-old father who has been out of work nearly two years. He said he feels his age will be a drawback in getting a job.

"I can only wait and see," he said.

A 35-year-old trainee, the father of three, has only luke-warm optimism. Asked to comment on the age problem, he merely replied, "I still feel I'm a young man."

Officials administering the program say the older men should have no problems in getting jobs.

INDUSTRIAL MANAGER IS CONFIDENT
Charles Hamilton, manager of the Pittsburgh industrial office of the State Bureau of Employment Security, said:

"If we thought these men were over the age limit we wouldn't be training them. A man 40 in that field (electronics) doesn't have to worry. He's got as good a chance as a boy 25."

The younger men speak hopefully of the future. Those in their

Many Attend Specks' Rites

ENOCHS — Attending the J.S. Specks funeral at 2:30 Sunday at the Baptist Church, were Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Lowe and Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Speck, Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Speck, Mrs. Joe Speck, Mr. and Mrs. Doyle King, Muleshoe; Mr. and Mrs. Edd McCellen and Mrs. John Daniel, Morton; Mr. and Mrs. James Betts, Floydada; Mr. and Mrs. Rat Davis, Sudan, and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Clauch, Bula.

Funeral services were held in Burk Burnett, Saturday, Jan. 26, for Omer Chambers, brother-in-law of Mrs. J. E. Autry. Burial was in the Cemetery there. Last rites were held at the Church of Christ, where he was a member.

Chambers died suddenly with a heart attack. Surviving are his wife, Mamie, and two sons.

Others attending the funeral from here were Mr. and Mrs. George Autry, John and Jean, Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Turney, Mr. and Mrs. Billy West, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jackson, Clovis, N.M.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Byars and son, Tom, spent the weekend in early and middle 20s feel they're on the road to a good thing.

A 26-year-old father is typical of those in his age group. He admitted times are rough — what with going to school all day and trying to make ends meet at home. But he said confidently:

"I know I'll find a job somewhere."

UNDER MDT ACT
The electronics course is being given under the new federal Manpower Development and Training Act. This is a beefed-up version of the earlier Area Redevelopment Act which also is in effect now.

Training under the ARA runs only 16 weeks and is limited to areas the government decides are depressed. MDT training runs up to 52 weeks and may be given in any area where the government decides there is a need, regardless of whether the area has been declared depressed.

The MDT provides for a federal training allowance of $33 a week. If a trainee is eligible for state unemployment compensation he receives that amount in federal funds if it is more than $33. Those 19 through 21 years are eligible for $20 a week. Youths under 19 get no allowance except in special hardship cases.

Pennsylvania — with its hard-hit coal, rail and steel industries — has one of the biggest batches of retraining courses in the country. As of early January, the U. S. Department of Labor had approved 85 courses for 2,675 trainees in the state.

Common Market Worries Philosopher But it's Dutch to him, He Confesses

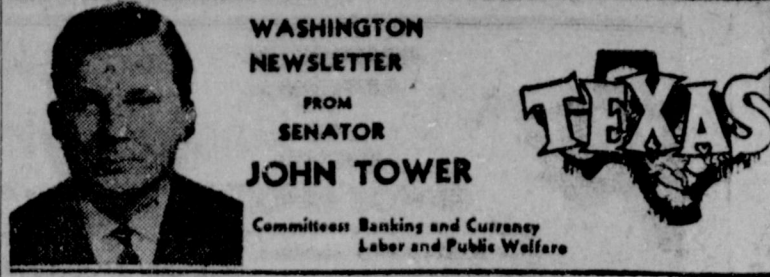

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm takes a look at the Common Market this week, but what he sees is hard to say.

Dear editor:

In between news of new cold fronts, the papers lately have been filled with articles about England's troubles in getting into the European Common Market, and I have been giving this some thought.

As I understand it, nobody really understands it.

I mean, nobody understands why De Gaulle won't let England in, when all the other countries in on the deal want her in. One magazine took ten pages to ex-

WASHINGTON NEWSLETTER FROM SENATOR JOHN TOWER
Committee Banking and Currency Labor and Public Welfare

In the light of the recent long-shoreman strike that tied up the unloading of ships all over the East Coast and the Gulf Coast of the country, a strike that affected Texas considerably, a strike that resulted in a loss of millions of dollars, not only to the shippers and the workers in the shipping industry but to workers in many other industries as well, the railroads for example. It affected many businesses. It was a very costly strike indeed. It has finally been settled. It was a forceful settlement by the government. The shippers came off with the worst end of it.

Therefore, it makes it important today that we discuss some pending legislation on restricting strikes of this sort that are harmful to the nation's economy.

Such a bill is S287. S287 is a bill to amend the anti-trust laws to prohibit certain activities of the labor unions of the transportation industry. Primarily, the restrictions are on such activities as are in "restraint of trade," and those in which the monopolistic nature of unions is all powerful.

The main unions to which this bill would apply are the long-shoremen, the railway brotherhoods, the teamsters and airline pilots and their crews.

No phase of our industrial economy is so sensitive as transportation. Every strike in transportation, even the most insignificant strike, has far reaching side effects. Every strike in transportation burdens people who are not a party to the dispute. There is no such thing as a harmless strike in transportation.

The vital importance of our nation's transportation system is readily appreciated when we stop to realize that today our modern industrial society is so complex and its activities are so inter-related and inter-dependent that we are dependent for the necessities of life upon the continuing operation of our transportation system. It is upon continuous and uninterrupted transportation that every community must depend for food, fuel, and getting to work in the morning and for coming home at night, for the operation of factories and business establishments and for the dispensing of essential health and sanitation services.

Clearly it is in the public interest to legislate in such a way as to prevent crippling disaster from strikes in transportation. The problem is to accomplish this without placing unnecessary burdens on the industries involved and on the unions and workers, for this is a free society and the right to strike is a vital privilege in a free enterprise system. Businessmen, workers, and union bosses are all aware that in the Soviet Union, one of the first acts of the Communist dictators was to deny the right to strike. That right must be preserved.

I am a co-sponsor of Senator John McClellan's bill, S 287, the details of which I won't discuss because it is highly technical in character. The immediate problem is to secure a Congressional Committee hearing on this subject. This would open up the whole area of anti-trust legislation for examination as to the desirability of applying anti-trust laws to labor unions. The first problem is to get a hearing on this bill. This bill should be heard, it should be deliberated on and considered. Despite the fact that the general public favors legislation of this type, there has been very little manifestation of this sentiment to Congress. Senator McClellan told me earlier this week that he has received relatively few requests for a Congressional hearing on this bill. He told me that unless we see such a manifestation of public opinion on this bill, it will be impossible to get such a hearing.

So it is my hope that all you good citizens who are interested in the passage of this legislation will write Senator McClellan and tell him that you hope that a hearing is held on this important measure. I am sure that he will appreciate hearing from you and I will appreciate hearing from you on it, too.

DIFFERENCES IN BOURBONS
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — All bourbons contain the same basic ingredients. Differences in body, color, taste and aroma are due to the proportions and quality of corn, rye and barley, variations in the amount of water used in mashing the grain, the distillation processes, the proof (alcoholic content) at which the whisky is distilled, types of barrels used during aging, length of aging and type of warehouses.

MIAMI (AP)—The Dade County Commission thinks there are too many two - pole and three - pole men around, and it's cluttering up the bridges.

The commission is studying an ordinance providing a person on a fishing catwalk would be limited to one fishing pole.

Chairman Alex Gordon said, "one pole to a fisherman is adequate."

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

AUSTIN — Rep. Will Smith of Beaumont wants the voters of Texas to select the Speaker of the House.

He has introduced a resolution calling for a constitutional amendment to make the position of Speaker an elective office.

If passed by the people it would eliminate much bickering among House members, not only during sessions, but between sessions. It would speed up work in the House by enabling the members to get down to business on the opening day of each session. And equally important it would save the State many thousands of dollars as a consequence of the man hours lost.

Frequently serious and bitter personal feuds have developed between members of the House prior to the House's selection of a Speaker as well as by disgruntled groups following the election.

To add to the confusion, prospective candidates for Speaker start jockeying for position with the beginning of every new session.

In the end the taxpayer of course is the loser. It has been said that some special sessions have been necessary due to the long delays and the wrangling that has resulted in years past over the Speaker or the speakership.

The Senate does not have this problem since the people elect the Lieutenant Governor to preside over the Upper Chamber. Both jobs are identical, but only in the Senate do the people have a voice.

PADRE PROJECT BRIGHT
Prospects are brighter for passage of Padre Island National Seashore legislation by the House and Senate.

An impressive parade of supporting witnesses went before State Affairs Committees in both chambers and a surprising about-face occurred on the part of Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler.

Several hundred Seashore boosters journeyed to Austin. Largely from Nueces, Willacy and Cameron counties...to pack the mid-week hearings. A total of 27 witnesses testified in favor of Sen. Bruce Reagan's Padre proposal, with no one appearing in opposition.

Similar testimony was heard by the House State Affairs Committee...studying bills by Reps. Menton Murray of Harlingen and Ronald Bridges of Corpus Christi. A single opposing spokesman stated that he just did not like the idea of creating a national seashore area.

Opposition had all but vanished otherwise — principally because of Sadler's retreat from his previous stand. He told the legislators that if a Federal project was what they wanted, "then I want to see it happen, too."

The reversal by Sadler apparently signaled the end of various "anti-Padre" efforts mounted in both houses by Rep. Rayford Price of Frankston and Sen. George Partridge of Dallas, each of whom was sponsoring a bill giving Sadler veto power over the Sea-

INDUSTRY LURE

A proposal to give new or expanded industry a five-year exemption of state property taxes has been advanced by Rep. C. Jim Segrest of San Antonio in a constitutional amendment he introduced in the House.

"Tax lures" for new industries are considered unattractive by the Texas Industrial Commission, but Rep. Segrest predicted a property tax exemption would speed up industrialization. His proposed exemption would apply to new industries coming into the state or to existing firms which increase both capital investment and employment by 10 per cent.

LIFE BEGINS AT 40

That old saying "life begins at 40" has been refuted by many workers who claim their troubles start at 40, when their jobs are endangered because of their advancing age.

Governor Connally included job security for people up to 65 in the program he laid before the 58th Legislature, and the Fraternal Order of Eagles has made the matter its No. 1 legislative project.

Bills stating that no state agency may refuse to employ a person solely on the basis of age have been introduced in the Senate by Sen. Franklin Spears of San Antonio and in the House by Rep. Will L. Smith of Beaumont.

Bills also provide that no agency of the state or any political subdivision may establish a maximum employment age of less than 65 years.

If the bills pass, it also would be illegal for any individual, firm or association in Texas to refuse to hire, or attempt to fire, anyone up to 65 solely on the basis of age.

STAMPS OR CAS!

Rep. Milton Schiller of Cameron is circulating a bill to require merchants to give customers a three per cent cash discount if they don't want to accept trading stamps as a shopping "bonus."

Schiller is trying to see what sort of support he'd get if he decides to introduce the bill.

BILL BOOSTS OIL QUOTAS
A bill which would make the Railroad Commission allow much greater oil production in Texas has been introduced in the House of Representatives.

Rep. Lloyd Guffey of El Campo has proposed that the commission set 14 days as the minimum operation monthly by any well.

He also wants new fields unprorated until production reaches 10,000 barrels daily.

Every well also would be permitted to produce at least the "average daily capacity allowed by the commission for the preceding 60 days."

TOURIST SLUMP ENDS

A four-year tourist slump ended in Texas last year.

State Highway Department says tourists spent $471,000,000 during 1962, an increase of $31,000,000 over 1961.

Number of tourists jumped from 8,400,000 to 10,600,000.

HEALTH PANEL DUE

A steering committee is being selected to choose and guide a statewide planning committee for vices in Texas.

Dr. J. E. Peavy, state commissioner of health, is chairman of the new committee. Co-chairman is Dr. Cyril J. Rullman, director of mental health for the state hospital system.

Leading Texas authorities in psychiatry and mental health will be on the committee.

DEFICIT FLUCTUATES

State General Revenue Fund now shows a deficit of $60,508,881, State Treasurer Jesse James says.

This figure is up almost 50 per cent over the $42,281,647 deficit reported on January 9.

BAILEY COUNTY GRAIN PRODUCERS

will meet

Tuesday, Feb. 12, 1963 at 3:30 p.m. in the American Legion Building

Jack Little, President of Bailey County Grain Sorghum Producers Association says the meeting is the principal annual affair of the group and is designed to report to supporting members, the activities conducted in their interest during the past year and to seek direction for the coming year's program which will be taken to the area-wide Association directors' meeting scheduled for March 13th in Amarillo.

Sam Thomas, Agriculture Development Director of Southwestern Public Service Company of Amarillo and Vice Chairman of the Agriculture and Livestock Committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, promises to challenge area farmers with his discussion of production and utilization of grain sorghum in the area economy. Thomas is widely recognized for his leadership in livestock feeding promotion activities throughout the area.

Bailey County Natural Gas Users Association members are asked to meet in conjunction with this meeting and they will have a short business session following the Grain Sorghum Producers meeting.

Charles Daniel, County A.S.C.S. office manager, will outline the provisions of the 1963 Feed Grain Program as applied to Bailey County. Producers with individual questions as to how the program will apply on their farms will have an opportunity to obtain specialized information.

A report on the total Research, Market Development and Service activities of Grain Sorghum Producers Association during the past year will be discussed by Nolan Chandler, Agricultural Assistant of the Association. It is expected that he will discuss the activities of the organization in obtaining the recent nine cent per hundred price increase for grain sorghum as well as touch on some of the problems affecting local farmers through the European Common Market and other groups which farmers themselves do not have total control of, yet which affect their income.

Little pointed out that the highlight of the session should be when local farmers themselves voice their views as to what they want the association to work for in their interest during the coming months in developing the 1964 feed grain legislative programs. This open discussion will be followed by an election of officers of the County group and the naming of directors to the area-wide Association.

Calvary Baptists To Begin Revival

Revival services will begin Monday at the Calvary Baptist Church, 18th and Ave. C., with Rev. Bert J. Homer, pastor of the 25th St. Baptist Church in Lubbock, as the evangelist.

Lonnie Merriott, local member of the church, will direct the congregational music and singing, according to the pastor, Rev. Wayland Murray.

Services will begin at 7:30 each night and a nursery will be provided for the small children.

Emphasis is being placed upon attendance, or exceeding the record of 58, the highest since October 14th, that was set last Sunday.

A total of 28 visitors were present in last Sunday's services and Rev. Murray states that there are two Sundays left in their 'Bearing Fruits for Jesus' Campaign for Sunday School, with emphases being placed upon attendance.

Rev. Murray also is anticipating a build-up in attendance as a result of the upcoming revival.

Today's Meditation

Christ said, "Learn of me because I am meek and humble of heart." So persons who wish to advance in the ways of Christ should direct their efforts to the imitation of Christ's humility. We must strive to imitate the examples of humility that Christ gave us. During the public life of Christ, He did not stop to practice forgetfulness of self to the extent proper to his mission. He was obliged to proclaim both by word and work that He was the Son of God; yet He does so in a discreet, measured way, clear enough to reach the minds of men of good will, but not with such force as to force people to follow Him.

His humility appears in everything He does. He surrounded Himself with Apostles, ignorant and uncouth; He shows a marked preference for those whom the world despises: the poor, sinners, the afflicted, little children, those disowned by the world; He lived by alms and had no place He could call home. His teaching was plain and simple, within the reach of all. His lessons like his parables are taken from ordinary life. He did not seek to excite the admiration of the people, but to instruct them and to touch their hearts. Christ practiced abject humility during his last days here on earth. He bears the outrages heaped upon Him: betrayed by Judas He has only for him friendly words: Friend Where to art thou come? Deserted by His Apostles, He does not cease to love them. Arrested, bound like a common criminal, He heals Malchus wounded by the hand of Peter. Delivered to the rabble, He suffers their affronts in silence. He suffered it seems every type of humiliation that the mind of man could ever imagine. Truly, we have all the examples that we need to strengthen us in the

YOUR HEALTH

Brush 'em, Says Health Service, And Save 'em

For civilized man, the toothbrush does for the teeth what raw, coarse and massaging foods did for the teeth of primitive man.

It removes the food debris in which the acid-producing bacteria of the mouth thrive.

The functions of the toothbrush is to clean the teeth and to help maintain the gums in a healthy condition.

There are three conditions that must exist in the mouth before decay results. These include bacteria, easily fermentable foods like sugars, and sheltered places which maintain the food debris long enough for the bacteria to work on the food and build up acid of sufficient strength to attack the tooth enamel.

The duty of the toothbrush is to interrupt these conditions by removing sugar residue before the decay-producing acids can be formed from them.

Another function of the toothbrush is to prevent deposits of debris, known as tartar or calculus. For a few hours, these deposits remain soft enough to be removed by the brush. But afterward, they become hardened to the extent that a dentist's steel instrument is necessary to scrape them off. If tartar is left to accumulate, the gum tissue becomes irritated. This can lead to serious disturbances in the gums and supporting tooth structure.

Dentists emphasize the importance of correct toothbrushing procedures to minimize injury to the gum tissues. Often, vigorous or improper brushing may cause the gums to bleed, but dentists say that there is no harm if this condition continues only a few days.

The tissues covering the gums will become toughened and thickened, just as calluses form on a hand doing hard labor. If, however, the bleeding persists from brushing, the condition should be checked by a dentist.

Brushing correctly is important. Equally important is regular brushing. It is the responsibility of parents to develop the habit of regular brushing after meals in each child so that regular brushing will become a natural pattern of his life. Check with your dentist concerning the proper size toothbrush and grade of bristle. Also change toothbrushes when they become too soft.

Let's face it, we don't eat the coarse, raw or abrading foods of primitive man, so we have to brush our teeth.

An unusual sight in Muleshoe surprised citizens when snow began falling about 2:30 p.m. People were going about their business without their coats. The sun was shining and not a single cloud was visible overhead, yet the snow came down in copious flakes for 15 minutes.

The situation changed by nightfall and a howling blizzard moved across the panhandle. The thermometer dropped to 10 below and on the following Tuesday night, plunged to 21 below, setting a new record for this part of the country.

The work of Main Street paving has been held up some during the past week occasioned by several of the truckers hauling caliche quitting work.

They required more money to continue. Monday afternoon, however, more haulers had taken jobs.

Truckmen are being paid 75 cents per load of caliche, while hand laborers are receiving 15 cents per hour for their labor.

These payments are largely controlled by the Federal Government furnishing money for the work, according to R. L. Brown, chairman of the local R.F.C. Fund.

Car Buyers' Bulletin

What do they have to compete with our middleweight Fairlane?

not a thing!

Fairlane is in a class by itself. It gives you the winning combination of big-car room, ride, performance—yet it handles and costs more like the compacts!
Fairlane is almost 15 inches longer than the compact Chevy II. It has more leg room, front and rear!
Fairlane is a foot shorter than the big Chevy... far easier to park and handle. Yet Fairlane has more effective front leg room... practically the same head room and trunk space! And Fairlane is priced even lower than some compacts!

ON THE SPOT
 MAYFIELD, Ky. (AP) — A woman walked into a butcher shop and ordered a dressed chicken.
 The butcher finally came up with a scrawny bird but the customer shook her head. "I want a larger one."
 He looked again, couldn't find another chicken, and brought out the same one — quoting a higher price.
 "That's fine," the woman said. "I think I'll take both of them."
