Four Indicted Still in Jail

Indictments handed down last weekend by a district court grand jury boosted the population of Bailey county's jail. Four persons among eight indicted, had failed to make bond at mid-week.

Two others are still at large and another is being held in the Lubbock county jail, sheriff's officers said.

One person was freed on bond. Nine counties are seeking one of the persons who was indicted here last week, the sheriff's office reported.

Gilbert Martinez Contreras, charged by the grand jury in two counts of forgery and passing a forged instrument, was still in jail in lieu of $3,000 bond.

George Isaac Melvin, who was indicted on one count of burglary, is being held in jail in Lubbock. His bond here has been set at $3,000.

Ira Chester was indicted in two cases of forgery and passing (two counts in each case). He is being held in jail here in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Two young brothers, Gilbert and Leopoldo Anquian, Jr., were still in jail Wednesday after being indicted on one count with assault with intent to murder. Bond for each had been set at $3,000.

'62 Cotton Crop Value $809 Million, Experts Figure

Texas cotton producers received $809 million for their 1962 crop. The total income for both lint and seed, as well as total production, fell below the 1961 totals by five and one percent, respectively, but the crop was still the second largest since 1949 when the all-time high of 6 million bales was established.

Fred Elliott, extension cotton specialist, added that the lower income was due primarily to a lower average price for both lint and seed, one cent per pound less for lint and $3 per ton on seed.

Final ginning figures released by the Bureau of Census, he said, placed the Texas crop at 4,726,000 bales, the harvested acreage at 6,500,000 and the per acre yield at 348 pounds compared with 350 in 1961. Almost half of the state's total production, he noted, came (See CROP, Page 5)

Ray's 'Ritin'

By RAY MARTIN

Smitty, our personal gopher out at Goathead Flats Estate, is back. He has established his front door in the front yard and his back door in the back yard, and seems to be quite happy, as gophers know the meaning of the word. Several times he has popped his sleek little head out of his back door and has looked around at the bleak scenery, and has decided on each occasion that it's nicer down in his own underground home.

Now I am no authority on the subject of gophers. In fact, I've never been personally acquainted with one until Smitty came along. But he's not so dumb at that. His home has year-round air-conditioning, and I understand that he and his kin spend the winter sleeping in this underground, bomb-proof residence.

Last summer the landlord trapped one of Smitty's relatives, but apparently it was not a very close relative because Smitty did not seem to be concerned sufficiently about his kinsman's death to move on to new quarters. In fact, he looks fatter than he did last summer, so the gopher that lost his life was probably just a brother-in-law or something like that.

Smitty doesn't do the "lawn" any good, but the goatheads and dandelions don't make a very attractive lawn anyway, and if our "lawn" is Smitty's introduction to lawns, he probably doesn't mind spending his time in an underground housing development.

Twice we have suggested to Cinderella Louise Durfendorpher, our overweight dachshund, that her kinsmen back in Germany were noted for their gopherkilling ability (See RAY'S, Page 5)

Wheat Program Fails to Carry

Bailey county wheat farmers, with wheat farmers throughout the nation, Tuesday rejected the Freeman 1964 wheat program a check of ASCS offices here Wednesday revealed.

Unofficially the vote here was 142 yes, 242 no and 56 challenged votes for a total of 440 ballots. A total of 586 persons was eligible to vote here, Charles Daniel, ASCS manager in Muleshoe said.

He said "challenged" votes were mostly persons who voted in "the wrong polling place." He said persons who should have voted at Bula, for example, voted here instead. They were permitted to vote, but the ballot was challenged and eligibility will be determined later by the ASCS committee.

Throughout the nation, the wheat measure failed to get even a bare majority of the "yes" votes; a two-third majority was needed for the measure to carry.

Train and Cotton Truck Battle it Out in Downtown Muleshoe -- Truck Loses

CROSSROADS CRASH — A trailer, loaded with cotton, failed to clear the tracks in front of an east-bound Santa Fe freight in downtown Muleshoe at noon Wednesday, and the results are shown in the pictures above. Lee Crawford, Lubbock, driver of the cotton truck, said he looked up in time to see the flashing light on the train. He said he "shifted real fast" to try to get off the track ahead of the train, but he was too late. The train struck the rear of the trailer, spewing 17 bales of cotton along the right-of-way. A light pole was splintered in the crash, and Crawford said his greatest fear was that the "live" wires would fall on the truck. (Journal Photos by Joella Lovvorn, Journal Engraving)

MRS. A. S. STOVALL

Mrs. A. S. Stovall Has Great Task As Muleshoe School Librarian

In one room of the Muleshoe High School there is a woman of small stature with a big task. She is school librarian, Mrs. A. S. Stovall. There she keeps up with somewhere in the neighborhood of 4,000 marks in book, fiction, biographies, all types, all sizes, all colors.

Mrs. Stovall says that she has read them all. Many students go in the library needing a special book without knowing the author or the name, just a little about the content of the book and most of the time, right off, Mrs. Stovall can supply the needed book.

A native of Nebraska, Mrs. Stovall, graduated from Sturgess, South Dakota and the University of Nebraska then moved to Fredrick, Okla., where she was librarian in Carnegie Library for more than 3 years. There, she and Stovall met and were married. The couple have two daughters, Mrs. Jane Durhan and Helen Stovall who is a school teacher in San Bernardino, Calif. They have four granddaughters. Stovall is a Muleshoe Cotton buyer.

After the Stovalls moved to Muleshoe in 1948, Mrs. Stovall taught school in the old high school building and was also librarian. As she recalls, High School housed classes from the eighth grade up.

The family are members of the First Methodist and she has taught Sunday School and is a member of the Wesleyan Sunday School Class.

She has been active in the PEO Kappa Kappa Iota, Study Club, Alpha Xi Delta and a member of the Bailey County Library board, and has been senior sponsor.

Talking with many who go to the library reveals that she is indeed an accomplished librarian and has a wide knowledge of the work and of books.

Pupil is Picked For Science Study

Design drawings for plaques which won first place and honorable mention in a county competition, recently sponsored by the Federated Women's Clubs and the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce for the Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation, will be exhibited in the foyer of the Amarillo City Auditorium for graduation guests.

The winning designs will be carved in stone and mounted on the wall of the new outdoor theater in Palo Duro Canyon State Park. Drawn by high school students, the designs represent the outstanding characteristic of each of the 41 Panhandle counties entered in the contest. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Latham, representing the Fine Arts Council of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce, handled the complicated details necessary for the smooth functioning of the contest, which was initiated last January, and members of the Federated Women's Clubs in the respective counties made the school contacts and took responsibility for the judging.

The winner from Bailey County whose drawing is exhibited at the Auditorium is Donna Latimer from Baileyboro.

Students from Muleshoe winning honorable mention for their drawings, which also will be exhibited, are: Jimmy Francis and Richard Minckler.

The contest was part of the annual-wide program of the Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation for preserving the heritage of the north plains, and for the completion of the canyon amphitheater, where a musical drama built around the history of the whole area from Indian days, through the early settlement stage to the present era of prosperity will be produced. Numerous descendants of settler families are underwriting the cost of various units of the theatre and the production as memorials to their pioneer forebears.

The drama, which will have some resemblance to the all-time favorite musical "Oklahoma" but with deeper significance, is now being written by Paul Green. His "Lost Colony" at Roanoke County, N. C. and "The Common Glory" at Williamsburg, Va., which is the dramatization of Thomas Jefferson's struggle for democracy, are only two of the nine outdoor dramas which this Pulitzer-Prize-winning author now has running in the United States. He has several others in the planning stage. Some of his productions have been running since 1944, bringing unheard of prosperity to the areas sponsoring them.

The musical score for the Palo Duro Canyon production is being written by Isaac Van Grove, Hollywood composer-director, who had collaborated with Green on other productions. Recognized professional actors and singers will perform in the production.

Mrs. Ples Harper is president of the Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation and seventy-five prominent Amarillo, Canyon and Panhandle area men and women serve on the board of directors. The Heritage office is at 416 16th Street, Canyon, Box 268.

ity, but she just laughed at us. In fact, she usually has grown up from being a giggling school girl that she is having difficulty reading. Of course Cindy has never found out she is a dog, even though she has read on several occasions to give her this information.

She thinks she's people, and as such she is entitled to be on the best of terms and to eat human-type food instead of dog food.

In the meantime, Cindy, the puppie, continues to grow fat in his (or her?) underground habitat.

I don't know just what he eats, but then that, too, is of no concern to me. As I said he looks fat, so apparently he is getting along pretty well foodwise.

You know, come to think of it, most animals have a pretty soft life, no hard work, no windy hills, no TV cable, no gasoline to buy, no payments of any kind to make, not even income tax.

Thus, our two cats, for instance, they sleep all day (after they have first lashed up an appropriate which they can find to eat) and then they romp around and have a good time all night, they are not trying to keep up with the Joneses. They've never even heard of the Joneses, and they couldn't care less. Our cats are not making payments on a hot coat like the swanky Sammie cats are across the alley way. And they are not trying to send their children to boarding schools or giving them music lessons or paying for braces on their kid's teeth.

They never have to go to bridge parties and get eaten out for playing six ace when a likable would have taken the trick. They don't worry about the Admiration, they don't care whether Russia or the U. S. gets to the moon first. If they get cold, they grow a heavier fur, and when summer comes they put on their summer fur. It's as simple as that.

If they itch, they scratch, regardless of whether it's in public or not, and they don't worry about the plumbing; they have long pink tongues which serve admirably when a bath is needed. In fact, their baths are limited strictly to spit baths which are truly just that. If we failed to buy in a supply of their favorite food they cause cats until the museum goes out and buys them some.

They don't have any letter-writing to do, when they move they sever all relationships with the cats that live next door and form new friendships with the cats in their new area, if indeed they dog, which

which they mostly do it. Cindy problem is dogs, which means the Richard Hill like bed bugs in the bed. Shee, And they are here, robbing me, and then with small bugs who are busy by a necessary evil, out cats food.

Even these -- the dogs and the small bugs -- don't offer too much of a problem. To escape from the insect they climb a tree and calmly wait until the dogs have gone away, and if no cats from the scene, they go off and hide.

And, like Cindy, they think they are people -- but of a slightly higher class.

Irrigation of Area's Sloping Land Presents Soil Conservation Problem

By JOE Kreyk

The irrigation of sloping lands encounters many problems. It is difficult to apply an adequate amount of water to wet the soil sufficiently and evenly without significant erosion. The direction of irrigation for flood systems, or row irrigation have to be such that rows or borders need to be run down the maximum slope with the result that irrigation water is difficult to control and retention of rain waters is very slight. The result is in large waste in tail water and extremely high rate of rain water run-off and excessive erosion.

There are ways and means to irrigate these sloping lands without waste of irrigation water, controlling rainfall run-off and reducing water erosion. The installation of the following methods could result in saving of over 50 percent of irrigation and rain waters.

One of these methods would be to level the land in benches. This usually is costly and requires a large amount of pipe to distribute the water over the areas to be irrigated. The width and length of irrigation runs on these benches is based on soil depth, soil texture, slope of land and amount of irrigation water available.

Another conservation method of irrigating sloping lands is by sprinkler irrigation, supported either by a terrace system or by a conservation cropping system such as grasses, legumes, or continuous close-spaced high residue crops such as small grain. In some cases of extremely sloping land even land in close-spaced crops would need to be supported by a terrace system. Sprinkler systems would require less water distribution pipe lines than for bench-level irrigation and require less skill and labor in the application of water.

The third method of irrigating sloping land is in the use of grasses, legumes, or close-spaced high residue crops in graded borders. This method is, however, limited to slopes not greater than 2 percent, that is, land having fall not greater than 2 feet per hundred feet. The grades borders require some land shaping in that the side slope from border to border must be not over one inch.

else the water would not spread evenly across the width of the borders.

Assistance in the installations of the above practices can be had through the local Soil Conservation District.

Safety Urged In Mower's Use

COLLEGE STATION — A common sound these days is the one made by operating power lawn mowers. They are a necessary tool for keeping the lawn mowed and in good shape, but, warns the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council, they can become a lethal weapon when improperly used.

The rotary type mower can become a real accident hazard not only to the operator but to persons who may be nearby when used to mow lawns or weeds where rocks, bones, pieces of wire, nails or other debris are present. The Council reports that about this time of the year the number of accidents involving lawn mowers begins to increase and that chances are good some one in your neighborhood has been a victim.

The cutting blade can be broken by striking a hard object and hurled through the air. Wire can be cut in short pieces and hurled at bullet speed. Be sure, warns the Council, that the area being mowed is free of such objects and that the mower is constructed so as to prevent objects being hurled toward the operator.

The Council suggests safety measures which, if followed, could prevent many accidents involving lawn mowers and other power tools. Never, they say, try to make adjustments to a mower while the engine is running. It could cost you a finger or hand.

It's good business to remove the wire from the sparkplug before attempting to repair or adjust the cutting blade or remove accumulations of grass or weeds from under the mower.

Children should never be allowed to operate a mower nor should a person who is barefooted or wearing open toed shoes. The engine should be cool before refueling and if an electric mower is used be sure the extension cord is in perfect condition.

The folks who make lawn and trimming equipment are concerned about the user's safety and have made recommendations to insure a long and useful life for the machine and operator. They put this information in an operator's manual. The Council strongly recommends that all power tool operators become familiar with their manual.

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas

A Joyce Kilmer poem reads, "I think that I shall never see a poem lovely as a tree." However, to the property owner whose home stands beneath the outstretched arm of a neighbor's oak, a tree may present far from beautiful image. In a violent windstorm it may split apart with great damage to his home below. Or lightning may partially sever a limb which could some day fall, injuring children playing under the tree. What recourse does a person have if the owner of the land upon which the tree stands refuses to trim off a protruding or dangerous limb, although requested to do so?

A landowner may, without liability, cut off at his boundary line the branches and limbs of trees growing on neighboring premises. Such overhanging branches are in effect a nuisance which the adjoining landowner may prevent by removing them. However, he is limited strictly to the removal of overhanging branches and if he cuts beyond the boundary line, he is committing a trespass upon his neighbor's property and may be liable for damages.

If you desire to cut off the overhanging branches of a neighbor's tree, you are not required to give notice unless you have in some way encouraged the continuance of the dangerous condition.

What if neither party cuts off the overhanging limbs and one falls injuring a person or damaging property? Who is responsible?

The fact that the adjoining landowner could have cut off that part of the tree protruding over his lot does not make him liable for falling to do so. He has no duty to cut off protruding limbs although he has a right to cut them if he so chooses.

The owner of the land upon which the tree stands, however, does have a duty to remove branches and limbs when it becomes apparent to him, or he should reasonably know, that they are in a dangerous condition. So where a decayed tree standing near the boundary line falls during a heavy wind, injuring property or persons on adjoining land, the owner of the property on which the tree stands may be liable. A property owner, the court has said, "has no more right to keep on his premises an unsound tree near the house of his neighbor, on which it is liable to fall, than he would have to keep a dilapidated and unsafe building in the same position."

To The Graduate

The young people of our area who have almost completed their formal education in the year 1963 should not make the mistake of assuming that they know enough. They have only begun to learn!

What students received in school, in terms of learning how to read, study and think for themselves, is more important than the subject that passed into their brains. If, in the process of acquiring a diploma, one has glimpsed the tremendous spread of human information and realized that what has been studied is the merest fraction of what is thus known, then the way is open for the individual to proceed intellectually.

Some of the students, no doubt, have been seriously impressed with the troubles that best the world. By contrast, their pursuit of learning represents inaction in the midst of what may be a serious crisis. Some of them have reached the conclusion that there are other things more important in their lives than the pursuit of education.

Our young people will do well to make their plans to continue the development of their personalities by seeking to acquire learning. After all, character-building is largely the work of youth. By the time the average man or woman reaches maturity, principles have been accepted which later influence the activities of life. There is no substitute for the formative period of life and no time is lost which results in the development of character.

Reds Win In Italy

It is hard for Americans to understand how the Communists gain strength in Italy, against the Roman Catholic Church which is actively engaged in politics and government.

It is another proof that churches should stay out of politics, as a general rule. In Europe, when the Roman Catholic Church has traditionally involved itself in politics and government and often controlled education, the strongest Communist parties are generally to be found in the Latin (Catholic) countries.

In the Protestant countries, like England, Germany, Holland, and the Scandinavian countries, the Communist amount to very little. Their party is also most insignificant.

In the two big Latin countries of Europe, Italy and France, the Communists have been numerous for years and in the recent Italian elections they picked up a million votes! They are one of the nation's largest single parties, if not the largest. And they made their gains recently in the Protestant countries.

Catholics often argue that had it not been for the Vatican's opposition to Communism, the Communists would be even stronger. But this doesn't explain why the Communists are so weak in the face of pronouncements from the Vatican against them.

The bitter truth is that Communism thrives wherever there is poverty, slum areas and illiterate masses. The policy of opposing birth control, and thereby failing to limit population gains, insures poverty, crime, degradation and slum congestion in Latin countries — in Latin America too.

The greatest blow which could be struck against Communism (and some leading Catholics have agreed) would be for all churches to sanction sensible, practical, scientific birth control in countries where there are not sufficient natural resources and (or) wealth, to enable the upcoming generation to have a chance for a decent home, education and standard of living.

I don't mean to say somebody shouldn't be in Washington, whether he's equipped to handle the problems there or not. For example, you set up a rule that no Congressman can vote on farm legislation until he has successfully farmed, and you'd have very few votes and no legislation. In fact, you'd have trouble finding a Secretary of Agriculture. Somebody has to be there but it's not me.
Also, I wouldn't make a good candidate because I'd have trouble classifying myself. All candidates have to be tagged with a political philosophy. Some candidates, you know, say they're to the right, some say they're to the left, and some say they are in the middle of the road.

Completion of New Mexico's Ute Dam Scheduled for June

TUCUMCARI, N. M. (AP) — About 800 persons attended dedication ceremonies of the new $5 million Ute Dam, two miles southeast of Logan, recently.

Gov. Jack M. Campbell of New Mexico and U. S. Rep. Thomas G. Morris, D-N.M., headed a large delegation of federal, state and local dignitaries. Both Campbell and Morris made talks.

Morris said the dedication of Ute Dam recognizes the importance of water in New Mexico, and that the dam is a tribute to the people of New Mexico, "who had the ingenuity and perseverance to begin and complete a project of this magnitude."

He said it is the only project of its kind in the U.S. that has been built entirely with state funds.

On Canadian River

The earth-filled dam was built on the Canadian River and will supply water for industrial and recreational purposes.

Gov. Campbell, speaking from a temporary, wooden platform built just below the spillway of the dam, said the dam would have a tremendous effect on the recreational and industrial development of the area.

Campbell said the reservoir, which is beginning to fill, would provide relief to Eastern New Mexico drought areas and should provide an attractive inducement for new industries.

The huge structure was financed with state funds, through a $5 million severance tax bond issue authorized by the 1959 legislature. Future income from industrial water sales will go toward retiring the bonds.

The State Game Department also will have a hand in the operation of Ute Dam reservoir. Under an agreement with the Interstate Streams Commission, the department will pay $20,000 annually for maintenance costs of the dam in return for a guaranteed minimum water pool of 50,000 acre-feet.

It's a zoned earth-fill structure, with a total length at the crest of 5,750 feet. The term "zoned" refers to the types of different materials used in the construction.

Wide Spillway

The concrete spillway on the north side of the dam is 840 feet wide.

The dam is 121 high from the lowest point in the river to the dam crest.

The reservoir will have a capacity of 108,200 acre-feet, in a full pool extending 12.75 miles up the Canadian River.

The dam is so designed that gates can be added to the spillway in the future. These gates could increase the reservoir capacity to 272,000 acre-feet.

Ute reservoir, while having a fairly large capacity, will be a narrow lake enclosed in the deep canyons of the Canadian River and Ute Creek, from which it gets its name. The reservoir will be located in Quay, Harding and San Miguel counties and will have 4,100 surface acres at capacity.

Ute Creek drains 2,070 square miles, mostly in Harding County. The Canadian River drainage area is 1,700 square miles located below Conchas Dam.

Recreation

Development of the recreational potential is a prospect in the near future.

The city of Tucumcari already has acquired a 250-acre site on the south side of the Canadian River about four miles upstream from the dam.

The town of Logan has purchased 145 acres of state land and 40 acres of federal land along Ute Creek on the north side of the Canadian. The State Highway Department now is building a new highway into the Logan recreational site.

The ISC has purchased land on both the north and south ends of the dam and will control the river for a half-mile below the dam. This will give the commission control of future pumping facilities in the river.

Release of Water

Water will be released downstream through a conduit passing under the dam. This conduit is six feet in diameter on the lake side, narrowing to 36 inches at the downstream outlet.

Watson said the future of the reservoir for agricultural uses is limited. For one thing, the ISC had established a price for water at the reservoir of three cents per thousand gallons, which is prohibitive for agricultural purposes. Also, the canyon terrain does not lend itself to removal of water for irrigation purposes in the dam vicinity.

There is a unique feature in the construction of the dam.

The soil cement treatment will begin at the crest and continue downward for 41 feet in elevation, or about 120 lineal feet along the gently sloping structure.

The soil cement will underlap three-inch stone material at the normal water pool line. The cobblestones will extend another 180 lineal feet down the slope below the normal pool line, then join a heavier rock material. A so-called impervious blanket extends from the base of the dam out into the lake bottom.

The reservoir is closed to the public. It will not be opened until after construction is completed.

The State Game Department already has begun to stock Ute reservoir.

The lake first will be developed as a trout lake, and then transformed into a warm water fish lake. During the transition period both trout and warm water fishing should be available in the lake.

IT'S FOR THE BIRDS

By MELVIN R. EVANS
Refuge Manager, Muleshoe National Wildlife Refuge

The mourning dove to some sportsmen are the greatest, but to others they are just another gamebird. To some they are not game birds, but song birds.

Some hunters consider this bird to be among the best of sport when it comes to shotgunning. These birds are just getting in to the midst of their nesting period.

Mating generally occurs in the area where nesting will occur. Flights, known as nuptial flights to wildfliers, are engaged in during the mating period.

The location of nests vary from on the ground to atop high platforms. The nests are generally started by the males, and following completion they usually contain two eggs.

The structure of the nest varies from two or three sticks placed in the fork of a tree, to several hundred small sticks and some grass or similar vegetation, which is used to line the nest.

The young are born 15 to 17 days after incubation begins, and they begin flying when they are about two weeks of age.

A material known as pidgeon milk is produced in the crops of the adult birds, and is fed to the young birds.

They normally water twice daily, and the primary element of their diet is seeds.

Nesting may occur from February to October, depending on the latitude. Adult birds are capable of rearing one family every month.

They adapt to many types of cover, but they prefer shelter belts. At the present time the production of young on the refuge appears to be headed for a bumper crop year. It is hoped that other nesting areas also have a year of good production.

If this should be the case, we should have a good fall flight for the sportsmen who hunt this species with a gun, a camera, or a set of binoculars.

If a cake has a sugary crust, there may be too much sugar or leavening in the recipe, or both, or the batter may have been improperly mixed.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Vern Sanford

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

By Vern Sanford
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN — Many Texas drivers who carry insurance will need to notify their agents to increase their public liability insurance after August 24.

By the narrowest of margins — a single vote — the House adopted a bill by Rep. Bob Fairchild of Center to raise the bodily injury insurance or security requirements under the driver financial responsibility law from $5,000 for one person and $10,000 for two or more to double those amounts.

Estimates are that it will cost the average driver about $5 a year for the extra coverage. This will enable him to keep his driver's license and car license should he be involved in a collision in which someone is hurt.

It was a hard fought issue in the House. But Fairchild won, 68-67, with the vote of Speaker Byron Tunnell breaking the tie.

In the Senate, passage was by voice vote, with 12 Senators recording themselves as voting no.

Argument for the bill is that it would bring requirements up to a more modern figure. Court judgments in personal injury cases, resulting from auto collisions, often exceed $5,000.

Argument against it, voiced by Rep. Eligio de la Garza of McAllen, was that 35 per cent of the drivers cannot afford to carry liability insurance at present rates. So there will be even more uninsured motorists on the highways after the Fairchild law takes effect.

of the 58th Legislature ends Friday. That's three days earlier than the constitutional requirement.

Hundreds of the 1,500 proposed new laws submitted by the 151 legislators were left to die in committees and on the crowded calendars of both houses.

Other hundreds will become law when Gov. John Connally signs them. Rush of business at the session's end is pouring them in to his office by the score.

All legislative proposals are important to someone. In a few cases, it is a single person.

One proposal would allow a newspaper editor to practice law. It was killed on the floor.

Another would permit the practice of architecture, by a qualified person who failed to apply for a license before the deadline arrived. It died in committee.

COURTS — An exception is judicially restricting.

Rep. Henry Stollenwerch, a Republican from Dallas, vainly tried to move some rural district courts to the cities. This to follow the people who have moved into the population centers.

Stollenwerch presented statistics showing that some courts are handling only 150 cases a year, while others in major cities have towering caseloads even after disposing of five times that many cases a year. Bill was killed in committee.

Rep. Bob Johnson of Dallas persuaded the House to pass a bill under which a judicial redistricting board, made up of the Lieutenant Governor, House Speaker and Attorney General, would reapportion district courts if the Legislature did not. Bill died in the Senate.

HOUSE MINORITY LEADER — In the waning days of the session, House Republicans ceremoniously announced their 8-member delegation leader, Rep. Horace B. Houston of Dallas.

Houston has some sort of seniority since he previously served a term when he ran as a Democrat.

Speaker Byron Tunnell quipped, "From now on, when you folks have complaints about your bills, you can take your troubles to the House minority leader."

Houston then cast his first vote as G. O. P. leader in favor of extending the Veterans Land Program, while his followers cast votes against it.

State Board of Education named a committee to study Snyder's request for a junior college. Appointees were Penrose B. Metcalfe of San Angelo, Herbert O. Willborn of Amarillo, and Paul Mathews of Greenville. Committee will meet on May 31, in San Angelo.

Recently, the board authorized a junior college election for Travis County voters. Claim is that even though the University of Texas is in Travis County, entrance requirements are too stiff for many local youngsters to enroll.

POLICEMEN'S PENSIONS — On its way to becoming law is S. B. 444 by Sen. William Moore of Bryan. It would make policemen in 150 towns of less than 250,000 population eligible for social security benefits, if their councils agreed.

Rep. Ben Barnes of De Leon, House sponsor, said, "This is the first policemen's bill that policemen's associations and the Texas Municipal League have agreed on."

A statewide bill by Rep. Glenn Kothmann of San Antonio, to increase longevity pay for policemen and firemen in all towns, was killed.

BILLS SIGNED — In recent days Governor Connally has signed into law bills that make San Angelo and Pan American colleges state-supported, senior colleges; authorize commissioners courts to appropriate monies for historical markers and monuments; provide for annexation by municipalities; authorize a 70-mile speed limit; and allow weekly newspapers to miss two issues a year and still retain their legality.

Also, change the name of A & M College to Texas A & M University; authorize counties to issue bonds to establish homes for the needy; and provide for emergency succession to state offices in the event of an attack or a disaster.

ROAD RACE — Texas and Oklahoma are running a friendly race to close the gap between Wichita Falls and Oklahoma City.

Texas highway builders are aiming for an early June, 1964, completion date on the Red River Valley Expressway between Wichita Falls and the Red River.

Oklahoma has set the same target for completion of a Southwestern Turnpike project between Oklahoma City and the terminal point of the Texas expressway.

TEXAS LEADS — This state has led all others in road-building progress since 1956.

Highway engineers from other states and 19 Latin American countries who want to know how it has been done heard State Highway Department Engineer D. C. Greer speak on the subject in Washington, D. C.

A pay-as-you-go plan has been one secret of success, Greer says, in building a highway network of 65,000 miles. Some other states run into road delays because of bond elections and sales.

Greer said his department's motto is "Total road service to all the people."

"The highway administrator must not be guilty of favoritism for one region over another," he stated.

THE GREATEST TRUTH

Jesus says, "For as the Father raises the dead and gives them life; so also the Son gives life to whom he will" (John 5:21). Again Jesus says, "Truly, Truly, I say to you, he who hears my word and believes him who sent me, has eternal life; he does not come into judgment, but has passed from death unto life" (John 5:24). Jesus says in the great intercessory prayer, "And this is eternal life, that they know thee the only true God and Jesus Christ whom thou hast sent" (John 17:3).

We have too often missed the heart of the gospel of Jesus Christ our Lord. Too much preaching is done in the realm of ethics and morals to the neglect of our Lord's central message. Christ never at any time said that he would make men good if they would believe on him. He did say that he would give to all who believe on him eternal life. Eternal life is the life of the soul. For just as the body has physical life; so Christ gives spiritual life to the souls of all believers. The soul is real — it is as real as the body. It has its own peculiar sort of life which Christ the Lord gives to it. He who has soul life—eternal life—will never perish. Here is the security of the believer. What Christ imparts to the soul of man is a quality of life and also a duration of life. No one is able to snatch them out of the Father's hands.

After all has been said about the gospel, the heart of the gospel is God's good news. What is this good news? Christ died for our sins, and rose for our immortal life which is the life of the soul.

Does Christ want us to be good? Yes, as good as we can. What makes anyone good is the product of having eternal life abiding in him. He who has eternal life abides in Christ and Christ in him. Goodness is the product of a good life in Christ our Lord.

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D.
Commissioner of Health

Last week a strong and vigorous 50-year-old Central Texas dairyman suddenly crumpled unconscious to the floor of his dairy barn while going about his routine chores. The doctor's diagnosis was quick and sure: Stroke. That's one of the most ominous words in the language today. What does it really mean?

The medical term is "cerebral vascular accident," because it is caused by a cerebral vascular disease. The body's cerebral vascular system is the brain's network of blood vessels. Thus, cerebral vascular disease refers to diseases of blood vessels in the brain.

Brain cells require a good blood supply in order to work properly—more so than most other body cells. When something happens to that blood supply, the brain itself is impaired.

That something could be the result of a hemorrhage, thrombus, embolus, compression, or a spasm. Each one of those key words is a major cause of paralysis.

A hemorrhage (bleeding) is the result of a break in a brain artery which allows blood to escape and damage surrounding brain tissue. Apoplexy or stroke is this type of a hemorrhage.

A thrombus is caused by a clot of blood forming in a brain artery, stopping the flow of blood to the part of the brain it supplies. When a clot is formed in a diseased heart or elsewhere in the body and pumped to the brain to plug up an artery, it is called an embolus.

A tumor, swollen brain tissue, a large clot in another vessel or pressure upon a brain vessel stop the flow of blood. This is called compression. A spasm is a sudden contraction of a brain artery which constricts or tightens up, stopping the flow of blood to a particular brain area.

Present medical knowledge makes it not possible to prevent the occurrence of cerebral accidents, except in high blood pressure, for example—can often be helped by modern treatment.

Also, several conditions associated with blood clot formation respond to anti-clotting drugs, and blood vessel defects with which some children are born can sometimes be corrected by surgery, thereby eliminating some types of paralysis.

Rehabilitating a stroke victim involves a special team of physician, nurses, physical and occupational therapists and a cooperative patient and family.

Houstonite Finds Rufus Is Real

Nancy West, visitor in the Lee Pool home, must have thought Muleshoe already had its statue to the mule, when she consented to have her picture made on Rufus, the Jaycee mascot.

She was surprised to find Rufus a real, live mule, but was a good sport because she didn't want to miss any events in the western atmosphere, so novel to an Urbanite.

Nancy attended the Jaycee banquet and western dance, ate Mexican food, saw the sandhills, the large grain elevators, the spacious farming country with the irrigation wells, but was most of all surprised to find Muleshoe such "A big, little town."
