They will be riding the 100 bicycles to be given away at 1 p.m. December 24 at a drawing to be held on the West side of the Courthouse.

Free registration will begin for the gigantic drawing Saturday in local stores.

Children from four through 18 may register as many times as they like from Saturday until Christmas Eve for one of the bikes. Adults may also register for their children.

Football Season Ends

The football season wound up Saturday with a defeat for the Mules by the hands of Perryton by a score of 45 to 0. Lazbuddie Bond Election Nov. 30: "Old Red" Unfit

The Lazbuddie School Board, after seven months of intensive study of problems relative to modernization of the school curriculum and housing facility needs, is asking for a building program sufficient to house the expanded curriculum now offered.

The new $235,000 facility will provide a modern all-purpose science laboratory, a new cafeteria and kitchen, a new home-making department, three classrooms and related service and administrative facilities.

The Board, in its efforts to meet the increased demands for an upgraded curriculum, has already provided for six courses in modern foreign language, a four year math and science program in addition to improved offerings in English and Liberal Arts. This was accomplished without increase in cost to the patrons of the school district.

The board is now asking for a new school building to replace the "Old Red Building" which has stood on the Lazbuddie Campus for thirty - six years and is completely unsuited for this modern program.

According to the board, the cost of this facility can be met by an increase in taxes of one-seventh (1-7) of the current tax

Whooping Cranes Coming Home

Mel Evans, Wildlife Refuge Manager for the area, reports that 30 of the almost extinct whooping cranes have been seen returning to Aransas, their base. Several of these birds were not yet mature indicating that they were hatched at Great Salt Lake, Canada. More youngsters are expected, and hunters are urged to keep an eye open for the passing of these six-foot birds so that they may be reported to Mel at the Wildlife office.

High Plains Screw-worm

Although a screw-worm outbreak has been reported in the High Plains, County Agent J. K. Adams is satisfied that there is little, if no danger to the Muleshoe area, provided livestock men down state continue to keep their eyes open. A recent sample sent down to Mission proved to be negative for screw-worm, but the mere fact of its being submitted was an indication of how individual cattlemen are supporting State and Federal Agencies in their efforts to stamp out the scourge.

Three Way Squad In Playoff Today

Three Way's eight-man football squad will meet Guthrie's team in playoff at Idalou today at 2 p.m.

Guthrie defeated Flower Grove in a game played at Paducah Friday night by a score of 38 - 20.

Immediately following the game, Chamber of Commerce manager Roy Davis, met with Superintendent of Three Way school, Harrel Holder and Coach J. W. Aldridge and other officials to determine the site and date of the coming playoff game. Davis extended an invitation to the teams to play their game in Muleshoe, through the cooperation of Muleshoe Independent School District.

However, officials decided on a more natural field, an approximate equi-distance from both schools and Idalou was chosen. Guthrie's team is expected to be in top condition for Thursday's contest and Three Way coaches say their boys are also in good shape.

Citizens who live in the Lazbuddie Independent School District, who have property duly recorded for school taxes, either personal or real and who have paid their poll taxes are eligible to vote in this election.

Beneficial Cold Spell

The recent 26 degree weather that we have had in the area has pleased cotton farmers, for it has killed nearly all the plants, and should result in the area having good harvesting conditions. The killing frost, following one of the best winter seasons in many years, has developed what may well be a record crop in some areas, and at the same time has helped to avoid heavy defoliation costs.

BAND AWARDS DINNER HELD BEST MARCHERS SELECTED

Merriment was the order of the day at the dinner held Friday night when the Band Awards were presented to the members of the Muleshoe High School band.

Band Director Bradley opened the proceedings by introducing Mr. Kerry Moore, Speech Instructor, who gave an inspiring talk, emphasizing the importance of team work and good sportsmanship.

Mr. Bradley surprised the Band members by producing for them their new jackets, just arrived from the makers. In handing out the jackets he pointed out that they should be worn with pride by the individual owners, and not passed to others who had not earned them. After presenting what he calls his Booby Prizes to various members of the band — and what suitable prizes there were, as the plaudits of the Band members proved — Mr. Bradley came to the important event of the evening. This was the presentation to Band Members of prizes awarded to them by the vote of their fellow members. They were:

BEST MARCHERS: Susan Birdsong, Marsha Blackman, Becky Camp, Jan Everett, Neil Finley, Jimmy Francis, Charlotte Garney, Pam Kerr, Jan Landers, Sandra Rundell.

The winner of the award for the Best Marching Spirit, was Jimmy Francis. This was obviously a popular award. Drum Major Sonja Bass, and Twirlers Linda Griffiths, Donna Phipps and Jean Stevenson also received their awards.

At the conclusion of the serious part of the evening, Director Bradley also received awards, but in his case there was a certain levity, for he was handed an autographed toy drum by the Percussion section of the Band, and a toy trumpet by the Band as a whole. Accepting his awards in the spirit in which they were offered, Mr. Bradley concluded the evening with a few well-chosen words on Team-work and Pride in our High School Band.

LIBRARY TRAVEL

By GEORGIA PENA
Bookmobile Librarian
Texas State Library

Just a note from your traveling Bookmobile to let you know a little about some more of the new books arriving almost daily from the Texas State Library for the use of the patrons in Bailey, Lamb, Parmer, and Cochran Counties.

EXPLORING OUR NATIONAL WILDLIFE REFUGES by Devereaux Butcher is a beautifully illustrated book about our national wildlife refuges, which are among the last remaining unspoiled spots on our continent. It describes in detail more than forty refuges and contains, among others, a chapter on extinct and vanishing species of wildlife. Some of you 4-Hers who are conducting wildlife projects might be interested in this book.

Anyone can tell a joke well. If he knows how — and here, is a book that tells you just that — JOKES AND HOW TO TELL THEM by Larry Adler. The jokes cover a broad spectrum of humor, and the lessons, offered in "Instruction" sections accompanying each story, are applicable in telling all jokes.

In the book CONFIDENTIAL SECRETARY, by Harriett H. Carr, written especially for young adults, Joyce Reeves greeted her first day on a new job with mixed emotions. Working in Washington proves to be a stimulating but often hazardous occupation, an Joyce's glamorous career, as well as her romantic interest, makes exciting reading.

Attention Horse Lovers — if anyone thinks there are no working horses left, he's wrong. From Broadway to Texas, plenty of horses are still earning their way. The book HORSES AND THEIR BOSSES by Bill Ballantine is about them and the men who work them: movie horses and stunt men, rodeo horses and riders, cutting horses and cowboys, reinbaeks and circus performers, Amish farmers and plough horses. To get these stories, Bill Ballantine went to where the action is and talked to the men who talk to the horses. What he heard and saw and learned makes a book that's as lively, varied, and full of surprises, as a three-ring circus.

These new books and many more are awaiting you at any of the 44 stops that we make. Do find out when we are to be in your vicinity next and come and see us — you're so very welcome.

Note: The bookmobile will be in Muleshoe Saturday.

Quick Gifts and Decorations

If you need gifts and Christmas decorations in quantity for sale at church bazaars, charity affairs and so on this Christmas, or just extra little presents for friends and families, make them yourself from this year's crop of gay Christmas gift wrapping papers.

With a little talent for do-it-yourself projects you can make a charming assortment of inexpensive personalized items that will reflect your ingenuity and imagination and really spell out the holiday spirit.

Make the project fun for the family too by organizing an assembly line with willing workers recruited from the younger members who'll love cutting out and pasting with the colorful papers.

This idea comes from a design studio director at one of the country's leading greeting card and gift wrap publishers. "The assembly line saves time and each person can handle the step of production for which she's best qualified," the director says.

Seat workers around a table, with all supplies such as glue, pins, rubber cement, cellophane tape, two-sided tape, etc. in the center within reach of everyone. Designate one person to shop for materials, thus avoiding duplicating supplies. Another person should be responsible for working tools such as scissors, pencils, measuring tape. One person should be in charge of making and give the final say on how the items should be finished or how it should look. Work out production steps ahead and list them so each worker can refer to them handily.

One easy - to - make gift idea that's sure to be popular at the holiday party season is a serving tray with its own set of matching coasters.

Here's how your assembly line would work for this gift: 1. For each set purchase one roll of wrapping paper with an overall snowflake design in green and blue on gold. One picture frame with glass, about 12" x 14". 2. Assemble materials, including some shirt cardboard. 3. Remove cardboard backing from picture frame being careful not to break off holding clamps. 4. Cover backing with gift wrap and re-insert in frame under glass. 5. Cut six each 3 1/2" circles from shirt boards and gift wrap. 6. Rubber cement together. 7. Make coaster - stand by attaching length-wise seven strips of board 6" long and 1/2" wide covered with gift wrap to piece of covered board 3 1/2" wide by 4 1/2" long.

Using the same quick assembly line technique, for a church bazaar sale, the director suggests making sets of hanging Christmas ornaments that can be suspended from picture moldings or mantelpieces, made into mobiles to hang from chandeliers, or that can be hung on

Today's Meditation

THE THIN THREADS OF THANKS

"Rejoice always, pray constantly, give thanks in all circumstances, for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus for you." Thessalonians 5: 16, 17, 18.

When Gilbert Chesterton told the story of his life he noted there was a period during which he was muddled and confused, "not knowing what to do with life or what to make of it."

But there was in him a feeling of gratitude for life, for opportunity, for faith, and for the promise of his talents.

So, said Chesterton, through periods of drought and discouragement he hung on "by one thin thread of thanks." Quite literally, "he took life for granted, not for granted." He refused to complain or to retreat into bitterness when life seemed rugged. On the contrary, he clung to "the thin thread of thanks."

There is no road to greatness of spirit and of contribution save that which travels through the hills and valleys of gratitude. The ungrateful man is bitter and angry in his frustration. The thankful man takes trouble in stride like Robert Louis Stevenson, who once wrote an essay "On enjoyment of Unpleasant Places." He wrote the essay from his bed during the years he spent as an invalid.

Stevenson's prayer is evidence of a thankful spirit.

"We thank Thee for his place in which we dwell; for the love that unites us; for the peace accorded us this day; for the hope which we expect tomorrow; for our friends in all parts of the earth, and our friendly helpers in this foreign isle. Give us courage and gaiety of spirit and the quiet of mind."

So Stevenson, finding enjoyment in his unpleasant situation, went on writing stories of faith, hope and courage. To the end of his days he kept saying: "Thanks be to God!"

We would be grateful, our Father, even when troubles beset us. Sustain us with cheerfulness and hope and keep us aware of our reason for thanksgiving. AMEN.

Economic, Social Change Brewing in Czechoslovakia

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — This country is shot through with a ferment of economic and social change that could shape its whole future, even politically. Of all the socialist states, Czechoslovakia has followed the Moscow line perhaps the most closely. During the uprisings of Poles and Hungarians in 1956, Czechoslovakia slammed shut its frontiers and stood firmly with Moscow. When the dispute between Moscow and Peking grew hot, President Antonin Novotny announced full support of the Soviet Union and Nikita Khrushchev. But something new has come. It had to. After a preliminary following the war, industrial production steadily lost momentum and in 1963 actually fell behind 1962. To try to turn the tide, party leaders, backed by young economists, have drafted an economic plan which aims to reshape the entire industrial structure. A Czech official, in a good position to estimate what is coming, says of the new plan: "It will bring a change which will not necessarily alter the relationship of Czechoslovakia with either the Soviet Union or the United States, but it will bring internal changes of great importance to the economy of the country — and much besides."

The new plan calls for a progressive elimination of Moscow-style centralized economic control and a large play to individual initiative. Many Czechoslovaks, both official and non-official, have sensed the deterioration painfully. Of all the socialist states, they had the highest standard of living during the past 30 years. Moreover, of all the socialist states, they had and still have the closest contacts with the west, with long frontiers adjoining booming West Germany and Austria. Their condition was brought sharply home to them recently when the Czechoslovak television service aroused a debate between Czech and Austrian journalists and economists. For the Czechs, it turned out to be a disaster. The Austrian debaters pointed out the sharp contrasts in living standards between the two countries, sparing nothing. They pointed to the freedom of the Austrian economy and of the Austrian people to travel where they want and to read what they please. The Czech debaters could only reply lamely that things were not too bad. What they could not say, for political reasons, was that extensive German industrial machinery installed during World War II had all been carried away by the Russians as war booty, leaving Czechoslovakia only the most outworn prewar equipment.

Curriculum of The School Fourth Grade

By THE FOURTH GRADE TEACHERS OF MULESHOE SCHOOLS

ART - FOURTH GRADE

In the fourth grade an attempt is made to get the children to express themselves in a number of ways. Art has proven to be one of the most effective ways of expression. Sometimes much can be learned from the art work of a child this age - not only from the work he does but from the manner in which he works.

The fourth grade child is just becoming aware of his social independence. It is important that he learn to work and cooperate in a group; therefore, in the Fourth Grade Art Program, we try to create situations for the children to work together on murals, projects, etc.

Also, at this age, children are growing in their visual awareness and feel the need for realism in their art work. This calls for a more realistic touch, modeling, three dimensional paintings, and media in which more details may be added or used.

In paintings we still use crayons as our chief material. We also use colored chalk, tempera paints, and cut paper to add variety to art projects.

Each teacher in the fourth grade uses his own method of motivation for his children's art work.

FOURTH GRADE

In the Fourth Grade Physical Education Program, again the main objective is to teach democratic living through working and playing cooperatively together. This is achieved through emphasizing group and team play. Another objective of this P. E. program is to teach sportsmanship to the children. The children learn that by displaying good sportsmanship and abiding by the rules that the game gets more smoothly resulting in more enjoyable play for everyone.

In the Fourth Grade Physical Education Program, every child gets an opportunity to lead and to participate in making decisions - and, after the decisions are made, the entire group should respect them. Team games also develop the big muscles and motor skills that are important in the coordination of a child in the fourth grade.

MUSIC - FOURTH GRADE

The fourth grade children have a forty-minute music period three times every two weeks. They have a specialized music teacher.

LANGUAGE ARTS

The Language Arts program for the fourth grade is organized around real life experiences and language activities which call for meaningful uses of skills in both oral and written communication.

RICHLAND FOURTH GRADE TEACHERS - These are the teachers of the fourth grades at Richland Hills School. They are Joyeline Costen, M. H. Laney, Latoyia Howell and Inez Middlebrooks.

Participation and experience are a part of the learning process. For this reason, many opportunities for both individual and group participation in language activities are provided. Activities in receiving impressions include listening, observing, and reading.

Throughout the school day in various areas of the curriculum, the child listens to different types of materials. These include poems, stories, selections from books, passages from reference books, encyclopedias, pamphlets, stories and articles from newspapers and magazines.

He listens to records and views films. These experiences, along with his observations and reading, help him to reflect ideas and organize materials by thinking, planning, and organizing ideas.

The child is given opportunities to express his thoughts to his classmates, through class discussion, evaluating, making reports, giving directions, telling stories, and making announcements. He also writes notices, invitations, and letters, stories, and poems. He is encouraged to express his ideas in dramatizing stories and showing social courtesies.

Because of the importance of personal experiences in the life of the child many of the activities are directly related to his home environment, his school, his play, and his immediate surroundings.

Skills are developed through function approach. Letter writing is presented when the child has a definite purpose for writing a letter. In the making of labels, the writing of stories, the giving of reports, the presentation of language skills is made through actual use of language experiences.

Creative writing is an important part of the language arts program. Through frequent use of poetry and prose children are inspired and encouraged to express their thoughts and feelings. Opportunities are given for original writing. Emphasis is placed upon spontaneity and freshness in individual expression.

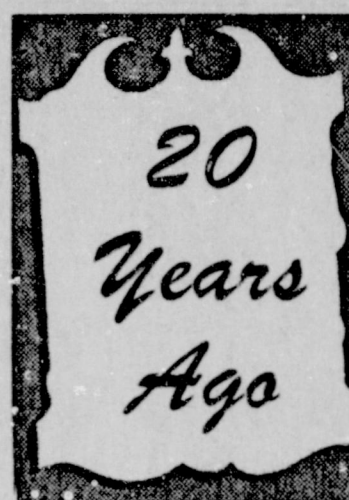

Numerous opportunities for character development are offered through class discussion, group planning, committee service, club endeavors, class projects and daily experiences in sharing.

English Is Our Language is used as a guide in the language program.

Using Spelling Goals, an effort is made to relate spelling and handwriting skills. The basic elements of legible handwriting are systematically presented and the child's attention is centered upon proper writing form of the particular symbols involved in spelling generalizations.

DeSHAZO FOURTH GRADE TEACHERS - Pictured here are the teachers of the Mary DeShazo fourth grades. They are Ruth Fowler, Jackie McAlpin, Letha Patterson and Pauline Guinn.

Have you priced a tiger lately?

Take the GTO, for instance. Comes with 335 hp. Or 360 at extra cost. Plus bucket seats, Carpeting, Walnut Dash, Quick Wide-Track Tigris And like that. Yet it sells for less than a lot of pussycats with imitation stripes. Then there's the Le Mans. Same kind of pizzazz. Same kind of crackle. Same kind of low price. Slightly smaller teeth. So price a tiger.

We're building Wide-Tracks again! See them all at your authorized Pontiac dealer now!

LATE INAUGURAL—Gov. John Connally may have a late inauguration.

Ceremonies likely will be postponed from January 19, when he normally would take oath of office to January 26.

Postponement, ramrodded by the State Democratic Executive Committee, is aimed at helping Texans arrange their schedules so they can attend inauguration ceremonies for both President Johnson and Governor Connally.

Presidential inauguration is fixed at January 20 and thousands of Texans plan to attend.

Many prominent political figures would have to pass up Connally's swearing in to reach Washington on time for Johnson's ceremonies.

Besides, the President wants Governor and Mrs. Connally there.

SDEC will call on members of the Legislature to co-sponsor a joint resolution to postpone the governor's inauguration.

If a majority of lawmakers sign, the Texas inaugural committee will go ahead with its plan to push back the Connally swearing-in date.

A vote of the Legislature would make the change official after lawmakers convene here on January 12.

Texas constitution provides that the governor shall be installed on the first Tuesday after organization of the Legislature, "or as soon thereafter as practicable."

COURTS SPEAK — Supreme Court agreed that, to protect the public, the State Department of Public Safety has full authority to suspend driver licenses of motorists found to be habitual traffic violators.

High court declared moot a Starr County Republican candidate's suit to void 650 poll tax receipts in the stormy South Texas county. The GOP office - seeker claimed the poll taxes were neither paid for nor requested by their holders.

A November 25 hearing was held by the Supreme Court on a suit by Trinity River Authority to force the state attorney general to approve a $42,000,000 bond sale to finance construction of Livingston Dam. Houston voters approved the issue 4-1.

Court of Criminal Appeals ordered new trials in San Antonio and Houston murder convictions in line with a U. S. Supreme mandate. Its opinion suggested new guidelines for passing on admissibility of confessions. Trial judges now must hold special hearings where a question exists as to whether a confession was voluntary. They may exclude confessions from a trial if that evidence tends to indicate the confession was not voluntary.

An Austin district court denied an injunction sought by House of Tobacco Inc. of Houston to get back its state permit to distribute cigarettes. Comptroller Robert S. Calvert cancelled the permit after the firm's operator was charged with cigarette tax irregularities.

SLANT - WELL SUITS Filing of two civil penalty suits in the 53rd District Court in Austin, for alleged slant - well activity, were made by Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr.

First to be filed against were J. C. Stroud and W. W. Stroud, both of Rusk County, and G. M. Jordan of Kilgore. Suit involves one well in Rusk County.

Named as defendants in the second suit were the Strouds and M. M. Harding of Kilgore. Second suit involves two wells in Rusk County.

AG OPINIONS — Attorney General Carr ruled that it would be legal for a commissioner's court to buy a helicopter for the county sheriff, if there is enough money in the right funds.

He held that a sheriff may buy any equipment he needs to do his work, but it is up to the commissioner's court to decide if a helicopter comes under "reasonable" expenses.

Carr also determined that, under a treaty clause, a Mexican consul stationed in Texas and bringing in liquor for use by consular officials, is not bound by the liquor import restrictions (quart per person) applying to Texas citizens.

He concluded that the State Parks and Wildlife Commission has the right to prohibit deer hunting on state-owned dry river beds of Dimmit, Uvalde, and Zavala counties.

CONNALLY FIRST — Gov. Connally was the first Texan to participate in the 1964 Census of Agriculture of the U. S. Department of Commerce. He filled out a census form concerning his ranch operation near Floresville.

Agricultural resources census has been taken every five years since 1940. Data is confidential and can be used only for statistical purposes.

books, the Keytext and the Storytext.

The Keytext is designed to develop skills and to provide opportunities for the application build, refine, and extend basic of these skills in the reading and study of nonfictional expository writing.

The Storytext is designed to develop skills in interpretation of fictional writing and to develop appreciation and enjoyment of fiction and poetry.

Both books give special emphasis to phonetic and structural analysis which help the pupil to analyze words and to learn new words independently.

ARITHMETIC

The first six weeks of school is a general review of the basic third grade achievements. The fourth grade is a continued spiral advancement of the four fundamental processes. Each new concept involving any of these principles is a little more difficult.

The fourth grade arithmetic text consists of eight sections. The Teacher's Edition contains the purposes and procedures for each page which enables the teacher to present the materials in a logical, systematic, interesting and effective manner. Studies show that more effective learning takes place through manipulating actual materials than by verbal alone. The procedures suggest varied incentives in the forms of games, puzzles, and tricks for stimulating children's interests, and lead to a greater comprehension of skills to be achieved.

Emphasis in problem solving are placed on regrouping of numbers to show that attention of a lower digit make one of the next higher. This is shown with practice cards. Pictures, diagrams, charts, and various designs and objects are also used as illustrations to enable the pupils to conceive the fundamental operations. The concrete problems are of a social nature which tends to suggest good manners, and the development of good citizenship.

The over-all achievement of the fourth grade arithmetic is as follows: The ability to manipulate zero as a place holder in all four fundamental processes; to read and comprehend concrete examples; read and write numbers in six places; tell time; count change; add and subtract money; multiply and divide by one number to nine; write the Roman numerals to C; give the common tables of measure; understand common fractions to 8ths; add and subtract fractions of the same denominator; recognize geometric forms; solve one and two step problems, using all four fundamental processes; estimate answers, and understand and use technical vocabulary.

SOCIAL STUDIES

The social studies book, "At Home Around the World", meets the growing need in our

for a wider knowledge and better understanding of the lands and people in today's world.

Each unit in the book is a self-contained story with a plot, action, and some suspense. Children can readily identify themselves with the main characters and thus develop empathy for boys and girls in other parts of the world. At the same time every effort is made to impart a true, factual, and realistic picture of life in other environments. Where contrasts in ways of living are evident, it is hoped that these stories will lead to an understanding of the reasons for the differences rather than to the development of a superiority complex.

The "story approach" presents a form of reading that is familiar to boys and girls.

Most of the reading done by children on this level is narrative. The vocabulary has been carefully controlled. Sentences structure and style contribute to ease of reading.

In addition to telling a good story, the units are purposeful. In brief, the content of this subject:

... acquaints pupils with widely varying types of environments affecting the lives of peoples throughout the earth;

... shows them that adaptation to natural and social conditions underlies the life of all peoples, from those of simple cultures to those of complex cultures;

... fosters an appreciation of peoples whose way of life differs from our own and leads toward a better understanding of their problems;

... offers careful, progressive training in the ability to read and interpret maps and map symbols;

... emphasizes the need for conservation of natural resources;

... develops a realization that this is a changing world.

The series adviser, Dr. Robert M. Glendinning, is a professor of California, Los Angeles. He has been a school teacher, a township superintendent of schools, and a geography supervisor. He is author and co-author of several books.

The cartographic adviser, Richard Edes Harrison, is one of the country's leading cartographers. His maps have appeared in Time, Life, and Fortune magazines. He has taught cartography at Syracuse University and has been a visiting lecturer at Clark University and the University of Virginia.

Delia Goetz, the author of At Home Around the World is Specialist in the Preparation of educational materials in the Office of Educational Services, International Cooperative Administration, Washington, D. C. In this capacity she has traveled around the world twice since 1957. She has worked with educational missions of technical assistance programs in several countries in Latin America, Africa, and Asia. She is a former teacher with experience in the ORLANDO, Fla. — Second Lieutenant Phillip D. Bates, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Bates of Friona, has graduated from the Tactical Missile School at Orlando AFB, Fla.

Lieutenant Bates, 24, a missile launch officer, received specialized training as a member of a Mace missile combat crew. He will be assigned to a U. S. Air Forces in Europe (USAFE) tactical missile unit in Germany. His new unit supports the USAFE mission of providing the major air contribution for defense of the NATO countries.

elementary schools of Panama, Guatemala, and Cuba as well as the State Teachers Colleges of Cedar Falls, Iowa; Minot, North Dakota; and Albion, Idaho. She is an established author for young people.

SCIENCE

Since the best information scientists have at any one time will need to be revised in keeping with future discoveries, a years. There are, however, certain content of science in the fourth grade cannot be considered as set and fixed for even a few years. There are, however, certain patterns for the universe which principles for all time, in spite of revision and modifications that follow new discoveries. These patterns are described in the following statements:

a. The universe is very large.
b. The earth is very old.
c. Many changes are going on in the universe.
d. Living things are interdependent and interrelated.
e. Living things which are living today are the results of adaptations that have been made in the past.
f. There is a great variety among living things.
g. There is evidence of a tendency toward balance among the forces and living things.

These patterns seem to be guide lines for instruction through the fourth grade. Man must recognize these patterns if he is to adapt his civilization to his universe.

(For the sake of brevity, we can speak of these patterns as principles of space, time, change, interrelationships, variety, adaptations, and balance.)

We see only half of the moon's surface because it always turns the same face toward the earth.

Ferdinand Hassler, a Swiss engineer, made the first coast and harbor survey for the U. S. in 1816.

Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler stated that more than 35,000 veteran purchasers will have bought land through the program when it ends in December, 1964. Those already on the list can expect to be reached before the program ends.

CARR TO WASHINGTON — Attorney General Carr made the latest in a series of appearances before the U. S. Supreme Court in Washington, D. C., this week when he argued for the State of Texas in the hearing on John William Stanford Jr. versus the State.

Stanford is the San Antonian who was ordered last December by the Subversive Activities Control Board in Washington to register as a Communist. He is appealing that order in another Court. The appeal Carr is working on in volves Stanford's protest that State officials illegally searched his house and took some 2,000 items, including personal effects, without lawful cause.

Stanford is being defended by attorneys for the American Civil Liberties Union.

HUNTING SEASON HINTS — Parks and Wildlife Department has prepared a new hunting digest. It includes a Texas hunting map which shows where to hunt what and when. The digest, available at most places where hunting licenses are issued, also is available, free, by writing the department in Austin.

Parks and Wildlife Department is advising hunters to fill out their deer tags carefully and attach securely to the deer killed.
