More than 30 volunteers appeared on the door step of 501 E. Austin St. Saturday, July 8, ready to work. The home was primed, completely repainted and various other repairs were made.

This sort of project was developed in Midland, TX more than 20 years ago when civic organizations and church

Farwell man injured at Excel

FRIONA — Santiago Lucio, 60, of Farwell suffered burns to 30 percent of his body in an explosion at Excel Corporation's beef processing plant near Friona about 8:15 p.m. Saturday.

His condition was upgraded from critical to serious condition at Lubbock's University Medical Center, where he was air-lifted Saturday after the explosion and treated in the burn intensive care unit.

Two others were injured in the explosion—Esau Barraza, 26, and Jose Valles, 21—both of Clovis, who also received burns. They are listed in satisfactory condition, according to hospital officials.

The explosion happened about 8:15 Saturday in the Excel plant's bone room, where natural gas is used in the process of drying bones for fertilizer and other industrial uses.

The bones apparently became hot enough to combust, plant officials said, although the U.S. Department of Labor, Occupational Safety and Health Administration will be investigating the blast.

The bone processing areas of the plant will remain closed indefinitely. Most of the 800 employees working Saturday night returned to work by 11 p.m., as other portions of the plant were unaffected.

The Excel plant is the largest employer in Parmer County, employing 1,600 people.

Muleshoe teacher wins contest

Muleshoe ISD teacher Alice Liles was among more than 400 of the Texas Classroom Teachers Association to hear a keynote address delivered by Texas' new Commissioner of Education Mike Moses, and to sharpen leadership skills at TCTA's 1995 Leadership Conference, held July 13 and 14 in Austin.

Liles is a past president of the Muleshoe Classroom Teachers Association and currently serves as district 17 director of TCTA. She attended the annual conference of TCTA, a professional association representing more than 31,000 classroom teachers throughout Texas.

Keynote speaker Dr. Mike Moses discussed the new Texas Education Code that was approved during the recent legislative session and answered questions from conference participants.

In addition to hearing his address, the local CTA leaders received an update on education-related changes made by the 74th Legislature, including home rule and other charter programs, discussed site-based decision making committees, and attended leadership training activities.

In addition, a six-hour seminar offered prior to the conference explored "how the brain functions." TCTA President Bertie Standley, of Silsbee, presided over the conference.

Muleshoe CTA won the statewide newsletter contest for the fourth consecutive year. The contest is held as an incentive to encourage local associations to keep their members informed about important news, events and information by writing newsletters. Liles, who produced the newsletters, was presented a

Texas farmers are using water more efficiently

LUBBOCK — Texas Farmers are irrigating fewer acres of cropland and adopting new methods which make more efficient use of water, a five-year study by scientists with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station her has found.

The study of the use of efficient irrigation systems was conducted by Dr. Eduardo Segarra, an associate professor of agriculture economics with the Experiment Station. He was assisted by Yinjie Feng, a doctoral student at Texas Tech.

"We started asking questions about what has been happening to irrigated agriculture in Texas first, and then we concentrated on the High Plains," said Segarra.

Current irrigated acreage in the state has decreased by 40 percent in the last 20 years. There are two reasons for this.

"In some places we are running out of water. In others, it is getting too expensive to get the water out. That is the big factor—the cost of getting the water out," explained Segarra.

Not only has the amount of irrigated acreage been reduced, but the ways that acreage has been irrigated has changed, too. There are several types of irrigation systems.

A Furrow irrigation system, which is not very sophisticated, has the lowest level of water application efficiency, somewhere around 40 or 50 percent.

"Out of every 100 gallons of water you get from the ground, you deliver 50 gallons to the crop. You lose 50 gallons somewhere else," said Segarra.

Muleshoe couple sues USDA rep.

Larry Kemp, 40, and Connie Kemp, 38, a Muleshoe couple, sued U.S. Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman in federal court Monday over a 15-year-old loan.

The Kemps are accusing the USDA agency of misapplying a 1980 note payment, then treating their paid notes as default.

According to a report Tuesday in the Amarillo Globe News, the lawsuit seeks no monetary damages but rather seeks to force a decision on the couple's application for loan restructuring through the Rural Economic and Community Development division.

A report in Tuesday's Lubbock Avalanche-Journal says the agency took loan payments made for notes with higher rates of interest and instead applied the payments to lower interest notes and less secure notes that were not due, according to the plaintiffs' complaints.

The lawsuit also names George Ellis, state director of RECD (formerly Farmers Home Administration, or

Bailey County budget hearing set for August 31

By Martha Toles Frost

Bailey County's budget hearing has been set for August 31 at 1p.m., with a time for public comment at 1:30p.m.

County Judge Marilyn Cox said a June 30th workshop helped familiarize county commissioners with the lengthy document, which is still in its planning stages.

Work and discussions are still going on, and no final decisions have been made, Cox said, as department heads are still presenting their needs to the Commissioners Court.

A copy of the proposed budget will be filed upstairs in the courthouse prior to the budget hearing so interested citizens can view the document and offer comments.

At the last meeting of the Commissioners Court on July 10, election judges and alternate judges for the following year were approved.

Citizens named as election judges and alternates are (VB

No. 1) Clara Lou Jones and Clara Harbin of Muleshoe; (VB No. 2) Ernest Ramm and Doyle King of Muleshoe; (VB No. 3) Archie (Joe) Sowder of Sudan and W.C. Eubanks of Maple; and (VB No. 4) Deborah Noble and David Wyer of Muleshoe.

Also named were (VB No. 5) J.C. Snitker and Wanda Layto of Morton; (VB No. 6) Ginger Damron of Sudan and Francis Ramos of Muleshoe; (VB No. 7) Frances Miramontes and Susie Howard of Muleshoe; and (early voting judge) Dorothy Wyer and Bette Cowan of Muleshoe.

The soil conservation contracts of Dale Nichols for $800 and Kent Morgan for $150 were approved in accordance with Section 201.151 of the Agriculture Code, Cox said.

The Commissioner Court accepted the bid of Morrison Oil Co. for county fuel purchase for a year and the bid of Dale Oil Co., Inc. for all "card" purchases.

The bid of Morrison Oil Co. was 81.2 cents per gallon for unleaded gasoline, 57.6 cents per gallon for low sulphur diesel and 57.2 cents per gallon for diesel fuel. Herman L. Morrison also offered to furnish equipment needed at each location.

The bid of Dale Oil for unleaded and diesel fuel was the company's cost plus 5 cents per gallon, with additives to all grades for better performance.

for July. "I really only expected to see six or eight volunteers show up, but we were overwhelmed with the response. It was wonderful, said Dr. Bell. "We plan to expand the project to renovate more homes next year and include the community and other churches," he said.

The work was all volunteered and many of supplies were donated by area businesses and individuals. One day's work can make a huge difference when enough people are involved.

There were four work teams doing yard work, carpentry, painting and enablement.

George Mitchell provided a pickup for the project, and Kristi's Plants donated two trees and four shrubs. Shafer Nursery contributed a honey locus tree, and Fry and Cox True Value offered a 20 percent discount on all the supplies used by the volunteers.

Lunch and snacks were prepared for the workers by Marvon Raef, Grace Prater, Arlene Phelps, Jean Allison, Maureen Hooten and Sally Ellis. Joyce Albertson opened her home as a headquarters for the volunteer group.

Young and old alike joined in the effort. Volunteers included Matt Phelps and Christina; Robert Shafer; John and

Kay Graves; Jinks and Rowena Myers; David and Liz Tippis; James and Lynn Bell; Royce

and Kay Harris; Peggy Buhrman; Lynne Box and Darren; Phil Gillespie; Robert Hooten; Laura Johnson; David Marricle and Amy; Linda and Audra Lee; Jack Rennels and Grayson and Payton; and Carol Cox and James.

FmHA) as a defendant.

A hearing in front of the USDA's National Appeals Division concluded that the agency had failed to act on the Kemps' application within the required 30 days.

Lubbock attorney Floyd Holder filed the lawsuit on behalf of the couple, who raise corn and cotton near Muleshoe. The Kemps have been current on their loan payments until two paid-off notes resurfaced as in default and the FmHA threatened to foreclose in July 1993, according to the lawsuit.

"Plaintiffs have faced apocalypse now for two calendar years and for three crop years because of an agency mistake," the lawsuit states.

Crops

Other systems include gated pipe, sprinkler high pressure, sprinkle low pressure and a low energy precision application (LEPA). The water application efficiency of all these systems is different. It can range from 70 percent with the gated pipe to 98 or 99 percent with the LEPA system.

Over time, the proportion of acres under the different systems has changed.

"We wanted to find out what should be the optimal level of adoption for these advanced irrigation systems," said Segarra.

Segarra and his team members set up a representative model for Lubbock County. They introduced a flexible dynamic optimization model that allowed a decision maker to adopt the most appropriate technology that would maximize profit out of six technologies.

A biosimulation model called EPIC was used to simulate production functions for the most important crops produced in Lubbock County. The model described the Ogallala Aquifer below Lubbock County and how the water level of the aquifer moves through time.

The cost of irrigation systems depend on the level of sophistication. Cost of a furrow irrigation system is very low. The operational cost includes the labor to make the ditches, to put the water in the ditches, and to divert it.

The cost of the LEPA irrigation system is high, around $45,000 for a 1/4 mile circle, but one person can operate it by flipping a switch. The other cost involved in irrigation is the water. Although people do not have to pay for the water, they do have to pay for the electricity used to pump the water out of the ground, and to put it out on the crop.

"If you have only 50 percent water application efficiency, that means that you have spent almost twice as much money to get water out as a person who has a 98 percent water application efficiency," said Segarra.

Gary Dale of Dale Oil Co. informed the Commissioners court that the price per gallon would increase or decrease according to the tank wagon cost at the time of delivery.

Departmental reports were presented from the ambulance service, tax appraisal district and sheriff's department.

At a special session on June 30, as part of the county's goal of replacing one vehicle per year, the Commissioners Court approved the purchase—in this budget year—of a new 1994 Ford deputy's car for the sheriff's department from Houston/Galveston Area Council of Governments

Purchasing a new 1994 vehicle will cost $2,000 less than buying a new 1995 vehicle, Cox said.

In other business at the special session, right-of-way easements were granted in precincts No. 1 and No. 4 to Five Area Telephone Cooperative to bury telephone cable.

County Clerk Billie Downing said the Commissioner's Court meets in regular session at 10 a.m. on the first floor of the courthouse on second Mondays and normally holds a special session on the last working day of each month.

Commentary

Phillip Morris and tobacco industry critics agree on one thing, at least — kids should not smoke.

In fact, Phillip Morris has already voluntarily undertaken a sweeping initiative to prevent minor's access to cigarettes. Our initiative, which we call Action Against Access, had ten major elements that will go a long way toward ensuring that the only way to acquire cigarette legally will be in a face-to-face transaction, where proof of age can be checked in person.

In addition to Phillip Morris' own actions such as discontinuance of sampling, we are supporting state legislation to restrict vending sales and to require retailer licensing. And it is, in fact, the states to which Congress has given responsibility for curbing youth access.

With this sort of tough action, and the involvement of parents, teachers and others to convince minors not to smoke, we can make great progress in keeping kids away from cigarettes, and cigarettes away from kids.

As committed as Phillip Morris is to preventing youth access to cigarettes, we are equally committed to ensuring that adult smokers can continue to purchase cigarettes in a free marketplace. That free marketplace includes the right of manufacturers to get information to smokers, including advertising and promotional activities that allow us to help maintain brand loyalty and to persuade adult smokers to switch to our brands.

As to regulation of cigarettes by the food and drug Administration, there is a simple answer: The FDA has no authority to regulate cigarettes. Both Congress and the FDA, itself, have repeatedly and consistently stated that the FDA has no such authority, a position that the courts have upheld.

At a time when Congress is responding to the message of last year's election by trying to shrink the size of the federal government, commissioner Kessler, an unelected federal regulator, is trying to expand the role of his agency into an area Congress has reserved to others.

Commissioner Kessler's continuing crusade against the tobacco industry also raises serious questions about FDA priorities and its management burden while it is being scrutinized for its management of scarce tax dollars.

Should the FDA be attempting to add to its regulatory burden while it is being scrutinized for its inability to meet its current obligations to approve new life-saving drugs and medical devices and ensure the continued safety of the food supply?

The manufacture, sale and use of cigarettes are already highly regulated — and taxed — by federal, state and local governments. In fact, the U.S. Congress has reserved to itself the major decisions regarding tobacco regulation and had empowered a number of federal agencies — but not the FDA — to regulate the industry.

Commissioner Kessler apparently has a secret plan to impose more and more government regulation from Washington — regulations that go far beyond youth smoking and strike at the heart of the right of adults to make decisions for themselves. Phillip Morris will vigorously oppose such efforts.

New Texas propane directory helps travelers find fuel

Travelers who drive propane-powered vehicles or use propane appliances in the RVs now have unparalleled access to their chosen fuel, thanks to the Texas Railroad Commission. The commission's newly updated directory lists 910 Texas businesses that refuel vehicles with propane and 1,026 that refill bottles and tanks.

The 142-Page 1995 Texas Propane Services Directory lists outlets for all propane services, not just motor vehicle refueling. It is organized alphabetically by city, with a key showing which services each business offers. A total of 1,228 listed locations offer services such as home fuel delivery, car and truck refueling, engine conversions, and cylinder and bottle refilling for propane grills and recreational vehicles.

Copies of the directory are available free at any of the Texas Department of Transportation's 12 Travel Information Centers statewide and by request from the Railroad Commission's Alternative Fuels Research and Education Division.

Propane is the most widely used alternative fuel in Texas, the United States, and the world. Texas produces and uses more propane than any other state. Besides a half-million residential customers, about 35,000 Texas vehicles use propane. There are about 400,000 propane-powered vehicles nationwide and 4 million worldwide.

For further information on the directory or propane as an environmentally beneficial alternative fuel, call the Railroad Commission's toll-free propane information line (800/64-CLEAR).

Food-borne illnesses caused from unsanitary food preparation

HOUSTON — To prevent food-borne illnesses from ruining picnics this summer, remember three simple rules: keep it clean, keep it cold and keep it covered.

"Most cases of food poisoning are caused by careless food preparation, storage and serving," said Dr. Corinne Montandon, a nutritionist at the USDA's Children's Nutrition Research Center and an assistant professor of pediatrics at Baylor College of Medicine.

Montandon believes that safe food handling begins with a clean work area and clean hands.

"As you prepare your family's picnic favorites, be sure that countertops, cutting boards and all the utensils that touch the foods are clean," she said.

"Always wash hands with warm soapy water before preparing packing and serving foods, and take along disposable hand wipes in case there is no running water at the picnic site."

According to Montandon, bacteria multiplies quickly in foods left at room temperature, so refrigerate foods soon after preparation.

Some foods are more susceptible to bacterial growth than others. Foods that require special attention include meat, poultry, fish, shellfish, meat-and-seafood salads, potato salad, milk products, eggs, cream pies and custards.

To keep foods cold for the picnic, place them in an insulated cooler or ice chest and cover with ice or commercial ice packets. If possible, travel with the cooler inside the car instead of the trunk. Once you reach the picnic site, place the cooler in the shade and open it only when necessary.

"Children love to make repeat visits to the ice chest for juice, sodas or pieces of ice. It's a good idea to bring along an extra cooler just for drinks," Montandon said.

Before you spread the table cloth and set out the food, Montandon recommends an inspection of the area. Make sure the spot is not a haven for birds, squirrels, flies or other unwanted guests that might contaminate foods. As an extra precaution, cover foods with plastic wrap before and after they are served.

If someone becomes ill, give him or her plenty of fluids to prevent dehydration. If you suspect a food-borne illness, contact your physician as quickly as possible.

Jacki Hart, Cummings exchange vows in candlelight ceremony

Jacki Hart and Mark Cummings, both of Lubbock, were united in marriage Saturday, July 15, at the First Baptist Church, with Mark Julian officiating.

Jacki is the daughter of Stephen and Debra Hart of Lubbock and Mark is the son of Jim and Jan Cummings of San Antonio, formerly of Lubbock.

Karey Salyer served as maid of honor and Mark Belcher was best man.

Jacki wore a long white satin gown with a cathedral length train. The gown and train were embellished with pearls and sequins in the shape of hearts. She wore a poff veil which was also embellished with pearls and sequins. Her shoes were satin adorned with sequins and pearls.

The groom wore a black tux with tails and a white satin vest.

As something old, the bride wore a pearl necklace given to her by her great-grandmother, Mrs. Pearl Cox. Her dress was something new. Something borrowed was her mother's gold bracelet, and something blue was her garter.

Larry Landusky, Michael Hardy and Elizabeth Geary provided the music.

The bridesmaids included Jeannie Cox and Hillary Aylesworth, cousins of the bride; Monica Magallanes, Elisa Ewing, and Meredith Neal; Marcie Cummings, sister of the groom; and Javon Thigpen.

The groomsmen were Paul Cummings, brother of the groom, Wade Taylor, Brian Rumpy, Steve Stringer, Jason Archinal, Brian Barnett and Jarret Borchers.

Ushers were Nathan Hart, brother of the bride, Stephen Kirkpatrick, James Cox, and Justin Aylesworth, cousins of the bride. Flower girls were Asia Dean and LuAnn Terry, cousin of the bride. The ring bearer was Jeremy Terry, cousin of the bride.

Members of the houseparty were Marsha Lindenmeier, Marcie Johnston, Kandi Williamson and Laura Kirkpatrick.

The reception was held in the lower auditorium of the First Baptist Church. Sandra Castro, Sheryl Nicholls, Missy Kuykendall, Kristian, Eustace and Carol Johnston, Marla Cummings, sister-in-law of the groom, Kelly Kurpatrick, Shannon Stanley and Whitney Taylor served cake, punch, nuts, and mints, from crystal appointments.

Jacki is a graduate of Monterey High School in Lubbock and attends Texas Tech, majoring in early childhood education. She is currently employed at the First Baptist Church as the secretary for the minister of recreation.

Mark is a graduate of Coronado High School in Lubbock. He also attends Texas

Mrs. Mark Cummings

Tech, majoring in restaurant, hotel, institution management. He is currently employed at Applebees Restaurant.

After a wedding trip to Seattle, WA, the couple will make their home in Lubbock.

liams. Also attending were Ed and Carol Cox, cousins of the bride.

count a lick if you were a bare-back man. "That's child's play," they'd sneer and say, "The only game there is to play is saddle broncs, 'cause tha't the way it is in ol' Montan'.

"To slap yer hide on a bare-back snide ain't nothin' but a dishrag ride. A good cowboy just can't abide floppin' around that way. Ridin' bronc's, an eagle's wing, a prehistoric reckoning, a panther's pulse about to spring, a buckin' horse ballet.

"Like skippin' rocks or tickin' clocks, an army tank with Mustang shocks, a magnum load with the hammer cocked, a moment caught in time. Suspended there, this purist pair with Casey-Necktie saviour faire, two poets in an easy chair, makin' ridin' rhyme.

"And I'll make a stand that a good one can ride through a storm in ol' Cheyenne, a champagne glass in the hack rein hand and never spill a drop. 'Cause he's a strain of the old time chain, who'd ear'em down, grab a hank of mane, then swing aboard the hurricane and ride'm till he stopped.

"So, how 'bout you? You forked a few?" He meant to let me parlez voo and prove for true I'd been there, too whenever the flank man pulls. I said, "Oh, well, I rode a spell," but I figgered the Hell's Creek clientele would rather I kept it to myself, 'cause hell, I used to ride bulls."

Better Business Bureau Report

By Nan Campbell

The devastation caused by the Oklahoma City bombing brings out the best in most Americans — the desire to help victims. Unfortunately, such disasters also bring out the worst in a few — greed and a desire to profit from the suffering of others. The BBB urges donors to use their heads as well as their hearts when making contributions to disaster relief charities.

Donors should be wary of appeals that dwell on the Oklahoma City tragedy but do not specify how donations will be used. Remember, the sufferings of disaster victims do not disappear when the headlines do.

Take extra time to make an informed decision about which charities to support. Before giving, ask questions about the charities' purposes, programs, and finances and ask for literature that describes what relief activities are planned. For a free copy of "Tips On Oklahoma Relief Appeals" call your BBB at (806) 763-0459 or long distance at (800) 687-7890.

Mozart On Tour

Two centuries after the death of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart (1756-1791), his life and genius continue to intrigue music fans and historians alike. Mozart On Tour, in thirteen one hour programs, is an insightful series that looks at the influences and musical development of the celebrated composer.

Filmed on-location in London, Mantua, Salzburg, Vienna, Prague, and Munich, Mozart On Tour tells the story of Mozart's extraordinary life. Distinguished musician Andre Previn is host for the series.

Mozart On Tour also traces musical milestones of the composer's career through performances of excerpts from his work in locations which were significant to Mozart's life. These concerts feature a fine array of world-renowned musicians including Previn, Vladimir Ashkenazy, Radu Lupu, Mitsuko Uchida, Homero Francesch, and Malcolm Frager, performing in palaces and concert halls where Mozart himself performed.

In 1791, Mozart's last year of life, he was extremely prolific. He wrote the famous and beloved opera The Magic Flute, and his Piano Concerto No. 27 in B flat Major. Mozart On Tour concludes with the complete performance of Mozart's Piano Concerto in B flat Major, K. 595, with soloist Aleksandar Madzar and the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra under the direction of Maestro Previn. The concert was filmed at Schonbrunn Palace, near Vienna, where Mozart first performed as a child prodigy for Empress Maria Theresa and her family.

Mozart On Tour will be broadcast Sundays at 11:00 p.m. beginning July 23rd.

Live from Lincoln Center
"Mostly Mozart Opening Concert"

Broadcast live from Avery Fisher Hall, the telecast features performances from two of the music world's most important artists of their generations — septuagenarian pianist Alicia de Larrocha and 24-year-old violinist Gil Shaham. The guest artists perform with the Mostly Mozart Orchestra conducted by Gerard Schwarz, who is celebrating his 11th season as its music director. "Mostly Mozart Opening Concert" features a festive program of works not only by Mozart, but by Mendelssohn, Handel, and Kreisler, as well. Hugh Downs hosts.

The "Mostly Mozart Opening Concert" includes Mozart's Piano Concerto No. 27 in B Flat, K. 595, and the Symphony No. 39 in E Flat, K. 543; Handel's Water Music; Mendelssohn's Scherzo from Octet in E Flat, and the Kreisler Violin Concerto in the style of Vivaldi.

Pre-trip planning helps when taking long summer drives

Trooper Baiza, Public Information Officer for the Texas Department of Public Safety advises that summer driving too often combines hot weather, hot cars and hot tempers. Pre-trip planning can help minimize these dangerous symptoms of summer driving.

Pre-trip planning includes vehicle preparation. Check the belts, hoses, and coolant fluid. Other fluids to check are motor oil, transmission oil, brake fluid, power steering fluid and windshield washer fluid. You should also check the wiper blades.

With summer often being dry and dusty, be sure to check the air, oil and fuel filters to preserve engine life. Also, check your tires for correct and even air pressure, along with checking treadwear and sidewall cracking.

Lengthy trips should begin with route planning. A call to your nearby Department of Transportation or law enforcement agency may help you avoid construction area delays.

Let a neighbor, friend, or family member (one not travelling with you) know your determined routes and scheduling.

Part of the scheduling may include driving during cooler hours and resting your car and yourself during peak hours of heat.

"Now," Baiza says, "prepare yourself." Take proper clothing should you be exposed to extended heat, and use quality sunglasses. Most of all, have a safe travel attitude before you even grasp the car key. This safe travel attitude (being alert, courteous, and wary) is your key to safe summer traveling.

Women may often avoid incontinence

HOUSTON — Elderly women who fear spending their golden years in diapers should know that there is help in avoiding such a fate.

Million of elderly people in the U.S. and Canada suffer from urinary incontinence, and more than 80 percent of them are women.

"To help older women avoid diapers, it is important that they know what kind of incontinence they have and what remedies are available to them," said Dr. Timothy B. Boone, a urologist at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston. "They also need to know that acting early can make a big difference."

There are two kinds of incontinence that strike older women, Boone said: stress incontinence and urge incontinence.

Urge incontinence occurs when the bladder muscle "misfires," causing urine to be expelled unexpectedly. Urge incontinence can be controlled with medication and/or bladder training with biofeedback and does not require surgery, Boone said.

"A lot of older women put themselves in diapers," he said, "without realizing that their urge incontinence will respond to medicine or behavioral training."

Stress incontinence occurs when age weakens the supporting structures of the bladder, allowing the bladder to drop into the front of the vagina. The resulting loss of control causes urine to be leaked when any sort of stress is applied to the bladder. The stress can be lifting, laughing or coughing, Boone said.

Stress incontinence is usually relieved in one of four ways:

- Properly performed Kegel exercises, used by women after childbirth, can improve bladder support in half the incontinent older women.
- Physician-prescribed medicine can improve the ability of the urethra to stay closed in a small percentage of patients.
- Injections of collagen, a day-surgery procedure, can help restore proper support to the urethra.
- A surgeon can lift the urethra back to its normal position in a procedure that requires two to five days of hospitalization.
