The senator also insisted that he has still not made up his mind on whether to support the treaty, which is expected to be signed within the next few weeks.

"The administration should not count me in and nobody else should count me out," Byrd said, adding later: "I am not the administration's man in this Senate. Byrd, whose opposition would be dev-astating to administration chances of gaining the needed two-thirds vote for Senate ratification, said the key questions about the treaty are its net effect on U.S. security and the government's ability to Byrd said he has several specific concerns about the treaty that he will discuss with the administration, but he declined to give details.

The senator said he has heard that the treaty might be initialed within the next two weeks, but said he did not expect it to be sent to the Senate in May.

He then told reporters to "forget what you have heard from political pundits" about action on SALT II being delayed until next year.

"There's no reason why the Senate can't complete action on the treaty this year," Byrd said.

He said he would favor holding hear-ings through the July recess and keeping the Senate in session past October if nec-essary to complete work on the pact. Some Republican presidential hopefuls are also said to view the SALT II treaty as a profitable 1980 campaign issue if Senate action is delayed until next year.

On other topics, Byrd said:

— The Senate will approve a "windfall profits" tax on excess oil industry earnings resulting from the president's decision to decontrol domestic oil prices. However, he added that the bill "won't necessarily so the president's muste" necessarily go the president's route.

The administration should review its position on the economic embargo of Rhodesia following election of a black prime minister. "International observers felt it was a relatively good election,"

— He opposes congressional passage of stand-by mandatory wage and price con-trols "at this point."

Short Concerned Little Tax Relief In Prospect

By SYLVIA TEAGUE

Avalanche-Journal Staff
UNLESS THE legislature reimburses all local governments for revenues lost under the "Tax Relief Amendment" approved by voters last year, Texans will get little relief from property taxes, state Sen. E.L. Short of Tahoka says.

"I'm very concerned it's not going to be pure tax relief which goes through the legislature." Short said, admitting his colleagues probably will pass a bill labeled "tax relief" which is "in effect not

"I fear the whole tax relief idea," he

Finale Due Today For Festival

A-J Entertainment Editor

THOUSANDS of Lubbock and area residents have already passed through the Lubbock Civic Center the past two days to participate in the city's first Arts Festival, and even more are expected for the final six hours of the festival from noon to 6 p.m. today. Local elementary schools bused students to the Civic Center on Friday to participate, and artists from as far away as Ohio have joined those exhibiting their works.

The Wichita Falls Arts Festival had to be cancelled due to the recent tornado, yet its artists were all allowed to participate in the Lubbock Arts Festival.

In short, the purpose of the Lubbock Arts Festival, to bring the visual and performing arts to the masses, has most likely already been realized. West Texans have discovered that the arts don't have to be stuffy or aimed toward cliques; this festival has made the arts nothing short of fun and acceptable to the masses.

Children have been allowed to create, not just watch. And by offering a variety of performances, all with no admission charge, in the same general area, the horizons of festival visitors should in no way remain limited.

Indeed, one can only look at the success of the past two days and see the Arts Fessaid, adding the bill passed by the House is "subterfuge."

Short is concerned because the House bill implementing the constitutional amendment removes property from local taxing rolls and mandates exemptions, but provides funds only to reimburse school districts for the lost revenues.

"It says schools will be reimbursed, but doesn't say how long," Short said, and there is "no reimbursement for the loss of tax dollars to any other taxing authori-

If passed by the Senate, the bill would exempt two cars per family from proper-ty taxes, provide homestead exemptions for the disabled, persons 65 and older, and those who own their own home and require agricultural land to be taxed on its productive value rather than market

City of Lubbock officials have estimated those provisions will reduce city revenues by about $1 million - equal to eight cents on the tax rate.

"What are the taxing authorities going to do for funds?" Short asked. "I have no solution, but I'm very concerned it's not going to be pure tax relief which goes through the legislature because the state is not being responsible.

"Very Serious Matter" "It's a very serious matter we need to

By reimbursing only school districts, Short said school property taxes could be reduced. However, the same taxpayers may have to pay correspondingly higher taxes to counties, cities and hospital districts to cover the loss of revenues under the Tax Relief Amendment.

"To keep current services," local taxing authorities may have to raise taxes, Short said. If the financially-strapped Lubbock County Hospital District "starts exempting property, homes and cars, it will further put it in worse condition than it is " he said

"I'm pretty much for the state reimbursing the loss of tax dollars which is as close to pure tax relief as we're likely to be," Short said.

Require Reimbursement
Two bills he introduced related to the Tax Relief Amendment required "all losses shall be reimbursed by the state," Short said. However, he said he doesn't "see any hope of the legislature reimbursing" local taxing authorities for their lost reve-

Rep. Froy Salinas of Lubbock said he's "always been an advocate of reimburse-ment to school districts," but said reimbursing other taxing authorities would create "havoc.

"I don't think you could get that by at all," Salinas said. "It's a little easier" to reimburse school districts for their lost revenue, Salinas said, because it can be based on enrollments and average per daily attend-

Called Equitable

That is a "pretty equitable way" of reimbursing the districts. But attempting to reimburse cities would create mass confusion because of the unequal appraisal of property throughout the state,

The revenue lost from a $10,000 exemption might vary from Houston to Lubbock, he said.

Rep. Nolan "Buzz" Robnett of Lubbock said he is "really pleased with what we've done," and said the House enacted what the "voters clearly said they want-

However, he said passage of the enabling legislation "may force (local governments) to look in other areas" for funds and "force the state government into more efficiency."

"I don't know if it's going to force any efficiency," he said. Robnett said he would favor reimbursing other taxing authorities "if the money is there to reimburse," but said, "the money's got to come from somewhere."

But, suggesting changes in the enabling legisltion is a "moot point now since the House already passed the bill," he said. Short said a similar dilemma is brewing over efforts to repeal the state's 10-cent See SHORT Page 14

Chill Fails To Dim Wills Day

By JOHNNY HOLMES

Avalanche-Journal Staff
TURKEY — In the hearts and minds of all those who flocked to his home town, all those who flocked to his home town, Bob Wills still may be the king. But an unexpected invasion of frosty weather ran a close second at Saturday's eighth annual Bob Wills Day celebration here.

Temperatures in the low 50s, cooled by a relentless cloud cover and sharp north wind, kept the approximately 3,000 persons in attendance shivering from the opening of the morning parade through the final two-step at the evening's western dance.

But, as always, the festivities were suc-cessful because of the hardiness and opti-mism of those who come from all over West Texas. The crowd, kept small by the chill and a consistent threat of rain that never materialized, came together not so convenient thrills but as people enjoying a leisurely day of activities in memory of Turkey's most famous native son. The highlight of the celebration came about midafternoon with the announcement of the filming of Wills life story by producer-director Jim Guercio, the man who made the film "Electraglide In Blue" and has produced many albums by the rock group Chicago.

In an exclusive interview before the announcement, the diminutive Guercio told The Avalanche-Journal he hoped to begin production on the film (which will be shot in Texas and Oklahoma) in late fall, after a suitable screenplay can be drawn from Wills' biography, written by Dr. Charles Townsend of West Texas State

The chilly day began at 10:30 a.m. with a parade, small-town in scope but bighearted in intention, down Turkey's concrete Main Street. The festival's early arrivals lined the street, sitting on the curb in front of the Old Chicago brick post off-See COLD WIND Page 14

Weekend Gas Shortages Surface

By The Associated Press

Stations in some metropolitan areas across the United States closed for lack of fuel this weekend and many on busy toll

But a few station operators wondered what the fuss was about.

Availability of fuel ranged from scarce in the San Francisco Bay area to no reports of any problems in Kansas, South Dakota and Utah.

Because of the turmoil which cut oil production in Iran, and other delivery problems, oil companies have limited their dealers to a fixed percentage of the amount of fuel they received in 1978. And at the same time that supplies are tight; demand is rising.

Shortages were more apparent this weekend than earlier in the month because most stations had reached the bottom of their April allotments, and May's supplies - which some said would be even tighter - were not due to be delivered until mid-week.

Gasoline was reported scarce in the San Francisco Bay area, with many stations already displaying "No Gas" signs on Friday, and lines at some were so long motorists had to wait 45 minutes for gas.

Mark Gerstle, a spokesman for the Cal-ifornia State Automobile Association, estimated that by noon Saturday, 50 percent to 75 percent of the stations in metropolitan areas such as San Francisco and Los Angeles were closed.

But Gerstle said gasoline would be available even on Sunday at truck stops along Interstate 5, California's main north-south route.

The California Highway Patrol asked motorists to stop calling to ask which gas stations were open. Troopers said they didn't know.

Officials in the state of Washington said there would be plenty of weekend supplies along major highways. But Bill Victory, president of the Evergreen Service Station Association, whose 700 members sell about 8 percent of the state's gasoline, said about 70 percent of the stations in Seattle and Spokane would be closed for the weekend.

temperatures

Victory predicted the month's-end shortages would be worse in May, when many Washington dealers would receive only 85 percent of the allotment they got in May last year

"Right now is the toughest time of the month," said Rudy Molnar, president of the Pennsylvania Service Station Dealers Association, who said 60 percent to 70 percent of the stations around Pittsburgh would be closed Sunday. Like Victory, he added, "by all indications, it's even going to be tighter Memorial Day weekend .

And in Minneapolis, station operator Bert Stevens said his May allotment from from last year's level. "I think you'll see short hours on Saturday, a good percentage of the stations closed on Sunday and a lot of stations out of gas on Monday," said Lee Lauer, executive director of the Service Station Dealers Association of Missouri. "You'll see short hours on Monday too, since that's the last day of the month."

The Minnesota Service Stations Association and commercial groups in tourist areas of California were urging station operators to close on weekdays to conserve supplies for weekend tourists. In the Southeast, Florida AAA spokesman Dan Millott said several stations along the Florida Turnpike had limited purchases to $2, $3 or $5 per customer, although many were able to raise the limit by the weekend.

Five-dollar limits were in effect at stations along the Pennsylvania Turnpike. No stations were reported out of gas along the Turnpike, but Tom Anderson of that state's Service Station Dealers Association said 10 percent of the state's stations had to close until May 1.

Along New Jersey's Garden State Parkway, touted as the "nation's busiest toll road," Exxon stations limited purchases to $5 per car. Stations along the New Jersey Turnpike limited sales to $6 and $7.

This is probably the worst month we hit so far," said Jack Gleason, Shell Oil Co.'s district manager in Missouri. "I would estimate that 25 percent of our stations in the St. Louis metropolitan area may be out (of unleaded gasoline) now."

There was little problem in the New York City area, but AAA spokesman Pete Hahan said some stations had closed last week to save gasoline for this week, when a gasoline deliverers' strike is threat-

Law States Pregnancy Now Rated 'Like Any Other Disability'

WASHINGTON (AP) - Starting Sunday, pregnancy must be treated like any other disability for the nation's nearly 40 million working women.

The new federal law forbids discrimination by employers against pregnant employees.

The law can mean hundreds of extra dollars for a pregnant employee and millions of dollars in higher costs for Ameri-

WEATHER FORECAST - The National Weather Service predicts rain and showers today in an arc from Oregon south into Texas and north up the Mississippi Valley to the Great Lakes. Rain and showers are also predicted in Maine,

New Hampshire and Vermont. Snow is expected for northern Minnesota. (AP

And it means that if a company's health insurance covers 80 percent of a male employee's bill for the back problem, the insurance must also pay 80 percent of the medical bills for a female employee's pregnancy, says the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, the agency charged with enforcing the law.

The law — designed to reverse a 1976 Supreme Court ruling - has already triggered changes at some of the nation's biggest corporations. For example, General Motors, American Telephone Telegraph and General Electric have modified disability, insurance, sick leave and other policies as needed to conform with

But at other companies, nothing will change. International Business Machines wiped out differing treatment of pregnancy in its benefit plans three years ago, says spokeswoman Susan Eldred. A spokesman for Citibank in New York says rules adopted in 1975 are in compliance with the law. And a spokesman for Exxon Corp. said that company made the change in 1972.

The immediate impetus for the new law came from a 1976 U.S. Supreme Court ruling which held that General Electric didn't have to pay disability benefits to pregnant employees. The court said such a difference in treatment was an acceptable one based on gender.

But the justices said that Congress could change the situation if it desired. And Congress did.

The Pregnancy Discrimination Act was passed in late October and signed into law by President Carter on Oct. 31, 1978. The act, technically an amendment to the Civil Rights Act of 1964, goes beyond just overturning the court ruling. It bans all discrimination in employment based on pregnancy, childbirth or complications arising from either.

This broader effect, the EEOC says, seen by some observers as a group that is health insurance payments for maternity with other major medical bill payments. In the past, many companies paid a flat amount for maternity expenses - no matter what the actual doctors' and hospital fees — while paying 80 percent of other major medical bills. The EEOC says the law means companies will have to pay maternity bills at the same rate as other medical costs.

This can mean health insurance will pay hundreds of additional dollars in maternity costs that employees have in the past had to pay out of their own pockets.

It is impossible to relate the new ma-ternity benefits to the billions of dollars spent each year for medical and disability enefits, because the new law will spark changes at different companies.

C Pulls Teeth On Dentists' No Advertising Rule

WASHINGTON (AP) - The nation's dentists were freed Saturday from remaining ethical restrictions on advertising, a move federal officials expect to lead to lower dental bills.

The Federal Trade Commission announced the agreement with the American Dental Association to end a two-yearold antitrust case attacking ethical standards that allegedly kept up dental bills.

Dr. Joseph P. Cappuccio, president of the ADA, said the settlement with the FTC will not "require a major overhaul of the association's current policy on dentist advertising."

Dr. Cappuccio said the association's ethical code "already permits dentists to advertise truthfully their services and fees for routine procedures."

However, the letters to nearly all of the nation's dentists could lead additional dentists to drop their traditional reluctance to advertise. As in other professions, many dentists fear that advertising can turn into misleading salesmanship that may be in poor taste.

Consumer advocates disagree, saying the ads allow consumers to shop for professional services the same way they shop for specials at grocery stores.

While virtually all physicians continue to resist price advertising, dentists are

Welfare Checks Late In Coming

By RHONA SCHWARTZ
Avalanche-Journal Staff
Welfare checks may be delayed in reaching some South Plains recipients this week because of computer problems in Austin.

Lubbock welfare workers have been working extra hours and on weekends to manually authorize food stamp and public assistance checks, and a spokesman for the Lubbock Department of Human Resources office expects only 100 food stamp checks in the surrounding 40-county region to be delayed.

Mylinda Walker, public information officer for the Lubbock Department of Human Resources, said the delayed checks will be issued Friday instead of Tuesday.

Assistance checks usually are handled by a $17 million Univac computer in Austin, but it has been plagued with operational problems since it began work March 1. affecting the work in welfare offices statewide

Those certifications which were rejected by the computer and which need to be corrected by employees are the ones which will be delayed in the 40-county region which includes Lubbock, Miss Walker said.

Not nearly as many checks will be delayed as we anticipated two weeks ago," Miss Walker said, "then the agency was in a real panic over payments to nursing homes and vendors."

We have had a lot of problems with the forms being rejected by the computer and we're not sure if it's the equipment or the programmer," she said. "We don't know if the people in Austin don't know or if they won't

"The computer has a lot of down time, or periods in which it stops functioning," Miss Walker said. "During this time we can't get anything in it or anything out of

This response apparently is activated when the com-puter is overloaded, a problem which was predicted up to six months ago by Department of Human Resources data programmers, according to reports in the Corpus Christi Caller Times newspaper. State programmers now claim the computer is obsolete and too small to handle the information on the more than 2 million Texas welfare recipients. One programmer told the Corpus Christi paper the computer last week had a backlog of 30,000 welfare applications requiring corrections.

'This week we're sending some of our people to Austin to correct our errors right there," Miss Walker said. Other public assistance applications are being sent there, as well, to speed up the process hampered by the overloaded computer.

The computer problem now is not as severe as it was before, according to Dave England, the department's deputy commissioner for data systems.

the monthly checks on the new computer system "and they are now being stuffed into envelopes to be mailed Monday or Tuesday.

England earlier acknowledged the computer's high error rate, but told the Corpus Christi paper many of the errors stem from local welfare workers being unfamiliar with the new computer form.

John Musgrove, special assistant for information systems, said last week that in addition to application errors, the computer at one point reached a backlog which he believed was close to 100,000 applications.

England stressed, however, that although the system is not without problems, the checks are printed and will be issued on time.

There is "a lot of negative comments and feelings within the agency," regarding the computer's frequent shutdowns, Miss Walker said, although Lubbock's region is second in percentage of forms which were going hrough satisfactorily.

"We did an audit in batches (1,000 warrants in each), of maybe 200,000 or so," she said, "and of them 35 batches had errors. "The numbers were no more than we generally find in any run we make and we are not concerned that our error rate is out of proportion for an area this size.'

The department expects to have things ironed out by the first week of May, Miss Walker said.

England said in an interview Friday his office printed "No one is going to miss a check," she added. Group Focuses On White Collar Crime

Med Student Chooses 'Happy Part Of Medicine'

By RUTHANNE BROCKWAY Avalanche-Journal Staff

When Mark Dorsett was a boy, growing up on a farm in a small community near Lubbock, he told his opthalmologist he wanted to be either a farmer or a doctor.

He wasn't sure what kind of medicine he wanted to study, but he announced firmly at age 4 that he didn't want to have anything to do with pregnant wom-

Today, he is a senior medical student at Texas Tech University School of Medicine and, despite his childhood announcement, plans to enter the field of gynecology and obstetrics following his residency this summer.

"It's the happy part of medicine," he said, explaining jokingly that pregnancy is easy to "cure" - normally the patient just waits nine months.

"The patients are healthy. The women have their babies and go home happy. You get some bad results but not all that often. There's some cancer, but not much. It's more of a happy speciality,"

For the past month, Dorsett has spent his preceptorship — a training period — working with Dr. Noah Stone of the Avalanche-Journal Staff Lubbock travelers will have a new way to get to Amarillo and Midland-Odessa beginning Tuesday, when Permian Airways begins operations here.

The new Odessa-based commuter carrier will sport two roundtrip flights from Lubbock to Midland-Odessa and Amarillo daily, according to John Andrews, an executive with the airline.

Permian Airways was founded just weeks ago by a group of pilots concerned over the lack of air transportation between the three cities, Andrews said.

'We know there's an awful lot of traffic between these cities," he said. "But you can waste all day just driving back and forth between them. You need to be able to fly directly to get any business done."

The carrier, which will fly a nine-passenger Piper Navajo, will operate in conjunction with Braniff International at Lubbock International Airport and will board at Gate 5.

Permian becomes the third commuter carrier to serve the city. Crown Aviation currently flies between Clovis and Lubbock, and Air Midwest connects Lubbock to a network of cities in Kansas, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

As an intrastate carrier, Permian is under the jurisdiction of the Texas Aeronautics Commission and is in no way connected with a recent Civil Aeronautics Board show-cause order which sparked the application of three major airlines to fly into Lubbock. The CAB has yet to decide on the future of those airlines -Frontier, Ozark and North Central - and possible service to the city

And his philosophy of the best medi-cine includes births in the delivery room with good lighting. Soft lighting, he said, "takes medicine

Those with lung cancer who continue to smoke cigarettes are another frustration, he said.

During his preceptorship, Dorsett saw patients ranging in age from infancy to 94 suffering from such illnesses as a sore throat to heart failure.

"The best part about it (the preceptorship) was seeing how doctors do it in real life - not in an academic environment.' he said

Dr. Stone, who supervised Dorsett's duties in Brownfield, noted that the preceptorship program is designed to expose medical students to the day-to-day practice of medicine and to encourage more students to enter family medicine.

He has worked with several other medical students in preceptorships, but so far he said, "Most end up in some speciality, everything from radiology to obstetrics.' Stone's own medical training, however, was an example of how a preceptorship can influence a student's choice of medicine after graduation. He attended the University of Texas

Medical Branch at Galveston and as a preceptor, he did three months of family edicine practice in a rural community The experience helped him to decide family practice was for him.

"I liked dealing with the entire family," he said. "And I like that they are my friends as well as my patients." A study by the U.S. Department of Health. Education and Welfare on the influence of preceptorships on physicians' career choices indicates that students from rural areas or small towns are more likely than others to enter family medicine and practice in a small town.

Stone grew up in Post and now prac-towns of less than 10,000 population.

Dorsett grew up in the community of Slide, a place he described as so small that "even some people in Lubbock haven't heard of it."

Between Dorsett's freshman and soph omore years as an undergraduate at Tex-as Tech, the family's farm had a bad crop year and it helped him to decide against farming as a career.

Although he would have entered medical school somewhere else, if Lubbock hadn't had such a facility, he noted, "I'm awful glad there was one in Lubbock." Dorsett is close to his family and he didn't want to move away from the area

if he didn't have to. While seeing a range of patients with a variety of ills was interesting for a fourweek period, the frustrations of family practice illustrated to Dorsett that he still prefers to concentrate on obstetrics and gynecology. "Children can't tell you what's wrong," he said, and unconscious patients in the emergency room can't either. Patients with terminal illnesses are frustrating, he said because no matter what the doctor does it's only a matter of time before the patient dies.

Death of a patient can have a major impact on a doctor, Dorsett said, explaining that sometimes doctors feel they have lost a battle and death was the victor.

Slide is too small to support medical facilities of its own, he said, but he does intend to stay in the area when he begins his own practice.

Even his residency won't take him away from the area. He will be a resident at Health Sciences Center Hospital, and after that he said, "I want to practice in a place no bigger than Lubbock and within

Local Viewers Turned Off To TV Ratings Race

By PAULA TILKER
Avalanche Journal Staff
A new ratings book is out, and Lubbock ion stations now know which is number one with area viewers this quarter: all three, as usual

The reason? With the 63 rating categories offered by Arbitron, the national rating company, any station can find at least one in which it excels, local industry spokesmen agree.

The station then can capitalize on that, claiming to be the one most popular with viewers, without specifying the category upon which the claim is based.

"I can say I'm number one in news at 6 and 10, but I'm not telling you how I'm number one," explained Bill Blann, KLBK operations manager. "You can read anything you want into the book."

KMCC's programs director, A.C. Wimberley, agreed, saying, "You can pick out a set of figures and make your station

Bob McKinsey, KCBD general manager. made it a unanimous agreement. With all the categories offered in the ratings breakdown, he said, "You pick out one and you're bound to be number one in

The result can lead to ratings "wars" locally.

Explained Blann, "Everyone wants to be number one. It's prestigious."

All the industry spokesmen agreed the battles raged heatedly last year but that they have simmered down. "Viewers don't understand it (conflicting claims), so I just decided it's more annoying and confusing to viewers so I dropped" promotions claiming top status, McKinsey

Wimberley agreed the "rating system doesn't mean that much to viewers.

Stations make their claims based on a survey by Arbitron three times a year for the 21-county area affected by Lubbock broadcasts. The company sends out "diaries" to area viewers, who log times and programs they watch on TV. Based on that, Arbitron determines which station garners the most viewers in certain age and sex categories during certain hours.

Blann said that to make the results more accurate, the number of viewers in KCBD's New Mexico viewing area, served by a satellite station in Roswell. must be subtracted from the ratings totals because the other two Lubbock stations don't serve that area.

For a price, Lubbock viewers also can tune in to 10 other channels, offered by Lubbock Cable TV. And for a little more manager of the cable company. "Even though the people have cable and HBO, they tend to watch local stations anyway, firstly," he said, explaining viewers are interested in local events.

Surveys by the Lubbock Cable TV and the national company, Cox Cable Communication Inc., indicate the situation would be different if the city had no sta-

But because Lubbock has three networks vying for viewer attention, cable channels and HBO are used more as supplemental programming and as such have "no adverse reflection on local broadcasts," Brown said. Although he declines to specify growth figures, Brown acknowledges that HBO and cable TV steadily have gained in popularity among Lubbockites. Figures on file at City Hall indicate monetarily just how profitable the ervices are.

From 1973 to 1977, gross receipts for Lubbock Cable TV more than doubled. And last year, continued growth was reflected in annual gross receipts.

If ratings figures can be interpreted to each stations' benefit, of what use are

The spokesmen for the three stations give identical answers - ratings serve as a sales tool for national advertisements.

The only thing most advertisers are concerned about is how many households we reach at a certain time." McKinsey explained.

Blann seconded that, adding the national companies rely on ratings because they "know diddly-squat about what goes on in Lubbock."

By using the ratings, he said, the companies can aim their product more specifically at the desired customer during known viewing hours.

That might include beer commercials during Sunday sporting programs or toy commercials during Saturday morning The ratings don't matter as much on the local advertising level, the three men concurred. Selling TV advertising time on the local level is more of an "emotional thing" that depends on a station's image and programming, McKinsey declared. "It's what a station does to make itself er cities in viewing entertainment. McKinsey said, though, that his station doesn't take ratings as seriously as do large network stations. "On a national basis, ratings certainly are influential in types of entertainment programming," he said. Locally, however, they are not of much importance, he McKinsey explained, "National ratings make good copy. But they have very little effect on us locally" because research on what local viewers want often shows major differences with national findings.

And, he said, while the national networks often cancel programs on a "kneejerk basis, I don't."

He waits for long-term trends in this area's viewing preferences before making program changes, he said. Blann and Wimberley agreed they program for local tastes. Blann said, for example, he tries not to pre-empt popular rodeo programs because they are wellliked in this area.

Ratings are one of trends, he said, as is the "feeling" of preference he and others at the station receive during conversations with viewers.

Drug For High Blood Pressure, Reserpine, May Cause Cancer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A drug used by millions of Americans to control high blood pressure has been found by Nationsaid the new evidence "makes me even al Cancer Institute scientists to cause cancer in animals and may do so in humans, government sources report.

The generic name of the drug is reserpine, which is sold under a wide variety of trade names, often in combination with diuretics or other anti-hypertensive

The institute's findings were immediately challenged by CIBA-GEIGY Corp., the company with the largest share of the reserpine drug market, which said the laboratory test procedures were inadequate and the conclusions inaccurate.

The reserpine study itself, still labeled preliminary, could not be obtained from the National Cancer Institute last week. But the scientific data from tests performed by a private contractor have been evaluated by institute scientists and are to be presented this week to the Clearinghouse on Environmental Carcinogenesis, a panel of outside experts that oversees such studies

The cancer institute moved quickly Saturday to warn persons against stopping use of the medication.

"The risk to life from untreated high blood pressure, which causes stroke, heart disease and kidney failure, far exceeds the potential risk of cancer," said Paul Van Nevel, the institute's associate

The cancer institute and the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute said in a joint statement that they "strongly discourage discontinuing the drug without some alternate therapy provided by a physician."

The largest selling product containing reserpine is CIBA-GEIGY's Ser-Ap-Es, a combination drug which reportedly accounted for about 25 percent of the approximately 22 million reserpine prescriptions filled last year.

An authoritative trade survey shows sales of reserpine products totaled $130 million in 1978, 36 percent of the $360 million market for drugs to combat high blood pressure.

Other popular versions of the drug include Serpasil, also by CIBA-GEIGY; Salutensin, made by Bristol Laboratories; and Regroton, made by USV Pharmaceutical Corp. But reserpine is sold under at least 30 different brand names or generically named versions.

Sources who asked not to be identified said animal studies conducted for the institute showed that reserpine caused breast cancer in female mice, testicular cancer in male mice and a type of adrenal gland tumor in male rats which, when found in humans, can cause high blood

The drug did not appear to cause cancer in female rats, perhaps because they were subjected to lower doses than the other animals, the sources said. Scientists involved in the institute's search for environmental carcinogens, or cancer-causing agents, generally believe that if a substance causes cancer in one sex of one animal species, it should be presumed to cause at least some cancer in some hu-

Donald J. Storch, a spokesman for CI-BA-GEIGY's pharmaceutical division in Summit, N.J., said in a prepared statement that the company does not believe the studies prove reserpine causes cancer in animals or indicates "any possible increased risk to humans using reserpine.

Storch said the company's experts visit-ed the institute and examined the laboratory slides of animal tissue taken during the study. They concluded, the spokes-man said, "that the majority of the tumors in the rats and mice ... were, in fact, not malignant."

well-known critic of the drug industry, said the new evidence "makes me even more concerned." But he suggested, "It is very likely that most people taking the drug would respond to one of the other, safer anti-hypertensive drugs."

Reserpine occurs naturally in an Indian root known as rauwolfia and has been root known as rauwolfia and has been used in that form for perhaps 2,000 years as a tranquilizer and hallucinogen. It became suspect as a possible cause of cancer at least 20 years ago, when scientists reported that it seemed to hasten the development of tumors in a mouse feeding

In 1974, three reports in Lancet, the respected British medical journal, suggested a possible association between longterm use of reserpine and an increase in breast cancer among women over 60. The Food and Drug Administration created an ad hoc committee to examine the re-ports and other data, but the panel found that contradictory studies and "con-founding factors" in the British reports prevented it from drawing any conclu-sions about the carcinogenicity of reser-

New Lubbock Post Office Named After Area Pioneer

Lubbock's newest post office, George W. Singer Station which officially will open Tuesday, is named for the man who established Lubbock's first business and post office almost 200 years ago

The 5102 69th Drive station honors Singer who established the first business in the Lubbock area in the early 1800s. Singer Store was located in Yellowhouse Canyon and housed Lubbock County's first post office.

"Retaining part of Lubbock's proud heritage while providing our customers the very best postal services, was our goal," said Elmer J. Reed, Jr., Lubbock postmaster.

A large mural of Singer Store, painted by Sue Zimmerman of Fort Worth and donated by John Howard, delivery services analyst, hangs in the lobby of the new $625,000 postal fa-

Ecologists See Fight Of Century Over Bill

lands bill goes to the House floor this week, forcing congressmen to make the crucial choice between conservation and development in America's last frontier.

House members must choose between a conservationist bill backed by the Carter administration and national conservation organizations and development-oriented legislation pushed by oil, mining and timber companies.

The conservationists see the conflict as the conservation fight of the century and are lining up behind a bill whose floor sponsor will be Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ar-

Reps. John Breaux, D-La.; John Dingell, D-Mich.; and Jerry Huckaby, D-La., are sponsoring the bill that would allow a freer hand for oil, mining and timber companies. They are supported by development interests, including the National Association of Manufacturers and U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

At stake is a California-sized block of Alaska wildlands - anywhere from 100 million to 128 million acres under various proposals - that would be set aside as national parks, wildlife refuges and other conservation areas.

Although huge, the lands are still a minority chunk of the big state. An area of federal, state and native land representing the combined size of Texas, California and Oklahoma would be left open for development as owners see fit. But the two sides are prepared for battle over the land that is included.

Breaux, Dingell and Huckaby argue that the nation's trade deficit and energy problems require exploring the conservation lands for oil and minerals and, if necessary, developing them. They say the

The Arctic National Wildlife Range is a focus for the debate. This North Slope coastal plain near the Prudhoe Bay oil field is regarded as the best onshore oil prospect in the nation. But it also is the calving ground for a caribou herd numbering 120,000 animals and the nesting area for much of the hemisphere's water-

Under the Breaux-Dingell-Huckaby legislation, the refuge would be open for test well drilling. Congress would decide

Udall would classify the range as a wilderness, off limits to development, on grounds the oil companies should first ex-plore other federal lands, including a national petroleum reserve to the west.

Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus has called Breaux-Dingel-Huckaby bill a creature of "the rape, ruin and run boys." Andrus says the proposal is "total-ly unacceptable" to the administration, raising the possibility that President Carter would veto such a bill.

Huckaby says Carter would be vetoing legislation favored by the majority of Americans. He argues that the Alaska lands bill is nothing less than "the major oil issue before Congress this year, and President Carter is on the wrong side of the fence.'

The question is finding new sources of oil, Huckaby says, and the new sources are most likely to be found under his bill.

These are some of the questions up for consideration as Lubbock attorneys and other participants in the judicial system participate in National Law Week, Monday through Friday.

In adopting "Changing Rights" as theme for the week, members of the le-gal profession have planned to discuss present conflicts in the judicial system over definition and application of rights.

Lubbock's participation will include a banquet Friday, featuring Franklin Spears, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of Texas. Judge Spears will speak at 8.p.m. May 4 in the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center.

Local attorneys will visit various schools and civic groups to explain the goals of Law Week as well as the rights issues discussed earlier. Reese Air Force Base will sponsor a Law Day luncheon May 1 at noon in the Officers' Open Mess featuring assistant Texas Attorney General Patrick Brower as speaker.

Lubbock Mayor Dirk West issued a proclamation Thursday declaring Tuesday Lubbock's Law Day.

Following its theme for Law Week, the American Bar Association has defined several conflicts relating to rights and the average citizen, including:

-The right of women and ethnic groups to affirmative action vs. the right of white males to not pay for past practices of society.

-The right to privacy vs. the right to

State School Marks 10th Anniversary

The man who opened the doors to the Lubbock State School in 1969 will preside over the school's 10th anniversary celebration June 24-26.

Dr. John Gladden, who has served as LSS superintendent since the school opened, will give the opening address June 24 when a groundbreaking will be held for the school's new Activity Center building.

A musical program by some of the school's 600 residents will follow. Parent's Day is also scheduled for June 24.

Tours of the school will be offered at 9 a.m., 10 a.m., 2 p.m. and 3 p.m. June 25. Awards for employees who have been at the school since its opening will be given in a ceremony at 2:30 p.m. June 26. Foster grandparents and residents will also be honored that day.

During all three days of the 10-year celebration, a residents' art show will be exhibited in the gym.

"The Lubbock community worked hard to secure Lubbock State School," Gladden said, and the public will be invited to share in the school's anniversary.

Pressure Increases For Fed To Tighten Credit

"Mr. Miller has given every indication he's not going to tighten," said one analyst after the sharp jump in money supply was reported Thursday. "But I think the Fed will be forced by events to tighten before the second quarter is out," said the analyst,

Others predict that the Fed's policy will not only aggravate inflation but worsen the

NEW YORK (AP) — The connection between rising supermarket prices and a $4 billion weekly jump in the money supply is hardly direct. But some economists argue that pressure on the Federal Reserve Board to further tighten money to fight inflation is increasing because prices now are rising faster than at any time in the past four

The Labor Department reported this past week that consumer prices climbed at a startling 13 percent compound annual rate in the first quarter of this year.

And while there is a complex connection between growth in the money supply and rising consumer prices, Fed policy also figures into the equation.

By forcing up interest rates, reducing the amount of funds banks have to lend and taking other actions, the Fed can influence businesses and consumers to borrow less, buy less and reduce the demand that is - at least partly - responsible for rising prices.

The Fed has been doing this for some time, and until two weeks ago basic measurements of money supply had generally been showing declines or only modest growth. But a new surge in money growth, particularly the $4 billion jump reported this week has led to a new round of predictions that the nation's central bank isn't doing enough.

Getting at inflation through influence on the money supply is only one government course of action, of course. President Carter has been trying to slow inflation through his wage and price guidelines and longer-range efforts to balance the federal budget.

G. William Miller, head of the Federal Reserve, has so far apparently resisted pressure from those in the Carter administration to further tighten credit on the theory that doing too much would throw the economy into a recession. That could slow inflation, but at a cost in jobs and hardship to millions of consumers and businesses.

In other business developments this past week: •The U.S. trade deficit for March was the lowest in nearly two years, the Commerce Department reported. Following deficits of more than $3 billion in January and $1 billion in February, the March deficit was $821.3 million.

•Rising inflation means a cost-of-living increase for an estimated 35 million Social Security recipients. The government announced a benefits increase of close to 10 percent effective in July because of inflation. That translates to about a $25 increase for the average beneficiary and up to $50 more for some receiving maximum monthly retirement benefits.

•President Carter sent to Congress his "windfall profits" tax on oil, warning lawmakers not to weaken the bill. Carter wants a bill taxing roughly half of the additional revenue oil companies will get when government regulations on domestic oil prices gradually are lifted. The tax proposal was expected to face tough going, particularly in the Senate, where some members favored a "plow-back" provision exempting from tax profits used to develop energy resources.

·A number of major oil companies announced sharp increases in their first-quarter profits compared with earnings a year earlier. Exxon, the largest, reported a 37 percent gain, Mobil and Texaco, Nos. 2 and 3, each reported gains of 81 percent. While higher world petroleum prices and increased sales were a big factor, many companies said a comparatively weak quarter a year ago made the gains look bigger than they would have if the 1978 quarter had been normal.

AUSTIN (Special) - An "old mechan ism", once useful in evolution, may be the flaw that permits some cancers to develop, a University of Texas Biologist be-

Dr. William R. Jeffery, Assistant Pro-fessor of the Department of Zoology, said his research shows that mRNA (messenger ribonucleic acid) a vital biochemical factor, that participates in cell reproduction, can manufacture protein by itself without reference to DNA, the genetic headquarters of the cell. His studies are supported by an American Cancer Society research grant.

This cell mechanism involves a 'production plant" functioning in the cytoplasm or outer region of the cell and produces protein by itself. It was probably a factor in the evolutionary development of the human being, researchers believe. Now, Jeffery thinks his research will show that the mRNA complex that participates in producing cancer will provide a new target for eventually controlling some types of cancer. This can be done by changing gene activity in the cytoplasm, mRNA's own stomping ground.

Jeffery is experimenting with neurob lastoma, a cancer developing from a primitive type cell that is changed into cancer, usually in the early years of life. The cell fails to mature or differentiate into a specific type of cell.

In mice with this type of cancer, Jeffery is able to remove cancer cells, grow. them in cultures where they "redifferentiate", especially if treated with actinomycin-D which blocks the activity of their mRNA. When transplanted back into a mouse, the cells will not produce cancer although the mRNA molecule remains unchanged throughout the experiment.

Other cancers that involve this kind of malignant development include teriatomas, certain types of testicular cancer, retinoblastoma, an eye cancer, choriocarcinoma and some other cancers involving the reproductive system.

the crowd at 9,500 gathered at the site, located about 16 miles northwest of Denver in the Rocky Mountain foothills

Sen. Harrison Schmitt, R-N.M., representatives of energy companies and government nuclear contractors were among the speakers at an Energy Day Fair in Grants. At the same time, in Mount Taylor, the American Indian Environmental Council staged an anti-nuclear rally, calling for an end to explicitation of the Indians and destruction of the Earth.

The renewed demonstrations came a day after the crippled Three Mile Island reactor was finally brought to the equivalent of a cold shutdown, to end a monthlong nightmare for thousands of

Protests Continue Despite Closings The protests also came a day after the Nuclear Regulatory Commission ordered eight nuclear plants shut down until they are proved safer. All eight were designed by Babcock & Wilcox Co., builder of the Pennsylvania plant.

One of them is the Maine Yankee plant at Wiscasset which was closed by the NRC last month when questions were raised about its ability to withstand a major earthquake. Further, it was disclosed last week that minor amounts of radiation leaked into the atmosphere during the shut-down operation. More Closings Desired

The hundreds at the town meeting in Edgecomb signed "articles of protest against the continued operation of Maine Yankee, the storage and accumulation of nuclear wastes, and the subjection of area residents to radioactive emissions. "We are not going to be assaulted any

That, they say, may be why Attebury is record. dead now - after police say he hunched in a parked motor home, armed with at least 15 guns, and unleashed flurries of deadly gunfire Friday afternoon into thousands of festive spectators at the Battle of Flowers Parade, a main event of the city's annual Fiesta weekend.

Two spectators were killed and at least 50 injured, many by gunfire and others in the panicked crowd as they ran away.

Attebury himself died - apparently, the police say, a suicide. The parade was cut short by the horror, but the Fiesta Flambeau parade, just as big as the ill-fated Battle of Flowers Parade, went on as planned Saturday night. It, like the other, was to start at Grayson and Broadway.

One street vendor was seen Saturday selling t-shirts with the slogan "I Survived Fiesta '79." but he said the t-shirts were planned and ordered before Friday's shooting. Six police officers were among the first to be wounded Friday as Attebury, reportedly yelling "Traitors! Traitors! Traitors!," shot at the crowd. Attebury, a heavy-set, bald, former independent trucker and lifelong bachelor who would have turned 65 Sunday, was

Tanker Sinks, Spills Oil Off French Coast

BREST, France (AP) - A tanker loaded with 12 million gallons of crude oil collided with an empty ship off Brittany's coast and sank Saturday. The tanker's hull was slashed but officials said they did not expect a repeat of last May's Amoco Cadiz disaster

We are preparing for any eventuality but we hope we will not have to use our full contingency plan," Environmental Minister Michel d'Ornano said.

A 20-mph wind was blowing, giving hope that the spill would be pushed away from the coast. Experts were also encouraged by the fact that this type of crude oil was denser than water, giving it a tendency to sink rather than roll on the surface toward shore.

Panel Hears Debate On Insurance Bil

By BILL KIDD

A-J Austin Bureau AUSTIN - An insurance "reform" bill which the industry contends could eliminate rating territories and experience plans in Texas was argued before the House Insurance Committee for four hours — and left as pending business. HB 1710, by Rep. Bob Maloney of Dallas is, the sponsor said, intended to allow the State Board of Insurance to receive more information on investment income of insurance companies.

Texas Trial Lawyers Association Pres. Mike Gallaher, Houston, says the bill would keep companies from artificially creating "crises" in insurance and would save policyholders money.

Insurance industry representatives say it would destroy the existing insurance system by overturning use of rating territories, for such lines as auto and homeowners, and experienced-based plans, including worker's compensation.

And the State Board of Insurance says it doesn't want to be caught in the midle of a fight between TTLA and insurers. The argument for the use of investment income in determining rates isn't a new issue in Texas, as witnesses pointed out. In 1969, a special committee under former Gov. Price Daniel was named to look at the rising costs of sutomobile insurance, and one of the recommendations of the Daniel Committee was consideration of investment income. Ten years later, the SBI says it does consider investment income in setting rates, but just how, and to what extent, that income is considered remains in dis-

HORSE DISEASE

WASHINGTON (AP) - A venereal disease of horses, contagious equite metri-tis, has been confirmed in four mares in Missouri, the Agriculture Department said Friday. The department's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service said the disease was found on the Barr Trak farm near Columbia, Mo. Ralph Knowles of the agency said it was the first out-break of the disease — called CEM — in the United States since it was diagnosed in thoroughbred horses on breeding farms in Kentucky in March 1978.

begun to study how investment income is dealing with rates - and the bill was left used in rate-making.

But, he told his former colleagues on no action. the committee, he's still not sure exactly how the matter's treated, adding that he thinks part of the problem is in defining investment income.

Gallagher and former Commissioner of Insurance of Joe Hawkins (now a consulting actuary in Dallas) contended investment income isn't being considered whereas Dr. Irving Plotkin, actuary with Arthur D. Little, Inc., said Texas is the pioneer in such consideration, with considers all investment income.

SBI actuary Gaylon Daniel says that investment income is taken into account in the "profit and contingency loading" used in rating formulas.

In other words, Daniel says, the formula used by the board in setting rates recognizes that insurance companies do have income other than from underwriting - and the five per cent "target" figure for profit in the formula reflects that.

Supporters of the bill say the measure would prevent insurers from "over-reserving" losses - and thus giving the impresion of having more losses, and thus being less profitable, than is actually

Gallagher and Maloney attacked use of 'incurred but not reported" losses losses which are anticipated but which are projected rather than actual - as allowing insurers to present a picture of great losses which do not exist, and to thus "create a crisis" in some line of in-

Recently-appointed SBI member Bill Daves said he can't say whether over-reserving is being practiced - but said that the practice could not be carried on for any period of time without it becoming

Daniels said the board is looking into the reserve issue, adding that if ut would require much more time, money and staff that the board has available to it.

Dallas attorney David Irons, representing the Association of Fire and Casualty Companies in Texas, said the bill would - if enacted as written - destroy the use of rating territories and experience plans. Maloney said that wasn't the intent of the measure - and said the bill would be altered to prevent that. Maloney contends the bill would save Texans $250 to $500 million annually on insurance costs, adding, "Insurance is not a luxury any more; people have to

"It is, in effect, a tax," Maloney con-Olson asked the committee to leave the board as much latitude as possible in self as the meet's fastest performer by winning the 100-yard dash in a time of 9.5. Over in the big school division (Class AAAA) the winning time in the century race was a 9.6 — by Killeen's Gerald McNeil.

And the AAAA 100-yard dash was a race, so the low times were no surprise. McNeil was chased right to the wire by Abilene Cooper's Charles Rainey who was clocked in 9.7 for second place.

But the AA century turned into nothing more than a personal showcase for Porter. After the first 50 yards, no one was even within shouting distance of him. Then two races later the Ballinger speedster took off his warmups and du-plicated the feat in the 220.

Again he wasn't even pushed but still his time was as good as the big boys —

Rainey won the 220 with an identical 21.5, but the AAAA race was a lot closer than the AA. Rainey, Paul Bell of Here-ford and Bryan's Mike Elarms finished in what appeared to be a dead heat.

Bell was awarded second place with a 21.57 and Elarms was a disappointing third in 2.6. For the Hereford senior it is his first trip to the state meet. Both Bell and Porter qualified for the

Misfortune Hits Mats; Dunbar Wins Regional

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff ODESSA — Sitting on a beam under the bleachers, Estacado sprint relay run-ner Kelvin White exhibited the kind of day it later proved to be for the Matadors at the Region I AAA and A track meet here Saturday afternoon.

White sat grimacing after hobbling into the shade while trainer Bob Ramos cleaned the blood off his left leg after the first race of the day was completed.

And speaking of hollow, that's a pretty good description of how Estacado shot put man Dewey Turner was feeling when he was disqualified in the shot put. Maybe, hollow isn't exactly the right word. Turner was downright bitter. Turner was disqualified for wearing or ange shorts during competition. According to the rules, a thinclad must be dressed in a minimum of a jersey and pants of his school colors. The Matador colors are blue and silver. The ironic thing about the situation is that Turner had qualified for the finals while wearing orange shorts. And his toss of better than 54 feet was good enough for second pace. So subtract 8 more points from the Matadors' total.

"I'm not going to say who turned us in," said Estacado coach Percy Hines. "But I have a good idea who it was." So, since Hines is keeping quiet about the incident, referee Red Lewis offered an explanation. "An Odessa Ector boy pointed it out about Turner, the Lubbock kid, and his shorts," said Lewis. "Then I notified the coach. He pointed out to me that were a couple of others not wearing their team colors so I had to disqualify two others." Besides its sprint relay team, Jerry

"I think I won the 220 because of the way I ran the curves," said Isaacs. "I have more confidence in the event, and since I was running in lane seven, I had more of an opportunity to use the curves. Also, we ran into the wind, and being the smallest in the pack, I could get myself lower into the wind."

In the 100-yard dash, the wind was in Humphrey's favor.

Texas Tech, which had finished second in the two-mile relay on Friday, came

Tech will return to competition as a team next week by hosting an all-commeet in conjunction with the Lubbock State Qualifiers Meet at the Tech track.

Hooton got out of a third-inning jam. John Stearns led off with a single, and Doug Flynn doubled down the right field line, sending Stearns to third. But Falcone and Frank Taveras grounded out weakly, and Bruce Boisclair flied deep to Thomas in center field.

Sanderson, 1-1, pitched the first six innings for the Expos to pick up the victory with relief help from Woodie Fryman and Elias Sosa. Sanderson began the third-inning rally when he led off with a single and Andre Dawson followed an infield single. After a pair of fielders' choices, Perez smashed a homer over the left-field fence.

Perez had given the Expos their first run with an RBI single in the first and they scored their game-winner in the

CARDS 12, REDS 1

Pete Vuckovich handcuffed Cincinnati with a three-hitter through seven innings while his St. Louis Cardinal teammates slammed 17 hits to beat the Reds.

Lou Brock scored a pair of runs, drove in two and had two singles and Mike Ty-son spiced the Cardinal barrage with a solo home run.

Vuckovich, 2-0, pitched five innings of no-hit ball until Ken Griffey led off the Cincinnati sixth with a single. Johnny Bench and Cesar Geronimo added singles for the Reds in the seventh. Cincinnati starter Tom Hume, 2-3, gave up the Cardinals' first runs in the first inning on a two-run single by George Hen-

Tyson jumped on Hume's first pitch of the second inning for a homer over the 375-foot sign in left field. Vuckovich singled and Garry Templeton reached base on an error and reliever Doug Capilla took over for the Reds. Brock hit Capilla's first pitch into right field to drive in two runs and the Cardinals scored twice more that inning to continue the rout. St. Louis added three more runs in the fifth inning with the help of doubles by Keith Hernandez and Ted Simmons.

Griffey scored in the sixth on a sacrifice fly by George Foster for the only Cincinnati run. Silvio Martinez pitched the final two innings for the Reds.

BRAVES 7, CUBS 2

Dale Murphy capped a four-run Atlanta third inning with a two-run homer, powering the Braves to a 7-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Despite a steady rain and a sopping track, the Villanova 6,000-meter quartet of Dean Childs, John Burns, Amos Korir and Sidney Maree beat Georgetown to the wire by at least 30 yards.

Penn State was third and Arizona

Villanova shattered the record of 15:03.0 it set in 1976.

Georgetown's time was 15:04.14, an American record. Villanova does not get credit for an American mark because Maree is from South Africa. The old American record of 15:07.1 was set by Georgetown earlier this year.

Penn State's clocking was 15:05.91. Villanova later won the sprint medley in 3:16.44, with Rice second, Manhattan third, and Michigan fourth. The Villanova team of Keith Brown, Al Graves, Jim Dale, and Don Paige won the event by about 12 yards.

Patience Pays Off For Coach

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) - Old Dominion University announced Saturday the official receipt by mail of a signed basketball grant-in-aid and national letter of intent from Bert Kragtwijk, a 6-foot-10 center from Amsterdam, Holland.

Coach Paul Webb and his staff had been seeking Kragtwijk since the summer of 1977 when Webb first saw him participating in the Stetson University basketball camp.

Kragtwijk originally had been scheduled to come to Old Dominion last fall but was unable to do so because of a personal choice to study for a diploma in an accelerated degree program in Amsterdam.

"Bert is a blue-chip big man. He is an outstanding prospect with the potential to start for us as soon as next season. A versatile athlete, he can also play the strong forward position and this will help our depth along the front line," said Webb.

Considered to be a leading candidate for The Netherlands' 1980 Olympic team. Kragtwijk is a member of hisi country's senior national team and is averaging 15 points and 15 rebounds per game for the Delat Lloyd club team which plays in the highest league in the country. Kragwijk join a fellow countryman, 6foot-10 Eric Griekspoor, who saw service as a reserve this past season as a freshman at Old Dominion, which compiled a 23-7 record and gained the quarterfinals of the National Invitation Tour-

He is the fourth player signed this season by Old Dominion.

Webb previously had signed two of the most highly recruited All-State players in Virginia, 6-foot-9 center Mark West of Petersburg and 6-foot-1 guard Grant Robinson of Ferguson High in Newport News, along with 6-foot-7 Tim Southerland of Frerick Military Academy.

Spurs, Philadelphia Face Sixth Game Of Series

By The Associated Press They play defense with such tenacity that opponents are often stunned into submission. They scrap and hustle and show the kind of enthusiam that supposedly exists only in the college ranks. They dive for loose balls and crash the boards with total disregard for personal safety. They are the Atlanta Hawks, and they are just one game away from eliminating the defending champion Washington Bul-lets from the National Basketball Association playoffs.

The Hawks were left for dead after they fell behind Washington 3-1 in their best-of-seven Eastern Conference semifinat series. But they clawed their way back from the brink of elimination with a 107-103 victory at Landover, Md. Wednesday night and a 104-86 triumph at Atlanta Friday night, setting up today's winner-take-all showdown at the Capital Centre in Landover.

"They have confidence now because they're the world champions," said Hawks guard Armond Hill. "We have confidence because we've been fighting and scrapping all year and now we're even with them."

'We've had six battles up to now," said Hawks center Steve Hawes. "Sunday will be the war. We're gonna be ready, they're gonna be ready and the best team will win. That's the way it should be." Or, as Hill put it, "It's a one-game series now. The Hawks-Bullets battle will be the second half of a playoff doubleheader to be nationally televised by CBS. In the first game, which starts at 12:30 p.m. CDT, the San Antonio Spurs, leading 3-2, will attempt to finish off the Philadelphia 76ers at Philadelphia.

Meanwhite, the West conference finals will begin Tuesday night in Seattle be-tween the Phoenix Suns and the Seattle SuperSonics, both of whom won their semifinal series in five games.

The Suns ousted the Kansas City Kings with an easy 120-99 victory Friday night behind 32 points by guard Paul Westphal Seattle knocked out Los Angeles earlier

The Hawks are brimming with confidence after their two victories over the playoff hardened Bullets, who went into postseason play favored to become the first team in a decade to successfully defend its NBA championship.

"They feel the pressure now," said Hawks reserve guard Terry Furlow, "They didn't think they'd fee this much pressure from the Atlanta Hawks. Right now, I like where we're sitting."
So does Atlanta Coach Hubie Brown.
"The homocount advantage?"

"The homecourt advantage? Psychology? That's all bull," said Brown. "The are a great team, but we are rising to the occasion to play great basketball with

To win today, the Hawks will have to negate the Bullets' superb front line of center Wes Unseld, forwards Elvin Hayes and Bobby Dandridge and reserves Mitch Kupchak and Greg Ballard. The pressure will be on the Hawks' his rehounders. will be on the Hawks' big rebounders — Hawes, forward Dan Roundfield and re-serve center Tree Rollins — to hold their own under the boards while small forward John Drew matches up against

Philadelphia averted elimination by beating the Spurs at San Antonio Thurs-day night 120-97, holding the explosive Spurs 22 points below their season aver-

"We played so bad, just terrible," said San Antonio Coach Doug Moe, whose team shot just 38 percent from the field. "We never gave ourselves a shot to get in the game. It was one of those nights you want to forget about."

Not if you're Billy Cunningham. The coach of the 76ers shifted all-star forward Julius Erving to guard in an effort to add size to his lineup, moving center Caldwell Jones to forward and giving a start to muscular Darryl Dawkins. While Dawkins managed just eight points, Erving scored 32 in his best effort of the series. At the other end of the floor, guard Maurice Cheeks limited San Antonio's George Gervin, the NBA scoring king the last two years, to just four points in the first three quarters and 13 overall. That's more than 16 points below Gervin's average.

Two unearned runs cost Coronado a share of the lead in the second half of District 4AAAA baseball Saturday. Plainview defeated the Mustangs 2-1 in the first game of a doubleheader, but lost the second, 9-2.

In the first game, losing pitcher Gene Segrest (6-3) struck out 11 and walked seven. The Mustangs had given Segrest a 1-0 lead in the third inning via a bases-loaded walk to Allen Harp.

But in the fifth, with one out, Plainview's Gary Stair and Brian Terrell walked and came in to score on a play that included two errors. Randy Ortegan hit a ground ball that got through the in-field for an error and the relay throw went wild for another error. The final made it 3-1 when Bryan Brock knocked in Allen Harp and Donny Arterburn with a single. CHS struck for 2 more runs in the fifth on RBI singles by Harp and Jim Wells to make it 5-1.

Plainview scored a single tally in the sixth when Kit Howerton singled Irvin Davis in from third.

The Mustangs answered that with 4 runs in their half. Brock led off with a triple, and Ledbetter walked. Ewing followed with an RBI fielder's choice. Segrist then singled to jam the bases. After Wells singled in a run, Arterburn and Powell walked to force in the final 2 runs of the day, making the final 9-2.

Shot Clock Needed In College Game?

ed (Va.) Times-Dispatch

RICHMOND, Va. - In a couple of weeks, Atlantic Coast Conference poo-bals will gather in Myrtle Beach, S.C. and decide, among other things, whether a basketball shot clock is good for the fu-ture of the league. Well, Vic Bubas has seen the future, nd he says it works.

and he says it works.

Bubas, the former basketball coach at Duke, is commissioner of the Sun Belt erence, which installed a 45-second shot clock for the 1978-79 season. The respense among coaches, players and fans of the Sun Belt, according to Bubas, has ince North Carolina Coach Dean Smith roposed three weeks ago the ACC adopt econd clock for conference games next season, and in fact the idea appears med to the trashcan when the official think ACC coaches are unaggood for favor of a shot clock as being good for all of college basketball," said Virginia Coach Terry Holland, "but we're not going to go to it when the rest of the country isn't using it."

It is ironic the proposal would come from Smith. Pirst, he had long been openly opposed to a shot clock. Second, h a device would be inimical to the interests of Smith's four-corners delay of-. Third, it was Smith's strategy that ted in North Carolina playing a cless first half against Duke Feb. 24 hat changed Smith's mind? "I don't want to have our coaches ting in the newspapers before it s place," said Smith, "but I feel that nd clock, coupled with a rule st zone defenses, would be good. I ainst it before because it works to at disadvantage of the 'have-nots' ee basketball. In the ACC, everyis a 'have.' We all have great play-

problem on ccasion is tht not all great players get a chance to really ecause some ACC coaches are so intent on not losing they play prolonged and dull games with the scoreboard

To make coaches play, something is eeded in the ACC. Not the 24-second clock, which is one reason the NBA is a er. Probably not even a 30-second ick, especially when a no-zone rule is a game, plus any overtime. The plug is pulled in the last four minutes because there is no shot clock in the NCAA tournament, and "that makes it advisable for a team to know how to use a pressing defense against a team that's holding the ball," said Bubas.

If the ACC is really serious about elimiing pitty-pat basketball, perhaps it er experiment, the Sun Belt approach. In the Sun Belt, the 45-second clock op-

"In addition, it enables a team to protect its lead, if it can, by holding the ball. And the team that is behind with just four minutes to go wwil almost autor cally be in a pressing, action-packed de-fense for the remainder of the game, thereby ensuring action."

There was plenty of action in the Sun Belt last season. Bubas had detailed statistical studies made of 32 conference games in both the regular season and tournament. In those games, 3,407 shots were taken, and 83 percent were taken before 20 seconds had expired. Ninety-six percent were taken before 30 seconds had expired. There were only five shotclock violations.

If 96 percent of the shots were taken inside 30 seconds, why the 45-second clock?

"I think 30 seconds makes for a game that is too much like the pros," said Bubas, "and still dictates a racehorse game. Forty-five seconds allows for some catand-mouse play, deliberate basketball, if that's the way you want to play. In my opinion, 30 seconds does not."

"A zone is a problem only if you can't shoot from outside," said Bubas, "or don't want to."

For Comeback

PYONGYANG, North Korea (AP) -World champion China tries to repair some of the damage caused by its shocking 5-2 loss to Hungary by qualifying for the semifinals Sunday in the World Table

China plays its last match in Group A against the host country, and while that might have presented some problems in front of a partisan crowd, Saturday's surprising 5-1 loss to France may well have taken the steam out of North Korea.

Hungary, still unbeaten, is certain to qualify even if it loses its last match gainst Romania

The other semifinal places will be filled by unbeaten Czechoslovakia from Group B, even if the Czechs lose their last match against England, and Japan, provided it heats the Soviet Union.

China and Japan both have seven wins in Group A of the women's competition, and Sunday the two clash. Both have already qualified for the semifinals.

France needs to beat both the Netherlands and Romania to qualify.

The United States women, however, may find things very tough at the bottom of Group B, and must beat Bulgaria, the only other team in the group with a win. North Korea, Czechoslovakia and the Soviet Union all have five wins and one loss. The Czechs and Russians play each other in their last match and the Koreans play West Germany. Italy's unbeaten women are likely to win the third category Group B, while the men will win the second category Group B if they can beat Bulgaria Sun-

Borg Triumphs Over Connors

LAS VEGAS (AP) - Bjorn Borg played nearly flawless tennis in defeating Jimmy Connors 6-3, 6-2 to take home $50,000 in silver dollars as winner of the Alan King Classic Saturday.

Although Connors leads Borg 10 to 8 in their one-on-one battles, he made too many unforced errors in the latest match and his forehand volleys and forehand approach shots were erratic.

"I didn't expect an easy win. I have been playing better and better each match," Borg said afterward. He had lost the first set in his first two preliminary matches of the tournament.

"I was more patient than Jimmmy, Borg continued. "He was missing more first serves. I prefer to play back and keep my ball deep so he can't come to the net. Jimmy's backhand is better and he has more power with him."

In doubles semifinals Saturday, Marty Riesen and Sherwood Stewart took on John McEnroe and Peter Fleming. And the team of Raul Ramirez and Adriano Panatta battled Pat duPre and Balazs Taroczy, a Hungarian. The finals were scheduled for Sunday

The play at Caesars Palace was marked by an unusual number of service breaks for a championship game. Borg broke Connors in the second game of the first set. Connors broke back immediately and then Borg broke back again in the fourth Connors broke Borg in the sventh gam, but Borg broke back in the eighth game and held service in the ninth game to win nors' serve in the first and third games.

Connors made a few remarks to the crowd, but otherwise showed much less emotion than usual

AUSTIN (AP) — Riding the magical putter of Fred Haas Jr., the unheralded team of Haas and Dick Mayer coasted to a five-under-par 65 Saturday and opened a four-shot lead at the 36-hole mark of the Legends of Golf Tournament.

Under windy conditions, it was a day most of the elite field fired and fell back against Onion Creek Country Club's 6,584 yards and par 70. The 54-hole best-ball tournament ends today.

Haas and Mayer, playing together for the first time, opened with a 63 Friday as the second group off the tee and have yet to yield the lead. They have a 36hole total of 128.

It was all Haas on the front side Saturday, as he made three birdie putts including a 30-footer at the 420-yard No.4 hole and saved par with a six-footer. Mayer birdied the 390-yard No.13 and Haas made another birdie on the back-

Julius Boros and Argentina's Roberto de Vicenzo fired the best round of the day with a six-under 64, vaulting into a second-place tie at 132, with the tandern of Tommy Bolt and Art Wall, who shot a 66. Defending champions Sam Snead and Gardner Dickinson also shot a 66 and were five strokes back at 133.

De Vicenzo birdied the last three holes, including a twisting downhill eight-footer on No.18 to get his team into contention in the $300,000 tournament which has a first-place prize of $70,000.

"They (Haas and Mayer) will be hard to catch because they are so consistent," said Snead. "They will have to make an awful lot of bogeys." Brothers Jay and Lionel Hebert, who started the day two strokes off the pace, carded a par 70 and fell seven shots behind the leaders. There were three groups at 135 including Kel Nagel and Walter Burkemo, Jerry Barber and Jack Fleck, and amateurs Keith Compton and John Kline, who had a 66 Saturday. Mayer. 54, a former U.S. Open champion, struggled with his borrowed set of clubs and missed a two-foot birdie putt on the par 3, 175-yard No.6. Haas, 63, who ended Byron Nelson's streak of 11 consecutive tournaments in 1945, got into the tournament on the last-minute withdrawal of Jim Ferrier. Haas made a monstrous 60-footer for a birdie three on the 14th hole, and said,

"I was just trying to keep from 3-putting." Haas added, "I think we can win it if we shoot 67 or better tomorrow (to-

Mayer said, "Well, I didn't do all that much today. I just kind of drove the golf cart around and kept it on course."
"Freddie carried me today." he added.

FORT WORTH Special) — Steve Daniels and R.C. Castiagne limited Lubbock Christian College to 11 hits Saturday as Texas Wesleyan swept a doubleheader 10-4 and 6-0.

It marked only the third time this year that the Texas Athletic Conference-leading Chaparrals have lost twice in the same day, and Daniels' four-hitter in the nightcap led to LCC's second shutout

About the only bright spot was Scott Wolf's seventh pinch-hit of the year in the seventh inning of the opener which tied a school record.

Now 37-20, the Chaps fell to 13-7 in league play and, at worst, hold a percentage lead over Dallas Baptist. At best, LCC leads by three games over both DBC and TWC, depending on how the forfeit involving those two teams turns

Derby Talk Centers On Jockey, Not 'Bid'

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) - Spectacular Bid, a colt whose ability is unquestioned, and Ronnie Franklin, a jockey whose ability is questioned, form the focal point of the 105th Kentucky Saturday at Churchill Downs.

"I have do doubts about the Kentucky Derby — we're a winner," said the 19-year-old Franklin after Spectacular Bid easily won the Blue Grass Stakes Thursday at Keeneland for his 10th straight stakes victory.

But there are doubts in the minds of many members of the racing press and some horseman about Franklin. Will Franklin, under the intense pressure of the Derby, make a victory-costing mistake?

In 1978, the question was, would 18-year-old Steve Cauthen, who rode the winner, Affirmed, falter under Derby pressure? This year the question, fair or not, seems to be, will Franklin rise to the occasion? Doubts about Franklin were fueled when trainer Bud Delp, with whom Franklin lives, harshly criticized the jockey publicly for his ride in the Florida

"I told him how dumb I thought his ride was," said Delp, who also called Franklin an idiot after Spectacular Bid won by 41/2 lengths after being in trouble on both turns and having to go four horses wide entering the stretch.

"I deserved it," said Franklin, who had no trouble in either the Flamingo or Blue Grass after being told he would remain as Spectacular Bid's jockey by owners Harry, Teresa and Tom Meyerhoff.

But after the Florida Derby, Delp, who says he's glad his "third son" wasn't taken off the colt, wondered whether Franklin could have gotten away with his mis-takes if Flying Paster was in the field.

Islanders Tie NHL Series In Overtime

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) - Denis Potvin's 35-foot shot at 8:02 of overtime Saturday gave the New York Islanders a 4-3 triumph over the New York Rangers and tied their National Hockey League semifinal playoff series at one victory each. For the second time in the game, an Islanders shot deflected into the cage off a Rangers defenseman. Bob Lorimer tied the game 2-2 when his blueline shot tipped off a Ranger defender and then in the second-longest overtime game this spring - Potvin's blast bounded past goalie John Davidson after hitting defenseman Carol Vadnais. That sent this best-of-seven series to Madison Square Garden all even for Games 3 and 4. Third game will be played Tuesday night. Phil Esposito's fifth goal of the play-offs, a 20-foot shot with 4:12 left in the third period tied the game after Islanders goals in a 4:22 span earlier in the session had rallied the home team to a 3-2 lead. Islanders center Wayne Merrick had sparked the burst by setting up both goals after Islanders goalie Billy Smith made a game-saving stop on a Bobby Sheehan breakway 4:28 into the third period.

Walt Tkaczuk and Sheehan of the Rangers had sandwiched goals around Merrick's earlier tally for the 2-1 lead the Rangers carried into the third period. But Merrick sent the puck to Bobby Nystrom, who fed Lorimer for a 50-foot shot and passed Davidson to tie the score at 5:13 of the third period. And at 9:35, Nystrom - stationed five feet away from the Rangers goal fought off a check from Mario Marois and scored from a Merrick pass.

Islanders goaltender Billy Smith, who had surrendered just one goal in his two previous playoff appearances this spring. made a game-saving stop at 4:28 of the third period. Sheehan had poked the puck free from Islanders right wing Billy Harris and broken in alone on Smith. But the goalie stayed with the speedy center all the way and dropped to his knees to thwart Sheehan's shot. Sheehan, promoted from the Rangers' American Hockey League affiliate in New Haven just six games ago, continued his playoff excellence by sending a clear 20-foot shot past Smith at 8:32 of the second period, while the Rengers enjoyed a 4-on-3 skater advantage. That snapped a 1-1 tie and set up the wild end-to-end third period.

HOLE-IN-ONE

Bob Anders of Lubbock, playing for only the fourth time of his life, aced the par-3. 139-yard 13th hole at Treasure Island Golf Center Saturday. Anders used a 7-iron. Witnesses included Richard Petty, Brian McPeak, Jerry Mathis, and Cary

Well, Flying Paster, owned by Benjamin J. Ridder, is in the Derby.

While Spectacular Bid has won 10 straight — five this year — Flying Paster, ridden by 41-year-old Don Pierce, has won nine of his last 10 including the Santa Anita Derby 61/2 lengths and the Hollywood Derby by 10.

In his one loss in four starts this year, Flying Paster carried 127 pounds, spot-ting winner Pole Position eight pounds and Switch Partners 13 pounds in being beaten a head and a nose in the San FeThe Big Two are expected to be joined by at least six other 3-year-olds in the 1% mile Derby, whose purse has been boost-ed from $150,000-added to $200,000-add-

The best of the others appears to be Robert W. Phipps and William Old-know's Golden Act, the winner of the Louisiana and Arkansas derbies who is ridden by Sandy Hawley.

Golden Act is trained by Loren Rettele, who won the Louisiana and Arkansas derbies last year with Esops Foibles. That colt finished fifth in the Kentucky

Derby.
Other probables include Bertram Firestone General Assembly, Rogers Red Top Farm's Shamgo, Flying Zee Stable's Screen King, Frederick E. Lehmann's Lot o'Gold and Mrs. Tilyou Christopher's Sir Ivor Again.

General Assembly and Shamgo are re-spective sons of Secretariat and Sham, ho staged one of the great Derby duels in 1973. Sham became only the second horse to break two minutes in the Derby, going under mark by a hair. But Secretar iat was the first to break 2:00, clocking

1:59 2/5 and beating Sham by 2½ lengths. No one has come close to that time since. General Assembly and Shamgo don't have their daddies' credentials. General Assembly won two stakes as a 2-year-old but then lost five straight races before wining the Gotham Stakes April 7 at Aqueduct. In his last start he was a disappointing fifth in the Wood Memorial. Shamgo is winless in eight starts this year but was fourth in the Santa Anita Derby and third in the Hollywood Derby.

Should Spectacular Bid win next Saturday, he would be the first Blue Grass

EPRICES GOOD THRU SAT., MAY 5TH.

Plying Paster and Golden Act could-make it a big day for Gummo. Both are California-bred sons of that sire.

The Derby, which will draw its traditional 100,000-plus crowd, most of whom will not be able to see the race, will be televised nationally by ABC.

Bills Poised For First Pick

NEW YORK (AP) - At about 9 a.m., CST, next Thursday in a ballroom in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, Pete Rozelle will call upon Buffalo to make a selection, someone from the Bills will scratch a name on an index card - and another instant millionaire will be unless the Bills trade away their first-round choice in the National Football League's annual draft of college players.

It would not be that unusual. Tampa Bay did it last year - and when Rozelle, commissioner of the league, called the meeting to order, the Houston Oilers wound up with Earl Campbell.

The Bills got this year's pick the same way - in a trade with San Francisco, the one that sent O.J. Simpson to the 49ers before the start of the 1978 season.

This year's crop of millionaires will undoubtedly include Charles Alexander, a running back from Louisiana State; Tom Cousineau, a linebacker from Ohio State; Russell Erxleben, a punter-placekicker from Texas; Jack Thompson, a quarterback from Washington State, and Mike Bell, a defensive end from Colorado State. They are among the so-called blue-chippers, the cream of the crop, players almost certain to be chosen before the first round comes to an end.

In the first two rounds, each of the 28 teams will have 15 minutes to decide upon each selection. For the remaining 10 rounds (four or five of which will be conducted on Friday) each team will have five minutes to make up its mind.

The New York Jets have the most thinking to do.

They have the most picks coming, 17 of them as a result of previous trades. Miami is next with 16, followed by Buffalo, Dallas and the Super Bowl-champion Pittsburgh Steelers with 15 apiece.

At the other end of the spectrum is Washington, still paying for George Allen's "the future is now" philosophy. Allen, former coach of the Redskins, dealt away draft choices by the bushel in exchange for veterans. This year the 'Skins have just five picks in the 12 rounds

Normally, the 12 rounds of 28 selections apiece would amount to 336 players, but this year only 330 will be taken. Four teams (Minnesota, Pittsburgh, Los Angeles and New England) have had one selection taken away for rules violations last season. Houston and San Francisco used 1979 picks in the 1978 supplemental draft, the Oilers taking wide receiver Johnnie Darden, the 49ers running back Rod Connors.

The first-round draft order, pending any late trades, is: Buffalo (from San Francisco), Kansas City, Cincinnati, Chicago (from Tampa Bay), Buffalo, Baltimore, New York Giants, St. Louis, Chicago, Detroit, New Orleans, Cincinnati (from Washington), Cleveland, New York Jets, Green Bay, Minnesota, Atlanta, Seattle, Los Angeles (from Oakland), San Diego, Philadelphia, Denver, Houston, Miami, New England, Los Angeles, Dallas and Pittsburgh.

The Redskins have only five selections in the 12round draft, which is, according to league officials, the lowest by any team in the history of the NFL. Specifically, the Redskins have a pick in the fourth, the draft list. Still, general manager Bobby Beathard remains optimistic the Redskins can find at least one player they can use and hopeful that as many as three might make gardless of position. "When you pick as low as we do you can't be very selective. But linebacker is our top priority. That's because we still don't know about Chris Hanburger's plans, we have to consider Mike Curtis's age (36) and, numbers-wise, we just don't have many

The New York Giants are playing "I've Got a Secret," with the destiny of their first-round pick in Thursday's collegiate draft.

Thanks to a 6-10 record, the Giants will pick seventh in the opening round and are assured of getting a blue chip prospect. Only rookie general manager George Young has declined to reveal which way he will go.

"I don't want to get into the public's right to know thing," he said. "It's the opposition I'm worried about. The public doesn't have a right to know atomic secrets and these are football secrets. Some people think these are just as important, although I'm not

Where They're Biting

Buffalo Springs Lake - According to Barnie Greenfield at the concession-baittackle store, the fishing is tops for all species. Plenty of bass in the 21/2-3 pound class are being caught with some hitting 5 pounds. Bream (sunperch) are providing lots of action; carp averaging 8-12 pounds are active with some monsters tipping the scales at 15 and 17 pounds. Channel cats are moving into shallow water to take live bait and stink bait. Top action is for crappie in cattails under the bridge and near the rocks. Bass are favoring the same areas.

Lake Guerrero, Mexico - Quantity and quality shared the honors as anglers landed and released an average of 40-50 bass per boat per day. Dewey Williams of Midland used a hot spot to land a 6-pounder. The lake is down 3 feet and clear. Spinners and crank baits are providing the best results.

Oak Creek Lake - Allan Luedtke of Lubbock landed three nice bass with the best weighing 4 pounds, 9 ounces. Earl Dean Armstrong of Midland topped all anglers last week with a lunker that hit the scales at 7 pounds, 13 ounces. Ike Pate at Sportsman's Lodge reports, "Allsystems are go for some excellent fishing here for the next two to three weeks. Only about ten percent of the bass have spawned. The water is clear and the temperature is right at 68 degrees."

White River Lake — Miss Lela Dobbs landed two black bass that weighed 5 pounds 14 ounces, and 4-11. Anglers are returning to the marina with strings of 3and 4-pound bass. Most of the successful fishing is with live minnows and spinner baits off of the rocky points. Catfish and crappie action remains slow. The lake is in good condition.

Lake Whitney - Stripers and white bass highlighted fishing activity, with black bass catches increasing. Mrs. Bill (Shirley) Johnson of Lubbock used a goldfish to land a 131/2-pound striper near the dam. The largest striper last weeek, 19 pounds 3 ounces, was attracted by a Hellbender. The lake level is 9 inches below normal, and the water temperature is 61 degrees.

Hunters Locate Spring Gobblers

The first weekend of a three-weekend spring turkey hunt was a success for six hunters on the Gene Howe and Matador wildlife management areas in northwest

Each wildlife management area had three gobblers bagged by permit holders as 17 sportsmen made the hunt on the Matador area and ten sportsmen arrived for the hunt on the Gene Howe area.

A 20-pound gobbler was the largest bird bagged, according to Vernon-Morse, Howe area manager, and was harvested by E.B. Telford of Amarillo. One hunter traveled all the way from Point Blank (near Conroe) for the hunt.

The spring hunts will continue through next weekend for additional permit holders. Only shotguns are allowed for the hunt, making it necessary for the hunters to either call or get the wise old gobblers to come within range.

Most of the hunters saw turkeys, according to Charles Boyd, Matador area manager, and all enjoyed the first spring turkey hunt ever held on the South Plains-Panhandle.

SPRING INFLATION FIGHTER PRICE:

than one boat length in front of MIT.

The 10 largest bass in the state caught by club members during that month came from Lake Monticello, a 2,000-acre powerplant reservoir near Mount Pleasant in Northeast Texas. In fact, 13 of the largest 20 were from that diminutive

The 13 fish ranged in size from a 12pound, 4-ounce whopper caught by George Carter of Longview to a mere 8pound, 11-ounce fish.

Most of these fish were examined by department biologists and confirmed through scale counts as being the pure Florida strain.

Biologists believe the Floridas have done well in Monticello partly because they were stocked when the lake was impounded, allowing them to get a jump on competition from other fish species.

This spate of trophy bass naturally caused an influx of anglers reminiscent of the great gold rush, and the available boat ramps have been swamped with weekend traffic.

Some anglers even expressed worry that the harvest of so many large fish would harm the lake, so crews headed by Allen Forshage, regional fisheries director at Tyler, conducted an electroshocking survey to assess the standing crop.

Forshage reported that in 45 minutes of shocking they collected 100 bass ranging in size from 3 ounces to almost 5 pounds.

He observed that the fish were a larger average size than a comparable sampling the previous year. Florida bass comprised 57 percent of the bass collected, the rest being native largemouths. Another blossoming trophy Florida bass lake is Calaveras near San Antonio, where anglers are beginning to bring in bass in the 10-pound class with increasing regularity.

Biologist Jimmy Dean of San Antonio said the largest from that lake so far was an 111/2-pounder caught in 1978. Another which weighed in at 11 pounds was taken in February, and during March bass weighing 10 pounds, 8 ounces; 10 pounds, 5 ounces; 9 pounds, 12 ounces; and 9 pounds, 4 ounces were brought in.

All were examined and confirmed as Florida bass, Dean said.

Calaveras was stocked with Floridas in 1974 and again in 1978.

Just as studies in other states have indicated, Florida bass stocked in Texas waters outgrow native largemouths after the first year and at least a small percentage of the Floridas have the potential to reach maximum sizes far in excess of what could be expected of the native strain. Dean said.

In Texas lakes such as Montiecello and Calaveras, the Floridas appear also to be able to maintain a higher pounds-peracre average standing crop than native largemouths

Senate Begins Talmadge Inquiry Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate committee, unhappy in its role and uncertain of its jurisdiction, is poised to open on Monday the first public inquiry in 12 years into the ethics of a senator.

The Senate Ethics Committee's hearings into the financial affairs of Herman Talmadge, one of the most powerful members of the Senate, comes only after months of intensive legal maneuvering and after a bid by both sides to reach an agreement that could make the inquiry unnecessary.

The committee has accused Talmadge of five violations of Senate rules. The most serious of the five alleges that the Georgia Democrat converted camp contributions to his own use. Another alleges that Talmadge overcharged the Senate on his expense vouch-

Barring a last-minute agreement to end the probe, the inquiry will open with testimony from three current employees of the Georgia senator's office and with testimony from one former employee.

The committee announced Saturday that it planned to call as its first witnesses T. Rogers Wade, Talmadge's administrative assistant since 1974; Rita Hubler, the senator's personal secretary; Allyne Tisdale, his executive secretary and former campaign treasurer; and Dathine Brunson, who was Talmadge's former personal secretary and who now is a congressional rela-tions aide at the Agriculture Department.

In response to an inquiry by Talmadge's attorneys, the committee had indicated earlier that it would drop its probe if the senator would consent to censure by the Senate. Talmadge has not responded to that invitation ishment — although it is not even close to the ultimate punishment of expulsion. Censure does not deprive a senator of any of his powers, such as chairmanship of a committee, and probably its strongest practical effect comes at the polls.

The public proceedings opening Monday are the first held by the ethics committee since 1966 and 1967, when the panel held a series of meetings to examine allegations against Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., made by syndicated columnists Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson.

The Senate eventually voted 92-5 on June 23, 1967, to censure Dodd for using funds obtained "from the the public through political testimonials in a political campaign" for his personal benefit. Dodd was the seventh person censured in the Senate's history.

The investigation of Talmadge, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee and the No. 2 Democrat on the powerful Finance Committee, has encountered numerous sethacks ranging from problems in getting the powerful Finance Committee, has encountered numerous setbacks ranging from problems in getting members to serve on the ethics panel to Talmadge's hospitalization earlier this year for alcoholism.

The ethics committee itself faces problems.

None of the six panel members volunteered for the job and most resisted vigorously. Senate leaders persuaded three members to remain on the panel through the Talmadge proceeding, but it took several months to find three others who would agree to serve.

Several senators, including some members of the ethics panel, have publicly questioned whether the Senate should ever investigate the conduct of its members, suggesting such judgments on the conduct of public office-holders should be made by the voters back home.

Talmadge, who voted to censure Dodd in 1967 and who served on the Senate Watergate Committee that investigated Richard Nixon, says he now believes the voters, not the Senate, should be the judges.

Sen. Russell Long, D-La, who defended Dodd and who is a long-time friend of Talmadge, contends such committees cannot give defendants a fair hearing.

The committee also finds itself uneasy about setting in judgment of a fellow senator. For example, Sen. Adlai Stevenson, D-III., committee chairman, has consistently played down the panel's responsibility to determine whether the evidence supports a senator's innocence or guilt. Stevenson prefers to call the hearing a fact-finding proceeding and contends the panel is not judging Talmadge but only trying to find out the facts.

A third-problem is that each of the committee members enjoys a common bond with Talmadge thatt likely would disqualify them from duty if the proceeding were a federal jury proceeding instead of a quasi-judicial hearing.

were a federal jury proceeding instead of a quasi-judicial hearing.

One member of the panel, Quentin Burdick, D-N.D., has served 18 years in the Senate with Talmadge.

Helms serves on the Agriculture Committee which Talmadge chairs and has stated publicly that, "I am in a very awkward position with respect to the distinguished senator from Georgia (Talmadge)."

Another member, Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., has a different problem. When Hatfield was a college professor, he taught the wife of Talmadge's chief accuser, and the woman later worked in Hatfield's first campaign for the Senate. Hatfield, however, says his relationship with the wife of Daniel Minchew, the man who once was Talmadge's top aide, was so long ago that he once was Talmadge's top aide, was so long ago that h feels no need to disqualify himself from the process

YOUR PERSONAL BIORHYTHMS

The personal science of blorhythm can tell you how your day will go. Now you can judge the highs and lows of not only yourself, but loved ones and friends, and celebrities and stars. Biorhythm, our newest scientific discipline, is the study of the built-in natural cycles that powerfully influence our behavior.

Wiseman, 34, a lawyer in his fifth year as a House member, says his main argument is not that the Supreme Court probably would declare the law unconstitutional on the basis that it provides "cruel and unusual punishment.

"What I object to most is the ignorance behind the amendment," Wiseman said. 'Anyone that does any reading at all about rape knows that rape is not at all a

PUBLIC NOTICE

The US Army Corps of Engineers has initiated several organizational and realignment studies aimed at identifying opportunities for improving the performance and management capability of its water resources (civil works) activities and military construction. As a part of this initiative, the Southwestern Drivision Engineer is conducting a specific study to assess the costs and benefits of possible realignment involving the Albuquerque Little Rock, Fort Worth, and Tulsa Districts.

Districts.
The Realignment Study will review workload requirements and investigate several realignment attenatives to determine the most efficient manner of accomplishing the workload within these district boundaries, consistent with the high quality of Corps work in the past.

boundaries, consistent with the high quality of Corps work in the past.

The study will consist of an evaluation of the operational, budgetary, economic, environmental, community, and employee impacts associated with the final alternatives considered.

At this point we are considering the following alternatives in making this evaluation: (No district closures are being considered.)

a. To transfer the civil works design, construction, and real estate functions (in part or in total) from the Albuquerque to the Fort Worth District and from the Little Rock to the Total District.

b. To consolidate military-real estate services in the Fort Worth District and Trom the Little Rock to the Total District.

c. To change the Fort Worth Abuquerque, Tulsa, and Little Rock Districts' internal boundaries to more closely align them with state boundaries and minimize the number of Southwestern Division districts in any given state, and the Galveston District boundary to eliminate two districts serving one city, i.e. Auslin, Texas.

d. To change the Southwestern Division external boundaries to more closely align the boundary along state lines to minimize the number of Southwestern Division on external boundaries to more closely align the boundary along state lines to minimize the number of southwestern Division on of the control of the southwestern Division districts.

c. To fransfer some civil works. 819 Ave. H 765-8111 Custom Built or Exchange

e. To transfer some civil works operating projects between Southwestern Division districts.
f. To establish a Corps of Engineers liaison office in some state capital cities.
g. To transfer a portion of the military design and construction functions from the Fort Worth District a fictional story with nuclear power as the background," Gilbert said. He concedes there are elements of 'The China Syndrome" that were "partly inspired by the Karen Silkwood case." For Hirsch, 34, and Cano, 29, patience had a big reward. When agreements signed by some of the principles with Ms. Magazine expired, the UCLA grad students moved. "Nothing against her, but if Jane Fonda had taken a little more personal approach, we might not have gotten the project," Hirsch said. He and Cano flew to Nederland, Texas, to meet with Miss Silkwood's father, Bill Silkwood. They took along Carlos Anderson, the financial backer their small independent company, Carand Productions, is named after. Hirsch and Cano went camping with Silkwood.

nuclear power began Hirsch and Cano's research efforts. They followed up by getting every scrap of newspaper and magazine copy they could find about Miss Silkwood's death. "We began roughing out a treatment and filling in what we didn't know from our imaginations," Hirsch said. "It was scary how close we were on some of the things once we found out the truth."

By the time they signed a contract giving the Silkwood estate about $15,000 and a percentage of the film in return for rights to make it, the filmmakers had already done eight months of research.

"It wasn't easy to get people to talk to us," Hirsch said. "A lot of people were still scared for whatever reason.

Along the way, Carand Productions became involved in a battle with Kerr-McGee lawyers. Pre-trial depostions were under way in the Silkwood case and Hirsch was ordered to appear "and produce all notes, records, tapes and other source material" being used to develop the movie. He decided to fight the sub-

The film and television communities came to Hirsch's aid. A committee was formed to raise money for his defense against "a prior censorship attempt." Hirsch said the effort succeeded and Kerr-McGee lost its battle to "deny me my First Amendment rights.

The two ABC executives who recently brought "Friendly Fire," starring Carol Burnett and Ned Beatty, to television are working with Hirsch, Cano and their executive producers on the Silkwood story.

Jonathan Axelrod and Len Hill really deserve some credit," Hirsch said. "They stuck with 'Friendly Fire' and got it on and it looks like they're going to do the same with our project.

There isn't any rush to get the movie made while the nuclear industry is in the headlines, he said. "It's a good story and a good story is timeless," Hirsch said.

Profits For Oil Industry Rise 53 To 300 Percent

NEW YORK (AP) - Profits in the oil industry rose sharply in the first three months of the year as the Iranian revolution cut world oil supplies and led to a round of price increases.

First-quarter earnings for the nation's five largest oil companies came to nearly $2.3 billion, 53 percent ahead of those of a year earlier. Some smaller companies reported profit gains of more than 300 percent.

Several common factors were present in the profit increases, although the causes of the gains vary from company to company. Major reasons include the rising foreign crude oil prices and an upswing in earnings from chemical products abroad, the rebound of the dollar, and rising oil production in Alaska, the North Sea, Asia and Africa. In addition, the comparison with last year's first quarter was magnified for those oil companies with coal operations, because their earnings were cut last year by coal strikes.

The high earnings were announced as Congress was considering President Carter's proposal to tax "windfall" profits resulting from the lifting of domestic crude assistant Ken Clapp said. "It's perfectly legitimate to get expenses for those things, but I guess he just didn't want to be bothered with it." Clapp said the secretary traditionally employed by the state at the Governor's Mansion handled all Mrs. Briscoe's correspondence. "She took care of everything having to do with Janey." Clapp said of the mansion secretary.

Although Mrs. Briscoe sat in her husband's office with him much of the time, she did not have a separate office or a special assistant other than the mansion aide. Mrs. Clements uses the $1,500-a-month secretary at the mansion to handle her correspondence, but spends a considerable amount of time each day at the office in the tertainment expenses such as hosting other governors at a restaurant. "We told them he's going to have to pick that up out of his own pocket." Blume said. "We can only pay him for what his own actual expenses are. We cannot reimburse him for the dinners of other people. And the state cannot pay expenses for Mrs. Clements while she is traveling with the governor. That didn't go down too well.' Clark, however, denied there was any dissatisfaction expressed about the restric-

"We asked, 'Is the first lady, when performing official duties, entitled to expenses? Clark said. "The answer was 'No.' We said, 'Enough said."

Mrs. Clements, although she appears less frequently at her husband's side than Mrs. Briscoe did, is taking a much more active role as first lady, accepting numerous speaking engagements in her own right, in addition to filling in for the governor on occasions when Clements cannot address some group.

"She works an eight-hour day each day easily, plus accompanying the governor on official functions in the evening," Miss Davis said. "She doesn't believe in being just an honorary member of things. She tries to fit in as many requests as she can."

In My Corner

By FRANCES LOWE

PTA presidents have been calling here, asking if we would do a story on their retiring teachers. We tell them, reluctantly, that we don't have the space, although goodness knows we appreciate them and wish them well.

When we heard that G. B. and Pearl Morris were retiring this year, however, we just had to go out and talk to them. G. B. has been involved in the schools since 1935, and he and Pearl have, between them, something like 70 years of public school teaching!

G. B. had given me careful instructions to find their house and I met them, late one afternoon, waiting at the door to greet me. Their house is new, as Spanish as they could find because Pearl loves all things Spanish. They are, almost, newlyweds, having found each other after both were widowed.

"The way it happened," G.B. says with obvious delight, "is that my wife had died, and Pearl had been widowed (she was married to Cecil Wilson Scott of Lamesa) and she came back to Lubbock the same year I did, but we hadn't met. This counselor told me, 'There is a Spanish teacher over at Smylie Wilson you ought to meet.' So we started dating, just to have a good time; neither of us wanted to get serious."

"We spent our honeymoon in Lubbock," Pearl continued the story, laughing, because there was a football game next day between the University of Texas and Texas Tech, and G.B. was not about to miss it."

Neither of them seem old enough to be called "senior citizens." Pearl, who is slender and pretty, admits that she is taking early retirement. G.B. is lean and fit and looks like he could still play football.

They don't plan to be idle after retirement, they said, although they look forward to not having to be on a schedule. "We want to do some travelling, to Hawaii, for instance, and to see New England in the fall," Pearl says. "And we like to go over to Sante Fe and fish — I had never done any stream fishing before we married." She said she does love to read, and to macrame, and G. B. pointed proudly to some work she had done. "And of course we won't miss basketball or football," she said, "and we

A native of Seymour, G. B. played football in high school and at Tech, and in 1935 went to Breckenridge as social studies teacher and coach. He also coached while in the Air Force, part of the time at Reese, and then returned to Dallas and Vernon, to Tech briefly, and again to Highland Park. He returned to Lubbock in 1956, becoming a or, then assistant principal at Monterey, and eventually became coordinator of guidance at the central office downtown.

"It was a hard decision, to leave coaching," he says, "and it took about a year to get it out of my system. I spent half my career in coaching. I coached for and against Tech, and played for and against Tech.

A man with that many years of working with youngsters might be expected to be a grouch and/or down on kids. Wrong. G. B. has the bluest, friendliest eyes I ever saw, a ready smile, and an optimistic attitude toward youngsters.

"I think I can say that we have a great bunch of young folks coming up," he said.
"Of course they have changed. Students today are freer, more relaxed. They don't have that show of respect; they don't say 'Sir,' anymore, like I was taught, but I don't think that means they don't have respect.

"Of course, we run into some disturbed kids," he continued. "We spend the majority of our time counseling with the same students. They have different kinds of prob-lems — lack of discipline at home, broken homes. Sometimes they say they don't love or respect their parents. It's a different world; they're not out on the farm anymore, where they can work; they don't have older brothers and sisters to keep them in line; they have more freedom, cars...

"When they come in for counseling, we try to figure out what the problem is. Some-times a kid will say, 'I hate my English teacher,' but what he really hates is English. So the thing we have to find out is what they are interested in, do they really want to be in school. If they are, we can motivate them. Some kids don't like school, but they like to work. Some kids don't like to do either, and that is where we have a proble

"One of the things that has changed is that kids can go back later and finish school; there are so many opportunities for them now. They can go to school in the evening, or take correspondence courses, or get the certificate of equivalency. They can even go or take correspondence to school in prison now. ence courses, or get the certificate of equivalency. They can even go

Speaking of changes in the Lubbock schools, G. B. spoke with pride of improved programs for the academically talented as well as the academically handicapped, of vocational training programs.

"One of the things I am really proud of," he says, "is the improvement in counseling in the elementary schools. I remember when Dr. Charles Jones was the only elementary counselor in Lubbock, maybe the first one in Texas. Now we have them in every school, at least part of the time.

"Another area that gives me real satisfaction is when I see the number of Mexican-American youngsters who are graduating, and even going on to college. I remember when I could count on one hand the num-per of Mexican-Americans graduating from Lubbock High. Now we have so nany graduates, and they are coming in the system. This represents a real change on their part, and on the part of their parents; they want their kids to fin-ish school now.

"I think that the attitude that the kid comes out with is the important thing. If

There's nobody else in the world exactly like you - and, therefore, no other home should be like yours

Although there's often not much that's practical to do to the outside of a home if it looks the same as a lot of other houses - you certainly can decorate the interior individually and distinctively, and thereby have the inside of your home different from everybody else's.

Now, no one should decorate "differently" just to be different. But you should express your individuality — and decorate for the needs and the desires of you and your family

If you do that, you'll have a "one-in-a-billion home," and one that genuinely speaks for you and serves you.

Today, it's easier than ever to assemble the furniture you want and like. There's now more freedom of choice than ever before, and mixtures of furnishings are not only acceptable but desirable, so you can add just the things you like.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I work in the office of a fairly large company located about four miles from my home, so I often bike to work. When I do, I wear tennis shorts and carry my work clothes in a back

When I'm early, I have a cup of coffee with some of the other early arrivers while I'm still in my tennis shorts.

After four months of this routine, my supervisor called me into her office and told me it was very "unprofessional" for me to be standing around in tennis shorts, and I was not to do it anymore!

I told her that as long as I didn't work in tennis shorts I saw nothing wrong with it, and I intended to continue. She looked me in the eye and said, threateningly, We shall see!"

I'm not sure of what she meant by that, but since when can a supervisor tell an employee what to wear to work? Your opinion is needed.

Irked In California

Dear Irked: What you wear to work is your own business, but once you enter the building, what you wear in the presence of your co-workers becomes the business of your supervisor. Remember, too much exposure can be hazardous to your health - and your job.

DEAR ABBY: I know that you have a twin sister. I have also heard that you are happily married. Can you please tell how the love you have for your husband compares with the love you have for your twin? Does your husband come first or second?

I married a twin, and I would not recommend it to anyone. My wife's twin sister came first with her, which is why we are no longer married. I am now married

Dear G.G.: When a person marries, the spouse is (or should be) Numero Uno! At least that's the way it is at MY house.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday my children and I were in a doctor's office. A boy about four was there, running wild. He beat on the furniture and kicked the door, then attacked the other patients children and adults alike - shouting the whole time that he wanted to fight.

I couldn't believe my eyes. His mother was nowhere in sight. Another patient and I tried to subdue the child. We learned that his mother was down the hall in another waiting room, so I took the boy by the arm and found his mother. When I told her that her child had been tearing up the waiting room and hitting people, she barely looked up from her magazine and said tersely, "He is just

Needless to say, I was stunned. I then better understood the boy's behavior and actually felt sorry for him for having such an unconcerned mother.

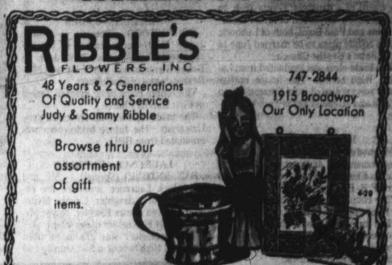

What should I have done? I'm completely confused. Bewildered In Dayton

Dear Bewildered: You should have asked the doctor's nurse to handle it. The mother, the child or possibly both, have serious problems. Such aggressive, anti-social behavior as the child exhibited is a symptom of a serious mental problem. The mother may have been acting under doctor's orders (ignoring the outbursts) instead of being "unconcerned."

Plans Week-Long Celebration

By FRANCES LOWE

Family News Editor In celebration of YWCA week, the Lubbock YWCA has planned a variety of activities through this week at the O'Neil Center. 3201 35th St. and the Margaret M. Richards Aquatic Center, 3202 36th St.

Culminating in a "Laff-O-Lympics" from 3-4 p.m. May 6, the week-long schedule of events, which calls attention to the variety of programs offered to local women and girls, will include an art show and swim meets each weekend.

In addition to the public events, a midweek kickoff is planned for the YWCA -Family Division of the capital campaign to raise funds for a proposed Physical Fitness Center, an addition to the present

"Laff-O-Lympics" will offer an hour of fast-paced fun for the whole family, YWCA officials said, including relay races, family relays, a 30-yard dash, hor-shoe toss, and three-legged races. Alongside these will be exhibition events featuring such Lubbock "superstars" as Lynn Stafford, Ed Irons, Dirk West, Alan Henry, Mary Alice and Joe Robbins, Jane Prince and Jeff King.

The event is offered as a gift to the peo-ple of Lubbock by the YWCA: there is no admission charge, everyone is invited to participate and/or watch, and no solicitations will be made for funds.

YWCA Water Y'ers are hosts for the West Texas AAU Reserve Championship Swim Meet this weekend, an all-age group event. Next weekend, the Water Y'ers Masters Invitational Swim Meet will include AAU-sanctioned Masters Swimmers age 25 and over from Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma

As part of the Capital Fund Campaign now in progress, the membership division will hold a kickoff meeting Wednesday at 7 p.m. at the O'Neil Center. The fund drive is for the purpose of adding a multi-purpose gymnasium and locker facilities to the Aquatic Center.

Enormous growth in participation over 60,000 participants last year - has rendered present space inadequate. YWCA officers have said in announcing the capital funds campaign. Completion of the Physical Fitness Center will allow expanded programming in exercise. dance, gymnastics, and personal enrichment, as well as new programming in team sports such as basketball and volleyball

Howard L. Yandell is general chairman of the fund. while Bob Dunbar is cochairman. Mrs. Doug Andrews is president of the YWCA and Bob Brummal is chairman of the advisory council. They will be joined by a distinguished group of Lubbock citizens in urging community support of the proposed center. Officers and new members of the board of directors will be introduced at a brief membership meeting on the grounds at 4 p.m. following the Laff-O-Lympics.

Visitors to the YWCA this month will also view oil on canvas and decorative tole painting in florals and landscapes by Gail Garland, local artist whose works will be on display during May. The artist will host a reception May 6 to open the

The YWCA has a long history of being responsive to the interests, needs and concerns of teen and adult women. Even as it continues to provide service to girls and women, the YWCA maintains an advocacy role for their fuller development. It offers new opportunities of enrichment which improve their lives and the lives of those around them.

Because of its nature, the YWCA has been able to provide opportunities for leadership development for a racially diverse group of women in community and student YWCA's in 82 countries.

The week's activities are open to the public at no charge. No solicitations will be made at any of the events.

Cookbook Editors Promote Exotic Cuisine

By JEANNE LESEM UPI Family Editor

DS

The Chinese in America are only indirectly responsible for what one author and editor has called a "formidable surge of interest" in their cuisine.

Enthusiastic reviews by newspaper and magazine editors of Chinese restaurants and cookbooks did much to familiarize the average American with what used to be considered exotic fare.

Foremost among those editors is Craig Claiborne of the New York Times, who wrote of the beginning of the trend in the

That's a conservation tip from Bill Plaster, senior process engineer at Phillips Petroleum and consultant to the company's committee on enerforeword to a Chinese cookbook published in 1962. At the time, he was the newspaper's restaurant critic as well as food news editor and a great admirer of Chinese cookery.

Claiborne attributed its popularity largely to its growing availability in res-taurants but noted that it was beginning to become a favorite with home cooks, as

Many such home cooks have taken up Chinese food preparation as a hobby, after enrolling in private and public classes available in most major cities.

Many also learned to appreciate Oriental food after World War II, when world travel was no longer just for the rich, and Americans of average income began to bring back a taste for exotic foods along with the usual tourist souvenirs. By 1972, when President Nixon made his historic trip to China, more than 50 cookbooks dealing solely or mainly with Chinese food were in print in the United stove-top models. Canned, packaged and frozen Chinese ingredients are widely available in supermarkets today, although many bear little if any resemblance to their real Chinese.

Fresh ginger root, Chinese cabbage and other oriental produce can also be found in supermarkets, including many in small

The Chinese cookbook passed the 100 mark by the end of 1977, the most recent year for which figures are available and the peak is yet to come. With diplo-matic relations re-established with the People's Republic of China, and a tourism boom forecast, the number seems almost certain to keep growing.

Family New Staff
The most-frequently repeated message of the Forum on the Child held this week at Reese Air Force Base was that the American family is here to stay and is an integral part of the solution to the many problems facing children and youth to-

In one way or another this statement was made by nearly all of the panel members addressing the Wednesday meeting of about 200 persons representing groups and agencies related to the Lubbock United Way. The forum was sponsored by the Community Planning Council and the Interagency Action Council. Kathryn Powell of the United Way staff was the conference coordinator.

The conference explored a wide variety of needs and problems relating to children and youth. Speakers told of steps currently being taken to meet these needs and problems in the Lubbock area. Throughout, the role of the family was stressed.

In a discussion of child care, Dr. Jeanette Jenkins of the Texas Tech Univer-sity College of Home Economics emphasized that child care is supplemental to, and does not supplant, family care of children. With more and more women in the job scene, the quality of day care for oung children is a special concern. Dr. Jenkins commented about the inadequacy of present day care facilities which accommodate children at rates which can be afforded by low income families, those needing such care the most. Lubbock presently has three such centers and a fourth one is under way. The three take care of only 266 children and have a waiting list of over 1000, she reported.

Dr. Jeanette Coufal, also of the Tech College of Home Economics and a parent education specialist, said that although 1979 is officially the International Year of the Child, it ought to be designated also as Year of the Parent. She described the job of parenting as "helping a child to feel good about himself and to feel capa-ble and lovable." She believes that praising a child is most important. "Catch your child being good!" she advised. She also said that parents' unrealistic expectations of their young children are often the cause of child abuse. sive age are. As part of a discussion about discipline, counselor Claude Dollins spoke of the need for parents to learn new and up-todate parenting skills. Concepts of child rearing have changed since the present generation of parents were children, he said, and parents can do better than running the mom-dad-grandmother tapes over and over." The best form of discipline, he advocates, is that a child "own the problem," and deal with it as independently as appropriate to the age of the child. He spoke in opposition to corporal punishment because he said he feels it perpetuates violence as a solution.

In yet another presentation, this by Dr. Robert Pinder of the Tech College of Home Economics, the importance of the family in the task of a child's sex education was emphasized. "Sex education begins at a baby's birth wth the infant's perception of nearness and touch," he said. He described the parents' role in sex education as teaching the child "to share the wonder of nature." He said sex education is only one facet of teaching a child to be comfortable with its own body and func-

In talking about drug and alcohol con-cerns, MH/MR counselor Mike Kelly again picked up the theme of family example as an important model for young persons faced with decisions related to this area. The common American solution of "taking something" whenever there is discomfort" contributes to the young person's dilemma, he said.

Lloyd Watts, administrator of the Lubbock County Juvenile Probation Office, described the new concepts of dealing with juvenile offenders which dictated the design of the new juvenile center. Watts again stressed the importance of the family in the rehabilitation process as well as in the preventive stages. Counseling and work with other members of the family will be an important and integral part of the system, according to Watts. He stated that he felt the new approach to working with juveniles was a step the right direction. "It's time we grew in juvenile justice and stopped going 400 different ways. We are losing too many to unproductive lives."

These speakers and other participants in the conference pointed out that, while Lubbock children and youth do face many of the same problems as others in the nation, Lubbock is continually exploring improved ways to meet them.

By JON-MICHAEL REED

ALL MY CHILDREN: Nancy underwent Russ' surgery after being mugged, but asked Frank to care for Carl if she doesn't survive. Linc halted Benny and Estelle's wedding because her divorce isn't legal. Devon asked Wally to marry her. Mona resigned from her job with Charles after Phoebe's threats to spread scandal to the hospital board. Langley eyed Edna and Phoebe's bank accounts. Betsy became a student nurse, working under Ruth. Wally and Ellen feared that Devon's marriage change-of-heart stemmed from her concern for Ellen's chances with Mark. ANOTHER WORLD: Marianne recovered from her craziness over John's death. Sally told Susan that Alice doesn't love or need Sally. Morgan and Paul tried to get Rita to accept Eileen and Joey's relationship. Mac flared up at Rachel for her jealousy over an affair with Janice that doesn't exist. Brian nailed Iris for pitting Mac and Rachel against each other. Willis became lovey-dovey with Angie, while Gwen told everyone she was sitting it out till Willis came to his senses. Dennis worried about Sylive's health. Sally has been filmed shoplifting.

AS THE WORLD TURNS: John blackmailed Melinda to steal Bob's cardiac research material. Kim approved of the land Dan bought for their new house. Lisa skipped, supposedly to Switzerland. But she was later reported to be hanging around town and Tom called to say she never arrived in Switzerland. Annie nixed Jeff's stay-the-night invitation. Doug confided in Annie when he received a letter from his wife, Marcia. Kate questioned Valerie about whether she'll marry Alex but Val insisted she wasn't looking for a man. Joyce almost spilled the beans to Ralph while she was drunk.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES: Mary met Phyllis in San Francisco where Phyllis has a man but is determined to seek revenge on Neil. Doug learned from Rebecca's letter that he's Dougie's father, but Doug kept the news from Robert, Bob jumped down Mary's throat after her 'innocent" magazine article cost the plant a government contract. Laura refused Marlena's resignation, then later was again hostile to her. Jordan arrived. Mary assured Phyllis that Mary washed her hands of Neil, who has renewed an interest in Amanda. Trish nursed David who has pneumonia. Marie explained her religious devotion to Julie.

THE DOCTORS: Everyone fretted about Billy being constantly stoned. Missy told Luke she was jailed for killing her stepfather. Luke told Sweeney that he doesn't know whether he can deal with Missy's hangups. Nola got her way with Mona and hired Mildred. Steve refused to sign the trust fund for Nola's baby.

EDGE OF NIGHT: One of the Berry sisters identified Raven as being at the murder scene. Raven testified she bought Wade's tape blackmailing Logan and also overheard Wade blackmailing Margo. Margo was a suspect because she was Wade's financial backer. Elliott learned that Margo's gun is the same caliber as the gun that killed Wade. After being taunted by Sarah about Margo's hold on him, Elliott anonymously sent Margo's gun to Draper.

GENERAL HOSPITAL: Steve and Aureconciled. Rick alienated everyone while Jeff cooled down about his parentage revelation. Monica admitted spending the night with Rick to Scotty and Laura but was interrupted before she could add that nothing happened. Tracy worked overtime to uncover Rick and Monica's secret. Brian warned Laura she's pushing Scotty into marriage too soon. Heather plotted to get rid of P.J.'s babysitter Maggie so that Diana will be defenseless. Bobbi was overjoyed to hear that Lee also objected to Scotty and Laura's summer wedding.

GUIDING LIGHT: Diane stole Ramon's affidavits from Roger, who accused Rita of stealing them. Sara and Mike learned that Dean's car was used months ago to run down Roger. Katie paid Floyd to keep nurse Lydia Singer away from Mark. Alan offered Roger a lifetime fee if Roger left Springfield and returned Ramon's affidavits. Hope didn't want to work on a project for Alan but Mike encouraged her to do so. Diana flirted with Ben. Despite the evidence, Adam bolstered Roger's credibility as the rape trial began. Roger hinted to Mike that Roger was promoted because he has the goods on Alan.

LOVE OF LIFE: Brewster returned an unconscious Ray to Arlene and the cops. Ray was returned to Rosehill where he was treated by Andrew. Brewster gave Arlene an envelope to be opened when Ray's well. Ruth told Bruce she is Brewster's sister and that Eloise is Brewster's pet name for his wife. Mia reminded Betsy that Elliott was crushed by Betsy's ex-

ONE LIFE TO LIVE: Faith Kipling arrived and reminded Danny and Vicki of Meredith, Larry's deceased wife. Dick learned about Adam's epilepsy and substatuted Adam's medication. Jack called in another surgeon instead of Ivan for Jack's surgery. Jack told Carla he won't want her if he's crippled. Gretel told Paul he reminds her of her former husband Carl. Edwina insisted she doesn't want a backstreet affair with Herb. Dorian buttered up Dr. Alexandra Fanning to place Herb on the board. Samantha wanted to change her wedding date, which is the same as Tony and Cathy's anniversary. Ivan treated Faith like a toy doll and got riled when she reminded him about having children.

RYAN'S HOPE: Jill went home but continued to buy drugs and to daydream about Edmund. Faith learned that Poppy lives in poverty and resembles Theresa, Tom's deceased love. Thatcher and Jack met but didn't hit it off. Johnny's cocoa bean investment took a turn for the worse

SEARCH FOR TOMORROW: Stephanie was inconsolate after undergoing a modified mastectomy. Martin and a search crew found Travis' plane but no sign of survivors. Liza insisted to antagonist Mignon that she loved Travis. Carolyn turned to Marc with her troubles. Travis was finally located.

THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS: Vanessa and the Maestro were godparents at Brooks' christening, but Van rebuffed the Maestro's overtures. Nick arranged for Greg and Nikki to get their dating wires crossed. Suzanne urged Kay to keep Liz from telling Derek about Kay's mental state. Jill insisted she'd fight Stu's divorce action.

Hydroponics Provide Alternative For Plant Lovers

By LYNN HOHERTZ Family News Staff

Who says only the "green thumbs" of the world can have a house full of healthy. thriving plants?

The solution for those with constant foliage problems? Hydroponics.

Hydroponics is the process of growing plants in a solution of nutrients rather than in soil. There is nothing mystical about this process. A water solution rich with the necessary nutrients is washed or pumped through a mixture of light gravel or stones which anchors the plant and retains the solution

According to Chris Easton, manager of a local hydroponic plant company, there are many advantages to this method.

Since this is a completely soil-free process, no soilborne diseases or insects are present. There are also no odors from rotting roots. The nutrient solution is applied each time the plant is watered - every two weeks. This convience is especially help-ful for people who have a tendency to overwater their plants. The solution can be made up ahead and stored indefinitely until needed The solution not only supplies all the minerals required for growth, but also provides a Ph buffer which keeps the soil from becoming too alkaline or acidic. Hydroponic plants never need to be fertilized and artifical cleaners are not necessary. In fact, a solution of pure mild soap and warm water not only cleans leaves but acts as a natural insecticide.

"Hydroponic plants are also ideal for people who suffer from certain allergies," said Mrs. Easton. Molds, which breed in soil, dust and dirt are eliminat-

What makes up a hydroponic system? The process Mrs. Easton promotes uses specially prepared stones of man-made aggregate clay from Germany. According to the hydroponic specialist, these stones don't have any chemicals in them which could harm the plant. The stones also maintain a balanced supply of air and moisture to the plant's root system.

A layer of these stones is placed in special basket. The plant is then placed in the basket and surrounded by more stones. The nutrient solution is then applied. The basket, which features a water level indicator, is finally placed in a decorative container.

Mrs. Easton disputes the myth that hydroponic plants are more expensive than soil plants. The overall expense stems from the system, she explains, and these plants last indefinitely if properly tended.

Hydronponics, unfortunately, does not mean elimination of all care. As with all plants, hydroponic plants need the correct amount of sunlight and humidity. These plants also require leaching. "This process takes only a couple of minutes every two weeks and consists of running gin," Mrs. Easton said lukewarm water over the stones in the basket," she explained. Leaching rids the plant of excess salt residue which comes from the water, especially Lubbock water. This buildup also occurs in soil grown plants but requires a messier, time-consuming leaching job. Mrs. Easton recommended watering all plants with distilled water.

Any type plant does well in the hydroponic system. Mrs. Easton receives cuttings from plants which have been water rooted; however, transplants from soil to hydroponics are possible.

A planting unit, stones and nutrient solution are needed in order to make this

The plant is gently removed from its soil container and washed in lukewarm water. All soil must be removed. This is extremely difficult, however, with older plants which have extensive root sys-

The hydroponic container should be approximately 1/3 full of stones. The next step is to arrange the roots on the base of the stones and add more stones, up to the plant's normal planting depth. Only water should be used for the first four weeks while the plant adjusts to the sys-

"Although it is a fairly successful process, the best results come from plants which have an entirely hydroponic ori-

In addition to house plants, vegetables can be grown in large scale hydroponic

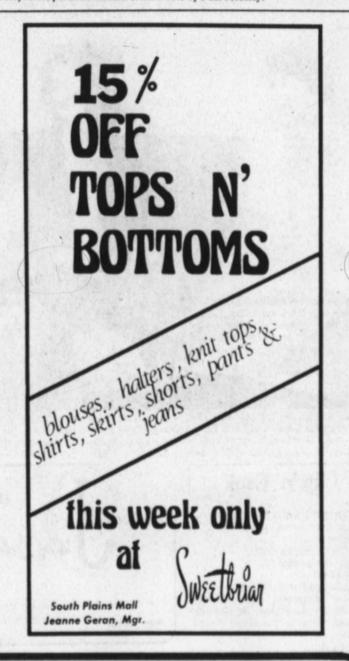

Depending on the size of production desired, everything for setting up a hydro-ponic garden can be found around the kitchen. A basic system can be made up from a dishpan, clean gravel, stones or coarse sand, a length of plastic or rubber hose and a bucket. A hole should be cut in the side of both the dishpan and bucket, near the bottom, for the hose. The hose needs to fit tightly and to be sealed with epoxy glue. Six to eight inches of stones are then placed in the dishpan. Next, the plants are secured

By raising and lowering the bucket attached to the dishpan, the nutrient solution is flushed over the plants. This 'feeding' should take place twice daily.

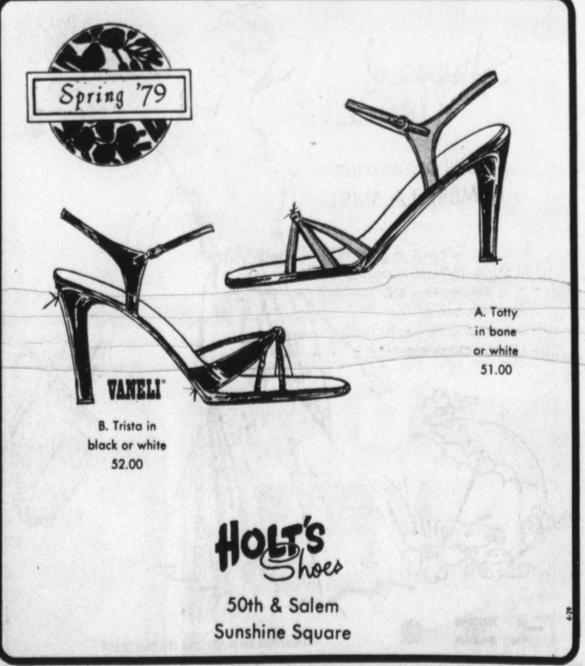

So, delight yourself, your family and friends. Hydroponics "makes it possible for anyone to be successful in growing things," Mrs. Easton said.

Center Offers Free Medical Care

By FRANCES LOWE

Family News Editor Presbyterian Medical Center, 2305 Cear St., is one of three local facilities which offer medical care to persons for whom, frequently, no other access is

Along with the Sick Baby Clinic, a minstry of Second Baptist Church, and the Well Baby Clinic, supported through nited Way, the Center offers free medical care to persons in the community who are "caught in the middle" between govrnment help and the high cost of private nedical care

The other clinics are, obviously, directed at the health care of babies and young children. Presbyterian, on the other hand, is a facility for persons between 13 and 65. It is not intended for welfare families but for those whom Ann Price. director of the clinic, calls "the working

These are people who are caught by the crisis in medical care in our country today: not poor enough to qualify for indigency care or welfare, but not rich enough, either, to afford the high costs of office visits and medicine through private physicians.

At the Presbyterian Medical Center, which is described as a "non-governmental, privately supported, volunteer-based free clinic for ... persons between the ages of 13 and 65 who do not qualify for State or Federal Medical health programs,' care is available to such people, many of whom have no place else to turn.

But, like the Sick Baby Clinic, which is also dependent entirely on private donations and volunteer help, the Presbyterian Center faces a crisis in support. Volunteer help from the community, in the forms both of work and financial support, is being stretched further each year.

The pressing need of the Presbyterian Center, for which the demand has increased yearly as the costs of medical care have soared, is for skilled physicianvolunteers who are willing to give some of their spare time to staff the clinics.

As the doctors who have worked in the center have retired, died, or moved out of the community, there have not been new doctors to replace them. Miss Price said. The gynecologist who serves the Center, for example, has been doing so for years. Other doctors in various specialities, especially in family practice, are desperately needed to staff the Center during clinic hours.

For persons with some of the most common health care problems dealt with at the center, such as high blood pressure and diabetes, the cost of private medical care and medicine would be overwhelm-

We have, for instance, elderly peple on fixed incomes: people who are working to help themselves but at low, fixed salaries: those increasing numbers of people for whom their income is barely enough to cover the rising costs of food and housing," Miss Price said.

The Center was conceived in 1965 by a group of Lubbock Presbyterians, including a number of physicians, who were aware of the special need in the community for medical counseling and treatment for people who could not afford the medical help they required but who did not qualify for existing programs of medical assistance. Miss Price said.

Opening its doors in April 1966, the Center has operated continually since that time in the building in East Lubbock formerly occupied by the Chatman Clinic. The patient load ranges from between 400 and 500 instances of patient service each month, representing probably around 125 to 150 patients.

Organized Center clinics include general medicine, gynecology, orthopedics, dental, diet and endocrinology. Clinic services include diagnostic examinations and simple diagnostic tests, medical counseling and referral, prescribed medications and electrocardiograms.

The center is entirely a volunteer organization: only the director is paid. Volunteer doctors, pharmacists, nurses. aides, office workers, and the board of directors, serve as a public service to their community with assistance from

For some of its services, especially medicines, however, the center does require financial assistance. This is provided through the Presbyterian churches of Lubbock, individual donations, memorials and bequests, the Palo Duro Union Presbytery, regional Presbyterian churches and, in some cases, industrial and commercial gifts. Some medicines are provided free.

The proposed 1979 budget of $36,000 projects only a moderate increase in income for the center, for which the demand for services increases constantly

But, Miss Price says, the need of the center is even more urgent for profesional volunteers, especially doctors, although nurses and pharmacists would al-

DISPENSING MEDICINE - The provision of free medicine to patients needing it is an important part of the work of the Presbyterian Medical Center. Here Hazel Self, right, a pharmacist who volunteers her time to the center, is assisted by Mary Taylor, also a volunteer. While some of the medicines are provided free or at cost, a large part of the center budget goes to provide needed medication to patients.

LAB WORKUP - Elizabeth Skoog, a nurse, works as a volunteer in the laborator at the Presbyterian Center, where simple diagnostic tests and procedures are carried out: more complicated workups are referred to another laboratory. Clients must fulfill guidelines, similar to those for the free school lunch program, to qualify for the center's services, which are provided without cost to the patient.

'Miniature' Hobby Attracts Attention

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Marion Work-man lives in a small world. She's big on little things.

She makes and collects miniatures, a hobby that is attracting widespread interest in this area.

She got hooked on the miniature life a couple of years ago when she was looking for a change from her sewing and knitting. It wasn't long before her deft fingers and eye for beauty were being used on tiny models of furniture, dollhouselike settings and accessories.

Her new hobby brought about changes in the Workman household. Her husband built her a workbench in the basement. bought her a jigsaw, lathe and jeweler's

She read books on electrical wiring so she could wire the shadow boxes to give them depth. She uses transformers inserted in the backs of the cabinets. Light bulbs, made from a grain of wheat, end up about the size of a matchhead. She once created a chandelier from fishhooks

"I learned a lot from reading books and following directions," she said She asked her brother, Louis Hubach, to teach her how to solder when she needed to know. He did. Mrs. Workman said she might spend three months on one project and the cost could run to $200. She buys some of the little things but prefers to make most of the miniatures herself.

"Part of the fun of this hobby is building your own furniture and accessories."

NEW INTEREST Over a narrow skirt, try a short, chunky jacket for new interest

"The legs are fine but you can see the seat is too large," she said of the stool's proportions. "I'll have to make another seat." She uses a scale of 1 inch to 1 foot but says when she is in doubt she makes the item small.

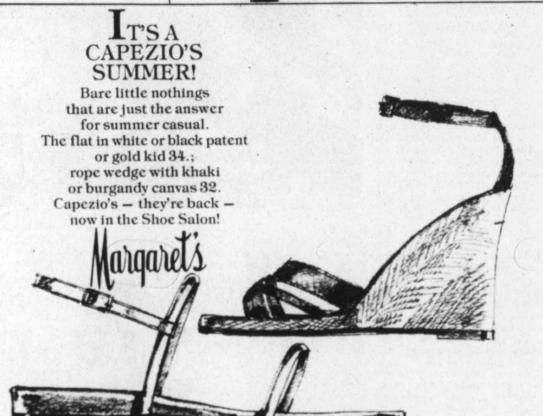

"Then it won't look out of proportion as much as if it were on the large size." she explained. "The way to test a miniature's quality and accuracy is to take a photograph of the finished project. If the picture of it looks like a real room or. ...a piece of furniture or a pair of wall sconces, you've hit it right.

Aside from the challenge, Mrs. Workman said it didn't take a lot of space to exhibit her hobby.

"Although at times, when the kitchen table where I do a lot of gluing and painting jobs becomes such a mess, I could scream.

CHICAGO - "Can you still see my gills?" The questioner was Beau Bridges, as likeable a young man as one could ever hope to meet in the entertainment business, and well aware of the fact he was extremely lucky to have a close contact who could help him into the film business. The contact was his father, Lloyd Bridges, and Beau's comment was an obvious reference to his many bit parts on television episodes of "Sea Hunt." He also recalls his first movie dialogue; he played a friend of the child star in "The Red Pony" and his one line was, "You're gonna brush the hide right off him." Then, in his next film, he played a member of a family caught in a crashing plane over the jungles of Africa; as he remembered it, "We all parachute to safety, I get hung up in a tree and finally get adopted by a gorilla named Zamba. Not exactly an auspicious start, right? Well, at that point, Bridges couldn't have cared less. He was intent on making a career with sports. He was much more active in baseball, basketball, swimming and diving, and only viewed this acting business thespian who brings something real, something special, into what one might call common characters. He has worked with the best directors in the business -Hal Ashby, Sidney Lumet, Martin Ritt and numerous times with Larry Peerce and he has earned, if not stardom, at least the respect of both the viewers

The fact he is willing to take smaller roles just to be a part of a production is another admirable quality, and it pays off especially well in his latest film called Norma Rae." Safly Field is the real star of the film, but Bridges' performance as her husband, Sonny, helps the picture achieve a high degree of tenderness.

Asked why he took a supporting .role (the major Believable and romantic in "Norma Rae" male lead belongs to Ron Leibman), the casually dressed actor answered, "Well, the script itself is the most essential part of making a good movie. And I thought this script was absolute gold. I mean, it's a film about people in a relationship who dare to speak the truth to one another. And that's important. I found that out with my own personal life. It's easy to be honest with a stranger. What's tough is getting down and talking straight with your family, with people who are important to you.

"My priority is the story. Then I look at the role. And I liked the fact that Sonny is allowed to change, that the story follows through with his character, too.

Bridges seems to enjoy playing "good old boy" roles, with "Norma Rae" following performances in films like "Greased Lightning" and the too soon forgotten "Lovin' Molly." And he likens that in part to his affection for the south. "People in the south are refreshingly straightforward," he explained. "If they're hostile, it can be scary. But at least you know when to get out. In the north, they may laugh with you and then step went in the back." and then stab you in the back.

"That's another reason I wanted to work with (director) Marty Ritt on this film. Marty has such a genuine love for all people. Whereas other directors might have poked fun at the mill workers in 'Norma Rae,' Marty would come up to us and say, Look at this incredible problem in this area of ignorance. But now, watch these people grow. Watch them deal with it. Watch them triumph.' He's a very positive per-

So is Bridges - positive to the point of realizing there are other important things in life besides filmmaking. He's always been an avid fan of both sports and music, and he also likes working with children. And more often than one might expect, he's been able to combine all three with his trade

Word has it that while Sally Field and Ron Leibman were filming their skinnydipping scene in a nearby river, Bridges was off playing basketball with local youngsters. And he descibes the scene in which he and Sally are supposed to be drinking beer at the town bar this way: "I made friends with the people there real quick. And when we were drinking in that funky little bar, they were there with us. I'd act a little bit and then go off and play guitar on the stoop. Then I'd go back and do some more of my scene, and then we'd go play some more music. You can't help but feel a part of their situation that way, too, so it also helped me in creating the character

The conversation took a different route when the subject of music arose and, suddenly, Bridges was backtracking and talking about filming "Lovin' Molly" in the small Texas town of Bastrop.

"That was a good experience," he recalled. "There was a group of local guys with a band down there, and I got friendly with them and started jamming with them. Then they started inviting me on their weekend gigs. And when the shooting was over and I was leaving, this one old man called me over and said, 'I got something for you.' And he gave me this old flatback mandolin that had been in his family for years. It blew me away. I'd never played one, but I took it home and had it fixed up.

"Then, right about that time, the refugees started pouring in from Vietnam. And I saw on TV that they were living in tents and had no entertainment. So I got a bunch of friends together and we called the Red Cross and arranged to go down and put on a show. We had a ball. Anyway, during the course of things, I asked a field representative to ask around and see if there were any musicians there. Turned out one of these old Vietnamese guys played classical mandolin, so I gave him mine to use during the show. The refugees had had to leave all their belongings behind. And man, this guy just played beautifully, like it was a part of him.

When the show was over, he came by to give me the mandolin and say goodbyc. And I drove off and then just stopped the truck and - you know, in one of those moments you don't even think about - I went back and gave him the mandolin. And it hit me later on what a strange circle that was. That maybe the old guy in Texas knew the instrument would later become a gift of life for someone else. Because it was. It was sustenance for this poor refugee who had to leave his instrument back in another country." It is precisely this sort of honest emotionalism which helps Bridges on screen, as well. (How many actors, after all, would remember that sort of occurence more than any other during the filming of a movie?) The caring comes through in "Norma Rae" especially well in two scenes. In the first, Bridges proposes to Sally Field and, in the other, he offers his support during her time of confusion. Neither involves sexual issues or sensuous visuals, and yet both speak more elegantly of love and caring than any bedroom scene I can remember.

Asked if he had to struggle to psyche up for these romantic scenes, Bridges admitted that "the whole area is funny to work on. The complexities in the scene make you think of the moments in your own life when you didn't quite know what to say, when nothing seemed right. In that scene in the house where I tell Sally she's the only one I want, the whole emotion of the moment just welled up inside me and it all just came out. It had nothing to do with craft, with acting or getting psyched up. It was just emotion.

'And that doesn't happen very often.' Bridges plans to stay in the acting profession, hoping, of course, that he won't get typecast in these "good old boy" roles. That may be hard, if only because he's so effective as a character who could be the man next door. His next film, Stanley Kramer's cinema translation of the hit play "The Runner Stumbles," teams him with Dick Van Dyke, Kathleen Quinlan and Ray Bolder in a story of murder and mystery. And the change in subject material may help. Even so, acting is still not his only priority. He still misses those days when he yearned to be a professional ballplayer.

He's been quoted as saying, "I just find another way to satisfy that yearning now. I'll go into coaching. I'll coach my kids. Once, when I was doing an interview, I talked about this and someone sent me a letter offering me a job as a coach at a basketball camp for high school kids going out for college teams. And I took the job. I spent the summer in Philadelphia and it was really great. I love working with kids.

'Having children on the set in this business (movies) is also important because it helps bring things into perspective. All of us who are actors have a little bit of the child still within us, otherwise we wouldn't be doing what we do. It's too crazy.'

It also helps if the film is a hit, if only because it makes the chore of giving interviews that much easier. "Helf yeah, I can enjoy talking with you now," said the actor who professes a liking for t-shirts and buttons. "We can communicate. I tell you, I've been out on too many of these things (interviews) where the press hated the picture almost as much as I did."

Not this time. Beau.

FIRST DATE — Beau Bridges, left, and Sally Field become acquainted in this scene from "Norma Rae," currently playing at the South Plains Cinema. A-J entertainment editor William Kerns recently traveled to Chicago to interview both stars, and discovered Bridges is interested in much more than the acting profession. The unassuming actor's comments are printed in today's Real To Reel

'Kenny And The Kasuals' On Verge Of

Kenny and the Kasuals hit Lubbock last week riding high on the tide of their latest identity — a new wave band on the verge of a major breakthrough. In strict music terms, that label might apply, but calling the Kasuals "new wave" is like calling the Beatles "a nice little band."

The Kasuals, both the original edition and their newly organized reincarna-tion, have been labeled everything from new wave to the kings of Texas music to just another '60s revival band and, to a degree, all those tags fit. But once those ingredients, ranging from the very roots of rock and roll to the very lat-est FM smash, are combined, the mixture becomes rich with experience, energy and a future which may be brighter than the illustrious and zany past which has preceded it.

Kenny Daniel, the group's catalyst and mainstay, doesn't mind the term new wave, "as long as you don't confuse it with punk."

"Everyone associates new wave with punk, but that's a bunch of bull. Punk is a bunch of jerks playing loud music for crazy people who don't know what they're listening to anyway. New wave is the music of the '80s — it arouses you the same way the Beatles did 15 years ago. It's the energy that makes new wave, not any association with punk

The Kasuals — Kenny, Greg Daniel (Kenny's cousin), Jerry Smith (the only other original Kasual), Dan Green and Ron Mason — do fit the new wave defion in terms of sheer energy. If their shows at the Rox were any indication, the Kasuals still are a loud, boisterous, fun-loving band that can play just

Their old songs are still a bit sharper than the new ones, and one can blame 5 years of practice for that. But the common denominator between the origimal Kasuals and this new version is its directness - in drive, in music, in goals - which always has marked the band as a strong, and unique musical force.

The catalyst behind the Dallas-based pheenom is Kenny, who is, as his name suggest, kasual, with a Kapital K. On stage, dressed in black T-shirt, white terry cloth pants and buck shoes, he looks casual. Behind the mike, oftentimes with hands loosely hanging out of pockets, he sings casually. And in a one-on-one situation, which is more like a reunion than an interview, he is, well, cas-

But behind the casualness lies a man serious about his music. Kenny's first band became the Kasuals much like most young bands did in the mid '60s — during the daily practice sessions at Dallas' Bryan Adams High School.

There were two ways to get the girls back then," he explained following

The choice paid off several times for the high schoolers, who soon became the stars of the Dallas music scene. Their music was a raw, driving, short-chorded bluesy British imitation of the bands which were big in the mid '60s—the Beatles, the Animals, the Kinks.

And while Kenny's peers, kids like Steve Miller and Boz Scaggs, were finding their musical roots, Kenny and the Kasuals were delving deeper and deeper in to the British sound they loved. "No one really knew what we were," he said. "We were called a part of the British invasion, and I really liked that because we were from Dallas."

British music was all the rage during the mid '60s, though, and the Kasuals parlayed their style into a large degree of success, considering they were still high school age. The Kasuals recorded an album, "Impact," which is now a very rare collectors item, and wound up opening the Beatles famous Shea

Kenny's combo rode along for what seemed forever to the youngsters, until Kenny and guitarist Jimmy Smith were unexpectedly drafted and abruptly shipped off to Vietnam. Upon their return several years later, they found the band and the lifestyle they had grown up with had crumbled in their absence. The original Kasuals grew up and took their place in a society they had flaunted only a short time earlier. Drummer David Blackley became a doctor at Parkland Hospital, bassist Lee Lightfoot now is a commercial artist for Texas Instruments and organics. ist Paul Roach owns and operates the world's largest piano and organ rental

Kenny "bopped around, doing different things" for several years, and was last seen playing, of all things, progressive country. He appeared in Lubbock in 1975 at the Jersey Lilly, now the Copper Caboose, as part of a band called

But progressive country wasn't progressive enough for Kenny Daniels, and after some prodding from "some prominent friends," the wheels which led to the reincarnation of the Kasuals began turning.

"Chet Flippo of Rolling Stone magazine was a good friend of ours in the '60s. He called up Mark (Lee, the group's manager) and asked about reforming them," Kenny explained. "He said he thought maybe the world had caught up to the Kasuals, which had been gone for 10 years, and that now might be the right time to do it."

Lee's conversation with Flippo convinced him to reissue the "Impact" album, which was first released in 1966. In the year since that phone call, "Impact" has sold more than 100,000 copies, enough to persuade Kenny to regroup the band.

"We don't have a commercial Dooble Brothers following," he said. "We have a cult following from the '60s and early '70s, plus people who now have heard that music pushed as new wave. And it looks like it's starting to build. I don't think we're as big now as we were at our peak, but I do think we have a chance to make it even bigger."

Kenny's hores for the future could come from weathin it has followed.

Kenny's hopes for the future could come true, especially if his following in other places comes through like his fans in France. Radio France got hold of an old Kasuals' recording of "Gloria" last year, and by April, it was the Number One song in the nation.

Meanwhile, Lee and Daniel culled enough old material to create a second album, called "Teen Dreams," which has been eratic but positive in its sales

The new Kasuals also have recorded an album, which they hope to release in July. "It doesn't have a name yet, but we're still working with some of the songs on it. We also have a new EP (extended play recording), which is now available," he said.

The new album will contain nothing but new songs, as does the LP, which is a long single or a short album, depending on your point of view. It contains four new songs (especially a driver called "Shake It") which Kenny hopes will act as a springboard for the groups' forthcoming tour, which will take them across the South and into the Northeast, two areas where their popularity has exploded.

"We'll spend the summer on the road backing the new stuff up. We play a major deal with the Stiff Record Co. in New York City in late May (a show which will feature Elvis Costello, Wreckless Eric, Ian Dury and Nick Lowe. The Kasuals will be the only American act on the bill). Then we're off to Eu-

The forthcoming tour and success of the new material ultimately will determine the future of Kenny and the Kasuals, but if Kenny has his way, he'll keep it up for several more years.

"I figure I can keep going as long as Mick Jagger...or Roger Staubach."

The agreement marks the first nationwide rental release of prime motion piceo market by one of the major motion picture distributors. Video Corp. plans national distribution to begin in May/June 1979.

Phillips said, "We believe the home video market will be an important source of revenue to United Artists Corporation. UA will work closely with Video Corp., endeavoring to combine our knowle of film distribution with Video Corp.'s expertise in the home video market."

Video Corp. has been market testing rental of videocassettes for over a year and has structures a functioning nationwide rental system that is serviced, in large part, by facilities that exist within its own corporation structure.

The agreement represents a 3 1/2 year license for the exclusive rental to the home video market of a group of major features, some of which have never appeared on commercial television. They will be released on videocassettes in their original, uncut, theatrical versions and will rent from $9 to $14 for a 7-day viewing period in the home. Video Corp. will distribute cassettes that are compat with all brands of Beta, VHS and other major formats of home video tape cassette players. Both UA and Video Corp. anticipate that UA's revenues arising out of Video Corp.'s cassette rentals will ex-

Jethro Tull: Still Not Too Old To Rock & Roll

TULL CONCERT - British rock band Jethro Tull, a legendary band with over a dozen gold albums to its credit, made its first stop in Lubbock Thursday night, offering an evening of showmanship and quality music to a rather disappointing turnout of 3,471 fans. UK opened the show. Tull flutist and vocalist Ian Anderson, left and top left, was up to his old tracks during the performance: dancing, spinning and choreographing the other members of the band. Those instrumentalists include John Evan, top center, on the keyboards; Martin Barre, top right, on electric guitar; and John Glascock, above, playing bass. (Staff Photos by Gary Davis)

'Manifesto' Marks Shift In Emphasis For Roxy Music Bana

By DOUG PULLEN A-J Rock Correspondent

Roxy Music's exploration of commercial rock's artistic undercurrents always has managed to keep the group from attaining the recognition its members eesired. A limited multitude has experienced the group's many ups and downs - particularly ups like Roxy Music's brilliant 1974 release "Country Life."

Once the group gradually attained a level of respectability and recognition in the States compatible with its English stronghold, the band came to a turning point, of sorts, with its members going their separate ways, pursuing solo interests though never dissolving the band.

And while the members' solo interests were not completely satisfied, they did resolve to reunite. which they did last summer. The result of that much heralded, but highly secret reunion is "Manifesto"

"Manifesto" is a decided shift in musical and methodological emphasis for the band once known the premiere avant-garde rockers. No longer does nger Bryan Ferry infest his material with the arill-edged romanticism that burned with artistic flunger and frustration. No longer does the band play with the fervor and emotion that made albums like "Country Life" and "Stranded" so devastating. Instead. Roxy Music has taken the easy way out. although it does acknowledge, in simple terms, the changes it has undergone during its three-year hia-

Ferry, the group's chief songwriter and founding member, expresses the group's state of mind early on with the little track, which appears first on the al-burn. In it be expresses a liking for living around corners, always expecting a surprise

Pethaps those opening lines are used as a kind of warning. Guitarist Phil Manzanera sets the songs' somber mood with erratic and uncontrolled sounding guitar movements. The song is the only one on "Manifesto" reminiscent of Roxy's old style. But it is weak and vague. much like the rest of the album. Even the strongly-worded title implies something that is not there. This is Roxy's manifesto, dictating the fact that Roxy is a group which realizes and acknowledges the need for change. That's what made Roxy an innovative group.

But what belies that title is the overall lack of progress or imagination employed by songwriters Ferry, Manzanera and saxist Andy Mackay. The songs on "Manifesto" are generally lifeless and un

Sure, songs like "Angel Eyes" and "Ain't That So" have a certain elasticity and longevity about them. But how long can they endure? One, maybe two months at the m

It's hard to say at this point. One of the factors that always separated Roxy Music from so many would-be innovators is the fact that despite all the internal conflicts the band has suffered, there is a brilliant chemistry that stays two paces ahead of everybody else.

This is evident on most of side two's material. The single "Dance Away" is not a disco song, although many may infer that from the title. It does have a tinge of disco in its feel, even Ferry's lyrics mention several manifestations of the world's most mindless forms of self-indulgence. But Ferry doesn't let the song go too far.

What hinders him in all his romantic attempts is the maudlin way in which he has written his songs. They're practically out of date. The crooner stance Ferry once posed three years ago has faded, although he seems intent upon resurrecting it, despite his work away from that image on his last three solo leenagers who once comprised a great deal of Rox-y's younger audience. What he fails to realize is that se people have aged into young ad

The odd guitar flourishes of yesterday are gone. So are the insightfully intelligent vocal arrangements. So are Andy Mackay's brilliantly obscure reed and horn applications. Eddie Jobson's fulfilling strings and keyboards have been replaced by the interesting, but Xerox-like work of Alan Spenner and Paul

Yes, all those things are missing. But even more important is the total lack of impact and conviction with which Roxy Music made its first music. The roblem may lie in the many swift and radical hanges rock music has undergone during the roup's layoff. The members are not out of time by my means. But they are not ahead of it either.

And that, music fans, is a tragedy.

Country Notes

By Bob Campbell

Instead of Perry. Dean. Patti and Frank. KFYO Radio listeners are hearing Waylon, Willie, Crystal and Ronnie.

The 5.000-watt station has gone country after a half-century of pop music and easy listening.

Reaching from western Oklahoma to Eastern New Mexico to Midland and Seymour, its entry into the country market is significant to country stars and national record companies as well as to its listeners.

Despite the somewhat radical change, program director Bob Nash was relaxed and confident before the changeover last week. Nash, manager Gordon Thompson and others in the station management started considering it last August, he said, and they were convinced beyond any doubt that the change would be successful. And Nash did not consider it a drastic move because country music has expanded so much in recent years and has contributed a number of "crossover" songs that KFYO was already playing. "It used to be so narrow and constricted." he said. "Anymore, you don't know what's country and what isn't." They began thinking about a change after a report showed 87 percent of their audience to be 45 years of age and older, he said. They decided they wanted to keep their present audience and add younger listeners for the added benefit of advertisers.

The sports, weather and news broadcasting that KFYO is known for will continue, he emphasized, with continued broadcasting of Texas Ranger baseball games and other features. "Country music appeals to everyone." Nash said. "For one thing, you can understand the lyrics, and for another it talks about today's lifestyle.

Baker Graphic Show Planned

The Baker Gallery will open an "original" graphic show May 6. Artist Sandy Scott will be present during the 1 to 4 p.m. reception for the show, which will feature works by 34 American graphics artists.

The show is being held with the hope of better informing the public about the difference between "original prints" and "reproduction prints." Publicity from the Baker Gallery states: "Today many art galleries are selling reproductions as 'collectable limited editions' reproductions, and they are being marketed for the same price as 'limited print' reproductions. So why not own an original for the same price as a 'limited print' reprod-uction? The Baker Gallery will display over 600 prints, priced from $5 to $750, with most priced under $150."

Works by past and present members of the National Academy of Design will be included in the one month exhibition. National Academicians displaying work at this exhibition include Kenneth M. Adams, George Bellows, Thomas Hart Benton, Howard Cook, Randall Davey, Adolf Dehn, Peter Hurd, Norman Kent, Rockwell Kent, Gene Kloss, John Noble, Doel Reed, Theodore Van Soelen, Lynd Ward, Reynold Weidenaar and Stow Wengen-who did an English tour with Mott The Hoople — which is when Rodgers started exchanging musical ideas with Mick Ratons.

Rodgers is not interested in comparing Bad Company with Free, but prefers to see Bad Company as an entity unto itself. "I' do 'think it's the best band I've ever played with," he admits.

Michael Jeffrey Ralphs was born in

Michael Jeffrey Ralphs was born in Herefordshire, outside of Hereford, England on March 31, 1948. For four years he was an apprentice in electrical engineering, and Ralph says all he learned from it was how to change a bulb. "I used to do gigs until five in the morning and be at work at seven, where I'd fall asleep."

work at seven, where I'd fall asleep."
In 1969, he went to London and joined with Ian Hunter to form Mott The Hoople, for whom he wrote "Rock And Roll Queen" and "Ready For Love."

Ralphs left Mott in the summer of 1973, just as they had reached the commercial level of becoming real money makers.

People said I was stupid to leave something like that and I suppose it was a pretty heavy decision, but I just felt that what I was getting into with Paul was more worthwhile. To have continued would have been compromising for me. I wanted to play a ballsier kind of rock and roll and for me. Bad Company had been much more satisfying."

Rodgers and Ralphs made some rough demos of the songs they had written and eventualy started playing with Simon Kirke and later Boz. "We went in and used Ronnie Lane's mobile recording studio at Headley Grange for about 10 days in November '73. There was not a lot of overdub on the stuff. Paul would sing with us and we'd usually keep the vocal and put in an extra guitar if it was needed. The album was deliberately underproduced to leave sort of a lot of spaces in the sound where we could have thrown things in, but didn't want everybody's identity to get lost."

Ralphs lists his major guitar influences as Chuck Berry and Steve Cropper. Simon Kirke was born on July 28, 1949 in Shropshire, on the Welsh border. He was 17 when he first came to London to get into rock and roll and soon thereafter met up with Paul Rodgers. He feels that the musical relationship between him and Rodgers has survived the years "because we are open with each other. There's never been any particular bug between Paul and me." He finds American audiences generaly more appreciative of English rock and roll than native ones. He cites his main influence as "the soul drummers like Al Jackson. They play with simplicity and conviction."

Boz was born Raymond Burrell in 1946, but has been called Boz for reasons he can't remember since he was 12 or 13. He comes from Lincolnshire in the English midlands and has been part of the London rock scene "for ages", which means since around 1965.

He started playing and singing blues in

He started playing and singing blues in school, and then fronted several bands that did "straight things like 'The Shadow Of Your Smile.'" When King Crimson was looking for a bass player, Boz came to the attention of Crimson guitarist Robert Fripp, who taught him the instrument. He can be heard on the Crimson LP "Islands". He's also played with Alexis Korner's 1973 band, Snake, which toured Europe and cut two albums.

Certainly one of 1978's most talked-about debuts was that of Carillo, the new rock powerhouse fronted by vocalist-gui-tarist-composer Frank Carillo. The group's fresh, original hard-rocking, R &B-flavored approach was introduced on their debut album, "Rings Around The Moon." But, in retrospect, that impressive premiere was merely a warm-up exercise, preparation for what was to come. New York City born and raised, Frank had literally seen and heard the music business from all sides by the time the pieces of Carillo fell together a couple of years ago. Having led bands and done sessions while still in high school, Frank's journeyman days were split between the U.S. and the U.K. He paid his dues by doing everything from repairing the guitars of the stars to playing with a host of artists, from Peter Frampton (the 1st two solo albums) to Tim Hardin to Yvonne Elliman. And along the way he was supported and encouraged by the likes of George Harrison, Alvin Lee, Maggie Bell and many others who recognized his great potential

Finally, Frank felt the time was right to put together his own band. Another New Yorker, Jan Mullaney, was recruited. An experienced session player, Jan's keyboard knowledge and expert arranging sense provided the perfect spring-board for Frank's song ideas. The core trio was complete with the addition of mystrery-man lyricist Luke Spagnuolo. The sessions for the first album were a growing/learning period for Carillo, resulting in a fine debut which really only scratched the surface of the band's restartion.

The latter half of '78 provided a different sort of education, as the group embarked on a series of grueling cross-country tours, winning rave notices along the way. The roadwork added immeasurable maturity to Frank's playing and composing and, most importantly, to his knowledge of what the next step would be.

As '78 turned to '79, Carillo was ready for a second album, With ace products

As '78 turned to '79, Carillo was ready for a second album. With ace producer/engineer Jimmy Douglass at the controls, Frank, Jan and Luke entered Atlantic Studios in New York to make "Street Of Dreams" a reality.

Also on hand were such stellar supporting players as Andy Newmark (drums), John Seigler (bass), Michael Brecker (sax), Jimmy Mack & Ian Lloyd (backing vocals), and a half-dozen other top-notch musicians. The combination produced a chemistry which, for Frank, was like nothing he'd ever done before.

"A song is only this one little thing," he notes. "It's what's done to the song" that makes it or breaks it. The total result is an LP that is really what Carillo is all about — full-bodied, heavy-duty rock which doesn't get caught in narow musical formulae, from blistering rock and roll to moving ballads. All the tunes on the album are Carillo-Spagnuolo originals (with J. Douglass nabbing a co-credit), with the singular exception of a tasty reworking of the Stones' classic "Out Of Time"

And at the front of it all is Frank Carillo himself, whose superb vocals and guitarwork put him right up there in the upper crust of rock's greats. Coinciding with the completion of the album, Frank and company are lined up for a massive cross-country tour with Bad Company through the spring and summer of '79.

ART TALK

Built at a cost of $15 million in the late 1930s and early '40s, the National Gallery in Washington, D.C., is a segment of the Smithsonian complex. Its operation is financed with congressional appropriation. Individuals and foundations support the acquisition and educational programs.

Around the turn of the century, Andrew Mellon, a Pittsburg, Pa., banker, began accumulating a collection of European masterpieces, primarily of Italian origin. While he was Secretary of the Treasury, under President Harding, he was indicted for income tax evasion. At the hearing, it was revealed that he was donating the entire collection to the people of the United States to be housed in a museum that he would build and endow. He explained that the $3 million collection he had assigned to the Mellon Foundation, would be the basis, but that he had to accumulate more to open the galleries.

Originally planned to be constructed of limestone as are many other Washington buildings, after studying the discoloration of the soft stone. Mellon was persuaded to contribute an additional $5 million to cover cost of Tennessee pink marble. Shortly before the opening of the magnificent structure, Mellon died, as did the famous architect. John Russell Pope.

The many galleries hold masterpieces equal to or surpassing those in museums anywhere in the world. The S.H. Kress collection of European art was a substantial contribution. Chester Dale presented his collection of later European and American masterpieces. American collectors continue to add treasures and endowments.

On the Mall side of the museum, a long flight of marble steps leads the visitor to giant bronze doors through which he enters into a great rotunda, centered with a fountain out of which rises a bronze figure of Mercury, a messenger of Greek gods. Vermont green marble columns surround the hall. Each gallery is designed to accent the time period of the paintings hung within. Displays are rotated as the collections are so vast not all can be shown at one

Most visitors walk quickly through the numerous galleries. glimpsing paintings and sculpture, recognizing familiar pieces and signatures. However, the halls afford a chance to stand in awe before the masters while reliving the artist's creation as brush strokes led toward a final masterpiece. The aspiring art student is permitted to use museum equipment to copy from the masters.

From its inception admission to the museum is free, a stipulation of Andrew Mellon's. Individual recorded lectures are available for a nominal fee. Weekly syphonic concerts ring through the galleries, originating in the garden court. A shop offers reproductions of masterpieces and a broad selection of art books. while a large restaurant gives visitors a chance to eat in a relaxed atmosphere.

Bucy said income before provision for income tax was 9.5 percent of net sales billed in the first quarter of 1979, compared with 10.1 percent a year earlier, as a result of lower interest income, price reductions in data terminals, and cost problems in watch operations. # Mobile Grounds Need Checking

Hey, Good Buddy, come again-you're breaking up.

How many times that simple sentence is repeated on the CB band each day is impossible to calculate. But in the vast majority of cases, the problem comes from a faulty ground in the CB mobile antenna.

There are two major causes of breaking up. One affects truck-mounted antennas. where the antenna lead-in wire (coaxial cable) bends its way into the trunk.

Constant opening and closing of the trunk crimps the wire and often causes a break in the plastic that covers the coax's inner braid and center conductor, thus shorting out the antenna.

Mobile CBers should frequently inspect their trunk-mount antenna's lead-in wire. It doesn't hurt to wrap some black plastic tape around the spot that gets most of the

The next major cause of breaking up involves a faulty connection of the coax's braid. Fortunately, more and more mobile antennas now are pre-soldered at the factory, or connected by means of a spe-

But whether factory-attached or not, the constant stress and bumps most mobile antennas undergo eventually loosen even the most secure connections.

Thus, at least every 60 days, mobile CBers should closely inspect their antenna grounds. If yours is looking a bit frayed, disconnect the worn coax, cut it off and carefully strip the coax, separating the braid from the center connector.

Tip the braid with a bit of solder to keep it from unraveling and solder it into place at the grounding terminal. Then reinsert and solder the center connector into the slot that connects it with the anten-

Heavy Metal In Zinc Cans Criticized

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) - A veterinary public health researcher says banning lead solder in cans and lead inks in plastic and paper packaging could help counter dangerous buildups of heavy metal in humans.

Prof. Leon Russell also says concentrations of lead and some other heavy metals in food animals can cause brain and nerve damage, stomach and kidney inflammation, loss of hair and skin lesions. Russell says concentrations of lead, mercury, zinc, cadmium, selenium and arsenic in food animals have produced poisoning and birth defects and are linked to

The professor says toxicity problems need continuous control, and packaging may add to the problem - but no foods of animal origin have been shown to contain excess lead unless it leached from the container or ink

The Voice of Business

By RICHARD LESHER

President of U.S. Chamber of Commerce WASHINGTON - Have you ever stopped to consider that runaway regulations threaten much more than your pocketbook - that they could also wipe out America's technological leadership, lower your standard of living and actually lead to a loss of life? Sound exaggerated? Believe me, it's not; it's already happen-

To get a clearer picture of just why this is true, consider how excessive regulations have restricted our ability to compete in international trade. Last year, the United States — the country we like to believe is the leader of the free world experienced: The lowest rate of productivity increase in the industrialized west: the second lowest rate of investment (through the second quarter); the lowest number of patents issued in any year since 1964; a currency whose value was rapidly declining, and a rate of inflation which was rapidly climbing. And all that, I might venture, was more than a coinci-

What we've been witnessing is no less than an attack on the very essence of progress. As a magazine, Nation's Business, recently noted: "If innovation had stopped ten years ago, we'd be without small computers, home smoke detectors, wide-body jets, and synthetic heart

"Even with those developments and other more esoteric, U.S. innovation dur-

The sad, but undeniable fact is this: Each year, we are transferring more and more of our national wealth and best intellectual talent from the pursuit of progress to the satisfaction of regulatory requirements. Money being spent on re-search and development today is lower in real dollars than it was 10 years ago. And now, this sustained smothering of invention is bearing a bitter fruit.

Listen to the words of Dr. Iver Giaever. a Nobel laureate in physics, who says: "The SST is French and British, the fast breeder reactor is French and Russian and the cassettes we listen to are Japanese. It's no wonder we're all worried.

Unfortunately, that's just the beginning. America's technological leadership has either been already overtaken, or is being severely challenged in many other areas: in optics, election microscopes and stainless steel by the Japanese, in man-made fibers by Korea and Taiwan, and in the development of nuclear energy by Sweden, France and West Germany. Syndicated writer Allen Brownfield recently reported that while the sale of video tape recorders in the United States doubled and approached $1 billion in 1978 ... "Not one of the 12 machines sold in the U.S. even though the American broadcast industry pioneered the device. They are produced in Japan, even those trademarked RCA, GE, Zenith, Magnavox and Sylvania.

'In the chemical field, the three largest chemical companies in West Germany last year introduced more new products than the five largest chemical companies in the U.S. This is the first time that this has happened since World War II."

Nation's Business recently featured a special report analyzing the dilemma in which the chemical industry finds itself. On the other hand, we want the industry to develop new products like: chemical pesticides to control weeds and insects that destroy food crops; synthetic fibers specially designed to keep us warm; pharamaceuticals to improve and prolong life; and plastics for example, in auto grilles, dashboards and body parts to reduce weight and increase gasoline mileage. ## Fooling The People Is Simpler cure for inflation "is either a liar or a fool," President Carter says. He's correct, of course. It's no simple matter to heal the nation's economic ills when political leaders such as Mr. Carter and the Democratic-controlled Congress try to put the blame on business rather than take the cure themselves.

ANYONE WHO SAYS there is a simple

The President did not invent inflation, of course, but it has grown markedly worse and climbed back into double digits since he took over the White House little more than two years ago.

OPENING HIS CAMPAIGN for re-election, without actually declaring his candidacy, the President sounded his anti-American business theme in growingly strident language in New Hampshire.

"The oil companies must not be allowed to keep the excess and unearned profits from the rising price of oil," Carter said. "There is no excuse for permitting any such massive rip-off..."

This followed as night the day the President's earlier attempts to destroy the last vestige of public confidence in the free enterprise system by denigrating fourth-quarter corporate profits.

In maliciously attacking the system which has created a great America, the President is laying the groundwork for a new social and economic order in which all of the decisions affecting the marketplace would be controlled from Washington.

THE PRESIDENT appears to be poised at this very moment, protestations to the contrary notwithstanding, to slap mandatory wage and price controls on the economy.

He thus would abandon the facade that his so-called "voluntary" controls are workable and less onerous and would follow the path that past Presidents-Republican and Democratic alike-already have proved to be counter-productive in the long run.

In politics, though, getting elected is the first priority and Carter is almost certain to grow desperate in the face of flank attacks for the Democratic nomination by Sen. Ted Kennedy from the left and by California Gov. Jerry Brown from heaven knows

Since mandatory controls seduce the public into believing for a short period that a lid has been put on inflationary forces, the President's only concern is to time his move neither too soon nor too late for next year's

CARTER'S RHETORIC, of course, has a great deal of popular appeal, especially in the nation's northeast, where labor union leaders and the Kennedys long ago learned that business can serve as a whipping boy for whatever ails you.

By twisting oil company profits to his own advantage, the President can play on the public's normal suspicion of big business.

Those earnings reports for the last quarter, though, while encouraging to anyone who understands that without profits there is no tomorrow for a vibrant economy, are not as rosy as they might appear.

Texaco, for example, had profits 81 percent higher than a year ago-but its earnings were severely depressed a year ago.

On a per-gallon of gasoline basis, the company showed a profit last year of only about one cent, a spokesman explained; this year, its profit has been about 1.6 cents per gallon. Government takes several times that amount from each gallon of gasoline sold.

ALL OF WHICH brings us back to the point that Mr. Carter and other populist politicians are blaming business for inflation when it's government that is at fault.

Certainly, it will be no simple matter to wean from the federal budget those bureaucrats who have learned to live lavishly off it or those who benefit enormously from the transfer of income from the workers to the

It will be no simple matter to find enough Congressmen who are willing to risk their political necks in order to balance the budget rather than buy votes with taxpayers'

It will be no simple matter to find voters concerned enough about the headlong plunge toward national bankruptcy to throw out the Big Spenders and put into office those who realize that Big Government, not

Big Business, is the enemy of freedom. No. Mr. President, there is no simple cure for inflation. There are simply too many people whom you and other politicians can fool with your anti-business rhetoric.

He Believes 'Spruce Goose' Tech Hospital Causes Pain

Editor, Avalanche-Journal:

A few years back, a Senator Fulbright, Rhodes scholar, served on the Armed Services Committee. Seldom voted on legislative matters but he wrote a book "Arrogance of Power." I grieve to say he didn't succeed himself in office.

An analogy: the Spruce Goose Tech Hospital has tried baby treatment and burns treatment and it is now known that they have the greatest ulcer department in any American hospital. They don't cure them, they cause them.

Again I am grieved to so announce the new Dept. produces pain but no effective treatment. The analogy: your editorial on the $6 million hospital deficit did not mention cost overruns.

Your staff is vacationing and this requires no reply, please, I have ulcers.

With His 10-40 We Could

'Thumb Our Nose At OPEC' Editor, Avalanche-Journal:

President Carter's proposal to charge the oil companies a 50 percent windfall tax on deregulated oil would be a stupid move; really designed to provide more money for his socialistic programs. A realistic tax of 10 percent could be levied with the understanding that the oil companies use the other 40 percent for exploration and drilling. Within three years this nation could thumb its nose at the gouging OPEC cartel and, to paraphrase: "Let them eat oil."

Kennedy's Gun Control Bill Won't Disarm The Criminals

Editor, Avalanche-Journal:

In regard to the front page article on Edward Kennedy's gun-control legislation:

The reason Mr. Carter has backed off his gun control bill, and the House of Representatives and the Senate have continually voted against any handgun legislation is because the people they serve and represent (who, by the way are us, the citizens of the USA) have written and talked and told them all over and over again, "No! Why can't Kennedy get the picture? His argument connecting crime and the handgun fails to acknowledge that it is impossible to disarm a criminal. He of all people should know that more people are killed by the automobile and alcohol than are killed by guns. I received a letter from Edward Kennedy stating that he intended to disarm America. He uses his power and position to take a few small steps such as gun registration and control of manufacture and sales of guns. Then what? Obviously the voice of our representatives is of no consequence to him. A vote in the House of Representatives of 314-80 against gun control legislation tells me and our representatives that we

'Kiddy Lib' Promoters Are 'Well-Meaning But Misled'

The purpose of the 1979 International Year of the Child is to lay the groundwork for legislation that tells us how to be parents.

Editor. Avalanche-Journal:

The promoters of this "Kiddy Lib" movement are well-meaning, perhaps, but dangerously mis-led people who clearly believe parents do not have enough love, education or common sense to look after the best interests of their own children. Therefore the state or federal government will set the standard and decide whether your child is having a "happy childhood and enjoying all of his rights and functions."

The parliament of Sweden, a country which has embraced the International Year of the Child, has just passed a law, by a vote of 259-6, which states parents may not strike their children or treat them in any humiliating way. (Please refer to The A-J evening edition of April 19.)

Truly abused or neglected children are protected by state, county and local authorities. We certainly do not need a "Declaration of the Rights of A Child" (as adopted by the United Nations), an International Year of the Child, nor all the misplaced authority they are already giving birth to. #### Teachers Can See Through Austin Con Game, He Says. Editor, Avalanche-Journal:

Gov. Clements, like many people, has the wrong idea about how much teachers work. Let's look at the facts-hours, not months.

A person who works a 40-hour week, works 2,-000 hours in a year (with a two-week vacation). A teacher in Texas typically works 190 days-8 to 4 (elementary teachers often do not have time off for lunch but must eat with the students and patrol the lunchroom). 190 times 8 equals 1,520.

However, a teacher is not done when he has left the schoolhouse. He or she has lessons to prepare and papers to correct. An elementary teacher may have to teach 14 subjects in the course of a week. On a given day, if she prepares for 6 of the 14 and spends 15 minuts on each, that's 1½ hours. 1½ times 5 times 36 weeks equals 270 hours per year, additional. 1,520 plus 270 equals

1,790 hours per year. An elementary teacher may have 20 (usually more!) pupils; if she spends 10 minutes per day per pupil (after school hours): 10 times 20 times 5 times 36 divided by 60 that is 600 hours per year. 1.520 plus 270 plus 600 equals 2,390 hours per year, 2,390 hours!

Quite a bit more than the 40-hour week person. Nine weeks more in fact. A laborer can start work at $4 an hour with no education. A teacher must go to college 4 years and can start at no more than the uneducated! (i.e. $8,000 a year) What wonderful pay for 4 years of college! ($2.97 an hour with a 2,390-hour year).

A person can start work at the post office with a GED diploma and make almost twice what a college-educated teacher makes.

Some teachers work more than 2,390 hours in a year. A 12-hour day is not uncommon. Some work less, it is true-there are gold brickers and boss' relatives in almost every business. For most, it's long hours and low pay.

However, I doubt if many teachers are deluded by the con game being played between the governor and the legislators. It goes on at every ses-

Nuclear Power Much Safer

Than Gasoline Can In Trunk Editor, Avalanche-Journal:

The possibility of a nuclear accident with injury or death is always a potential problem and pro-per safeguards, short of abandoning nuclear power, should be taken.

But there is a much more real and menacing killer on the horizon. That is the gasoline cans which the people will begin to place in their car trunks and the back of their station wagons due to Sunday service station closings or being able to buy gas on only even or odd days.

There are people who must travel over the weekends without the threat of running out of

This is what happened the last time our Bureaucratic Bumblers played with this same problem: There were people killed by the leaking fumes along with potential fires due to wrecks.

We need the same group of people that carried signs and climbed over fences at nuclear plants to march on the bureaucrats before they implement a program which will certainly kill more people than our nuclear accidents have. George and Bettye Carpenter, 3803 27th St.

DR. ELLIOT, of course, is familiar with the 1962 theory of the late Princeton University geology professor Harry Hammond Hess. It represents the break-up of our earth's land mass along the ocean floor-the march of the continents.

The lystroaursus never could have reached Antarctica over water. Dr. Elliot's finding confirmed the Hess theory; that eons ago Antarctica was not an island continent and was once close to the

Preschoolers Stage Shows For Elderly

THE SMELL OF THE greasepaint and the roar of the crowd has already beckoned a group of young Lubbockites to the thrill of the stage-and the reviews would be the envy of the most successful Broadway star.

A group of preschoolers in the care of Mrs. Emma Mahaney, who operates her own daycare home, have taken to the world of show business to entertain elementary school students, shut-ins and nursing home residents throughout the

The 12 children, aged two to four years old. travel as both a theatrical group and as a rhythm band to the performances which fill up many of the days on Mrs. Mahanev's calendar.

The apprentice repertory group is equipped with backdrops, props and cos-tumes, designed and fashioned by Mrs. Mahanev who is a part-time puppeteer.

The company is based out of Mrs. Mahaney's home, where the sounds of children playing. laughing and occasionally screaming constantly resound from the den all the way to the living room.

THE DEN IS THE site of rehearsals for the bunch, whose current production is "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." The preschoolers seem to be seasoned professionals for whom stage fright has They're not afraid of groups," she said. 'When they're out doing a play, they don't even know you're out there. They have no trouble with their lines either, for Mrs. Mahanev acts as the storyteller who says each line which is then repeated by the appropriate character. Of course, an occasional assist by Mrs. Mahaney throughout the musical numbers can only be expected and helps to move the production along.

Though the rewards are non-monetary. the rave reviews are all the children need to make their efforts worthwhile, according to Mrs. Mahaney.

"They are so well-received," she said. "Old people and children are much alike -they are both free with their love."

She said that the children, who often perform at the Ballenger School for trainable mentally retardeds, "don't notice that a 22-year-old is retarded. It doesn't matter to them."

AFTER THE PERFORMANCE, the children mingle with their audience, hug-ging and kissing the elderly, some in their instrumental talents with singing. They even have a kazoo band to add to wheelchairs and walkers, as well as the MRS. MAHANEY, WHO began keeping children in her home about three years ago, started to involve the kids in their projects in order to occupy their time while she gave puppet shows to area schools. She began the puppet shows with the understanding that the children could accompany her. "I looked for some way to involve them, to teach them to be more outgo-ing," she said. Indeed all of the activities that the children pursue are meant to be learning experiences. They go on 42 field trips a year that include trips to the fire station, doctors' offices and stores.

The odds against anyone maintaining her sanity after staving with 12 preschool children five days a week would seem as-tronomical. but Mrs. Mahaney has beaten the odds. With the assist of her aunt Deed Burks, she manages to cope with the lively bunch from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. and she savs she just "loves it."

"I have a really neat little bunch," she said. "They're well-behaved and know they're expected to mind. With love you can get a child to do anything."

HER FORMULA APPARENTLY works, for she currently has a waiting list of 33 children whose parents want Mrs. Mahaney's daycare services. She said the only time a child leaves her care is when his or her family moves.

She said that the parents of her present charges are more than cooperative in her efforts to care for their children. They are avid supporters of the little theater group and band, and will sometimes attend performances on their days off from

She said that the children are happy performing their plays from December to May, and they are happy when they are together. "We live together like a familv," said Mrs. Mahaney. As she gathered up stray toys, straightened wrinkled costumes and combed disarrayed hair. Snow White, the prince and the seven dwarves lined up to tackle another performance of their spring hit with the confidence and ease of any shew

Parish Sets Devotions To Mother Mary

The parish of St. John Neumann Catholic Church, 22nd St. and Frankford Ave. will dedicate the month of May to Mary, the mother of Jesus, according to Tom Noble, coordinator for the program.

The dedication ceremony will be at 5 p.m., May 5, at the church.

The ceremony will consist of a procession of the fifth and sixth graders of St. Elizabeth's school, a "living rosary" by grades three through six, and finally the crowning of the statue of Mary with a flo-

Performing the coronation will be St. Elizabeth school student, Patty Strawn and her escort Patrick Melton; Daneen Shelby with Edward Moore; Sandra Torres with Andy Drysdale; Maggie Compos with Nealle Fordyce and Stephanie Winthroath and her escort, John Filippone.

A parish family barbecue will follow the ceremony.

Hence, we have association with Mary with the gift of flowers and the gifts of springtime, this sort of

He said the reason this ceremony is not as popular in the Southwest is because of the great celebration of the feast of the Virgin of Guadelupe in the fall. However, he said, the celebration is not in competition with the other devotions to Mary.

FOR MORE THAN TWO decades now the death awareness movement has persistently criticized the American approach to death and dying.

It would appear that we are afraid to speak openly about death and dying, and we avoid intimate contact with the terminally ill. Professional caregivers, we are told, assault the dying person with technology rather than providing basic human comfort, and the dying process itself is uselessly prolonged. Our funerals often are tasteless caricatures that demean — expensively — both the less caricatures that demean - expensively - both the deceased and the survivors.

Many of the criticisms have been well-founded. I have been too long among the critics myself as clinician, re-searcher, and teacher to disassociate from those who have been alarmed by our failings in this area.

However, I suggest we have been quite one-sided in our negativism. We have failed to put our current problems in historical perspective, and so also have failed to develop a clear vision of the options before us — options that permit us to use technical skills in the humane care of the dying person.

We usually think of death as a very personal event, and so it is. But at the same time, death is also a public phenomenon, one in which all of society has a critical stake. We cannot fully understand the personal side of dying and death without some appreciation of the social dy-

SINCE ALL SOCIETIES must cope with death, all must have ways of organizing themselves for this purpose — an interrelated death system. Death may strike suddenly and seemingly at random from the viewpoint of the individual, but society has expectations, practices, and routines that give death a surprisingly systematic charac-

We can look at any society's death system in terms of its component people, places, objects, and symbols. In the United States, for example, people in the death sys-tem include medical professionals, funeral directors, "life" insurance salesmen, those who manufacture and deploy weapons, and many more.

Places in the death system include cemeteries and morgues, but also that neighbor's house the children avoid because somebody died there and nobody has taken the care to discuss the matter with them. Objects in our death system include the tombstone.

hearse, and the "blunt instrument" that was used for murder. Perhaps the will and the tax-sheltered estate should also be considered in this category. Symbols include the black border around a printed message, the skull-and-crossbones design, a funeral march. The particular people, places, objects, and symbols vary from one society to another, and over a period of time in the same society. Funeral directors, for example, did not always have their present prominence.

In today's U.S.A., the death system is, among other things. Big Business. Much of the money that changes hands in our society is death-related. Who puts up bigger buildings than insurance companies? What would our national economy look like if military expenditures could be that deserve our closest consideration. A society's death system warns of catastrophic danger (tornado forecast...the surgeon general warns...). Furthermore, attempts are made to prevent death and to cure illness. When death cannot be prevented, the system provides for comfort to the dying person. Body disposal is the minimum requirement after death, but most socieites also have memorialization rituals and ways to reintegrate survivors into the community. The system is also responsible for explaining death. Why did this person die, in this place, in this way? What does life mean in view of this death?

Finally, all societies also kill. Animals are raised or hunt-ed for their flesh; enemies are "wasted"; offenders may

Our society today has made notable achievements in two of the classic functions of the death system: No previous society could kill or cure the way we can. The potential of technologically advanced nations to turn the world into a smoldering graveyard stands as ever-present background to the unfolding of our daily lives. We are affected by the possibility as well as the actuality of military violence.

Similarly, our heightened ability to prevent death or cure illness affects us both in actuality and in expectation. More people survive lifethreatening conditions than ever before, but our expectations for cure continue to rise. Thus, we often experience bitter disappointment and bewilderment when the fact of mortality comes home to us.

THE EMPHASIS UPON cure has led to an imbalance in our death system and a comparative withering of concern for its other classic functions. Preventing, not comforting, has emerged as such a high sociomedical priority that it has taken a very determined effort to promote a re-discovery of the dying person and his or her needs.

The cure emphasis has also become associated with an increasing tendency to act as though funerals, cemeteries, The person who has lost a loved one is expected to put on a brave face. The dead cannot be cured, and we have little tolerance for the sadness and "uselessness" of the bereaved person.

Similarly, when the entire climate emphasizes cure, we have a harder time than ever trying to explain death.

This general shift in the balance of our death system illustrates a more general principle: technological advances tend to get ahead of their humane application. It would be foolish to surrender the hard-earned gains of the medical sciences with the vague thought of returning to a rosy past in which both life and death were more "natural." But this does not mean that we must submit to an impersonal, cure-obsessed bureaucratic medical technology. cure-obsessed bureaucratic medical technology.

Mrs. J. knows the truth about her condition — terminal cancer —and she has an open, mutually trusting relationship with her physician. This trust and knowledge contribute to a more fulfilled quality of life even though death may be in prospect. Family members are welcomed as part of the healthcare team, not held at arm's length because they are lay people who wouldn't understand or might get in the way.

Mrs. J. is able to remain at home and active in personally meaningful spheres of life because of the support she has from friends and family as well as the medical treatment she receives.

Positive Thinking

By Norman Vincent Peale

A LOT OF PEOPLE face the problem of older people living with them. This creates problems of adjustment. What is the answer? The Bible says, "Honor thy father and thy mother: that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee." For centuries generations have lived together as families, and still today in thousands of homes an older person is living with a son or a daughter and family. In our times some young people suddenly find themselves in a difficult situation. A young man (or woman) leaves home in his 20s to get married and live somewhere else. The parents, who are happily settled and busy, gradually adjust to his absence. Grandchildren come along and the proud grandparents visit often. Life is happy and generally uncomplicated until sickness or death changes the situation. Suddenly the older person is alone and the children must decide about living with them.

Years ago things were quite different because many age groups did live to-gether in families. Indeed, it was the American way life style. But today, with everyone exposed to society in a somewhat different way, such a relationship seems more complex. For young and old to live together apparently requires more love and patience and understanding than formerly.

The following letter is an example of this problem. "My mother is 80 years old, selfish, self-centered, and full of self-pity. The doctors say her health is good. I am a widow, employed, and have a teen-age daughter. We live with my mother. I dread going home at night to the depressing atmosphere and my daughter is unhappy, too. Please tell me how to overcome my feeling and to improve the situation. How can we all be happy?"

SINCE THIS WOMAN is living with her mother, I suggest that, if she can arrange it financially, it would probably be better for her and her daughter to have a home apart from her mother. Her relationship to her own child as a mother and the child's development would be enhanced by the removal of the tension created by this woman's own mother. If, however, it is not feasible to live apart from her mother, she will need to be firm in her control of the home situation. Though it may be difficult, she can adjust her emotions through mental discipline, and her attitude may have a favorable effect on her aged mother. It is important to remember that whether you are 16 or 60 there is in every human being a desire to be loved and to enjoy life.

When an older person is living with you and his or her presence becomes an annovance, you might reason to yourself: "Perhaps some day, I, too, will have to live with my children and I would want them to be kind and considerate to

If you are the older person in question and you become hurt at what you think is impatience or lack of consideration, remind yourself that no matter how loved you may be, the fact remains that the family unit naturally and fundamentally includes only husband, wife, and children. Others, however dear, cannot in the nature of things be in the inner essence of that circle. A frank facing of this fact, together with the practice of consideration by every party, will help to mitigate this fundamentally unnatural arrangement. Also, the older person in the home should be extremely careful not to intrude his or her opinion in any assertive or quarulous manner, but let the mother and father regulate their own

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES said, "To be 70 years young is something far more cheerful and hopeful than to be 40 years old." The older person must make a life for himself. Do not depend upon your children or grandchildren to entertain you or give you attention. Get as many varied outside interests as you can. Make your own friends and go out with them often. If you are infirm, read books, write letters, work with your hands, and keep your mind alert. Make yourself so interesting that others in the household will be glad to have you

Younger people will do well to emphasize the thought that an older person in the home can conceivably add an element of quiet helpfulness and faith, even wise know-how about life, and thereby contribute to a better atmosphere for ev eryone. It has been said that "happy is the child who has for a friend an old. sympathetic, encouraging mind, one eager to develop, slow or rebuke or discourage." Be thankful that such an elderly person lives with you while other people have missed that blessing. Dwell upon the privilege of walking the pathway of life together and count every day precious because every day is one less in which to talk and love. Remember that you have memories together and your lives are intertwined, for they come from the same roots. When this is gone, it will be like a great tree falling and leaving an empty place against the sky. So be happy together and thereby fill your home with peace and love.

Favorite Ideas Of Readers Included In Home Design

By HIAWATHA ESTES

We constantly receive letters from prospective builders explaining in detail what they want included in the design of their dream home. This home has been planned to include as many of these favorite ideas and features as possible.

From a roofed porch, which is protected from the elements, double doors open to an entry from which all areas of the house are accessible.

The more formal living room is located at the front of the house while the informal family room faces the rear yard to which it has access through the sliding glass doors opening to the patio.

The kitchen has been designed to eliminate traffic which would interfere with meal preparation. The room offers an enormous amount of storage. To obtain a more open feeling, only cabinets - including an extra long eating bar - separate the kitchen from the family room. The separate dining room is on the opposite side of the kitchen.

For privacy, the master bedroom is located at the rear of the home. It is very generous in size and features a dressing area and private bath.

Doors open from the garage to the rear yard and service. In the service, a long wall cabinet is above the washer and dryer. There is additional service for a freezer and other appli-number of reasons, the elderly are more vulnerable than others to the shyster and, because con-men often see older persons as 'easy prey,' they tend to aim their ripoff efforts toward them. The Better Business Bureau reminds elderly consumers that there are few better ways to trip-up a schemer than by recognizing him for what he is. Be a cautious and well informed buyer.

The first rule to remember is that the schemer must rely on basic human desires for his success. He appeals to the need everyone feels to be healthier, wealthier, secure and loved. For example, senior citizens who have recently lost loved ones or realize suddenly that they have passed from middle age into the ranks of the elderly are especially vulnerable to disreputable "social" organizations or "lonely hearts" clubs. A schemer's big advantage is consumer lack of knowledge.

In any buying situation never be afraid to say no or to ask a door-to-door seller, for example, to return later. Then, take the time to check on his past record with the local Better Business Bureau. Be suspicious of high-pressure sales tactics. Get everything in writing. Never sign a contract unless everything is understood and agreed with. If there are questions, don't sign. It may be wise to have the contract checked out by a lawyer before signing. Don't be fooled by the promise of "low monthly payments." Find out the total amount to be paid and subtract the cost of the item. The difference between the two figures will be the interest. Check with several lending institutions to see what their interest charges would be. Get a receipt and read it completely. CHINA MAY ADD ABOUT 150,000 BALES to this season's commitments of 650,000 bales of U. S. cotton, says Billy Dunavant of Memphis, president of the American Cotton Shippers Association.

Dunavant spoke at a meeting of the National Cotton Council's Producer Steering Committee last week in Washington, D. C.

He said his firm has projected a 200,000-bale increase in Chinese cotton production in 1979-80 from this season's estimated 9.8 million bales.

He did not project a larger increase because of a very dry growing season and competition for acreage from food crops.

DUNAVANT, A MAJOR U. S. COTTON merchant who has been dealing with the Chinese since 1973, has scheduled a trip to China in late June, presumably to negotiate some cotton sales.

In Europe, one of the major consuming markets of U.S. cotton in 1978-79, Dunavant expects an increase in consumption to 5.35 million bales next season. barring any type of textile recession.

He also expects consumption increases in Central and South America. Dunavant projects a 25,000-bale decrease in total 1979-80 Central American cotton production to 3.075 million bales and an overall increase in South American cotton production to 5.021 million bales.

In the free market areas of Asia and the Middle East, Dunavant expects a slight increase in cotton consumption next season to 17.91 million bales.

MAJOR WORLD COTTON CONSUMERS - including Hong Kong, Japan, Korea, Taiwan, India and Pakistan - will have a relatively stable consumption level in 1979-80, he said.

Dunavant projected that the world cotton carryover will increase for 1979-80, with the vast majority of the gain being in the United States. All the increase will be in the shorter staples, he said.

The merchant said cotton producers probably would be able to stabilize prices by utilizing the Commodity Credit Corp.'s 18-month loan program. Dunavant predicted U. S. exports will exceed 6 million bales in 1979-80, but said international price levels will remain uncertain until all major crops are planted worldwide

A WIDENING OF DISCOUNTS IN THE 1979-80 cotton loan differentials announced last week was somewhat greater than generally had been expected, although an increase in grade and staple deductions had been anticipated on the basis of market differences.

Strict low middling light spot 3-1/32nds, 3.3 micronaire, will have a loan value at Lubbock of 43.83 cents per pound, up 203 points from this season, not counting a location differential. The location differentials for 1979-80 will be announced later. For 1978-79, Lubbock is 10 points above the national average.

The base loan for 1979-80 is 50.23 cents for strict low middling 1 1/16th inches, 3.5-4.9 micronaire, at average U.S. location. This is up 223 points from this sea-

LOAN VALUES ON QUALITIES WHICH ARE dominant on the High Plains in a rather typical production year will almost cover production costs on the Dryland production costs are estimated by Marvin Sartin, area economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, at 44.5 cents per pound for a crop yielding 300 pounds per acre. Costs under irrigation are projected at 46.2 cents per pound with a yield of 500 pounds an acre. Both lint cost figures are with cottonseed valued at $110 per ton.

The nearness of loan values to production costs - plus a strong possibility that deficiency payments would be made on cotton for the first time - could add strength to any farmer holding action if 1979-crop market prices drop to the vicinity of loan rates.

STRICT LOW MIDDLING LIGHT SPOT 3-1/32nds, base micronaire, will have a discount in the 1979-crop loan of 580 points, compared with 560 points this season.

Loan premiums and discounts are based partly on spot market differentials for about a nine-month period from the beginning of a crop year on Aug. 1 through late April.

Micronaire discounts (with the 1978-79 levels in parentheses) for next season will be 605 points (555) for 2.6 and below, 400 points (360) for 2.7-2.9, 225 points (195) for 3.0-3.2, 65 points (60) for 3.3-3.4, 65 points (60) for 5.0-5.2, and 135 points (130) for 5.3 and above. The extent of the increase in low-mike discounts was unexpected in some

The latest cancellation involved 106,--626 metric tons of wheat China had ordered for delivery in the 1979-80 market-

Rumors have circulated in the grain trade that China would cancel orders for a total of around 500,000 metric tons of U.S. wheat. Some 525,000 metric tons have now been canceled. The grain involved in the two cancellations will be deivered instead to the Soviet Union. All transactions are handled by private exporters. Any changes are

Although no reasons have been provided for the cancellations, the source said a variety of factors may be involved, including the possibility that China which has bought huge quantities of U. S. and other foreign grain - may be having some problems with payments.

The Soviet Union now has bought a total of about 2.56 million metric tons of wheat and 5.63 million metric tons of corn from the United States for delivery by Sept. 30, the end of the third year of an agreement calling for the Soviets to make regular purchases of U.S. wheat

Cattle Prices Help Raise Market Sales

Higher cattle prices helped push estimated sales from Texas farm and ranch marketing in 1978 to more than $8 bil-

have increased moderately above the

$1.1 billion earned in 1977," says Dr.

Carl Anderson with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Of course, all producers did not share equally in the higher earnings," emphasizes Anderson, a marketing economist at Texas A&M University. "Some farm operators suffered considerable financial setbacks. In particular, the dramatic increase in cost of pumping water has severely tightened the costprice squeeze on profit margins from growing irrigated crops."

Despite the ups and downs and incertainties of farming and ranching. Anderson believes that the potential for further agricultural growth is great.

"With anticipated increases in food and fiber demands throughout the world and the importance of agricultural exports to this nation's balance of payments, agriculture in Texas is destined to play an even greater role in the fu-

Looking at the $8 billion plus in estimated cash receipts, meat animal sales accounted for almost $4 billion, up from $2.7 billion in 1977. As a result, livestock sales, including poultry, are estimated at close to $5 billion, compared with $3.5 billion in 1977.

On the other hand, estimated receipts from crops slipped from $3.37 billion in 1977 to only about $3 billion last year, largely because of a small cotton crop. Despite its poor showing in 1978, cotton is still king of cash crops with estimated sales of $1 billion

'The lion's share of estimated cash receipts stemmed from feeding and raising cattle," points out Anderson

Pork, Poultry Supplies Soften Food Prices, Relieve Shoppers

WASHINGTON (AP) - Larger supplies of pork and poultry already have softened the food price spiral and will continue to provide relief for shoppers in the coming months, the Agriculture Department's chief economists said.

Howard W. Hjort, commenting on a government report showing that food prices rose 1 percent in March, said the figures "do indicate a significant slowdown in the rate of food price increases." And he also said the statistics suggest "that pattern will continue for the rest of the year."

Hjort's comments followed the Labor Department's report that showed retail food prices rose 1 percent in March, compared to a 1.6 percent gain in February. A month ago, Hjort predicted that the March increase would be between 1 percent and 1.5 percent.

Hjort said his prediction for April, when Labor issues its next report a month from now, is that retail food prices will be up less than I percent.

Food prices have not risen less than 1 percent since last November.

The Agriculture Department has been saying that retail food prices in 1979 will go up an average of 8 percent to 10 percent. As he did earlier this week, Hjort said the increase will be "closer to the 10 than to 8" percent.

Food prices, measured on an annual average, rose about 10 percent last year, compared to 1977.

Hjort said that higher prices for meat, poultry and eggs accounted for about three-fifths of the food price increase from February to March.

Total beef production is expected to drop 10 percent this year, but larger amounts of pork and poultry will make up the difference, he said.

However, because cattle producers are still rebuilding their herds, retail beef prices will continue to increase. But the impact of more pork, poultry and some other products will be felt, Hjort said The farm price of food - as it enters the middleman marketing pipeline - is expected to peak in the second quarter of this year and then be "relatively stable to declining" in the third and fourth quarters, he said

Industry Expects Development Of Gas Reserves In Panhandle

ket gas prices in sight, rigs available, and strong industry interest, the deep Ana-darko basin of western Oklahoma and the Texas Panhandle is poised for a strong drilling push late this year and through-

The rise in activity may be so steady it won't be perceptible, though, as was the case with last year's gains, according to the Oil and Gas Journal

A 20-year veteran in the basin observes, "You seldom see real big changes in the Anadarko basin. The industry tends to wade in the water one step at a time, drilling for deeper horizons with each gas price increase.

Some operators, however, believe the industry may dive head-long this time. One is Robert A. Hefner III, managing partner of GHK Co., Oklahoma City, an the basin's staunchest advocate. GHK holds 126,000 acres of leases in the basin. "When the Natural Gas Policy Act passed last year, the Anadarko basin arrived," Hefner declares. He predicts a major increase in drilling next year, which would result in "a nationally significant increase in the capacity of flowing gas." All of the elements for a drilling push in the 15,000 to 18,000-foot range seem to be solidly in place. Leasing action is brisk and competitive; recent exploration has been successful, although unspectacularly so; gas pipelines have spare capacity and are hungry for purchase contracts; the gas-prone basin is estimated by all to have huge undiscovered resources; multiple pays enhance the odds for completions: drilling problems aren't too difficult: and major oil companies again are driving location stakes.

Despite the current slump in Oklahoma drilling activity, the deep Anadarko basin is holding relatively steady

About 80 wildcats and development wells were recently being drilled to 15,-000 feet or deeper, and another 40 were being tested or completed. Locations were being staked at the rate of 30 per

The industry sees green lights in some of the other indicators of activity. Allen S. Braumiller, Helmerich & Payne Inc. exploration vice president, notes that "the harbinger of increased drilling activity-leasing-is in full swing. And seismic activity has been pretty strong, too."

Seismic programs are picking up.

About 30 firms participated in one recent group shoot. Deep drilling in the basin has shown a marked increase in recent years. In 1974 operators drilled only 40 probes below 15,000 feet. They increased that to 61 per year in 1975 and 1976 and to 77 in 1977. But in 1978 the total nearly doubled

Another doubling of completions this year isn't likely, considering the long lead imes involved. But activity won't lag either, the Journal says. One industry observer ranks the Anadarko basin fourth in activity among geo-logic provinces in the U.S. and third in

HERE'S A FEDERAL agency averaging 54.284 phone calls daily.

That may sound like someone is burning up the wires. Well, you are. The phone calls go to the Social Security Administration's Teleservice. SSA says it is delighted to field them.

SSA began setting up Teleservice a decade ago, first in Washington, next in Los Angeles (which now has the nation's single biggest Teleservice cernter). Today there are 31 Teleservice centers, in most major metropolitan areas.

Robert P. Bynum. an acting deputy commissioner of SSA, says 92 to 93 percent of all people getting checks from SSA are within Teleservice range, meaning they can phone without paying a toll. Since more than 38 million people get SSA-processed checks - Supplementary Security Income (SSI) and Black lung profits in addition to retirement, disability and survivors benefits - that means a lot of folks can get questions answered on the phone, free

Bynum says nine of 12 problems raised by SSA callers are solved on the telephone, saving tremendous amounts of time an energy.

EXAMPLE: If you're about to start your first job, you must have a Social Security number (assuming the job is covered by Social Security, as 94 of every 100 are). If you're under 18, you give your name and address to the Teleservice representative and SSA will mail you the necessary form and instructions on how to fill it out. You follow the instructions, mail back the form and you'll get your Social Security card in the mail (if you're 18 or over, you have to do this in per-

SECOND EXAMPLE: If you want to change your address (or name, because of marriage) on your SSA record, phone the nearest Teleservice center. You DON'T have to get to your SSA office to do this

THIRD EXAMPLE: Some retirement or survivors benefits can be handled entirely by phone. You give the Teleservice representative the basic information and SSA mails you the necessary forms. You fill them in and mail them back, along with the "evidence" (birth certificate, death certificate, or whatever) needed to validate your death claims. SSA mails back your evidence and, if all goes smoothly, you soon start to receive your monthly check. About 25 percent of claims are taken by mail now

BYNUM SAYS TELESERVICE representatives handle "routine but important" matters. "Our objective is eventually to provide free telephone service to all residents of all 50 states.

He concedes Teleservice "still has some growing pains," especially when there's an issue that draws a great deal of public attention. Such issues are when there's a threat to cut Social Security benefits, even marginally, as President Carter urged Congress to do in his January budget message. or. alternatively, when benefit increases are imminent

At those times, says Bynum, you may find Teleservice lines busy. But keep

"In any month." Bynum said, "we get about 100,000 calls about checks not arriving on time." One way to avoid this is to authorize electronic transfer of your benefit straight from SSA to your bank account,

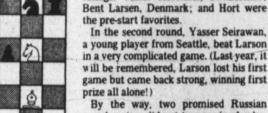

Teleservice is only one facet of SSA's push to reach the public. SSA maintains 1.300 offices around the country to handle more complex questions, and it operates nearly 3,500 "contact stations" to which local SSA offices send representatives twice a week, twice a month or, in very remote places, perhaps once a month. ScheduleS for such visits normally are posted in post offices and other

But for starters with Social Security (or SSI or Medicare) question, most people should consult Teleservice. The phone number is the Social Security Administration's number in your phone book - and you'll find SSA listed both by itself, under "S," and under "U.S. Government, Department of Health. Education, and Welfare." You take from there.

I HAD CANCER

Gene Littler

It's possible to go into an annual checkup feeling terrific. And come out knowing something's wrong. It happened to me. The doctor found what I couldn't even feel . . . a little lump under my arm. If I had put off the appointment for one reason or another, I probably wouldn't be here today. Because that little lump I couldn't feel was a melanoma, a highly aggressive form of cancer that spreads very quickly. It's curable—but only if found in time.

So when I tell you, "Get a checkup," you know it's from my heart. It can save your life. I know. It saved mine.

Have a regular checkup. It can save your life. American Cancer Society.
