

Unemployment here will rise, but not at national average

By Shevna Hill
Update Staff Writer

Jobs will be harder to find in January and work will be scarce in some industries, but Lubbock residents still will have better employment opportunities than persons across the state or nation, said a spokesman for the Texas Employment Commission.

Burt Darden, manager of Lubbock's TEC, said Lubbock's projected 5 percent increase means that 577 more people will be unemployed in January than in December, bringing the January jobless total to 3,667.

THE NUMBER OF unemployed persons in December was 3,090.

The statistics are based on Lubbock's 104,770 person civilian labor force which includes all who work or seek work, but does not include full-time students.

Lubbock's January unemployment rate of 3.5 percent still is better than the state unemployment rate of 4.8 percent or the national rate of 5.5 percent, Darden said.

Levi Strauss clothing manufacturing company closed its Lubbock facility Jan. 2, leaving 225 persons without steady employment.

Darden said the effect of the plant closing on the Lubbock economy is not known, but that a lay-off of 225 persons, plus a slow-down in the construction industry, are two primary causes of an increased January unemployment rate.

TEXAS' HOME LOAN interest rate ceiling of ten percent has been cited as one of the primary causes of the decreasing demand for construction. Local real estate brokers say there are many houses available and many interested buyers, but that the tight money situation has caused many potential buyers or builders to wait for more favorable economic conditions.

Darden said the bitter winter has also decreased the quantity of construction done in the city.

M.B. Smith Jr. said in an Avalanche-Journal story that people are calling from as far away as Austin looking for work, but that his usual list of 50 builders needing help had no names on it.

An increase in the minimum wage, graduation from college, people in between jobs, and an end to Christmas jobs were cited also by Darden as major unemployment factors.

INCREASING THE MINIMUM wage from $2.65 per hour to $2.90 per hour primarily will hurt young people looking for employment.

"Employers will be reluctant to pay $2.90 per hour to a trainee or a person without work experience. The hesitation will last only two or three months, but until the employers get used to it, young people will have trouble finding a job," Darden said.

Graduation of college students also adds many people to the work force and increasing unemployment totals until new workers find jobs.

Texas Tech University and Lubbock Christian College graduates who look for work in Lubbock will be included in the January unemployment totals, Darden said.

Christmas jobs also end now which leaves many people jobless again increases the predicted unemployment totals. Darden said some holiday workers are content with seasonal employment, but that many look for other, more permanent, jobs.

THE U.S. CENSUS Bureau says many people change jobs at the first of the year because of school holidays and for tax reasons. The other peak job changing period is the summer months before school starts.

"We might have an accountant who left a job paying $900 a month and will not be satisfied until another job with similar salary comes along. This person is unemployed, but is one of many people who change jobs during their lifetime," Darden said.

"The example is extreme, but it shows that not all unemployed are unskilled and inexperienced," he said. The Texas Employment Commission will have from 160 to 200 jobs available each day in January, according to Darden.

Unemployment totals are expected to increase slightly in February and March, but will decrease as the peak employment months of the summer approach, Darden added.

Drastic increase in rapes boosts 1978 crime rate

By Kay Bell
Update Staff Writer

Possibly women were more careless in 1978. Maybe there were simply more sexual attacks last year. Whatever the reasons, rapes and rape attempts in 1978 increased a dramatic 42.3 percent over reports of that crime in 1977.

And that increase in reported rapes may have been a contributing factor to the overall 5.2 percent jump of all crimes across the city last year.

In 1978, police responded to 111 rape calls, compared to 78 such incidents in 1977. But police say there is no way of accurately explaining the hike.

"Possibly women are becoming less ashamed and are reporting it more," Det. Lt. Billy Knox said. "Lately women are beginning to realize that there is no such a social stigma in reporting it. It's a violent crime that needs to be reported."

Another reason for the increase might be sheer carelessness on the parts of victims.

"A lot of women could have set themselves up as rape victims unknowingly by leaving windows or doors unlocked," Knox said. "I'd be the last to say a man has a right to take advantage of that opportunity to get inside a woman's home and rape her, but unfortunately that's the way it is now."

"If women would be more careful about locking their doors and windows, many rapists wouldn't go to the extra trouble of breaking into a home to attack a woman."

ONE JUVENILE RAPE suspect arrested last year told officers he made it a practice to first look for homes with easy access, often to the extent of walking to doors and trying the knob to see if it was locked.

In other criminal activity, figures remained relatively consistent with 1977 reports. Only thefts and auto thefts increased by more than 10 percent over the previous year's figures, with theft up 13.1 percent in 1978 and auto theft up 27.6 percent.

Murders in the city last year decreased by three percent, from 33 in 1977 to 32 in 1978. And of those slayings last year, police had charged a suspect in all but the Feb. 7 shooting death of Virgil Watts of Wichita Falls.

The 50-year-old man's body was found just outside the door of his room at the Red Raider Inn, 6025 Ave. A, by a man walking through the area early that morning.

Police recovered two .25-caliber bullets from Watts' body, but that was the only physical evidence officers were able to obtain. There was no sign of a struggle and no one in the area reported hearing gunshots, nor were any suspects seen leaving the scene.

PARADOXICALLY, ROBBERIES in 1978 increased over those in 1977 but the amount of goods taken went down, while burglaries took a 6.6 percent dive in 1978 compared to the number reported in 1977, but a larger dollar amount was reported stolen last year.

Persons lost $94,595 to bandits last year in 299 robberies. In 1977, 282 robberies were reported which netted a loss of $320,903.

The favorite target of bandits last year was simply a person, with 121 cases of high-way robbery reported. But the largest increase in the overall robbery category was residential heists, as bandits became more bold in 1978 and held up 49 citizens at their homes compared to only 26 in 1977, an 88.5 percent rise.

And those homeowners accounted for almost half of the stolen property, reporting a total of $41,679 in the heists.

In the burglary category, 4,119 break-ins were reported last year, while police investigated 4,412 in 1977. A total of about $2.6 million was lost to intruders in 1978, a half-million more than was taken by burglars in 1977.

Again, homeowners accounted for the largest monetary loss. Residents reported almost $2 million worth of goods lost to burglars last year.

ASSAULTS REPORTED LAST year showed only a 1.7 percent increase over the 1,021 attacks in 1977. However, in those attacks, assailants apparently were more violent last year, with an 11.9 percent jump in persons assaulted with guns and a 10.9 percent increase in citizens attacked by a persons carrying a knife.

On the traffic scene, Lubbock fortunately fell far below its 1977 record-setting pace. While the total number of accidents in 1978 reached 11,572, about 1,900 more than in 1977, only 38 persons died on Lubbock streets. In 1977, the city recorded 51 fatalities.

One of the reasons in the 25.5 percent decrease in traffic fatalities between the two years may be the city's newly-implemented Selective Traffic Enforcement Program (STEP) which began in October, according to officials.

Mayor Dirk West Tuesday noted that as of Oct. 1, 1978, Lubbock was tied with the 1977 record-setting traffic death toll. However, after STEP was put into effect, only eight persons were killed in traffic mishaps. During that same three-month period in 1977, 16 persons died in auto accidents.

Although the total number of traffic accidents was higher in 1978 than in 1977, West pointed out that the amount of wrecks slowed after the eight STEP officers were activated.

Not again!

In a scene repeated thousands of times across the city during the past couple of weeks, Juanita Doyle, 21-year-old Texas Tech University senior from Breckenridge scrapes and chisels some of the ice accumulation from her windshield. The new year has brought with it record temperatures to the area.

Homicide, more rapes force this year's figures up, too

Violent crime topped police investigations as the new year began, with Lubbock recording its first homicide of the year Jan. 4 and a city woman reporting that three men raped her early Monday.

Bicenta Lopez Perez, 50, died about 4:30 p.m. Jan. 4 at West Texas Hospital after suffering a single gunshot wound to the chest during a family argument about 1 1/2 hours earlier.

Witnesses told police that Mrs. Perez was sitting in the living room of a relative's 1815 E. Second St. home when the suspect entered and an argument ensued.

The man reached into his coat pocket after exchanging words with Mrs. Perez, witnesses said, pulled a pistol and shot the victim. According to police, Mrs. Perez's 15-year-old son wrestled the .32-caliber revolver from the man, who ran west from the residence.

The suspect, 55-year-old Cirilo Perez, was arrested by police 30 minutes after the shooting inside the community building at 515 N. Zenith Ave.

A CHARGE of murder was filed against Perez, of Route 7, Space 25, Jan. 5. The Criminal District Attorney's office recommended bond at $55,000.

A 25-year-old Lubbock woman told police she was raped repeatedly by three Mexican-American men, one of which grabbed her outside a discotheque and forced her at knife-point into their car.

The waitress said she was attempting to enter a cab about 1:30 a.m. when she was confronted by the knife-wielding man, who told her if she did not do what she was told he would kill her.

She told police she was forced into a 1962-63 blue Chevrolet station wagon containing the other two suspects and driven north of the city to a dirt road where each man then raped her twice.

THE WOMAN said after the sexual assaults, she was driven to a convenience store at Clovis Road and Avenue U and released.

She said the armed man never spoke any English and had shoulder-length, wavy hair. Another of the suspects was said to have a neatly cut Afro.

The victim told police her attackers had pestered her earlier in the night at the club.

In another attack on a Lubbock woman, the 23-year-old victim told police she was forced off the road about 11:30 p.m. Sunday in the 3300-block of E. 50th Street and robbed.

The woman said that after her car was forced into a ditch, a young black man walked up, broke out her door window and pointed a gun at her face.

The woman said she was ordered out of her car and as she was being led to the suspect's vehicle, she broke free from his grasp and flagged down a passing motorist.

She told officers her assailant fled in his car, but not before taking her purse and a diaper bag. She said her loss amounted to $150 in stolen property and damage to her car.

Stock price forecast

(c) 1979 Frederick G. Gahagan

For this week's survey we interviewed 30 security analysts who specialize in the Aerospace Industry. They were with such important firms as Putnam Management Company, Manufacturers Hanover Trust Company and Fiduciary Counsel, Inc. Each security analyst was asked how high and how low he thought each stock would go in the next six months.

Top six aerospace stocks
Analysts forecast that Lockheed would rise by an average of 49 percent in the next six months. Grumman was forecast to rise by 46 percent and Cessna Aircraft by 39 percent. Rockwell International was expected to go up by 29 percent and Northrop and Thiokol were each expected to rise by 27 percent.

When asked how low aerospace stocks might go, analysts forecast that Lockheed could go down by 22 percent, Cessna Aircraft by 21 percent, Northrop and Thiokol by 19 percent each and Grumman by 11 percent. On the other hand, analysts forecast a drop of only 4 percent for Rockwell International. This means that analysts are saying Rockwell International is likely to have more stable growth than Lockheed, Cessna Aircraft, Northrop, Thiokol and Grumman.

Lockheed, a principle supplier of military aircraft and missiles to the U.S. Government, could benefit from a turnaround of its L1011 program. Analysts said Grumman, a leading supplier of military aircraft to the U.S. Navy, is expected to have increased earnings because of its F-14 Navy fighter. Cessna Aircraft, a leading producer of general aviation aircraft, could benefit from an increased shipment of corporate jets.

According to analysts, improved avionics shipments may cause Rockwell International to rise in the next six months. Northrop could benefit from its expanded military aircraft line and foreign sales. Thiokol is expected to have further moderate earnings progress because of its prominent position in rocket technology.

Next five stocks
E-Systems is expected to rise by 26 percent and fall by 22 percent. Analysts forecast a rise by 24 percent for McDonnell Douglas, the second largest worldwide builder of commercial jets. A rise of 22 percent was forecast for Martin Marietta, and Raytheon was expected to go up by 21 percent in the next six months.

The remaining three stocks were expected to fall more than they would rise in the next six months.

Analysts are saying that Lockheed Corporation has the greatest potential for gain and Rockwell International has the smallest downside risk.

Can Carter produce results?

PRESIDENT CARTER is moving into the final two years of his term determined to avoid the procedural and political bumbles that dogged his dealings with Congress throughout most of 1977-78.

Carter has learned, the hard way, that he cannot expect to reap political credit for good ideas alone, not matter how carefully prepared or cogently argued. What counts is his won-lost record on Capitol Hill.

Other Presidents—John Kennedy comes to mind—occasionally have been able to sustain their own popularity despite setbacks on Capitol Hill through personal charisma and inspirational leadership.

But Carter has all the charisma of a corner lamppost. Carter would be lucky to inspire a drowning man to grab a life preserver; more likely the poor fellow simply would sink from the sedative effects of a Carter speech.

THE PRESIDENT, therefore, must produce results—or the appearance of same—if he wants to persuade the electorate to grant him a second term next year.

Administration sources concede that Carter and his green White House staff overloaded the 95th Congress with program initiatives, many of which had not even been completely thought out before going to The Hill.

"We'll have a much more modest package this time," one adviser told the news services. "Most of what we send up will have a realistic chance of being passed in 1979."

Vice President Mondale is in charge of drawing up the agenda and timetable for legislative action. And while the final decisions have not yet been publicized, the top priorities already are determined.

NUMBERS ONE and two, obviously, are the Carter anti-inflation package and a new Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty, i.e., SALT II.

Everything else gets second billing behind these objectives.

Almost as important will be legislation to implement the multi-national trade agreements now being wrapped up in Geneva after five years of hard bargaining. There are about a dozen other proposals in the mill, many of them left over from the last Congress, e.g., a renewed drive for hospital cost containment and some form of national health insurance initiative, to name a couple.

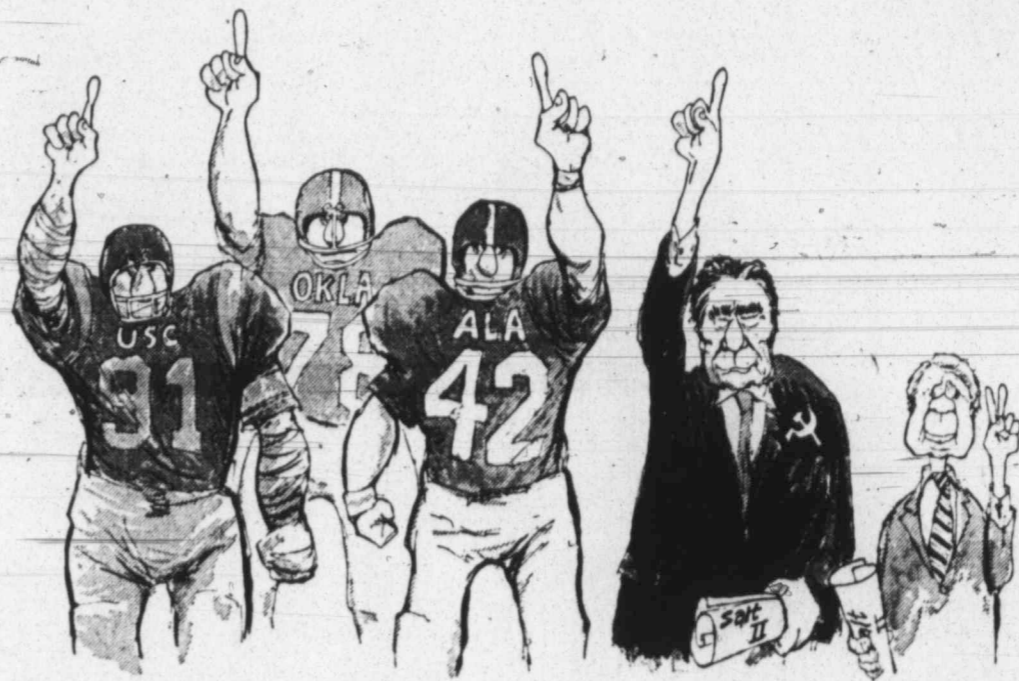

The first big trouble looms with Carter's real wage insurance proposal, the heart of his anti-inflation package, which has received a decidedly cool welcome in the House Ways and Means Committee—which must approve it.

Treasury lobbyists already are busy quietly trying to sell the plan to key committee members, but are making little headway.

CARTER MAY do better pressing his proposed budget cuts, even though they are politically painful. White House lobbyists plan to ride herd on appropriations decisions at every stage of the legislative process instead of waiting until bills hit the House and Senate floor—as they did previously.

White House lobbyists and those for the Cabinet departments have learned a good deal over the last two years about the care and feeding of congressional egos. They still make mistakes, but nothing like as often as they used to.

Carter will never be a Lyndon Johnson, anymore than he is another JFK. But if he and his team can get results from Congress in their own rather methodical fashion without bankrupting the country, no one will carp about the style. For Carter, it's the bottom line that counts.

The Mini Page Guide

For use by teachers and parents at home and at school.

Use with issue: How to Go to School and Be a People

Editor's note: We recognize the fact that "How to Be a People" is incorrect grammar. We have used this phrasing to stress the comparison of people vs. animals. Point out to the children the correct way this should be written and discuss why we chose to use "People" instead of "Person."

Social Studies: Ask a child to act out one of these "people" animals in pantomime. Then ask the class to guess what animal the child is pretending to be. Discuss the traits that some of these animals have that we might consider to be admirable. For example: the busy beaver and bee, the loyal dog, the wise owl, the agile monkey, the remembering elephant.

Reading: Ask the children to circle the rhyming words on the first and fourth pages.

Ask the children to think of situations when "things polite people say" would be particularly appropriate.

Remember: The keys to working with your children are patience and understanding. Don't be a lion, please!

Culinary adventures provide a fun hobby

By Connie Chapman
Update Staff Writer

Judi Keller is one of those people who is enthusiastic about cooking almost anything. Cooking to her is a hobby to be enjoyed and shared with friends. "Breakfast, lunch and dinner don't really get me excited," she admits. "But I just love to study a recipe and plan and prepare a special menu for a small dinner party."

"If one of my friends is having a special occasion — like a birthday, for instance — I'll fuss around all week with the recipe and buying the ingredients, selecting just the right dishes in which to serve the food, and finally in doing the actual cooking. That's my present to my friend, a very special dinner."

Mrs. Keller belongs to a group of women who have taken lessons in cooking of special foods. Originally, the group formed to learn Chinese cooking from Jean Coe. The women had so much fun that they continued meeting to learn other kinds of cooking, also. Sometimes they invite an expert to teach them and sometimes they just share their own specialties.

Among the new culinary adventures the women have had are a series of lessons in Greek foods, French foods, and learning to make specialty items like crepes and tamales.

"I like to fit my menu to the people," Mrs. Keller explains. "Once I had company coming who were from England so I tried Beef Wellington."

Mrs. Keller said her family is divided about her cooking. Her two young sons will eat some of her new recipes reluctantly, but her husband, a psychologist in private practice, is very cooperative and enjoys trying whatever she wants to prepare.

Mrs. Keller said ordinarily she believes in following a recipe to the letter, but when she makes soup, she adds "a little more of this or that to taste." Soup is a winter favorite with the Keller family.

"I remember my mother making soup," Mrs. Keller recalls. "When there was a pot of soup simmering on the stove everything was right with the world."

She has shared with Update three of her winter soups.

turn-to soup. If desired, top servings with crumbled bacon, paprika or sieved hard-cooked egg.

FRENCH ONION SOUP

1/4 cup butter or margarine
3 medium onions, thin sliced
1 tsp. flour
8 beef bouillon cubes
4 cups hot water
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1/2 cup white wine or sherry, if desired

In medium skillet, saute onion in butter until golden and tender, about 15 minutes. Stir in flour; Add remaining ingredients. Simmer, uncovered, at least 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Serve hot. If desired, top with melba-toast and lots of grated Swiss cheese. Place under broiler until cheese is bubbly.

CHICKEN AND RICE SOUP

3 lbs. stewing chicken, cut up

8 cups hot water
1 tsp. salt
6 peppercorns
1/4 tsp. poultry seasoning, if desired
2 medium stalks celery
1/4 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup uncooked rice or noodles
2 or 3 chicken bouillon cubes or 1 pkg. dry chicken soup mix white wine, if desired.

In large saucepan, combine chicken, water, salt, peppercorns and poultry seasoning. Bring to a boil. Cover; simmer 2 to 2 1/2 hours until chicken is tender. Remove chicken and peppercorns. Skim off fat. Cut meat from bones into chunks and return to soup. Add remaining ingredients. Continue simmering, covered, about 30 minutes until rice is tender.

Five-year-old Matthew admires mom's cooking. Mrs. Charles Keller cooks to please her family.

George Woods: He 'gives himself away'

By Kim Cobb
Update Staff Writer

George Woods has been giving himself away for years. If he were a rich man you might say he was a philanthropist. But Woods has been donating time — not money — to the community for almost 50 years now.

Fellow board members of the Lubbock Day Care Association recently presented Woods with a plaque on his 73rd birthday. The plaque, honoring Woods for 29 years of service as a board member, was presented at ceremonies dedicating Carver Heights Nursery in his name.

The slight, soft-spoken man only smiles when asked why community service plays such an important role in his life. If Woods were given a plaque for membership in all the organizations he supports (not counting those he used to belong to), the plaques would number around 20.

"It's almost giving yourself away," Woods admitted heavily. "Nobody has to do it but somebody needs to."

WHEN WOODS MOVED from Temple to Lubbock about 50 years ago, he was still in high school. But high school for black students in those days only meant an education through the 10th grade, he said.

He remembers the old Dunbar High School as a three-room stucco building on 17th street.

Rather than forfeit his education, Woods returned to Temple to finish high school.

Ironically, he was later to serve on the advisory committee to the Lubbock Independent School Board — the same school system that prevented him from finishing his education in Lubbock.

WOODS ATTENDED A SMALL Methodist college for two years until his father had a stroke, making it necessary for Woods to return to Lubbock and go to work. Discriminatory admissions policies at Texas Tech prevented Woods from finishing college at Lubbock since black students were not enrolled at Tech until 1961.

But Woods had been working since his high school days. He remembers working for a meat packing company and as an orderly for the old Lubbock General Hospital. But that was almost half a century ago and "all that is in the past," according to Woods.

But his memories of working as a "hall boy" and bell hop at the Lubbock Hotel (now the Pioneer Retirement Hotel) are pretty vivid. The depression of the late 20s and early 30s was in full swing and he brought home a weekly salary of $4.67.

BUT EVEN THAT LOW wage didn't last long enough since Woods was fired when a corporation that didn't employ blacks bought the hotel.

"There wasn't anything to do except say 'We don't have a job,'" Woods mused.

Woods found employment as a mason for a downtown building for 17 years. He later worked as a mail clerk for the city until he retired. But Woods didn't wait until retirement to do community work.

His first volunteer work, he remembered with pride, was as campaign manager for the Red Cross. With the years came recognition of his capabilities and Woods soon found himself busy with a diverse list of volunteer activities.

HIS MEMBERSHIP LIST reads like a pedigree of sorts — the Lubbock Traffic Commission, Men's Civic Club, Family Service Association Board of Directors, the Board of Directors of the Milan Childrens Training Center and the Lubbock branch of the NAACP, to name but a few.

And Woods has been named man of the year by two separate organizations for his efforts in community service.

Woods can't really figure out how he ended up working with so many organizations except to say that many of the people who asked him to donate his time were friends.

"I couldn't hardly say no," he explained.

"I'm sure not that important," he said, laughing. Woods said he can't understand why people keep asking him to serve.

APPARENTLY HE CAN'T quit joining since he added his name to the membership of two other organizations a few months ago. But he won't join any more, he says, until he quits working with a few others.

"Pretty soon I'll be too old to fool with any of those things," he said, almost with a little relief.

His family has claimed that Woods "lives at those meetings." Most of the boards meet once a month for at least an hour, sometimes stretching to two hours, he said. It's easy to see there may be several weeks when Woods spends all of his evenings out.

He is always surprised by awards and honors and shies away from publicity. But the aging man feels an obligation to keep working for the community.

"A person is supposed to do his work freely without anybody knowing it," he said quietly. "I just thought it needed to be done."

views and opinions

By Barbara J. Brooks
Update Staff Writer

Shootings, rapes, robberies, murders and other crimes happen every evening in living rooms all over the country. All of these realities of life are shown nightly on television, sometimes too realistically.

Studies show that violence on television can possibly scar a child. They also show that it can make youngsters more aggressive. Those persons who seem to know lecture on the effects of violence on children, but what do the kids themselves think of the situation on television?

Coronado High School students, from 16 to 17 years of age, all in the eleventh grade, were asked their views on the violence on television and if it bothered them.

According to Scott Williams, "There is quite a bit of violence. Some shows, like the police shows, get pretty bloody for TV. There is a lot more violence than there should be," Williams said that the violence did not bother him, yet he does not like the idea of little children watching all of the murders.

"It's running peoples thoughts and ideas about life. TV gives them a different idea and they think they can do that and get away with it. It really scares me," Stephanie Ware said.

Violence does not bother Gary Taylor, but he does think it influences smaller children. "They watch it and try to copy it. The kids might pick up something bad," according to Taylor.

Kellye Strout does not like violence and thinks, "they ought to cut it down and put something on that will help people instead."

Sheri Anderson says that there are two ways to look at the issue of violence on television. "The parents are there to stop the violence if they don't want it on. It also could be cut; there's comedy shows instead."

"I think there is an excess of violence. It doesn't bother me because I know it is just a show, there's no reality to it," according to Miss Anderson.

Bryan Hastings feels the same way as Miss Anderson, the violent shows could be taken off and replaced with some comedy shows. "I don't feel that the violence is bad; but I don't think that some of it would stick out to me like it would to a younger child."

Dona Boyd thinks that there are alternatives to having violence on TV. "If they're going to have it on TV they shouldn't focus on what they do. Also, not too many families have HBO so they should put it on there."

Both Hastings and Miss Boyd feel that violence is all they see when they watch television.

According to Denise White, the violence is not as bad as people say it is. "There were westerns before and now it is not that much worse. They say that the violence has promoted crime. I would rather watch a comedy," Miss White says that she does not watch television as much as she used to.

If this sampling is any indication of what the teen-agers of the country are feeling, they are not as concerned with themselves as they are with the ones younger than themselves.

Attend meeting

junior editor's quiz

Jackie Robinson

QUESTION: Who was Jackie Robinson?

ANSWER: Besides having been an outstanding major league baseball player, Jackie Robinson made important history when, in 1947, he became the first black player in the major leagues.

Jack Roosevelt Robinson (1919-1972) was a native of Georgia. He won an athletic scholarship to the University of California, where he made his mark at four major sports — football, basketball track and baseball.

Robinson later played in the minor leagues where his baseball skills caught the eye of Branch Rickey, president of the National League Brooklyn Dodgers. Rickey signed Robinson to play for his team.

Robinson made his major league debut during the 1947 season. Rickey had warned him that his position as the first black player would not be an easy one, and he was right. Robinson had to endure the prejudice of some players and fans. Always fiercely competitive, he fought back with his superb hitting, fielding and baserunning ability. Before his career ended, Robinson had compiled a lifetime .311 batting average, helped the Dodgers win six pennants and a world championship, and won for himself rookie of the year most valuable player honors. More importantly, he opened the door for other blacks to play in the major leagues. He was elected to baseball's Hall of Fame in 1962.

Mahon accepts Bible

Rep. George Mahon, Dean of Congress who is retiring after 44 years as representative of the 19th Congressional District of Texas, is shown accepting a Good News Bible in appreciation for his service in 1978 as co-chairman of the Congressional Committee for National Bible Week, sponsored by the Laymen's National Bible Committee. Rev. Stephen J. Hartdegen, director of the Catholic Biblical Apostolate and chairman of the advisory committee for the annual interfaith observance, made the presentation recently in Washington on behalf of the lay organization.

Records from the first meeting of the Lubbock County Commissioners' court show that consideration of a $2,268 warrant to purchase stationary and three dollar salaries for each of the county commissioners and judge were the only actions taken. The meeting was held March 19, 1891, at the county sheriff's home.

Teri Bryce will attend national journalism center

Teri Bryce

Teri Bryce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bryce of 4418 61st St., has been selected to attend the National Journalism Center in the nation's capital for the spring semester. The center gives student interns practical experience in journalism in Washington through daily assignments, internships with working journalists and weekly seminars devoted to current issues and problems of journalism.

Miss Bryce was managing editor of the Coronado Crest during her senior year and has received several awards from the Panhandle High School Press Association.

She also is a former member of the staff of the El Viajero yearbook at Coronado and received an award from the Texas High School Press Association for an advertising layout. At the close of her senior year at Coronado, Miss Bryce received the Lubbock-Avalanche Journal scholarship.

She was named winner of the National Right To Work Committee Scholarship based on an essay and her scholastic achievements have earned her a 4.0 grade point average during the fall semester at Texas Tech University.

A member of Sigma Kappa sorority at Tech, she has a double major in journalism and political science.

Green Thumb luncheon for elderly

An appreciation luncheon will be held for more than 140 area Texas Farmers Union Green Thumb workers today at the Lubbock Civic Center Banquet Hall. Workers, from Lubbock County and more than 15 surrounding counties, will be joined by representatives from local agencies and other persons connected with the Green Thumb Program, for entertainment and talks.

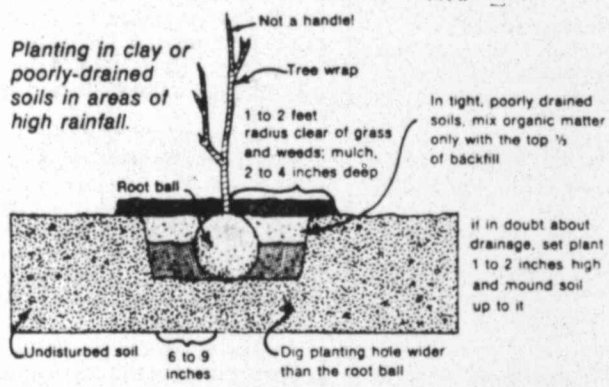

The guest speaker for the occasion is Ms. Gail House, a faculty member in the College of Home Economics at Texas Tech University, Lubbock, who will speak on the subject of, "Aging: The Fulfillment of Life." Mrs. House has been active in various programs in support of the elderly and is well-known for her interesting and informative presentations in this area, as well as at national level meetings.

For those persons desiring additional information concerning the luncheon, they may contact the Green Thumb office here, located in Room 1102, 1220 Broadway, or call 747-8342.

How to plant a tree in clay soil

If the soil is a tight clay, backfill with the original clay topsoil. Organic matter may be mixed in, but in areas with high rainfall and poor drainage, reserve this mixture for the final 1/3 of the backfill. Firm the soil but do not pack it, especially if it's tight clay.

JAN. 12, 1978: Storm Numbs State: Warm-up-Forecast: Forecasters were predicting warm temperatures and improved driving conditions on the South Plains following the ice, sleet and snow of the worst storm of the winter.

In other news: President Carter hailed as "good news for the country" the Labor Department's report that the December jobless rate fell to 6.4 per cent, the lowest level in more than three years.

JAN. 12, 1969: Money Woes Plague Solons: A new legislature with a new slate of officials presiding began work that week with money as the No. 1 problem.

Some legislators predicted special summer sessions because of new programs proposed in Texas public school education which would cost additional money.

In other news: Two knife-wielding federal prisoners who forced their way out of County Jail continued to stay clear of an exhaustive manhunt. Law authorities had no clue to the pair's whereabouts.

JAN. 12, 1959: Kidnapped New York Infant Found: Ten-day-old Lisa Rose Chionchio, stolen from her nursery crib two and a half hours after birth, was found safe and sound. Jean Iatarone, a mother of eight was booked in the kidnapping.

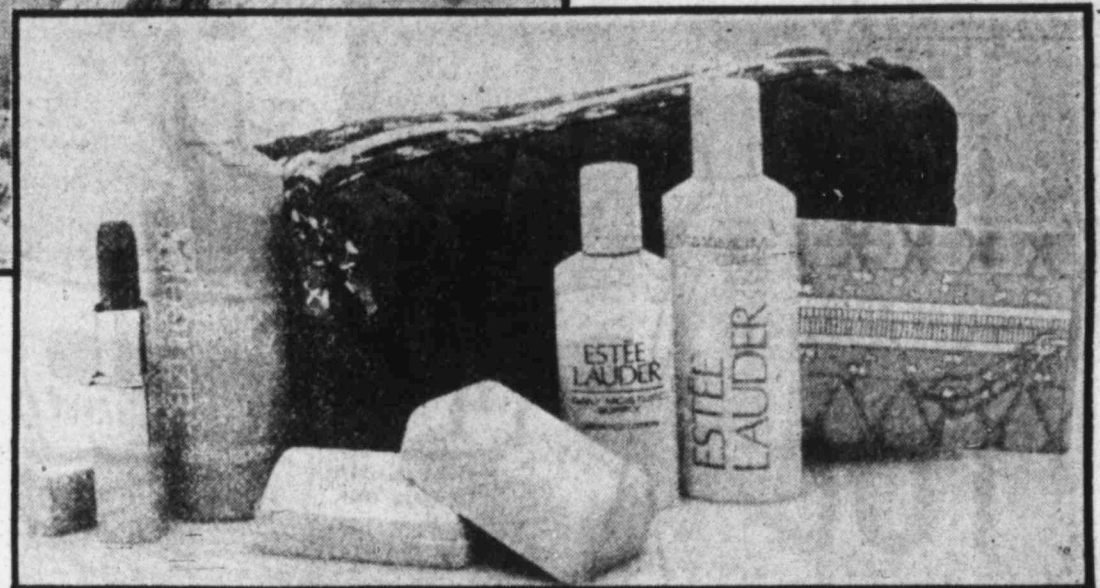

Police said their theory that a frustrated mother might be the kidnapper had been borne out.

In other news: Lubbock's population hit the 148,725 mark Jan. 1, according to a Lubbock Chamber of Commerce estimate.

In addition, the metropolitan population figure soared to 179,222 on the same date, according to the estimate.

Local authors' works under display here

The works of Lubbock authors Tanner Laine and Les Adams who chronicle two different aspects of Western history are displayed this month at Lubbock City-County Library. Laine is well-known for his writings on the history of Lubbock and pioneer days in West Texas. A former Avalanche-Journal reporter and columnist, he has written five books and three shorter works that are displayed. Also on exhibit are some of the more than 400 photographs that appeared in Laine's Avalanche-Journal series "The Face of a Cowboy." These photographs of ranchers and cowboys were taken in West Texas during Laine's newspaper career. Les Adams is acknowledged by film historians as a prime source for information on Western movies. He currently edits and publishes "Yesterday's Saturdays," a reference magazine for Western film devotees. Copies of the magazine and the book "Shoot 'Em Ups," a complete record of American Westerns from 1928 to the present, recently co-authored by Adams are displayed. Adams also has an extensive collection of movie posters and theater cards. Some that advertise movies of such Western heroes as Roy Rogers, Gene Autry, John Wayne, Tim McCoy and Ken Maynard are included in the exhibit.

Take your pick

By William D. Karns
Update Entertainment Editor

I come back from almost three weeks of vacation and to what? The sadness of the worst crop of Christmas movies since 1973. The disappointment of yet another nightspot, Orlando, giving up its weekly schedule of live entertainment. And the tragedy of a Lubbock landmark, the Lindsey theater, being closed. (On top of that, the Red Raider Drive-In has been closed indefinitely, also.)

But let's try to look on the bright side.

Lubbock has several dandy concerts on the horizon, including appearances by Muddy Waters, Traveler, Ted Nugent and Boston. Closer to home, Vern Gosdin will be performing at Waterhole Number Seven tonight, songstress Sammi Smith will be out at the Red Raider Nightclub and Joe Ely will be headlining at Cold Water Country.

Recommended movies currently in Lubbock include "Invasion Of The Body Snatchers," "King Of The Gypsies," "Magic" and "Pinocchio." Also, this could be your final chance to see "Watership Down," as it has been moved from Showplace over to Backstage. I didn't like "Superman," but it remains one of the city's more popular attractions.

An added note: Though "The Wiz" is advertised as being in Dolby stereo, the print sent Showplace does not make use of the side speakers and the front speaker configuration does not lend itself to even good stereo reproduction. Also, don't forget that the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal is now conducting its annual readers poll of Best and Worst Movies of 1978. So send your choices for both honors, along with any comments you'd care to make about the films, to me at the A-J.

Once again, if anyone is not yet included in the Take Your Pick listings, that person or organization should call 762-8844 or write Update, Box 491, Lubbock, Tex. 79408. We both need and appreciate your support — and your cooperation in meeting our deadlines.

Robbie Robertson and The Band lead "The Last Waltz" Acclaimed concert film to premiere Saturday on HBO

nightlife

Blue Boar (5023 34th Street) — Brad Seymour, recently featured on the "Sessions" program on the local PBS affiliate, will be playing a mixture of country and folk music tonight and Saturday. There is no cover charge. Management also emphasizes the club holds an open jam night every Thursday.

Chelsea Street Pub (South Plains Mall) — The Schnapps Brothers will be playing their unique blues, jazz and original material tonight and Saturday. There's never a cover charge at Chelsea's.

Cold Water Country (7301 University) — Joe Ely will be headlining at this country music palace tonight and Saturday, no doubt singing a lot of tunes off his recently recorded third LP (to be released next month). The Dovey Quilter Band will open the Ely shows. The cover charge has been set at $4. Tuesday through Thursday will see music provided by Rob Moorman and Joshua Tree, with no cover collected.

Cotton Club (six miles outside Lubbock on Slaton Highway) — No entertainment has been booked for the Cotton Club this weekend, but there's a very special show planned for Jan. 19. See the Looking Ahead section on this page for details.

Country Squire Dinner Theater (2 1/2 miles outside Loop 289 on Brownfield Highway) — Opening this week is the January production of "Butterflies Are Free," starring Freda Williams and Paul Preece. We'll have review comments on this play in the next Update edition. Tickets are priced at $9.95 for Tuesday through Thursday performances, and at $11.95 for Friday and Saturday shows. Students may purchase tickets at the reduced price of $7.95 for Tuesday through Thursday performances. The ticket price includes both buffet meal and performance.

Eight Second Ride (5203 34th Street) — The Free Whiskey Band will be playing country music tonight, Saturday and Tuesday through Thursday. The weekend cover charge is $2 for men, with unescorted women admitted free. There is no cover on week days.

Hard Rock Cafe (2421-rear Broadway) — Owner Doc Savage says he's thinking out a new "philosophy" for the Hard Rock, and there will be no live entertainment this weekend. The decision will be made soon as to whether live music will continue to be offered at this unique cafe.

Hilton Inn (505 Avenue Q) — Kevin Haywood will be supplying the folk sounds at this hotel's Garden Pub tonight and Saturday. There is no cover charge.

Honky Tonk (4815 Avenue M) — Chuck Cusimano and Country Enough will continue to provide the live entertainment tonight, Saturday and Monday through Thursday. The Mel Way Show will be featured on Sunday. The cover tonight and Saturday is $2, with the admission dropping to $1 on Sunday. No cover is collected Monday through Thursday.

Johnson House Motel (4801 Avenue Q) — Zodiac will be playing country and rock ("whatever the audience wants," says management) tonight and Saturday at this motel's Jigger's Up Club. There is no cover charge.

Joker's Wild (1813 Texas Avenue) — Elias Roff (name of the band, not a person) will be playing rock and roll tonight and Saturday. There is a $2 cover charge. The Joker's Wild also offers burlesque on a nightly basis.

Lorghorn Club (3417 Avenue A) — The Eddy and Judy Jackson Show will be the featured entertainment tonight and Saturday, while another band (not decided upon at press time) will step in to play more country music on Sunday and Wednesday. The cover charge tonight and Saturday is $3 for couples and $2 for men arriving stag, with unescorted women admitted free. The cover charge Sunday is $2 for couples and $1 for men arriving stag, with unescorted women admitted free. No cover is collected Wednesday.

Red Raider Nightclub (6025 Avenue A) — Country songstress Sammi Smith, still remembered for her rendition of "Help Me Make It Through The Night," will make a return appearance here tonight and Saturday. The cover charge is $3 each night. The Maines Brothers will be on stage Sunday, with the cover set at $1. And no cover will be collected Monday through Thursday to hear local singer Larry Trider.

Rox (2211 4th Street) — Dallas band U.S. Kids will be supplying the hard rock sounds tonight and Saturday, with the cover charge set at $2. Axte will be playing Monday and Tuesday, with the cover set at $1. And the price will jump back to $2 when Too Smooth takes the stage Wednesday and Thursday.

Sandtrap Lounge (501 Amarillo Road) — Don White will be playing a selection of country and soft rock tunes tonight and Saturday at this nightspot, located inside the Coronado Motel. There is no cover charge.

Silver Dollar Restaurant (South Plains Mall) — Popular rockers Ace Pancakes will be playing tonight and Saturday. There is a $1 cover charge.

South Park Inn (3201 South Loop 289) — Tony Solo and his band Karisma will be playing tonight through the end of the month at this hotel's Hub Club. Solo, who has received numerous writeups in the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal for his excellent Vegas style stage shows, has made several prior appearances at the Hub Club. He is not to be missed. There is no cover charge.

Steak & Ale (4646 50th Street) — Travis Williams will be providing the live entertainment tonight and Saturday. There is no cover charge.

Stubb's Barbeque (108 East Broadway) — Richmond will be playing rock, jazz and the blues tonight and Saturday. The cover has been set at $1.50.

Villa Club (5401 Avenue Q) — Jim Brown and Vintage Wine will be playing tonight and Saturday. There is a $1 cover charge.

Waterhole Number Seven (918 30th Street) — Vern Gosdin will be featured in concert tonight only, with the cover charge set at $4. Larry Kinzie and Country Review will be on stage Saturday through Thursday. The cover charge is $2 on Saturday and $1 on Sunday. No cover is collected on weekdays.

Westernaire (4805 Avenue Q) — Wilburn Roach will be on stage tonight, Saturday and Wednesday. Tiny Lynn will be supplying the country sounds Tuesday and Thursday. The cover charge each night is $2.

on screen

Arnett-Benson — "Muerte De Un Ganero" and "Medica Modico." Spanish language films.

Backstage I — "Watership Down." The film translation of Richard Adams' classic novel is a wonderful animated film for the entire family. Those familiar with the novel may appreciate the underlying symbolism a bit more, but rest assured familiarity is certainly not essential for enjoyment of this marvelous tale of survival. Several noted thespians took the time to provide the voices, including John Hurt (who played Max in "Midnight Express") and the late Zero Mostel.

Backstage II — "Mary, Mary." X-rated material.

Cinematheque — Each Wednesday evening, the Cinematheque Film Society presents classic films on the Texas Tech University campus. Tickets may be purchased by the general public, as well as by Tech students. This week's offering is the Charlie Chaplin classic "The Goldfish." The picture will be shown at 8 p.m. in the University Center theater, with the admission price set at $1.

Cinema West — "California Suite." Those expecting another "The Goodbye Girl" simply because this was also written by the middle class favorite playwright, Neil Simon, will no doubt be disappointed. Especially because this peek at five couples on vacation at the Beverly Hills Hotel in Los Angeles is not consistently funny. Fact is, the best segments are the ones with Alan Alda and Jane Fonda playing a divorced couple bickering for custody of their daughter, and Michael Caine and Maggie Smith as a mismatched couple still in love. These serio-comic episodes are much easier to appreciate than the slapstick segments with Richard Pryor, Bill Cosby, Elaine May and Walter Matthau. All told, though, the picture is above average.

Circle Drive-In — "Joys Of Fooling Around" and "Dirty Tricks." X-rated material.

Corral Drive-In — "Sexual Freedom In Marriage" and "Norma." X-rated material.

Fat Dawg's — "The Godfather." This noted drinking establishment offers full length feature movies every Sunday at 5, 8 and 11 p.m. The admission charge is 75 cents for the first two screenings, while the 11 p.m. showing is free. This Sunday's attraction is Francis Ford Coppola's "The Godfather," an American classic which provided Marlon Brando with a comeback and Al Pacino with newfound star status. Future bookings include: Jan. 21, "The Godfather, Part Two"; Jan. 28, "Marathon Man"; and Feb. 4, "Chinatown."

Fine Arts Drive-In — "Young, Rich And Ripe" and "Matter Of Love." X-rated material.

Flick — "V. Hot One." X-rated material.

Fox I — "Every Which Way But Loose." Clint Eastwood is now starring with an orangutan named Clyde, but only Clyde has an excuse for making this nauseating piece of trash. After all, he (it?) couldn't read the script. Laced with country music, this picture is an insult to liberals, conservatives, rednecks, music lovers, animal lovers and anybody who prefers movies offering entertainment. Avoid this dumb movie.

Fox II — "Oliver's Story" and "Semi-Tough." Did I call Eastwood's movie dumb? Good graces, compared to "Oliver's Story," the Eastwood flick takes classic status. "Oliver's Story," the sequel to the hit 1970 tearjerker "Love Story," is a story without heart, passion or feeling. Ryan O'Neal is a shoo-in for Worst Actor of the Year. In fact, this movie is so horrible the Fox Theater has brought back "Semi-Tough" as a co-feature in a desperate effort to boost attendance. It sure can't hurt.

Fox III — "Pinocchio." Not to be missed, this fantastic animated Disney picture from 1940 is as magical now as it was then. It is still alive, fresh and, yes, the finest animated film American cinema has yet offered. The songs are great, the tension is still present and the colors are hypnotic in effect. Find a kid and take him along — and you may just be surprised who enjoys it more.

Fox IV — "Magic." I'm still trying to figure out why this film has been universally panned across the country. I enjoyed it immensely the first time, and found it even better upon a second viewing. Anthony Hopkins will finally earn universal acceptance through his performance here as a psychotic ventriloquist who shares an evil, sometimes brutal split personality with his dummy named Fats. Despite the early bad reviews, "Magic" remains a nerve-wracking thriller, one of the best Christmas pictures and one which may even see Hopkins win an Oscar nomination.

Golden Horseshoe Drive-In, Front Screen — "Up In Smoke" and "The Chicken Chronicles." The former is written by comic team Cheech and Chong, stars Cheech and Chong and comes off as a horribly boring hunk of garbage aimed at 12-year-olds who fantasize about smoking marijuana and daydream about the day when they, too, can experience the munchies. The latter film is not a bad B movie, with a funny cameo by Phil Silvers.

Golden Horseshoe Drive-In, Back Screen — "Bedroom Stewardesses," "Naughty Stewardesses" and "Blazing Stewardesses." Coffee, tea or...

Home Box Office — This pay television station offers movies not presently on Lubbock's big screens. Premieres are held on HBO each weekend evening, and then repeated throughout the month. Tonight's featured attraction is "Heroes," a disappointing starring vehicle for Henry Winkler which never really decides whether it wants to be poignant or comic. Saturday will mark the premiere of "The Last Waltz," probably the best-rock movie made in the '70s. Directed by Martin Scorsese, the film centers on a farewell concert by The Band. Sunday night will offer something called "The First Annual Zany Awards," followed by a lively Stockard Channing film called "Sweet Revenge."

Showplace I — "The Wilderness Family, Part Two." The predecessor was not a bad family film. We'll reserve judgement on the sequel until we see it.

Showplace II — "Halloween." Perhaps the most enjoyable schlock horror film of the '70s, "Halloween" makes use of every horror cliché imaginable and keeps us jumping throughout. Don't go looking for valid explanations or characters of intelligence. But do go expecting to be thoroughly entertained. Director John Carpenter gives us a 21-year-old killer (a demon force, perhaps?) who returns to the small town where he first committed murder 15 years earlier. Again, on Halloween night, I saw this film with my wife, Susan, the world's foremost lover of schlock horror pictures, on a Sunday night; we were both surprised to find the film had drawn a full house and the crowd was screamingly involved throughout.

Sammi Smith helping audience make it through the night Songstress to sing at Red Raider tonight and Saturday

Showplace III — "The Lord Of The Rings." I happen to agree with that 8-year-old who wrote Newsweek and said she had no trouble understanding the movie. Despite the claims of many writers (including that Newsweek critic), I feel anyone who sees this movie and concentrates will have little trouble keeping up. But yes, I'll agree fans of Tolkien's fantasy trilogy will have the best time during this somewhat overlong animated version which remains true to the author's ideals. The animation is shaky at times, but deserving of study since director Ralph Bakshi filmed live actors and then had his animators draw over each frame. All in all, it's fascinating fun.

But take note: This is but half of a two part film.

Showplace IV — "The Wiz." Overlong and boasting dumb songs, dumber choreography and dumbest costumes, this film version of the Broadway smash musical is an utter bore. As Dorothy, Diana Ross makes a great Billie Holiday. Miss Ross is still trying to find another role as good as "Lady Sings The Blues." Richard Pryor is still in need of another "Blue Collar" part. Nipsey Russell is still calling women "my flower," just as he's been doing on the talk shows for years. And only Michael Jackson as The Scarecrow succeeds at offering a consistent good and likeable performance.

Showplace V — "Superman." Oh come on, I've got just as much love for comic book movies as the next guy. But this film is a bust, a bore, a bomb, albeit a popular one. The film lacks cohesion, switching too often from the serious to the absurd and back. And only Christopher Reeve's marvelous starring debut in the title role managed to keep my eyes open. Oh, and those $40 million special effects? Over-rated is too nice a description. Suffice it to say that if you're seeking great visual effects, skip this one and head on out to see "Invasion Of The Body Snatchers."

Showplace VI — "Force Ten From Navarone." Pity poor Harrison Ford, as he gets the worst lines in a movie which boasts horrible dialogue. Still, action lovers may find this picture to their liking, as director Guy Hamilton manages to take World War II and treat it like a James Bond movie. Edward Fox offers the best performance, and the film also offers the late Robert Shaw's second to last performance.

South Plains Cinema I, Mall — "Brass Target." You just thought General Patton was killed in a car wreck. Actually he was assassinated so he would not discover the truth about a hijacked shipment of Allied gold. Or so this movie tells us. Either way, though, he's better off since he didn't have to watch this silly movie which casts George Kennedy as Patton, Robert Vaughan as a homosexual conspirator, Sophia Loren as a dowdy refugee who has slept with practically all the characters, and Max Von Sydow reprising his assassin's role from "Three Days Of The Condor." Yawn...

South Plains Cinema II, Mall — "Moment By Moment." The only Christmas film I haven't yet seen, but I promise to get up the guts and watch this one by next week. Let's just say I'm not expecting too much.

South Plains Cinema III, Mall — "Paradise Alley." If you think Barbra Streisand displayed an ego in "A Star Is Born," wait until you catch Sylvester Stallone's ego trip in this one. Would you believe he even sings the title song? On top of striving for the 1978 Beefeater Award, Stallone also displays an undeniable lack of originality as he tries to transform "Rocky" into the wrestling medium. Poorly written and poorly acted and poorly directed, it is Stallone's second bomb of 1978.

South Plains Cinema IV, Mall — "Invasion of the Body Snatchers." One of the best films of the year. Phil Kaufman's remake of the 1956 Don Siegel classic not only boasts some of the year's finest special effects and editing and cinematography, but also succeeds on two levels: first, as a dandy science fiction story and second, as a statement of conformity vs. individualism. Starring Donald Sutherland, Brooke Adams and Leonard Nimoy, this one's a chiller and deserving of big crowds. Don't miss it.

Varsity — "Sex Wish." X-rated material.

Winchester — "King Of The Gypsies." You might want to put this one high on your priority list, as it's a fine, though flawed, glimpse of gypsy drama and is slated to leave town in the next few days. Young Eric Roberts positively glows in his screen debut as the young man who finds himself heir to gypsy power at the exact moment he is attempting to deny his culture and assimilate himself into "gadjis" (non-gypsy) life. Roberts' performance alone makes the picture worth seeing, but Susan Sarandon cannot be ignored as his mother. All in all: uneven, but worth seeing.

looking ahead

January 19, Muddy Waters — The legendary blues king who has even influenced The Rolling Stones (the band took its name from one of Waters' songs) will be making his first appearance in Lubbock at 8 p.m. at the Cotton Club. Rest assured this, not Nugent, is the biggest booking of the month. Also slated to appear with Waters is blues band Jimmy Vaughan and the Thunderbirds. Call the Cotton Club for ticket prices.

January 19-20, Traveler — ABC recording artists Traveler will be making yet another appearance at Rox, with local rockers Peyote slated to open the show each night. The cover charge is $3, and Traveler is usually well worth the price.

January 20, Harlem Globetrotters — Those madcap roundball comedians will be drawing laughs again at the Lubbock Coliseum. Tickets for the 8 p.m. tipoff are priced at $4, $5 and $6 and are on sale at Sears, Hemphill-Wells (at South Plains Mall), Furr's Family Center and the Municipal Auditorium box office. Tech students and children under 12 can purchase tickets for $1 less than regular price.

January 21, Ted Nugent — Like your rock music loud? Then this is the show for you. Heavy metal artist Nugent has never had trouble drawing a crowd to the Lubbock Coliseum, and he's hotter than ever these days. The show starts at 8 p.m. Tickets priced at $7.50 are now on sale at B&B Records, both Flipside Records locations, Al's Music Machine and the Music Marts in Brownfield and Levelland. The price jumps to $8 the day of the show.

January 24, Lie — Rox owner Carlo Campanelli is excited about booking Lie, if only for the fact it offers Lubbock its first glimpse of punk rock (a trend I thought had already died). Campanelli says Lie "was arrested once for inciting a riot," and that fact and the punk rock status should guarantee a crowd. The cover is only $2.

January 25-27, Fools — Dallas band Fools will be playing rock at Rox. The cover charge was not known at press time.

January 26, Razy Bailey — Country singer Razy Bailey will be making a return appearance at Cold Water Country. The cover charge is $3 for men and $1 for women.

February 1-3, St. Elmo's Fire — Popular Texas band St. Elmo's Fire will bring back their mixture of soft and classical rock to Rox. The cover charge will be $2 on Feb. 1, and $3 on Feb. 2 and 3.

February 2, Gary Stewart — Country entertainer Gary Stewart will be back at Cold Water Country. The cover charge will be $4.

February 2-3, "Brigadeon" — The First United Methodist Church music department will stage Lerner & Loewe's popular musical at 8:15 p.m. in the Civic Center theater. Tickets are priced at $4 and $5, and are currently on sale at the church office and Hemphill-Wells at South Plains Mall.

February 2-3 and 9-10, "Night Must Fall" — This drama will be staged at 8:15 p.m. each night, under the direction of Claudia Beach. Tickets are priced at $4.50 for the general public and $3.50 for students.

February 8, Boston — Certainly one of the most popular of the newer rock groups, Boston has two hit albums to its credit and is expected to sell out the Lubbock Coliseum for the 8 p.m. concert. Tickets priced at $7.50 are now on sale at B&B Records, both Flipside Records locations, Al's Music Machine and the Music Marts in Brownfield and Levelland. The price jumps to $8 the day of the show.

February 16, Charly McClain — Charly is neither a guy nor a perfume, but instead a talented female country singer making her break to star status. She'll be playing at Cold Water Country, with the cover charge set at only $3 for men and $1 for women.

February 17, Delbert McClinton — The current king of boogie rock will make a return appearance at Rox to celebrate his new album. The cover charge had not been determined by press time.

February 19, Blue Cheer — Remember this hard rock (we called it "acid rock" back then) band from the early '60s. Evidently the musicians have gotten back together and will be playing at Rox. The cover charge had not been determined by press time.

February 19-20, Lubbock Symphony Orchestra — The symphony will play at 8:15 p.m. each night in the Civic Center theater, with the featured guest being pianist Youri Egorov. Call the symphony office for ticket information.

February 23, Moe Bandy — That popular country singer and "rodeo clown" will be back at Cold Water Country. The cover has been set at $4.

February 23-28, "Mrs. Warren's Profession" — This drama will be staged at 8:15 p.m. each night at the Texas Tech University Theater, under the direction of Ron Schulz. Tickets are priced at $3 for the general public and $2 for students.

March 2-7, "Waiting For Godot" — This intriguing production will be staged at 8:15 p.m. each night at the Lab Theater on the Texas Tech University campus. Direction is by Steve Peters. Tickets are priced at $2 for the general public and $1.50 for students.

April 18-21, "La Perichole" — A coproduction of Civic Lubbock and the Texas Tech University Music Theater, this opera will be staged at 8 p.m. in the Civic Center theater. Direction is by John Gillas. For ticket information, call the Cultural Affairs Council at the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

Scrambling

Traffic Update: some streets are safer

(Editor's note: The following article is presented by the Lubbock Citizens Traffic Commission in cooperation with Update to help keep local motorists better informed on traffic-related matters.)

IF WE HAVE a sandstorm on Monday, we're sure to have one on seven consecutive Mondays. This is the observation of an area old-timer who feels she has been observing West Texas weather long enough to be considered an expert.

She also says that if we have ice and snow on a weekend, we can expect to enjoy the same kind of weather for from five to seven consecutive weekends. So far, we have had two frigid weekends in a row and the weather bureau is predicting another this weekend, so we might do well to listen to the amateur meteorologist.

When the mercury on the thermometer has sunk out of sight and the streets resemble an ice skating rink, we prefer to stay inside, throw another log on the fire and watch the winter wonderland through a picture window.

But that isn't always possible. Sometimes it is necessary to drive, and when that happens, we can make that trip a little safer if we use the streets which have been salted by the city's streets department.

This past weekend, 650,000 pounds of salt was distributed over 196 miles of streets, said street maintenance supervisor Robert Woods. Woods said the city has six trucks which require from four to six hours to cover their designated routes.

The routes include Slide Road, Quaker Avenue, Indiana Avenue, University Avenue from Fourth Street to 82nd Street, Avenues H, A, K and L, and Quirt Avenue.

East-west streets include 50th, 34th, 15th and 16th from Avenue A to University Avenue.

Shop's indirect service valued by taxpayers

(Editor's note: The following is one of a group of articles submitted by Texas Tech University public affairs reporting students under the direction of Dr. Harmon Morgan.)

By Karen Thom

The City Radio Shop does not offer a direct service to Lubbock taxpayers, but the workers do save taxpayers money, according to Bill Cooper, head technician at the shop.

The technicians' primary work is to design, purchase, install and maintain all city owned two-way radio systems. Nine city organizations own approximately 2,000 two-way radios, according to Cooper.

Each organization — police, fire, electric, water, sewerage, sanitation, street maintenance, animal shelter and parks and recreation — uses the radios to relay messages to the department office, Cooper said.

The radio shop technicians designed a new radio system, called a repeater, for the police department, which allows transmitting farther distances with better sound because the message is repeated at a base station, according to Cooper.

He said a base station receives signals from a tower near it by telephone transmission. The telephone line is connected to an office, manned by a supervisor who monitors the radio and dispatches people to places they are needed.

Lubbock has 15 base stations in town, and one station in Muleshoe used for communications with one of Lubbock's water supply centers. The technicians check the base stations monthly, Cooper said.

City officials are making plans to change the fire department's radio system to the repeater system, he said.

The shop technicians are in charge of installing and maintaining the two-way radios. Every vehicle radio is given an overall check at least once a year, according to Cooper. "We have to keep the radios in working condition. If the radio is out, the vehicle is useless," he said.

The men also fix projectors and public address systems in some of the city owned buildings.

The technicians' latest major project was the renovation of the Emergency Operating Center in the basement of City Hall. The center is used only during emergency periods, for example during a tornado watch, Cooper said.

The center is a centralized point of communication for emergency situations. Each department sends its director to the center to control the radio systems in its area. The radio shop technicians' job is to keep the center's radio system in working condition, Cooper said.

The technicians must take a Federal Communications Commission exam before obtaining a license. At least a second class license is required to work at the radio shop. This license allows the technician to work on communication and nonbroadcast equipment with the exception of the Public Broadcast System equipment.

The shop is a self-supporting business, which charges a lower rate than the privately owned shops in town, Cooper said. The city shop can probably repair the equipment faster than a private shop in town could, because the city shop has no other customers, he said.

Even though the work load has practically doubled, there has been no increase in personnel since 1967; there are still only three technicians at the shop.

ity Avenue, and 26th from Avenue A to Quirt Avenue. All of the downtown area is treated, Woods said.

In addition to the city's salting program, the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation operates a snow and ice removal operation, said State Highway Engineer James King. Their crews treat 4th Street, Clovis Road, 19th Street and Loop 289. Woods said the city's trucks keep emergency exits, such as hospital and fire department driveways, clear of ice and snow.

If there is a civic function that his department knows about, and they have a truck free, they will salt that area to make it safer for those attending the event.

DEALERS WELCOME

CUSTOM HI FI will beat any advertised price from any stereo dealer in the UNITED STATES, CANADA, or MEXICO on new factory sealed, current model stereo equipment regularly stocked by CUSTOM HI FI. The advertisement that you bring to CUSTOM HI FI must be dated within 30 days of presentation. The policy does not apply to stereo dealers, their employees or their families.

NAV HI FI is a nationally advertised, sell, represent price, presently or in the past published by the manufacturer, wholesaler, or job price supplied by others at their regular price for the indicated item. Due to our philosophy of DISCOUNT PRICING, they do not necessarily represent our normal selling price, which is often lower than the suggested selling price.
